Cum priuilegio ad imprimendum solum.

A Prologue or preface made by the most reuerende father in God, Thomas Archbyshop of Cantorbury, Metropolytan and Primate of Englande.

Cranmer

FOR twoe sondrye sortes of people, it semeth muche necessary that some thing be sayd in the entry of this booke, by the waye of a preface or prologue, whereby hereafter it may be both the better accepted of the whiche hytherto could not well beare it: and also the better vsed of the, which heretofore haue mysused it. For truly some there are that be to slowe, and nede the spurre: some other seme to quycke and nede more of the bydell. Some lose theyr game by shorte shoting, some by ouershoting. Some walke to muche on the left hand, some to muche on the right. In the former sorte be all they that refuse to reade, or to heare read ꝑ scripture in theyr vulgare tonges, muche worse they that also let or discourage the other frō the reading or hearing therof. In the latter sort be they, which by theyr inordynate reading, vndiscrete speakyng, contencious disputyng, or otherwise, by theyr licencious lyuing, slaunder and hynder the worde of God, moste of all other, whereof they would seme to be greatest furtherers. These two sortes albeit they be moste far vnlyke the one to ꝑ other, yet they both deserue in effecte lyke reproche. Neyther can I well tell whether of them I may iudge the more offender, him that doeth obstinately refuse so godly a goodly knowledge: or him that so vngodly, and so vngoodly doeth abuse the same. And as touching the former, I would maruaile muche that any man should be so mad, as to refuse in darkenes, lyght: in honger foode: in colde fyre: for the worde of God is lyght. * Lucerna pedibus meis, verbum tuum. Foode, * Non in solo pane viuit homo, sed in omni verbo dei. Fyre * Ignem veni mittere in terram, & quid volo, nisi ut ardeat? I would maruaile (I say at this saue that I cō syder, howe muche custome and vsage may doe. So that yf there were a people as some wryte, de Cymeriis, which neuer sawe the Sunne, by reason that they be sytuated far towarde the Northe pole, and be enclosed & ouershadowed with hye mountaynes: it is credyble and lyke ynough, that yf by the power and wyll of God, the mountaines should synke downe & geue place, that the lyght of the Sunne might haue entraunce to them: at the fyrst, some of them would be offended therwith. And the olde prouerbe affirmeth, that after tyllage of corne was fyrst founde: many delyted more to fede of maste and acornes, wherwith they had been accustomed, then to eate bread made of good corne. Suche is the nature of custome, that it causeth vs to beare all thinges well and easely, wherwith we haue been accustomed, and to be offended with al thinges there vnto contrary. And therfore I can wel thinke them worthy pardon, which at the comming abrode of scripture doubted and drew backe. But suche as will persyst styll in theyr wylfulnesse, I must nedes iudge not only foolishe, frowarde and obstynate: but also peruishe, peruerse and indurate. And yet, if the matter should be tryed by custome, we myght also allege custome for the reading of the scripture in the vulgare tonge, and prescribe the more auncient custome. For it is not muche aboue one hundreth yeare ago sence scripture hath not been accustomed to be read in the vulgare tonge within this realme, and many hundred yeares before that, it was translated and read in the Sarones tonge, which at ꝑ time was our mother tonge: wherof there remaine yet dyuerse coppes founde lately in olde abbeys, of suche antique maners of wrytyng and speakyng, that fewe men nowe been able to reade and vnderstand them. And when this language waxed olde and oute of common vsage, because folke should not lacke the frute of reading, it was again trāslated into the newer language. Wherof yet also many coppes remaine and be dayly founde. But nowe to let passe custome, and to wey, as wyse men euer should, the thing in his owne nature: Let vs here discusse, what it auayleth scripture to be had and read of the lay and vulgare people. And to this question I entend heare to say nothing: but that was spoken and wrytten by the noble doctoure and moste morall diuyne sayncte John Chrisostome, in his S. Chrisostome. thyrd sermon de Lazaro: albeit, I wyll be somethyng shorter, and gather the matter some.

into fewer wordes & lesse roume the he doth there, because I would not be tedious. He exhorteth there his audyence, that euery man should reade by himselfe at home in the meane dayes & time, betwene sermon and sermon: to the entent they myght both more profoundly fyre in theyr myndes & memoryes that he had sayde before vpon suche textes, whereupon he had alreadye preached, and also that they myght haue theyr myndes the more readye and better prepared to receyue and perceyue that, whiche he should say from thence forth in his sermons, vpon suche textes, as he had not yet declared and preached vpon: therfore sayeth he there: My cõmen ba= sage is to geue you warning before, what matter I intend after to entreate vpon, that you your selues in the meane dayes may take the booke in hande, reade, wey, and perceyue the summe and effecte of the matter: and marke what hath been de= clared, and what remayneth yet to be declared: so that therby your mynde may be the more furnyshed, to heare the rest, that shall bee sayde. And that I exhorte you (sayeth he) and euer haue, and will exhorte you, that you (not onely here in the churche) geue care to that, that is sayd by the preacher: but that also, when ye be at home in your houses, ye apply your selues from tyme to time to the reading of ho= ly scriptures: whiche thyng also I neuer lynne to beate into the eares of the that be my kamplyers, and with whom I haue priuate acquayntaunce and conuersa= cion. Let no man make excuse and saye (sayth he:) I am busyed about matters of the cõmon wealth, I beare this office or that, I am a craftes man, I must applye myne occupacion, I haue a wyfe, my children must be fed, my housholde must I prouyde for. Briefly, I am a man of the worlde, it is not for me to reade the scrip= tures, that belongeth to the that haue bydden the world fare wel: which lyue in so= litarynesse and contemplacion, & haue been brought vp, & continually nosylled in learning and religion. To this answearing: what sayest thou man (sayth he,) is it not for the to study and to reade the scripture, because thou art encombred and dy= stract with cures and busines? So muche the more it is behoueful for the to haue defence of scriptures: howe muche thou art the more dystressed in worldly daun= gers. They that been free and farre from trouble and entremedlyng of worldlye thinges, lyue in sauegarde and tranquilitie, and in the calme, or within a sure ha= uen. Thou art in the myddest of the sea of worldly wyckednesse, and therfore thou nedest the more of goostly succoure and conforte: they syt farre from the strokes of battayle, and farre out of gunne shote, and therfore they be but seldome wounded: thou that standest in the fore frount of the hoste, and nyest to thyne enemyes, must nedes take nowe and then many strokes, and be greuously wounded: And there= fore thou haste more nede to haue thy remedies & medecynes at hande. Thy wyfe prouoketh the to anger, thy chylde geueth the occasion to take sorowe & pensyue= nesse, thyne enemyes lye in wayte for the, thy frend (as thou takest hym) sometime enuyeth the: thy neyghbour mysreporteth the, or pycketh quarels agaynst the, thy mate or partener vndermyneth the, thy Lord, iudge, or iustice threteneth the, pouer= tie is paynfull vnto the, the losse of thy deare & welbeloued causeth the to mourne. Prosperitie exalteth the, aduersitie bryngeth the lowe. Briefly, so dyuerse and so manyfolde occasions of cares, trybulations & temptations beset the & besege the round aboute. Where canst thou haue armour or fortresse against thine assautes? Where canst thou haue salues for thy sores, but of holy scripture? Thy flesh must nedes be prone, and subiect to fleshly lustes, which dayly walkest & art conuersaũt amonge women, seest theyr bewtyes set forth to the eye, hearest theyr nyse & wan= ton wordes, smellest theyr balme, ciuet and muske, with many other lyke prouo= cations and stirringes, except thou haste in a redinesse wherewith to suppresse and auoyde them, whiche cannot els where be had, but onelye out of the holye scrip= tures. Let vs reade and seke all remedyes that we can, and al shalbe litle ynough. Howe shall we then doe, yf we suffre and take dayly woundes, and when we haue done, wyll syt styll and serche for no medicynes? Dost thou not marke, and con= syder howe the smyth, mason, or carpenter, or any other handye craftesman, what nede soeuer he be in, what other shyfte soeuer he make, he wyll not sell, or laye to pledge the toles of his occupation, for then howe should he worke his feate or get= his lyuing therby? Of lyke mynde and affeccion ought we to bee towardes holye

scripture: for as mallettes, hammers, sawes, chesylles, axes, & hatchettes be the tooles of they^r occupacion: So be the bookes of the Prophetes, & Apostles and al holy wrytte inspired by the holy goste, the instrumentes of our saluacio. Wherefore let vs not slyche to bye and prouyde vs the Byble, that is to say the bookes of holye scripture. And let vs thynke that to bee a better Juell in our house, then eyther gold or syluer. For lyke as theues been lothe to assaute an house, where they know to be good armoure & artillary: so, where so euer these holy and gostly bookes been occupyed, there neyther the deuyll, nor none of his Angels dare come neare. And they that occuppye them been in muche sauegarde, and haue greate consolacyon, and been the readyer vnto all goodnesse, the slower to all euyll: & if they haue done any thing amysse, anone euen by the sight of the bookes, they^r consciences been admonished, & they waxen sory and ashamed of the facte. Peraduenture they wyll say vnto me: howe & if we vnderstande not that we reade, that is conteyned in the bookes? What then? Suppose thou vnderstand not the depe & prolounde mysteries of scriptures, yet can it not be, but that muche fruite and holynesse must come and growe vnto the by the readyng: for it cannot be that thou shouldest be ignoraunte in all thynges alyke. For the holy goste hath so ordered and attempered the scriptures, that in them aswell publycanes, fyshers, and shepeheardes maye fynde they^r edification, as greate doctours they^r erudition: for those bookes were not made to vayne glory, lyke as were the wrytinges of the gentile phylosophers and rethoricians, to the intente the makers shoulde be had in admiracion for they^r hye styles and obscure maner of wrytyng, whereof nothing can be vnderstande without a master or an exposytoure. But the Apostels & prophetes wrote they^r bookes so, that they^r spedyall intent and purpose might be vnderstande and perceyued of euery reader, which was nothyng but the edifycation & amendement of the lyfe of them, that readeth or heareth it. Who is it, that redyng or hearing read in the gospell: Blessed are they that been meke, Blessed are they that bern mercyfull, Blessed are they that been of cleane hert: and suche other lyke places, can perceiue nothing except he haue a master to teache hym what it meaneth? Lykewyse, the sygnes and myracles with all other hystories of the doynges of Christe or his Apostles, who is there, of so symple wyt and capacitie, but he may be able to perceyue & vnderstand them? These be but excuses and clokes for the rayne, & keueringes of they^r owne yuel slouthfulnes: I cannot vnderstand it. What maruayle? Howe shouldest thou vnderstande, if thou wylt not reade, nor looke vpon it? take the bookes into thyne handes, reade the whole story, and that thou vnderstandest, kepe it well in memory: that thou vnderstandest not, reade it agayne and agayne: yf thou can neyther so come by it, counsayle with some other that is better learned. Goe to thy curate and preacher, shewe thy selfe to be desyrous to knowe and learne. And I doubte not but God seeyng thy dilygence and readynesse (yf no manne els teache thee) wyll hymselfe vouchsafe with his holy spyryte to illumynate thee, and to open vnto thee that whiche was locked from thee. Remember the Eunuchus of Candace quene of Ethiopia, whiche albeit he was a manne of a wylde and barbarous countrye, and one occuppyed with worldly cures and busynesses, yet ryding in his charete, he was readyng the scrypture. Nowe consyder, yf this manne passyng in his iorney, was so dylygent as to reade the scripture, what thynkest thou of lyke was he wont to doe syttyng at home? Agayne, he that letted not to reade, albeit he dyd not vnderstande, what dyd he then, trowest thou, after that when he had learned and had gotten vnderstandyng? For that thou mayst well knowe that he vnderstode not what he read: herken what Philyp there sayth vnto hym. Understandest thou what thou readest? And he nothyng ashamed to confesse his ignoraunce, answereth: Howe shoulde I vnderstande hauyng no bodye to shewe me the waye? Loe, when he lacked one to shewe hym the waye, and to expound to hym the scriptures, yet dyd he reade: and therefore God the rather prouyded for hym a guyde of the waye, that taught hym to vnderstand it. God perceyued his wyllyng and toward mynde: and therefore he sente hym a teacher by and by. Therefore lette no manne bee negligente aboute his owne health and saluacion: though thou haue not Philyppe alwayes when thou wouldest, the holy goste, whiche then moued and styred by Philyppe, will be ready and not fayle thee, yf thou do thy dilygence accordyngly. All these thynges been wrytten vnto vs for oure edifycacion and amendement, whiche be borne towardes the latter ende of the worlde. The reading of scryptures is a greate and stronge bulwarke or fortresse agaynst synne: the ignorraunce of the same is the greater cupne and destruccion of them that wyll not knowe it. That is the thyng that bryngeth in heresye, that is it, that causeth all corrupte and peruerse lyuyng: that is it, that bryngeth all thynges out of good order. Hytherto all that I haue sayde, I haue taken and gathered out of the forsayde sermon of this holy Doctoure sayncte John Chrisostome. Now yf I should in lyke maner bring furth what the selfe same Doctoure speaketh in other places, and what other Doctours & wrytters saye concernyng the same purpose, I myght seme to you to wrote another Byble, rather then to make a preface to the Byble. Wherefore in fewe woordes to comprehende the largenesse and vtilytie of the scrypture, howe it conteyneth frutefull instruccion and erudicion for euery man: yf any thyng be necessarye to be learned, of the holy scripture we may learne it. yf falshed shall be reproued, thereof we may gather wherewithall. yf any thyng be to be corrected and amended, yf there nede any exhortacion or consolacio, of the scripture we maye well learne. In the scriptures be the fatte pastures of the soule, therin is no venymouse meate, no vnholsome thyng, they be the verye dayntye and pure fedyng. He that is ignorraunte, shall fynde there what he shoulde learne. He that is a peruerse synner, shall there fynde his damnacion, to make hym to tremble for feare. He that laboureth to serue God, shall fynde there his glorye, and the prompsyons of eternall lyfe, exhortyng hym more dilygentlye to labour. Herein maye princes learne howe to gouerne theyr subiectes: subiectes, obedience, loue and drede to theyr princes. Housebandes, howe they shoulde behaue them vnto theyr wyues: howe to educate theyr chyldren and seruauntes. And contrarye the wyues, chyldren, and seruauntes, may knowe theyr dutye, to theyr housebandes, parentes, and maysters. Here may all maner of persons, menne, wemen, younge, olde, learned, vnlearned, ryche, poore, prieslles, laymen, lordes, ladyes, officers, tenauntes, and meane menne, virgyns, wyues, wydowes, lawiers, marchauntes, artificers, housebandmen, and all maner of persones of what estate or condicion so euer they be, may in this booke learne all thynges what they ought to beleue, what they ought to doe, and what they shoulde not doe, aswell concernyng almyghtye God, as also concernyng themselues and al other. Briefely, to the reading of the scrypture none canne be enemyes, but that eyther be so sycke, that they loue not to heare of any medicyne: or els that be so ignorraunte, that they knowe not scripture to be the moste healthfull medicyne. Therefore as touchyng this former parte, I wyll here conclude: and take it as a conclusyon sufficiently determyned and approued, that it is conuenyente and good, the scrypture to be read of all sortes and kyndes of people, and in the vulgare tonge, without further allegacions or probacions for the same: which shall not nede, synce that this one place of John Chrisostome is ynough and sufficyente to perswade all them that be not frowardly and peruersly sette in theyr owne wylfull opinion, specyallye nowe that the kynges hyghnesse beeyng supreme head nexte vnder Christe, of this churche of Englande, hath approued with hys royall assente the settyng forth hereof, which onely to all true and obedyent subiectes ought to be a sufficient reason, for the allowance of the same, wythout farther delaye, reclamacion, or resystaunce, although there were no preface nor other reason herein expressed. Therefore nowe to come to the seconde and latter parte of my purpose: there is nothyng so good in this worlde but it may be abused, and turned from frutefull and wholsome, to hurtfull and noysome. What is there aboue, better then the sunne, the moone, the starres: yet was there that tooke occasyon by the greate beawtye and vertue of them, to dishonoure God, and to defyle themselues with ydolatry, geuyng the honoure of the lyuyng God and creatoure of all thynges, to suche thynges as he had created. What is there here beneth better than fyre, water, meates, drynkes, metalles of golde, syluer, yron and stele? yet we see dayly great harme, and muche myschefe, done by euery

The conclusion.

There is nothyng but it may be abused.

by euery one of these, aswell for lacke of wysedome and prouydence of them that suffer euyll, as by the malyce of them that worketh the euyll. Thus to them that bee euyll of themselues, euery thyng setteth forwarde and increaseth theyr euyll, be it of his owne nature a thyng neuer so good: lyke as contrarylye, to them that studyeth and endeuoreth themselues to goodnesse, euerye thyng preuayleth them, and profyteth vnto good: bee it of hys owne nature a thyng neuer so bad. As Saynete Paul sayde. Diligentibus deum, omnia cooperantur in bonum: euen as out of moste venymouse wormes is made tryacle, the moste soueraygne medicyne for the preseruacion of mannes healthe in tyme of daunger. Wherefore I woulde aduyse you all, that come to the readyng or hearyng of this booke, whiche is the woorde of GOD, the moste precioule Juell, and moste holye relyque that remayneth vpon earth, that ye bryng with you the feare of GOD, and that ye doe it with all due reuerence, and vse your knowledge thereof, not to vayne glory, and frluolouse dysputacion: but to the honoure of GOD, encrease of vertue, and edification bothe of youre selues and other. And to the entente that my woordes maye be the more regarded, I wyll vse in this parte the authoryties of Saynete Gregory Nazianzene, lyke as in the other I vsed of Saynete John Chrisostome. It appeareth that in hys tyme there were some (as I feare me there been also nowe at these dayes a greate numbre) whiche were ydell babblers, and talkers of the scripture out of ceason and all good order, and without any increase of vertue, or example of good lyuyng: to them he wryteth all his fyrste booke, de theologia. Whereof I shall briefely gather the whole effecte, and recyte it here vnto you. There been some (sayeth he) whose not onely eares and tounges, but also theyr fystes been whetted and ready bent all to contencion and vnprofytable disputacion: whome I woulde wyshe as they been vehemente and earnest to reason the matter with tounge: so they were also ready and practyue to doe good dedes. But for asmuche as they subuertyng the order of all godlynesse, haue respecte onely to thys thyng, howe they maye bynde and loce subtyle questyons, so that nowe euery market place, euery alehouse and tauerne, euery feasthouse: briefely, euery company of menne, euery assemblie of women is fylled with suche talke: Hence the matter is so (sayeth he) and that oure fayth and holy relygyon of Christe begynneth to ware nothyng els, but as it were a sophistrye or a talkyng crafte, I can no lesse doe, but saye some thyng there vnto. It is not fytte (sayeth he) for euery man to dyspute the hygh questions of dyuinitie, neyther is it to be done at all tymes, neyther in euery audience must we discusse euery doubte: but we must knowe whan, to whome, and howe farre we ought to enter into suche matters. Fyrste, it is not for euery manne: but it is for suche as be of exacte and exquysite iudgementes, and suche as haue spente theyr tyme before in studye and contemplacion, and suche as before haue clensed themselues aswell in soule, as bodye: or at the leste, endeuored themselues to be made cleane. For it is daungerous (sayeth he) for the vncleane to touche that thyng, that is moste cleane: lyke as the sooze eye taketh harme by lookyng vpon the Sunne. Secondarelye, not at all tymes, but whan we be reposed, and at rest from all outwarde dregges and trouble, and when that our heades been not encombred with other worldlye and wanderyng ymagynacions: as yf a manne should myngle balme and dyrte together. For he that shall iudge and determyne suche matters and doubtes of scryptures, must take his tyme, when he may apply his wyttes thereunto, that he maye thereby the better see, and dyscerne what is trueth. Thyrdly, where, and in what audyence. There and amonge those that been studyous to learne: and not amonge suche as haue pleasure to tryfle with suche matters, as wyth other thynges of pastyme: whiche repute for theyr cheke delycates, the disputacion of hygh questions, to shewe theyr wyttes, learnyng and eloquence in reasoning of hygh matters. Fourthly, it is to be consydered howe farre to wade in suche matters of difficultie. No further (sayth he) but as euery mans owne capacitie will serue hym: nor againe no further then the weaknes or intelligence of the other audience may beare. For lyke as to greate noyse hurteth the eare, to muche meate

S. Gregory Nazianzene.

hurteth the mannes body, to heauy burthens hurte the bearers of them, to muche rayne doeth more hurte then good to the ground, breefely, in all thynges to muche is noyous: euen so weake wyttes and weake consciences maye sone be oppressed with ouer harde questions: I saye not this to dissuade men from the knowledge of God, and tradyng or studying of the scripture. For I saye, that it is as necessarye for the lyfe of mans soule, as for the body to breathe. And yf it were possyble so to lyue, I would thynke it good for a man to spende all his lyfe in that, and to doe none other thyng. I commende the lawe whiche byddeth to medytate and studye the scriptures alwayes both nyght and daye: and sermons and preachynges to be made both mornyng, noone, and euentyde. And God to be lauded and blessed in al tymes, to bedwarde, from bed, in our iourneyes, and all our other workes. I forbyd not to reade, but I forbyd to reason. Neyther forbyd I to reason so farre as is good and godlye. But I alowe not that is done out of season, and out of measure and good order. A manne may eate to muche of hony be it neuer so swete, and there is tyme for euerye thyng, and that thyng that is good is not good, yf it be vngodly done. Euen as a floure in wynter is out of season, and as a womans apparell becommeth not a manne: neyther contrarily, the mannes the woman, neither is weping conuenient at a brydale, neyther laughyng at a buryall. Nowe yf we can obserue and kepe that is comely and tymely, in all other thinges: shall not we then the rather do the same in the holy scriptures? Let vs not runne forth as it were wylde horses, that can suffre neyther brydle in they: mouthes, nor sytter on they: backes. Let vs kepe vs in our boundes, and neyther let vs go to farre on the one syde, leste we retourne into Egypte: neither to farre ouer the other, leste we be caryed away to Babylon. Lette vs not syng the songe of our Lorde in a straunge lande: that is to say, let vs not dispute the woorde of God at all aduentures, aswel where it is not to be reasoned, as where it is: and aswell in the eares of them that be not fytte therfore, as of them that be. Yf we can in no wyse forbeare, but that we must nedes dispute, let vs forbeare thus muche at the leste, to do it out of time and place conuenient. And lette vs entreate of those thynges whiche be holy, holyly: and vpon those thynges that be mystical, mystically: and not to vtter the deepne mysteryes in the eares vnworthy to heare them, but let vs knowe what is comely as well in our sylence and talkyng as in our garmentes wearyng, in our fedyng, in our gesture, in our goinges, and all our other behauyng. This contencion and debate aboute scriptures and doubtes therof (specyally when suche as pretende to be the fauourers and studentes therof, cannot agre within themselues) doth moste hurte to our selues, and to the forthergyng of the cause and quarels that we would haue forthered aboue all other thynges. And we in this (sayeth he) be not vnlyke to them that beyng mad sette they: owne houses on fyre, and that slay they: owne chyldren, or beate they: owne parentes. I maruayle muche (sayeth he) to recounte whereof commeth all this delyte of vayne glorye, whereof commeth all this tongeitche, that we haue so muche delyte to talke and clatter. And wherin is our communicacion? Not in the commendacions of vertuous and good dedes of hospytalytye, of loue betwene christian brother and brother, of loue betwene manne and wyfe, of virgynitie and chastitye, and of almesse toward the poore. Not in Psalmes and godlye songes, not in lamentyng for our synnes, not in repressyng the affeccions of the bodye, not in prayers to God. We talke of scripture, but in the meane tyme we subdue not oure flesshe by fastyng, wakyng, and wepyng: we make not this lyfe a meditacion of death, we doe not stryue to be Lordes ouer our appetytes and affeccions. We go not aboute to put downe oure proude and hygh myndes, to abate oure rumpshe and rancorous stomackes, to restraine our lustes and bodely delectacions, our vndiscrete sorowes, our lasciuious myrth, our inordynate loking, our vnsaciable hearing of vanities, our speaking without measure, our inconuenyente thoughtes, and breefelye to reforme our lyfe and maners: but all our holynesse consysteth in talking. And we pardon eche other frō al good lyuing, so that we may stycke fast togyther in argumentacion, as though there were no moe wayes to heauen but this alone, the way of speculacion and knowledge, (as they take it) but in verye dede, it is rather the

To the reader.

waye of superfluous contencion and sophistication. Hytherto haue I recyted the mynde of Gregorye Nazianzene: in that booke which I spake of before. The same author sayth also in an other place, that the learnyng of a Christen man ought to begyn of the feare of God, to ende in matters of hye speculacion: and not contrarylye to begyn with speculacion, & to ende in feare. For speculacion (sayeth he) either hye connyng and knowledge, if it be not stayed with the bridell of feare to offende God, is daungerous, and ynough to tumble a manne headlyng downe the hyll. Therfore sayth he: the feare of God must be the first begynnyng, and as it were an A.B.C. or an introduccion to all them that shall entre into the verye true & moste frutefull knowledge of holye scriptures. Where as is the feare of God, there is (sayeth he) the kepyng of the commaundementes: and where as is the kepyng of the commaundementes, there is the clensyng of the flesshe: which flesshe is a cloude before the soules eye, & suffereth it not purely to see the beame of ỹ heauenly light. Where as is the clensyng of the flesshe, there is the illumynacion of the holy goste, the ende of all our desyres, and the very lyght whereby the veritie of scriptures is sene and perceyued. This is the mynde and almoste the wordes of Gregorye Nazianzene, doctoure of the Greke churche, of whome Sayncte Jerome sayth: that vnto his time, the Latyn churche had no writer hable to be compared, & to make an euen match with hym. Therefore to conclude this latter parte, euery man that commeth to the readyng of this holy booke, ought to bryng with hym fyrste and formoste this feare of almightye God: and then nexte a fyrme and a stable purpose to reformme his owne selfe accordyng there vnto, and so to continue, procede and prosperе, from tyme to tyme shewyng himselfe to bee a sobre and frutefull hearer and learner: which if he do, he shal proue at the length wel hable to teache, though not with his mouth, yet with his lyuyng and good example, whiche is sure the moste lyuelye, and effectcous fourme and maner of teachyng. He that otherwyse intermedleth with this booke, let hym be assured, that once he shall make accompt therfore: when he shall haue sayde to him as it is wrytten in the Prophete Dauid. Peccatori dicit deus, &c. Vnto the vngodly sayth God: why doest thou preach my lawes, and takest my testamẽt in thy mouth? Where as thou hatest to be reformed, and haste cast my wordes behynde thee. When thou sawest a theefe, thou consentedst vnto hym, & haste been partaker with aduouterers. Thou haste let thy mouth speake wickednesse, and with thy tonge thou haste set forth disceyte. Thou sattest and spakest agaynste thy brother, and haste sclaundred thy owne mothers sonne. These thinges haste thou done and I held my tonge, and thou thoughtest (wyckedlye) that I am euen suche a one as thy selfe. But I wyll reproue thee, and sette before thee the thinges that thou haste done. O consyder this ye that forget God, leste I plucke you awaye, and there be none to delyuer you.

Whoso offreth me thankes and prayse, he honoureth me: and to him that ordreth his conuersacion ryght: wyll I shewe the saluacion of God.

God saue the Kyng.

¶ The summe and content of al the holy Scripture, both of the olde and newe testament.

Deute. 16. 1. Timo. 1 Gene. 17 Exod. 15. Gene. 1. Psal. 13. Exodu. 1. Iere. 9. Roma. 9. Esai. 54. Iere. 10.

Fyrst the holy wrytynges of the Byble teache vs, that there is one God, almyghtye, that hath neyther begynning, nor endyng: whiche of his owne goodnesse dyd create all thynges: of whome all thynges procede, and without whome there is nothyng: whiche is rygh teous and mercyfull, and whiche worketh all thynges in all after his wyll: of whome it may not be demaunded wherefore he doeth this or that.

Gene. 1. Sapien. 1. Roma. 5.

¶ Then that this very God dyd create Adam the first man after his owne ymage and symylitude, and dyd ordeyne and appoynte hym Lord of all the creatures in the earth. Whiche Adam by the enuy of the deuyll disobeying the commaundemente of his maker, dyd fyrste synne, and brought synne into this worlde, suche and so greate that we whiche be spronge of hym after the flesshe, are subdued vnto synne, deathe, and damnacion, brought vnder the yoke and tyrannye of the deuyll.

Ephes. 1. Gene. 1. 17. 18 Debte. 2.

¶ And further that Christe Jesus his sonne was promysed of God the father, to be a sauiour to this Adam, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Dauid, and the other fathers: whiche should delyuer them from theyr synnes and tyranny of the deuyll, that with a quycke and lyuyng fayth would beleue this promesse, and trust to this Jesus Christe, hoping to haue this delyueraunce of and by hym. And truly this promesse, is very oft rehearsed in the bookes of the olde testament, yea, and the olde testament is this promesse: as it is called the newe, whiche teacheth that this promesse is fulfylled.

¶ And that in the meane season whyle the fathers looked for saluacion and delyueraunce promysed, because mannes nature is suche that he not onely cannot, but also wyll not confesse hymselfe to bee a synner, and spectallye suche a synner that hathe nede of the sauyng health promysed, the lawe was geuen, where through menne myght know synne and that they are synners: when they see that they dode none of the thynges that the lawe commaundeth, with so gladde and wyllyng a mynde as God requyreth: but rather agaynst theyr wylles, without affection, and as though they were constrayned with the feare of that hel whiche the lawe threateneth, saying: Cursed be he that mayntayneth not all the woordes of this lawe to kepe them. And that this lawe was geuen, to the intente that synne and the malyce of mennes hertes beyng therby the better knowen, men should the more feruentlye thyrste the commyng of Christe, whiche should redeme them from theyr sinnes. As it was sygured vnto the Jewes by many ceremonies, hostes, and sacrifices: whiche were ordeyned of God, not to the intente to take awaye synnes, but to shew and declare that they should be put away by fayth in the saluacion promysed thorowe Christe: and whiche nowe are put awaye by the comming of that Christ, which is the very hoste of the father, ꝑ taketh awaye all synne.

Last of all, by the bookes of the newe Testamente, we are taught, that Christe whiche was promysed and shadowed in the olde Testament, is sente of the father, at suche time as he had determyned with himselfe, at suche time (I saye) as all wickednes florished. And ꝑ he was sent, not for any mans good workes (for they al were sinners) but to the intent that he would truly shewe the aboundaunte ryches of grace, whiche he had promysed.

¶ In the newe Testamente therfore it is moste euidently declared, that Jesus Christ the true lambe and hoste, is come, to thintent to reconcyle vs to the father, payng on the crosse the punyshment due vnto our synnes: and to delyuer vs from the bondage of the deuyll (vnto whom we serued through synne)

synne) and to make vs the sonnes of God, syth he hath geuen vs the true peace & tranquylytie of conscience, that we no longer do feare the paynes of hell: whiche feare is put away by the fayth, confidence, and assurance, that the father geueth vs, drawyng vs vnto his sonne. For that fayth is the gyfte of God, wherby we beleue that Christe is come into this worlde to saue sinners: whiche is of so greate pyth that they whiche haue it, desyre to perfourme al the dutyes of loue to al men, after the example of Christe. For fayth once receyued, God geueth his holy gost, wherwith he tokeneth and marketh all that beleue: whiche is the pledge & earnest that we shall suerly possesse euerlasting lyfe, and that geueth wytnesse vnto our spyrite, and grafteth this fayth in vs, that we be the sonnes of God: powryng therewith that loue into our heartes, whiche Paul describeth and setteth out to the * Corinthians. By that fayth and confydence in Christe whiche by loue is myghtye in operation, and that sheweth it selfe thorowe the workes of loue, stearyng menne therto, by that (I say) we are iustifyed: that is, by that faith Christes father (which is become oures also thorowe that Christe our brother) counteth vs for righteous, and for his sonnes: imputyng not our synnes vnto vs, thorow his grace. To conclude, he came to thintente that we beeyng clensed from our synnes, and sanctifyed vnto God the father: that is, halowed vnto the vse of the father, to exercyse good workes, renying and forsaking the workes of the flesshe, should freely serue him in righteousnes & holynes all our lyfe long: thorow good workes whiche God hath ordeyned to thintent that we should walke in thē, declaryng our selues therby to be surely called vnto this grace: which workes whosoeuer hath not, declareth that he hath not fayth in Christe. Unto whome we must come, and folowe hym wyth a chearfull hearte that he may instructe & teache vs: for he is our master, meke and humble of hearte: he is our example, of whom we must learne the rule of good lyuing: further, he is our preest, hye bysshop, and only mediator: whiche nowe sitteth on the right hande of God the father, is our aduocate, & prayeth euer for vs: which will vndoubtedly obtayne whatsoeuer we desyre, eyther of him, or of his father in his name: yf we beleue ỹ he will do it when we requyre it: For so hath he promysed. Let vs therfore not doute (although we sometime sinne) with a confidence to come vnto hym, and with a lyuing and vndoubting fayth, that we shall obtayne mercy. For therfore came he, to thintente to saue synners: neyther requyreth he any thyng more of vs, then to come vnto hym without feare.

* 1. Cor. 13.

¶ This is that Christ Jesus, whiche after he hath kylled the manne of synne with the breath of his mouth, shall syttе in his maiestie and iudge all men, geuyng vnto euery one the workes of his body, accordyng to that he hath done, whether it bee good or bad. And that shall saye vnto them that shall be on his ryght hande. Come ye blessed chyldren of my father, inherete ye the kyngdome prepared for you from the begynnyng of the worlde. And vnto them that shalbe on his lefte hande. Departe from me ye cursed, into euerlasting fyre: whiche is prepared for the deuyll and his Angels. Then shall the ende come, and he shall delyuer vp the kyngdome to God the father.

¶ To the intente that we shoulde knowe this, by the goodnesse of God worknyng by his holy spyrite, are the holy wrytinges of the Byble geuen vs: That we should knowe (I say) and beleue that there is one God, and Jesus Christe whome he hath sente: and that in beleuyng we shoulde haue euerlastyng lyfe thorowe his name.

¶ Another foundacion then this can no manne laye. And Saincte Paul desyreth that he bee holden accursed whiche preacheth any other fayth and saluacion, then only by Jesus Christe: yea, although it were an Angell of heauen. For of him, and thorowe him, and for him are all thinges: to whome, with the father and the holy gost, be honoure and glory for euermore. Amen.

¶ Howe Heuen and earth, the lyght, the firmament, the sunne, the moone, the sterres, and all beastes, foules, and fysshes in the see were made by the worde of God. And howe man also was created.

IN the Begynninge * GOD created Heauen & earth. The earth was voyd & empty & darcknes was vpon the face of the depe, and the spirite of GOD moued vpon the face of the waters.

And GOD sayde: let there be made lyght, and there was lyght made. And GOD saw the lyght that it was good. And GOD made a diuision betwene the lyght and darcknes. And GOD called ỳ lyght, daye: and the darknes called he nyght. And the euenynge and the mornyng was made one daye. And GOD sayde: let there be a firmamente betwene ỳ waters, & let it make a diuision betwene waters and waters. And GOD made the firmament, and set a diuision betwene ỳ waters which were vnder the firmamẽt, and the waters that were aboue the firmamẽt. And it was so. And GOD called the firmament heauen. The euenynge also and the mornyng was made the seconde daye.

And GOD sayde: * let the waters vnder Heauen be gathered together into one place, that the drye lande maye be sene. And so it came to passe. And GOD called the drye lande, Earthe: and ỳ gatherynge together of waters called he the sees. And GOD sawe ỳ it was good.

And GOD sayd: lette ỳ earthe bringe forth grene herbe, whyche maye engendre seede: and frutefull tree, yelbynge frute after hys kynd, whose sede maye be in it selfe vpon the earth.

And it came to passe. And the earth brought forth grene herbe, makyng sede after hys kynde: & tree yeldyng frute, whose sede was in it selfe after hys kynde. And GOD sawe ỳ it was good. The euenyng also & the morning was made the thyrde daye. And GOD sayde: * lette there be made lyghtes in the firmament of Heauen, and lette them make a difference betwene the daye and the nyght, and lette them be vnto signes: and vnto appoynted seasons, and vnto dayes and vnto yeres.

And lette thẽ be vnto lyghtes in ỳ firmamẽt of heauen: that they maye geue lyght vpõ ỳ erth. And so it cam to passe.

And GOD mad * two great lightes: a greater lyght to rule ỳ daye, and a lesse lyghte to rule ỳ nyghte. (And he made) sterres also. And GOD set thẽ in ỳ firmament of Heauen ỳ they myght geue lyght vpõ the erth, & ỳ they myght rule ỳ daye & the night, & to make a differẽce betwene ỳ lyght & the darcknesse. And GOD sawe ỳ it was good. The euening also & the morning was made ỳ fourth daye. And GOD sayde: * let the waters bringe forth the mouinge creatures ỳ ha the lyfe, and foule ỳ maye flye vpon the earth in the face of ỳ firmament of Heauen. And GOD created great whales, & euery liuing & mouing creature, which the waters brought forth after theyr kynd: & euery fethered foule after theyr kynde. And GOD sawe ỳ it was good. And GOD blessed them, sayinge: Growe and increase, and fyll the waters of the see, and lette fethered foules be multiplied in the earth. The euenyng also & the morninge was made ỳ fyfte daye.

And GOD sayde: let ỳ earth bringe forth liuinge creature after hys kynde: catell, worme, & beaste of ỳ earth after his kind, & so it came to passe. And GOD made ỳ beaste of the earth after his kynde, & catell after theyr kynde, and euery thing that crepeth vpon the earth after his kynde. And GOD sawe that it was good. And GOD sayde, let vs make mã in our image after our likenesse, and let them haue rule of the fysshe of the see: & foule of the ayre, and catell, and all the erth, & of euery creping thing ỳ crepeth vpon the erth. And so GOD created mã in his owne image, in ỳ * image of GOD created he him, * male & female created he thẽ. And GOD blessed thẽ, and GOD sayde vnto thẽ: Growe & increase, & replenishe the earthe, & subdue it: & haue

he had no respect. For the whiche cause Cain was exceadynge wroth, and hys contenaunce abated. And the LORDE sayde vnto Cain: Why art thou wroth, and why is thy contenaūce abated: yf thou do wel, shal there not be a promotion: And yf thou dost not well, lyeth not thy synne in the doores: Vnto the also pertaineth ỳ lust therof, & thu shalt haue dominion ouer it. and Cain spake vnto Habel hys brother, ¶ (let vs go forth)

B And it fortuned* when they were in the felde, Cain rose vp agaynste Habel his brother, & slue hym. And the LORD sayde vnto Cain: Where is Habel thy brother: Whyche sayd: I wote not. Am I my brothers kepet: & he sayde: what hast thou done: The voice of thy brothers bloude cryeth vnto me out of the grounde. And nowe art thou cursed frō ỳ erth, whiche hath opened her mouth, to receaue thy brothers bloud frō thy hande. yf thou tyll ỳ groūd, she shal not procead to yelde vnto ỳ her strength.

Fugitiue & a vagabound shalt thou be in the earth. And Cain sayde vnto ỳ LORDE: My * iniquitie is more, then that it maye be forgeuen. Behold, thou haste caste me out thys daye from the vpper face of the earthe, and from thy face shall I be hyd: Fugitiue also and a vagabounde shall I be in the earth. And it shall come to passe: euery one ỳ fyndeth me, shall slaye me. And the LORDE sayde vnto hym: ¶ (it shall not be so) yee, but who soeuer slayeth Cain, it shal be auenged seuen folde.

And ỳ LORD set a marke vpō Cain: C leest any man fyndynge hym, shuld kyll hym. And Cain went out from the presence of the LORDE, and dweelte in the lande of Node eastwarde frō Edē. Cain also knewe his wyfe which cōceaued & bare Henoch: & buyldyng a citie he called the name of the same citie after the name of hys sōne Henoch. Vnto ỳ same Henoch was borne Irad. Irad begat Mehuiael, & Mehuiael begat Methusael. Methusael begat Lamech. And Lamech toke vnto hym two wyues: The name of ỳ one was Ada, & the name of the other was Zilla. And Ada begat Jabel, which was ỳ father of suche as dwell in ỳ tentes, & of suche as haue catel. Hys brothers nam was Thubal, whych was ỳ father of suche as handle harpe & orgāne. And Zilla also begat Thubalcain, which wrought cunningly euery craste of brasse and of yron. The syster of Thubalcain, was Naenia

And Lamech sayde vnto hys wyues D Ada & Zilla: Heare my voice ye wyues of Lamech, herkē vnto my speche: I haue slayne a mā to ỳ woūdyng of my selfe, & a yōge man to myne owne punishement. yf Cain shalbe auēged seuēfolde, truely Lamech seuentye tymes & seuen tymes. Adā knewe his wyfe agayne, & she bare a sōne & called his name Seth For GOD (sayd she) hath appointed me another sede in steade of Habel, whome Cain slewe. And vnto ỳ same Seth also there was borne a sonne, & he called his name Enos. Then began they to make inuocation in the name of the LORDE.

The cause of the floude. God warneth Noah of the cõminge of the floude. The preparynge of the Arke

I AND it cam to passe, that mã began to be multiplied in þ vpperface of þ erth & theze were doughters bozne vnto them. The sonnes of GOD also sawe the daughters of mẽ that they wer fayre, & they toke them wyues from amõg all that they had chosen. And þ LORD sayde: my spirite shall not alwaye stryue in man, because he is fleshe, and hys dayes shalbe * an hundzed & twenty yeres. But there were gyaũtes in þ earth in those dayes: yet, & after þ the sonnes of GOD came vnto þ doughters of mẽ, & they had gendzed vnto them, the same became myghtie men of þ wozlde, and men of renowme. But GOD sawe þ the malice of man was great in the earth, and all the imagination of the thoughtes of hys * hert was onely euyll euery daye. And it * repented the LORD, that he had made man in the earth, and he was touched with sozowe in hys hert. And the LORD sayde: I wil (from þ vpper face of þ earth) destroye man, whome I haue created: both man, catell, wozme and foule of the ayze, foz it repenteth me, that I haue made them.

of the LORDE. These are the generacions of Noah, * Noah was iuste and Gen.44.b perfecte in hys generacions, and * walked wyth GOD. Noah begat thze sonnes: Sem, Ham, & Japhet. The earth also was cozrupt befoze GOD, and the same erth was fylled wt crueltie. And GOD loked vpon the earthe, and beholde, it was cozrupte: foz all fleshe had cozrupte hys waye vpon earth. Gene.6.c.

And GOD sayde vnto Noah: The end of all fleshe is come befoze me, foz the earth is fylled with cruelty from þ face of them. And beholde, I wyll destroye them wyth the earth. Make þ an arke of pyne trees. Habitacions shalt thou make in þ Arke, & shalt pytche it wythin & wythout wyth pytche. And of thys fashyon shalt thou make it: The length C

¶ Th: entraunce of Noah and of them that were wyth hym into the arke. The rising of the floude where thozowe all thynges dyd perysshe.

AND the LORDE sayde vnto Noah: come thou and all thy house into the Arke foz ỹ haue I sene* ryghteous befoze me in thys generacion. Of euery *cleane beast thou shalte take with the seuen and seuen: The male and hys female: But of vncleane catell, two, the male and hys female. Of fowles also of the ayze, seuen and seuen, the male and the female, to kepe sede alyue vpon the face of al the whole earth. Foz yet after seuen dayes I wyll rayne vpon ỹ earth foztye dayes and foztye nyghtes. And all substaunce that I haue made, wyl I destroye from the vpper face of ỹ earth. Noah therfoze dyd accozdyng vnto all that GOD commaunded hym. And Noah was syxe hundzeth yeres olde, and ỹ *floude of waters was vpō the earth. And Noah came (and hys sōnes & hys wyfe, and hys sōnes wyues wyth him) vnto the Arke, because of the waters of the floude. Of cleane catell, and of vncleane catell, and of flyinge fowles, and of euery suche as crepeth vpon ỹ earth, there came two & two vnto Noah into the Arke, male and the female, as GOD had commaunded Noah. It foztuned also after seuen dayes, and the waters of the floude were vpon the earth.

In the syxe hundzeth yere of Noahs lyfe in the second moneth, the seuentēth daye of the moneth. In the same daye were al the fountaynes of the great depe bzokē vp, and ỹ wyndowes of Heuē were opened. And the rayne was vpon the earth foztye dayes & fozty nyghtes. In ỹ selfe same daye entred Noah, Shē, Ham, & Japhet, the sonnes of Noah, & Noahs wyfe, & ỹ thze wyues of his sonnes, wyth them into ỹ Arke: They, and euery beast after hys kynde, & all catel after theyr kinde: yee and euery wozme that krepeth vpon the earth after hys kynde, and euery byzde after hys kynd, and euery flyinge and fethered foule. And they came vnto Noah into the Arke, two and two, of all flesshe wherin is the bzeth of lyfe. And they entrynge in, came male and female of all flesshe, as GOD had commaunded hym. And GOD shut hym in rounde aboute. And the *floude came foztye dayes vpon the earth, and the waters were increased, and bare vp the Arke, whych was lyfte vp aboue the earth. The waters also pzeuayled, and were encreased exceadingly vpon the earthe, and so the Arke wente on the vpper face of the waters.

And ỹ waters pzeuayled exceadingly vpō the earth, and all the hylles that are vnder the whole Heauen, were couered. Fyftene cubites vpwarde dyd the waters pzeuayle, so that the mountaynes were couered.

And all flesshe dyed that moued vpon the earth, in foule, in catel, in beast, and in euery wozme that crepeth vpon the earth: yee, & euery mā also (what soeuer was in whose nostrels the bzethe of life dyd bzethe, al these in ỹ dzye land dyed.) And *euery thyng was destroyed, that remayned, and that was in the vpper parte of the grouñde (both man, & catell, and wozme, and foule of the ayze) they were euen destroyed from of ỹ earthe. And Noah onely remayned alyue, and they that were wyth hym in the Arke. But the waters pzeuayled vpon ỹ earthe an hundzeth and fyftye dayes.

¶ After the sendynge out of the Rauen and the Doue, Noah goeth forth of the Arke, and offereth sacrifice. The naturall corrupcion of mans harte.

AND GOD remēbzed Noah, & euery beaste, and all the catell that was wyth him in ỹ Arke. And GOD made a wynde to passe vpon the earth, and the waters ceassed. The fountaynes also of the depe, and the wyndowes of Heauen were stopped, and the rayne from Heauen was restrayned. And the waters from the earth were returned, goynge and commynge agayne. And after ỹ ends of the hundzeth and fyftyeth daye, the waters were abated.

And

And in the seuenth moneth: in the seuenteth daye of the Moneth, the Arke rested vpon ỳ mountaynes of Armenia. And the waters truly were goyng and decreasyng vntyll ỳ tenth moneth: For in the tenth moneth & in the fyrste daye of the same moneth, were the toppes of the mountaynes sene. And after ỳ ende of the fortyeth daye, it happened that Noah opened the wyndowe of ỳ Arke whych he had made. And he sent furth a rauen, whych went out goynge furth and returnyng agayne, vntyl ỳ waters were dried vp vpō ỳ earth. And agayne B he sent furth a doue from hym, that he myght se yf the waters were abated from the vpperface of the ground. And the doue founde no rest for a sole of her fote, and she returned vnto hym agayn into the Arke: for the waters were in the vpper face of the whole earth. And he when he had put furth hys hand, toke her: & pulled her in to hi into ỳ Arke.

And he abode yet other seuen dayes, and proceadynge further, he sēte furth the doue out of the Arke. And the doue came to hym in the euen tyde, and lo, in her mouthe was an Olyue leafe that she had plucte: wherby Noah dyd knowe that he waters were abated vpon ỳ earthe. And he abode yet other seuen dayes, and sente furthe the doue, which proceaded not to returne vnto hym any more.

C And it came to passe in the syre hundreth and one yere, in ỳ fyrste moneth, and in the fyrste daye of the Moneth, the waters were dryed vp from the earth. And Noah remoued the couerynge of the Arke, and loked, and beholde, the vpper face of ỳ grounde was dryed vp. And in the seconde moneth, in the seuen and twenty day of the moneth, was the earth dryed.

And GOD spack vnto Noah saying: Go furth of the Arke, thou & thy wyfe, thy sonnes, and thy sōnes wyues with the. And bryng furthe wyth the, euery beast that is wyth the: of all flesh (both foule and catell, and euery worme that crepeth vpō the earthe) that they maye gendre in the earthe, and bryng furthe fruite, and* encrease vpon earthe. And so Noah came furthe, and hys sonnes, hys wyfe, and hys sonnes wyues with D hym. Euery beaste also and euery worme, euerye foule, and what so euer crepeth vpon the earth (after theyr kyndes) went out of the Arke.

And Noah buylded an alter vnto ỳ LORD, & toke of euerye* cleane beaste, Leui.11.d. and of euerye cleane foule, and offered sacrifices in the altare. And the LORD smelled a swete (or quiet) sauour. And the LORDE sayde in his hert: I wil not proceade to curse the grounde any more for mannes sake, for the* imagina- Gene. 6. d. cion of mannes herte is euell euē from his youth. Neyther wyl I adde to smyte any more euery thynge liuinge, as I haue done, yet therfore shal not sowing tyme and harueſt, cold and heate, Sommer and wynter, daye and night ceasse, all the dayes of the earth.

The ix. Chapter.

¶ God blesseth Noah and hys sonnes. He forbyddeth to eate the bloude of beastes, and to shed mans bloude. The lawe of the swearde. He maketh a couenaunt that he wyl destroye the worlde nomore by water, and geueth the raynbowe for a token and cōfirmacion of the same. Noah is droncken. Cam vncouereth hym, and getteth his curse.

AND GOD* blessed Noah & his A sonnes. And sayde vnto them: Gene. 1. c.d and. 7. d. Bringe ye furth frute, & multiplie, & repleneshe ỳ earth. I haue set my bowe in ꝑ cloud, & it shalbe for a toke betwene me and ꝑ earthe. And it shall come to passe that when I bringe a cloude vpon the earthe, the bowe also shall be sene in ꝑ

But the bowe shalbe in ꝑ same cloude, and I wyll loke vpō it, that I maye thyncke vpon the euerlastyng couenaunte betwene GOD, and euerye lyuynge creature in al flesshe that is vpon earthe. And GOD sayd vnto Noah: This is the token of the couenaunt whyche I haue made betwene me and all flesshe that is vpon earth.

The sonnes of Noah going furth of ꝑ arke, were: Sē, Ham, & Japhet. And Ham truly is ꝑ father of Canaan. These the thre sons of Noah, and of them was the whole earth ouerspred. Noah also begāne to be an hus band man, and planted a vineyarde. And he dronkyng of the wyne, was droncken, and vncouered wythyn hys tente.

And Ham ꝑ father of Canaan seyng
D the nakednes of hys father, tolde hys two brethren without. And Sem and Japhet, they two, takinge a garmente, layde it vpon theyr shulders and cummynge backwarde, couered the naked pryuities of theyr father: namely, theyr faces beynge turned awaye, lest they shulde se theyr fathers pryuities.

And Noah awoke from hys wyne, & knew what hys yonger sonne had done vnto hym. And he sayde: Cursed be Canaan, a seruaunte of seruauntes shall he be vnto hys brethren. He sayd moreouer: Blessed be ꝑ LORD GOD of Sē, and Canaan shalbe his seruaunt. GOD shall enlarge Japhet, and he shall dwel in the tentes of Sem, & Canaan shalbe theyr seruaunte. Noah lyued after the floude thre hundreth and fyftye yeres. And all the dayes of Noah were nyne hundred and fyfty yeres. And he dyed.

The x. Chapter.

¶ The genealogie of Japhet, Sem, and Ham.

THese are the generacions of ꝑ sōnes of Noah, Sem, Ham, and Japhet: And vnto them were children borne after the floud. The chyldrē of* Japhet: Gomer, 1. Para. 1. and Magog, and Madai, and Jauan, and Thubal, Mesech, and Thiras. The chyldren of Gomer: Ascenas, and Riphat, and Thogarma. The chyldren of Jauan: Elisa and Tharsis, Chithim, & Dodanim. Of these were the Iles of the Gentiles deuided in theyr landes, euery man after hys tonge, and after hys kynred in theyr nacions.

The chyldren of Ham: Chus, & Mizrim, and Phut, and Canaan. And the chyldrē of Chus: Seba and Heuila, & Sabtha, and Regma, and Sabthecha. The chyldren of Regma: Scheba and B Dedan. Chus also begatte * Nimrod. 1. Para. 1.
The same began to be myghtye in the earthe. For he was a myghtye hunter before the LORD. Wherfore it is sayde: Euen as Nimrod the myghtie hunter before the LORDE. The begynnyng of hys kyngdom was* Babel, and Erech, Gene. 11.
and Acad, and Chalne, in the lande of Sinear. Out of that lande came Assur, and buylded * Ninive, and the stretes Ionas 3. of the citie, and Calah. Ressen also betwene Ninive and Calah, and it is a greate citie.

Mizraim begat Ludim, and Enamim, and Lehabim, and Naphthuhim, Partrusim, also and Casluhim, out of whome came Philistim & Capthorim. Canaan begatte Zidon hys fyrst borne sonne and Heth, and Jebusi, and Amori and Girgosi, Hiui and Arki, and C Sini, and Aruadi, and Zemari, and Hamathi: And afterwarde were the kynreds of the Cananites spred abrode. The border of the Cananites was from Zidon, as thou commest to Gerar vntyll Gasa, and as thou gocst vnto Sodoma, and Gomorra, and Adama, and Zeboim, euen vnto Lasa. These are the children of Ham, in theyr kynrekynredes, in theyr tonges, countres and in theyr nacions.

Unto Sem also the father of all the chyldren of Eber, (and elder brother of Japhet) there were borne. The childrē of Sem: Elam and Assur, Arphachsad and Lut and Aram. The chyldren of D Aram: Uz and Hul, Gether and Mas.
1.Par.1.d *Arphachsad begat Salach, and Salach begat Eber. Unto Eber also were borne two sonnes: The name of the one was Peleg, for in hys dayes was the earth deuided. And his brothers name was Jaketan. Jaketan begate Almodad & Saleph, Hazarmauet & Jarah, and Hadorā, and Usal and Dikela Obal also and Abimael, and Seba, ād Ophir, & Heuila, and Jobab. All these were ỹ chyldren of Jaketā. And theyr dwellynge was from Mesa, as thou goest vnto Sephar a mounte of the Easte. These are the chyldren of Sem after theyr kynredes and tōges in theyr landes and nacions. And so these are the kynredes of the chyldren of Noah, after theyr generacions in theyr peoples, and of these were the nacions deuided in the earth after the floude.

The xi. Chapter.

¶ The buyldynge of the towre of Babel. The cōfusiō of tōges. The generacīō of Sē the sōne of Noah vntyl Abram, which goeth with Lot vnto Haran.

AL the whole earthe was of one language & lyke speche. And it happened when they went furthe from ỹ Easte, they founde a playne in the land of Sinear, and there they abode. And they sayde euery one to his neyghboure: Come, let vs prepare brycke, and burn thē in the fyre. And they had brycke for stone, and slime had they in steade of morter. And they sayde: Go to, let vs buyld vs a citie & a tower, whose toppe maye reach vnto Heauen: & let vs make vs a name, leest happely we be scatred abrode into the vpper face of ỹ whole erth. But the LORDE came downe, to se the Citie and tower whych the chyldren of men buylded.

B And the LORDE sayde: Beholde, the people is one, and they haue al one language, & thys they begin to do, neyther will it be restayned from them, what so euer they haue imagined to do. Come on, let vs go downe, & confounde theyr language: that euery one perceaue not his neighbours speche. And so ỹ LORDE scatred thē from that place into ỹ vpper face of all the earthe. And they leste of to builde the citie. And therfore is the name of it called *Babel, because the LORDE dyd there confounde the language of all the earth. And from thence dyd the LORDE scater them abrode vpon the face of al the earth. Gene.10.b

These are the generacions of Sem: Sem was an hundreth yere olde, & begat Arphachsad two yere after ỹ floude. And Sem lyued (after he begat Arphachsad) fyue hundreth yeres, and begat sonnes and doughters.

Arphachsad lyued fyue and thyrtye yeres, & begat Salah. And Arphachsad lyued (after he begat Salah) four hundreth and thre yeres, and begat sonnes and doughters.

Salah lyued thyrtye yeres, & begat Eber. And Salah lyued (after he begate Eber) foure hundred and thre yeres, & begat sonnes and doughters. Eber lyued foure and thyrtie yeres, & begat Peleg. And Eber lyued (after he begate Peleg) foure hundreth and thyrtye yeres, and begate sonnes & doughters. C Peleg lyued thyrtye yeres & begat Regu. And Peleg (lyued after he begat Regu) two hundreth and nyne yeres, & begat sonnes & doughters. Regu liued two and thyrtye yeres, and begat Serug. And Regu lyued (after he begate Serug) two hundreth and seuē yeres, and begate sonnes and doughters.

Serug lyued thyrtye yeres, & begat Nahor. And Serug lyued (after he begate Nahor) two hundreth yeres, & begat sonnes & doughters. And Nahor liued nyne and twentye yeres, & begat Tharah. And Nahor lyued (after he begat Tharah) an hundreth and nyntene yeres, & begat sonnes & doughters. D Tharah lyued seuentie yeres, and begat Abram, Nahor, and Haran. These are the generacions of *Terah: Terah begate Abram, Nahor, & Haran. Haran begat Lot. And Haran dyed in the presence of Tharah hys father, in the lande of hys natiuitie, euen in Ur of ỹ Caldees. Abram & Nahor toke thē wiues: The name of Abrams wyfe was Sarai, and ỹ name of Nahors wyfe was Milca, ỹ doughter of Haran: ỹ father of Milca, and ỹ father of Jesca. The xv. Chapter.

¶ The lande of Canaan is yet agayne promised to Abram. God promiseth hym sede. He beleueth and is iustified. The prophecie of the bondage wherin the children of Israel shulde be vnder Pharao, and of theyre deliuerannce from the same.

AFter these thynges were done, the worde of the LORDE came vnto Abram in a vision, sayinge: Feare not Abrā, I am thy defense, and thy rewarde shalbe exceding great. And Abram saide: LORDE GOD what wylt thou geue me, when I go childelesse, & the childe of the stewardshyppe of my house is thys Eleazar of Damasco. And Abrā saide: Se, to me thou hast geuen no sede: lo, a lad borne in my house is myne heyre. And beholde the worde of the LORDE came vnto hym sayinge: He shal not be thyne heyre, but one that shal come out of thy

And Abram * beleued the LORD and that counted he to hym for ryghteousnesse. And agayne he sayde vnto hi: I am the LORDE that brought ꝑ out of Ur of the Chaldees, to geue the thys lāde, & ꝑ thou myghtest possesse it. Ierem.33.d. Rom.4. Iacob.2. Galat.3.

And he sayde: LORDE GOD, where by shal I knowe that I shal possesse it: He answered vnto hym: Take an heyfer of three yere olde, and a she goate of three yere olde, and a three yeare olde Rā me, a turtyll doue also and a yonge pygeon. He toke therfore all these vnto hym, and deuided them in the myddes, and layde euery peeceone agaynste another. But these foules deuided he not. C And when the byrdes fell on the carcases, Abram droue them awaye. And when the sunne was downe, there fel a slomber vpon Abram. And lo a darcke and greate feare fell vpon hym.

And he sayde vnto Abram: knowe thys of a suretye, that thy * sede shall be a straunger in a lande ꝑ pertaineth not vnto them. GOD shal serue them, & they shall entreate them euell, ♱ foure hundreth yeares. But the nacion whome they shall serue, wyll I iudge. And after warde shall they come out wyth great substance. And thou shalte go vnto thy fathers in peace, and shalte be buryed in a good olde age. But in the fourthe generacion they shall come hyther agayne, for the wyckednesse of the D Amorites is not yet full. And it came to passe that when the sonne wente downe, there was a darcke cloude: beholde, there was a smokyng furnesse, and a fyre brande goynge betwene the sayde peces. Actor.7. Exo.12. Iud.5.i. Galat.3.

In that same daye, the LORDE made a couenaunte with Abram sayinge: vnto thy * sede haue I geuen thys lande, from the ryuer of Egypt euen vnto the great ryuer the ryuer of Euphrates, the Kenites, the Kenisites, and the Kadmonites, the Hethites, and the Pheresites, and the gyauntes, the Amorites also, and the Cananites, the Gergosites, and the Jebusites. The xvi. Chapter.

¶ Sarai geueth Abram leaue to take Agar her mayde to wyfe. Agar despised her maystres, for wyche she was euell entreted of Sarai, and therfore runneth awaye. The angel metinge her, commaundeth her to turne agayne, & doth promise her sede. And nameth her fyrst childe Ismael.

Sarai

SArai Abrams wyfe, bare him no chyldren. But she had an handmayde an Egyptian Agar by name. And Sarai sayde vnto Abram: Beholde, the LORDE hath restayned me, þ I can not beare, I praye þ go in vnto my mayde, peraduẽture I maie be edified by her. And Abram obeied the voice of Sarai. And Sarai Abrams wyfe toke Agar her mayde the Egyptian (after Abram had dwelled ten yere in the lãde of Canaan) & gaue her to her husbãde Abrã to be hys wyfe. Whych when he went in vnto Agar, she conceaued. And whẽ she sawe that she had conceaued, her masters was despised in her eyes. And Sarai saide vnto Abram: Thou doeste me wronge: I haue geuen my mayd into thy bosome, whyche seynge that she hathe conceaued, I am despysed in her eyes, the LORDE iudge betwene þ and me. But Abram sayde to Sarai: beholde, thy mayde is in thy hande, do wt her as it pleaseth the.

And when Sarai fared foule wyth her, she fled from the face of her. And the angel of the LORDE founde her beside a fountayne of water in the wyldernesse: euen by the well that is in the waye to Sur. And he sayde: Agar Sarais mayde, whence comest thou, and whither wilte thu go? She sayde: I flee from the face of my mastresse Sarai. And the angel of the LORDE sayde vnto her: returne to thy mastresse agayne and submit thy selfe vnder her handes.

And agayne the angell of the LORDE sayde vnto her: In encreasynge I wyl encrease thy sede, & it shall not be nombred for multitude. And the LORDES angel sayde vnto her, se, thou arte with chylde & shalte beare a sonne & shalte call his name Ismael: because the LORDE hathe heard thy tribulacion. He also wyll be a wylde man, and hys hande wyll be agaynst euery man, and euery mans hande agaynste hym. And he shal dwel in þ presẽce of al his brethrẽ And she called the name of the LORDE that spake vnto her: thou GOD lokest on me, for she sayde: Haue I not sene here the backe partes of hym þ seeth me? Wherfore the wel was called, the wel of hym þ liueth & seeth me. And it is betwene Cades & Bared. And Agar bare Abram a sonne, & Abram called hys sons name, whyche Agar bare vnto hi, Ismael. And Abram was lxxvj. yere olde, when Agar bare hym Ismael.

The xvij. Chapter.

¶ Abram is called Abraham, and Sarai is named Sara. The lande of Canaan is here the fourth time promised. Circumcision is here instituted. Isaac is promised. Abraham prayeth for Ismael.

ABram was nyntye yeare olde, and nyne, the LORDE appered to Abram and sayde vnto hym: I am the almyghtye GOD: walke * before me, and be thou perfecte. And I wyl * make my bonde betwene me and the, and wyll multiplie the exceedyngly. And Abram fell on his face. And GOD talked with him saying: Beholde, I am, and my testament is wyth the, and thou shalt be a father of many * nations. Neyther shal thy name any more be called Abram, but thy name shalbe Abraham: * for a father of many nacions haue I made the, I wyl make þ to growe exceadyngly, and wyl make nacions of the: yea & kynges shall sprynge out of the. And he lefte of talking wyth hym, & departed vp frõ Abrahã. Abrahã toke Ismael hys sõne, & al such as were borne in hys house, & all that was bought wyth money, as many as were men chyldren whiche were amonge the mẽ of Abrahams house, and circumcised the flesche of theyr foreskynne, euen in that selfe same daye, as GOD hadde sayde vnto hym. Abraham also hym selfe was nyntye yere olde and nyne, whẽ the flesche of hys foreskynne was circumcised. Ismael hys sonne was xiij. yere olde when he was circumcised in the flesh of hys foreskynne. The selfe same daye was Abraham circumcised and Ismael his sonne. And al ꝑ men of his house, borne in his house, or bought wyth money (of straungers) were circumcised with hym.

The xviij. Chapter.

¶ There appered three men vnto Abraham. Isaac is promised to him agayne, at whych Sara laughed. The destruction of the Sodomites is declared vnto Abraham. Abraham prayeth for them.

AND the LORDE appeared vnto hym in the playne of Mamre, as he sate in hys tente doore in the heate of the daye. And he lyft vp hys eyes, and loked: & lo, three men stode by hym. And when he sawe them he ranne to mete them from ꝑ tente doore, and fell to the ground and sayde: LORDE (I beseech the) yf I haue founde fauoure in thy syght: go not (I praye the) from thy seruaunt. Let a lytle water be set & washe your fete, and refresh your selues vnder the tree. And I wyll set a *morsell of breade to cõforte youre hartes wyth all. And then shall ye go youre wayes, for euen therfore are ye come to your seruaunte. And they sayde: Do euen so as thou haste sayde. And Abrahã wẽt a pase into hys tent vnto Sara, and sayde, make redy at once iij. peces of fyne meale, kned it, and make cakes. And Abraham renning vnto hys beastes, fette a calfe tender and good, and gaue it vnto a yong man, and he hasted to make it redy at once. And he toke butter & mylke, and the calfe whyche he had prepared, and sette it before them, and stode hym selfe by them vnder the tree, * when they dyd eate.

And they sayde vnto hym: Where is Sara thy wife: he ãswered: behold, she is in the tent. And he sayde: In returnynge, I wyll come agayne vnto the, accordynge to ꝑ tyme of lyfe. And lo,* Sara thy wyfe shal haue a sõne. That herde Sara, in ꝑ tent doore whiche was behynde hym. Abraham and Sara were both olde and well strykẽ in age, and it ceased to be wyth Sara, after the maner as it is with wemen. Therfore Sara laughed wythin her selfe, sayinge: Nowe I am wared olde, shall I geue my selfe to* luste, and my Lorde olde also? And GOD sayde vnto Abraham: wherfore dyd Sara laugh, sayige: shal I of a suretye beare a chyld whiche am olde: is any thinge wonderful to GOD. Accordynge to the tyme* appoynted wyll I returne vnto the, euen accordynge to the tyme of lyfe, and Sara shall haue a sonne. Thẽ Sara denyed it saying I laughed not, for she was afraid. And he saide: It is not so, but thu laughedst. And the men standynge vp from thence, loked towarde Sodome. And Abraham wente wt them to bringe them on the waye.

And

And the LORDE sayde: Shal I hyde from Abraham that thyng whiche I do: seyng that Abrahā shal be a *great & a myghtye people, and all ỳ nacions of ỳ earth shalbe blessed in him. I knowe this also, ỳ he wyl commaunde his chyldren & hys housholde after hym, ỳ they kepe the waye of the LORDE, and do after ryght and conscience, that the LORDE maye bringe vpon Abraham that he hath spoken vnto hym.

And the LORDE sayd:* The crye of Sodome & Gomorra is greate, & theyr synne is exceadynge greuous. I wyll go downe nowe, & se whether thy haue done altogether accordynge to ỳ crye, whych is come vnto me or not, that I maye knowe. And ỳ men departed thēce and went to Sodome warde. But Abraham stode yet before the LORDE, and Abraham drewe nere and sayde: wylt thou also destroye the rigtwes w the wycked: peraduenture there be fyfty ryghtwes wythin the Citie, wylte thou destroye, and not spare the place for the sake of fyftye ryghtwes ỳ are therin: That be farre from ỳ that thou shuldest do after thys saying, and sleye the ryghtwes wyth the wycked, and ỳ the ryghtwes shulde be as the wicked that be farre frome the.

Shall not the Judge of all the worlde do accordynge to ryghte: And the LORD sayde: Yf I fynde in Sodome fyftye ryghtwes wythyn ỳ citie, I wil spare all the place for theyr sakes. And Abraham answeringe, sayde: Beholde I haue taken vpon me to speake vnto the LORDE,* whyche am but duste & ashes: peraduenture there shal lacke fyue of fyftye ryghteous: wylt thou destroye al the citie for lacke of fyue: And he sayde: yf I fynde there fourtye and fyue: I wyl not destroye them.

And he proceaded to speake vnto him agayne, and sayde: peraduenture there shal be fourtye founde there. He answered, I wyll not do it for fortyes sake. He sayde vnto hym agayne: O let not my LORD be angrye ỳ I speake: peraduenture there shall thyrtye be founde there. And he sayde: I wyll do nothynge yf I fynde thyrtye there. He sayd agayne: O se I haue taken vpon me to speake nowe also vnto my LORDE: peraduenture there shalbe twentye founde there. He answered, I wyl not destroy them for twentyes sake. And he sayde: O let not my LORDE be angrye, & I wil speake yet but thys once, Peraduēture there shal ten be founde there. He answered: I wyl not destroye them for tēs sake. And ỳ LORDE wēt hys waye as soone as he had left comeninge with Abraham. And Abraham also turned vnto hys place.

And so Abraham prayde vnto GOD, and GOD healed Abimelech, and hys wyfe, and hys maydens, and they bare chyldren. For the LORDE had closed to all the matrices of the house of Abimelech: because of Abrahams wyfe.

The xxi. Chapter.

¶ Isaac is borne. Agar is caste out wyth her yonge sonne Ismael. The angel conforteth Agar. The couenaunte betwene Abimelech and Abraham.

THe LORDE visited Sara as he had sayd, & dyd vnto her * accordynge as he had promised. For Sara was wt chylde, and bare Abraham a sonne in hys olde age, euen ỳ same season which ỳ LORD had appoynted him. And Abrahā called his sōnes name ỳ was borne vnto him which Sara* bare him, Isaac: & Abraham* circūcised Isaac his sonne when he was eyght dayes olde: as GOD commaunded hym. And Abraham was an hundred yere olde: when hys sonne Isaac was borne vnto hym. But Sara sayd: GOD hath made me a lauchynge stocke: so that all that heare wyl laugh at me. She sayde also: who wold haue sayde vnto Abraham, that Sara shuld haue geuen chyldren sucke: for I haue borne hym a sonne in his olde age: The chylde grewe, and was wened, & Abraham made a great feaste, the same daye that Isaac was wened. Sara sawe also the sōne of Agar ỳ Egyptian (which she had borne vnto Abraham) to be a mocker, wherfore she sayde vnto Abraham: * put away this bondemayde and her sonne: for the sonne of this bondwomā shal not be heyre wt my son Isaac: & this seying was very greuous in Abrahams syght because of hys sonne. And GOD sayde vnto Abraham: lette it not be grenous in thy syght, because of the lad and of thy bondmayde. All ỳ Sara hath sayde vnto ỳ, heare her voice, for * in Isaac shall thy sede be called. And & recouer of ỳ sonne of ỳ bondwoman will I make a nacīō: because he is thy* sede.

And so Abraham arose vp early in ỳ morgnyng, and toke breade and a bottel of water, & gaue it vnto Agar, puttinge it on her shulders, wyth ỳ lad also, and sent her awaye, who departynge, wandred vp and downe in the wyldernesse of Berſaba. And ꝑ water was ſpente in the bottell, & ſhe caſte ꝑ lad vnder a buſhe, and wente & ſatte on ꝑ other ſyde a greate way, as it were a bowe ſhote of: for ſhe ſayde: I wyll not ſe ꝑ death of ꝑ chyld. And ſhe ſyttynge downe on the other ſyde, lyfte vp her voice & wepte.

C And GOD hearde the voice of ꝑ chylde. And the Angel of GOD called Agar out of heauen, and ſayd vnto her: what ayleth the Agar? Feare not, for GOD hath hearde ꝑ voice of ꝑ chylde where he lyeth. Aryſe and lyfte vp the lad, and take hym in thy hande, for I wyl make of hym a greate people. And GOD opened her eyes: & ſhe ſaw a well of water. And ſhe went and fylled ꝑ bottel wyth water, and gaue the boye drynke. And GOD was wyth the lad, and he grewe and dwelte in the wylderneſſe, and became an archer. And he dwelt in ꝑ wyldernes of Paran. And hys mother gat hym a wyfe out of the lande of Egypte.

And it chaunced the ſame ſeaſon that Abimelech and Phichol his cheſe captayne ſpake vnto Abraham ſayinge: * GOD is with the in all that thou doeſt. And now therfore ſweare vnto me eue here by GOD, that thou wylt not hurte me nor my chyldren, nor my chyldrens chyldren. But ꝑ thou ſhalt deale wyth me, and the countrey where thou haſte bene a ſtraunger, accordynge vnto the kyndneſſe that I haue ſhewed ꝑ. And Abraham ſayde: I wyll ſweare.

Gene. 26 f.

D And Abraham rebuked Abimelech for a wel of water, whiche Abimelechs ſeruauntes had violentlie take awaye. And Abimelech ſayde: I wote not who hath done thys thynge. Alſo thu toldeſt me not: neyther hearde I of it, but thys daye. And Abraham toke ſhepe and oxen, and gaue the vnto Abimelech. And they made both of them a bond together. And Abraham ſet ſeuen ewe lambes by the ſelues. And Abimelech ſayd vnto Abraham: what meane theſe ſeuē ewe lambes which thu haſte ſet by the ſelues? He anſwered: For theſe ſeuen lambes ſhalt thou take of my hande, ꝑ they may be a wytneſſe vnto me, that I haue dygged thys well. Wherfore the place is called Berſaba, becauſe that there they ſweare both of them. Thus mad they a bond together at Berſaba. And Abimelech and Phichol his cheſe captayne roſe vp, & turned agayn vnto the land of the Philiſtines. And Abraham planted a wood in Berſaba, & called there on the name of the LORDE ꝑ euerlaſtynge GOD: and ſo gouerned in the Philiſtines lande a longe ſeaſon.

The xxij. Chapcer.

¶ The fayth of Abraham is proued in offrynge hys ſonne Iſaac. Chriſt our ſauyoure is promiſed. The generacion of Nahor Abrahams brother.

After theſe ſayinges it happened ꝑ GOD dyd * proue Abraham, & ſayd vnto him: Abraham. Whiche anſwered: here am I. And he ſayde, take thy only ſonne Iſaac whom thou loueſt, & get the vnto the lande Moria, & ſacrifice hym there for a ſacrifice vpō one of the mountaynes, whiche I wyll ſhewe the. Then Abraham roſe vp early in the morynyng, and ſadled hys aſſe, and toke two of hys yonge men wyth hym, and Iſaac hys ſonne: and cloue wood for ꝑ ſacrifice, and roſe vp and gat him to the place which GOD had appoynted him. Iud. 21. Eccl. 44. Hebr. 11.

B The thyrde daye Abraham lyfte vp his eyes and ſaw the place a farre of, and ſayde vnto his yōge men: byde here with the aſſe, I and the lad wyl go ponder and worſhyp, and come agayne vnto you. And Abraham toke the woode of the ſacrifice: and layde it vpon Iſaac hys ſonne, but he hym ſelfe toke fyre in hys hande and a knyfe. And they went both of them together.

Then ſpake Iſaac vnto Abraham hys father and ſayde: My father. And he anſwered here am I my ſonne. He ſayde:

sayde: Se here is fyre and woode, but where is the shepe for sacrifice? Abraham answered: my sonne, GOD wyll prouide hym a shepe for sacrifice, and so they went both together.

And when they came vnto the place whiche GOD had shewed hym, Abrahã made an aulter there, and dressed the wood, and bounde Isaac his sõne, and *layde hym on the aulter, aboue vpon the wood. And Abrahã stretching forth his hande, toke the knyfe to haue kylled hys sonne. And ỳ Angel of ỳ LORD called vnto him from Heauen, sayinge: Abraham, Abraham: And he sayd: here am I. And he sayde: laye not thy hand vpon ỳ chylde, nether do any thynge at all vnto hym, for nowe I know ỳ thou feareſt GOD, & hast for my sake not spared thyne only sõne. And Abraham lyftynge vp his eyes, loked aboute: and behold, there was a ram caught by the hornes in a hyckette. And he went and toke ỳ ram and offred hym vp for a sacrifice in the stead of his sonne: And Abraham called ỳ name of the place, the LORDE wyll se. As it is sayde thys daye: in the mounte wyl ỳ LORD be sene.

And the angel of the LORD cryed vnto Abraham from Heauen the seconde tyme, & sayde: *by my selfe haue I swore (sayth ỳ LORDE) becauſe thou haſte done thys thynge, and haſte not spared thy onely sonne: that in blessynge I wil blesse the, & in multiplying I wyll multiplie thy sede as the starres of heauen, and as the sande whiche is vpon ỳ see syde. And thy sede shall possesse the gate of hys enemies. * And in thy sede shall all the nacions of the earth be blessed, becauſe thou haſte heard my voice. So turned Abraham agayne vnto hys yõgmen, and they rose vp and wente together to Berſaba. And Abraham dwelt at Berſaba. And it chaunsed after theſe thynges, that one tolde Abraham sayinge: Beholde, Milca, she hath also borne chyldrẽ vnto thy brother Nahor: Us hys eldeſt sõne, and Bus hys brother, & Iemuel the father of the Syrians, & Ceſed, and Haſo, and Pildas, and Jedlaph, and Bethuel. And Bethuel begat Rebecca. Theſe viij. dyd Milca beare Nahor Abrahams brother. And hys concubine called Rhuma: she bare also Thebah, and Gahan, Thahas, and Maacha.

The xxiij. Chapter.

¶ Sara dyed and is buryed in the feld that Abraham bought of Ephron the Hethite.

SAra was an hundred & xxvij. yere olde (so longe lyued she) and Sara dyed in Kyriat Arba. The same is Hebron in ỳ lande of Canaan. And Abraham came to mourne Sara, and to wepe for her.

And Abraham stode vp from ỳ syght of hys coarse, and talked wyth the sonnes of Heth saying: I am a straunger & a forõer amonge you, geue me a possession to bury in wyth you, ỳ I maye bury my coarse out of my syght. And ỳ chyldren of Heth answered Abraham, sayinge vnto hym: Heare vs lorde, thou art a Prince of GOD amonge vs. In the cheſest of our sepulchres burye thy deade: None of vs also shall forbyd the his sepulchre: but thou maiſt burye thy deade therein: Abraham stoode vp and bowed hym selfe before the people of the lande of the chyldren of Heth. And he commened wyth hem sayinge: yf it be your mynde that I shall bury my dead out of my syght, heare me, and speake for me to Ephron the sonne of Zoar: that he maye geue me the dubble caue whyche he hath, and that is in the ende of hys felde: but for as muche money as it is worth, shall he geue it me in the preſence of you, for a possession to burye in. For Ephron dwelled amonge the chyldren of Heth.

And Ephron the Hethite aunswered Abraham in ỳ audience of the chyldren of Heth, & of all that went in at ỳ gates of hys Citie, sayinge: Not so my lorde, heare me. The felde geue I the, and the caue that therin is geue I the also: and euen in the preſence of the sonnes of my people geue I it the, burye thy deade. And Abraham bowed hym self before the people of the lande and spake vnto Ephron in the audience of the people of the countrey, saying: I praye ỳ heare me yf it please ỳ: I wyll geue syluer for the felde, take it, & I wyl burye my deade there. Ephron answered Abraham saying vnto hym: My lorde herken vnto me. The lande is worth foure hundred sycles of syluer: what is ỳ betwixt the and me: burye therfore thy deade. And Abraham harkened vnto Ephron, and weyed hym ỳ syluer which he had ſayde, in the audience of the ſonnes of Heth. Euen foure hũdred ſyluer ſycles of currant money amonge marchauntes. And the felde of Ephron wyth the double caue which was before Mamre: euen the felde and ẏ caue that was therein, and all the trees that were in ẏ felde, and that were in all the borders round aboute, was made ſure vnto Abraham for a poſſeſſion, in the ſyghte of the chyldren of Heth, before al ẏ wente in at the gates of the citie. After thys dyd Abraham burye Sara his wyfe in the double caue of the felde that lyeth before Mamre. The ſame is Hebron in the land of Canaan. And ſo both the felde and the caue that is therein, was made vnto Abraham a ſure poſſeſſion to burye in, of the ſonnes of Heth.

The xxiiij. Chapter.

¶ Abraham maketh his ſeruaũte to ſweare, and ſendeth hym to ſeke a wyfe for Iſaac hys ſonne. The ſeruaunte was faythful and brought Rebecca, whyche Iſaac toke to hys wyfe.

D

I ABraham was olde & ſtryken in dayes, and ẏ LORDE had bleſſed hym in al thynges. And Abraham ſayde vnto hys eldeſt ſeruaunt of hys houſe whiche hadde the rule ouer all that he had. Put thy hande vnder my thyghe, and I wyll make the ſweare by ẏ LORDE GOD of Heauen, and GOD of the earth, that thou ſhalt not take a wyfe vnto my ſonne, of the doughters of Canaan, amõg whiche I dwell. But thou ſhalte go vnto my countrey, and to my natiue lande, and take a wyfe vnto my ſonne Iſaac. But the ſeruaunte ſayde vnto hym: peraduenture the womã wil not agre to come wt me vnto thys lande, ſhall I brenge thy ſonne agayne vnto the lande whiche thou cãmeſt out of: To whom Abraham anſwered: bewar ẏ thu bring not my ſõne thither agayn.

The LORD GOD of Heauen, whych toke me from my fathers houſe, & from ẏ lande where I was borne: And whiche ſpake vnto me, & that ſweare vnto Genes.15.d. me ſaying: vnto thy * ſede wyll I geue thys lande, he ſhall ſende hys Angell before the, and thou ſhalte take a wyfe vnto my ſonne from thence. Neuertheleſſe yf the woman wyl not agre to folowe the, than ſhalte thou be wythout
B daunger of thys my oth. Only bringe not my ſonne thyther agayne. And the ſeruaunt put hys hand vnder the thigh of Abraham hys maſter, and ſware to hym, as concernynge that matter. And the ſeruaunte toke ten Camelles, of the camelles of hys maſter, and departed, and had of all maner of goodes of hys maſter wyth him, and ſtode vp & wente to Meſopotamia, vnto the citie of Nahor. And made hys Camelles to lye downe wythoute the citie by a welles ſyde of water, at euen: aboute the tyme that wemen come out to drawe water. And he ſayde: LORDE GOD of my maſter Abraham, ſende me good ſped this daie, and ſhewe mercie vnto my maſter Abraham. Lo, I ſtande here by ẏ well of water, and the doughters of the mẽ of thys citie come out to drawe water: Nowe the dameſell to whom I ſaye, ſtoupe downe thy pytcher I praye the, that I maye drynke. yf ſhe ſaye alſo: Drynke, and I wyll geue thy camelles drynke: the ſame is ſhe that thou haſte ordeined for thy ſeruaunte Iſaac: yea, and thereby ſhal I knowe ẏ thou haſte ſhewed mercy on my maſter. And it came to paſſe yer he had left ſpeakyng: beholde, Rebecca came out, the doughter of Bethuel, ſonne to Milca the wyfe of Nahor Abrahams brother, and her pytcher vpon her ſhoulder: The dameſell was very fayre to loke vpon, and yet a mayde and vnknowen of man. And ſhe went downe to the well, and fylled her pytcher, and came vp. And the ſeruaunte runnyng vnto her, ſayde: let me ſup a lytle water of thy pytcher. And ſhe ſayde: drynke my lorde.

And ſhe haſted, & let downe her pyt- C cher vpon her arme, & gaue him drinke. And when ſhe had gyuen hym drynke, ſhe ſayde: I wyll drawe water for thy camels alſo, vntyll they haue dronken ynoughe. And ſhe poured out her pytcher into the trough haſtely, and ran agayne vnto ẏ wel to fet water, & drewe for al his camels. And ẏ mã wõdred at her: But held his peace to wite whyther ẏ LORD had mad his iourney proſperous or not: And it fortuned, as ẏ camels had lefte drynkyng, the man toke a goldẽ earinge of halfe a ſycle weyght, and two bracellettes for her handes, of tenne ſycles weyght of golde, and ſayd: whoſe doughter art thou: tel me I praye the, is there roume in thy fathers houſe for vs to lodge in? She anſwered hym:

I am

I am the doughter of Bethuel the son of Milca, whyche she bare vnto Nahor, and sayde moreouer vnto hym: we haue lytter and prouondre ynoughe, and also roume to ledge in.

D And the man bowed hym self, & worshipped ỳ LORD, & sayde: blessed be the LORD GOD of my master Abrahā, whi che ceasseth not to deale mercifullye & trulye with my master, & hath brought me ỳ way to my masters brothers house. And the damsell ran and told thē, of her mothers house these thynges. And Rebecca had a brother called Laban.

And he ran out vnto the man, euē to the wel, for assoone as he had sene the earynges, and the bracelettes in hys systers handes (and herde the wordes of Rebecca hys syster, saying: thus sayd ỳ man vnto me) he wente oute vnto the man. And loo: he stoode wyth ỳ camels by the well syde. And he sayde: come in thou blessed of the LORDE. Wherfore standest thou without? I haue dressed the house, & made roume for ỳ camels. And then the man came into the house: and he vnbrydled the camels, & (Labā) brought lytter and prouondre for ỳ camels, and water to washe hys feet, and the mennes feet ỳ were with him, & set meate before him to eate. But he sayd: I wyl not eate, vntyl I haue sayde myne errande. And he sayde: saye on. And he sayde: I am Abrahams seruaunte, & GOD hath blessed my mayster oute of measure, that he is become great, and hath gyuen hym shepe, and oxen, syluer and golde, men seruauntes, and mayde seruauntes, camelles, and asses.

And* Sara my masters wyfe bare hym a sonne, when she was olde, & vnto him hath he gyuen al that he hath. And my master made me sweare, sayinge: thou shalte not take a wyfe to my sonne amonge the doughters of the Canamites in whose lande I dwell.

But thou shalte goo vnto my fathers house, and to my kynred, & take a wyfe vnto my sonne. And I sayde vnto my master: peraduenture the wyfe wil not folowe me: And he answered me: The E LORDE, before whome I walke, wyll sende hys Angel wyth the, and prosper thy iourneye, & thou shalte take a wyfe for my sonne of my kynrede and of my fathers house. Then shalte thou be gilteles of my curse, when thou commest to my kynrede. And yf they gyue the not one, thou shalte be gyltlesse of my curse.

And so I came thys daye vnto ỳ wel, & sayd: O LORDE ỳ GOD of my master Abrahaam, yf it be so nowe ỳ thou makest my iourney whych I goo, prosperous: beholde, I stande by thys well of water, & when a virgin commeth forth to drawe water, & I saye to her: geue me (I pray ỳ) a lytle water of thy pytcher to drynke, & she say to me: drincke thou, & I wyl also drawe for thy camelles: ỳ same is ỳ wyfe, whome ỳ LORDE hathe prepared for my masters sonne.

And before I had made an ende of speakyng in myne herte: beholde, Rebecca come forth, & her pitcher on her shoulder, & she went downe vnto the well, & drewe water. And I sayde vnto her: gyue me drynke I praye the. And she made haste, & toke downe her pytcher from of her, and sayde: drynke, & I wyll gyue thy Camelles drynke also.

And I dranke, and she gaue the camels drinke also. And I asked her, F saying: whose doughter art thou? She answered: ỳ doughter of Bethuel Nahors sonne, * whome Milca bare vnto hym. And I put the earynge vpon her face, & the bracelettes vpō her handes. And I bowed my selfe, & worshypped the LORDE, & blessed the LORD GOD of my master Abrahaam, whyche had brought me the ryght waye to take my masters brothers doughter vnto hys sonne. Nowe also, yf ye wyl deale mercyfully and truly wyth my master, tell me: and yf not, tell me also that I maye tourne me to ỳ ryght hand, or to ỳ left.

Gene. 23. b. and 24. a.

Then answered Laban & Bethuel, saying: Thys saying is proceded euen out of the LORDE: we can not therfore saye vnto the, eyghter good, or badde: Beholde, Rebecca is before ỳ, take her & goo, ỳ she may be thy masters sonnes wyfe, euē as GOD hath sayd: And whē Abrahams seruaunt heard theyr wordes, he worshipped ỳ LORDE flat vpon the earth. And the seruaunt toke forthe iewels of syluer and iewels of golde, & rayment & gaue them to Rebecca. And vnto her brother, and to her mother, he gaue gyftes, and they dyd eate & drynke, both he & the men ỳ were wyth hym, and taryed all nyght. And when they rose vp in ỳ morenyng: He sayde lette me departe vnto my master. Her brother, and her mother answered: let ỳ damesel abyde with vs a whyle, & it be but euen ten dayes, & then shal she goo. He sayde vnto thẽ, hyndre me not: behold, ỳ LORDE hath prospered my iourney, Sende me awaye therfore, ỳ I maye go vnto my master. And they sayde, we wyl call ỳ damesell, and enquire at her mouth. And they called forth Rebecca, & sayde vnto her: wylte thu goo wyth this mã? And she answered: I wyll goo.

So they let Rebecca theyr syster go and her nurse, And Abrahams seruaũte, and hys men. And they blessed Rebecca, and sayde vnto her: thou art our syster, growe into thousand thousandes * and thy seede possesse the gate of theyr enemies. And Rebecca arose, and her damsels, and set them vp vpon the camelles, and wente theyr way after thẽ man. And the seruaũt toke Rebecca, and went hys waye:

Gene. 22. c.

And Isaac was commynge from the waye of the wel of ỳ *lyuynge & seinge me, for he dwelt in the south countrey, and Isaac was gone out to pray in the feld at the euentide. And he lyft vp hys eyes and saw the camels cũmyng. And Rebecca lyfte vp her eyes, and whẽ she saw Isaac, she lyghted of ỳ camel, and sayde vnto the seruaunt: what man is thys that cõmeth walkyng agaynst vs in the felde? And the seruaunt said, it is my master. Therfore she toke her cloke & put it about her. And ỳ seruaunt told Isaac all thynges ỳ he had done. And Isaac brought her into his mother Sarais tẽte, and toke Rebecca, & she becam hys wyfe, & he loued her, & so Isaac receaued cõfort after his mother.

The xxv. Chapter.

¶ Abraham taketh Ketura to hys wyfe, and he getteth many chyldren. Abraham dyeth and geueth all hys goodes to Isaac. The genealogie of Ismael. The byrth of Jacob and Esau. Esau selleth hys byrthryght for a messe of pottage.

I ABraham proceded further and toke him a wyfe called Ketura, whyche bare hym Simram, and Jaksan, and Medan and Madian, and Jesbak, and Suah. Jaksan begat Seba, & Dedan. And ỳ sonnes of Dedan were Assurim, Latusim and Leummim. And the sonnes of Madian, Epha, and Epher, Hanoch, and Abida and Elda. All these were the chyldren of Ketura. And Abraham gaue all hys goods vnto Isaac. But vnto the sonnes of the concubines whyche Abrahã had, he gaue gyftes, & sent thẽ awaye from Isaac hys sonne (whyle he yet lyued) eastward vnto the lande of kedes. And these are the dayes of the yeres of Abrahãs lyfe, which he lyued, an C. and lxxv. yere, and then fell sycke, and dyed in a* lusty age (when he had lyued ynough) and was put to hys people. And hys sons, Isaac & Ismael buryed hym in the double caue in the feld of Ephron, sonne of Zoar the Hethite, besyde the plaine of Mamre. whych felde Abraham bought of the sons of Heth: where Abraham was buried, and Sara hys wyfe. It fortuned after the death of Abraham that GOD blessed Isaac hys sonne, and Isaac dwelled by the well of the lyuynge and seynge me.

Gen. 25. a.

These are the generacions of Ismael Abrahams sonne, whiche Agar the Egyptian Sarais handmayd bare vnto Abraham. And these are the names of the sõnes of Ismael in theyr names, accordyng to theyr kynredes: the eldest sonne of Ismael Nebaioth, and Kedar, and Abdeel, and Mibsam, and Misma, Duma, and Masa, & Hadar, Thema, Jetur, Naphis, and Kedma: These are the sons of Ismael and these are theyr names, by theyr townes & castels * xij. princes of theyr housholdes. And they dwelled from Heuilah vnto Sur, that is by the border of Egypte, as thou goest towarde the Assyrians. And he dyed in the presence of all hys bretheren. And these are ỳ generacions of Isaac Abrahams sonne: Abraham begat Isaac. And Isaac was forty yere olde when he toke Rebecca to wyfe, the doughter of Bethuel the Syrian of Mesopotamia, and syster to Laban the Syrien. And Isaac made intercession vnto the LORDE for hys wyfe, because she was baren: and the LORDE was intreated of him, and Rebecca his wyfe conceaued, and the chyldren strone together within her. Therfore she sayd: yf it shuld go so to passe, what helpeth it that I am with chyld: wherfore she wente to aske the LORDE. And the LORDE sayde vnto her: there are two maner of people in thy wombe, & two

And it happened after he had bene B there longe tyme, that Abimelech kynge of ꝑ Philistians loked out at a wyndowe, & sawe Jsaac sportinge w Rebecca his wyfe. And Abimelech called Jsaac, and sayd, she is of a surety thy wyfe, & why saydst thou she is my syster? Tho whome Jsaac answered: I thought ꝑ I myght peraduenture haue died for her sake. Abimelech sayd: why hast thou done thys vnto vs? one of the people myght lyghtely haue lyne by thy wyfe, & so shuldest thou haue brought synne vpon vs. And so Abimelech charged al C hys people, saying: he ꝑ toucheth thys man or hys wyfe, shal dye ꝑ death. Jsaac sowed in ꝑ lande, & found in ꝑ same yere an hundred bushels: and ꝑ LORD blessed hym, and the man wared myghtye, and went forthe and grewe, tyll he was exceadynge great, for he had possession of shepe, of oxē, & a myghty housholde, and therefore ꝑ Philistians had enuy at him: for the Philistines stopped and fylled vp w earth al ꝑ wels which his fathers seruauntes dygged in hys father Abrahams tyme. And Abimelech sayde vnto Jsaac, get the from vs, for thou art myghtyer then we a great deale. Therfore Jsaac departed thence, D and abode in the valley of Gerar, and dwelt there. And Jsaac returning, digged agayne the welles of water which they dygged in the dayes of Abraham hys father, whiche the Philistians had stopped after ꝑ deathe of Abrahā, and gaue them ꝑ same names which his father gaue thē. Jsaacs seruaūtes dygged in ꝑ valley, & found a wel of liuinge water. And ꝑ heardmen of Gerar dyd stryue with Jsaacs herdmen, saying: ꝑ water is oures. Then called he the wel *Esek, because they stroue wyth hym.

And they dygged another well, and E stroue for that also. And he called the name of it Sitena. And then he departed thence, and dygged another wel, for the whych they stroue not: therfore called he it Rehoboth, sayinge: the LORD hath nowe made vs rowme, þ we maye encrease vpon the earth. And he went vp thence, to Bersaba. And the LORDE appered vnto hym the same nyght and sayde: I am the GOD of Abraham thy father, feare not, for I am with the, and wyll blesse þ and multiplie thy sede for my seruaut Abrahā sake. And he buylded an aulter there, & called vpon þ name of the LORDE, & pytched hys tente. And there Isaacs seruauntes dygged a well. Then came Abimelech to hym from Gerar: and Ihusath hys frende, and Phichol his cheefe captayne. And Isaac sayde vnto them: wherfore come ye to me, seyng ye hate me, & haue put me away from you? Whyche answered: in seynge we sawe that þ * LORD was wyth the, and we sayde: let there be nowe an oth betwyxte vs, euen betwyxte vs and the, and let vs make a bonde wt the, that thou shouldest doo vs no hurte as we haue not touched the, and as we haue done vnto the nothyng but good and sente the awaye in peace, for thou arte nowe þ blessed of the LORDE. And he made them a feast and they dyd eate & dyncke. And they rose vp by tymes in þ morgnynge, and swore one to another. And Isaac sent them awaye. And they departed from him in peace. And þ same day it happened, that Isaacs seruauntes came and tolde hym of a well whyche they had dygged: & sayde vnto hym, we haue founde water. And he called it Saba. And the name of the citie is called Bersaba vnto this daye. Esau was .xl. yere olde, & he toke a wyfe called Judith, the doughter of Bery an Hethite, and Balmath the doughter of Elon an Hethite also, whyche were disobedient vnto Isaac and Rebecca.

The xxvij. Chapter.

¶ Jacob stealeth the blessynge from Esau by hys mothers councell. Isaac is sad. Esau is comforted. The hatred of Esau towarde Jacob.

AND it came to passe that when Isaac wered olde, & hys eyes were dymme (so that he coulde not se.) He called Esau hys eldest sonne, and sayde vnto hym. Myy sonne, and he sayde vnto hym: here am I. And he sayde: beholde, I am nowe olde, and knowe not þ daye of my deth: and nowe therfore take thy wepēs, thy quyuer and thy bowe and get the to the feldes, that thou mayest take me some venison, and make me meate such as I loue & bryng it me, that I maye eate, and that my soule maye blesse þ, before that I dye. But Rebecca hearde when Isaac spake to Esau his sonne. And Esau went into the felde, to catche venyson, & to bryng it. And Rebecca sayde vnto Jacob her sonne sayinge: Behold, I haue hearde thy father talking with Esau thy brother and saying: bryng me venyson and make me meate, þ I maye eate and blesse the before the LORD, afore my death. Nowe therfore my sōne heare my voice in that whiche I commaunde the: get the to the flocke, and bring me thence two good kyds, that I may make meate of thē for thy father, suche as he loueth. And thou shalt brig it to thy father, that he may eate, & that he may blesse þ before hys death. Then said Jacob to Rebecca his mother: behold, Esau my brother is a rough mā, and I am smoth. Myy father shall peraduēture fele me, and I shal seme vnto hym as though I wēt about to begyle hym, & so shal he bring a curse vpō me, & not a blessyng: & hys mother sayd vnto hym: vpō me be thy curse my sōne, only heare my voice, and go & fetch me thē. And Jacob went & fet them, & brought thē to his mother. And his mother made meate suche as she knewe his father loued. And Rebecca set goodly raymēt of her eldest sōne Esau, whiche was in the house wt her, & put them vpō Jacob her ponge sonne, and she put the skynnes of gotes vpō his handes & vpon þ smooth of hys necke. And she put þ meate and breade whyche she had prepared in the hande of her sonne Jacob. When he came to his father, he sayde, my father. And he answered: here am I, who art thou my sōne? And Jacob said vnto his father: I am Esau thy eldest sonne, I haue done accordynge as thou badest me: vp & syt & eate of my venyson, þ thy soule maye blesse me. And Isaac sayde vnto hys sonne: howe commeth it that thou haste founde it so quickly my sonne? He answered: The LORD thy GOD brought it to my hande: Then sayde Isaac vnto Jacob, come nere & let me fele the my sonne whether thou be my sōne Esau

Esau or not. Then went Jacob to Isaac his father, and he felte and sayde: ꝑ voice is Jacobs voice, but the handes are the handes of Esau. And he knewe hi not, because hys handes were rough as hys brother Esaus handes: and so he blessed hym.

And he asked hym: art thou my sonne Esau? And he sayde, ꝑ I am. Then sayde he, bryng me and let me eate of my sonnes venyso, that my soule maye blesse the. And he brought hym and he ate. And he brought hym wyne also, & he dranke. And hys father Isaac sayde vnto hym: come nere, & kysse me my sone. And he went vnto hi & kissed him And he smelled the sauoure of his raymēt and* blessed hym, and sayde: See, the smell of my sonne is as the smell of a felde, whyche the LORDE hath blessed. GOD geue the of the dewe of Heuen, and of the fatnes of the earth, and plenty of corne and wyne. People be thy seruauntes, and nacions bowe vnto the. Be lorde ouer thy brethren, & thy mothers chyldren stoupe vnto the. Cursed be he that curseth the, & blessed be he that blesseth the.

It happened that assone as Isaac had made an ende of blessinge, and Jacob was scace gone out frome the presence of Isaac his father, then came Esau hys brother from hys huntynge, & had made also meate, & brought it vnto hys father, & sayde vnto hys father: let my father aryse & eate of hys sonnes venyson, that thy soule maye blesse me. Then his father Isaac sayd vnto him: who art thou: he answered: I am thy eldest sonne Esau, & Isaac was greatly astoyned out of measure, and sayde: whyche is he, and where is he then ꝑ hath hunted venyson: and brought it me: & I haue eaten of all before thou camest, & haue blessed hym, and he shal be blessed. When Esau heard ꝑ wordes of his father, he cried out greatly & bytterly, aboue measure, & sayde vnto hys father: blesse me also my father. who answered, thy brother came wt subtilte & hath taken awaye thy blessyng. And he sayde agayne: He maye well be called Jacob, for he hath vndermyned me now ij. tymes: fyrst he toke awaye my byrthryght, and se now hath he taken awaye my blessyng also. And he sayde, hast thou kept neuer a blessyng for me?

Isaac answered and sayde vnto Esau: beholde, I haue made hym thy lorde, & all hys mothers chyldren haue I made his seruauntes. Moreouer with corne and wyne haue I stablysshed him what cā I do vnto the nowe my sonne? And Esau sayde vnto hys father: hast thu but that one blessynge my father? blesse me also my father: so lyfted vp Esau hys voice and* wept. Then Isaac hys father answered & sayde vnto him beholde, thy dwellynge place shalbe ꝑ fatnesse of the earthe, and of the dewe of Heauen from aboue. And wyth thy sweard shalt thou lyue, & shalt be thy brothers seruaunt. And it wyl come to passe, ꝑ whē thou shalt get the mastrye, thou shalte loose hys yocke from of thy necke. And Esau* hated Jacob, because of the blessynge, that his father blessed hym wyth all. And Esau sayde in hys herte: The dayes of my fathers sorowe are at hande, and I wyl slaye my brother Jacob. And these wordes of Esau her eldest sonne were tolde to Rebecca. And she sent & called Jacob her yongest sonne, & sayde vnto hym: beholde, thy brother Esau threateneth to kyl ꝑ: now therfore my sonne heare my voice, make the redy, & flee to Laban my brother at Haran: & tary wyth hym a whyle* vntyl thy brothers fearsnes be swaged, and vntil thy brothers wrath turne awaye from the, & he forgeth the thynges whyche thou haste done to hi. Then wyl I sende & fet the away from thēce. Why shulde I be desolate of you both in one date? And Rebecca spake to Isaac, I am wery of my life, for feare of ꝑ doughters of Heth. yf Jacob take a wyfe of the doughters of Heth suche ony as these are, or of ꝑ doughters of ꝑ lande what good shall my lyfe do me?

The xxviij. Chapter.

¶ Jacob is sent into Mesopotamia to Laban for a wyfe. Esau marieth an Ismaelite. Jacob dreameth a dreame. Christ is promised. Jacob maketh a vowe.

AND so Isaac called Jacob, and blessed hym and charged hym, and sayde vnto hym: se thou take not a wyfe of the doughters of Canaan, but aryse and get the to Mesopotamia to ꝑ house of Bethuel thy mothers father: and there take the a wyfe of ꝑ doughters

ters of Laban thy mothers brother. And GOD almyghty bleſſe ꝑ, & make ꝑ to encreaſe, & multiplie the ꝑ thou mayeſt be a nombre of people, & geue the ꝑ bleſſyng of Abraham: to the & to thy ſede wt the, that thou mayſt poſſeſſe ꝑ lãd (wherin thou art a ſtraunger) whych GOD gaue vnto Abraham. Thus Iſaac ſent forth Jacob. And he wẽt to Meſopotamia vnto Labã ſonne of Bethuel ꝑ Syrien, & brother to Rebecca Jacobs & Eſaus mother. When Eſau ſawe that Iſaac had bleſſed Jacob, and ſent him to *Meſopotamia, to fet him a wyfe thence, and that as he bleſſed him, he gaue hym a charg ſaying: thou ſhalt not take a wife of the doughters of Canaan, and that Jacob had obeyed hys father & mother, and was gone to Meſopotamie: and Eſau ſeinge alſo that ꝑ doughters of Canaan pleſed not Iſaac hys father: then went he vnto Iſmael, & tolke vnto ꝑ wiues whych he had, Maiath ꝑ doghter of Iſmael Abrahãs ſonne, ꝑ ſyſter of Nebaioth to be his wyfe. Jacob departed from Berſaba, to come vnto Haran, and came vnto a place by chaũce, and tarved there al nyghte, becauſe the ſunne was downe.

And toke a ſtone of the place, & put it vnder hys heade, & layde him downe in the ſame place to ſlepe. And he dreamed: and behold there ſtode a ladder vpon the earth, & the toppe of it reached vp to heuen. And ſe, the angels of GOD went vp and downe vpon it: yee, and GOD ſtode vpon it, and ſayde: I am ꝑ LORDE GOD of Abraham thy father, & the GOD of Iſaac: the lande whych thou ſlepeſt vpon wyll I geue the and thy ſede. And thy ſede ſhalbe as ꝑ duſt of ꝑ earth, and thou ſhalte ſpreade abrode to the weſt, to the eaſt, to the north, and to the ſouth. And thorowe the and in thy ſeed ſhall all the kynreds of the earth be bleſſed. And ſe I am with the, and wyl be thy keper in all places whyther thou goeſt, and wyl bringe the agayne into thys lande: nether wyll I leaue the vntyll I haue made good all that I haue promiſed the. Whe Jacob was awaked out of his ſlepe, he ſayde: ſurely the LORDE is in thys place, and I was not aware. And he was afrayde and ſayde: howe fearfull is thys place: it is none other but euen the houſe of GOD, & the gate of heuen. And Jacob ſtode vp early in the morninge, and toke the ſtone that he had layde vnder hys heade, and pytched it vp an ende* & powred oyle in the top of it. And he called the name of the place Bethel, but the name of the citie was Lus before tyme. And Jacob vowed a vowe, ſaynge: yf God wyll be wyth me, and wyll kepe me in thys iourney whyche I goo, & wyll geue me breade to eate, & clothes to put on, ſo that I come agayn vnto my fathers houſe in ſafetye, then ſhall the LORDE be my GOD, and thys ſtone whyche I haue ſet vp an ende, ſhalbe Goddes houſe: and of al that thou ſhalte geue me, wyll I geue the tenth vnto the.

The xxix. Chapter.

¶ Jacob commeth to Labã and ſerueth vii. yere for Rachel. Lea was brought to his bed in ſteade of Rachel. He marryeth them both, and ſerueth yet vii. yere more for Rachel. Lea conceyueth.

Then Jacob lyfte vp hys fete & came into ꝑ eaſte countre. And as he loked aboute, beholde there was a well in the felde, and thre flockes of ſhepe laye therby (for at that well were the flockes watered) & there was a great ſtone vpon the welles mouthe. And thyther were all the flockes brought, and they rouled the ſtone stone from the welles mouth, and watered the shepe, & put ỳ stone agayne vnto the welles mouth vnto hys place. And Jacob sayde vnto them: bzethren, whence be ye? And they sayde: of Harã are we. And he sayde vnto them: knowe ye Laban ỳ sonne of Nahoz? They sayd: we know hym. And he sayd vnto them, is he in good helth? And they sayde, he is in good helth, & beholde, hys doughter Rachel cõmeth wt the shepe, And he sayde, lo, it is yet but hye daye, nether is it tyme that the catel shulde be gathered together, water ye ỳ shepe & go & fede them. And they sayde, we may not vntyl all ỳ flockes be brought together, & tyl they roll ỳ stone from ỳ wels mouth, & so we water our shepe. Whyle he yet talked wt them, Rachel came wyth her fathers shepe, foz she kept thẽ. And assone as Jacob sawe Rachel ỳ doughter of Laban his mothers bzother, & the shepe of Ladã hys mothers bzother, he went & rouled the stone frõ the wels mouth, & watred the flocke of Laban hys mothers bzother. And Jacob kyssed Rachel, & lyft vp hys voice & wept: & Jacob tolde Rachel, ỳ he was her fathers bzother & Rebeccas sonne. Therfoze rãne she and tolde her father And it happened when Laban heard tell of Jacob hys systers sonne, he ran to mete hym: and embzaced hym & kyssed hym & bzought hym to hys house. And he tolde Laban al ỳ matter. To whom Laban sayde: well, thou art my bone & my flesche. And he abode with hi ỳ space of a moneth. And Labã sayd vnto Jacob: Though thou be my bzother shuldest thou therfoze serue me foz nought: tell me, what shal thy wages be: Laban had two doughters: The eldest called Lea, & the yongest Rachel. Lea was tender eyed, but Rachel was bewtyful & well fauozed. And Jacob loued Rachel, & sayd: I wil serue ỳ viij. yer foz Rachel thy yongest doughter. Labã answered: it is better ỳ I geue her ỳ then to another mã: byde wt me. And Jacob serued * viij. yeres foz Rachel, & they semed vnto him but a fewe dayes, foz the loue he had to her. And Jacob sayde vnto Laban: geue me my wyfe ỳ I maye lye wt her. Foz my dayes are fulfylled. Then Laban gathered together all ỳ men of ỳ place, & made a feast. And whẽ euẽ was come he toke Lea his doughter & bzought her to hym, & he wẽt * in vnto her. And Laban gaue vnto hys doughter Lea, Silpha his maide, to be her seruãte. ¶ To whome when Jacob came in accordynge to the custome, & when the mozninge was come, beholde it was Lea. Then sayde he to Labã, wherfoze hast thu playd thus wt me: did not I serue ỳ foz Rachel: wherfoze then hast thou begyled me? Laban answered: it is not ỳ maner of this place, to mary the yõgest before ỳ eldest. Passe out thys weke, & then shall thys also be geuen the foz ỳ seruice which thou shalt serue me yet viij. yeres moze. And Jacob did euẽ so, & passed out ỳ weke, & then he gaue hym Rachel his doughter to wyfe also. And Labã gaue to Rachel his doughter Bilha hys handmayd to be her seruaunt. So lay he by Rachel also, & loued Rachel moze thẽ Lea, * & serued hi yet viij. yeres moze. Whẽ ỳ LORD sawe ỳ Lea was despysed, he made her frutefull, & Rachel remayned baren. And Lea conceaued & bare a sõne, & called his name Ruben, foz she sayde: ỳ LORDE hath loked vpon my tribulacion. Nowe therfore my husbande wyll loue me. And she conceaued agayne and bare a sonne, & sayde: the LORDE hath heard ỳ I am despysed & hath therfoze geuen me this sonne also, & she called hys name* Simeon. And she conceaued yet and bare a sonne, and sayde: nowe thys once wil my husbande kepe me company, because I haue bozne hym thze sonnes: and therfoze was hys name called Leui. And she conceaued yet again and bare a sonne sayinge: nowe wyll I prayse ỳ LORDE: therfoze she called hys name Juda and lefte bearynge.

The xxx. Chapter.

¶ Rachel and Lea beyng both baren geue their maydens vnto their husband. Jacob deceaueth Laban in the conceaynge of the shepe and diuideth Jacobs rewarde for hys seruice.

RAchel when she sawe ỳ she bare Jacob no childzen, she enuyed her syster, & sayd vnto Jacob: Geue me childzẽ oz els I am but deed. And Jacob was wzoth wt Rachel sayinge: Am I in GODDES steade, whych keepeth frome ỳ the frute of thy wombe? Then she sayde: here is my mayde Bilha, goo i vnto her, & she shal beare vpon my lappe ỳ I maye be encreased by her. And she gaue hym

Bilha

Bilha her handmayde to wyfe. And Jacob went in vnto her, and Bilha conceaued & bare Jacob a sonne. Then sayde Rachel. God hath geuen sentence on my syde, & hath also heard my voice & hath geuē me a sonne. Therfore called she hi Dan. And Bilha Rachels mayd conceaued agayne, & bare Jacob another sonne. And Rachel sayde, wyth godly wrestlynges haue I wrestled wt my syster and haue gotten ꝑ vpper hande. And she called his name, Naphtali. when Lea sawe ꝑ she had left bearing, she toke Silpha her mayde, & gaue her Jacob to wyfe. And Silpha Leas mayde bare Jacob a sonne. Then sayd Lea good lucke: and called hys name Gad. And Silpha Leas mayde bare Jacob another sonne. Then sayde Lea: happy am I, for the doughters wyll call me blessed. And called hys name Asser.

And Ruben went out in the dayes of the wheat haruest, and founde mandragoras in the feldes & brought them vnto hys mother Lea. Then sayd Rachel to Lea: geue me of thy sonnes mandragoras. To whom Lea answered: Is it not ynough ꝑ thou haste taken awaye my husbande, but woldest take awaye my sonnes mandragoras also: Then sayde Rachel: well, let hym slepe wyth ꝑ thys nyght, for thy sonnes mandragoras. And Jacob came from ꝑ feldes at euen, & Lea wēt oute to mete hi & saide: come ito me, for I haue bought ꝑ wyth my sonnes mandragoras. And he slepte wt her ꝑ nyght. And GOD heard Lea that she cōceaued & bare vnto Jacob the fifte sonne. Then sayde Lea: GOD hath geuen me a reward, because I gaue my maydē to my husband, and she called hym Jsaschar. And Lea conceaued yet agayne, & bare Jacob ꝑ sixt sonne. And Lea sayde: GOD hath endued me wt a good dowry. Nowe will my husbande dwel with me, because I haue borne him syxe sonnes, and called hys name Sebulon. After that she bare a doughter & called her name* Dina. And GOD remēbred Rachel, he heard her, & made her fruteful: so that she conceaued and bare a sonne, and sayde: GOD hath take awaie my rebuke. And she called his name Joseph, sayig: The LORDE geue me yet another sone. And assoone as Rachel had borne Joseph, Jacob sayde to Labā: sende me awaye that I maye go vnto myne owne place & contrey, geue me my wyues and my childrē, for whome I haue serued the, & let me go: for thou knowest what seruice I haue done the. To whome Laban answered, yf I haue found fauour in thy syght (for I suppose that ꝑ LORD hath *blessed me for thy sake) appoynt what thy reward shalbe, and I wyl geue it the. But he sayd vnto hym, thou knowest what seruice I haue done ꝑ, and in what takyng thy catel haue bene vnder me: For it was but lytle that thou haddest before I came, & nowe it is encreased into a multitude, and the LORDE hath blessed the for my sake. But nowe when shal I make prouisiō for myne owne house also: And he sayde: what shall I then geue the: And Jacob answered: thou shalt geue me nothynge at al, yf thou wylt do this one thing for me, and then wyll I turne agayne & fede thy shepe, & kepe them.

I wyll go aboute all the shepe thys daye, & seperate from them al the shepe that are spotted & of diuerse coloures, & al blacke shepe amonge the lambes, & the partye, and the spotted amonge ꝑ kyddes: & the same shalbe my rewarde So shall my rightwesnes answere for me to morowe, & shall come for my rewarde before thy face, & euery one that is not speckled and partie amonge the goates, & blacke amonge the shepe, the same shalbe theft wyth me.

And Laban sayde: Go to, wold GOD it might be accordynge to thy saying. Therfore he toke out the same daye ꝑ he goates that were partye and of diuers colour, and al the she goates that were spoted & partye coloured, & all ꝑ had whyte in them, and all the blacke amonge the shepe, and put them in the kepyng of hys sonnes, & set thre dayes iourney betwyxte him self and Jacob. And so Jacob kepte the reste of Labās shepe, Jacob toke roddes of grene popular, hasel and of the chestē nut trees, and pylled whyte strakes in them, and made the whyte apere in the roddes. *But they that were whole, remained grene. And thus was it made a variable coloure. And put the rods whyche he had pylled, euen before the shepe, in the gutters and watering troughes, when the shepe came to dryncke: that they should conceaue when they came to drincke. And the shepe shepe conceaued before the rods, and brought furth lābes stracked, spotted, & party. And Jacob parted ꝑ lambs & turned the faces of ꝑ shepe toward spoted thynges, & toward al maner of blache, ꝑ was among the shepe of Laban, namely, puttynge his owne flockes by them selfe, & not puttynge them wyth Labās shepe. And it fortuned ꝑ in euery rammynge tyme of ꝑ stronger shepe Jacob layde ꝑ roddes before ꝑ eyes of ꝑ shepe in the gutters: namely, that he myght make them conceaue before the roddes. But when ꝑ shepe were feble, he put them not in. And so ꝑ febler were Labās, & the stronger Jacobs. And ꝑ man encreased exceadyngly, & had a great flocke, mayde seruauntes, & men seruauntes, camels and asses.

The xxxi. Chapter.

¶ At the commaundement of God Jacob departed from Labā, and toke hys goodes wyth him. Rachel stealeth her fathers images. Laban foloweth Jacob. The couenaunt betwene Laban and Jacob.

BUt he heard the wordes of Labans sonnes saying: Jacob hath taken awaye all ꝑ was our fathers, & of our fathers goods hath he gotten all thys honoure. And Jacob beheldē ꝑ countenaunce of Laban, & beholde, it was not as yesterdaye and peryesterday. And ꝑ LORDE sayde vnto Jacob, turne agayne into the lāde of thy fathers, & to thy kynred, and I wyl be wyth ꝑ. Therfore Jacob sent and called Rachel and Lea to ꝑ felde vnto his flocke, and sayde vnto them: I se youre fathers countenaunce ꝑ it is not towarde me as yesterdaye, & peryesterdaye. But the GOD of my father hath bene wyth me. And ye knowe howe ꝑ I haue serued youre father wt all my myght. But your father hath disceaued me, & chaunged my wages x. tymes: but GOD suffred him not to hurte me. When he saide, the spotted shal be thy wages, then al ꝑ shepe bare spotted. And when he sayde: ꝑ straked shal be thy reward, then bare al the shepe straked: thus hath GOD take awaie your fathers shepe, and geuen them me. But in rammynge tyme it happened, ꝑ I lyfted vp myne eyes & sawe in a dreame, & beholde the rammes leaped vpō ꝑ shepe that were straked, spotted and party. And the Angell of GOD spake vnto me in a dreame, sayinge: Jacob, & I answered: here am I. And he sayde: lyfte vp nowe thyne eyes, and se al the rammes leapyng vpon the shepe ꝑ are straked, spotted and partye, for I haue sene all that Laban doth vnto the, I am the GOD of * Bethel, where thou anoyntedst the stone, and where thou vowedst a vowe vnto me. Nowe therfore aryse and get the out of thys countre, and returne vnto the lande where thou wast borne. Gene. 28.d Gene. 31.a.

Then answered Rachel, and Lea, & sayde vnto him: haue we a porcion and inheritaūce in our fathershouse: Doth not he count vs euen as straungers: for he hath sold vs, and hath euen eatē vp our money. But al the riches which GOD hath takē from oure father, that is oures and our childrens. And nowe what soeuer GOD hath sayde vnto the that do. Thē Jacob rose vp, and set his sonnes and wyues vp vpon camels, & caryed awaye all hys flockes, and all hys substaunce whyche he had procured, hys ryches and possessions which he had gotten in Mesopotamia, for to go to Isaac hys father vnto ꝑ lande of Canaan. But Labā was gone to * shere his shepe, & Rachel had stollen her fathers images. And Jacob stale awaye the hart of Laban ꝑ Syrien, in that he tolde hym not that he fled. So fled he & al that he had, and made him selfe redy and passed ouer the ryuer, and set hys face streyght towarde the mount Gilead. Upon the thyrde daye after, was it tolde Laban that Jacob fled. Then he toke hys brethren wyth hym, and folowed after hym seuen dayes iourney, & ouertoke hym at ꝑ mount Gilead. And GOD came to Laban the Syrian in a dreame by nyght, and sayde vnto hym: take hede that thu speake not to Jacob oughte saue good. And Laban ouertoke Jacob: and Jacob hat pytched hys tente in the mount. And Laban wyth his brethren pytched theyr tent also vpon the mount Gilead. And Laban sayde to Jacob: Why hast thou thys done to stale awaye my harte, and carye awaye my doughters, as though they had bene taken captiue wt the sweard. Gene. 18. 2. Reg. 13.c

Wherfore wentest thou awaye secretely vnknowne to me, & bydest not tell me, that I myght haue brought the on ꝑ waye wyth mirth, syngynge, tymrell and

and harpe, and hast not suffered me to kysse my chyldren and my doughters.
1.Reg 13.c. Thou wast*a foole now to do it, for I 2.Par.25.c. am able to do you cuyl. But the GOD of your father spake vnto me yesterdaye, saying: take hede that thou speake not to Jacob ought saue good. And now thoughe thou wētest thy waye because thou longest after thy fathers house, yet wherfore haste thou stollen my goddes? Jacob answered and sayd to Laban: because I was afraide, and thought that thou woldest haue taken awaye thy doughters from me. But e & (where as thou sayest theyste to my charge) wyth whome soeuer thou fyndest thy goddes, let him dye here before our brethren. Seke that thyne is by me, and take it to the. But Jacob wyst not that Rachel had stolled them. Thē went Laban into Jacobs tente, and into Leas tente, & into the two maydens tentes: but found them not. Then went he out of Leas tēte, and entred into Rachels tente. And Rachel had taken the images, and put them in ỳ camels strawe, and sate downe vpon them. And Labā serched al the tente: but founde thē not. Then sayde she to her father: my lorde, be not angry that I can not ryse vp before the, for the custome of wemen is come vpon me. So searched he, but found not those idols. And Jacob was wroth, and chode wyth Laban. Jacob also answered and sayde to hym: what haue I trespaced, or what haue I offended, that thou folowedest so after me? Thou hast searched all my stuffe, and what haste thou found of all thy houshold stuffe? put it here before thy brethren and myne, that they may iudge betwirt vs both. Behold: This twē

What soeuer was torne of beastes, I brought it not the, but made it good my selfe: of my hand didst thou require it, euen as it ỳ was stollen by daye or nyght. By day the heate consumed me & the frost by night, and my slepe departed fro myne eyes. Thus haue I bene
Gene.29.f. xx. yere in thy house, and serued ỳ*xiiij yeres for thy ij doughters, and fyue yeres for thy shepe, and thou hast chaunged my rewarde tē tymes. And except the GOD of my father, ỳ GOD of Abraham, and the feare of Isaac had bene wyth me, surely thou haddest sente me awaye nowe all emptye. But GOD beholde my tribulacion, & the laboure of my handes, & rebuked the yesterdaye.

Laban answered & sayde vnto Jacob: these doughters are mi doughters and these chyldren are my chyldren, & these shepe are my shepe, and all that thou syest, is myne. And what can I do thys daye vnto these my doughters or vnto theyre chyldren whyche they haue borne? Nowe therfore come on & let vs make a bond, I and thou, whych maye be a wytnesse betwene the and me. Then toke Jacob a stone, and sette it vp an ende, & Jacob sayde vnto hys brethren: gather stones. And they toke stones, and made an heape, & they dyd eat there vpon the heape. And Laban called it* Jegar Sahadutha, but Jacob called it Gilead. & (ether of them accordynge to the prophecie of his owne language.

Then sayde Laban: thys heape is wytnesse betwene the & me thys daye: therfore is it called Gilead. & (that is, heape of witnesse) and Mizpah. For he sayde. The LORDE loke betwene me and the, when we are departed one from another: yf thou shalt vexe my doughters, or shalte take other wiues beside my doughters. Here is nomā with vs behold, GOD be wytnesse betwyrt ỳ & me. And Laban sayde moreouer to Jacob: beholde thys heape & thys marcke whyche I haue set here, betwyrte me & ỳ: thys heape be wytnesse, & also thys marcke that I wyl not come ouer this heape to the, and thou shalt not come ouer thys heape and thys marcke vnto me; to do any harme. The GOD of Abraham, the GOD of Nahor and the GOD of theyr fathers be iudge betwyrt vs. And Jacob sware by the feare of hys father Isaac. Then Jacob dyd sacrifice vpon the mount, and called hys brethren to eate breade. And they dyd eate bread and taryed all nyght in the hyll. And early in the morning Laban rose vp and kysled hys chyldren & hys doughters, & blessed them, & Laban de partyng went vnto hys place agayne.

The xxxij. Chapter.

¶ The vision of the angels. Jacob sendeth presentes vnto his brother Esau. Howe he wrestled with the angel: whiche chaūged his name & called hī Israel

But

BVt Jacob wēt forth on his iourney. And the angels of GOD came, and met hym.
And whē Jacob sawe thē he sayde thys is Goddes host: & called ꝑ name of the same place* Mahanaim (that is an armye). And Jacob sēte messengers before hi to Esau hys brother, vnto the lande* of Seir, & the felde of Edom. And he commaūded them saying: Thus shall ye speake to my lorde Esau: thy seruaunt Jacob sayth thus: I haue sogeourned, & bene a straūger w̄ Laban vnto thys time, & haue orē, asses & shepe, men seruauntes, & wemē seruauntes, & haue sent to shew it my lorde, ꝑ I maye fide grace in thy sight.
And ꝑ messengers came agayne to Jacob sayinge: we came vnto thy brother Esau, & he cōmeth agaynst ꝑ and hath iij. hūdreth mē w̄ hi. But Jacob was greatly afrayd, & wyst not which waie to turne hym selfe, & deuided ꝑ people that was wyth him, and the shepe, and oxen, and camels into ij. companies: & sayde: yf Esau come to the one parte & smyte it, the other shal saue it selfe.
And Jacob sayde agayne: O GOD of my father Abraham, & GOD of my father Isaac: LORDE whych sayest vnto me* returne vnto thy countre & to thy kynred, & I wyll do all well wyth the.
I am not worthy of the least of all the mercyes & truthe whyche thou haste shewed vnto thy seruaunte. For wyth my staffe came I ouer thys Iordane, and now haue I gotten ij. droues. Delyuer me from ꝑ handes of my brother Esau, for I feare hi: leest he wil come & smyte ꝑ mother w̄ the chyldren: Thou saydest: I wyll surely do the good and make thy sede as ꝑ sand of ꝑ see, which can not be nombred for multitud.
And he taryed ther that same night, & toke of ꝑ whyche came to hāde, a present for Esau hys brother ij. hundred she goates, & xx. he goates, ij. hundred shepe & xx. rāmes, thyrty milch camels with theyr coltes, xl. kine, & x. bulles, xx she asses, & x. colles: & deliuered them vnto the hand of his seruauntes, euery droue by them selues, & sayd vnto hys seruaūtes: go forth before me, and put a space betwyxt droue & droue. And he commaunded the formost sayinge:
yf Esau my brother mete the and aske the saying: whose art thou, & whyther goest thou, & whose are these ꝑ goo before the: thou shalt saye: they be thy seruaūt Jacobs, & it is a present sent vnto my lorde Esau, and beholde, he hym selfe commeth after vs: And so commaūded he the secound, and the thyrde, & al that folowed ꝑ droues, saying of thys maner: le that you speak vnto Esau when ye mete him, and seye moreouer thy seruaunt Jacob also commeth after vs, for he sayd, I wyl peace his wrath w̄ ꝑ present that goeth before me, and after warde I wyll se hym my selfe, if peraduēture he wil receaue me to grace. So went ꝑ present before hym, & he taried al ꝑ night in the company, & rose vp the same nyght, & toke hys two wyues and his two maydens, & hys eleuen sonnes & went ouer ꝑ foord Jabok. And he toke them, & sent them ouer ꝑ ryuer, and sent ouer that he had, taryed behynd hi selfe alone. And there* wrestled a man w̄ him vnto ꝑ breakyng of ꝑ daye. And when he saw ꝑ he could not preuaile agaynst him, he smote hym vnder ꝑ thye & the synowe of Jacobs thye shranke, as he wrastled with hym. And he sayd: let me goo for ꝑ daye breaketh. Which answered: I wyll not let ꝑ go, excepte thou blesse me. And he sayde vnto him: what is thy name? He answered: Jacob. He sayde: thou shalt be called Jacob nomore, but* Israel. For as a prince hast thou wrastled with GOD, and wyth man, and haste preuayled.
And Jacob asked hym sayinge: tell me thy name. And he sayd, wherfore dost thou so aske after my* name: & he blessed hi ther. And Jacob called ꝑ name of the place* Pniel, for I haue sene GOD face to face, & my life is preserued. And as he went ouer Pniel, ꝑ sōne rose vpon him, and he halted vpon his thie. And therfore is it that the chyldren of Israel eate not of ꝑ synow ꝑ shrancke in ꝑ place of the thye, vnto thys daye. because that he touched ꝑ place of Jacobs thye in the senowe that shroncke.

So Eſau went hys waye agayne that ſame daye vnto Seir. And Jacob toke hys iourney to warde Sucoth, and buylte him an hou ſe, & made boothes for hys catell. And therfore is it, that the name of the pla ce is called* Sucoth.

And Jacob came to Salem a citie of Sichem, whyche is in the lande of Ca naā, after that he was come from Me ſopotamia, and pytched before the Ci tie, & bought a parcell of grounde (whe re he pytched hys tente) of the chyldrē of Hemor Sichems father for an hun dred peces of money. And he made the re an aulter, and called vpon the myght tye GOD of Iſrael.

The xxxiiij. Chapter.

¶ The rauyſhynge of Dina Jacobs doughter by the men of Sichem. And of the great bloudeſhed ynge done by the ſonnes of Jacob.

DIna the doughter of Lea* & whyche ſhe bare vnto Jacob wēte out to ſe the daughters of the lande. Whome whan Sichem the ſonne of Hemor the Heui te, lorde of that countre ſaw, he toke her, and laye wyth her, and forced* her and hys hart laye vnto Dina ỳ dough ter of Jacob. And he loued that dame ſell & ſpake kyndely vnto her, & Sichē ſpake vnto hys father Hemor ſayeng, get me thys mayden vnto my wyfe.

And Jacob herd that he had defyled Dina his doughter, his ſonnes beynge wyth theyr catel in the felde, and he hel de his peace, vntil they were come. And Hemor the father of Sichem went out vnto Jacob, to comen wyth hym. And when the ſonnes of Jacob commyng out of the felde heard it, it greued thē & they wer not a lytel wroth, becauſe he had wrought folye in Iſrael, in ỳ he had lyen wyth Jacobs doughter whyche thynge ought not to be done. And Hemor commoned wyth them ſa yenge: the ſoule of my ſonne Sichem lō geth for youre doughter: geue her hym to wyfe, and make mariages with vs, and geue your doughters vnto vs, and take our doughters vnto you, and ye ſhall dwel wyth vs, and the lande ſhall be before you, dwell and do your buſy nes, and haue your poſſeſſions therein. And Sichem ſayde vnto her father, & her brethren, let me fynde grace in you re eyes, and what ſoeuer ye appoynte me, that wyll I geue. Are freelye of me both the dowry and gyftes, and I wyl geue accordynge as ye ſaye vnto me, ſo that ye gyue me the damſel to wyfe.

But the ſonnes of Jacob anſwerd to Sichem and Hemor hys father tal

kynge among them selues deceytfully, because he had defyled Dina their syster. And they sayd vnto them: we can not do this thinge, that we should geue our syster to one that is vncircūcised, for that were a shame vnto vs. But in this wyll we consent vnto you, yf ye wylbe as we be, and all the men childrē among you be circumcised, then wil we geue oure doughters to you, and take your doughters to vs, and wyll dwell with you, and be one people. But yf ye wyl not harken vnto vs to be circumcised, then wyl we take our doughter and go our wayes. Their wordes pleased Hemor and Sichem his sonne. And the ponge man deferde not for to do the thing, because he had a luste to Jacobs doughter: he was also most lerne by of all that were in his fathers house. Thē Hemor and Sichē his sonne wēt vnto the gate of their citie, and comened with the men of their citie, sayng: these men are vnfayned towarde vs, and dwel in the lande and do their occupation therin. And in the lande is rowme ynoughe for them, we wil take their doughters to wyues, and geue them our doughters, onely herein wyl they consent vnto vs for to dwel with vs and to be one people: yf all the men childrē that are amonge vs be circumcised as they are. Shal not their goodes and their substaunce and all their catell be oures, onely yf we consent vnto them: for they wyll dwell with vs. And vnto Hemor and Sichem his sonne herkened all that wente out of the gate of his citie. And all the men childrē were circumcised, what soeuer went out of the gates of his citie. And it happened the thyrde daye (when it was paynfull to them) two of the sonnes of Jacob Simeon and Leui, Dinas brethren, toke either of them his * swearde and wente into the Citie boldely, and slewe al that was male, and slewe also Hemor and Sichem his sonne with ỳ edge of the swearde, and toke Dina out of Sichems house, and went their waye.

And ỳ sonnes of Jacob cōmyng vpō the deade, spoyled ỳ citie, because they had defyled their syster: and toke their shepe, oxen and their asses, and whatsoeuer was in the citie, and also in the feldes. And all their goodes and all their childrē, and their wyues toke they captiue, and made hauock of all ỳ was in ỳ house.

But Jacob sayde to Simeon and Leui: ye haue troubled me, and made me stynke before the inhabitours of the lande, before the Cananite, and the Pherezyte. And I beyng few in numbre, they shal gather thē selues togyther against me, and slaye me, and so shall I and my house be destroyed. And they answered: should they deale wt our sister as wt an whore?

The.xxxv.Chapter.

Jacob goeth vp vnto Bethel, and burieth his images vnder an oke. Debora dyeth. Jacob is called Israel. The lande of Canaan is promysed him. Rachel dyeth in labour. Ruben laye with his fathers concubine. The death of Isaac.

AND GOD sayde vnto Jacob, aryse, and get the vp to Bethel, and dwel there. And make there an alter vnto GOD, that appeared vnto the, *when thou fleddest from the face of Esau thy brother. Thē sayde Jacob vnto his housholde and to all that wer with him: put away the straunge goddes that are amonge you, and be clene: and chaunge your garmentes, for we wyll aryse and go vp to Bethel, and wyl make an alter there, vnto GOD whiche hearde me in the daye of my tribulatiō, and was wt me in the waye which I wēt. *Ge.xxviii.c.

And they gaue vnto Jacob all the straunge goddes whiche they had in their hāde, and al their earynges whiche were in their eares, and Jacob hyd them vnder an ooke which was by Sichem. And when they departed, the feare of God fell vpon the cities ỳ were rounde about thē. And they dyd not folowe after the sonnes of Jacob. So came Jacob to Lus whiche is in the lande of Canaan: The same is Bethel, he and al the people that was with him. And he builded there an alter, and called ỳ place: The GOD of Bethel: because that GOD appeared vnto him there, when he fled from the face of his brother.

*But Debora Rebeccas nurse, dyed, and was buryed beneth Bethel vnder an ooke. And ỳ name of it was called: the ooke of lamētacion. And GOD appeared vnto Jacob againe after he came out of Mesopotamia, and blessed him, and GOD sayde vnto him: thy name is Jacob. Norwithstādinge, thou shalt be nomore called * Jacob, but Israel shalbe thy name. And he called his name Israel. *Ge.xxxv.f.

And GOD sayde vnto him: I am GOD almightie, growe and multiplye: people & a multitude of people shall spryng of the: yea, and kinges shal come out of thy loynes. And the lande whiche I gaue Abraham and Isaac, wil I gyue vnto the, and vnto thy seed after þ, wyll I gyue that lade also. And so GOD departed vp from him in the place where he had talked with him. And Jacob sette vp a marke in the place where he talked with him: cuẽ a marke of stone, and poured drynkeoffryng theron, and poured also oyle theron, & Jacob called the name of þ place where GOD spake with him, * Bethel.

The house of God.

C And they departed from Bethel, and when he was but a felde breadth from Ephrath, Rachel beganne to trauayle: and in trauaylynge, she was in peryll. And it happened as she was in paynes of her labour, þ mydwyfe sayde vnto her, feare not, for this sonne is thyne also.

Then as her soule was a departinge, that she* must dye, she called his name Ben Ony. (The sonne of my sorowe.) But his father called him Ben Jamin (The sonne of the right hande) And thus dyed Rahel, and was buryed in the waye to Ephrath, whiche is Bethlehẽ. And Jacob set vp a stone vpon her graue, whiche is called Rahels graue stone vnto this daye. And Israel went thẽce, and pitched vp his tente beyonde the* towre of Eder. And it chaunced, as Israel dwelt in the lande, that Ruben wente and laye* with Bilha his fathers cõcubine, and it came to Israels care. The sonnes of Jacob were. xii. in nombre. The sonnes of Lea: Ruben Jacobs eldest sonne, & Simeon, Leui, Juda, Isachar, and Zabulon. The sonnes of Rahel: Joseph & Bẽjamin. The sonnes of Bilha Rahels mayde: Dan & Nepthali. The sonnes of Silpha Leas mayde, Gad & Asser. These are þ sonnes of Jacob whiche were borne him in Mesopotamia.

¶ The wyues of Esau. Jacob and Esau are riche. The genealogie of Esau. Esau dwelleth in the hyll Seir.

THese are the generacions of Esau, The same is Edom. Esau toke his wiues of the doughters of Canaan. Ada the doughter of Elon an Hethite, and Ahalibama þ doughter of Ana, the doughter of Zibeon an Heuite, & Basmath Ismaels* doughter, & syster of Nebaioth. And Ada bare vnto Esau, Eliphas: & Basmath bare Reguel. And Ahalibama bare Jeus and Jaelam and Kozah. These are the sonnes of Esau whiche were borne him in the lande of Canaan. 1

And Esau toke his wyues & his sonnes, and doughters, and all the soules of his house: his goodes, & al his cattel, and all his substaunce whiche he had gotten in the lande of Canaan, & went into a countrye away from the face of his brother Jacob: for their* ryches was moche, and they coulde not dwell togyther, and the lande wherein they were straũgers, coulde not receiue thẽ, bycause of their possession. Gen.

Thus dwelt Esau in mount Seir. The same Esau is Edom. These are the generacions of Esau father of the Edomites in mounte Seir, and these are the names of Esaus sonnes * Eliphas, the sonne of Ada the wyfe of Esau, & Reguel the son of Basmath the wyfe of Esau. And the sonnes of Eliphas were Theman, Omar, Zepho, Gaetham & Kenas. And Thimna was concubine to Eliphas Esaus sonne, & bare vnto Eliphas Amaleck. And these be the sonnes of Ada Esaus wyfe. And these are þ sonnes of Reguel: Nahath, Serah, Samma, & Mila: these were þ sonnes of Basmath Esaus wyfe. And these were þ sonnes of Ahalibama the doughter of Ana doughter of Zebion, Esaus wyfe, and she bare vnto Esau Jeus, Jaelam, and Kozah. 1 Pa. B

C These were dukes of the sonnes of Esau: The childzen of* Eliphas þ firste sonne of Esau, were these: duke Theman, duke Omar, duke Zepho, duke Kenas, and duke Kozah, duke Gaethã, and duke Amaleck. These are the dukes that came of Eliphas in þ lande of Edom, 1 Pa. C

Edom, & these were the sonnes of Ada. These also arethe childzen of Reguel Esaus sonne: duke Nahath, duke Serah, duke Samma, duke Misa. These are the dukes that came of Reguel in the lande of Edom, & these are þ sonnes of Basmath Esaus wyfe. These were the childzē of Ihalibama Esaus wyfe: duke Jeus, duke Gaelam, duke Kozah: these dukes came of Ihalibama the doughter of Ana Esaus wyfe. These are the childzen of Esau, & these are the dukes of them: whiche Esau is Edom. These are þ childzē of Seir the Hozite, the inhabitoure of the lande: Lothan, Sobal, Zibeon, and Ana, and Dison, Eser & Disan. These also are the dukes of the Hozites the childzen of Seir in the lande of Edon. And the childzen of Lothan were Hozy and Heman. And Lothans sister was called Thimna.

The childzen of Sobal were these: Aluan, Manahat, & Ebal, Sepho, and Onam. These are the childzen of Zibeon: Aia and Ana, this was that Ana that founde Mules in the wyldernesse, as he fed his father Zibeons asses. The childzen of Ana were these: Dison and Ihalibama þ doughter of Ana. These are the childzen of Dison, Hemdan, & Esban, Jethzan and Cheran. The childzē of Ezer are these: Bilhan, Seauā, and Ikan. The childzen of Disan also are these: Uz, and Aran.

These are the dukes that came of Hozi: duke Lothan, duke Sobal, duke Zibeon, duke Ana, duke Dison, duke Ezer, duke Disan. These be the dukes that came of Hozi, after their dukedomes in the lande of Seir. These are the kynges that reigned in the lande of Edom, before there raygned any kinge vpon the childzen of Israel: Bela the sonne of Beoz, raigned in Edomea, and þ name of his citie was Dinhaba. And whē Bela died, Jobab þ sone of Serah out of Bozra, raygned in his stede. When Jobab also was deade, Husam of the lande of Themany raygned in his stede. And after the death of Husam, Hadad the sonne of Bedad, whiche slewe the Madianites in the felde of þ Moabites, raygned in his steade, & the name of his Citie was Awith. When Hadad was dead, Samla of Masrek raygned in his stede. When Samla was dead, Saul of þ ryuer Rehoboth raygned in his stede. When Saul was dead, Baalhanan the sonne of Achboz raygned in his stede. And after þ death of Baal Hanan the sonne of Achboz, Hadad raigned in his stede, & the name of his citie was Pahu. And his wyues name Mahetabeel þ doughter of Matred, the doughter of Melahab.

These are the names of þ dukes that came of Esau in the twelue kynredes, places and names: duke Thimna, duke Alua, duke Jether, duke Ihalibama, duke Ela, duke Pinō, duke Kenas, duke Theman, duke Mibzar, duke Magdiel, duke Jram. These be þ dukes of Edomea, accozdyng to their habitacions, in þ lande of their possessiōs. This Esau is þ father of þ Edomites.

¶ The.xxxvii.Chapter.

Joseph accuseth his brethzen. Joseph dzameth and is hated of his brethzen / and is solde to the Jsmaelites. Jacob bewayleth Joseph.

JAcob dwelt in the lande wherein his father was a straunger, euē in þ lande of Canaan. These are the generacions of Jacob: whē Joseph was seuentene yere olde, he kept shepe with his bzethzen, & the ladde was w the sonnes of Bilha and with þ sonnes of Silpha, his fathers wyues. And he bzought vnto theyz father an euyl sayinge of them. But Jsrael loued Joseph moze then all his childzen, bycause he begat him in his olde age, and he made him a coote of many colours.

And when his bzethzē sawe that their father loued him moze then all his bzethzen, they hated him, and coulde not speake peaceably vnto him. Moreouer, when Joseph* had dzeamed a dzeame, he tolde it his bzethzen, whiche hated him yet þ moze. And he sayde vnto thē: heare, J pzaye you, this dzeame which J haue dzeamed: Beholde, we were byndynge sheues in the felde: & lo, my sheue arose, and stode vp tyght, & youre sheues stode rounde about, and made obeysaunce to my sheue. To whome his bzethzen sayde: shalt thou be our kynge in dede, oz shalte thou in dede haue dominion ouer vs? And they hated him yet the moze, bycause of his dzeames and of his wozdes.

And he dzeamed yet an other dzeame, and tolde his bzethzen, sayinge: beholde

His brethren alſo went to kepe their fathers ſhepe in Sichem, & Iſrael ſayde vnto Joſeph: doe not thy brethren kepe in Sichem? come, and I wyll ſende the to them.

1. Ke. iii. c. He anſwered * here am I. And he ſayde vnto him: goe and ſe whether it be well with thy brethrē, and the ſhepe: and bringe me worde againe. And ſo he ſent him out of the vale of Hebron, and he wēt to Sichem. And a certaine man founde him, and beholde he was wandryng out of his waye in ỹ felde, & ỹ mā aſked him: what ſeke'ſt thou? He anſwered: I ſeke my brethrē, tell me I praye ỹ where they kepe ſhepe. And ỹ mā ſayde, they are departed hēce, for I hearde thē ſay: let vs go vnto Dothan. Thus went Joſeph after his brethren, and founde them in Dothā. And when they ſawe him a far of before he came at them, they toke councel againſt him, for to ſleye him. For one ſayde to another: Behold * this dreamer commeth: come nowe therfore and let vs ſley him and caſt him into ſome pyt, and we wil ſay a wicked beaſt hath deuoured him, and we ſhall ſe what wyll come of hys dreames. When Ruben heard that, he ryd him out of their hādes & ſayde, we wil not kyll him. And Rubē ſayd moreouer vnto them, ſhede not his * bloude, but caſt him into this pyt that is in the wyldernelle, and laye no hande vpon him. (Thus he ſayde) Namely, that he might rydde him out of their handes, and delyuer him to his father againe.

And it happened that when Joſeph was come vnto his brethrē, they ſtripte him out of his coate, his party coloured coote that was vpon him, and they toke him and caſte him into an emptye pitte: wherin was no water. And they ſat them downe to eate breade. And as they lyfte vp their eyes & loked aboute, there came a companye of Iſmaelites from Gilead, and theyr camels ladē wh ſpicery, baulme, & myrre, & were goyng downe to cary it into Egipte.

And Juda ſayde vnto his brethren: what auayleth it yf we ſlaye our brother, and kepe his bloude ſecrete? come on and let vs *ſell him to the Iſmaelytes, and let not our handes be vpon him: for he is our brother & our fleſhe. And his brethren were content. Then as the Madianytes marchaunte men paſſed by, they drewe and lyfte Joſephe out of the pytte and ſolde him vnto the Iſmaelytes for twentye peces of ſyluer. And they brought him into Egipt.

And when Ruben came againe vnto the pytte & foūde not Joſeph there, he rent his clothes & went againe vnto his brethren ſaying: the lad is not pender, and whether ſhall I go? And they toke Joſephs coote and kylled a goate, and dypped the coote in ỹ bloude. And they ſent that partye coloured coote, and brought it vnto their father and ſayde: This haue we foūde: ſe whither it be thy ſonnes coote or no. And he knew it ſayinge, it is my ſonnes coote, a wicked beaſt hath * deuoured him, Joſeph is rent in peces.

And Jacob rēt his clothes, & put ſacke cloth about his loynes, & ſorowed for his ſonne a long ſeaſon. But all his ſōnes and al his doughters roſe vp to cōforte him. Neuertheleſſe, he wolde not be conforted, but ſayd: I wil go downe into ỹ graue vnto my ſōne, mourning. And thus his father wept for him. And the Madianites * ſolde him in Egypte vnto Putiphar a lorde of Pharaos, and his cheſe ſtewarde.

¶ The. xxxviii. Chapter.

¶ The mariage of Juda. The treſpace of Er and Onan, and the vengeaunce of God that came therevpon. Juda laye with his doughter Thamar. The byrthe of Pharez and Sarah.

IT foꝛtuned at that tyme, that Judas went downe frō his brethren, & gate him to a mā called Hira of Odollan, and there he ſawe the doughter of a man called * Sua a Canaanite. And he toke her and went into her. And ſhe cōceaued and bare a ſonne & called his name Er. And ſhe cōceaued againe, & bare a ſonne & called him Onā. And ſhe cōceaued againe, & bare yet a ſonne, whome ſhe called Sela: and he was at Chelib when ſhe bare him.

And

And Juda gaue Er his eldest sonne a wyfe whose name was Thamar. And Er Judas eldest sonne was wicked in the sight of the LORDE, & the LORDE slewe him. And Juda sayde vnto Onã: go in to thy brothers wyfe, and marye her: that thou mayst stirre vp sede vnto thy brother. And whẽ Onan perceaued ỳ the sede should not be his, therfore when he went in to hys brothers wyfe, he spylled it on the grounde, and gaue not sede vnto hys brother. And ỳ thyng whiche he dyd, displeased the LORDE, wherfore he slew him also. Thẽ sayd Juda to Thamar his doughter in lawe: remaine a wydowe at thy fathers house, tyl Sela my sonne be growen, for he sayde: Lest peraduenture he dye also as his brethren dyd. And Thamar went and dwelte in her fathers house.

And in proces of tyme, ỳ doughter of Sua Judas wyfe, dyed. Then Juda when he had left mournyng, wẽt vnto his shepe sherers to Thimnath, he and his frende Hira of Odollam. And one told Thamar saying: behold, thy father in law goth vp to Thimnath, to *sheare his shepe. And she put her wydowes garmẽtes of from her, and couered her wyth a clooke, and disgysed her selfe: & sat her downe in a comon place whiche is by ỳ hie wayes syde to Thimnath, for because she sawe ỳ Sela was growen, & she was not geuẽ vnto hym to wyfe.

When Juda sawe her, he thought it had bene an whore, because she had couered her face. And he turned to her vnto the waye, & sayde: come I praye the, let me lye wyth the, for he knewe not ỳ it was his doughter in lawe. And she aunswered: what wylt thou geue me, for to lye wt me: Then sayde he, I wyll sende ỳ a kyd from ỳ flocke. She sayde: Then geue me a pledge tyll thou sende it. He sayde, what pledge shall I geue the: She answered: thy signet, thy bracelet, and thy staffe that is in thy hand. And he gaue it her and laye by her, and she was with child by him. And she gat her vp and wente & put her mantel frõ her, and put on her wydowes raymẽt. And Judas sent the kyd by hys frende of Odollam, for to receaue hys pledge agayne from the wyues hande. But he founde her not. Then asked he the mẽ of the same place, saying: where is the whore ỳ sat openly by the wayes syde: They answered: Ther was no whore here. He came therfore to Juda againe & sayde vnto hym: I cannot fynde her, and also ỳ men of ỳ place sayde, ỳ there was no whore there. And Juda sayde, let her take it to her, lest we be shamed. Beholde I sent the kyd & thou haste not founde her. And it came to passe ỳ after thre monethes, one tolde Juda saying: Thamar thy doughter in lawe hath playde the whore, & with playinge the whore is become great with child. And Juda sayde: bryng her furth, ỳ she may be brent. And when they brought her furth, she sent to her father in law saying: by the man vnto whom these thinges pertaine, am I wt chyld. And sayde also, loke whose are this seale, bracelet and thys staffe: And Juda knewe them and sayde: she hath bene more ryghteous then I, because I gaue her not to Sela my sonne. And he laye wyth her nomore. It fortuned when tyme was come ỳ she shulde be delyuered, behold, there was two twinnes in her wombe: And it fortuned that whẽ she traueled, the one put out his hande, and the midwyfe toke & bounde a red threde about it, saying: thys is come out fyrst. And it chaũsed, that he plucked his hand back agayne, and beholde hys brother came out. And she sayde: wherfore hast thou rent a rent vpon the? & called his name Pharez. Afterwarde came out his brother that had the red threde aboute his hande, & his name was called Sarah.

The.xxxix. Chapter.

¶ God prosperech Joseph. Pharaos wyfe tempterh him. He is accused and cast in prison. God hathe mercye vpon him.

JOseph was brought vnto Egipte, and Putiphar* a Lorde of Pharaos (and his chief stewarde an Egiptian) boughte him of the Ismaelites, whiche had brought him thyther. And God was with Joseph, & he became a lucky man, continuyng in the house of his master the Egiptian. And his master sawe ỳ God was with him, and ỳ God made all ỳ he dyd to prosper in his hande. And Joseph founde grace in his masters sighte, and serued him. And made him rular of his house, & put all ỳ he had in his hãd. And it fortuned from the tyme ỳ he had made him rular ouer his houſe and ouer al that he had, the LORDE bleſſed ỳ Egipcians houſe for Joſephs ſake, and the bleſſing of the LORDE was vpon al that he had in the houſe, and in the felde. And therfore he left al that he had in Josephs hand, and loked vpon nothinge ỳ was with hym, ſaue onely on the breade whiche he dyd eate. And Joſeph was a goodly perſonne and a well fauoured. And it fortuned after this, that his maſters wyfe caſt her eyes vpon Joſeph, and ſayde: come lye with me. But he refuſed, and ſayde to his maſters wyfe: Beholde my maſter woteth not what he hath in the houſe with me, and hath committed all that he hath to my hande. There is no man greater in the houſe thē I. Nether hath he kepte any thinge from me, but onely the, becauſe thou art his wyfe. How then can I do this great wickednes, and ſynne againſt GOD? And after this maner ſpake ſhe to Joſeph day by day, but he harkened not vnto her, to ſlepe, nor beare, or to be in her cōpanye. And it fortuned on a certayne cōuenient daye, that Joſeph entred into the houſe, to do his buſines: and there was none of the houſholde by in the houſe. And ſhe caught him by the garmēt ſaying: come ſlepe with me. And he lefte his garment in her hande, and fledde, and got him out. And it chaunced, whē ſhe ſawe that he had lefte his garmente in her hāde, and was fled out. (And ſhe not regarded) ſhe called vnto the men of her houſe, and tolde them, ſaying: See, he hath brought in an Hebrue vnto vs to do vs ſhame: for he came into me, for to haue ſlepte with me. And I began to crye w a loude voice. And whē he heard that I lyfte vp my voice and cryed, he lefte his garment with me, and fledde awaye, and got him out.

And ſhe layde vp his garment by her, vntyl her lorde came home. And ſhe tolde him with theſe wordes, ſayinge: This Hebrues ſeruaunt whiche thou haſt brought vnto vs, came into me to doe me ſhame. But aſſone as I lyfte vp my voice & cried, he lefte his garmente with me, and fled out. When his maſter (beynge wyghte of credence) heardhe theſe wordes of his wyfe, whiche ſhe tolde him, ſaying: after this maner dyd thy ſeruaunt to me, he wared wrothe.

And the maſter toke Joſeph and put him in* priſon, euē into the place wher the kynges pryſoners laye bounde. And there continued he in priſon: but the LORDE was with Joſeph, & ſhewed him mercye, and got him fauoure in the ſight of the Lorde of the priſon. And the keper of the priſon committed to Josephs hande, all ỳ priſoners that were in the pryſon houſe. And what ſoeuer was done there, ỳ dyd he. And the keper of the pryſon loked vnto nothing ỳ was vnder his hād, ſeyng ỳ the LORDE was w̄ him. For what ſoeuer he dyd, the LORDE made it to proſper.

The. xl. Chapter.

¶ Joſeph expounderh the dreames of the two pryſoners

And it chaūced after this, that the butteler of the kynge of Egipte & his baker had offēded their Lorde the kyng of Egipte. And Pharao was angry againſt his two officers: againſt the cheſe butler and ỳ cheſe baker: and put thē in warde in his cheſe ſtewards houſe: euen in the priſon & place where Joſeph was bound. And the cheſe ſtewarde gaue Joſeph a charge w̄ them, and he ſerued them. And they continued a ſeaſon in ward. And they dreamed eyther of thē in one night both ỳ butler and the baker of the kynge of Egypte, whiche were boūde in the pryſon houſe, ether of them his dreame, and eache mannes dreame of a ſundry interpretacion. When Joſeph came in vnto thē in the morynge, and loked vpon them, beholde: they were ſad. And he aſked Pharaos officers that were with him in his maſters warde, ſaying: wherfore loke ye ſo ſadly to day? They anſwered him: we haue dreamed a dreame, and haue no man to declare it. And Joſeph ſayd vnto them: Do not interpretinges belonge to GOD? yet tell me: And the cheſe butler tolde his dreame to Joſeph, & ſayde vnto him: In my dreame me thought there ſtode a vyne before me, and in ỳ vyne were .iii. braunches, and it was as thoughe it budded, & her bloſſoms ſhotte furthe: and the grapes therof, wared rype. And I had Pharaos cup in my hāde, and toke of the grapes, & wrong thē into Pharaos cup, & deliuered Pharaos cup into his hand. And Joſeph ſayde vnto him: this is the interpretacō of it: The .iii. braunches are

are thre dayes: for wythin thre dayes shal Pharao lyfte vp thyne heade, & restore ꝑ vnto thyne office agayne, & thou shalte delyuer Pharaos cup into hys hande, after ꝑ olde maner wherin thou wast wont to geue him drinke. But ꝑ thou thynche on me wꝫ the, when thou arte in good case, shew mercy (I praye

Hebrues, and here also haue I done no thyng at all, wherfore they shuld haue put me into this dongeon. Whē ꝑ chefe baker sawe that ꝑ interpretacion was good, he sayd vnto Joseph: me thought also in me dream ꝑ I had thre wycker baskettes on my heade. And in ꝑ opper moste basket there was of all maner bakemeates for Pharao. And ꝑ byrdes vpon my head. And Joseph answered & sayde: thys is ꝑ interpretacion therof.

The thre basketes are thre dayes, for thys day thre dayes shall Pharao take thy heade from the, & shal hange ꝑ on a tree, & ꝑ byrdes shall eate ꝑ flesh frō ꝑ.

The xli. Chapter.

¶ Pharaos dreames are expounded by Joseph. He is made ruler ouer all Egypte. He hath two sonnes, Manasses and Ephraim. The derth begynneth in Egypte.

AND it fortuned after ij. yeres, that Pharao dremed, & beholde, he stode by a ryuers syde, & there came out of the ryuer se uen goodly kyne & fat flesshed, and fed in a medow, & seuen other kyne came vp after them out of ꝑ ryuer, euell fauoured and leane flesshed, and stod by the other kyne vpon the drynke of the ryuer. And the euyl fauored and leane flesshed kyne dyd eate vp the seuen wel fauored and fat kine: & Pharao awoke.
And he slept agayn, & dreamed ꝑ scrōde tyme. And behold, seuen eares of corne grewe vpon one stalke, ranke and good ly. And agayne, seuen thyn eares blasted wyth the easte wynde sprange vp after them: and the seuen thynne eares deuoured the seuen rancke & full eares. And Pharao awaked: and se, it was a dreame. And when the mornyn-ge came, his spirite was troubled. And B he sent and called for all the sothsayers of Egypte, and al the wyse men therof, and Pharao tolde thē his dreame: but there was none of them that coulde interpretate it vnto Pharao. Then spake the chefe buttelar vnto Pharao saying:
I do remember my fautes thys daye.
Pharao beynge angry wyth his seruauntes put in warde in the chefe stewards house both me and the chefe baker. And we dreamed both of vs in one nyght, & ech mannes dreame of sondry interpretacion. And there was with vs a ponge man, an Hebrue borne, seruaūt vnto the chefe stewarde. To whome when we tolde them, he declared oure dreames to vs accordynge to eyther of oure dreames. And as he declared thē vnto vs, euen so it came to passe. For he restored me to myne office agayne, and hāged hym. Pharao sente therfore, and called Joseph, and they brought hi ha stely out of *prysō. And he shaued hym Psal.104.b selfe, & chaunged hys rayment, & came into Pharao. And Pharao sayde vnto C Joseph: I haue sene a dreame, and no-man can interpretate it, & I haue hear-de saye of ꝑ, that assone as thou hearest a dreame, thou canste interpretate it.
Joseph answered Pharao saying: Not I, but GOD shall geue Pharao an an-swere of peace. And Pharao sayd vnto Joseph: in my dreame my thought I stode by a ryuers syde, & there came out of the ryuer seuen fat flesshed, & wel fauored kyne, & fed in the medd owe. And then seuē other kyne came vp after thē, poore and very euel fauored, and leane flesshed: suche as I neuer sawe in all thys land of Egypte, they were so euel fauored. And the seuen leane and euell fauored kyne dyd eate vp ꝑ fyrste seuen fat kyne. And when they had eaten thē vp, a man could not perceyue that they had eaten them: but they were styll as euell fauored as they were at the begynnynge. And I awoke. And I sawe agayne in my dreame and beholde seuē

eares ſprange out of one ſtalke, full and fayer, and ſeuen other eares agayne, wythered thyn & blaſteth wyth ꝑ eaſte wynde, ſprange vp after them. And the thynne eares deuoured the ſeuen good eares. And I haue tolde it vnto ꝑ ſothſayers, but there was no mā that could tel what it meaneth. And Joſeph anſwered Pharao: both Pharaos dreames are one. And GOD hath ſhewed Pharao what is he aboute to do. The ſeuen good kyne are ſeuen yeres: and ꝑ ſeuen good eares are ſeuen yeres alſo, and it is but one dreame. Lykewyſe, ꝑ ſeuen thynne and euel fauoured kyne ꝑ came out after them, are ſeuen yeres: & the ſeuen emptye & blaſted eares ſhall be ſeuē yeres of hunger. This which I haue ſayd vnto Pharao, it is ꝑ GOD is about to do, & ſheweth it vnto Pharao.

Behold there come ſeuē yere of great plenteouſnes throughe oute all ꝑ lande of Egypte. And agayne, there ſhal aryſe after them ſeuē yeres of hunger. And alſo the plenteouſnes ſhalbe forgotten in the lande of Egypte. And the hunger ſhal conſume the lande: nether ſhal the plenteouſnes be knowne in the lande, by reaſon of the hunger that ſhall come after, for it ſhalbe exceadyng great. And as concernynge that the dreame was doubled vnto Pharao the ſeconde tyme, beholde, the thynge is certaynly prepared of GOD, and GOD wyll ſhortly bryng it to paſſe.

Nowe therfore let Pharao prouide for a mā of vnderſtandyng & wyſdome, & ſet hym ouer the lande of Egypt. And let Pharao do this alſo ꝑ he make officers ouer the lande, & take vp the fyfth parte of the lande of Egypte in ꝑ ſeuen plenteous yeres, and let them gather al the food of theſe good yeres that come, and lay vp corne vnder the hande of Pharao, that there maye be foode in the cities, and there lette them kepe it: ꝑ there maye be found in ſtore in ꝑ lande, againſt the ſeuē yeres of hunger whiche ſhall come in the lande of Egypt, ꝑ the lande periſhe not thorowe hunger.

And the ſayinge pleaſed Pharao and all hys ſeruauntes. Then ſayde Pharao vnto hys ſeruauntes: where ſhall we fynde ſuche a man as this is, in whom is the ſpirite of GOD? And Pharao ſayd vnto Joſeph: for as much as GOD hath ſhewed the all thys, there is no man of vnderſtandyng or of wyſdome lyke vnto ꝑ. Thou therfore ſhalte be *ouer my houſe, & accordynge to thy worde ſhall all my people be ruled, onely in the kynges ſeate wyll I be aboue ꝑ. And Pharao ſayde agayne vnto Joſeph: behold, I haue ſet the ouer al ꝑ land of Egypt. And he toke of his ringe frō his hande, & put it vpon Joſephs hande, & arayed hym in cloth of raynes, & put a golden cheyne aboute hys necke, and ſet hym vpon the beſt charet ꝑ he had, ſaue one. And they cryed before hym: Bowe the knee, and Pharao made him ruler ouer all the lande of Egypte. And Pharao ſayd vnto Joſeph: I am Pharao, without the ſhall no man lyfte vp hys hand or foote in all the lande of Egypte.

And he called Joſephs name Zaphnath Paena. And he gaue hym to wyfe Aſnath ꝑ doughter of Potipher preaſt of On. Then wente Joſeph abrode in ꝑ lande of Egypte. And he was thyrtie yere olde when he ſtode before Pharao kynge of Egypte. And Joſeph departynge frō the preſence of Pharao, went thorowe out all the lande of Egypte. And in the ſeuen plenteous yeres they made ſhewes and gathered vp all the foode of ꝑ ſeuen plenteous yeres which were in the lande of Egypte, and layde vp the ſame in the cities. The foode of ꝑ feldes that grewe rounde about euery citie, layde he vp in the ſame. And Joſeph layde vp corne in ſtoore, lyke vnto the ſande of the ſee, in multitude out of meaſure, vntyl he lefte nombryng: for it was wyth out nombre. And vnto Joſeph were borne two ſonnes (before the yeres of hunger came) which Aſnath ꝑ doughter of Potipher preaſt of On bare vnto him. And Joſeph called ꝑ name of the firſte ſonne* Manaſſe, for GOD (ſayde he) hath made me forget all my labour and al my fathers houſeholde. The name of the ſeconde called he Ephraim, for GOD (ſayde he) hath cauſed me to growe in the land of my trouble.

And when the ſeuen yeres of plenteouſnes that was in ꝑ lande of Egypte were ended, then came ꝑ ſeuen yeres of *derth, accordyng as Joſeph had ſayd. And ꝑ derth was in al landes: but in al ꝑ lande of Egypte was there yet foode. And when ꝑ lande of Egypt alſo begā to hunger, the people cryed to Pharao for breade. And Pharao ſayde vnto all the Egyptians, go vnto Joseph, and what he sayth to you, that do. And the derth was throwout all ꝑ lande. And Joseph opened all that was in the cities, and solde vnto the Egyptians. For ꝑ hunger waxed sore in the lande of Egypte. And all cõtrees came to Egypte to Joseph for to bye corne: because ꝑ the hunger was so sore in all landes.

the

The xlij. Chapter.

Josephs brethren come into Egypte to bye corne and he knoweth them and tryeth them, Simeon is put in prison, the other returne to their father to fet the Ben Jamin. His father is loth to let hym go, but at the last he graunteth.

A And Jacob seynge ꝑ there was corne in Egypte, sayde vnto hys sonnes: why gape ye one vpon another? And he sayde: beholde, I haue heard that there is corne in Egypte. Get you downe thyther and bye vs corne from thence, that we maye lyue and not dye. So wente Josephs ten brethren downe to bye corne of the Egyptians. But Ben Jamin Josephs brother wolde not Jacob send wyth hys other brethren, for he sayde: lest some myssortune happen hym. And ꝑ sonnes of Israel came to bye corne amonge other that came, for there was derth in the land of Canaan. And Joseph was gouerner in ꝑ land, & solde to all the people of the lande. And hys brethren came, & fell flat on the grounde before him. ¶ When Joseph sawe his brethren, he knewe thẽ: & made hym selfe straunge vnto them, & spake roughly vnto them, sayinge: Whence come ye? They answered: out of ꝑ land of Canaan, to bye vytayle. And Joseph knewe hys brethren, but they knewe not him.

B And Joseph remembred hys * dreames which he dreamed of them, & saide vnto them: ye are spyes, & to se where ꝑ land is weake is your comminge. And they sayde vnto hym: naye my lord, but to bye vitayle thy seruaũtes are come. We are all one mans sonnes, & meane truly, and thy seruaũtes are no spyes. And he sayde vnto them agayne, naye, but euen to se where ꝑ lande is weake, is youre commynge. And they sayde: we thy seruauntes are twelue brethrẽ the sonnes of one man in ꝑ lande of Canaan. And beholde, the yongest is this daye wyth oure father, and one no mã woteth where he is. And Joseph sayde vnto thẽ, that is it ꝑ I spake vnto you, saying: ye are spyes. Hereby ye shalbe proued. By the lyfe of Pharao, ye shall not go hence, except your yongest brother come hither. Sende out one of you whiche maye fet your brother, and ye shal be kepte in prison, that youre wordes maie be proued, whether there be any truth in you: or els by ꝑ lyfe of Pharao, ye are but spyes. And he put them in ward thre dayes. And Joseph sayd vnto them the thyrde day: Thys do & lyue, for I feare GOD. yf ye meane no hurte, lette one of your brethren be bounde in the house of your prison, & goo ye and bringe the necessarie foode vnto youre housholdes, but bryng your yongest brother vnto me: ꝑ your wordes maye be tryed, & ꝑ ye dye not. And they dyd so. And one sayde to another: we haue verely synned agaynste our brother, in that we sawe ꝑ anguish of hys soule when he besought vs, & we wolde not heare him, & therfore is this trouble come vpon vs. And Ruben answered them saying: sayde I not vnto you ꝑ ye shulde not * synne agaynste the lad: and ye wolde not heare. And se hys bloude is required. They were not aware that Joseph vnderstode, them for he spacke vnto them by an interpreter. And he turned from them, & wepte. * & turned to them agayne, & comened wt them, & toke out Simeon from amonge thẽ, & bounde him before theyr eyes: and Joseph commaunded to fyll theyr sackes wyth corne, & to put euery mans money in hys sacke, & to geue them vytayle to spende by the waye. And thus did he vnto them. And they laded theyr asses with the corne and departed thence. And as one of them opened hys sacke, for to geue hys asse prouendre in ꝑ Inne, he spied his money: for it was in hys sackes mouth. And he sayde vnto hys brethren, my money is restored me agayne: For lo, it is euen in my sacke. And theyr herte fayled them, & they were astoined, & saide one to another: why hath GOD dealte thus wt vs? And they came vnto Jacob theyr father vnto ꝑ lande of Canaan, and tolde him al that had happened them, saying: The man, euen the lorde of the land spake roughly to vs, and toke vs for spyes of ꝑ countre. And we sayde vnto him: we meane trulye, and are no spyes. We be twelue

And after that his brethrē talked with him. And the tydynges came vnto Pharaos house, so that they sayde: Josephs brethren are come, and it pleased Pharao well and all his seruauntes.

C And Pharao spake vnto Joseph: say vnto thy brethren, this do ye: lade your beastes and get you hence, vnto the lande of Canaan. Take youre father, & your housholdes: and come vnto me, & I will geue you the good of the lande of Egipte, and ye shall eate of the fat of the lande. And thou also shalt cōmaūde thē. This do ye: take charrettes with you out of the land of Egipte, for your children and for your wiues: and bring your father, and come. Also regard not your stuffe, for the good of all the land of Egypte is yours.

And the children of Israell dyd euen so. And Joseph gaue them charettes, accordyng to the commaundemente of Pharao, and gaue them vytayle also to spende by the waye.

And he gaue vnto eche of thē chaunge of rayment: But vnto Ben Jamin he gaue three hundred peces of syluer, & fyue chaunge of raiment. And vnto his father he sente after the same maner ten asses ladē with good out of Egipte, and ten she asses laden wt corne, breade and mete: for his father by the waye.

So sente he his brethren awaye to departe. And he sayde vnto them: se that ye fall not out by the waye.

They departed therefore from Egypte, and came into ỳ lande of Canaan vnto Jacob theyr father, and tolde him, sayinge: Joseph is yet alyue and is gouerner ouer all the lande of Egypte. And Jacobs herte wauered: for he beleued thē not. And they tolde hym all the wordes of Joseph which he had sayde vnto them. And when he saw the charettes, whiche Joseph had sente to carye him, the spirite of Jacob their father reuyued. And Israel sayd: I haue ynough that Joseph my sonne is yet a lyue: I wyll go and se hym yer that I dye.

The.xlvii. Chapter.

¶ Jacob commeth before Pharao and vnto hym is geuen the land of Gosan, He maketh his sonne to sweare for his buriall

JOseph came therefore and tolde Pharao, and said: my father and my bzethzen, theyz shepe & theyz oxen, & all that they haue, are come out of the lande of Canaan, & beholde: they are in the lande of Gosan. And Joseph toke of the hynmost of his bzethzen: euē fyue men, & presented them vnto Pharao. And Pharao sayde vnto his bzethzen: what is your occupacion? And they answered Pharao: shepeheardes are thy seruauntes, bothe we and also our fathers. They sayd moreouer vnto Pharao: for to* sogeorne in ꝑ lande are we come, for thy seruauntes haue no pasture for their shepe, so sore is the famishment in ꝑ land of Canaan. Now therfore let thy seruauntes dwel in the lande of Gosan.

Ge.xlvi.a.

And Pharao sayde vnto Joseph: thy father and thy bzethzen are come vnto the. The lande of Egypte is before the: In the best place of the land make both thy father and thy bzethzen dwel: euen in the lande of Gosan let them dwell. Moreouer, yf thou knowe any man of actiuytie among them, make thē rulers ouer my catell. And Joseph bzought in Jacob his father, & set him before Pharao. And Jacob blessed Pharao.

And Pharao sayed vnto Jacob: how olde arte thou? And Jacob sayde vnto Pharao: the dayes of my pilgrimage are an hundzed and thyrtye yeres. Few & euell haue the dayes of my lyfe bene, and haue not attayned vnto the yeres of the lyfe of my fathers, in the daies of theyz pylgrimages. And Jacob blessed Pharao and went out from him. And Joseph prepared dwellynges for hys father & his bzethzen, & gaue them possessions in the lande of Egypte, in the best of the lande: euen in the land of Rameses, as Pharao had commaunded. And Joseph made prouision for his father, his bzethzen, and all his fathers housholde, with bzeade, euen as ponge childzē are fedde. There was no bzeade in all the lande, for the dearth was exceedyng sore: so that the lande of Egipte and the lande of Canaan, were famished by the reason of the dearth. Then sayde Joseph: bring youre cattell, & I will geue you for your cattel, yf ye be without money. And they brought their cattel vnto Joseph. And Joseph gaue them breade for horses & shepe and oxen, & asses, and fed them with breade, for all their cattell that yere. But whē ỳ yere was ended, they came vnto him the next yere, & said vnto him: we wyl not hyde it frō my lorde howe that our money is spent, my lord also had our cattell and beastes, neither is there ought left in ỳ sight of my lord, but euen our bodyes and oure landes. wherefore letterst thou vs dye before thine eyes, & the land to go to noughte? bye vs & our landes for bread: & both we & our landes wyl be bound to Pharao. Onely geue vs sede, ỳ we maye lyue & not dye, & that the land go not to wast. And so Joseph bought all ỳ land of Egypte for Pharao. For the Egipcians solde euery man hys lande because the derth was so sore vpon thē, & so the land became Pharaos. And he appointed ỳ people vnto ỳ cyties, frō one syde of Egipte vnto the other: only ỳ land of the Prestes boughte he not. For ỳ Prestes had an ordynaunce of Pharao, ỳ they should eate ỳ which was appointed vnto thē, which Pharao had geuen them: wherfore they solde not theyr landes.

Then Joseph sayde vnto the folke: beholde I haue bought you this daye and your lād for Pharao. Take there bread & seede & sow the lande. And of the encrease, ye shall geue the fyfte parte vnto Pharao, & foure partes shal be your owne, for the sede of ỳ feld and for you, and thē of your housholdes, & for youre children, to eate. And they answered: Thou hast saued our lyues. Let vs find grace in the sight of my Lorde, and we wil be Pharaos seruauntes. And Joseph made it a lawe ouer the lande of Egipte vnto thys daye: that Pharao should haue the fifte parte, excepte the lande of the Prestes onely, which was not Pharaos.

And Israel dwelte in Egypte: euē in the cōtrey of Gosā. And they had their possessiōs therin, & grewe & multiplyed exceadyngly. Moreouer, Jacob lyued in the lande of Egypte seuentene yeres, so that the whole age of Jacob was an hundred & .xlvii. yere. When the tyme drewe nye that Israel must dye, he sent for his sonne Joseph, & saide vnto him: yf I haue fond grace in thy syght, Oh, put thy hand now vnder my thigh, and deale mercyfully & truely with me, that thou burye me not in Egypte, but I wil lye with my fathers, & thou shalt carye me oute of Egipte, & burye me in their buriall. And he answered: I wyll do as thou hast sayd. And he sayd * swere vnto me, and he sware vnto him. And Israel worshypped towarde the beddes head.

The.xlviii. Chapter.

Jacob lyeth sicke. He desyreth Ephraim and Manasses for his sonnes, and blessed them.

After these dedes it happened, that a messaunger sayde vnto Joseph: thy father is sycke. And he toke with him his two sonnes Manasses and Ephraim. Then was it said vnto Jacob, beholde: thy sonne Joseph cōmeth vnto the. And Israel toke his strength vnto him and satte vpon the bed, and Jacob sayd vnto Joseph: God almyghtye appered vnto me at * Lus in the lande of Canaan, and blessed me, & said vnto me: beholde, I wyll make the growe, & wyl multiplye the, and wyll make a greate *nōber of people of the, & wil geue this land vnto thy sede after the to an euerlasting possession. And nowe thy two sonnes Manasses and Ephraim which were borne vnto the in the lande of Egypte, before I came to the into Egipt, are mine: euen as Ruben and Simeon are mine. And the children which thou hast gotten after thē, shalbe thyne own and shalbe called after ỳ names of their brethren in their enheritaunce. And when I came frō Mesopotamia, Rahel *died vpō my hand in ỳ land of Canaan, by the waye when there was but a feldes breadth to come vnto Ephrat. And I buried her there in the waye to Ephrat. The same is Bethlehem. And Israel beheld Josephs sonnes & saide: what are these? Joseph sayde vnto hys father, they are my sonnes which GOD hath geuen me here. And he sayde, oh, bring thē to me, & let me blesse thē. And the eyes of Israel were dym for age, so ỳ he could not well se. And he brought them to hym, and he kyssed them & embraced braced them. And Israel sayd vnto Joseph: I had not thought to haue sene thy face, & yet lo, GOD hath shewed it me, & also thy sede: & Joseph toke them away frō his lap, & worshipped on the ground before him. Then toke Joseph thē both: Ephraim vp his right hande towarde Israels left hand, and Manasses with his lefte hande, towarde Israels right hande, & brought them vnto him. And Israel stretched out hys right hande, & layde it on Ephraims head, whiche was the yonger, & his lefte hande vpon Manasses head, guidig his hādes wisely for Manasses was the elder. And he blessed Joseph and sayde: GOD before whom my fathers Abraham & Isahac dyd walke, GOD which hath fed me all my lyfe long vnto this day, & the angell whiche hath delyuered me from al euel, blesse the laddes, & let my name be named in them, & the name of my fathers Abraham & Isahac and that they may grow into a multitude in ỹ myddes of the earth. When Joseph sawe that hys father layde his ryght hande vpon the head of Ephraim, it displesed him. And he lifted vp his fathers hande to haue remoued it from Ephraims head vnto Manasses heade, & Joseph sayde vnto his father: not so my father for this is ỹ eldest. Put thy ryght hande vpon hys head. And hys father wouldenot, but sayd: I know it well my sonne, I know it well. He shalbe also a people & shalbe great. But his yonger brother shalbe greater then he, and his sede shall be ful of people. And he blessed them ỹ day and sayde: In the, let Israel blesse and say: GOD make the as Ephraim before Manasses. And Israel sayde vnto Joseph: beholde, I dye. And GOD shalbe with you & bryng you agayne vnto the lād of your fathers. Moreouer, I haue

The.l.Chapter.

Jacob is buried/ Joseph forgeueth his brethren the iniurie that they dyd to him. And he dyeth.

AND Joseph commaunded hys seruauntes the Phisicions, to embaume hys father, and the phisicions embawmed Israel fortie dayes longe, for so longe doeth the embawmynge laste, and the Egipcians bewailed hym. lxx. dayes. And when the dayes of weppyng were ended, Joseph spake vnto ỹ house of Pharao, saying: yf I haue found fauoure in your eyes, speake in the eares of Pharao, saying: my father made me sweare and sayd: loe, I dye,* burye me in my graue, which I haue made me in the lande of Chanaan. Nowe therfore let me go and bury my father, and then wyll I come againe. And Pharao said: goe and burye thy father, according as he made the to sweare. And Joseph wēt vp to burye his father, & with him wēt al the seruauntes of Pharao ỹ wer the elders of his house, & all the elders of ỹ lande of Egipt, & all ỹ house of Joseph, and his brethren, & his fathers house: onely their childrē, and their shepe, and their cattell lefte they behynde in ỹ lāde of Gosan. And there went with him also charets and horsemē: and it was an exceedynge great company. And they came to the corne floze of Atad whiche is beyonde Jordane, & there they made a great and exceedinge sore lamentaciō: And he* mourned for his father seuen dayes. And when the inhabiters of the lande (euen the Cananites) saw the mournynge in the corne floze of Atad, they sayde: this is a great mournynge vnto the Egipcians: wherfore ỹ name of the place is called the mourninge of the Egipcians, & it is beyond Jordane: and his sonnes did vnto him, accordige as he had commaunded them. For his sonnes caryed him* into the lande of Canaan, and buried him in the double caue of the felde whiche caue* Abraham bought and the felde also, to be a place to burye in, of Ephrō the Hethite before Mamre. And Joseph returned into Egipte againe, he & his brethren (and al that went vp wt him to bury his father,) assone as he had buried hym.

And when Josephs brethren sawe that their father was deade, they said: Joseph might fortune to hate vs & *reward vs againe all the euel which we dyd vnto him,. And they dyd a commaundement vnto Joseph, saying: thy father charged vs before his death saying: This wyse shall ye saye vnto Joseph: forgeue (I praye thee) ỹ trespace of thy brethren, & their syn: for they rewarded ỹ euel. And now (we praye the) forgeue ỹ trespace of ỹ seruauntes of thy

The first Chapter.

The children of Jacob are nombred. The new Pharao oppresseth thē. The acte of the godly midwyues.

THese are ꝑ names of the childrē of Israel, which came to Egipt with Jacob euery man came wt his household: Rubē Ge.xlvi.d.
Simeō Leui, & Iuda, Isachar, Zabulō, & Bēiamin, Dan Nephtali, Gad, & Asar. All the soules that came out of ꝑ loynes of Jacob were. lxx. But Joseph was in Egipt already. And Joseph dyed and all his brethren, and all the ge- Actes.vii.c

grewe encreased, multiplyed, & wared exceadig mightye: & ꝑ lād was ful of thē.

But there rose vp a new kyng in Egipt, whiche knewe not Joseph. And he sayde vnto his folke: beholde, ꝑ people of the childrē of Israel are greater and mightier then we. Come on, let vs play wysely with them, lest they multiplye, and lest it happen, that (yf there chaūce any warre) they ioyne them selues vnto our enemyes, and fyght against vs, and so get them out of the lande. Therfore did they set taskemasters ouer thē, to kepe them vnder with burdens. And they buylt vnto Pharao treasure cityes: Phiton and Rameses. But ꝑ more they vered them, ꝑ more they multiplied & grew, so ꝑ they abhorred ꝑ childrē of Israell. And the Egipcians helde the childrē of Israel in bondage without mercye. Therfore was their lyfe bitter vnto them in that cruel bōdage, in clay and bricke, and al maner of worke in ꝑ feldes. For al their bondage which they serued them, was full of tyrannye.

And the kyng of Egipte sayde vnto the mydwyues of the Hebrues women, of which ꝑ ones name was Sephora and the other Phua: when ye do the office of a midwyfe to the women of ꝑ Hebrues and se in ꝑ birthe tyme that it is a boye, ye shal kyl it. But if it be a doughter, it shal lyue. Notwithstandinge the mydwiues feared GOD, & did not as ꝑ kyng of Egipt cōmaunded them, but saued ꝑ men childrē. And the kyng of Egipte called for ꝑ midwyues, & said vnto thē: why haue you delt on this maner, and haue saued ꝑ men childrē? And ꝑ mydwyues answered Pharao, that ꝑ Hebrues wemen are not as the wemen of Egipte: for they are stur dy wemō, and are delyuered yer the mydwyues come at them. And GOD therfore delt wel wt the mydwyues And the people multiplyed & wared very mightie. And it fortuned because the mydwyfes feared GOD, he made them houses. And Pharao charged all his people: sayinge. All the men childrē that are borne caste into the ryuer, and saue the maydechildren alyue.

The .ii. Chapter.

¶ Moses is borne and cast into the flagges. He is taken vp of Pharaos doughter. He kylleth the Egipcian. He flyeth and marieth a wyfe. The Israelites crye vnto the Lorde

And

AND there went a man of* ꝑ house of Leui: And toke a doughter of Leui. And the wyfe cõceaued, and bare a sonne. And whẽ she sawe that it was a prouyde childe* she hyd him three monethes: And when she coulde no lẽger hyde him, she toke a basket of bulrushes & daubed it with slyme & pitche, and layde the childe therin & put it in the flagges by ꝑ ryuer brynke. And his syster stode a far of to wete what wold come of it.* And the doughter of Pharao came downe* to washe her selfe in ꝑ ruer, & her maydens walked a lõg by the ryuers syde. And when she saw the basket amonge the flagges: she sẽte her mayde to fetche it. And when she had opened it, she sawe it was a childe: and beholde, the babe wepte. And she had compassion on it, and sayde: it is one of the Hebrues childrẽ. Then sayde his syster vnto Pharaos doughter: shall I goe & cal vnto thee a nurse of ꝑ Hebrue wemen to nurse thee the childe? Pharaos doughter answered her: So. And the maide ranne and called the childes mother. To whom Pharaos doughter sayde: Take this childe awaye, & nurse it for me, I wyll rewarde the. And the woman toke the chylde and nursed it vp. The chylde grewe, and she brought it vnto Pharaos doughter, and it was made her son, and she called the name of it Moses, because (sayde she) I toke him out of the water. And it happened in those daies, whẽ Moses was wared greate, that he went out vnto his brethren and loked on their burdens, and spyed an Egipcian smyting an Hebrue whiche was one of his brethrẽ. And he loked rounde about, and when he sawe no mã by, he slew the Egipciã, and hyd him in ꝑ sande. And when he was gone out another day, beholde: two Hebrues stroue together. And he sayd vnto him that dyd the wrong: wherfore smytest thou thy felowe? He answered:* who made the a man of auctorite to iudge vs? Speakest thou to kyll me, as thou killedst the Egipciã? And Moses feared, and sayde: of a suerte this thinge is knowne: And Pharao hearde of it, and went about to slee Moses.

And Moses flyng frõ ꝑ face of Pharao, dwelt in the lande of Midian, & he sat downe by a welles syde. The preast of Midian had seuen doughters which came and drewe water, and fylled the troughes, for to water their fathers shepe. And the shepherds came & droue them awaye: but Moses stode vp and helped them, and watered their shepe. And when they came to Raguel theyr father, he sayde: how happeneth it that ye are come so soone to daye? And they answered: a man of Egipte delyuered vs from the hãde of the shepherds, and so drew vs water, & watered ꝑ shepe. He said vnto his doughters. And wher is he: why haue ye so lefte ꝑ man? Call him that he maye eate bread. And Moses was contento dwel with the mã.

And he gaue Moses zephora his doughter, which whẽ she bare a sonne, D
* called him Gerson: for he said, I haue bene a straunger in a straunge lande. Ex.ii.b

(And she bare yet another sonne, whome he called Eliezer sayyng, the God of my father is myne helper and hath ryd me out of the handes of Pharao.)

And it chaunced in processe of tyme ꝑ the kynge of Egipte dyed, and ꝑ childrẽ of Israel syghed by the reason of bondage, & cryed. And their complaynt came vp vnto GOD from the bondage: and GOD hearde their mone. And GOD remembred his promyse with Abrahã, Isahac & Jacob. And GOD loked vpon the childrẽ of Israel, and GOD had respect vnto them.

The.iii. Chapter.

Moses kepeth shepe. God appeareth vnto him in a bushe, and sendeth him to the children of Israel, and to Pharao that straunge.

MOses kepte ꝑ shepe of * Jethro his father in law, preast of Midian, and he droue the flocke to the backeside of the desert, and came to the mountaine of GOD, Horeb.* And the angell of the LORDE appeared vnto him in a flame of fyre out of the myddes of a bushe. And he loked, & beholde, the bushe burned with fyre, and the bushe was not cõsumed. Therfore Moses sayde: I wyll go nowe, and se this greate syghte, howe it commeth that the bushe burneth not. And when the LORDE sawe ꝑ he came forto se, GOD called vnto him out of the myddes of ꝑ bushe, and sayde: Moses, Moses. He answered: here am I. And he sayde: B come not hither, put thy shoes of thy fete: for ꝑ place wheron thou stodest is holy groũde. And he said: I am ꝑ God

Mat.xxii.c. Mar.xii.c. Luke.xx.c. of thy father, the GOD of Abraha, the GOD of Isahac, and the GOD of Jacob. And Moses hyd hys face, for he was afrayde to loke vpon GOD.

And the LORDE sayd, I haue surely sene ꝑ trouble of my people which are in Egipte, and *haue heard theyr crye Exo.iii.c. Deut.xxi. from the face of their taskmasters. For I knowe their sorowes, and am come C downe to deliuer them out of the hãde of the Egipcians, & to bryng them out of that lande vnto a good lande and a large: & vnto a lande that floweth with mylke and hony euen vnto the place of the Cananites & Hethites, and Amorites, and Pherezites, and Heuites, and of the Iebusites. Nowe therfore, the complaint of the childzen of Israel is come vnto me, and I haue also sene the oppression wherwith ꝑ Egipcians oppresse them. Come thou therfore, and I wyll sende the vnto Pharao, that thou mayest bryng my people the childzen of Israel out of Egipte. And Moses sayd D vnto GOD: what am I to go vnto Pharao, and to bryng the childzen of Israel out of Egipte? And he answered: I wyll be with the. And this shalbe a token vnto the, that I haue sente the: after that thou haste brought the people out of Egipte, ye shall serue GOD vpon this mountayne. And Moses sayd vnto GOD: beholde, whẽ I come vnto the childzen of Israel I shal say vnto them: the GOD of your fathers hath sent me vnto you: and if they say vnto me, what is his name, what answere shal I giue them? And GOD answered Moses: I am that I am: & he sayd, this shalt thou saye vnto the chyldzen of Israel: I am hath sent me vnto you. And God spake further vnto Moses: thus shalte thou Deut.xi.c saye vnto the chyldzen of Israel * the LORD GOD of your fathers, the GOD of Abraham, the GOD of Isahac, & the GOD of Jacob, hath sent me vnto you: this is my name for euer, & this is my memorial into generatiõ & generatiõ. Go & gather the elders of Israel together, & thou shalt say vnto thẽ: ꝑ LORD GOD of your fathers, ꝑ GOD of Abra- I ham, the GOD of Isahac, & the GOD of Jacob appeared vnto me, and sayd: In visiting haue I visited you and knowe that whyche is done to you in Egipte. And I haue said, I wyll bryng you out of the tribulacion of Egipte vnto the lande of the Cananites, and Hethites, & Amorites, & Pherezites, & Heuites, and Iebusites: euen vnto a lande that floweth with mylke & hony. And when they heare thy voice then go: both thou and the elders of Israel shall go vnto the kynge of Egipt, and say vnto hym: The LORD GOD of the Hebrues hath met wyth vs: & nowe wyll we go therfore .iii. dayes iourney into the wildernesse, and do sacrifice vnto the LORDE G our GOD. And I am sure, that ꝑ kyng of Egipt wyll not let you go: no not in a myghtye hande: & I wyll stretch out myne hande and smyte Egipt wyth all my wonders whyche I wyll do in the myddest therof. And after that he wyll let you go. And *I wyl get this people Exo.xi. and xii.c fauoure in the syght of the Egipcians: so that when ye go, ye shal not go empty: but a wyfe shall borow of her neyghbours and of her that sogeorneth in her house, iewels of syluer & golde, and raymẽt. And ye shal put them on your sonnes and doughters, and shal robbe the Egipcians.

¶ The.iiii. Chapter.

¶ Moses reteareth signes of his calling, and was sent into Egipt. His wife Sephora circumcised her son. Aaron meteth with Moses. Moses taketh his leaue of his father in law.

MOses answered & said: Se, they wyll not beleue me nor hearken vnto my voyce: but wyll saye, the LORD hath not appeared vnto the. And the LORDE sayd vnto him: what is that which is in thy hande? he answered, a rodde. And he sayd: caste it on the grounde. And he caste it on the ground, & it became a serpẽt. And Moses fled frõ the syght of it. And ꝑ LORD sayd vnto Moses: put forth thyne hãde & take it by the tayle. And therfore he put forth hys hande and caught it, & it became a rodde in hys hande. For this thyng (sayeth he) shal they beleue the that the LORD GOD of theyr fathers, ꝑ GOD of Abrahã, ꝑ GOD of Isahac, & ꝑ GOD of Jacob hath appered vnto ꝑ.

And the LORDE sayd forthermore vnto hym: thrust thyne hande into thy bosome. And he thrust his hande into his bosome. And when he toke it out agayne, beholde: his hãde was leprous euen as snowe. And he sayd: put thyne hãd into thy bosome agayn. And he put his hãd into his bosome again, & pluckt it out it out of his bosome, & beholde, it was turned againe as his other flesshe.

Therfore yf they wyl not beleue ỹ, nether heare the voyce of ỹ first tokē, yet wyll they beleue for the voyce of the seconde token. But and yf they wyl not beleue the two sygnes, nether herken vnto thy voice, thou shalte take of the water of the ryuer, and powre it vppon the drye lande. And the water whiche thou takest out of the riuer, shall turne to bloude vppon the drye lande.

C Moses sayd vnto the LORDE: oh my LORDE, I am not eloquente from yesterday and peryesterdaye, and namely sence thou hast spokē vnto thy seruaūt: but I am slow mouthed & slow tunged. Exo.iv.a
And ỹ LORD sayd vnto him: who hath made mās mouthe, or who hath made ỹ dūme or the deafe, ỹ syeng or ỹ blynd: haue not I the LORDE? Therfore* I Meth.i.f wylbe with thy mouthe, and teache the what thou shalte saye. He sayde: oh my LORDE, sende I praye the by the hande of him whome thou wilt sende. And the LORDE was angry with Moses, and sayde: Do not I knowe Aaron thy brother ỹ Leuite, that he can speake? For lo, he commeth forthe to mete the, and when he seeth the, he wylbe glad in his herte. Therfore thou shalte speake vnto him, and put these wordes in his D mouthe, & I wyll be with thy mouthe & with his mouth, & wil teache you what ye ought to do. And he shalbe thy spokesman vnto the people: he also shall be thy mouthe, & thou shalte be his GOD: and thou shalt take this rod in thy hād, wherwith thou shalte do miracles.
Therfore Moses wēt and returned to Iethro his father in lawe againe, and sayde vnto him: I wil go nowe, & turne againe vnto my brethren whiche are in Egipt, and se whether they be yet alyue. And Iethro sayde to Moses, goe in peace. And ỹ LORDE sayd vnto Moses in Midian: goe and returne again into Egipte, for they are deade which wēt Exo.iv.b about to kyll the. And Moses toke his E wyfe, and his sonnes, and put them on an asse, and went againe to Egipt, and Moses toke ỹ rod of GOD in his hāde. And ỹ LORDE sayd vnto Moses: Whē thou art entred and come into Egipte againe, se that thou do all these wonders before Pharao, which I haue put F in thy hād: but I wil holde his herte, and he shall not let the people go: And Exo. i.c
thou shalte say vnto Pharao, thus sayeth the LORDE: Israel is myne eldest sonne, & I haue sayd vnto the that thou shuldest let my sonne go, ỹ he may serue me, and thou woldest not let him go: behold, I wil*slē thyne eldest sonne.
And it chaunced by ỹ way in the inne Exo. iiii.e. ỹ the LORDE met him, & wolde haue kylled him. And Zephora toke a stone, & cut away ỹ foreskynne of her sonne, and fell at his fete, and sayd: a bloudy husbande arte thou vnto me. Then he let him go. And she sayd a bloudye husbande, because of the circumcisiō. Thē sayde the LORDE vnto Aaron: go mete G
Moses in the wyldernesse. And he wēt and met him in the mount of GOD and kyssed him. And Moses tolde Aaron al the wordes of the LORDE whiche had sent him, & all the tokens which he had charged him withal. So wente Moses and Aaron, and gathered al the elders of the children of Israel. And Aaron tolde all the wordes whiche the LORD had spoken vnto Moses, & dyd the miracles in the sight of the people, & the people beleued. And when they hearde that ỹ LORD had visited the childrē of Israel, & hadloked vpō their tribulaciō, they bowed their heade, & worshypped.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

Moses and Aaron do go vnto Pharao. The people of Israel are oppressed more and more, and they cry out vpon Moses and Aaron therfore.

MOses and Aaron went in afterwarde, and tolde Pharao, thus I sayth ỹ LORDE GOD of Israel: Let my people go, that they maye kepe holy day vnto me in the wyldernesse.
And Pharao said: who*is the LORDE, Iob.xxi.b that I shoulde heare his voyce, and let Israel go: I knowe not the LORDE, neyther wyll I let Israel go. And they sayde: the GOD of the Hebrues hath met with vs: & therfore wyl we go thre dayes iourney in the deserte and sacrifice vnto ỹ LORD our GOD: leest there happen vnto vs, either pestilence or swearde. Then sayd the king of Egipt vnto them: wherfore do ye (Moses and Aaron) lette ỹ people frō their worke: get you vnto your labour. And Pharao sayd furthermore: beholde, there is muche people nowe in the lande, and ye make them leaue their worke. And Pharao cōmaūded ỹ same daye vnto ỹ taskmasters whiche were amonge the people, and vnto the officers, saying: ye shal geue the people nomore strawe to

B make bricke withal, as ye dyd in tyme passed, but let them go and gather them straw them selues, and the nombre of bricke which they wer wonte to make in tyme passed lay vnto their charges also, and mynisshe nothinge therof, for they be ydle, & therfore crye saying: we wil go and do sacrifice vnto our GOD. They muste haue more worke layde vpon them, that they may labour therin and not regarde vayne wordes.

Then went the taskmasters of ꝑ people & ꝑ officers out, and tolde ꝑ people: Thus sayeth Pharao: I wyl geue you nomore strawe, go your selues and gather you strawe where ye can fynde it, yet shall none of your labour be mynished. And so were the people scatered abrode throwout al ꝑ lande of Egipt: for to gather stubble in steade of straw.
C And the taskemasters hasted them forwarde, saying: fulfyl our worke day by daye, euen as yf ye had strawe. And the officers of the childzen of Israel which Pharaos taskemasters had set ouer them, were beaten. And they sayd vnto them: wherfore haue ye not fulfylled your taske in makynge bricke, bothe yesterday and to daye, as well as in tymes past? The officers also of the childzen of Israel came and complayned vnto Pharao, sayinge: wherfore dealest thou thus with thy seruauntes? ther is no strawe geuen to thy seruaũtes, and they saye vnto vs: make bricke. And thy seruauntes are beatẽ, and thy people is foule intreated. He sayde, ydell are ye, ydell, and therfore ye saye: we wyll go and do sacrifice vnto ꝑ LORD. Go therfore now and worke and there shall no strawe be geuen you, & yet shal ye delyuer the whole tale of bricke.
D And the officers of the childzen of Israel did with heuinesse loke on thẽ that sayd: ye shall mynisshe nothinge of your dayly e makyng of bricke. And they met Moses and Aaron which stode in their waye as they came out from Pharao, and sayde vnto them: The LORD loke vpon you and iudge you, whiche hathe made the sauoure of vs stincke in the eyes of Pharao and in the eyes of his seruaũtes: & haue put a swearde in their hãde to slee vs. Moses returned vnto the LORDE, & sayd: LORD, wherfore hast thou delt cruelly w̄ this people, & wherfore haste thou sent me? for sence I came to Pharao to speake in thy name, he hath tared foule w̄ this folke, & yet thou hast not deliuered thy people at all. Then the LORD sayd vnto Moses: Nowe shalt thou se, what I wil do vnto Pharao, for in a mighty hãd shal he let them go, and *in a mighty hande shall he dryue them out of his lande. Exo.xi.

The. vi. Chapter.

God promyseth the delyueraunce of the Israelytes and the lande of Chanaan. The genealogy of Ruben Simeon, and Leui.

AND GOD spake vnto Moses, and sayd vnto him: I am ꝑ LORDE: I appeared vnto Abrahã, Isaac, and Iacob as an almighty GOD: and in my name Iehouah, was I not knowẽ vnto thẽ. Moreouer* I made an appointment w̄ them to geue them the lãde of Chanaan: ꝑ lande of their pilgremage, wherin they were straũgers. And I haue also herde the gronynge of ꝑ childrẽ of Israel, whó the Egiptians kepe in bondage, & haue remẽbred my couenaunt. Wherfore saye vnto the childrẽ of Israel: I am ꝑ LORDE, I wil bring you oute from the burthens of ꝑ Egiptians, and wil ryd you out of their bondage, and wyll delyuer you in a stretched out arme & in greate iudgemẽtes. And I wil take you for my people, and wil be to you a GOD. And ye shal know that I am ꝑ LORDE your GOD, which brynge you out from ꝑ burthens of the Egiptians. And I wyll bryng you vnto the lande concernynge the which I wyll lyft vp myne hande to gyue it vnto Abraham, Isahac and Iacob, and wyll gyue it vnto you for a possession: euen in the LORDE. And Moses tolde the childrẽ of Israel euen so. C

But they herkened not vnto Moses, for anguysh of spirite and for cruel bõdage. The LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Go in, and speake vnto Pharao kynge of Egipt, that he let the childrẽ of Israel go out of this lãde. And Moses spake before the LORD, saying: beholde, the childrẽ of Israel hearken not vnto me, howe then shall Pharao heare me, which am of vncircũcised lippes? And ꝑ LORDE spake vnto Moses and vnto Aaron, & gaue them a charge vnto the childrē of Israel, & vnto Pharao kyng of Egipte, to bryng ꝑ childzen of Israel out of the lande of Egypte.

These be the heades of their fathers houses. The* childrē of Ruben ꝑ eldest sonne of Israel are these: Hanoh and ꝑ allu, Hezron & Charmi, these be the housholdes of Ruben. The childzen of Simeon Gemuel and Jamin, Ohad, & Jachin, Zoar, and Saul the sonne of a Cananitish wyfe: these are ꝑ kynredes of Simeon. These also* are the names of the childzen of Leui in their generacions: Gerson & Kahath and Merari. Leui lyued an hundzed and thyrty and seuen yere. The sōnes of Gerson: Libni & Semei by their kinredes. The childzen of Cahath, Amram & Jesear. Hebzon & Uliel. And Kahath lyued an hūdzed & thirtye & thzee yeare. The childzen of Merari: Maheli & Musi: these are the kinredes of Leui by their generacions. Amram toke Jochebed his nice to wyfe, & she bare him Aaron and Moses (and Mariam) And Amram liued an hundzed and thirtie & seuen yeare. The childzen of Jezear, Kozah, Nepheg, & Sichzi. The childzen of Uliel, Misael, Elzaphan, and Sichzi. And Aaron tooke Elizaba doughter of Amminadab: & syster of Nahalon to wyfe, whiche bare him Nadab, & Abihu, Eleazar & Ithamar. The childrē of Kozah: Assir, and Elcana, and Abiasaph: These are the kynredes of the Kozahytes. Eleasar Aarons sonne toke him one of ꝑ doughters of Putuel to wyfe, which bare him Pinehas, and these are the principall fathers of the Leuytes thorowout their kynredes. This is that Aaron and Moses to whome the Lozd sayde: cary the childzen of Israel out of the lande of Egypte, accozding to their armies. These are that Moses & Aarō which spake to Pharao kyng of Egipt, that they might bzyng the childzen of Israel out of Egipt. And in ꝑ day whē the LORDE spake vnto Moses in ꝑ lād of Egipt he spake vnto him, sayinge: I am the LORD, speake thou vnto Pharao the kynge of Egipte all that I saye vnto the. And Moses sayde before the LORD: Beholde, I am of* vncircumcised lyppes, and howe shall Pharao gyue me audience?

¶ The.vii.Chapter.

¶ The tokens to know God. The rod of Moses is turned to a serpent. The sorcerers do euen the same. The waters are turned into bloude.

AND the LORD sayde vnto Moses: beholde, I haue made the Pharaos GOD, & Aarō thy brother shall be thy prophet. Thou shalt speake all that I commaunded the, and Aarō thy brother shall speake vnto Pharao, that he sende the childrē of Israel out of his lande. And* I wyll harden Pharaos herte, and multiply my miracles & my wondzes in the lande of Egypte. But Pharao shall not hearken vnto you, ꝑ I may set myne hande vpon Egipt and bzynge out myne armyes and my people ꝑ childzen of Israel out of the lande of Egipte in great iudgementes, & the Egipcians shall knowe that I am the LORDE, when I stretche forth my hāde vpon Egipte, and bzyng out the childrē of Israel from amonge them.

Moses and Aaron did as the LORD commaunded them, euen so dyd they. Moses was. lxxx. yere olde, and Aaron. lxxxiii. when they spake vnto Pharao. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses & Aaron, saying: yf Pharao speake vnto you, saying: shewe a wondze, thou shalt say vnto Aaron: take thy rod and caste it before Pharao, that it maye be a serpent. Then went Moses and Aaron in vnto Pharao, & did euen as ꝑ LORD had commaunded. And Aarō cast forth his rod before Pharao & before his seruauntes* & it turned to a serpēt. Then Pharao called for the wyse men & sorcerers, and those wyse men of Egipte dyd in lyke maner with their sorcery. For they cast downe euery mā his rodde, and they turned to serpētes: but Aarons rodde dyd eate vp their rodes: and he hardened Pharaos herte, ꝑ he herkened not vnto them, euen as the LORDE had sayde.

The LORDE also sayd vnto Moses: Pharaos herte is hardened, he refuseth to let the people go. Get the vnto Pharao in ꝑ morninge, lo, he wil come vnto the water, & thou shalt stāde vpon the ryuers bzynke againste he come, & the rod whiche turned to a serpēt, shalt thou take in thine hāde. And thou shalt say vnto him: the LORDE GOD of the Hebzues hath sent me vnto the, saying:

Exo.vii.c let my people go, that they may serue me in the wildernesse: And beholde, hytherto thou woldest not heare. Thus saith ꝑ LORD. In this thou shalt know that I am the LORDE. Beholde, I wyll smyte (with the staffe that is in myne hande) the water that is in the ryuer, & it shall turne to bloude. And the fysshe that is in the ryuer shall dye, & ꝑ ryuer shall stynke, & it shall greue the Egyptians to drynke of ꝑ water of the riuer: and the LORDE spake vnto Moses, say vnto Aaron, take thy staffe, and stretch D out thyne hande ouer ꝑ waters of Egipt, ouer their streames, ouer their riuers and pondes, & all pooles of water whiche they haue, that they maye be bloude, and that there maye be bloude throwout al the lande of Egipte: both in vessels of wood & also of stone: And Moses & Aaron dyd euen as ꝑ LORDE commaũded. And he lyfte vp the staffe, and smote the waters that were in the ryuer in the sight of Pharao, and in the syght of his seruauntes: and al the water ꝑ was in the ryuer, tourned into bloude. And the fysh ꝑ was in the riuer dyed, and the ryuer stanke: and the Egyptians coulde not drynke of the waters of ꝑ ryuer. And there was bloude throwout all the lande of Egipte. And the enchaunters of Egypte dyd lykewyse with their sorceries: and he hardened Pharaos herte: neyther dyd he herken vnto them* as the LORDE had sayde. And Pharao turned hym selfe, & went againe into his house and set not his heart there vnto. And ꝑ Egipcians dygged roũde about ꝑ ryuer for water to drynke, for they coulde not drinke of the water of ꝑ riuer. And it cõtinued a weke after ꝑ LORD had smitten ꝑ riuer,

¶ The .viii. Chapter.

¶ The plage of frogges. Moses prayeth for Pharao. The plage of lyce

I THe LORDE spake vnto Moses: Go vnto Pharao, & tel him, thus saith the LORDE* let my people go, ꝑ they maye serue me. yf thou wilt not let them go: behold, I wil smyte al thy border with frogges. And ꝑ ryuer shall scrall with frogges whiche shall go vp and come into thyne house: and into thy pryuye chambre, where thou slepest, and vpon thy bed, & into ꝑ house of thy seruauntes, and vpõ the people, and into thyne ouens, & vpon thy meates. And ꝑ frogges shal come vpõ the, & on thy people, & vpõ al thy seruauntes.

Exo.viii.c & ix.a.c.a

*And the LORDE spake vnto Moses: B saye vnto Aaron: stretche forthe thyne hande with thy rod ouer the streames, ouer ꝑ ryuers, & ouer the pondes, that thou mayest bringe vp frogges vpõ the lande of Egipte: And Aaron stretched his hande ouer the waters of Egipte, and the frogges came vp, and couered the lande of Egipt. And the sorcerers dyd lykewyse with their sorcery, and brought frogges vp vpon the lande of Egypte. Then Pharao called for Moses and Aaron, & sayde: *praye ye vnto the LORDE that he may take away the frogges from me: and from my people, and I wil let the people go, ꝑ they may do sacrifice vnto the LORDE. And Moses sayde vnto Pharao: reioyce thou ouer me and appoynt whẽ I shal pray for the & for thy seruaũtes, and for thy people, to dryue awaye the frogges frõ the and thy houses, and that they maye remayne but in the ryuer onely. He sayde: to morowe. And he sayde: euẽ as thou hast sayde that thou mayest know that there is none lyke vnto the LORD our GOD. And so ꝑ frogges shal depart from the and from thy houses, from thy seruauntes: and from thy people, and shall remayne in the ryuer onely. Moses and Aaron went out from Pharao, and Moses cryed vnto ꝑ LORDE vpon the appoyntment of frogges, whiche he had made vnto Pharao. And ꝑ LORD dyd accordynge to ꝑ saying of Moses. And ꝑ frogges dyed out of the houses, out of ꝑ courtes & feldes. And they gathered them together vpõ heapes, and the lande stanke of thẽ. But whẽ Pharao sawe that he had rest geuen him, he D hardened his hert, & herkened not vnto them, as the LORD had sayde. And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses: saye vnto Aaron, stretche out thy rodde & smyte the dust of the lande, ꝑ it maye turne to lyse throwout all the lande of Egypt. And they dyd so. And Aaron stretched out his hãd, & wt his rod he smote ꝑ dust of ꝑ earth whiche turned to lyse in mẽ & beast so ꝑ al ꝑ dust of ꝑ lande tourned to lyse, throwout al ꝑ lãde of Egypt.

And the enchaũters assayde likewyse E wt their enchauntmẽtes to bryng forth lyse, but they coulde not. And the lyse were

were both vpon men and beastes. The sayde the enchaunters vnto Pharao: it is the fynger of GOD. And Pharaos herte remained obstinate, and he harkened not vnto them, euen * as the LORDE had sayde.

And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses: ryse vp earely in the mornyng, and stād before Pharao for he wyll come forth vnto ẏ water, and thou shalte say vnto him: thus sayeth the LORDE: Let my people goe, that they maye serue me. Els, if thou wylt not let my people go, beholde, I wyll sende al maner of flies both vpon the and thy seruaūtes, and thy people, and into thy houses. And the houses of ẏ Egyptians shalbe full of flyes, and the grounde wheron they are. And ẏ lande of *Gosan where my people are, wyll I cause to be wonderfull in that daye: so that there shall no flies be there. Wherby thou shalt know that I am the LORD in the myddes of ẏ earth. And I wyll put a deuysion betwene my people and thyne. And euen to morowe shall this miracle be done. And the LORDE did euen so: and there came noysom flyes into the house of Pharao, and into his seruauntes houses, and into all the lande of Egypte: & the land was corrupt with these flyes. And Pharao called for Moses & Aarō, and sayde. Go and do sacrifyce vnto your GOD in the lande: And Moses answered: It is not mete ẏ we do so. For then we must offre vnto the LORD our GOD, that which is an abhominacyon vnto the Egypcians. But and yf we sacrifice that whiche is an abhominacion vnto ẏ Egypcians before their eyes, should they not stone vs: we will go three dayes iourney into the desert, & sacrifice vnto the LORDE our GOD, *as he hath commaunded vs.

And Pharao sayde: I wyl let you go that ye maye sacrifyce vnto the LORD your GOD in the wyldernesse: but go not farre awaye, praye for me. And Moses sayde: beholde, I wyll go oute from the, and praye vnto the LORDE, that the flyes maye depart from Pharao, & from his seruauntes, & from his people tomorowe. But let Pharao frō henceforth deceiue nomore, that he wil not let the people go to sacrifice vnto ẏ LORDE. And Moses wente out from Pharao & prayed vnto ẏ LORDE. And ẏ LORDE dyd accordyng to the saying of Moses, and the flyes departed from Pharao, and from his seruaūtes, and from his people, & there remayned not one. And Pharao hardened hys herte euen then also, and dyd not let the people go.

The.ix. Chapter.

The morayne of beastes. The plage of botches and soren. The horyble hayle, thundre / and the lightenyng.

THe LORDE sayde vnto Moses: go in vnto Pharao & thou shalt tel him, thus sayeth the LORDE GOD of the Ebrues* let my people go, that they maye serue me. yf thou wylt not let them go, and wylte holde them styll, beholde: the hande of the LORDE is vpon thy flocke which is in the feld: for vpon horses, asses, camels, oxen, & shepe, there shalbe a myghty great morayne. And the LORDE shall do wonderfully betwene the beastes of Israel and the beastes of Egypt: so that there shall nothing dye of al that pertayneth to the children of Israel. And ẏ LORDE appoynted a tyme, sayinge: to morowe the LORDE shall fynishe this worde in the lande. And the LORDE did it on the morowe, and all the catell of Egypte dyed: but of the catell of the children of Israell died not one. And Pharao sent, and beholde: there was not one of the catell of the Israelites dead. And the hearte of Pharao was hardened that he would not let the people go.

And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses and Aaron: take youre handes full of asshes oute of the fornace, and Moses shall sprynkle it vp into the ayre, in the syghte of Pharao, and it shall turne to dust in all ẏ lande of Egypt: that there maye be swellyng sores with blaynes both on man & beast throughout al the lande of Egypte. And they toke asshes out of the furnace, & stode before Pharao, and Moses sprynkled it vp in to ẏ ayre. And there were sores wyth blaynes both in men and in beastes: and the sorcerers coulde not stand before Moses because of ẏ blaynes, for there were botches vpon the enchaūters and vpon all the Egypcians. And the LORDE hardened the herte of Pharao, and he harkened not vnto them * as ẏ LORDE had sayde vnto Moses.

And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses:

ryse vp early in the mornyng, & stand before Pharao, & thou shalte tell hym: thus saith ỳ LORD GOD of ỳ Ebrews:
Exo.viii.c *Let my people go, ỳ they maye serue me: or elles I wil at this tyme send al my plages vpon thyne herte, & vpō thy seruauntes and on thy people, ỳ thou mayste knowe, that there is none lyke me in al ỳ earth. D yet thou exaltest thy selfe agaynste my people, that thou wilte not let them go: behold, to morowe this tyme I will sende downe a myghtye greate hayle: euen suche a one as was not in Egipt, sens it was grounded vnto this tyme. Sende therfore nowe, and gather thy beastes, and all that thou hast in ỳ feld. For vpon all the men and the beastes which are founde in the felde, and not brought home, shall the hayle fall and they shall dye. And as manye as feared the worde of the LORDE amonge the seruauntes of Pharao, made theyr seruauntes and their beastes flee into the houses: but he that regarded not the worde of the LORDE, lefte his seruantes and his beastes in the felde. And ỳ
E LORDE sayde vnto Moses: stretche furth thyne hande vnto heauen, that there maye be hayle in all the lande of Egipte: vpon man and vpon beastes, & vpon all the herbes of the feld, throw out all the lande of Egipt. And Moses stretched out his rod vnto heauen: and the LORDE thundred and hayled, & the fyre ran a longe vpon the grounde.
Psalme. lxxviii.c and.cv.c. *And the LORDE so hayled in the land of Egypte, ỳ there was hayle and fyre myngled with the hayle, so greuous, & suche as there was none throwoute al the lande of Egypte, sence people inhabited it. And ỳ hayle smote throwout al the land of Egypte, all that was in the felde both man & beaste. And the F hayle smote all the herbes of the felde, and broke all the trees of the feld: only in the land of Gozam, where ỳ chyldrē of Israel were, was ther no haile. And Pharao sent and called for Moses and Aaron, & sayde vnto them I haue now synned: the LORDE is ryghteous, and I and my people are vngodly. *Praye Exo.ix.c ye vnto the LORDE: for it is much that there should be thunders of GOD and hayle. I wyll let you go, and ye shal tary no longer. Moses sayde vnto hym: assone as I am out of the Cytie, I wyl spreade abrod my hādes vnto ỳ LORDE, and the thūder shall cease, neyther shal there be any more hayle, ỳ thou mayste know how that ỳ earth is ỳ LORDES. But I knowe that thou and thy seruauntes yet feare not the face of the LORDE GOD.

And so the flare and the barlye were G smytten for the barly was shut vp, and the flare was boyled: but the wheate and the rye were not smytten for they were late sowen. And Moses went out of the cytie from Pharao and spreade abrod his handes vnto the LORDE: and the thunder & hayle ceased, neither rained it vpon the earth. And when Pharao sawe that the rayne and the hayle and thunder were ceased, he synned agayne: and hardened his herte, he and his seruauntes. And the herte of Pharao was hardened: nether would he let the children of Israel go, as the LORD had sayd by the hande of Moses.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

beareth you frute in ỳ felde, & they shall fyll thy houses, and all thy seruauntes houses, and the houses of al the Egipcyans after suche a maner, as neyther thy fathers, noz thy fathers fathers haue sene, sence the time they were vpon the earth vnto this daye. And he turned him selfe about, and went oute from Pharao.

And Pharaos seruauntes sayd vnto him. Howe longe shall he be a slaũder vnto vs: Let the men go, that they maye serue the LORDE their GOD: knowest thou not that Egypte is destroyed: And Moses and Aaron were brought agayne vnto Pharao, and he sayde: then goe, and serue the LORDE youre GOD. Who are they ỳ shal goe: And Moses answered: we wil go with our yong and with our old: yea, and wt our sonnes and with our doughters, & with our shepe and with our oxen we must go. For we must holde a feast vnto the LORDE.

And he sayde vnto them: let it be so. The LORDE be with you. When I let you go, and youre children also, take hede, for ye haue some mischefe in hãd. Naye, not so: but go they that are men & serue the LORDE: for that was your desyre. And they thruste them oute of Pharaos presence. And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses: Stretch out thyne hand ouer the land of Egypt for grashoppers that they maye come vpõ the lande of Egypte and eate all the herbes of ỳ land, and all that the hayl left behynde. And Moses stretched furthe his rod ouer the lande of Egypte: and the LORDE brought an east wynd vpon the lande all that daye, and all that nyght. And in the moznyng, the easte wynde *brought the grashoppers, and the grashoppers wente vp ouer all the lande of Egypte: and remayned in all quarters of Egypt very greuously.

Before them were there no suche grashoppers, neyther after them shalbe: for they couered al the face of ỳ earth, so ỳ the land was darke. And they dyd eate all the herbes of the lande, and all the frutes of the trees, and whatsoeuer the hayle hadde lefte: there was no grene thynges left in the trees and herbes of the felde throzow al the land of Egipt.

Therefoze Pharao called for Moses and Aaron in haste, & sayde: I haue synned agaynst the LORDE youre GOD and agaynst you. And now forgeue me my synne only this once: and *pray vnto the LORDE youre GOD, that he may take awaye from me thys death onlye. And Moses wente out from Pharao, and prayed vnto the LORDE. And the LORDE turned a myghtie strong west wynde, and it toke away the grashoppers, and cast them into the red sea, so that there was not one grashopper in al the coast of Egypte. And the LORD *hardened Pharaos herte, so that he woulde not let the chyldren of Israell goe.

And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses: stretch out thy hand vnto heauen, that there maye be vpon the lande of Egipt darkenesse whiche maye be felte. And Moses stretched furth his hand vnto heauen, & there was a thycke* darkenesse vpon all the lande of Egypte thze dayes longe, no man sawe another, neyther rose vp frõ the place wher he was by the space of thzee dayes: but all the children of Israell had lyghte where they dwelled.

And Pharao called for Moses and saide: go and serue the LORDE, only let your shepe and youre oxen abyde, and let your children go with you. And Moses sayde: thou muste geue vs also offerynges and burnt offrynges for to sacrifyce vnto the LORDE oure GOD: our catell also shall go with vs, & there shall not one hose be lefte behynde, for thereof must we take to serue ỳ LORD our GOD. Neyther do we know what we shall offre vnto the LORDE, vntyll we come thyther.

But the LORDE hardened Pharaos herte: and he woulde not let thẽ go. And Pharao sayde vnto hym: get thee fro me, and take hede to thy selfe, and se my face nomoze. For when soeuer thou commest in my syghte, thou shalte dye. And Moses sayde: Let it be as thou haste sayde, I wyll se thy face no moze.

And let ỳ lambe of yours be without blemyshe, a male of a yeare olde which ye shal take out from amonge the shepe, or from among the goates.

And ye shal kepe him vntyl the * xiiii. day of the same moneth. And euery mā of the multytude of Israel shal kyl him about euen. And they shall take of the blonde, and streke it on the two syde postes and on the vpper dore post, euen in ỳ houses where they shall eate him. And they shall eate the flesshe the same nyght, rost with fyre and with vnleuened bread, and with sower herbes they shall eate it. Se that ye eate not therof rawe nor sodē in water, but roste with fyre: the head, fete, & purtenaunce therof. And ye shall let nothynge of it to remayne vnto the morning. That which remayneth of it vntyl the morow, shal ye burne with fyer.

Exo. xii. g

Of this maner shall ye eate it wyth your loynes girded, and your shoes on your fete, and your staues in your hāndes. And ye shal eate it in haste for it is the LORDES passeouer: for I wyll passe thorowe the lande of Egypt this same nyght, and wyl smyte al the fyrste borne in the lande of Egypte bothe of man and beast, and vpō all the goddes of Egipte wyl I the LORDE do execucion. And the blonde shalbe vnto you a token in the houses wherin you are. And when I se the blonde, I wyl passe ouer you, & the plage shall not be vpon you to destroye you, when I smyte the lande of Egipte. And thys daye shalbe vnto you a remembraunce: and ye shal kepe it holy vnto the LORD, euen thorow out your generatiōs shal ye kepe it holy daye, ỳ it be a custome for euer.

And ye shall obserue vnleuened breade. For this same daye haue I broughte your armyes out of the land of Egipt, therfore ye shal obserue this daye, and all your childrē after you, by a custome for euer. * The firste moneth, and the fourtene daye of the moneth at euen, ye shall eate swete breade vnto the.xi. day of the moneth at euen agayne. Seuen dayes shall there be no leuened breade found in your houses. And whosoeuer eateth leuened bread, that soule shalbe roted out from the multytud of Israel: whether he be a straunger or borne in the land. ye shal eate nothing leuened: but in all your habitacions shal ye eat swete breade.

D Moses called for the elders of Israel and sayde vnto them: chose out & take you to euery housholde of you a shepe, & kil it for passeouer. And take a bunch of yisope, & dyp it in the bloud that is in the bason, and stryke ỹ vpper post & the two syde postes with the bloud that is in the bason, and none of you goe oute at the doze of his house, vntyl the mornyng. For the LORDE wyll go aboute to smyte the Egipcians. And when he seeth the bloud vpon ỹ vpper doze post and on the two side postes: he wyl passe ouer the doze, and wyll not suffre ỹ destroier to come into your house to plage you. Therfore shall ye obserue thys thyng, that it be an ordinaunce both to the and thy sonnes for euer.

And when ye be come into the lande whiche the LORDE wyll geue you, accordyng as he hath promysed, ye shall kepe this seruyce. * And when youre childrē aske you what maner of seruice is this ye do: ye shal say: it is ỹ sacrifice of ỹ LORDES passeouer whiche passed ouer ỹ houses of ỹ childrē of Israell in Egipte, as he smote the Egipcians, & saued our houses. And ỹ people bowed themselues, & worshypped: And ỹ children of Israell wente, and dyd as the LORDE had commaūded Moses and Aaron: Euen so dyd they. And at * midnyght, the LORDE smote all the fyrste borne in the lande of Egipte, from the fyrst borne of Pharao that sate on hys seate, vnto ỹ fyrst borne of the captyue that was in prison, and al the fyrst gendred of catell. And Pharao rose vp in the nyghte, he and all his seruauntes & all the Egipcians: * and there was a greate crying in Egipte, for there was no house where there was not one deade. And he called vnto Moses and Aaron by nyghte, sayinge: ryse vp and get you oute from amonge my people: bothe ye and also ỹ childrē of Israel, and go & serue the LORDE as ye haue sayde. And take youre shepe and youre droues with you as ye haue sayd, and departe and * bidde me. And the Egipcians were fearce vpō the people, that they myghte sende them out of ỹ lande in haste: for they sayde, we dye all. And the people toke their dough before it was sowred, and their vitayles bound in clothes vpon their shoulders. And ỹ childrē of Israel did accordyng to the saying of Moses: And they borowed of the Egipcians * iewels of siluer, iewels, of golde, and rayment. And the LORD gaue the people fauoure in the syght of the Egipcians: so that they graunted suche thynges as they requyred. And they robbed the Egipcians. And the * childrē of Israel toke their iourney from Rameses to Suchoth * syre hundred thousande men of fote, beside childrē. And muche commen people went out also with them, and shepe and orē, an exceadyng greate flocke. And they baked swete cakes of ỹ dough whiche they brought out of Egipte, for it was not sowred. For whē they were thrust out by the Egipcians, they coulde not tary to prepare them selues any prouision of meate. The dwelling of the childrē of Israell, which they dwelled in Egipte, was * foure hundred and thirtie yeares: and whē the foure hundred and thyrtye yeres were expyred, euē ỹ selfe same daye departed all the hostes of the LORDE out of the land of Egipt. It is a nyghte to be obserued to the LORDE, in the whiche he brought thē out of the land of Egipte. This is that nyghte of the LORDE whiche all the childrē of Israel must kepe thorowout theyr generacions. And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses and Aaron: This is the lawe of the passeouer: there shal no straunger eate thereof. The.xiiij.Chapter.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake to the childrē of Israell, that they turne and remayne before Pi Hiroth betwene Migdol and the sea, ouer against *Baalzephon: and before that shall they pytche by the sea. For Pharao will saye of the childzen of Israel: they are tangled in the lande, the wyldernes hath shut thē in. And I wyll harden Pharaos heart that he shall folowe after you: and I wyll get me honour vpon Pharao and vpon all his hoste: the Egipcians also shall knowe that I am ỳ LORDE. And they dyd euen so. And it was tolde the kyng of Egipte that ỳ people fled. And the herte of Pharao & of his seruaūtes turned against ỳ people, & they said: why haue we this done ỳ we haue let Israel go out of our seruice: and he made redy his charets: and toke his people with him, and toke sixe hundzed chosen charettes, and al the charettes of Egypte, and captaynes vpon euery one of thē. And the LORDE hardened the hert of Pharao kynge of Egypte, and he folowed after the childzen of Israell. But the childzen of Israel went out wyth *an hye hand, and the Egipcians folowed after them: and all the hozses & charets of Pharao and hys hozsemen and hys hoste ouertoke them abydyng by ỳ sea, beside Pi Hiroth before Baalzephon. And when Pharao drewe nye, the childrē of Israel lyft vp their eies, and behold, the Egipcians folowed after them, and they were soze afrayde: *and the childzen of Israel cryed out vnto the LORDE. But they sayed vnto Moses: because there were no graues in Egipte, haste thou therfore brought vs awaye for to dye in the wyldernes: wherfore hast thou serued vs thus, for to carye vs out of Egipte? Dyd not we tell the this in Egypte, saying: let vs be in rest, that we maye serue the Egipcians? For it had bene better for vs to haue serued the Egipcians then for to dye in the wildernesse. And Moses sayde vnto ỳ people *feare ye not, stand styll, and beholde, howe the LORD shal saue you this day. For ye ỳ haue sene ỳ Egipcians this day, shal se thē nomore for euer. The LORDE shall fyghte for you, and ye shall holde your peace.

And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses: wherfore cryest thou vnto me? speake vnto the childzen of Israel that they go forwarde. But lyfte thou vp thy rod, & stretche out thy hande ouer the sea and deuide it a sunder, and let the chyldzen of Israell go on dzye grounde thorowe the myddest of the sea. And beholde, I wyll harden the herte of the Egipcians that they maye folowe them. And I wyll get me honoure vpon Pharao, & vpon all his hoost, and vpō his charets and vpon his hozsemen. And the Egipcians shall know that I am ỳ LORDE when I haue gotten me honour vpon Pharao, vpon his charettes, and vpon his hozsemen. And the angell of GOD whiche wente before the hoost of Israell remoued and beganne to go behynde them. And ỳ clouden pyller that was before the face of them began to stande behynde them, & came betwene the hoost of the Egipcians & the hoost of Israel. It was also a darke cloud, & gaue lyght by nyght: and all the nyght longe the one came not at the other.

And Moses stretched furth his hande ouer the sea: and the LORDE caryed awaye the sea, by a verye stronge Easte wynd all that nyght, and made the sea dzye lande, and the waters were deuided. And the childzen of Israell wente out into the mydst of the sea: vpon the dzye grounde. And the waters were a walle vnto them on the ryghte hand, & on the left hande. And the Egipcians folowed and wente in after them to ỳ myddest of the sea, euen all Pharaos hozses, his charettes and his hozsemē. And in the mozning watche, ỳ LORDE loked vnto the hoost of the Egipcians out of the fyrye and cloudye pyller: and troubled the hoost of the Egipcians, & toke of his charet wheles & caried them awaye violently. So that the Egipcyans sayde: Let vs flee from the face of Israel, for the LORDE fyghteth for thē agaynst the Egipcians. And ỳ LORD sayde vnto Moses: stretche out thyne hande ouer the sea, that ỳ waters may rome agayne vpon the Egipcian, vpon his charettes & vpon his horsemen.

G And Moses stretched furth his hād ouer the sea, and it came agayne to his course earely in the morninge, and the Egipcians fled agaynste it. And the Sapi.s.d *LORDE ouerthrewe the Egipcyans in the myddest of the sea: and the water returned and couered the charets and the horsemen: and all the hooste of Pharao that came into the sea after them, so that there remayned not one of them. But the childrē of Israel walked vpon drye land *thorowe the mid- Pſal.77.b. dest of the sea, and the waters were a wall vnto them on the ryght hande of them, and on the lefte. *Thus ỳ LORD 1.mac.iiii.a delyuered Israel the selfe same day out of the hande of the Egipcians: & Israel sawe ỳ Egipcians dead vpon ỳ sea syde. ¶ The.xv. Chapter.

¶ Moses and the people with the wemen sing. At the prayer of Moses / the bytter waters were swete. God must be heard. They come to Elim.

A Then Moses and the childrē of Exo.xv.c. Israel sange this song vnto the LORDE and sayde: *I wyl synge vnto ỳ LORDE: for he hath trumphed gloriously: the horse and him that rode Pſal. xx.a vpon hym hath he ouerthrowne in the Ex.xiiii.c sea. *The LORDE is my strength and prayse, and he is become my saluacion. He is my GOD, and I wyll glorifye him: my fathers GOD, and I wyll exalte him. The LORDE is a mā of warre. The LORDE is hys name. Pharaos charettes and his hooste hath he cast into the sea. His chosen captaynes also are drowned in the red sea, ỳ depe waters haue couered them: they soncke to the botome as a stone. Thy right hand LORDE, is become glorious in power: thy ryght hande LORDE hathe all to dashed the enemie. And in thy greate glory thou hast ouerthrowē them that rose vp against the: thou sentest furthe thy wrath which consumed thē euē as stobble. Thorow ỳ windof thy nostrels ỳ water gathered together, ỳ floudes stode still as an heape, & ỳ depe water congeled together in ỳ herte of the sea.

B The enemye sayde: I wyll followe on them: I wyll ouertake them, I wil deuide the spoyle, I wyll satisfye my lust vpon them, I wyll drawe my swearde, myne hande shall destroye them. Thou blewest wyth thy wynde, the sea couered them, they soncke as leade in the myghty waters. Who is lyke vnto the O LORDE, among goddes: Who is like the, so glorious in holynes, fearfull in prayses, shewynge wonders? Thou stretchedest oute thy ryght hande, the earth swalowed them. Thou in thy mercye haste caryed this people which thou deliueredst: and hast brought thē in thy strength vnto thy holy habitacion. The nacyons hearde and were afrayed, sorowe came vpō ỳ Philistines. Then the Dukes of ỳ Edomites were amased, and the myghtiest of the Moabytes, tremblyng came vpon them: all the inhabiters of Canaan waxed fainte harted: Let feare and dread fall vpon thē in ỳ greatnes of thyne arme, let thē be as stil as a stone, tyl thy people passe thorowe, O LORDE whyle thys people passe thorowe whiche thou hast gottē. Thou shalt bryng them in, and plante them in the mountaine of thine enheritaunce, ỳ place LORDE which thou haste made for to dwell in the sanctuarye, O LORD, which thy handes haue prepared. The LORDE shal raine euer and alwaye. For Pharaos horse went in with his charettes and horse men into the sea, and the LORD broughte the waters of the sea vpon them.

But the childrē of Israell wente on drye lande in the mydst of the sea. And Mir Iam a prophetysse, the syster of Aaron toke a tymbrell in her hand, and al the wemen came out after her with tymbrels, and daunced. The .xvii. Chapter.

The Israelites come into Raphidim. They grudge. Water is geuen thẽ out of the rocke. Moses holdeth vp his handes, and they ouercome the Amalechites.

AND all the company of the childrẽ of Israell thorowout all their armies went from the wylderners of Syn after the commaundement of the LORDE, and pytched in * Raphidim: where was no water for the people to drynke. And the people chode with Moses, and sayde: geue vs water to drynke. Moses sayde vnto them: why chyde ye with me? wherfore doe ye tẽpt the LORDE? There the people thyrsted for water, and the people murmured against Moses, and sayde: * Wherfore haste thou thus brought vs out of Egipte: to kyll vs and our childzen and cattel with thirste.

And Moses cryed vnto the LORD, saying: what shall I do vnto thys people: they be almost redy to stone me? And the LORD sayde vnto Moses: go before the people, and take with the of the elders of Israell, and thy rodde wherwith thou smotest the ryuer, take in thine hande, & go: Beholde, * I stande before the besyde a rocke that is in Horeb: and thou shalt smyte the rocke, and there shall come water out therof, that the people maye drynke. * And Moses dyd euen so before the eyes of ỳ elders of Israell. And he called the name of ỳ place * Massa and * Meriba, because of the chidynge of the childzen of Israell, and because they tempted the LORDE, saying: is the LORD among vs or not?

Then came Amalech and fought with Israell in Raphidim. And Moses sayde vnto Josua: chose vs out mẽ, and go fyght with Amalech, & to morowe I wyll stande on the coppe of the hyl, and the rod of GOD shalbe in my hande. Josua dyd as Moses bad him, & fought with Amalech. And Moses, & Aaron, and Hur went vp to the toppe of the hyll. And it happened, that when * Moses helde vp his hãde, Israel had the better. And when he let his hande downe, Amalech had the better.

But Moses handes were heuy, and therfore they toke a stone & put it vnder him, and he sat downe theron. And Aaron and Hur stayed vp his handes, the one on the one syde, and ỳ other on the other syde. And his handes remayned stradye vntyll the goyng downe of the sun. And Josua dyscõfited Amalech & his people, with ỳ edge of ỳ swearde.

And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses: wryte this for a remẽbraũce in a boke, and committe it vnto the eares of Josua, for * I wyl vtterly put out ỳ remẽbraunce of Amalech from vnder heauen. And Moses made an aulter & called the name of it: The LORDE is he ỳ worcheth worketh miracles for me. For he saide: the handes on the seate of GOD, the LORDE wyll haue warre wyth Amalech from generacion to generacion.

¶ The.xviii.Chapter.

¶ Jethros councell is receyued of Moses.

I JEthro the preast of Madian Moses father in law, hearde of all ỳ GOD hadde done for Moses, and for Israel his people, and that the LORDE had brought Israel out of Egipt* Therfore he toke Zephora Moses wyfe. (After he had sẽt her backe) & her two sonnes, of which the one was called* Gersõ, for he said: I haue bene an aliant in a straũge lande. The name of the other was: Eliesar: for the GOD of my father (sayd he) was myne helpe, and delyuered me from the swearde of Pharao. And Jethro Moses father in lawe came wt his two sonnes, and his wyfe vnto Moses into the wyldernes: where he abode by the mount of GOD. And he sayd vnto Moses: I thy father in lawe Jethro am come to the, and thy wife also, and her two sonnes with her.

B And Moses went out to mete his father in lawe, and dyd obeysaunce and kyssed him, & eache asked other of his health, and they came into the tẽt. And Moses tolde his father in lawe all that the LORDE had done vnto Pharao & to the Egipcians for Israels sake, and al the trauayle that had happened thẽ by the way, and how the LORD delyuered them. And Jethro reioyced ouer all the goodnesse which ỳ LORD had done to Israell, and because he had delyuered them out of ỳ hande of the Egipcians. And Jethro sayde: blessed be the LORD whiche hath deliuered you out of ỳ hãd of the Egipcians, and out of the hande of Pharao, which hath also delyuered his people from the captiuitye of the Egipcias. Now I know that ỳ LORD is greater then all gods, for in ỳ thing wherby they dealte cruelly with them, are they thẽ selues perysshed. And Jethro Moses father in law offred burnt offrynges and sacrifices vnto GOD. And Aaron and al the elders of Israel came to eate breade with Moses father in lawe before GOD.

C And it chaunced on the morowe, that Moses sat to Judge the people, & the people stode aboute Moses from morynge vnto euen. And when Moses father in lawe sawe all that he dyd vnto the people, he sayde: what is this ỳ thou dost vnto the people? why sytteſt thou thy selfe alone, and all the people stande aboute the from morynge vnto euen? And Moses sayde vnto his father in lawe: because the people come vnto me to seke councel of GOD. Whẽ they haue a matter, they come vnto me, and I iudge betwene euery man and his neyghbour, and shewe them the ordinaunces of GOD and his lawes.

And Moses father in lawe sayd vnto him: it is not well that thou dost. Thou bothe weryest thy selfe, and this people that is wt the: for this thing is of more weyght, then* thou arte able to perfourme thy selfe alone. Heare nowe therfore my voice, and I wyll geue the councel, and GOD shalbe with the. Be thou vnto ỳ people to godwarde, that thou mayste bryng their causes vnto GOD, and thou shalte teache them ordinaunces, and lawes, and shew them the waye wherin they must walke, and the worke that they must doe. Moreouer, thou shalt seke out among all the people, men of actiuytie, and suche as feare GOD: true men, hating couetousnes: & make thẽ heades ouer ỳ people, captains ouer thousandes, ouer hundreds, ouer fifty, & ouer ten. And let thẽ iudge ỳ people at al seasons. And euery *great matter that happeneth, let thẽ bryng vnto the, but let them iudge all smal causes them selues, and so shall it be easyer for thy selfe, & they shall beare with the. If thou shalt do this thinge, (& GOD charge the withal) thou shalt be able to endure, and yet ỳ people shal come to their place in peace.

And so Moses obeyed the voyce of his father in lawe, and dyd all that he had sayde, and chose actyue men out of all Israell, and made them as heades ouer the people: namely captaynes ouer thousandes, ouer hundreds, ouer fyfty, and ouer ten. And they iudged the people at all seasons, but broughte the harde causes vnto Moses: and iudged all small matters them selues. And Moses let his father in lawe departe, and he went into his owne lande.

AND he sayde vnto Moses: come vp vnto the LORDE: thou & Aaron, Nadab and Abihu, and the.lxx.elders of Israel, and ye shall worshyppe a farre of. And Moses him selfe alone shall go vnto the LORDE, but they shal not come nye, neyther shal ꝑ people goe vp with him. And Moses came, & tolde Exo.xx.a the people* all the wordes of ꝑ LORD and all the lawes. And all the people answered with one voyce, and sayde: al the wordes whiche ꝑ LORDE hathe sayde, wyl we doe. And Moses wrote al the wordes of ꝑ LORDE, and rose vp Exo.xx.g early, and set vp an* aulter vnder the hyll, & twelue stones accordynge to the twelue trybes of Israel, and sent yong men of the childrē of Israell, whiche brought burnt offriges, & offered peace offeringes of oxen vnto ꝑ LORD. And Moses toke halfe of ꝑ bloude, & put it in basens, and ꝑ other halfe he sprynkled on the aulter. And he toke the boke of the appointment and red it in ꝑ audience of ꝑ people. And they sayde: All that the LORDE hath sayde, we wil doe and be obedient. And Moses toke the *bloude, and sprinkled it on the people, i.pet. and sayde: beholde, * this is the bloud of the appointmēt, which the LORD hath made with you vpō all these wordes.

Then went Moses and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and the.lxx.elders of Israell vp, and sawe the GOD of Israell, and there was vnder his fete as it were a worke of a Saphir stone, and as it were the Heauē whē it is cleare, and vpon the nobles of the childrē of Israel he set not his hād. And they saw GOD and dyd eat and drynke.

And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses: come vp to me into the hyl, & be there, & I wyll geue the tables of stone, and a lawe and commaundementes, whiche I haue wrytte, that thou mayst teache thē. And Moses rose vp and his minister ster Iehosua, and Moses went vp into the hyl of GOD, & sayd vnto the elders: tarye ye here, vntill we come agayne vnto you. Beholde here is Aaron, and Hur with you. yf anye man haue anye matter to do: let him come to the. And Moses went vp in to the mounte, and a cloude couered the hyll, and the glorye of the LORDE abode vpon ỹ moũte Sinay, and the cloude couered it syxe dayes. And the seuenth daye he called vnto Moses oute of the cloude. And ỹ fashion of the glory of the LORDE was lyke consumynge fyre on the toppe of the hyll, in the syght of the chyldren of Israel. And Moses went into ỹ cloud, and got him vp into the mountayne.

Exxxiii.d And Moses was in the * mounte foxtye dayes, and foxtye nyghtes.

¶ The xxv. Chapter.

The Lorde sheweth Moses the fashion of the holy place, and the thinges pertaining therto

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, that they bryng me an heueoffryng: of euery man that geueth it willyngly with his hert, ye shal take it. * This is the heueofferynge whyche ye shall take of them, gold and syluer, and brasse: yelowe silke, purple, scarlet, white silke, and goates heare, rammes skynnes that are red, and the skynnes of taxus, & sethim wood, oyle foz lyght, spyces foz anoyntyng oyle, & foz swete sẽce. Onix stones, & stones to be set in ỹ Ephod, and in the brestlap.

And let them make me a sanctuarye (that I maye dwel among them.) And accozdyng to all that I shewe the both after the fashion of the habitacion, and after the fashion of al the oznamentes therof, euẽ so shal ye make it. And they shall make an * arke of Sethim wood, two cubites and an halfe long, a cubite and an halfe brode, and a cubite and an halfe hye. And thou shalt ouerlay it w̃ pure golde, within and without shalte thou ouerlaye it: and shalte make an hye vpon it a crowne of golde rounde about. And thou shalt cast foure ringes of gold foz it, and put them in the foure cozners therof: two ynges shalbe in the one syde of it, and .ii. in the other.

Exxxvij.a

And thou shalt make barres of Sethim wood, and couer them with gold, and put the barres in the ringes along by the sides of ỹ arke, to beare it withal and the barres shall be in the ynges of the arke, and shal not be taken away from it. And thou shalt put in the arke the witnesse whiche I shall geue thee. And thou shalte make a mercyseat of pure golde .ii. cubites & an halfe longe, and a cubyte and a halfe brode.

And thou shalte make two cherubins of golde: euen of a whole wozke shalte thou make them in ỹ two endes of the mercy seate: and the one cherub shalte thou make on the one ende, and the other on the other ende. Euẽ of the same mercy seate shall ye make Cherubins in the two endes therof. And ỹ Cherubins shall stretche their wynges abzode ouer an hye, couerynge the mercyseate with their wynges, & theyr faces shall loke one to another: euen to ỹ mercyseate warde shal the faces of the Cherubyns be. And thou shalt put the * mercyseate aboue vpon the arke, and in the arke thou shall put the wytnesse whiche I wyl geue the. And frõ thence I wyl testifie vnto the, and wyll comõ with the from vpon the mercyseate: frõ betwene the two Cherubins whiche are vpon the arke of witnes, of al thinges whiche I wyll geue the in commaundement vnto the chyldren of Israell.

* Thou shalte also make a table of Sethim wood of .ii. cubytes long, and one cubyte brode, and a cubite and an halfe hye. And thou shalt couer it with pure gold, and make thereto a crowne of golde rounde about. And make vnto that an whope of foure syngers brode rounde aboute. And make a golden crowne also to ỹ whope, round about. And make foz it foure ynges of gold, and put the ynges in the cozners that are on the foure sete thereof: euen ouer agaynst the whope shal the ynges be, to put in barres, to beare ỹ table with al. And thou shalte make the barres of Sethim wood, and ouerlay them with gold, that the table may be bozne with them. And thou shalt make his dishes, and spones, flatpeces, and pottes to powze out withall: Euen of syne golde shalt thou make them. And thou shalte set vpõ the table, shewbzead before me alwaye. * And thou shalt make a candelstycke of pure golde euen of a whole wozke shall the candelstycke be made w̃ his shafte, braunches, bolles, knoppes and

Act. vii. f

The.xxvi.Chapter.

¶ This chapter also describeth the thinges pertayning to the holy place

I THe tabernacle shalte thou make with.x. curtaynes of whyte twined sylke yelowe sylke, purple & skarlet. And in them thou shalte make pyctures of broydered woorke. The length of one curtayne shalbe eyght & twentye cubytes, and the bredth of one courtayne four cubytes, and euery one of the courtaynes shall haue one measure: fyue curtaynes shall be coupled together one to another: and fyue curtaynes shalbe coupled together one to another.

B And thou shalt make lowpes of yelowe sylke a long by the edge of ꝑ one curtayne whiche is in ꝑ seluedge of the couplyng curtayne. And likewise shalt thou make in the edge of the vtmoste curtayne that is to be coupled therwith on the other syde. Fyftye lowpes shalte thou make in the one curtayne, & fiftye lowpes shalte thou make in the edge of the curtaine that is to be coupled therwyth on the other syde: that ꝑ lowpes maye take holde one of another. And thou shalt make fyftye buttõs of gold, and couple the curtaynes together wᵗ the buttons and it shalbe one habytacyon.

*And thou shalt make eleuen curtaynes of goates heare, to be a couerynge vpon the tabernacle. The length of a curtayne shall be thyrtye cubytes, and the bredth foure, and they shall be all euẽ of one measure. And thou shalte couple fyue curtaynes by them selues, and the syre by them selues, and shalte double the syxte in the fore fronte of ꝑ tabernacle. And thou shalte make fyftye lowpes in the edge of the vtmoste curtayne on the one syde: euẽ in ꝑ edge of the couplynge curtayne: and fyftye lowpes in the edge of the other curtain that muste be ioyned vnto it. And thou shalte make fyftye buttons of brasse, & put them on ꝑ lowpes: and couple the couerynge together, that it may be one.

Ex. xxvi. C

And the remnaunt that resteth in ꝑ curtaines of the couerynge: euen ꝑ halfe courtayne that resteth, shall be left on the backe sydes of the habytacion: that a cubyte on the one syde, and a cubyte on the other syde maye remayne in the length of ꝑ curtaynes of the couering, and that it may remayne of eyther syde of the habitacion to couer it withall. And vpon the tabernacle thou shalte make a couerynge of rammes skynnes dyed red: and yet a couerynge aboue all of tarus skynnes.

And thou shalt make bordes for the habitacyon, of Sethim wood to stande vpryght: ten cubytes longe shall euery borde be, and a cubyte & an halfe brod. Two fete shall there be in one borde: & they shalbe separate one frõ an other. And thus shalt ꝑ make for all ꝑ bordes of ꝑ tabernacle. *And thou shalt make twentye bordes for the habitacion on the southe syde, and thou shalte make sockettes of syluer, vnder the twentye bordes: two sockettes vnder one bord, for his two fete, and two sockettes vnder another borde for hys two fete.

Ex. xxvi.

In lyke maner in the north syde of ꝑ habitacion there shalbe. xx. bordes and xl. sockets of syluer: xx. sockettes vnder one borde, and two sockettes vnder a nother borde. And in the west ende of ꝑ habitacion, shalte thou make syxe bordes, and two bordes shalte thou make in the

in the cozners of the habitacion in the metyng together of the two sides. And they shalbe coupled together beneth, & lykewyse aboue to a ryng. And thus shal it be for the two bordes that are in the cozners. And they shalbe eyghte bordes hauing sockettes of siluer, euen syrtene sockettes: that there maye be two sockettes vnder one borde, & two sockettes vnder an other borde.

And thou shalt make barres of Sethim wood, fyue for the bordes of the tabernacle in one syde, and fyue barres for the bordes of the tabernacle in the other syde, and fyue barres for þ bordes of the tabernacle in the west ende. And þ mydle barre shall go along thorowe the myddes of the bordes frō the one ende vnto þ other. And thou shalte couer the bordes with gold, and make their ringes of golde, to put the barres thorow, and thou shalt couer þ barres with golde also. And thou shalt rere vp the habitacion accordyng to the fashiō thereof, as it was shewed thee in the mounte. And thou shalte make a vayle of yelowe sylke, of purple, scarlet, and white twyned sylke. Of broydered worke wyth pyctures shalt thou make it. And hange it vpon foure pyllers of Sethim wood couered with golde. Whose heades shalbe of golde, stāding vpon four sockettes of siluer. And thou shalt hang vp the vayle wyth rynges, that thou mayst bryng in (wythin the vayle) the arke of wytnesse. And þ vaile shall vnto you deuide the holy from the most holy. And thou shalt put þ mercy-seate vpō the arke of wytnesse in þ holyest place. And thou shalte put the table without the vayle: and the candelsticke ouer against the table on þ south syde of þ habitacion. And put the table on þ nozth syde. And thou shalte make an hangynge for the doze of the tabernacle of yelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, & whyte twyned sylke wrought with nedle worke. And thou shalte make for þ hanging, fyue pillers of Sethim wood and couer them with golde, and theyr knoppes shalbe of golde, and thou shalt cast fyue sockettes of brasse for them.

¶ The.xxvii.Chapter.

AND thou shalte make an * altar of Sethim wood, fyue cubytes long and fyue cubytes brode. For it shalbe foure square, and three cubytes hye. And thou shalte make it hornes in the foure cozners of it, the hornes shall be of it selfe, & thou shalte couer it wyth brasse. And make his ashepannes, shouels, basēs, fleshokes, fyrepānes, & al þ apparell thereof for the same of brasse. And þ shalt make vnto it a gredyerne also (like a net) of brasse. And vpō that net shalte thou make foure brasen ryngs in the foure cozners therof: & thou shalte put it vnder the compasse of the altare beneth, that the net may be in þ myddes of the altare. And thou shalte make (two) barres for þ altare of Sethim woode, and couer thē with brasse, and let them be put in ryngs along by the sydes of the altar to beare it wyth all. And make the altar hollowe wyth bordes: euen as it was shewed thee in the mount, so shall they make it.

And thou shalte make the courte of þ habytacyon, that there maye be in the south syde hangynges of whyt twined sylke, of an hundred cubites longe, for one syde, & twentie pyllers therof, with their twentye sockettes of brasse: but þ knoppes of the pyllers and theyr whopes shalbe syluer. In lykewyse on the nozth syde there shall be hanginges of an hundred cubytes longe, and .xx. pyllers with theyr .xx. sockettes of brasse, and þ knoppes and the whopes of syluer. And the breadth of þ court whiche is eastwarde shal haue fyftye cubytes. Hangynges of fyftene cubytes in the one syde, and theyr pyllers with theyr three sockettes: and lykewyse on the other syde shall be hangynges of fyftene cubytes with theyr three pyllers and sockettes.

And in the gate of the courte shal be a vayle of twentye cubytes of yelowe sylke, purple, and skarlet, and whyte twyned sylke wrought w nedle worke: and foure pyllers with theyr foure sockettes. All the pyllers rounde aboute the courte shalbe whoped with syluer, and their knoppes shall be of syluer, and their sockettes of brasse. The length of the courte shalbe an hundred cubytes, and the bredth fyftye, and the heygth fyue. And the hangynges shall be of whyte twyned sylke, & theyr sockettes

Aarons apparell and his ſonnes.

1 AND take thou vnto the Aaron thy brother, and his ſonnes with him, from among the childzẽ of Iſrael, that they may myniſter vnto me, Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, Eleaſar, & Ithamar, Aarõs ſonnes. And thou ſhalt make holy rayment for Aaron thy brother, that they maye be vnto glory and bewtye. And thou ſhalte ſpeake vnto all that are wyſe harted, and whomſoeuer I haue fylled with the ſpyrete of wyſedome: ꝑ they make Aarons rayment to conſecrate hym wt, that he may miniſter vnto me. These are the garmentes which they ſhall make: a breſtlap, Ephod, a tunicle, a ſtrayt coate, a myter, and a gyrdell. These holye garmentes ſhall they make for Aaron thy
2 brother: and his ſonnes, that they may miniſter vnto me. And let them take gold, yelowe ſylke, purple, ſkarlet, and whyte twined ſylke. They ſhal make ꝑ Ephod of golde, yelowe ſylke, purple, ſkarlet, and whyte twyned ſylke wyth broydered wozke. The two ſydes ſhal come together, and be cloſed vp in the two edges therof. And the gyrdle of ꝑ Ephod ſhalbe of the ſame wozkemanſhyppe, and of the ſame ſtuffe, euen of golde, yelowe ſilke, purple, ſkarlet and white twyned ſylke. And thou ſhalte take two Onix ſtonnes, and graue in them the names of the childzen of Iſrael: ſyxe names of thẽ in the one ſtone, and the other ſyxe in the other ſtone: accordyng to (the order of) theyr byrth.
After the wozke of a ſtone grauer, and of hym that graueth ſygnettes ſhalte thou graue the two ſtones wyth ꝑ names of the childzen of Iſrael, and ſhalt make them to be ſet in golde. And thou ſhalte put the two ſtones vpon the two ſhoulders of the Ephod, that they may be ſtones of remembraunce vnto the childzen of Iſrael. And Aaron ſhall beare their names before the LORDE vpon his two ſhoulders, for a remembraunce. And thou ſhalt make hokes of
C gold, & two chaines of fine golde, lynkwozke and wzethed, and faſten ꝑ wzethed cheynes to the hokes. And thou ſhalt make the breſtlap of iudgemente with broydered wozke, euen after the wozke of the Ephod ſhalte thou make it: namely of golde, yelow ſylke, purple ſkarlet, and white twyned ſylke, ſhalte thou make it. Fourſquare it ſhalbe & double, an hande breade longe and an hande breade brode. And thou ſhalt fyl it wt foure rowes of ſtones. In the firſt rowe ſhalbe a Sardios, a Topas and Smaragdus: in ꝑ ſeconde rowe, a Ruby, Saphir, and Diamonde: in ꝑ thirde Ligurios, an Achat, and Amatiſt: in ꝑ fourth, a Turcas, Onix, and Jaſpis.
And they ſhalbe ſet in golde in their incloſers. And the ſtones ſhalbe grauen as ſygnettes be grauen wt the names of the childzen of Iſrael, euen with twelue names, euerye one wt his name
D accordyng to the twelue trybes. And thou ſhalt make vpon the breſtlap, two faſtenyng cheynes of pure golde, and wzethen wozke. And thou ſhalt make lykewiſe vpon the breſtlap two ringes of golde: and put them on the edges of the breſtlap, and put the two wzethen cheynes of gold in the .ii. ringes which are in the edges of the breſtlappe. And the other two endes of the two cheynes, thou ſhalt faſten in two cloſe hokes, and put them vpon the ſhoulders of the Ephod on the forẽſyde of it. And thou ſhalte yet make two ringes of golde, whiche thou mayſt put in ꝑ two edges of ꝑ breſtlap, euen in the borders therof, towarde ꝑ inſyde of the Ephod ouer againſt it. And yet two other ringes of golde thou ſhalte make and put them on the two ſydes of the Ephod, beneth ouer againſt the breſtlap, alowe where the ſydes are ioyned together
E vpon ꝑ broydered gyrdle of ꝑ Ephod.
And they ſhal bynd the breſtlap by hys ringes vnto ꝑ ringes of the Ephod, wt a lace of yelowe ſylke, ꝑ it maye lye cloſe abou ꝑ broidered gyrdell of ꝑ Ephod, and that the breſtlappe be not loſed frõ

the Ephod. And Aaron shall beare the names of the childzen of Israell in the brestlap of Judgement vpon his herte, when he goeth into the holy place, for a remembraunce before the LORDE alwaye. And thou shalte put in the brestlap of iudgement Urim & Thumin: and they shall be euen vpon Aarons herte, when he goeth in before the LORDE: & Aaron shal beare the iudgement of the childzen of Israell vpon hys herte before the LORD alway. And thou shalte make the tunycle vnto the Ephod altogether of yelowe sylke. And there shalbe an hole for the heade in the myds of it, haupnge a bonde of wouen wozke round about the coller of it (as it were the coller of a partlet) that it rent not. And beneth vpon the hem, thou shalte make pomgranates of yelow silke and of purple and skarlet, rounde aboute ꝑ hem, and belles of gold betwene them rounde aboute: and let there be euer a golden bel and a pomgranate, a golde bel and a pomgranate, rounde aboute vpon the hem of the tunycle.

* And Aaron shal haue it vpon him, when he ministreth, and the sound shal be heard, when he goeth into the holy place before the LORDE, and when he commeth out, and he shall not dye. And thou shalt make a plate of pure golde, and graue thereon, as sygnettes are grauen, The holynesse of the LORDE, and put it on a yelowe sylke lace to be vpon the mytre, euen vpon ꝑ fore tröte of it. And it shalbe vpon Aarons forehead: that Aaron maye beare ꝑ signe of the holy thynges whiche the childrē of Israel halowe in all their holy gifts. And it shalbe alwayes vpon hys forehead, for the reconcilyng of thē before the LORDE. And thou shalt make a lynnen cote, and thou shalte make a mytre of lynnen and a gyrdel of nedle wozke. And thou shalte make for Aarons sonnes also cotes, gyrdels, and bonettes, glorious and bewtyfull, and thou shalte put them vpon Aaron thy brother, and on his sonnes with him: & shalt annoynt them, and fyl their handes, and sanctifye them, that they may minister vnto me. And thou shalt make them lynnē breches to couer their previtpes from the loynes vnto the thyes shal they reache. And they shalbe vpon Aaron and his sonnes when they come into the *tabernacle of wytnes, or whē they come vnto the altar to minister in holynesse, that they beare no sinne, and so dye. And it shalbe a lawe for euer vnto Aaron and his sede after hym. Exod.27.a

The.xxix.Chapter.

The consecracyon of Aaron and of his sonnes.

THis thing also shalt thou do vnto thē whē thou *halowest them to be my prestes. Thou shalte take a calfe, euen a yonge ore, and two rammes that are without blemyshe, and vnleuened breade & cakes of swete bread tempered with oyle, and wafers of swete breade anoynted with oyle (of wheten flower shalt thou make them) and put them in a maunde, and brynge them in the maunde with the calfe and the two rammes. And bryng Aaron & his sonnes vnto the dore of the tabernacle of wytnes, and washe them with water, and take the garmentes, & put vpon Aaron: the strayte cote the tunycle of the Ephod, and the Ephod, and ꝑ brestlap: and gyrde them to hym with the broydered gyrdel whiche is in the Ephod. And put the mytre vpon hys heade: & put the holye crowne vpon the mytre. Then shalte thou take the anoyntyng oyle, and powre it vpon hys heade, and anoynte him. And bryng his sonnes, and put albes vpon them, and gyrde them with gyrdels aswell Aarō as his sonnes. And put the myters on them, and the prestes office shalbe theyrs for a perpetual lawe. And thou shalt fyl ꝑ handes of Aaron and of hys sonnes: and brynge the calfe before the tabernacle of wytnes. *And Aaron & his sonnes shal put theyr handes vpon the head of the calfe, and thou shalt kyl him before the LORD, by the dore of the tabernacle of wytnes. And take of the bloud of the calfe & put it vpon the hornes of the altar with thy fynger: and powre all the bloud beside the bottō of the alter, and take al the fatte that couered the inwardes, and the kall that is on the lyuer, and the two kydneys, & the fat that is vpō them and burne thē vpon the altar. But the flesshe of the calfe and his skynne, & hys donge shalt thou burne wt fyer without the hoost. It is a synne offeryng. Thou shalte also take one ramme, and Aaron and his sonnes shal put theyr handes vpon the head of the ramme, & when thou haste slayne Exod.29.b Leui.8.b Leui.1.b

slayne the ramme, thou shalte take his bloud, and sprynkle it round about vpon the altar, and cut the ramme in peces, and washe the inwardes of hym & hys legges, and put them vnto the peces and vnto his head: and then burne the whole ramme vpon the altar for a burnt offrung vnto the LORDE, and for a swete sauour and a sacrifice vnto the LORDE.

Leuit. 8. d. * And take the other ramme, & Aarō and his sonnes shall put their handes vpon his heade. Then shalte thou kyll hym, and take of his bloude and put it vpon the typ of the ryght eare of Aarō and of his sonnes, and vpō the thumbe of their right hādes, and vpon ṕ greate too of theyr ryght fote, and sprynkle the bloude vpon the altar rounde aboute.

D And thou shalte take of the bloude that is vpon the altar, and of the anoynting oyle, and sprynkle it vpon Aaron and his vestimentes, and vpon hys sonnes, and vpon their garmentes with hym. And he shalbe halowed, & hys clothes, and his sonnes, and their clothes with

Leuit. 8. e hym. * And thou shalte take the fat of ṕ ramme and his rompe, and the fat that couereth the inwardes, and the kall of the lyuer, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is vpon them, and the ryghte shoulder: for that ramme is a full offerynge: and a symnel of breade, & a cake of oyle bread, and a wafer out of ṕ basket of swete breade that is before the LORDE, and put all vpon the handes of Aaron, & on ṕ handes of his sonnes: and waue them for a waue offerynge before the LORDE. And againe, thou shalte take it from of theyr handes, and burne it vpon the altar for a burnt offering, to be a sauour of swetnes before the LORDE. For it is a sacrifyce vnto

Leuit. 8. f the LORDE. * And thou shalte take the

E breest of the ram of Aarons consecration, & waue it for a waue offerynge before ṕ LORDE: and it shal be thy part. And thou shalt sanctifie the breest of the waue offeryng: & ṕ shoulder of ṕ heue offerynge, whiche is waued and heued vp of the ramme of the cōsecratyon for Aaron and for hys sonnes. And it shalbe Aarons and his sonnes by a statute for euer, of the childzen of Israel: for it is an heue offerynge: Even an heue offeryng of the childzen of Israell, and of their peaceofferynges, Their heue offerynges is the LORDES. And the holy garmentes of Aaron shalbe hys sonnes after hym, to be anoynted therin: and to fyll their handes therin. And that sonne that is Priest in his stede after hym, shal put thē on .vii. dayes whē he cōmeth into the tabernacle of wytnes, to ministre in the holy place. * And Leu. thou shalte take the ram of the consecracyon, and seth his flesshe in an holye place. And Aaron and his sonnes shall eate the flesshe of the ram, and ṕ breade f that is in the basket, euē by the doze of the tabernacle of witnes: and they shal eate them, because ṕ attonement was made therwith, to fyll theyr hādes, and to consecrate thē: but a straunger shall not eate therof, because they are holy. And yf ought of the flesshe of the consecration, oz of the breade remayne vnto the moznyng, thou shalt burne it with fyre, & it shall not be eaten, because it is holy. Therfoze shalt thou do vnto Aaron and his sonnes, euen so, accozding to all thynges whiche I haue cōmaūded the, seuen dayes shalt thou fil their handes, & offer euery daye a calfe for a synne offeryng, for to reconcyle withal: that thou maiest clense the altar when thou reconcilest vpon it: and thou shalt anoynte it, to sanctifye it. Seuen dayes thou shalt reconcyle vpon the altar, & sanctifie it, and it shall be as an altare most holy. Euery one that toucheth the altar, let him be holy. * This is ẏwhich Exo. thou shalt offer vpon the altare: euen 6 two lambes of one yere olde, daye by daye contynually: the one thou shalte offre in ṕ moznyng, & the other at euē. And wyth ṕ one lambe a tenthe deale of floure, mingledwith ṕ fourth parte of an hyn of beten oyle, and the fourth part of an hyn of wine, for a drynke offryng. And the other lambe thou shalt offer at euen, and shalte do thereto accozding to the meate offering & drinke offering in ṕ moznyng, to be an odoure of a swete sauoure and a sacrifyce vnto the LORDE. And let this be a cōtynual burnt offrynge amonge youre childzen after you before the dooze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, before the LORDE, where I wyll * mete you, to Exo. speake there vnto thee. There I wyll mete with the childzen of Israell, and wyl be sanctified in myne honour. And I wyll sanctifie the tabernacle of witnesse

The.xxx.Chapter.

¶ The altar of innocencia. The brasen lauer. The anoynting oyle.

A AND thou shalte make an altar to burne incense: of Sethim woode shalte thou make it, a cubyte long and a cubite broade: euen foure square shall it be and two cubites hie, the hornes therfore shall procede oute of it, & thou shalt ouerlaye it with fyne golde, both the roofe and the walles rounde aboute, and his hornes also, and shalte make vnto it a crowne of golde rounde aboute, and two golden rynges on eyther syde, euen vnder the crowne: that they maye be as places for the barres to beare it withall. And thou shalte make the barres of Sethim wood, and couer them with golde. And thou shalt put it before the vayle, þ is by the arke of wytnesse, before the mercyseate that is vpon the wytnes where I wyl mete
B thee. And Aaron shall burne thereon swete incense euery mornyng, when he dresseth the lampes, euen then shall he burne it: and lykewyse at euen, whē he setteth vp the lampes he shal burne incense: and this incensing shalbe perpetually before the LORDE thorowoute youre generations. Ye shall put no

And Aaron shal reconcile vpon the hornes of it once in a yeare: wyth the bloude of the synne offeryng of reconcylyng: euen once in the yeare shall he reconcyle it thorowe youre generacyons. It is most holy vnto the LORDE.
Exo.38.a. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: *yf thou takest the summe of þ childzen of Israel after theyr numbre, they shal geue euery mā a reconciling of his soule vnto the LORD when thou tellest them, that there be no plage among them, when thou tellest them.
And thus muche shal euery man geue, and that goeth into the numbre: halfe a sycle, after the sycle * of þ sanctuarye: Leui.27.b. Nume.3.g. Ezec.45.b.

The ryche shall not passe, and the poze shall not go vnder halfe a sycle. But ye shall geue an heue offeryng vnto the LORD that he maye haue mercye vpon youre soules. And thou shalt take the reconcilyng monye of the childzen of Israel, and shalte put it vnto the vse of the tabernacle of wytnesse, that it maye be a memozyall vnto the childzen of Israel before the LORDE, that he maye haue mercy vpon your soules. And þ LORD spake vnto Moses, saying: * thou shalt C

And it shalbe an ordynaūce vnto them for euer, both vnto hym and his sede thorowoute theyr generations. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses sayinge: Take vnto the principall spyces: of the moost pure myrre fyue hundzed sycles, of swete cinamon halfe so muche, euen two hundzed & fyftye sycles: of swete calamus, two hundzed and fyftye, of cassia, two hundzed and fyftie, after the holy sicle, and of oyle olyfe an hyn. * And thou Leu.3.d. shalte make of the oyle an holye oyntment, euen an oyntment compound after the crafte of the apotecarye. And thou shalte noynte the tabernacle of wytnesse therwith, and the arke of witnes and the table, and all his apparel, and the candelsticke, & all his apparel: D and the altar of incense, and the altar of burnte sacryfyce with al his vessels, and the lauer & his fote. And thou shalt sanctifye them, that they maye be most holye: so that no man touche them but they that be halowed. And thou shalt anoynte Aaron and hys sonnes, and consecrate them, that they may ministre vnto me. And thou shalt speake vn-

to the chyldren of Israell, sayng: thys shall be an holy oyntyng oyle vnto me, throwout your generacions. Upon mannes flesshe shall it not be powred: neyther shall ye make anye other after the makynge of it, for it is holye: and shalbe holye vnto you: whosoeuer maketh lyke that, or whosoeuer putteth any of it vpon a straunger, shal perisshe from amonge his people.

And the LORDE sayd vnto Moses: take vnto the swete spyces: balme, Onicha, swete galbanum, these spyces w pure frankincēse, of eache lyke much, and make of them swete smellynge incense, after the crafte of the apoticary, myngled together, pure and holye. And beate it to pouder and put of it before ỳ wytnesse in the tabernacle of wytnes, where I wyll mete thee. It shalbe vnto you most holy. And se that ye make none after the making of that. It shalbe vnto you holy for the LORDE. Whosoeuer shal make like vnto that, to smel therto, shall perysshe from amonge his people.

¶ The.xxxi. Chapter.

The calleng of Bezaleel and Aholiab the workmen. The Sabboth is commaunded. The tables of stones are geuen Moses.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses sayinge: beholde, * I haue called by name, Bezaleel, the sonne of Uri, the sonne of Hur of ỳ trybe of Juda. And I haue fylled him w the spryte of God, in * wysedome, and vnderstandyng, in knowledge and in al maner of worke, to fynde out sotle feates, and to worke in golde, syluer and brasse: and in the craste to set stones, and to carue in tymber, and to worke in all maner of workemanshyp. And beholde, I haue geuen hym to be his companyon Aholiab the sonne of Ahisamach of ỳ tribe of Dan, & in the hertes of all that are wyse harted, haue I put wysedome to make al that I haue commaunded the, the tabernacle of wytnesse, the Arke of wytnesse, and the mercyseate that is thereupon: and all the ornamentes of the tabernacle, and the table, & hys ornamentes, and the pure candelsticke w all his apparell, and ỳ altar of ensence: and the altar of burnt offerynges and all hys vessels, and the lauer wyth hys sote. The vestymentes to minister in & the holy garmentes for Aaron ỳ preest, and ỳ garmentes of hys sonnes to minister in, and the annoyntynge oyle: & swete ensense for ỳ sanctuary, accordyng to all that I haue cōmaunded the, shal they do.

The LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israell and saye: In any wyse se that ye kepe my * Sabbothes: for it is a sygne betwene me and you in your generacions, for to know that I the LORD am he that doeth sanctifye you. * Kepe my Sabboth therefore: for it is holye vnto you. He that defileth it, shalbe slayne. For whosoeuer worketh therin, ỳ same soule shalbe roted out from among his people. Syx dayes shall men worke. And in the seuenthe daye is the Sabboth of the holye rest of the LORDE. Whosoeuer doth any worke in ỳ Sabboth daye, shall dye: wherefore let the chyldren of Israel kepe the Sabboth, that they obserue it throwoute their generacions, that it be an appoyntmēt for euer. For it is a sygne betwene me and the chyldren of Israell for euer. * For in syx dayes the LORDE made heauen and earthe: and in the seuenth daye he rested, and was refreshed. And when the LORDE had made an ende of comenyng with Moses vpon ỳ moūte Sinai * he gaue him two tables of wytnes: euen tables of stone, wrytten with the fynger of GOD.

¶ The.xxxii. Chapter.

The golden calfe. Moses prayeth for them. He breaketh the tables for anger. He chydeth Aarō The ydolatrers are slayne.

AND when the people sawe, that it was long or Moses came downe out of the moūtayne, they gathered themselues together vnto Aaron, and sayde vnto hym: * Up, make vs goddes to go before vs: for of this Moses (the felowe that brought vs out of the land of Egypt) we wote not what is become. And Aaron sayde vnto thē: * plucke of the golden earinges which are in the eares of youre wyues, youre sonnes, and of your doughters: & bring them vnto me. And all the people plucked of the golden earynges, whyche they had in their eares and brought them vnto Aaron. And they rose vp in the mornynge: and offered burnt offeringes, and broughte peace offringes also. And* ꝑ people sat them downe to eate and drynke & rose vp againe to playe.

And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses:
go, get the downe: thy people whiche thou broughtest out of the lande of E-gipte, haue marred all, they are turned at once out of the waye, whiche I commaunded them: for they haue made them a calfe of molten metall, and haue worshipped it, and haue offered therto, saying: These be thy goddes, O Israel which haue brought the out of ꝑ lande selfe from that euel whiche he sayde he wolde do vnto his people. And Moses turned his backe and went downe frō

the hyll and the* two tables of wytnes were in his hande: and the same tables wer written on both the leaues & were the worke of GOD, and the writynge was the writinge of GOD graue̅ in the therof came out this calfe.

Moses therfore saw that the people were naked (and that Aaron had made them naked vnto their shame amonge their enemyes) and he wente and stode in the gate of the hoste, and sayde: yf any man pertayne vnto ꝑ LORD, lette

that euery one whiche wolde pray vnto
the Lorde, went out vnto ỳ tabernacle of wytnes, whiche was without the hoste. And it forturned, that when Mo-people rose vp: and stode euery man at his tẽt dore: & loked after Moses vntill he was gone into ỳ tabernacle. And as sone as Moses was entred into the ta-stode at ỳ dore of the tabernacle, and he talked with Moses. And all the people sawe the cloudy pyller stande at the tabernacle doore, and they rose vp, and worshipped euery man in his tẽt dore.

And the LORDE spake vnto Moses

¶ The. xxxiiii. Chapter.

The tables are renued. The mercye of God.

To

To haue felowshyp with the Gentyle is forbydden/ and their idolatrye also. Of thre feastes.

AND the LORD sayde vnto Moses *hewe ỹ two tables of stone, lyke vnto the first, and I wyll wryte vpon theim ỹ wordes that were in the first tables which thou brakest. And be ready in the morninge, that thou maist come vp early vnto ỹ mount of Sinai: and stande there with me in the top of the mount. There shal no man come vp with the, neyther let any man be sene thorowout al the mount, nether let the shepe nor oxen fede before the hyl. And Moses hewed two tables of stone like vnto the first, and rose vp early in the morninge, and went vp vnto the mount of Sinai, as the LORDE had cõmaunded him: and toke in his hande the two tables of stone. And the LORD descended in ỹ cloude, & stode with him there: and he called vpon ỹ name of ỹ LORD: And when the LORDE walked before him, he cryed, LORDE *LORDE GOD, mercyful and gracious, long suffering, and aboundant in goodnes and truthe, & keping mercy in store for thousands, forgeuinge wickednes, vngodlynesse & synne, & not leauinge one innocent, visityng ỹ wickednes of the fathers vpon ỹ childzen and vpõ childers childzen, euẽ vnto the third & fourth generatiõ. And Moses bowed him selfe to the earthe quickly, and worshipped, and sayde: yf I haue founde grace in thy sighte (O LORDE) then let my LORDE go wt vs: for it is a stubburne people, and thou shalt haue mercye vpõ our wickednes and our synne, & shalt take vs for thine enheritaunce. And he sayde: beholde, I make an appointment before all ỹ people, & I wil do meruailes: such as haue not bene done in all the worlde, nether in all nacions. And al the people amõg whiche thou arte, shal se the worke of the LORD: for it is a terrible thing that I wil do with the: kepe those thinges ỹ I commaunde the this daye. Beholde, I caste out before the, the Amorytes, Cananites, Hethites, Pherezytes, Heuytes & Jebusytes. *Take hede to thy selfe, that thou make no compacte with the inhabiters of ỹ lande whither thou goest, lest yt be cause of ruyne amonge you. But ouerthrow their aulters, and breake their ymages & cut downe their groues. Thou shalt worship no straũge GOD. For ỹ LORD is * called gelous, because he is a gelous GOD: lest yf thou make any agrement with ỹ inhabiters of the lande, and they go a whorying after their goddes, and do sacrifyce vnto their gods, they call the, & thou eate of their sacrifice: and thou take of their doughters vnto thy sonnes, and their doughters go a whorynge after theyr gods, and make thy sonnes go a whoring after their goddes also.

Thou shalte make the no goddes of metall. The *feaste of the swete breade shalt thou kepe. Seuẽ dayes shalt thou eate vnleauened breade as I cõmaunded the, in the tyme of the moneth, when corne begynneth to rype. For in ỹ moneth whẽ corne beginneth to rype, thou camst out of Egipte. *Al that breaketh vp the matrice is myne: and all ỹ breaketh ỹ matrice among ỹ cattell yf it be male: whether it be oxen or shepe. But the first of the asse thou shalte bye out with a lambe. And yf thou redeme him not, thou shalt breake his necke. Al the first borne of thy sonnes shalt thou redeme. *And se that no man appere before me emptye.

*Syx dayes thou shalte worke, and in the seuenth daye thou shalt rest, both from earynge & reaping. *Thou shalte obserue the feast of weekes, wt thy fyrste frutes, of whete harueste, and the feaste of ingatheringe at ỹ yeres ende. Thrise in a yere shal all your men childzen appere before the LORD Jehoua, GOD of Israel. Whẽ I cast out thy nacions before the, & enlarge thy coastes, so that no man shal desyre thy lãde, thou shalt go vp to appeare before the LORDE thy GOD thryse in ỹ yere. *Thou shalt not offer the bloude of my sacrifice vpõ leuen, neither shal ought of the sacrifice of the feast of Passeouer be lefte vnto the morninge. * The first frute frutes of my lande, thou shalte bringe vnto ỹ house of ỹ LORD thy GOD. And ỹ shalt not *seth a kyd in his mothers mylke.

And ỹ LORD said vnto Moses: wryte these wordes: for after the tenour of these wordes I haue made a couenaũt with the & with Israel. * And he was there with the LORD fourty dayes and fourtye nightes, and dyd neither eate breade nor drynke water. * And he wrote vpõ the tables ỹ wordes of ỹ couenaũt, euẽ ten verses. Namely golde, syluer, and bzasse, & yelowe sylke, purple, skarlet, whyte sylke, goates heare, and rammes skynnes redde, & taxus skynnes, with Sethim woode: oyle for lyght, and spices for the anoyntynge oyle, and for the swete encense,
And Onix stones, & stones to be set in ꝑ Ephod, and in the brestelappe. And let all them that are wyse harted amonge you, come and make all that ꝑ LORDE hath commaunded: the habitacō with the tent therof, and his couerynge, and his rynges, & his bozders, his barres, his pyllers, and his sockettes, the arke, and the staues therof: with the mercy seate, and the vayle that coureth it: the table and his barres, & all his vessels, and ꝑ shewbzeade, the candelstycke of lyght and his apparell and his lampes with the oyle for the lyght: ꝑ cense aultar and his barres, ꝑ annoyntyng oyle and the swete cense, and the hangynge of the doze at the entrynge in of the tabernacle: the aultar of burnte sacrifyce with his bzasen gredyzen, his staues & all his vessels: the lauer and his fote, & the hangynges of the courte, with his pyllers and their sockettes, and ꝑ hangynge in the doze of the courte: the pynnes of the habitacion, and ꝑ pynnes of the courte wᵗ their cozdes: ꝑ ministring garmētes to minister in the holy place: and the holy vestimentes for Aaron the Preaste, and ꝑ vestimentes of his sonnes: that they maye minister in.
Exod. 31. a
And all the company of the childzen of Israel departed from the presence of Moses. And euery one came (as many as their hertes cozaged them, and as many as their spzites made them wyllyng) & brought a present for ꝑ LORD, to the makynge of ꝑ tabernacle of witnesse, and for al his vses, and for ꝑ holy vestimentes. And they came both men and wemen (euen as many as wer wyllynge herted) and brought bzacelettes, & earynges, rynges, & chaynes, whiche iewels were all of golde: and all ꝑ men brought a waue offerynge of gold vnto the LORDE. And euery man wᵗ whom was founde yelow sylke, purple, skarlet, whyte sylke, & goates heare, & red skinnes of rammes, & taxus skins, brought thē: All ꝑ dyd heaue vp an oblacion of golde & bzasse, & brought an heue offrig vnto ꝑ LORD. And al men wᵗ whō was founde Sethim woode for any maner wozke of ꝑ ministracion, brought it.
And all the wemen ꝑ were wyse herted, dyd spynne with their handes: and brought the spunwozke both of yelowe sylke, purple, skarlet, and whyte sylke. And all the wemen whoose their owne

herte moued, ſpanne goates heare wyſely. And the LORDES brought oniſtones, and ſtones to be ſet in ꝑ Ephod, and in the brestlap, and ſpyce, and oyle for lyght, and for the anoyntynge oyle, and for the ſwete cenſe. And the childrē of Iſrael brought a wyllynge offeringe vnto the LORD both men and wemen, as many as had wyllynge hertes to bryng, for all maner of workes whiche the LORD had cōmaunded to be made, by the handes of Moses.

And Moses ſayde vnto the childzen of Iſrael: beholde, *the LORDE hath called by name Bezaleel ꝑ ſonne of Uri the ſon of Hur of ꝑ trybe of Juda, and hath fylled him with ꝑ ſpzete of GOD, in wyſedome and vnderſtandynge, in knowledge, and in all maner worke, to fynde out curious wozkes whiche are made in golde, ſyluer, and brasſe. In the crafte of ſtones to ſet thē, & in caruinge of woode to make any maner of ſotle wozke. And he hath put in his hart that he maye teache: bothe he and Aholiab the ſonne of Ahiſamach of the trybe of Dan. Them hath he fylled with wyſedome of herte, to wozke all maner of grauen, and ſotle, & nedle wozke in yelowe ſylke, and purple, in ſcarlet, and whyte ſylke, and in weuynge. And to do all maner of wozke and ſotle feates.

¶ The.xxxvi. Chapter.

The thinges that Bezaleel and Aholiab made.

AND Bezaleel wzought, and Aholiab & al wyſe herted men, to whome the LORD gaue wyſdom and vnderſtandynge, to knowe how to wozke all maner wozke for the ſeruyce of the ſanctuary, and all that the LORDE had commaunded. And Moſes called Bezaleel, Aholiab and all the wyſe herted men, and ſuche as the LORDE had geuen wyſdome vnto, & as many as their hertes couraged to come vnto ꝑ wozke to wozke it. And they receaued of Moſes all the ꝑſent, whiche the childzen of Iſrael had brought for the wozke of the ſeruice of the ſanctuary, to make it. And beſyde that they brought gyftes vnto it euery daye in the moznynge.

And all the wyſe men that wzoughte al ꝑ holy wozke, came euery mā frō his wozke whiche they made, & ſpake vnto Moſes, ſaying: ꝑ people bzyng to much and moze then ynough, for the ſeruice & wozke which ꝑ LORDE hath cōmaunded to be made. And then Moſes gaue a commaundement, and they cauſed it to be ꝓclamed thozowout the hooſt, ſayinge: ſe that neyther man nor womā ꝓpare any moze wozke for the ꝓſēt of the ſanctuarye: and ſo ꝑ people were forbydden to bzynge: for the ſtuffe they had was ſufficient for all the wozke, to make it, and to muche. *Al ꝑ wyſe herted men therfore, and they ꝑ wzoughte for the habitation, made ten curtaynes of white twined ſylke, yelowe ſylke, purple and ſcarlet: w̄ pictures of bzodzed wozke made he thē. The length of one curtayne was .xxviii. cubytes, and the bzedth foure, & the curtaynes were al of one ſyſe. And he coupled fyue curtaynes by them ſelues, & other fyue by thē ſelues. And he made lowpes of yelowe ſilke along by ꝑ edge of one curtaine, euē in ꝑ ſeluage of ꝑ couplig curtayne. And lykewyſe he made on ꝑ ſyde of ꝑ coupling courtaine on ꝑ other ſide. Fyfty lowpes made he in the one curtayne, and fyfty in the edge of the couplynge curtayne on the other ſyde: and the lowpes helde one curtayne to another. And he made fifty ringes of gold, and coupled the curtaynes one to another with the rynges: & ſo was it made one dwellynge place.

* And he made eleuen curtaynes of goates heare, to be a tent ouer ꝑ tabernacle. The length of a curtaine, had thirty cubytes and was four cubytes bzode, and they all eleuen of one ſyſe. And he coupled fyue curtaynes by thē ſelues, and ſyxe by them ſelues, and he made fyftye lowpes alonge by the bozder of ꝑ vtmoſt coupling curtaine, and fyftie in the edge of the other coupling curtain. (That they might be ioyned together.) And he made fyfty rynges of bzaſſe to couple ꝑ tent together, that it might be one. And he made a couerynge vpon the tent of rams ſkynnes red, and yet another of tarus ſkynnes aboue that.

*And he made ſtandynge bozdes (for the tabernacle) of Sethim woode. The length of a bozde was ten cubytes, the bzedth one cubite & an halfe. One bozd had .ii. fete, wherby thei wer ioyned one to another. And thus made he for al ꝑ bozdes of ꝑ tabernacle. And he made twenty bozdes for the ſouthe ſyde of the habitation, and foztye ſockets of ſyluer vnder the twentye bozdes, two sockettes vnder one bozde, foz his two fete, and two sockettes vnder another bozde foz his two fete (where the sockettes of the sydes end in the corners) And foz ꝑ other syde of ꝑ dwellinge whiche is towarde ꝑ nozthe, he made twentye bozdes, and their fourty sockettes of siluer two sockettes vnder one bozde, & two sockettes vnder ꝑ other. And towarde the west ende of the tabernacle. (That is to saye, at that ende of the tabernacle whiche enclineth towarde the sea.) he made syxe bozdes, and two other bozdes made he in ꝑ cozners of the habitacion, foz eyther syde, and they were ioyned close beneth and aboue with a clampe. & thus they dyd to bothe the cozners. And there were eyght bozdes & syxtene sockettes of siluer: vnder euery bozde two sockettes.

D And he made barres of Sethim woode, fyue foz the bozdes of the tabernacle in the one syde: & fyue foz the bozdes of ꝑ tabernacle in ꝑ other syde: and fyue barres foz the bozdes of ꝑ habitaciõ in ꝑ west ende (towarde the sea.) And he made the mydde barre to shote thozowe the bozdes: euen from the one ende to the other, and ouerlayde ꝑ bozdes with golde, and made rynges of golde to thruste the barres thozowe, & couered ꝑ barres with golde. And he made an hangyng of yelowe sylke, purple, skarlet, & whyte twyned silke, euen with pictures made he it of brodred worke. And made therunto foure pillers of Sethim wood, and ouerlayde them with golde. Their knoppes were also of golde, and he cast foz them four sockets of syluer. And he made an hangynge foz the Tabernacle doze: of yelowe silke, purple, skarlet, and wt white twyned sylke of nedle worke. And the fyue pyllers of it with their knoppes, & ouerlayde the knoppes of them and the whopes wt golde. Their fyue sockets also were of brasse.

¶ The. xxxvii. Chapter.

The arke of witnes. The mercy seate. The table: The candelsticke. The lightes. The aulare and the incense

A ND Bezaleel made ꝑ *arke of Sethim wood, two cubites & an halfe long, and a cubyte & a halfe brode, and a cubite and a halfe hye: and ouerlayde it with fyne golde within & without, and made a crowne of golde to it rounde aboute, and caste foz it four rynges of golde foz the foure cozners of it two rynges foz the one syde, and two foz ꝑ other, & made barres of Sethim wood, & couered thẽ with gold, & put ꝑ barres in the rynges along by the syde of the arke, to beare it withall.

And he made ꝑ mercy seat. (That is to say, Goddes answeryng place) of pure gold: two cubytes & a halfe was the length therof, & one cubyte and a halfe the breadth: and he made two Cherubyns of thicke golde vpon the two endes of the mercy seate. One Cherub on the one ende, and another Cherub on the other ende.

Euen of the mercy seate made he the Cherubins: namely, in ꝑ endes therof. And ꝑ Cherubins spred out their wynges aboue an hye, & couered the mercy seate therwith. And their faces were one to another: euẽ to the mercye seate warde, were ꝑ faces of the Cherubyns.

*And he made ꝑ table of Sethim wod, two cubites was the length therof, & a cubite ꝑ bredth, & a cubite and a halfe ꝑ heigth of it. And he ouerlayde it with fine golde, & made therto a crowne of golde rounde about, & made therto an whope of an hãde bread, roũde about, & made vpõ ꝑ whope a crowne of gold rounde about, and cast foz it foure rynges of golde, & put ꝑ rynges in ꝑ foure cozners ꝑ wer in ꝑ four fete therof. Euen hard by ꝑ whope wer ꝑ ringes, into ꝑ which the barres wer put, to beare the table withal. And he made ꝑ barres of Sethim woode, & couered thẽ with golde to beare the table withall, and made the vessels (foz the table) of pure golde: the dysshes, spones, flat peces, & pottes to powre withal.

*And he made the candelstycke of pure golde: euen of one pece made he the candelsticke. Foz his fote, his shafte, his cuppes, his knoppes, & his flowres, wer of one pece. Syxe braũches proceadyng out of the sydes therof, thre out of the one syde, & thre out of ꝑ other. And in one braũche thre cuppes made lyke vnto almondes with knoppes & flowres: and in another braunche thre cups made lyke almondes with knoppes and flowres.

And so thozowout the syxe braũches that proceded out of the candelsticke. And vpon the candelsticke selfe were four cuppes after the facion of almõdes, wt knoppes & flowres: vnder euery two braunches a knoppe. And the knoppes knoppes & the braunches proceded out of it, & it was all one pece of pure thicke golde. And he made his seuen lampes with the tonges and snoffers therof, of pure golde: Eue of an hudred weyght of pure golde, made he it, with all the vessels therof. And he made the cens D aultar of Sethim wood. The length of it was a cubyte, and ꝑ bredth a cubite, for it was foure square, and two cubites hye, with hornes proceading out of it. And he couered it w pure gold, both the toppe and the sydes therof rounde about, and the hornes of it, and made vnto it a crowne of golde roude about. And he made two rynges of golde for it, euen vnder the crowne therof in the two corners of it and in the two sydes therof to put barres in, for to beare it withall: and made ꝑ barres of Sethim wood, and ouerlayde them with golde. And he made the holy anoyntyng oyle, and the swete pure incens after the apotecaries craffte.

¶ The.xxxviii. Chapter.

¶ The aultar of burnt offerynges. The brasen lauer. The summe of that the people offered.

A Nd he made the burnt offeringe aultar* of Sethim wood, fyue cubytes was the length therof, and fiue cubytes ꝑ bredth: euen. iiii. square, and. iii. cubytes hye. And he made vnto it hornes in the foure corners of it procedyng out of it, and he ouerlayde it w brasse. And he made all the vessels of ꝑ aultar: the cauldrons, shouels, basyns, flesshokes, and cole pannes. All the vessels therof made he of brasse. And he made a brasen gredyron of networke vnto the altar, rounde about, a low beneth vnto the myds of the aultar, & cast foure rynges of brasse for the foure endes of the gredirons to put barres in. And he made the barres of Sethim wood, and couered them with brasse, & put the barres into ꝑ rynges in ꝑ foure corners of the aultar, to beare it withal, and made the aultar holowe within the bordes. And he made the lauer of brasse, and the fote of it also of brasse, in the syght of them that dyd watche at ꝑ dore of the tabernacle of witnesse. And he made ꝑ courte on the southe syde, & ꝑ hangynges of ꝑ courte were of white twined silke, hauig an hudred cubites. Their pyllers were twenty, and theyr brasen sockettes twenty. But ꝑ knoppes of the pyllers, & their whopes wer of syluer. And on the northe syde: the hangynges were an hudred cubites. Their pillers were twenty, & their sockettes of brasse twenty. But ꝑ knoppes & ꝑ whopes of ꝑ pyllers were of siluer. On the west syde, were hangynges of fyfty cubytes, ten pyllers and their ten sockettes (Of brasse.) But the knoppes and the whopes of the pyllers were of siluer. And towarde the east syde, were hangynges of fyftye cubites: the hangynges of the one syde of the gate, were fyftene cubites long, with thre pyllers, and thre sockettes. And of ꝑ other syde of the courte gate were hangynges also of fyftene cubytes longe, with thre pyllers and thre sockettes.

All the hangynges of ꝑ courte roude C about were of whyte twyned sylke: but the sockettes of ꝑ pyllers wer of brasse: and the knoppes, and ꝑ whopes of the pyllers were of syluer, & the couerynge of the heades was of syluer, and all the pyllers of the courte were whoped about with syluer. And the hanging of ꝑ gate of the court was nedle worke, of yelowe sylke, purple, scarlet and whyte twined sylke. xx. cubytes long, and fiue in the bredth, ouer against ꝑ hanginges of the courte. And their pyllers were foure, & their foure sockettes of brasse: and the knoppes of syluer, and the heades ouerlayde with siluer, and whoped about with syluer, and al the pynnes of the tabernacle and of the court rounde aboute, were of brasse. This is the sum of the habitacion of witnes, as it was counted accordyng to the commaundement of Moses for the office of the Leuites by the hand of Ithamar sonne to Aaron ꝑ preast. And Bezaleel ꝑ sonne of Uri the sonne of Hur of the trybe of Juda, made all that ꝑ LORDE comaũded Moses, and with hym was Aholiab sonne of Ahisamach of ꝑ trybe of Dan, a cunninge grauer and a worker of nedle worke in yelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and white twyned sylke. All ꝑ golde D that was occupied for all the worke of the holy place was the golde of ꝑ waue offringe, euen. xxix. hundred weyght, & seuen hundred and. xxx. sycles, accordig to the sycle of the Sanctuarye. And the summe of syluer ꝑ came of ꝑ multitude, was fyue score hundred weyght,

For euery man an halfe weyght, euen halfe a sycle after the sycle of the Sanctuarye, for al them that went to be nōbred from .xx. yere olde and aboue, euen for syre hundred thousande and three thousande and fyue hūdred and .l. men.

And of the fyue score hundred weyght of syluer, wer cast ꝑ sockets of ꝑ sanctuarye, and the sockets of ꝑ vayle, an hundred sockets of the fyue score hundred weyght, an hundred weyght to euery socket. And of the thousande seuē hundred and .lxx. sycles, he made knoppes to the pyllers, & ouerlayde ꝑ heades, and whoped them (with syluer.) And the brasse of the waue offring was .lxx. hundred weyght, and two thousande, & fyue hundred sycles. And therwith he made the sockettes to the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse, and the brasen aultare, and the brasen gredyron for it, with all the vessels of the aultar, and the sockets of the court rounde about, and the sockets for the court gate, and all the pinnes of the habitacion, & al the pyns of the court rounde about.

¶ The .xxxix. Chapter.

The apparell of Aaron and his sonnes. Wether the Lorde commaunded, was offered.

A AND of ꝑ yelowe sylke, purple, and scarlet, they made the vestumentes of ministracion to do seruyce in ꝑ holy place, and made the holy garmentes for Aaron, as the LORDE cōmaunded Moses. And he made the Ephod of golde, yelowe sylke, purple, skarlet, & whyte twined silke. And they dyd beate the golde into thynne plates, and cut it into wyers: to worke it in the yelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, & in ꝑ fyne white, with broyderd worke. And they made two sydes for it, to close them vp by the two edges. And ꝑ broydryng of ꝑ gyrdel ꝑ was vpon it, was of ꝑ same stuffe, and after ꝑ same worke: of gold yelow sylke, purple, scarlet, & twyned whyte sylke, as ꝑ LORD cōmaūded Moses.

B And they wrought Onix stones, closed in ouches of golde, and graued as sygnettes are grauen with the names of ꝑ children of Israel, and put them on the holders of the Ephod, that they shulde be stones for a remembraunce of ꝑ children of Israel, as the LORDE cōmaūded Moses. And he made ꝑ brestlap of cunning worke, and lyke the worke of ꝑ Ephod: euē of golde, yelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and twined whyte sylke. It was foure square, and they made the brestlappe double, an hāde breadth lōg, and an hande bredth broade.

And they fylled it with foure rowes of stones. The first rowe, a Sardios, a Topas and Smaragdus: the seconde rowe, a Rubye, a Saphir and a Dyamonde: in the thirde rowe, Ligurios, an Ichat, and an Amatist: in the fourth row, a turcas, an Onix, and a Jaspis. And they were closed in ouches of gold in their inclosers. And the twelue stones were grauen as sygnets with the names of the children of Israell: euery stone with his name, accordinge to the twelue trybes. And they made vpō the brestlap, two fastening cheynes of wrethē worke, & pure gold. And they made two hokes of golde, & two golde rynges: & put the two rynges in the two corners of the brestlappe. And they put ꝑ two cheynes of golde in the two ringes, in the corners of the brestlappe.

D And the two endes of the two cheynes they fastened in the two hokes, and put them on ꝑ sholders of ꝑ Ephod vpon the fore syde of it. And they made two rynges of golde, and putte thē on the two corners of the brestlappe vpon the edge of it, whiche was on the inside by the Ephod. And they made two goldē rynges, & put them on the two sydes of the Ephod, beneth on ꝑ forefyde of it, & ouer against his felow aboue vpon the broydryng of ꝑ Ephod, & they strained ꝑ brestlappe by his rynges vnto ꝑ ringes of ꝑ Ephod, with a lace of yelow silke, that it might be vpon the broyderynge of the Ephod, and ꝑ the brestlap should not be lensed from of the Ephod: as the LORDE commaunded Moses. And he made the tunycle vnto the Ephod of woue worke, altogether of yelow silke

C and there was an hole in ꝑ myddest of the tunicle, as the coler of a partlet, wt a bonde rounde aboute the coler, that it shulde not rent.

And in the tunycle they made hemmes wt pomgranates, of yelow sylke, purple scarlet, and whyte twyned sylke. And they made lytle belles of pure golde, & put them amonge the pomgranates rounde about vpon the edge of the tunycle: a bell and a pomgranate, a bell and a pomgrauate rounde aboute the hemmes of the tunycle to minister in, as the LORDE commaunded Moses. And they made cotes of fyne whyte of wouen wozke foz Aaron and his sons, and a mytre of fyne white, and goodly bonettes of fyne whyte, and lynen bzeches of twyned whyte, and a gyzdell of twyned whyte, yelowe sylke, purple & scarlet: euen of nedle wozke, as the LORDE cõmaunded Moses. And they made the plate foz the holye crowne of fyne golde, and wzote vpõ it with grauen wozke, the holines of the LORDE: and tyed vnto it a lace of yelowe sylke to fasten it an hye vpon the mytre, as ỹ LORDE commaunded Moses.

f Thus was all the wozke of the habitacion and of the Tabernacle of witnesse fynished. And the chyldzen of Israel dyd accozdyng to all that ỹ LORD had commaunded Moses: euen so dyd they. And they bzought the habitacion vnto Moses: the tente and all his apparel, buttons, bozdes, barres, pyllers, and sockets, the couerynge of rammes skynnes redde, and the couerynge of tarus skynnes, and the hanging vaile, the arke of witnesse and ỹ barres therof, and the mercy seate: the table, and al the vesselles therof, & the shewe bzead: the pure candelsticke, with the lampes therof: euen with the lampes to be pzepared, and all the vesselles therof, and the oyle foz lyght: the golden altar and the annoyntynge oyle, and the swete tens, and the hanging of the Tabernacle doze, and the bzasen altar wyth his gredyzen of bzasse, hys barres and all his vessels, the lauer and hys fote: the hangynges of the courte with his pyllers and sockettes: the hangyng to the courte gate, and his pynnes & coardes, and all the vessell of the seruyce of the habytacion foz the Tabernacle of witnesse: the mynistrynge vestimentes to serue in the holy place, and ỹ holy vestimentes foz Aaron the Pzieste, and hys sonnes raymentes to minister in: accozdyng to all that the LORDE commaunded Moses: euen so the chyldzen of Israell made all the wozke. And Moses beheldе all the wozke, and see: they had done it euen as the LORDE commaunded: euen so had they done, and Moses blessed them.

¶ The.xl. Chapter.

The tabernacle is reared vp. The glorye of the Lorde appeareth in a cloude, couerynge the tabernacle.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayynge. In the fyrst daye of ỹ fyrste moneth, shalte thou set vp the habitacion and the Tabernacle of wytnes, and put therin ỹ Arke of wytnes, and couer the arke with the vaile, and bzynge in the table, and apparel it accozdyng to ỹ ozder therof. And thou shalte bzynge in the candelstycke, and lyght his lampes, and set the cense altar of gold befoze the Arke of witnes, and put the hangyng at the doze of the habitacion.

And set the burnt offeryng altar befoze the doze of the habitacion, and Tabernacle of wytnesse, and set the lauer betwene the Tabernacle of wytnes & the altare, and put water therein, and make the courte rounde aboute, and hange vp the hangynge at the courte gate. *And thou shalt take the anoyntyng oyle, and anoynte the habitacion, and all that is therin, and halowe it wt all the vesselles thereof, that it maye be holy. And thou shalt anoynte the altar of burnt offeryng, and all his vessels, and sanctifie the altar, that it maye be an altar most holy. Exod.30.g B

And thou shalte anoynt also the lauer and his fote, and sanctifie it. And thou shalt bzynge Aaron and his sons vnto the doze of the tabernacle of witnes, and washe them wyth water. And thou shalt put vpon Aaron ỹ holy vestymentes, and anoynte him, & sanctifie him that he may minister vnto me. And thou shalte bzynge his sonnes, & clothe them wyth garmentes, and annoynte them as thou dydest annoynte theyr father, that they maye mynyster vnto me. Foz their annoiting shalbe an euerlastynge pziesthoode vnto thẽ thorowout their generacions. *And Moses dyd accozdyng to al that ỹ LORDE commaunded hym: euen so dyd he. Num.7.f C

Thus was the Tabernacle reared vp the fyrste day in the fyrst moneth in the second yere. And Moses reared vp the tabernacle and fastened his sockettes, and set vp the bozdes therof, and put in the barres of it, and reared vp his pyllers, and spzeade abzode the tent ouer the habitacion, and put the couerynges of the tent an hye aboue it: as ỹ LORD commaunded Moses.

And he toke the testimony, and put it in the Arke, and sette the barres to the arke, and put the mercyseate aboue vpon the Arke, and brought the Arke into the habitacion, and hanged vp the vayle, and couered the Arke of witnes, as the LORDE commaunded Moses.

And he put ꝑ table in the tabernacle of wytnes in the Northside of the habitacion, (but without the vayle) & set the breade in ordre before the LORDE, euen as the LORDE had commaunded Moses. And he put the candelstycke in ꝑ Tabernacle of wytnes ouer agaynst the table towarde the south syde of the habitacion, & set vp the lāpes before the LORDE: as ꝑ LORDE cōmaunded Moses. And he put the golden altar in the Tabernacle of witnesse before the vayle, & brent swete sense theron, as the LORDE commaunded Moses. And he hanged vp the hangyng at the doze of the habitacyon, and set the burnt offerynge altar by the entryng in of the habitacion of ꝑ Tabernacle of wytnesse, & offered burnt offerynges & meate offerynges theron, as ꝑ LORD cōmaūded Moses.

Lect. 30.c * And he set the lauer betwene the Tabernacle of wytnesse and the altar, & powred water therin, to washe wal. And Moses, Aaron and hys sonnes, washed their handes & their fete therat: when they went into the Tabernacle of wytnes, and when they wente to the altar: they washed themselues, as the LORDE commaunded Moses. And he reared vp the courte rounde about the habitacion and the altar, and sette vp an hangyng at the courte gate: and so Moses finished the worke.

Numb. 9.c * And the cloude couered the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and the glory of the LORDE fylled the habitacion. And Moses could not entre into the tabernacle of wytnes, because ꝑ cloud abod theron, & the glory of ꝑ LORD fylled ꝑ habitacion. (For the cloud had couered all.

And when the cloude was taken vp from of the habitacion, the chyldren of Israell toke their iorneys thorowout their armies. And when ꝑ cloude was not taken vp, they iourneyed not tyll it was take vp: for the cloud of ꝑ LORD was vpon the habitacion by daye, and fyre by nyght: in the syght of all ꝑ house of Israell, thorowout al their armies.

¶ The .i. Chapter.

AND the LORDE called Moses, and spake vnto hym oute of the Tabernacle* of wytnesse, sayinge: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israell, and thou shalte say vnto them. ¶ If a man of you bryng a sacrifice vnto the LORDE ye shal bryng your sacrifice from amōg these catell, euen from among the oxen and ꝑ shepe. ¶ If his sacrifice be a burnt offeryng, let hym offre a male of ꝑ oxen without blemyshe, and bryngе hym (of his owne voluntary wyll) vnto ꝑ doze of the tabernacle of witnesse before the LORDE. And he shall put his hand vpon the heade of the brent sacrifice and it shalbe accepted for hym, to be his attonement. And he shal kyll the calfe of the droue before the LORDE. And the prestes Aarons sonnes, shall bryngе the bloude, and shall sprynkle it rounde about vpon the altar, that is by ꝑ doze of the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And then shall he flaye the burnt offeryng, and hewe him in peces. And the sonnes of Aaron the Preest shal put fyre vpon the altar, and put wood vpon the fyre. And the prestes Aarons sonnes shall laye the partes (euen the head and the fatte) vpon the wood that is on the fire in the altar. But the inwardes and the legges therof he shall washe in water, and the preest shal burne al on ꝑ altar, that they maye be a burnt sacrifice for a swete odour vnto the LORDE.

And ¶ his sacrifice be of the flockes (namely of the shepe or goates) let him C bryng a male without blemyshe for a burnt offerynge. And let hym kyll it on the Northside of the altare before the LORDE. And the prestes Aarons sons shall sprynkle the bloude round about vpon the altare. And it shalbe cut in peces: euen with his head and his fat, and the preeste shall put them vpon the woode that lyeth vpon the fyre on the altar. But he shal washe the inwards, and the legges with water: & the preest shal shal bryng al together & burne it vpon the altar for a burnt offering of a swete sauour vnto the LORDE. ¶ If the burnte offerynge for the sacrifice of ꝑ LORDE be of the foules, he shall bryng hys sacrifice of the turtyl doues or of ꝑ yong pygeons. And the ꝓiest shall bryng it vnto the altar, and wrynge the necke a sunder of it, and burne it on the altar.

But the blonde therof shal runne out vpon by the syde of the altar. And he shall plucke away his croppe with his fethers, and caste them beside the altar on the east parte in the place of asshes. And he shall breake the wynges of it, but plucke them not a sunder. And the ꝓiest shal burne it vpon the altar, euē vpon the woode that is vpon the fyre, that it maye be a burnte sacrifice for a swete sauour vnto the LORDE.

¶ The.ii. Chapter.

The order of meateofferynges.

¶ The soule that wyll offre a meate offerynge vnto the LORDE, the same offerynge shall be of fyne floure, and he shall powre oyle, vpō it, and put frankencens thereon, and shal bryng it vnto Aarons sonnes the ꝓiestes. And he shal take therout his hanfull of the floure, and of the oyle wyth all the frankencens, and the ꝓiest shal burne it for a memorypall of hym vpon the altar: to be an offeryng for a swete sauour vnto the LORDE. And the remnaunt of the meate offering shalbe Aarons and his sonnes, a thyng most holy of the sacrifices of the LORDE. ¶ If thou bryng also a meateoffering that is baken in the ouen, let it be a swete cake of fyne floure myngled wᵗ oyle, or an vnleuened wafer anoynted with oyle. If thy meatofferyng be baken in the frying pan, it shalbe of swete floure mingled with oyle. And thou shalt mynce it small, and powre oyle thereon, that it maye be a meate offerynge. And yf thy meate offeryng be a thyng broyled vpon the gredyrō, let it be of floure mingled with oyle. And thou shalte bryngе the meate offerynge (that is made of these thinges) vnto the LORDE, & shalt delyuer it vnto the ꝓiest that he may offre it vpon the altar, and the ꝓieste shall take of the meate offeryng a memorial, and shal burne it vpon ꝑ altar that it maye be a burnt offerynge for a swete sauour vnto the LORDE. And that whiche is lefte of the meate offerynge shalbe Aarons and his sonnes. ¶ It is a thing most holy of ꝑ offeringes of the LORDE. Al the meate offeringes which ye shall bryngе vnto the LORD, shall be made withoute leuen. For ye shall neyther burne leuen nor hony in any offeryng of the LORDE.

Notwithstandyng ye shall bryng the fyrstlynges of them vnto the LORDE: but they shall not come vpon the altar for a swete sauoure. * All the meate offerynges also shalte thou season with salte: nether shalt thou suffer ꝑ salt of ꝑ couenaunt of thy GOD to be lackynge from thy meate offeryng: but vpon all thyne offerynges thou shalte bryngе salte. And yf thou offre a meatofferyng of thy fyrst ripe frutes vnto the LORD, thou shalte offer for the meatofferyngе of thy fyrst frutes, eares of corne dryed by the fyre, and corne beaten as meale. And thou shalt put oyle vpon it, & laye frankensence thereon, that it maye be a meatofferyng. And ꝑ ꝓiest shall burne part of the beaten corne, & part of that oyle with al the frankensence, for a remembraunce. And it shalbe a sacrifyce vnto the LORDE.

¶ The.iii. Chapter.

The order of peace offerynges.

¶ And yf his sacrifice be a peace offeryng and he take it from amonge the droues (whether it be male or female) he shall bryng such as is withoute blemyshe, before the LORDE: and put hys hande vpon the heade of hys offering, & kyl it at the dore of ꝑ tabernacle of wytnesse. And Aarons sonnes the ꝓiestes shall sprynckle the blonde vpon the altar rounde aboute. And he shall offer somewhat of the peace offeryng to be a sacrifyce vnto the LORD: euen the fat * that is about ꝑ inwards, and the two kydneys, and the fat that is on them and vpon the loynes and ꝑ aboundance that is on the liuer shal he take awaye with the kydneis. And Aarons sonnes shall burne thē on the altar vpon the burnt sacrifice whiche is vpon the wood that is on the fyre to be a burnt sacrifyce for a swete sauoure vnto the LORDE. ¶ If he bryngе a peace offeryng vnto the LORDE from of the

flocke, let him offer male or female: but wout blemithe. And yf he offer a shepe for his sacrifice, he shal bryng it before the LORDE, and put his hande vpō his offerynges heade, and kyll it before the dore of the Tabernacle of wytnes, and Aarons sonnes shall sprynkle ꝑ bloud therof rounde aboute the altar. And of the peace offeryng, let hym bryng a sacrifice vnto the LORDE: the fat therof, C and the rumpe altogether, which they shall take of, hard by ꝑ backe bone: and the fat ꝑ couereth the inwardes, & all ꝑ fat ꝑ is vpon the inwardes & the two kydneys, & the fat that is vpon thē and vpon the loynes, and ꝑ aboūdance that is vpon the lyuer shal he take away w
the kydneys. And the priest shal burne them vpon the altar, to be the foode of a sacrifice vnto the LORDE. If hys offeryng be a goate, he shall bryngе it before the LORDE, and put hys hande vpon the head of it, and kyll it before ꝑ D tabernacle of the couenaunt, & the sons of Aaron shal sprynkle the bloud ther-of vpon the altar rounde aboute. And he shal bryng therof his offeryng euen a sacrifice vnto the LORD: the fat that couereth the inwardes, and all the fat that is vpon the inwardes, and the two kydneys, & the fat that is vpon them & vpon the loynes, & the abundaunce vp-on the lyuer shall he take awaye wyth
the kydneys. And the priest shal burne them vpon the altar for the food of the sacrifice: that al the fat may be a swete sauour vnto the LORDE. Let it be a perpetuall statute for youre generacyons, thorowout your dwellinges, that ye eate nether fat nor* bloude.

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

The offerynges made for synnes done of ignorauncе.

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses,
saying: speake vnto the chyldrē of Israell, and saye: If a soule synne thorowe ignorauncе, and hath done a-nye of those thynges whych the LORD hath forbidden in his cōmaundemētes to be done. As yf the priest that is annoynted do synne (accordynge to the synne of the people) let hym bryngе for hys synne whiche he hathe synned a ponge ore without blemyshe vnto the LORD for a synne offering. And he shal bryng the ponge ore vnto the dore of ꝑ tabernacle of wytnes before the LORD, and shall put his hande vpon the pong ore head, and kyll the ponge ore before the LORDE. And the priest that is ap-poynted * shall take of the ponge ore bloude, and bryng it into the taberna- Lxx.
cle of witnesse, and the priest shal dippe his fynger in the bloude, and sprynkle thereof seuen tymes before the LORD, euen before the hangynge of the holye place. And he shall put some of ꝑ bloud before the LORDE, vpon the hornes of the altar of swete cens, whiche is in ꝑ tabernacle of wytnes, and shal powre all the bloude of the pong ore vnto the botome of the altar of burnt offeryng, whych is at the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And he shal take away al the fat of the ore that is for synne, the fat that couereth the inwards, and all the fatte that is aboute the inwards, and the two kydneys, and the fat that is vpon them, and vpon the loynes and the abundaunce of ꝑ lyuer shal he take awaye with the kydneys: as it was taken awaye in the ore of the peace offerynges, and let the Priest burne them vpon ꝑ altar of burnt offerynge. * But the skynne of the pong ore, and all hys flesshe, with his heade, and hys legges, with his inwards, and his dunge, shall he beare out and carie the pong ore altogether out of the hoost vnto a cleane place: euen where as the asshes are powred oute, and burne hym there on wood in the fire: euē by ꝑ place where the asshes are cast out, shal he be brent.
yf the whole congregacyon of Israell sinne thorowe ignorauncе, & the thing be hyd from their eyes, so ꝑ they haue cōmitted any of those thynges which the LORDE hath forbydden to be done in hys commaundementes, and haue offended. When the synne whiche they haue sinned in, is knowen, the congregacion shall bryng a ponge ore for the syn: and bryngе hym before the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the elders of the multytude shall put theyr handes vpon the head of the ponge ore before the LORDE. And the ponge ore shalbe slayne before the LORDE. And the priest that is anoynted, shall bryng of his bloude into the tabernacle of wyt-nes, and the preyest shall dyppe his finger in the bloude, and sprynkle it seuen tymes before the LORDE, euen before the vayle.

And

D And shall put the bloude vpon the hornes of the altar, whiche is before þ LORDE in the tabernacle of wytnes, & shall powre all the bloude vnto þ bottome of the altar of burnte offerynge whiche is before the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and shall take all his fatte from hym, and burne it vpon the altar, and shall do with this yonge ore, as he dyd with the yonge ore for synne: euen so shall he do with this. And the Priest shall make an attonemente for them, and it shalbe forgeuen them. And he shall bryng thys yonge ore without the hoste, and burne him as he burned the fyrste. For it is an oblacyon for the synne of the congregacyon.

E when a Lorde synneth, and cõmytteth thorowe ygnoraunce any of these thynges (whych the LORDE his GOD hath forbydden to be done in his commaundementes) and hath offended: And yf hys synne be shewed vnto him whiche he hathe done, he shall bryngе his offeryng: euen an he goate without blemysshe, and laye his hand vpon the heade of the he goate, and kyll it in the place where the burnt offeryng is vsed to be kylled before the LORDE. For it is a synne offerynge. And lette the priest take of the bloud of the offeryng wyth hys fynger, and put it vpon the hornes of the burnte offerynge altar, and powre hys bloud vnto the botome of the burnt offeryng altar, and burne all hys fatte vpon the altar, as the fat of the peace offerynges. And the priest F shall make an attonement for hym, as concernynge hys synne, and it shall be forgeuen him. yf one of the comen people of the lande, synne thorowe ygnorraunce: and commyt any of the thynges whiche the LORDE hath forbyddē in his commaundementes to be done, & so hath trespaced, yf hys synne whiche he hath sinned, come to his knowledge: he shall bryngе for hys offerynge, a he goate from among the flockes, without blemyshe, for his syn which he hath synned, and laye his hand vpon þ head of the offeryng, and slee it in þ place of burnt offerynges. * And the priest shal take of the bloud therof wyth his finger, and put it vpon the hornes of the burnt offerynge altar, and powre all þ bloud vnto the botome of thealtar, and shall take awaye all his fat, as the fat of the peace offerynges is taken away. And the priest shall burne it vpon the altar, that it maye be a swete sauoure vnto the LORDE, and the Priest shall make an attonemente for hym, and it shalbe forgeuen hym. And yf he bryng a shepe for a synne offerynge, he shall bryng a female without blemyshe, and laie his hand vpon the head of the offeryng, and slee it for a synne offerynge, in the place where they kyll the burnte offeryng.

And the priest shal take of the bloud G of the offeryng wyth hys fynger, & put it vpõ the hornes of the burnt offering altar, and shall powre the bloud therof vnto the botome of the altar. * And he Leui.3.d. shall take awaye all the fat therof, as the fatte of the shepe of the peace offeryng is wonte to be taken awaye. And the priest shall burne it vpon the altar: that it maye be the LORDES burnt sacrifyce, and the priest shal make an attonement for hys synne, that he hathe commytted, and it shall be forgeuen hym.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

¶ Of othes. The clensenge of hym that toucheth vncleane thynges. The purgacyon of an othe/ and of synne done by ygnorsaunce.

I If a soule sinne and heare þ voyce of swearynge, and is a wytnesse: whether he hath sene or knowen of it, yf he haue not vttered it, he shall beare hys syn. Eyther yf a soule touch any vncleane thyng: whither it be a cary̆ of an vncleane beast, or of vncleane cattell, or vncleane wormе, and is not ware of it: beholde, he is vncleane and hath offended. Eyther yf he touch any vnclenes of man (whatsoeuer vnclennes it be that a man is wont to be defyled withal) and is not ware of it, and cõmeth to the knowledge of it, he hath trespassed. Either if a soule sweare and pronounceth with hys lyppes to do euell, or to do good (whatsoeuer it be þ a man vseth to pronoũce with an oth) and the thynge be hyd from hym, and commeth to the knowledge of it, & hath offended in one of these. And it shal come to passe that when he hathe synned in one of these thynges, he shall confesse that he hath synned in that thynge. Therfore shall he bryngе hys trespasse offeryngе vnto the LORDE, for hys synned

synne whiche he hath synned. A female from the flocke, a lambe or a she goate for a synne offeryng. And the preest shal make an attonement for hym. concernyng his synne. * And yf he be not able Lem. 12.d. Luke. 2.d to bryng such a shepe, he shal bryng for his trespace which he hath synned, two turtyl doues, or two yong pigeons vnto ꝑ LORDE, one for a synne offering, & the other for a burnte offeryng. And he shal bryng them vnto the preest, which shall offer the synne offeryng fyrst, and wryng ꝑ necke a sider of it, but plucke it not cleane of. And he shal sprynkle of the bloude of the synne offeryng vpon the syde of the altar: and the rest of the bloude shal he powre by the botome of the altar: for it is a synne offerynge.

And he shall offer the seconde for a burnt offeryng as the maner is: and so shal the preest make an attonement for hym (for the synne whyche he hath sinned) and it shalbe forgeuen hym. And yf he be not able to bryngе two turtle doues, or two ponge pygeons, then he that hathe synned, shall bryngе for hys offerynge, the tenth parte of an Epha of fine floure for a synne offeringe, but put none oyle therto, neyther put anye frankensence thereon, for it is a synne offeryng. And let the preest offer it: and the preest shal take his hande ful of it, for a remembraunce therof, and burne it vpon the altar, to be a sacryfice for ꝑ LORDE, it is a synne offeryng. And the preest shall make an attonemente for hym as touchyng hys synne ꝑ he hath synned in one of these, and it shalbe forgeuen. And the remnaunte shall be the preestes, as a meate offeryng.

D And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: yf a soule trespace & synne throwe ygnoraunce in thynges that are consecrated vnto the LORDE, let hym bryngе for hys trespace vnto ꝑ LORD a ramme wythout blemyshe out of the flockes, valued in money at two sicles, Exod. 30.b after the * syete of the sanctuary, that it maye be for a trespace offering. And he shal make amendes for the harme that he hath done in the holy thyng, and let hym put the fyfte parte moze thereto, and geue it vnto the preest. And ꝑ preest shall make an attonemēt for him with the ramme that is for the trespace, and it shalbe forgeuen hym.

Yf a soule synne and commit anye of these thynges which are forbydden to be done by the commaundementes of the LORDE and wyste it not, and hath offended, he shall beare hys synne: and shall bryngе a ramme woute blemyshe vute of the flocke that is estemed to be wurth a trespace offering, vnto ꝑ preest: And the preest shal make an attonemēt for hym concerninge hys ygnoraunce, wherein he erred and was not ware, and it shall be forgeuen hym. Thys is the trespace offerynge which he offred vnto the LORDE for that trespasse.

¶ The. vi. Chapter.

¶ The offeringes for synne whiche are done wilfyngly. The lawe of the burnt offryngeo. The fyre must abyde euermore vpon the altar. The offeryngeo of Aaron, and his sonne.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: yf a soule synne & trespace agaynst the LORDE, & denye vnto his neyghbour that whiche was taken him to kepe, or that was put into hys handes, or doeth violent robberye or wrong vnto his neyghbour, or if he haue founde that whiche was lost, and denyeth it, and sweareth falsely, vpō whatsoeuer thyng it be that a mā doeth, and synneth therein: yf he haue so sinned or trespaced, he shal restore agayne that he toke violently away, or the wrong whych he dyd or that which was deliuered him to kepe, or the loste thynge whiche he founde: & all that aboute whiche he hath sworne falsely, he shall restore it agayne in the whole summe, and shal ad the fyfte part more therto, and geue it vnto hym to whome it pertayneth, the same daye ꝑ he offereth for his trespace: & let hym bryngе for his trespace vnto the LORD a ram wythout blemyshe out of the flocke (ꝑ is estemed worth a trespace offeryng) vnto the preest.

And the preest shal make an attonemente for hym, before the LORDE, & it B shal be forgeuē him, whatsoeuer thing it be that he hath done & trespaced therin. And the LORD spake vnto Moses: saying: commaunde Aaron & his sons, saynge: this is the lawe of the burnte offerynge. * The burnt offeryng shal be En vpon the harth of the altar all nyghte vnto the morenyng, and the fyre shalbe kyndled on the altar. And ꝑ preest shal put put on his *linnen albe, and his lynnen brzyches vpō his flesche, and take away the asshes vpon the whych the fyre cōsumed the burnt sacrifice in the altar, & he shall put them besyde the altar, and put of his raymente, and put on other,

and cary the asshes out without ꝑ hoste vnto a cleane place. The fyre vpon the altar shall burne styl, and neuer be put oute. But the prieste shall laye wood on it euery daye in the morenyng, & put the burnt sacrifice vpon it, and he shall burne therō the fatte of the peace offerynges. The fyer shal euer burne vpon the altar, and neuer go oute. * This is the law of the * meate offerynge: whiche Aarons sonnes shal bzyng be-foze the LORDE, euen before the altar:
and one of them shall take his handful of the floure of the meate offeryng, and of the oyle, & al the frankencens which is vpon the meate offerynge, and shall burne it vnto a remembzaunce vpon ꝑ altar foz a swete sauour, euen a memoryall of it vnto the LORDE.

C And of the reste therof, shall Aaron & hys sonnes eate: vnleuened shall it be eaten in the holy place: euen in ꝑ court of the tabernacle of wytnesse they shal eate it. It shal not be baken with leuē.
I haue geuē it vnto thē foz theyr poz-cyon of my sacrifices. It is most holy as is the synne offeryng & trespas offeryng. All the males amonge the chyl-dzen of Aarō shal eate of it: It shalbe a statute foz euer in your generacyons concernyng the sacrifice of ꝑ LORDE:
let euery one that toucheth it, be holy.
And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: this is the offeryng of Aaron & of hys sonnes whyche they shall offer vnto the LORDE in the daye when he is anoynted: the tenth part of an Epha
of floure, foz a meate offerig perpetual:
halfe in the morenyng & halfe at nyght:
In the fryng pan it shalbe made with oyle. And when it is fryed, thou shalte bzyng it in, and the baken offerynges of thys oblacyon mynsed smal, shalt thou offer foz a swete sauour vnto ꝑ LORD.
And the prieste of hys sons ꝑ is anoynted in his steade: shall offer it: It is the LORDES dutie foz euer, it shalbe burnt altogether.

D Foz euery meate offeryng ꝑ is made foz the prieste, shalbe burnt altogether, and shall not be eatē. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto Aaron, and vnto his sonnes, and saye:
This is the lawe of the synne offering.
In the place where the burnt offering is kylled, shal the synne offeryng be killed before the LORDE foz it is most ho-
lye. *The prieste that offereth it, shall Oſee.4.b. eate it: In the holy place shall it be eaten: euen in the courte of the tabernacle of wytnesse. No man touche ꝑ flesche therof, saue he that is halowed. And who so sprynkleth of the bloud thereof vpon any garment, thou shalt washe it in the holy place, there as it is sprynkled vpon. *But the earthen pot that it Leuit.15.b is soden in, shalbe broken. And yf it be soden in a brasen potte, it shalbe scoured and rynsed in the water. All ꝑ males amonge the prieستes shal eate ther-of, foz it is moste holye. And no synne offeryng, whose bloude is brought into the tabernacle of wytnes to recon-cyle withall in the holye place, shalbe eaten: but shalbe burnt in the fyre.

¶ The.vii. Chapter.

¶ Tresspace offerynges. Synne offerynges and peace offerynges. The fat and the bloud maye not be eaten.

THis is the lawe of tresspace offeryng: it is moste holy. In ꝑ place A where they kyll the burnte offeryng, shall they kyll the tresspace offeryng also, & his bloude shal he sprynkle rounde aboute vpon the altar. All the fatte therof shall they offer: the rumpe and the fatte thereof that couereth the inwardes, and the two kydneys, & the fat that is on them and vpon ꝑ loynes:
and the aboundance that is on ꝑ lyuer shalte thou take awaye with the kydneys, & the prieste shall burne them vp-on the altar, to be a sacrifyce vnto the LORDE foz it is a tresspasse offerynge.
All the males among the prieستes shall eate thereof in the holy place, foz it is moste holy. As the syn offeryng is, so is the tresspace offerynge: one lawe serueth foz both, and it shalbe the prieستes that reconcyleth therwith. And the prieste that offereth any mannes burnt offerynge, shall haue the skynne of the burnt offeryng which he hath offered.
And all the meate offeryng that is ba-ken in ꝑ ouen & that is dressed vpon ꝑ gredyzen, & in the fryinge pan, shall be the prieستes that offereth it. And euery meate

meate offeryng that is myngled wyth oyle and that is dryc, shal pertaine vnto all ꝑ sonnes of Aaron, and one shall B haue as much as another. This is the lawe of the peace offeryng, when it is offered vnto the LORDE. ¶ If he offer it to geue thankes, he shal bring vnto his thankeofferyng swete cakes myngled with oyle, and swete waters anoynted wyth oyle, & cakes myngled wt oyle, of fyne floure fryed. He shall bringe hys offryng vpon cakes of leuened breade, for his peace offerynges to geue thākes:
and of al the sacrifice he shall offer one for an heue offeringe vnto the LORDE, and it shall be the priestes that sprinkled the bloud of the peace offerynges.
And the flesche of the thankeoffering in hys peace offerynges, shal be eaten the same day that it is offered. And let him laye vp nothynge of it vntyl ꝑ morow.
But yf he offer hys sacrifice by reason of a vowe, or of hys owne free wyll, it shalbe eaten the same day that he offereth his sacrifice.

And yf ought remayne vntyll ꝑ mo-rowe, it maye be eaten: but as much of the offred flesche as remaineth vnto the thyrde daye, shalbe burnte with fyre.
And yf any of the flesche of his peace of-frynges be eaten in the thyrd day, then shall he that offereth it obtayne no fa-uour, neyther shall it be rekened vnto hym, but shall be an abhominacyon.
C Therfore ꝑ soule that eateth of it shal beare hys synne. And the flesche that toucheth any vncleane thinge, shal not be eaten, but burnt with fyre: and all ꝑ be cleane shall eate the flesche. But yf anye soule eate of the flesche of the peace offerynge that pertaynethe vnto the LORDE hauyng hys vnclennesse vpon hym, the same soule shall perysche frome among hys people. Moreouer, ꝑ soule that doth touch any vncleane thyng, ꝑ is of the vnclennesse of man, or of anye vncleane beast: or any abhominacyon that is vncleane, and then eate of the flesche of the peace offering whiche pertayneth vnto the LORDE, that soule shall perysche from his people. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge:
speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye. *ye shal eate no maner fat of oxē, of sheep, and of goates: neuertheiater ꝑ fatte of the beast that dyeth alone, and the fatte of that whiche is torne wyth wylde beastes, shall be occupied in any maner of vse, but ye shall in no wyse eate of it. For whosoeuer eateth ꝑ fatte of the beast of which men vse to bryng an offerynge vnto the LORDE, ꝑ soule that eateth it, shall perysche from hys people. Moreouer, ye * shall eate no maner of bloude, whether it be of soule or of beaste. What soeuer soule it be ꝑ eateth any maner of bloude, the same soule shall perysche from his people.
And the LORDE talked with Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldrē of Israell & saye: he that bryngeth hys peace offerynge vnto the LORDE, lette hym bringe hys gyfte vnto the LORDE of his peace offering: let his own handes bryng the offerynges of the LORDE: euen the fat with the brest shal he bring:
that ꝑ brest may be waued for a waue offering before the LORDE. And the priest shal burne the fat vpon the altar, and the brest shall be Aarons and hys sonnes.

And the ryght shoulder shal ye geue vnto the priest, for an heue offeryng, of your peace offerynges. The same that offreth the bloud of the peace offerynges and the fat, amonge the sonnes of Aaron, shall haue the ryghte shoulder for his parte, for the * wauebrest and ꝑ heue shoulder haue I taken of the children of Israel, euen of theyr peace offerynges, and haue geuē it vnto Aaron and vnto hys sonnes: by a statute for e-uer of the chyldren of Israell.

This is the anoyntynge of Aaron & the annoyntynge of hys sonnes in the sacrifyces of the LORDE, in the daye when he offred them to be priestes vnto the LORDE. And these be the sacry-fyces whiche the LORDE commaūded to be geuen them, (in the daye of theyr anoynting) of the chyldren of Israell, by a statute for euer in their generacy-
ons. This is the lawe of the burnte offeryng and of the meatofferyng, and of the sacrifyce for synne and trespace, for consecracion and for the peace offeryng: which the LORDE commaunded Moses in the mounte of Sinay, when he commaunded the chyldren of Israel to offer theyr sacrifices vnto ꝑ LORD, in the wylderneſſe of Sinai.

¶ The. viii. Chapter.

¶ The anoyntyng of Aaron and his sonnes.

And

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: take *Aaron and hys sonnes with him, and ꝑ vestures and ꝑ anoyntinge oyle, and a yong ore for synne, and two rammes, & a basket with swete breade: and gather thou al the congregacion together vnto ꝑ doze of the tabernacle of wytnes. And Moses dyd as the LORDE commaunded him, and the people were gathered together vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnes. And Moses sayde vnto the congregacion: this is the thing which the LORDE commaunded to be done.

And Moses brought Aaron and hys sonnes, and washed them wt water, & put vpon him the albe, and girded him with a girdle, and put vpō him the tunicle, (of yelowe sylke) and put the Ephod thereon, whiche he girded with ꝑ brodērd girdel that was in the Ephod, & bounde it vnto him therwt. And he put the brestlappe theron, & put in ꝑ brestlappe Urim and Thumim. And he put the miter vpon his heade, & put vpon ꝑ miter, (euen vpon the forefrunte of his face) ꝑ golden plate or the holy croune, as the LORDE commaunded Moses.

*And Moses toke the anoyntyng oyle, and anoynted the Tabernacle and all that was therin, and sanctified them, & sprinkled therof vpon the aultar seuen tymes, & anoynted the aultar & all hys vessels, the lauer and his fote, to sanctifye them (with the oyle.) And he powred of the anoyntinge oyle vpon Aarons head, & anoynted him, to sanctifye him. And Moses brought Aarons sonnes, and put albes vpon them, & gyrded thē with girdels, & put bonettes vpō theyr heades: as the LORDE commaunded Moses. *And he brought the yong ore for synne. And Aaron & his sonnes put their handes vpō the head of the yong ore that was for synne. And Moses slewe him, and toke of ꝑ bloude, which he put vpon ꝑ hornes of ꝑ aultar roūde about with his fynger, and purified it, and powred the bloud vnto the botom of the aultar, and sanctified it, and reconcyled it. And he toke all the fat that was vpon the inwardes, and the abūdaunce of the lyuer, and the two kydneyes, and their fat, & Moses burned it vpon the aultar. But the yong ore and hys hyde, his flesshe and his dunge, he burnt with fyre without the hoste, as the LORDE commaūded Moses. And he brought the ram for the burnt offering, and Aaron & his sonnes put their handes vpon the head of ꝑ ram, which Moses kylled, and sprinkled ꝑ bloude, vpon the aultar rounde about, & Moses cut the ram in peces and burnt the head, the peces and ꝑ fat, and washed the inwardes & the legges in water, & Moses burnte the ram euery whit vpon the aultar, for a burnt sacrifice, that it might be a swete sauour, & an offrig vnto the LORDE, as the LORDE commaunded Moses.

*And he brought the other ram, namely ꝑ ram of cōsecration (of the priestes) and Aaron & his sonnes put their handes vpon the heade of the ram, whiche Moses slew, and toke of the bloude of it, and put it vpon the typ of Aarons right eare, and vpon the thumbe of his right hande, and vpon the great too of his right fote. And Moses brought Aarons sonnes, and put of the bloude (of the ram) on the tippe of the right eare of them, and vpō the thumbes of their right handes, and vpon the great toes of their right fete, & Moses sprinkled ꝑ bloude vpon the aultar rounde aboute.

*And he toke the fatte and ꝑ rumpe, and al the fat that was vpon ꝑ inwardes, and the aboundaunce of the liuer, and the two kydneys with their fat, & the right shulder. And out of ꝑ basket of swet breade ꝑ was before ꝑ LORDE, he toke one swete cake of oyled breade, and one wafer, and put them on ꝑ fat, and vpon the right shulder: & put altogether vpon Aarons handes, and vpon his sonnes handes, and waued it a waue offering before the LORDE. And Moses toke them from of their handes, and burnt them vpon the aultar, euen vpon the burnt offrig aultar: for it was the sacrifice of consecration, for a swete sauour and a sacrifice vnto the LORD. *And Moses toke the breaste & waued it for a waue offerig before the LORDE, for it was of the ram of ꝑ consecration, and it was Moses parte, as the LORDE commaunded Moses.

And Moses toke of the anoyntinge oyle, & of the bloude whiche was vpon the aultar, and sprinkled it vpō Aaron & vpon his vestimētes, vpō his sonnes and sonnes vestimentes with hym, and sanctyfied Aaron, his vestures, and his sonnes, and his sonnes vestures with him. And Moses sayde vnto Aaron and his sonnes: boyle the flesh in the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and there *eate it with ꝑ breade that is in the basket of consecration, as I cõmaunded, sayinge: Aaron and his sonnes shal eate it. And that which remaineth of the breade, shal ye burne wꝑ fyre. And ye shall not departe from the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse seuen daies, vntyll the dayes of youre consecration be at an ende. For seuen dayes shal he fyll your handes as he dyd this daye: euen so the LORD hath commaũded to doe, to reconcyle you withal. Therfoze shall ye abyde in the doze of the tabernacle of witnesse day & night seuen daies long: & kepe the watche of ꝑ LORD, and ye shall not dye: for so I am commaũded. And so Aaron and his sonnes dyd all thinges which the LORD commaunded by the hande of Moses.

¶ The.ix. Chapter.

The first offeringes of Aaron. Aaron blesseth the people, the glory of the Lorde is shewed.

I

AND it fortuned that in ꝑ eight day Moses called Aaron and his sonnes, and the elders of Israel: and sayde vnto Aaron: take the a calfe, a yong one out of the droue, for syn, and a ram for a burnt offring: both without blemyshe, and bryng them before the LORDE. And vnto the children of Israel thou shalt speake, sayinge: take ye an he goate for synne, and a calfe, and a lambe both two of a yere olde, without blemyshe, for a burnt sacrifice, & an ore and a ram for peace offringes, to offer before the LORD, and a meate offering myngled with oyle: for to day ꝑ LORD wyll appere vnto you.

B

And they brought that (which Moses commaunded) before the tabernacle of witnes, and al ꝑ congregacion came and stode before ꝑ LORD. And Moses sayd, this is the thinge, which ꝑ LORD commaunded ꝑ ye shoulde do: and the glorye of the LORD shal appeare vnto you. *And Moses said vnto Aaron: go vnto the aultar & offer thy sacrifice for synne, & make an attonemẽt for thee & for the people: and thou shalte offer the offering of the people, to reconcyle thẽ, as the LORDE commaunded.

Hebr. 5. & and 7. 8.

Aaron therfoze went vnto the aultar, and slewe the calfe whiche he had for synne. And ꝑ sonnes of Aaron brought the bloude vnto him, and he dypte hys fynger in the bloude, and put it vpõ the hoznes of the aultar, & powred ꝑ bloud vnto the botome of the aultar. But the fat and the two kydneyes and the abũdaunce of the lyuer of the synne offerig, he burnt vpon the auiter, as the LORD commaunded Moses: The flesche & the hide he burnt with fire without ꝑ host.

Leui. 4.

And he slewe the burnt offering, * and Aarons sons brought vnto him the bloude, whiche he sprynkled rounde about vpon ꝑ aultar. And they brought the burnt offering vnto him with ꝑ peces therof, and the head: and he burnte it vpon the aultar, and dyd washe the inwardes and the legs, and burnt thẽ vpon the burnt offring on the aultar.

And then he brought ꝑ peoples offerig taking the goate that ꝑ people had for the sacrifice of synne, and slewe it and offered it for synne, as he dyd the fyrst. And brought ꝑ burnt offerig, & offered it as the maner was, *and brought the meate offring, & fylled his hande therof, and burnt it vpon the aultar, besyde the burnt sacrifice of the moznynge.

Leui.

He slew also the ore and the ram for the peace offeringe, that the people had for thẽ selues, & Aarõs sonnes brought vnto him ꝑ bloude, which he sprinkled vpon the aultar rounde aboute, & toke the fatte of the ore and of the ram, the rumpe, and the fat that couereth ꝑ inwardes and the kidneys and the abundaunce of the lyuer: and they put ꝑ fat vpon ꝑ brestes, and he burnt the fat vpon the aultar: but ꝑ brestes & the right shulders Aaron waued for a waue offering before the LORD, as the LORD cõmaunded Moses. And Aaron lyfte vp his hande ouer the people, & blessed them, and came downe from offring of the synne offringe, burnte offringes and peace offringes. And Moses and Aaron went into ꝑ tabernacle of witnes and came out, and blessed ꝑ people, and the glozy of the LORDE appeared vnto al the people. * And there came a fyre out from before the LORD and cõsumed vpon ꝑ aultar that burnt offrige and the fat. Which when all the people sawe, they gaue thankes, and fell on theyr faces.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

Nadab and Abihu are slayne. Israel mourneth for them. The prestes are forbydden wyne.

1 AND *Nadab & Abihu, the sonnes of Aaron, toke either of them his cēser, and put fyre therin, & put cens therupon, and offered straunge fyre before the LORDE, *whiche he commaūded them not: and there went a fyre out from the LORDE, and consumed them, and they died before the LORDE. Then Moses sayde vnto Aaron: this is that the LORDE spake, saying: I wyl be sāctified in them that come nye me, and before all the people I wyl be glorifyed. And Aarō held his peace. And Moses called Misael and Elsaphan the sonnes of Oziel the vncle of Aaron, & sayd vnto them: come on, cary your brethren from the holy place out of the host. And they wente to them and caryed them in their albes out of the hoste, as Moses had sayd. And Moses sayde vnto Aarō and vnto Eleazar & Ithamar his sonnes *vncouer not your heades, nether rent your clothes, lest ye dye, and leste wrathe come vpon all the people: But let your brethren the hole house of Israel bewepe the burnynge whiche the LORDE hath kyndled. And go not ye out from the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, lest ye dye: for ỳ anointinge oyle of GOD is vpon you. And they did as Moses sayde. And the LORD spake vnto Aaron, sayinge. Thou shalte not drynke wyne & strong drinke, thou and thy sons that ar wt the, when ye go into ỳ tabernacle of witnesse, lest ye die. Let it be a lawe for euer thorowout youre generations, & that ye maye (haue knowledge to) put difference betwene holy and vnholy, betwene cleane and vncleane, & that ye may teache ỳ children of Israel al ỳ statutes whiche ỳ LORD hath spoken vnto them by the hande of Moses. And Moses sayde vnto Aaron & vnto Eleazar and Ithamar his sonnes that were lefte: take ỳ meat offering ỳ remaineth of the sacrifices of ỳ LORD, & eate it without leuen beside the aultar: for it is most holy: ye shal eate it in ỳ holye place, because it is thy dutye & thy sons duty of the sacrifices of ỳ LORD: for so I am cōmaunded. And the wauebreste and heue shulder shal ye eat in a cleane place: thou & thy sonnes & thy doughters with the. For they be thy duty and thy sonnes duty geuen out of the peace offeringes of ỳ children of Israel. The heueshulder & the wauebreste shal they bring in with the sacrifices of ỳ fat, to waue it before the LORDE, and it shal be thine and thy sons wt thee by a lawe for euer as the LORD hath cōmaūded.

And Moses sought the goate ỳ was offered for syn, & se, it was burnte. And he was angry wt Eleazar & Ithamar ỳ sons of Aarō, whiche wer leite alyue saying: wherfore haue ye not eaten the synne offering in the holy place, seyng it is most holy: and GOD hath geuen it you, to beare the sinne of the congregacion, to make agrement for them before the LORDE. Beholde, the bloude of it was not brought in wt in ỳ holy place: ye shoulde haue eatē in the holy place, as I commaunded. And Aaron sayde vnto Moses: Beholde, this daye haue they offered their synne offering & their burnt offering before the LORD, & it is chaunced me after this maner. And yf I had eaten ỳ sacrifice to day, should it haue bene accepted in the syghte of the LORD? And when Moses heard that, he was contente.

Of beastes which be cleane, and which be vncleane:

AND the Lorde spake vnto Moses, & Aaron & said vnto them: speake vnto the childzen of Israel, and say *these are the beastes whiche ye shall eate, among al the eatell that are on ỳ earth: what soeuer parteth ỳ hoofe, and deuydeth it into two clawes, and chaweth cud among the beastes, that shall ye eate. Neuertheless, these shal ye not eate, of them that chewe cud, and deuideth ỳ hooues: as is the Camel, whiche chaweth the cud, but he deuydeth not the hoofe, therfore is he vncleane vnto you, euen so the conye, whiche chaweth ỳ cud but deuydeth not the hoofe. He is vncleane to you. And ỳ hare, thoughe he chaweth ỳ cud, yet because he deuideth not the hoofe, he is therfore vncleane to you. And againe, ỳ swyne though he deuyde the hoofe into two clawes, yet he chaweth not ỳ cud. He is vncleane to you. Of their flesh shal ye not eate, and their carkesses shall ye not touche but lette them be vncleane to you.

These shal ye eate of al that are in the waters: what soeuer hath synnes and skales in the waters, seas and ryuers, that shal ye eate. And all that haue not syns and skales in the sea, and ryuers, of all ỳ moue and lyue in the waters, let them be abhomination vnto you; ye shall not eate of their flesh, but abhorre their carkases. Let al þ haue no fynnes nor skales in the waters, be abhominable vnto you.

These are they, which ye shal abhorre C among the foules, and that ought not to be eaten, for they are an abhomination. The eagle the gosshauke, and the cormorawnte, the vultur, and the kyte after his kynde, & al rauens after theyr kynde: the estriche, the nyghte crowe, the cockowe, and the owle after hys kynde, the falcon, the storke, the greate owle, the backe, the pelycane, the pye: the heron, the Jape after his kinde, the lapwynge and the swalowe. Let all foules that crepe and goe vpō al foure, be an abhomination vnto you.

D Yet these maye ye eate, of euery crepynge thing that hath wynges and go vpon four fete euen those þ haue knees aboue vpon their fete, to leape withall vpon the earthe, euen these of them ye may eate* the Arbe after his kinde: the Bizethus. Celaam. Locusta. Attachus. *Selaam after his kynde: þ *Hargol after his kynde, and the *nagab after hys kynde. All other foules that moue and haue foure fete, shalbe abhomination vnto you. In suche ye be vncleane, and who soeuer toucheth þ carkas of them, shal be vncleane vnto the euen: and who soeuer beareth the carkasse of them, shal washe his clothes & be vncleane vntyll euen.

E And euery beaste that hath hoofe and deuydeth it not into two clawes, nor chaweth cudde, suche are vncleane vnto you: euery one that toucheth them, shalbe vncleane. And what soeuer goeth vpon his handes among all maner beastes that go on al four fete: such are vncleane vnto you: and who so dothe Leui. 15. a. Agg. 2. c. touche their carkasse* shalbe vncleane vntyl the euen. And he that beareth the carkasse of thē, shall washe his clothes, and be vncleane vntyl the euen, for such are vncleane vnto you. And let these also be vncleane to you amonge þ thinges that crepe vpon the earth, þ weasel, and the mouse, and the toode, after their kynde, the hedgehog, the stellio, þ lacerte, the snayle, and the molle: these are vncleane to you among al þ crepe: who so euer doth touche thē whē they be deade, shalbe vncleane vntyl þ euē. And what soeuer any of the dead carkasses of them doth fal vpon shalbe vncleane: whether it be vessel of woode, or rayment, or skynne, or bagge, or what soeuer vessell it be that any worke is wrought in. And it must be plunged in the water, and it shalbe vncleane vntil the euen, and so shal it be clensed.

All maner of earthen vessel wherin- 1 to any of them falleth, shalbe vncleane, Leui. 11. with all that there in is: and* it shalbe broken. All maner meate also þ is vsed to be eaten yf any such water come vpon, it shalbe vncleane. And all maner drynke that is vsed to be dronke in all maner suche vessels shal be vncleane. And euery thing that their carcase falleth vpon, shal be vncleane. Whether it be ouen or kettel, let it be broken. For they are vncleane, and shalbe vncleane vnto you: Neuerthelater, yet the fountaynes and welles and collectiō of waters shall be cleane styl. And who so toucheth their carkases, shall be vncleane. yf the deade carkasse of any such fal vpon any sede vsed to sowe, it shall yet be cleane styl: but and yf any water be powred vpō þ sede, and a deade carkasse fal theron, it shal be vncleane vnto you. Yf any beast of whiche ye may eate, dye and any man touche the dead carkasse therof, he shalbe vncleane vntyl the euen, he that eateth of the deade carkasse of it, shal wash his clothes and be vncleane vntil þ euen. And he also þ 6 beareth the carkasse of it, shal wash his clothes, and be vncleane vntyl euen.

Let euery crepyng thing that creepeth vpon the earth be an abhomination, & not be eaten. What soeuer goeth vpon þ brest & what soeuer goeth vpon foure, or that hath moo fete among al creping thinges that crepe vpon the earthe, of that ye eate not, for they are abhominable. ye shal not make your soules abhominable with nothing that crepeth, neyther make your selues vncleane wt them: that ye shoulde be defiled therby. For I am the LORDE your GOD. Be sanctifyed therfore, and ye shalbe holy, Leui. 19. *for I am holye: and ye shal not defyle your soules with any maner of creping thing, that crepeth vpon the earth. For I am the LORDE that brought you out of the lande of Egipte, to be your GOD, ye shalbe holy therfore, for I am holy. This is the lawe of beastes & foules, and of euery lyuyng creature that moueth moueth in ꝑ waters, and of euery creature that creepeth vpon the earth, that there maye be a differẽce betwene the vncleane and cleane, & betwene ꝑ beast that maye be eaten, and the beaste that ought not to be eaten.

¶ The.xii. Chapter.

¶ Lawe howe women shoulde be purged after their delyueraunce.

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto the childzen of Israel and saye: yf a woman hath conceaued, and bozne a manchilde, she shalbe vncleane seuen dates: euẽ in like maner as whẽ she is put a part in tyme of her natural disease. And in the eight daye the flesshe of ꝑ childes * fozeskyn shalbe cut awaye. And she shal thẽ cõtynue in ꝑ bloude of her purifying thze and thirty dayes. She shal touche no halowed thinge, noz come in to the sãctuary, vntil ꝑ tyme of her purifying be out. yf she beare a mayde chylde, she shalbe vncleane two wekes, whẽas she hath her naturall dysease. And she shal continue in ꝑ blonde of her purifyinge thze scoze and syre dayes.

* And when the dayes of her purifying are out, whether it be foz a son oz foz a doughter, she shall bzyng a lambe of one yere olde foz a burnt offeringe, & a yong pygeon oz a turtyl doue foz sin vnto the doze of the tabernacle of witnes, and vnto the preast: whiche shall offer them befoze the LORD, and make an attonement foz her, and she shal be pourged of ꝑ yssue of her bloude. * And this is the lawe foz her that hath bozne a male oz female. But & yf she be not able to bzyng a lambe, she shal bzynge * two turtyls oz two yong pigeons: ꝑ one foz the burnt offeringe, & the other foz syn. And the preast shal make an attonemẽt foz her, and she shalbe cleane.

¶ The.xiii. Chapter.

The prestes must iudge who are Lepers.

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses and Aaron saying: when there appeareth a rising in any mans flesh, eyther a cabbe, oz a glistrynge white: & the plage of lepzosy be in the skin of his flesshe, he shalbe bzought vnto Aaron ꝑ preast, oz vnto one of his sonnes ꝑ prestes: and the preast shall loke on ꝑ soze in the skyn of his flesshe.

And when the heare in the soze is turned vnto white, & the soze also seme o be lower then ꝑ skyn of his flesshe, it wil be a plage of lepzosy: & the preastes shal loke on him, & iudge him vncleane. yf there be but a white pleeke in ꝑ skin of his flesh, & seme not to be lower then ꝑ skyn, noz ꝑ heare therof is turned vnto whyte, the preast shal shut him vp seuen dayes. And ꝑ preast shal loke vpon him againe the seuenth daye. And yf the plage seme to him to abyde styl, and the plage growe not in the skin, the preast shal shut him vp yet seuen dayes mo. And the preast shal loke on him againe the seuenth day. Then yf ꝑ plage be darker, and not growen in the skin, the preast shal iudge him cleane, foz it is but a skyrfe. And he shal washe hys clothes, and be cleane. But and yf the scabbe growe in the skyn after that he is sene of the preast, and iudged cleane, he shalbe sene of the preast agayne. yf the preast se that the scab be growẽ abzode in the skynne, the preast shall make him vncleane: foz it is a lepzosye.

When the plage of the lepzosye is in a mã, he shalbe bzought vnto the priest, & the priest shal se hym. And yf the rysyng be white in the skin, & haue made the heare whyte, and there be rawe flesshe in the soze, it wyl be an old lepzosye in ꝑ skyn of his flesshe. And ꝑ priest shal make him vncleane, & shal not shut hym vp: seyng he is vncleane. yf a lepzosye breake out abzode in ꝑ skynne, and couer al the skinne, from his heade to his sote, where socuer the priest loketh, & the priest loke vpon hym: And yf the lepzosye haue couered all hys flesshe, he shall iudge the plage to be clene, because it is al turned into whitnesse, and he shalbe cleane. But and yf there be rawe flesshe on him when he is sene, he shal be vncleane.

And the Pzest shal se the rawe flesh, and declare him to be vncleane. Foz ꝑ rawe flesshe is vncleane, seyng it is a lepzosy. Oz yf ꝑ raw flesh depart agayne and chaunge vnto whyte he shal come to the preast, and the preast shal se hym and beholde: yf the soze be chaũged vnto whyte (and couer the whole man) ꝑ preast shal iudge the plage cleane and he shalbe cleane. The flesshe also in whose skin there is a byle and is healed, and in the place of the byle there appeare a white rysyng, ether a shinyng whyte and som what reddishe, it shalbe sene of ꝑ preast.

And yf when the preast seeth him, it D appere lower then the skynne, and the heare therof be chaunged vnto whyte, the preast shall iudge him vncleane: for it is a plage of leprosy, broken out of the byle. But and yf the preast loke on it and there be no white heares therin, and yf it be not lower then the skynne,
but be darker, the preast shall shut hym vp seuen dayes. And yf it spreed abrode in the flesshe, the Preast shall make him vncleane, seyng it is the plage. But and yf the spot stande styll, and growe not,
it is the prynte of an hoote byle, & therfore the preast shall declare him to be cleane. If there be any flesshe, in whose skynne there is a hote burnynge, and ꝑ flesshe that burneth haue a white spot, somwhat reddishe or white, the Preast shall loke vpon it. And yf the heare in the bryght spot be chaunged to whyte, and it appeare lower thē the skynne, it is a leprosie broken out of the burning:
And therfore the preast shal iudge him
vncleane, seing it is ꝑ plage of leprosy.
But yf the preast loke on it and there be no whyte heare in ꝑ bryght spot, and be no lower then the other skynne, but be darker, the preast shall shut him vp seuen dayes. And the Preast shall loke on him the seuenth daye: And yf it be growen abrode in the skynne, ꝑ preast shal iudge him vncleane, seyng it is the plage of leprosye. And yf the spot stāde styl in it, & growe not in the skynne, but is darke, it is a risyng of the burnynge, and ꝑ preast shall therfore declare him cleane, seyng it is ꝑ print of ꝑ burnyng.

yf a man or woman hath a sore vpon E the head or the beарde, the preast shall se it. And yf it appeare lower then the skynne, and ther be in it a yelow heare: & thin (more then it was wont to be,) ꝑ preaste shall iudge him vncleane, seyng that ꝑ same fretting is a token of leprosy vp-on ꝑ heade or beard. And yf the preaste loke on the sore of the print, and it seme not lower then the skyn, and that the heare is not blacke, the preast shal shut vp the fretting sore seuen dayes. And in the seuenth daye the preast shall loke on the sore and yf the sore be not gro-wen, and there be in it no yelowe heare, and ꝑ sore seme not lower then ꝑ skyn,
he shalbe shauen: but the place of ꝑ sore shal he not shaue, and the preast shall shut vp the sore seuen dayes mo. And in the seuenth daye the preast shal loke on the sore: And yf ꝑ sore be not growē in the skynne, nor seme lower then the other skynne, the preast shal clense him, and he shal washe his clothes, and be cleane. But yf the sore growe in the flesshe after his clensyng, the priest shal loke on him.

And yf the sore be growen in ꝑ skin, I
the priest shal not seke for yelow heare, for he is vncleane. But yf he se ꝑ prynt stande styl, & that there is blacke heare growne vp therin, the sore is healed, & he shalbe cleane, and the priest shal declare him to be cleane. yf ther be white spottes in the skyn of the flesshe of man or woman, the preast shal loke vpon it.
And yf the spottes in the skyn of theyr flesshe be somwhat darke and white waal, (he maye be sure, that it is no leprosie) it is a frekel growyng in the flesshe. Therfore is he cleane. And the man whose head is destytute of heare, (whereby he is made balde) is cleane. And he that hath his heare out in his forehead, is foreheed balde, and cleane. If there be in ꝑ bauld head or balde forehead, a whyte reddyshe sore scabbe, there is leprosye sprong vp in his baulde head or baulde forehead.

And the preast shal loke vpon hym,
and yf the risynge of the sore be whyte G reddyshe in his baulde head or baulde forehead, after the maner of leprosye which is in ꝑ skin of the flesshe, thē he is a leperous mā & vncleane. And ꝑ priest shal make him vncleane, for the plage therof is in his head. The leper in whō the plage is shal haue his clothes rent, and his head bare, and shal put a couering vpon his lyppe, and shalbe called vncleane and defyled. And as long as ꝑ dysease lasteth vpon him, he shalbe defyled and vncleane: he shal dwel alone, euen* without the hoost shal his habi- Num.

prosye is in, whither it be lynnen or wollē, whither it be in ꝑ warpe or woofe of lynnē or of wollē: ether in a skyn or any thing made of skyn, yf ꝑ dysease be pale or somwhat reddyshe in the clothe or skyn: whether it be in the warpe or woofe, or any thing that is made of skin, then it is a plage of leprosye, and shal-
be shewed vnto the preast.

The Preast therfore shal se ꝑ plage, and shut it vp seuen daies, and loke on
the

the plage the seuenth day. Whiche yf it be encreased in ỳ clothe (whether it be in the warpe or woofe, or in a skyn) or in any thing that is made of skynne, it is the leprosy of a fretynge sore: it is vncleane: and that cloth shalbe burnt, ether warpe or woofe, whether it be wollen or lynnen, or any thing that is made of skynne, wherin ỳ plage is, for it is a frettyng leprosy, it shalbe burnt in ỳ fire. If the preast se that the plage is not growen in the cloth: ether in the warpe of woofe, or in what soeuer thing of skynne it be, the preast shal cõmaũde them to washe ỳ thing wherin ỳ plage is, & he shall shut it vp seuen dayes mo. And the preast shall loke on the plage againe, after that it is washed. And yf ỳ plage haue not chaunged his colour, and is spred no further abrode, it is vncleane. Thou shalt burne it in the fyre, for it is a frette inwarde: in parte or in altogether. And yf the preast se that the plage is darker after ỳ it is washed, he shall rent it out of the clothe, or out of the skyn, or out of the warpe, or out of the woofe. And yf it appeare any more in the clothe (eyther in the warpe or in the woofe, or in any thig made of skyn) it is a warynge plage. Thou shalte burne ỳ plage that is in it. Moreouer the clothe, eyther warpe or woofe, or what soeuer thing of skyn it be whiche thou haste washed, yf the plage be departed there from, it shall be washed once again: & thẽ shal it be cleane. This is the lawe of the plage of leprosy in a clothe whether it be wollen or lynnen: ether in ỳ warpe or woofe, or in any thig of skynnes, to make it clene or vncleane.

The.xiiii. Chapter.

The clensyng of the leper, and of the house that he is in

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses, saying* this is the lawe of the leper in the day of his clensynge: He shalbe brought vnto the priest, and the preast shall go out without the hoost, and loke vpon him. And yf the plage of leprosy be healed in the leper, then shal the priest cõmaunde ỳ he whiche is to be clensed, bringe two liuynge birdes and cleane, and cedar wood, and purple cloth, and hysope. And ỳ preast shal cõmaũde that one of the birdes be killed in an earthẽ vessel, & vpõ renning water. And he shall take ỳ liuyng birde wh the cedar wood, the purple & the hysope, and shall dip them and the liuing birde in the bloude of the slayne birde, vpon the rennyng water, and sprynkle vpon him (that must be clensed of his leprosye) seuen tymes, and clense him, & shall lette ỳ liuing birde goe fre into ỳ felde.

And he that is clensed, shal washe his clothes, and shaue of all his heare, and washe him selfe in water, that he maye be cleane. And after that shall he come into the hoost, & shal tary without his tent seuen dayes, but in ỳ seuenth day he shall shaue of all his heare, namely, his heade, his beard, and his browes: euen all his heare shalbe shauẽ of. And he shall washe his clothes and his flesh in water, and he shalbe cleane.

In the eyght daye he shall take two lambes without blemyshe, and an ewe lambe of a yere olde without blemishe, and thre tenth deales of fyne floure for a* meate offeryng myngled with oyle and a logge of oyle. And the preast that maketh him cleane, shal bryng the man that is to be made cleane, & those thinges, before the LORDE, euen before the dore of the tabernacle of wytnes. And the preast shall take one lambe, & offer him for trespace, and the logge of oyle, and waue them before the LORD. And he shal sle the lambe in the place where the synne offering & the burnt offering are slayne, euẽ in the holy place. For as the synne offering is, euen so is ỳ trespace offeryng the Preastes: seyng it is most holy. And the preast shall take of the bloude of the trespace offering, and put it vpon the typ of the righte eare of him that is to be clensed, and vpon the thumbe of his right hande, & vpon the great too of his right foote.

The preest shal take of ỳ logge of oyle, & powre it into ỳ palme of his lefte hãde, & dyp his righte fynger in the oyle that is in his lefte hande, and sprynkle of the oyle with his finger seuen tymes before the LORDE. And of the rest of the oyle that is in his hande, shal the preast put vpon the typpe of the right eare of him that is for to be clensed, and vpon the thumbe of his right hande, and vpõ the great too of his right foote, euen vpon the bloude of ỳ trespace offering. And the remnaunt of the oyle that is in the preastes hande, he shall powre vpõ the heade of him that is for to be clensed: & the Preast shall make an attonemente for him before the LORDE.

And the preast shall offer the synne offeryng, and make an attonement for him that is to be clensed, for his vnclenesse. And then shall he kyll the burnte offeringe, and the preast shall offer the burnt offering and the meate offringe vpon the aultar: & the preast shal make an attonement for him, and he shalbe Leui. 5. b. cleane.* If he be poore, & can not get so muche, he shall take one lambe for a trespace offering to waue it for his clensynge, and a tenth deale of fyne floure myngled with oyle for a meat offering, and a logge of oyle, and two turtyl doues, or two yonge pygeons, suche as he is able to get, wherof ỳ one shalbe for synne, and the other for a burnte offeryng. And he shal bryng them ỳ eight daye for his clensinge vnto the preaste before ỳ dore of the tabernacle of wytnes before the LORDE.

And the priest shal take ỳ lambe that is for the trespas, and ỳ logge of oyle, and shal waue them before the LORD. And he shal kil ỳ lambe for ỳ trespas, and the preast shall take of the bloude of the trespas offering, and put it vpon the tippe of his right eare that is to be clensed, & vpon the thumbe of his right hande, and vpon the great too of hys right fote. And the preast shal powre of the oyle into his righte hande, and the preast shall with his fynger sprinkle of the oyle that is in his lefte hande, seuen tymes before the LORD. And ỳ preast shall put of the oyle that is in his hand vpō ỳ tippe of ỳ right ear of him ỳ is to be clensed, & vpō ỳ thumbe of his right hande and vpon the greate too of his right fote: euen in the place wher the bloude of ỳ trespas offringe was put.

And the rest of the oyle that is in the Preastes hande, he shall put vpon the heade of him that is to be clensed: that he maye make an attonement for hym before the LORD. And he shal offer one of the turtyll doues: or of ỳ yonge pygeons: suche as he can get: the one for a synne offering, & the other for a burnt offering, with the meate offering. And the preast shall make an attonemēt for him ỳ is to be clensed before ỳ LORDE. This is the lawe of him in whome is ỳ plage of leprosye, and whose hād is not able to get that whiche pertayneth to his clensynge. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses and Aaron, saying: when ye be come vnto the lande of Canaan whiche I geue you in possession.

And yf I put the plage of leprosye in a house of the lande of your possession, he that oweth the house shal come, and tell the preast, sayinge: me thinke that there is as it wer a leprosye in ỳ house. And the preast shall commaunde them to emptye the house before ỳ Preast go in to it to se the plage: that al that is in the house be not made vncleane, & then must the preaste go in to se the house. yf the preast also se that the plage is in the walles of the house, and that there be holowe strakes, pale or red whiche seme to be lower then the wall it selfe, ỳ preast shall go out at ỳ house doores, and shut vp the house seuen daies. And the preast shal come againe the seuenth daye, & yf he se that the plage be increased in the walles of the house, ỳ preaste shall commaunde them to take awaye the stones in whiche the plage is, and let them caste them in to a foule place without the citie, and he shall cōmaūde the house to be scraped within roūde about, & powre out ỳ duste (ỳ they scrape of) without ỳ citie into a foule place.

And they shall take other stones, and putte them in the places of those stones, & other morter, to playster ỳ house withall. And yf the plage come againe and breake out in the house, after that he hath taken awaye the stones & scraped the walles of the house, and after ỳ he hath playstred the house a newe: the preast shal come and se it. And if he perceaue that the plage hath growen further in the house, it is a fretting leprosy in the house. It is therfore vncleane. And he shal breake downe the house. And the stones of it, & the tymber therof, and al the morter of the house, shall he carye out of the cytie vnto a foule place. Moreouer, he that goeth into ỳ house all the whyle that it is shut vp, shalbe vncleane vntil the euen. He that slepeth in the house shal washe his clothes: he likewise ỳ eateth in ỳ house, shal washe his clothes.

And yf the preast come and se, that the plage hath spred no further in the house (after that it is new plastered) ỳ preast shal iudge ỳ house cleane, because the plage is healed. And let him take

to clense the house withal, two byrdes, cedar wood, purple cloth and yssope.
And he shall kyll one of the byrdes in an earthen vessell, and vpon runnynge water: and take the cedar woode, and the yssope, and the purple wyth the lyuyng byrde, and dyppe thē in the bloud of the slayne byrd, and in the runnyng water, & sprinkle the house seuē tymes, and clense the house with the bloud of the byrde, and wyth the runnyng water, with the liuyng byrde, with the cedar woode and the yssope, and the purple cloth. But he shall let the lyuinge byrde flee out of the towne into ỳ brod feldes, & so make an attonement for the house, and it shalbe cleane. This is the lawe for all maner plage of leprosye, & breakyng out, & of the lepprosye of cloth and house, for a swellyng, for a scabbe, and for a whyte blyster. To teach whē it must be made vncleane and cleane. This is the lawe of lepprosye.

¶ The.xv. Chapter.

¶ The maner of purgeyng the vnclennesse both of men and wemen.

1 And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, and Aaron, sayinge: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israell, & say vnto thē: Whosoeuer hath a runninge yssue oute of his flesshe, is vncleane by reason of that yssue. And thys shal be ỳ token of hys vncleannesse in hys yssue, whē he is vncleane. yf hys flesshe rūne, or yf his flesshe congele by the reason of his yssue, then is it vnclennes. Euerye couche wheron he lyeth that hathe the yssue, is vncleane, and euerye thynge wheron he sytteth, is vncleane: Whosoeuer toucheth his couche, shal washe hys clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, and be vncleane vntyll the euen.
And he ỳ sytteth on any thyng wheron he sat that hathe the yssue, shall washe his clothes and bath himselfe in water, and be vncleane vntyll the euenynge.
He that toucheth the flesshe of him that hath the yssue, shall washe his clothes, & bath hymselfe in water, & be vncleane vnto the euen. If he also that hathe the yssue, spyt vpon hym that is cleane, he shall washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, & be vncleane vntyl euē.
5 And what horse harnesse so euer he ryeth vpon that hath the yssue, shall be vnclean. And whosoeuer toucheth any thynge that was vnder hym, shall be vncleane vnto the euen. And he that beareth any suche thinges, shal washe his clothes, & bath himselfe in water, & be vncleane vnto the euen. And whoso euer he toucheth that hathe the yssue (& haue not yrste washed his handes in water) shall washe his clothes, and bath himselfe in water, and be vnclean vnto the euen. * The vessell of earthe that he toucheth, which hath the yssue, shalbe broken: and all vessels of wood shalbe rynsed in water. When he also that hathe any yssue, is clensed of hys yssue, he shall nomber seuen dayes for his clensyng, and washe his clothes, & bath hys flesshe in runnyng water, and so shall he be cleane. Leuit.6.d and.11.f

And the eyght daye he shal take vnto hym two turtyl doues or two yonge pygeons, and come before the LORDE vnto the doore of the tabernacle of witnes, and geue them vnto ỳ preiste. And the preyst shall offer them: the one for a synne offeryng, & the other for burnt offeryng: and ỳ preist shall make an attonement for hym before the LORDE, as concernyng hys yssue. yf any mans sede departe from hym in hys slepe, he shall washe his flesshe in water, and be vncleane vntyll euen. And all the clothes and all ỳ furres wherin is suche sede of slepe, shall be washed with water, and be vncleane vnto the euen.
And yf he that hathe suche an yssue of sede, do lye w a woman, they shall both washe them selues with water, and be vncleane vntyll euen.

yf a womans natural course of bloud do runne, she shall be put a parte seuen dayes: whosoeuer toucheth her, shalbe vnclene vnto the euen. And all that she lyeth vpon, in the tyme of her naturall dysease, shalbe vncleane: lyke as euery thyng also that she sytteth vpon, is vncleane. Whosoeuer toucheth her bed, shall washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe wyth water, and be vncleane vnto the euen: And whosoeuer toucheth any thing that she sat vpon, shal washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen: so ỳ whether he touch her couch, or any vessell wheron she hathe sytten he shalbe vncleane vnto the euen. * And yf a mā lye wyth her, and her vnclennes come vpon hym, he shall be vncleane seuen dayes, and all the couche wherron he Leuit.18.

Marke. 5. 4 D * When a womans blonde runneth longe tyme out of the tyme of her naturall course: or yf it runne beyond her naturall course, let all the dayes of the yssue be iudged vncleane, euen as the dayes of her naturall dysease. And she shal be vncleane. All her couches whereon she lieth (as log as her yssue lasteth) shalbe as her couche whē she hath her naturall disease. And what so euer she sytteth vpon, shalbe vncleane, as is her vnclennes when she is put aparte.

And whosoeuer toucheth any of these, shalbe vncleane, and shall washe hys clothes, and bath hymselfe in water, & be vncleane vnto euen. And after that she is clensed of her yssue, she shal cōt her seuen dates, and after that, she shal be cleane. In ỳ eyght day she shall take vnto her two turtyls or two yonge pygeons, and bryng them vnto ỳ preste before the doore of the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And the preest shall offer the one for a synne offeryng, and the other for a burnt offeryng: and make an atonement for her before the LORDE, as concerning the yssue of her vnclennes. Therfore shall ye seperate the childrē of Israell from theyr vnclennesse, that they dye not in theyr vnclennes: if they defyle my habitacion that is amonge them. This is the lawe of hym ỳ hathe a runnyng yssue, and of him whose sede runneth from hym in hys slepe, and is defyled therein, and of her, that (for her naturall disease) is put a parte, and of whosoeuer hath a running yssue: whether it be man or woman, and of hym that lyeth wyth her which is vncleā.

¶ The. xvi. Chapter.

¶ What Aaron must do. The clensing of the same marye. Of the feast of the clensyng. Aaron confesseth the synnes of the children of Israell.

Leuit. 10. 1 AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, * after the death of the two sonnes of Aaron, when they offered before the LORDE, and dyed: And he sayde vnto Moses: speake vnto Aaron thy brother, that he come not at all tymes into the holye place within the vayle before the mercyseate, whiche is vpon the arke, that he dye not. For I 3. Reg. 8. 1 wyll appeare in the * cloude vpon the mercyseate. But with thys thyng shal Aaron come into the holye place: euen with a bullocke for synne, and wyth a ramme for a burnt offeryng. He shall put the holy lynnen albe vpon hym, and shall haue the lynnen breche vpon hys flesche, and shalbe gyrded with a lynnē gyrdell, and put the lynnen mytre vpō his head: These are ỳ holy garmentes: therefore shall he washe hys flesche in water, when he doeth put them on.

And he shall take of the multitude of ỳ chyldren of Israell, two he goates for synne, and a ram for a burnt offeringe. Vers. B And Aaron shall offer hys bullocke for synne, * and make an attonemente for him, and for his house. And he shal take the two goates, and present them before the LORDE at the dore of the Tabernacle of wytnes. And Aaron shall cast lottes ouer the two goates: one lot shalbe for the LORD, and the other for the scapegoate. And Aaron shal bryng the goate vpon which the LORDES lot fell, and offer hym for synne. But the goate on whiche the lotte fell to scape, shalbe set alyue before the LORDE, to reconcyle with, and to let hym go (as a scape goate) free into the wyldernesse. And Aaron shal bring his bullocke for sinne, & reconcyle for hym selfe, & for hys house, & shal kyl his bullocke for synne.

And he shall take a censer ful of burnyng coles oute of the altar before the C LORDE, and shall fyll hys handfull of swete cense beaten small, and bryng them within the vayle, and put ỳ cense vpon the fyre before the LORDE: that ỳ cloude of the cens maye couer the mercyseate that is vpon the wytnes, & that he dye not. And he shal * take of ỳ bloud Ebrue. vnder. of the bullocke, and sprinkle it with his fynger vpon the mercyseate eastward: f and before ỳ mercyseate shal he sprynkle of the bloude with hys fynger seuen tymes. Then shal he kyl the goate that is the peoples synne offeryng, & bryng his bloude within the vayle, & do with that bloud, as he dyd with the bloud of the bullocke, sprynklynge it vpon the mercyseate, and before the mercyseate. And he shall reconcile the holye place from the vnclennesses of ỳ chyldren of Israel, and from theyr trespaces in all theyr synnes. And so shall he do for the tabernacle of wytnes that is set amōg them, euen among theyr vnclennesse.

* And let there be no bodye in ỳ Ta- Exod. 34. 3 D bernacle of wytnes, when he goeth in to make an attonemente in the holye place, place, vntyll he come oute. And let hym make an attonement for him selfe and for his housholde, & for all the multytude of Israell. And he shal go out vnto the altar that is before the LORDE, and reconcyle vpon it, and shall take of the bloud of ꝑ bullocke, and of ꝑ bloude of the goate, and put it vpō the hornes of the altar rounde aboute, & sprynkle of the bloude vpon it wyth hys fynger seuen tymes, and clense it, and halowe it from the vnclennesses of the chyldren of Israel. And when he hath made an ende of reconcilynge the holye place, & the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the altar, he shall brynge the lyue goate: and Aaron shall put both his handes vpon the head of the lyue goate, and confesse ouer hym all the mysdedes of the chyldren of Israell, and al theyr trespaces, in all their synnes, puttyng them vpon the head of the goate, and sende hym awaye (by the hande of a conuenyente man) into the wyldernes. And ꝑ goate shall beare vpon him all their mysdedes vnto the wyldernes, and he shal let the goate go free into the wyldernes.

And Aaron shall come into the tabernacle of wytnes, and put of the lynnen clothes which he put on (when he wēt in into the holy place) & leaue thē there. And let him washe his flesche with water in the holy place, & put on his owne rayment, and then come oute, and offer his burnt offeryng, and the burnt offeryng of ꝑ people, & make an attonemēt for him selfe, and for the people, and ꝑ fat of the synne offeryng shal he burne vpon the altar.

And he that caryed forth the goate to Azazell, shal washe his clothes, & bath his flesche in water, and then come into the hoost. And the bullocke whiche is for synne, and the goate that is for syn, (whose bloud was brought in, to clēse the holy place) shal one carye out with out the hoost to be burnt in the fyre, wt their skinnes, theyr flesche & their dūge. And he that burneth them shal washe his clothes, and bath his flesche in water, and then come into the hoste. And this shalbe an ordynaunce for euer vnto you that in ꝑ tenth day of the seuēth moneth, ye humble your soules, and do no worke at all, whether it be one of your selues or a straunger that sojourneth amonge you, for that day shal the priest make an attonemente for you to clēse you, & that ye may be cleane frō al your synnes before the LORDE. Let it be a Sabboth of rest vnto you, & ye shal humble your soules, by an ordynaunce for euer. And the priest that is anoynted, and whose hande was consecrated (to minister in his fathers steade) shall make the attonement, and shall put on the lynnen clothes and holy vestimentes, and reconcyle the holy sanctuarye and the Tabernacle of wytnes, & shall clense the altar, & make an attonement then for the priestes and for al ꝑ people of the congregacion. And this shalbe an *euerlasting ordynaunce vnto you, that he make an attonement for ꝑ children of Israel for al their synnes once a yere: and he dyd as the LORDE commaunded.

The.xvij.Chapter.

¶ All sacrifyce muste be broughte to the dore of the tabernacle. To deuyls maye they not offer.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto Aaron, to his sons, and vnto al the childrē of Israel, & saye vnto them: Thys is the thynge whiche the LORDE hath charged, saying: what mā so euer of ꝑ house of Israel kylleth an ore, or lambe, or goate in the hoost, or that kylleth it oute of the hoost, and bringeth it not vnto the dore of ꝑ tabernacle of witnes, to offer an offryng vnto the LORDE before the dwellyng place of the LORDE, bloude shalbe imputed vnto ꝑ mā, as thoughe he had shed bloude, & that man shalbe roted out from amonge his people.

Wherfore, when the children of Israel bryng theyr offeringes, that they offer in the wyde felde, they shoulde brynge them vnto the LORDE: euen vnto the doore of the tabernacle of witnesse to ꝑ priest, to offer them for peace offerynges vnto the LORDE. And the priest must sprynkle the bloude vpon the altar of the LORDE whiche is before the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and burne the fat for a swete sauoure vnto the LORDE. And lette them no more offer theyr offerynges vnto deuyls, after whom they haue gone a whorynge. Thys shal be an ordynaunce for euer vnto them in theyr generacions.

And thou shalt say vnto them: what soeuer mā it be of the house Israel, or of the

of the straungers whyche sotourne amonge you that offereth a burnt offe-rynge or sacrifice, and bryngeth it not vnto the dore of the tabernacle of witnes to offer it vnto the LORD, that mā shal perysshe from amonge hys people.
And what soeuer mā it be of ꝑ house of Israell or of ꝑ straūgers that sotourne among you, that eateth anye maner of blonde, I wyl set my face agaynst that soule that eateth blonde, & wil destroye him from among his people: for ꝑ lyfe of the flesshe is in the blonde, & I haue geuē it vnto you vpō the altar, to make an attonemēt for your soules, for blond shal make an attonement for ꝑ soule.
And therfore I sayde vnto the chyldrē of Israel, let no soule of you eate blond.
Neyther let any straūger that sotour-neth among you, eate blonde.

D And what soeuer man it be of ꝑ children of Israel, or of the straūgers that sotourne among you, which hunteth & catcheth any beast or foule that maye be eaten, let hym powre out the blonde therof, and couer it with earth, for the lyfe of al flesshe is in ꝑ blond of it, therfore I sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel *ye shal eate the blonde of no maner of flesshe, for the lyfe of al flesshe is ꝑ blond therof: whosoeuer eateth it, shal perysshe. And euery soule that eateth it whiche dyed alone, or that which was torne wt wylde beastes, whether it be one of youre selues or a straunger, he shal washe his clothes, & bath himselfe in water, & be vncleane vnto ꝑ euē, and thē shal he be cleane. yf he wash thē not nor bath his flesh, he shal beare his sin.

¶ The.xxi.Chapter.

¶ A lawe for the priestes.

AND the LORDE sayde vnto Moses, speake vnto the priestes the sonnes of Aaron, and say vnto thē. Let none be defyled vpon a soule amōg hys people: but vpō hys kynsman that is nye vnto hym: vpon his father, and his mother, vpon sonne and doughter, and hys brother, and on hys syster a mayde that is nye vnto hym, whom no man hath knowen, vpon her shal he be defyled. But he shall not be defiled vpon him that hath auctoritie among his people, to polute hym selfe for him. Let them not make * baldnes vpon their heade, nor shaue of the lockes of theyr beарde, nor make any markes in theyr flesshe. They shall be holye vnto their GOD, and not polute the name of theyr GOD, for the sacrifices of the LORDE which are as the breade of their GOD they do offer: therfore they shalbe holy. *Let them not take a wyfe that is an aduoutresse, or polluted, nor put frō her husband: for such a one is holy vnto his GOD. Thou shalt e sanctifie hym therfore, for he offereth vp the breade of thy GOD: he shal therfore be holy vnto the, for I the LORDE whiche sanctifye you am holy. If a Priestes doughter fal to playe þ whore, she poluteth her father: therfore must she be burnt with fyre.

He that is the hye pryeste amonge hys brethren, vpon whose heade the anoyntynge oyle was powred, and that consecrated his hand to put on þ vestimētes, shal not vncouer his head, nor rēt his clothes, *nether go to anye deade body, nor make hym selfe vncleane on hys father or his mother, neyther shall go out of the sanctuary, nor polute the holy place of his GOD: for the croune of the anoyntyng oyle of his GOD, is vpon him: I am the LORDE. * He shal take a mayde vnto his wife: but a widowe, a denoysed woman, or an harlot, shall he not marye. But shall take a mayde of his own people to wyfe. Nether shall he defyle his sede among his people: for I am the LORDE whyche sanctifie hym.

And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto Aaron, & say. Whosoeuer of thy sede in theyr generacions hathe any deformitie, let hym not preace for to offer breade vnto hys GOD. *For whosoeuer hathe any blemyshe, shall not come nere, as yf he be blynde or lame, or that hathe a brused nose, or that hath any myshapē membre, or is broken foted, or broken handed or haue no heare on hys eye browes, or haue a wed or other blemyshe in hys eyes, or be maūgie, or skauld, or hath his stones broken. No man that hathe a blemyshe, and is of the sede of Aaron the prieste, shal come nye to offer the sacrifyces of the LORDE, when he hath hath a deformitie let him not preace to offer ꝑ bread of his GOD. Let him eate ꝑ bread of his GOD: eue of ꝑ most holy & of ꝑ holy: Onely let him not go in vnto the vayle, nor come nye the aultar, whe he is deformed, that he polute not my sanctuarye, for I am the LORDE that sanctifie them. And Moses tolde it vnto Aaron and to his sonnes, & vnto al the children of Israel.

¶ The. xxii. Chapter.

¶ Who ought to abstayne from eatyng the thinges that were offered. Howe, what and when they should be offered.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto Aaron & oys sonnes, that they be seperated from the holy thynges of the chyldren of Israell, and that they polute not my holy name in those thinges, which they halowe vnto me: I am the LORDE. Saye vnto them: whosoeuer he be of al your sede amonge youre generacyons after you, that goeth vnto the holye thynges whiche the children of Israel halowe vnto the LORDE, hauinge hys vnclennesse vpon him: that soule shall perysshe from oute of my syghte. I am the LORDE.

Leuit. xv. 8 * What man so euer of the sede of Aaron is a leaper: or hath a runnynge issue, he shall not eate of the holy thinges vntyll he be cleane. And who so toucheth any man that is vncleane ouer the soule of the deade, or a manne whose sede runneth from hym in hys slepe: or whosoeuer touchethe anye wormе, whereby he maye be made vncleane, or a man, of whome he maye take vnclennesse (whatsoeuer vnclennes he hath) the same soule that hathe touched any suche, shalbe vncleane vntyll euen, and shall not eate of the holy thynges, vntyll he haue washed hys fleshe w water. And when the sunne is downe, he shall be cleane, and shall afterwarde eate of the holye thynges: Leuit. xxi. 1 for asmuche as it is his foode. * Of a beast that dyeth alone, or is rent wyth wylde beastes (wherby he maye be defyled) he shall not eate. I am ꝑ LORD. Lette them kepe therefore myne ordynaunce, lest they for the same, lade syn vpon them, and dye for it, if they defile it. I the LORDE sanctifie them.

There shall no straunger eate of the holye thynge, neyther a geste of the Priestes, neither shal an hyred seruaūt eate of the holy thynge. But yf ꝑ priest bye any soule with money, he shall eate of it, lyke as he ꝑ is borne in hys house, shal they eate of his bread. If ꝑ priestes doughter also be maryed vnto a straūger, she maye not eate of the halowed heue offerynges. Notwythstandynge if ꝑ priestes doughter be a wydowe, or deuorced and haue no childe, but is returned vnto her fathers house again, she shall eate of her fathers breade, as well as she dyd in her youth. But there shall no straunger eate therof. If a mā eate of the holy thynge vnwyttyngly, he shall put the fyfte parte therunto, & gene it vnto the Priest with the halowed thyng. And the Priestes shall not defyle the holy thynges of the children of Israell, (whiche they offer vnto the LORDE) to lade them selues with misdoynge and trespasse whyle they eate theyr holye thynges, for I the LORDE do halowe them. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto Aaron and his sonnes, and vnto al the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: what so euer he be of the house of Israell, or straunger in Israel, that wyll offer his sacrifyce for all his vowes, & for all hys frewyllofferynges whiche they wyll offer vnto the LORDE: for a burnt offerynge, ye shal offer (to reconcyle youre selues) a male without blemyshe of the oxen, of the shepe, or of the goates. But whatsoeuer hathe a blemishe, that shall ye not offer, for ye shal get no fauoure therwith. And whosoeuer bryngeth a peace offeryng vnto ꝑ LORD (accordyng as he is appointed:) or a vowe, or a free wyll offerynge, in ore or shepe that is without deformytie, he shalbe accepted. There shall be also no blemyshe therin: blynde or broken, or wounded, or haue a wenne, or be maungie, or scabbed, ye shall not offer suche vnto the LORDE, nor put an offerynge of any suche vpon the aultar vnto the LORD. An ore or a shepe that hath anye membre oute of proporcion, mayste thou offer for a frewil offering, but for a vowe it shall not be accepted. ye shall not offer vnto the LORDE that whiche is brosed or broken, or plucked out, or cut awaye, neyther shal ye make anye suche in youre lande, neyther of a straungers hande shall ye offer breade

vnto your GOD of any suche. Because they? corrupcio is in them, & they haue deformitie in thē selues, & therfore shal they not be accepted for you. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge:
when an Oxe, or a shepe, or a goate is brought forth, it shalbe seuen daies vn der ỳ dam. And frō the eyght day forth, it shalbe accepted for a sacrifice vnto ỳ LORD. And whether it be oxe or shepe, ye shal not kyll it, and her yonge bothe
in one day. Whē ye wyl offer a thanke offering vnto the LORDE, offer it that ye may be accepted. And the same day it muste be eaten vp, so ỳ ye leaue none of it vntyl the morowe. I am ỳ LORD.
Therfore shall ye kepe my cōmaundē-mentes & do them. I am the LORDE.
Neyther shal ye pollute my holy name,
but I wyl be halowed among the children of Israel. I am the LORD whych halowe you, and that brought you out of the lāde of Egipte, to be your GOD:
I am the LORDE.

¶ The.xxiij. Chapter.

Of the holy dayes, that they shulde kepe.

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses,
saying: speake vnto the chyldrē of Israel, & say vnto them: These are my feastes: euē the feastes of ỳ LORD, whych ye shall call holy conuocations.
*Sixe dayes ye shal worke, but the seuenth daye is the Sabboth of reste, an holy conuocation: so ỳ ye do no worke therin, it is the Sabboth of the LORD, in all your dwellynges. These are the feastes of the LORD, euen holy conuo-cations, whyche ye shall proclayme in theyr seasons. In the .xiiij. daye of the fyrst moneth at euen is the LORDES *passeouer. And on the fyfteneth daye of the same moneth is ỳ feaste of swete breade vnto the LORD: seuen dayes ye muste eate vnleuened breade. * In the fyrst daye ye shal haue an holy conuocation: ye shall do no laborious worke therin. But ye shall offre sacrifyces vnto the LORDE thorow out those seuen dayes, and in the seuenth day is an holy cōuocation: ye shal do no laborious worke therin. And ỳ LORD spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto the chyldrē of Israel, & say vnto them *when ye be come into the lande (which I geue vnto you) & reape down the harueste ther-of, ye shal bring a sheafe of the fyrst fru-tes of youre harueste vnto the Priest, whych shall waue the sheafe before the LORD to be accepted for you: & euē the morowe after the Sabboth, the Priest shal waue it. And ye shal offer that day when ye waue the sheafe, an he lambe without blemyshe, of a yeare olde, for a burnt offeryng vnto the LORDE: & the meatoffring therof, shalbe made of two tenth deales of fyne floure mingled wt oyle, to be a sacrifice vnto the LORDE for a swete sauoure: & the drinke offe-

In al the lande of your possession, ye shal graūt a redemption for the lande. yf thy brother *be waxed poore, & hath solde awaye of hys possession, & yf any of hys kynne come to redeme it, let him bye out that whyche his brother solde. And yf he haue no man to redeme it, let hys hande get so muche as may be sufficient to bye it out agayne, & let hym counte how longe it hath ben solde, and deliuer the reste vnto the mā to whom he solde it, that he maye returne to hys possession agayne. But and yf his hāde cannot get sufficient to restore to the other agayne, then that whych is solde shal remayne in the hande of hym that hath bought it, vntil the yere of iubely: and in the iubely it shal come out, and he shall returne vnto hys possession agayne. And yf a man sell a house or a dwellyng wythin the walles of a cytie, he maye bye it out agayne wythin a whole yere after it is solde: euen any day of the yere shal he redeme it again. But & yf he bye it not out againe within the space of a full yere, then the house that is in the walled cytie, shalbe stablysshed, and be hys owne that bought it, and hys successours after hym, and shall not go out in the Jubely. But the houses of vyllages, whyche haue no walles rounde aboute them, are counted as the felde of the coūtre, and therfore they maye be bought out agayne, and shall retourne in the Jubely. Notwithstandyng, the cyties of the Leuites, and the houses of the cities of their possession, maye the Leuites redeme at all seasōs. And yf a mā purchase ought of the Leuites, the house that was solde and the cytie of theyr possession shal go out in the yere of Jubely: for the houses of the cyties of the Leuites, are theyr possession among the chyldren of Jsrael. But the felde of the suburbe that is besyde theyr cyties, maye not be solde: but is theyr perpetuall possession.

I am the LORD your GOD, whych brought you out of the lande of Egipt, that ye shuld not be theyr bondmen, and I haue broken the cheynes of youre yoke, & made you go vpryght.* But & yf ye wyll not herken vnto me, nor wil not do after these cō-maundementes. And yf ye shal despyse myne ordinaūces, eyther yf your soule abhorre my lawes, so that ye wyll not do al my cōmaundementes, but breake myne appointmēt, I also wyll do thys vnto you. For I wyll bryng vpon you fearfulnesse, swellyng of body, and the burnyng agewe to consume your eyes, & gender sorowe of hert. And you shall sowe your sede in vayne, for your enemyes shall eate it. And I wyll set my face agaynst you, and ye shal fal before your enemyes: and they that hate you shal raigne ouer you,* and ye shal flee, when no man foloweth you.

And yf ye wil not yet for al this herken vnto me, then wyll I punyshe you seuen tymes more for your synnes, and wyl breake the pryde of youre stubbernes. And I wyl make your heauen as yron, & your earth as brasse: And your labour shalbe spent in vayne. For your land shal not geue her increase, nether shall the trees of the lande geue theyr frutes. And ye walke cōtrary vnto me, & wyl not herken vnto me, I wyl bring seuen tymes mo plages vpon you accordyng to your synnes. I wyll also sende in wilde beastes vpon you, which shall robbe you of youre chyldren, and destroye youre cattell, and make you fewe in nūbre, & cause your hye wayes to growe vnto a wylderneslle. And yf ye may not be reformed by these thynges but shal walke contrary vnto me, then wyl I also walke contrary vnto you, & wyll punyshe you yet seuen tymes for your synnes. And I wyl sēde a swerde vpon you, that shall auenge my testament. And when ye are gathered together within your cities, I wil sende the pestilēce among you, and ye shalbe delyuered into the hande of the enemye. And when I haue broken the staffe of your bread: ten wyues shall bake your breade in one ouen, & they shal deliuer you your bread agayne by weyght* ye shal eate, and not be satisfyed. And yf ye wyl not yet for al this, herken vnto me, but shal walke against me, I wil walke contrary vnto you also in indignacion, and wyll chastyce you seuen tymes for

4. Re. 6. 8 pour synnes. * And ye shall eate the flesshe of your sonnes and the flesshe of your doughters shall ye deuoure.

C I wyll destroye your hye places, and rote out your ymages, & cast your car-kasses vpon the bodies of your ydols, & my soule shal abhorre you. And I wyl make your cyties desolate, and bringe your sanctuary vnto nought, and wyl not smell the swetnesse of your odours.
I wyl bryng the lande vnto a wyldernesse, & your enemyes which dwell ther in, shall wonder at it. And I wyl strow you among the heathen, & wyll drawe out a swearde after you, & your lande shalbe waste, and your cyties desolate.
Then shall the lande enioye her Sabbothes, as longe as it lyeth voyde, & ye shalbe in your enemies lãde: euen then shal ỳ lande reste, & rioice in her Sabbothes. As longe as it lyeth voyde, it shal rest, because it dyd not rest in your Sabbothes, when ye dwelt vpon it.

I And vpõ them ỳ are left alyue of you,
I wyl sende a fayntnesse into theyr hertes in the lande of theyr enemyes: and the sõde of a shakyng leafe, shal chase them, & whẽ they flee the swearde, they shall fall: no man folowyng vpõ them.
They shall fall one vpon an other, as it were before a swearde, euen no mã fo-lowyng vpon them, and ye shal haue no power to stande before your enemyes:
And ye shal perysshe among ỳ heathen, & the lãde of your enemyes shal eat you vp. And they that are lefte of you, shall pyne awaye in theyr vnryghteousnes, euẽ in theyr enemyes lande, & in ỳ misdedes of theyr fathers shall they consume. And they shal cõfesse theyr mys-dedes & the mysdedes of theyr fathers for theyr trespace, whych they haue tre spaced against me, & for ỳ also that they haue walked contrary vnto me. Therfore, I also wyll walke contrary vnto them, & wyl bryngе them into the lande of theyr enemyes. And then at the lest waye theyr vncircũcised hertes shalbe tamed, & they shal make an attonemẽt Deu. 4. 1 for theyr mysdedes. And * I wyl remẽ-ber my couenaũt wt Jacob, & my bonde wyth Isahac, & mine appomtmẽt with Abrahã wyl I remember, & wil thinke on the lande. The lande shalbe lefte of them, and shall enioye her Sabbothes whyle she lyeth wast wythout them.
And they shall make an attonemẽt for theyr mysdedes, because they despysed my lawes, and because theyr soule refused myne ordynaũces: And yet for all that when they be in the lande of theyr enemyes: * I wyl not cast them away, Deu.
nether wyll abhorre them, to destroye thẽ vtterly, & to breake myne appointment wyth them: for I am the LORDE theyr God. I wyll for theyr sakes remembre the couenaũt made vnto their fathers whome I brought out of the lande of Egipte in the syght of the hea then, that I myght be theyr GOD:
I am the LORDE. These are the ordinaũces, & iudgemẽtes, & lawes, which the LORD made betwene hym and the chyldren of Israel in mount Sinai, by the hande of Moses.

The. xxvii. Chapter.

Of dyuerse vowes and of tythes etc.

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses, I saying: speake vnto the childzen of Israel, and say vnto them: yf any man wyll geue a synguler bowe vnto the LORDE, accordyng to the value of the soules, the value of the male from twentye yere olde vnto syxtye shall be fyftye * sycles of syluer, after ỳ weyght Exo.
of the sanctuary. And yf it be a female:
the value shalbe thyrty sycles. And frõ fyue yeres to twentye, the male shalbe set at twenty sycles, and the female at
x. sycles. And from a moneth vnto fyue yere, the male shalbe set at fyue sycles of syluer, and the female at thze. And he that is syxtye yere olde, & aboue shall be valued at fyftene sycles, and the woman at ten. But yf he be to poore so to be set he shal present hym selfe before ỳ priest: & the priest shal value him acco-rdyng as the hande of hym that bowed is able to get, euẽ so shal the priest value hym. If it be a beast of whych men bryng an offeryng vnto the LORD: al ỳ B any man geueth of suche vnto ỳ LORD shalbe counted holy. He shall not alter it nor chaũge it a good for a badde, or a bad for a good. And yf he chaũge beast for beast, then both the same beast and it also wherwith it was chaunged shal be holy. If it be any maner of vncleane beaste, of whych men do not offer a sacrifyce vnto the LORDE, he shall set the beast before the priest, and the priest shall value it, whyther it be good or badde. And as the priest setteth it, so shal it be. But yf he wyll bye

it agayne

it agayne, he shall geue the fyfte parte more aboue that it was set at. yf any man dedycate hys house to be holy vnto ℣ LORDE: the prieſt shall set it, whether it be good or bad, and as the prieſt hath set it, so shal ℣ value be. And whē he that sanctified it wyll redeme hys house: let hym geue the fyft part of the money that it was iudged at therto, & it shalbe hys.

yf a man halowe a pece of his enherited lande vnto the LORD: it shalbe set accordyng to ℣ sede therof. yf it beare an homer of berly it shalbe set at fyfty sycles of syluer. yf he halow hys felde immediatly frō ℣ yere of iubely, it shall be worth accordyng as it is estemed. But and yf he halowe hys felde after the iubely, the prieſt shal reken ℣ mony accordyng to the number of ℣ yeres ℣ remayne vnto the yeres of Jubely following, & therafter it shalbe lower set.

yf he that consecrated the felde, wyl redeme it agayne, let hym put the fyfte parte of ℣ pryce ℣ it was set at therunto, & it shalbe his. And yf he wyl not redeme the felde, but selleth ℣ felde to an other man, he (that vowed) may redeme it nomore. But when the felde goeth out in the yere of iubely, it shalbe holy vnto the LORD: euē as a felde that is vterly put away, & it shalbe the prieſtes possession. yf a man sanctifie vnto the LORD a felde whych he hath bought, & is not of hys inheritaunce, ℣ prieſt shal reken vnto hym what it is worth vnto the yere of iubely, & he shal geue ℣ price that it is set at, ℣ same daye, as a thing cōsecrated vnto the LORD. And in the yere of iubely, the felde shall returne vnto him of whome he bought it: euen vnto him, whose inheritance of lande it is. And al settyng shalbe accordyng to the sycle* of the sanctuarye. One sycle contayneth .xx. halfpens. *But the firſt borne of the beaſtes ℣ is appointed vnto the LORDE, may no man sanctifye: whether it be ore or shepe, for it is the LORDES alredy. yf it be an vncleane beaſt, he shall redeme it, as it is set at, & geue the fyfte parte more therto: Or yf it be not redemed, it shalbe solde, accordyng to the value. Notwythstandyng, no damned thyng that a man putteth from hym & dedicateth vnto the LORD of all hys good (whether it be man or beaſt or lande of hys inheritance) may be solde or redemed: for euery thyng so put away is moſt holy vnto the LORD. Let no damned thing that a man seperateth, be redemed: but dye the death. Euery tyth of the lāde whych is of the sede of the lande, or of the frute of the trees is ℣ LORDES: and is sanctifyed vnto the LORD. And yf a man wyll redeme ought of hys tythes: let hym ad the fyft parte therto. And euery tyth of ore & of shepe & of euery beaſt ℣ goeth vnder the rod, euen euery tenth shal be holy vnto the LORD. He shal not loke yf it be good or bad, nor chaūge it. Els yf he chaūge it, both it, and that it was chaunged withal, shal be halowed vnto the LORD, and may not be redemed. These are the cōmaūdementes whych the LORD cōmaunded by Moses vnto the chyldren of Jſrael in moūt Sinai.

¶ The fyrſt Chapter.

All that are apte for battel, are nombred. The trybe of Leui muſte miniſter in the Tabernacle.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses in the wyldernesse of Sinai, in the Tabernacle of wytnes, the fyrſte daye of the seconde moneth in the seconde yere after they were come out of the lande of Egipte, saying: *take ye the summe of all the multytude of the chyldren of Jſrael, after theyr kynredes & houſholde of theyr fathers, wyth the nūbre of theyr names, al ℣ are males, head by heade, from xx. yere and aboue: euen all that go forth to ℣ warre in Jſrael, thou & Aarō shal nūbre them, thorowout theyr armyes: & wyth you shalbe men of euery trybe wherof euery one is heade man of the houſe of his fathers. And these are ℣ names of the men ℣ shal stande w you: of (the tryde of) Ruben, Elizur, the sonne of Sedeur: of Simeon, Selumiel the sōne of Suri. Nadab: of Juda, Nahesſon, the sōne of Aminadab: of Jſachar, Nathanael, ℣ sonne of Zuar: of Zabulon, Eliab, the sonne of Helon: Amonge the chyldren of Joseph: of Ephraim, Elisama, the sone of Amihud: of Manasse, Gamaliel, the sone of Pedazur: of Ben Jamin, Abidan the sonne of Gedeoni: of Dan, Ahiezer, the sone of Ammi, Sadai: of Aser, Pagiel, the sone of Ocran: of Gad, Eliaph the sonne of Deguel: of Nephtali, Ahira the sonne of Enan.

B These were of great fame in the cõgregacion, lordes of the trybes of their fathers, & heades ouer thousandes in Israel. And Moses & Aaron toke these men (which are expressed by their names) and gathered all the congregacion together, the fyrst daye of ỳ seconde moneth, & they were rekened thorowe out their kynreds and houses of their fathers by name, from twentye yere & aboue, heade by heade. As the LORDE cõmaũded Moses, euen so he numbred them in the wyldernes of Sanai. And the chyldren of Ruben, Israels eldest sonne thorowe out their generacions, and their kinredes and houses of their fathers in the numbre of names, heade by heade (all males from twentye yere and aboue) as many as dyd go forth to the warre: the numbre of them ỳ were of the trybe of Ruben, was. xlvi. thousande and fyue hundred.

C Of the chyldren of Simeon thorowout their generacions & their kynredes, & houses of their fathers, the sũme of them in the number of names, heade by heade, all the males from twentye yeres & aboue, who so euer myght go forth to the warre: the summe of them that were of the trybe of Simeon. lix. thousande: and .iii. hũdred. Of ỳ chyldren of Gad thorowout their generacions & their kynredes & households of their fathers, the numbre of the names frõ twenty yere & aboue, all that went forth to the warre: the numbre of them ỳ were of the trybe of Gad, was xlv. thousande, fyre hundred & fyfty. Of the chyldren of Juda thorowout their generacions, & their kynredes & houses of their fathers, the numbre of names from twenty yere & aboue, al that were able to go forth to ỳ warre: The numbre of them that were of ỳ trybe of Juda was. lxxiiii. thousande & fyre hundred. Of the chyldren of Issachar thorowout their generacions & their kinredes & houses of their fathers: the numbre of names frõ twenty yere and aboue whyche went al forth to warre, the numbre of them that were of the trybe of Issachar, was. liii. thousande and. iiii. hundred.

D Of the children of zabulon, thorowout their generacions & their kinreds, & houses of their fathers, the number of names from twenty yere and aboue, which were able to go forth in the host: The number of them that were of the trybe of zabulon, was. lvii. thousand & four hundred. Of ỳ children of Joseph: Namely, of ỳ children of Ephraim thorowout their generacyons and their kynredes and houses of their fathers, the number of names frõ twenty yeres & aboue, al that went out to the warre: the number of them that were of the trybe of Ephraim was .xl. thousande and fyue hundred.

E Of ỳ chyldrẽ of Manasse thorowout their generacions, & their kynredes, & houses of their fathers, the number of names from twenty yere olde & aboue, all that went out to ỳ warre: The nũbre of them that were of the trybe of Manasse was. xxxii. thousande and. ii. hundred. Of the chyldrẽ of Ben Jamin thorowout their generacions, & their kynredes and houses of their fathers, the numbre of names from twẽty yere and aboue, all that went forthe to the warre: The numbre of them that were of the trybe of Ben Jamin was .xxxv. thousande & .iiii. hundred. Of the chyldren of Dan thorowout their generacions & kynredes & houses of their fathers: the nũbre of names frõ twentye yere olde & aboue, al that went forth to the warre. The nũbre of them ỳ were of the trybe of Dan was. lxii. thousand and seuen hundred. Of the chyldren of Asar thorowout their generacions & their kynredes and houses of their fatherꝛs, the number of the names from twenty yeres & aboue, al that went out to warre: The number of them ỳ were of the trybe of Aser was. xli. thousande and fyue hundred. Of the chyldren of Nephtali: thorowout their generacions and their kynredes and houses of their fathers the nũbre of names frõ twenty yeres & aboue, all that myghte go forth to the warre. The numbre of them that were of the trybe of Nephtali, was. liii. thousande and foure hũdred. These are the sũmes which Moses and Aaron numbred & the prynces

of Israell: those twelue menne, whyche were euery one ouer the house of their fathers. And all the nombres of ỳ children of Israell, throwe oute the houses of theyr fathers, from twentye yere and aboue, all that wente forth to the warre in Israell, drewe all vnto the summe of sixe hundred. M. & thre thousande, fyue hundred and fyftye. But ỳ Leuites after the trybes of their fathers were not numbred among them. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Thou shalte not number the trybe of Leui, neyther take the summe of them from amonge the children of Israell. But thou shalte appoynte the Leuites ouer the habitacio of witnes, and ouer al the vessels therof, and ouer all thinges that are in it. yea, they shal beare the tabernacle and all the vesselles therof, and they shall minister in it, and shall dwell rounde aboute the tabernacle. And when the tabernacle goeth forthe, the Leuites shall take it downe: and when the tabernacle is to be pytched, they shall sette it vp: and yf any straunger come nye, he shall dye. And the children of Israell shal pytch their tentes, euerye man in hys owne companye, and euerye man vnder hys own standerd throwout theyr hostes. But the Leuites shall pytche rounde aboute the tabernacle of witnesse, that there be no wrath vpon the congregacyon of the children of Israell, and the Leuites shal kepe ỳ watche of ỳ tabernacle of wytnesse. And the children of Israell dyd accordynge to all that the LORDE commaunded Moses, euen so dyd they.

¶ The. ii. Chapter.

¶ The order of the tentes. The heades of the kynredes of Israell.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, and Aaron, sayinge: euery mā of the children of Israel shal pytch vnder his owne standerde and vnder ỳ armes of theyr fathers houses: on the other syde and rounde aboute the tabernacle of wytnesse shall they pytche. On the easte syde towarde the rysynge of the sunne, shall they of the standerde of the host of Juda pytche throwoute their armies: And Nahesson the sonne of Aminadab was captayne of the sons of Juda. And his hoste and the number of them: lxxiiii. thousande & syxe hundred. Nexte vnto hym shal they that be of the trybe of Issachar pytche: and Nathanael the son of Zuar was captaine of the children of Issachar: his hooste & the summe of the number therof. liiii. thousande, and foure hundred. And then the trybe of Zabulon: and Eliab ỳ sonne of Helō, captayne ouer the children of Zabulon and his hooste, and the number of them. lvii. thousande & foure hundred: so that the whole numbre of ỳ whole hooste of Juda are an hundred thousande. lxxvi. thousande, and foure hundred throwout theyr armies: and these shall go before. On the southsyde shal the standerd of the hoste of Ruben kepe throw theyr companies: and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ruben, was Elizur the sonne of Sedeur. And his hoste and the numbre of them. xlvi. thousande and fiue hundred. And faste by hym shall ỳ trybe of Symeon pytch, and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Symeon, was Salumiel the sonne of Zuri Sadai, and his hoste & the number of them. lir. thousande and three hundred. And the tribe of Gad also and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Gad, was Eliasaph the sonne of Deguell: And his hoste and the numbre of them xlv. thousande syxe hundred and fyftie. All that were numbred with the trybe of Rubē: an hundred thousand. li. thousand foure hundred and fyftie, throwout their armyes: and they shall go in the second place. And the tabernacle of wytnes shall go with the hooste of the Leuites, in the myddes of the hostes. And as they lye in theyr tentes, euen so shall they procede in the iourney, euery man in his degree, & vnder their owne standerdes.

The westsyde shall the standerd of the hooste of Ephraim kepe wt their armies, and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Ephraim, was Elisama the sonne of Amihud: His hoste and the numbre of them. xl. thousande and fyue hundred. And faste by hym, shalbe the trybe of Manasse, & the captayne ouer the sons of Manasse was Gamaliel the sonne of Pedazur. His hoste and the nombre of them. xxxii. thousande and two hundred. And the tribe of Ben Jamin also: and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ben Jamin was Abidan, the sonne of Gedeoni. His hoste and the numbre of them.rrrb.thousande and, foure hundred. All ꝑ were appoynted wyth the host of Ephraim were an hũdred thousande, eyght thousand and an hundred, thorowout their armies, and they shal go in the thyrde place. The standerd of the hooste of Dan shall kepe the north syde with their armies: and ꝑ captaine ouer the childzen of Dan, was Ahiezer the sonne of Ammi Sadai. Hys hooste and the numbre of them.lxii.thousande and seuen hundred.

D And faste by hym shall the trybe of Aser pytche and the captaine ouer the sonnes of Aser, was Pagiel the sonne of Ocran. Hys hoste and the number of them.xli. thousande and fyue hundred. And ꝑ trybe of Nephthali also, and the captayne ouer the chyldzen of Nephthali: was Ahira the sonne of Enan. His hoste and the number of them.liii. thousande and foure hundred. All they that were appoynted with the hoste of Dan, was an hundred thousande. lvii. thousande and.vi.hundred. And they shall goe hynmost wᵗ theyr standerdes. These are the summes of the chyldzen of Israell thorowe oute the houses of theyr fathers, euen all ꝑ numbres that pytched thorowout their hoostes, fyre hundred thousande thre thousande.v. hundred and fyftie. But the Leuites were not numbred among the childzen of Israel as the LORDE commaunded Moses. And the childzen of Israel dyd accordyng to all that the LORDE commaũded Moses, for so they pytched wᵗ theyr standerdes, and so they iurneyed thorowout theyr kinredes & thorowout the housholdes of theyr fathers.

¶ The.iii.Chapter.

¶ The Leuites goe not to battell, but minister in the sanctuarye They pytche theyr tentes nexte to the habitacion.

These are the generacions of Aaron & Moses, in the day that the LORDE spake wyth Moses in mounte Sinai, and these are the names of the sonnes of Aaron: Nadab ꝑ eldest sonne Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. *These are the names of the sons of Aaron whiche were * pryestes annoynted, and whose hande was consecrated to minister. *And Nadab and Abihu dyed before the LORDE, when they offered straunge fyre before the LORDE in the wildernesse of Sinai, & had no childzen. And Eleazar & Ithamar ministred in the syghte of Aaron theyr father.

B And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: bryng the trybe of Leui, and set them before Aarõ the pryest* that they maye serue him, and wayte vpon him & vpon all the multytude, before the tabernacle of witnes, to do the seruice of the habitacion. They shall kepe all the apparel of the tabernacle of wytnes, & wayte vpõ the childzen of Israel to do the seruice of the habitacion. And thou shalte geue the Leuites vnto Aaron & his sonnes, for they are geuen: and delyuered vnto him of the childzen of Israell. And thou shalte appoynte Aaron and his sonnes to wayte on their pryestes offyce: and the straunger that cõmeth nye, shal be slayne.

C And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: beholde, I haue taken the Leuites from amonge the chyldzen of Israell* for all the fyrste bozne that openeth the matryce amonge the chyldzen of Israel, and the Leuites shalbe myne: because al the fyrst bozne are myne: for the same daye that I smote all the first bozne in the lande of Egypte, I halowed vnto me all the firste bozne in Israell, bothe man and beaste, and myne they shalbe: I am the LORDE. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, in the wildernesse of Sinai, saying: Numbre the chyldzen of Leui after ꝑ houses of their fathers in theyr kynredes. All that are maies, from a moneth olde and aboue shalte thou numbre. And Moses numbred them, accordyng to the commaũdemente of the LORDE, and as he had commaunded. *And these were ꝑ childzen of Leui in theyr names: Gerson & Cahath and Merari. And these are the names of ꝑ childzen of Gerson in their kynredes: Libni & Semei. The sonnes of Cahath in their kynredes: Amram, Jezehar, Hebron and Oziel. And the sonnes of Merari in theyr kynredes, Mahali and Musi. These are the kynredes of the Leuites, accordyng to the houses of theyr fathers. Of Gerson D came the kynred of the Libnites & the kinred of the Semeites. These are the kynredes of the Gersonites. And the summe of them (after the number of all the males frõ a moneth olde & aboue) was seuen thousand and fyue hũdred.

And

And the kynredes of the Gersonites shal pytch behynd the habitacion west warde. The captayne and most auncyent of the house of ꝑ Gersonites, was Eliasaph the sonne of Lael. And vnder the kepyng of the childzen of Gerson in the tabernacle of wytnesse was ꝑ habitacyon and the tente, the couerynge therof, and the hangyng of the dooze of the tabernacle of wytnes, and the hangynges of the courte, and the curtaine of the dooze of the courte: whiche is rounde about the Tabernacle, and the altar, and the cozdes of it foz al the seruice therof. And of Cahath came ꝑ kinred of the Amramites, and the kynred of the Jezeharites: the kynred of the Hebzonites, and the kinred of the Ozielites. These are the kynredes of ꝑ Cahathites. And ꝑ number of all the males from a moneth olde & aboue, was eyght thousand and syxe hundzed, and these shal kepe ꝑ thinges that are to be kepte in the holy place. And the kynred of the childzen of Cahath shal pitch on the southsyde of the Tabernacle.

The captayne and most auncyent of ꝑ house of the kynred of the Cahathites, was Elisaphan the sonne of Oziel, and vnder their kepyng was the arke, the table, the candelsticke, and the aulters, and al the vessels of the sanctuary that they minister in, and the bayle, & what soeuer belonged to the ministracyon therof. And Eleazar the sonne of Aarō the pzyest, was captayne ouer all the captaynes of the Leuites, and had the ouersyght of them that wayted vpō the sanctuarye. And of Merari came the kynred of the Mahelites, and the kynred of the Musites.

These are the kynredes of Merari. And the summe of them accozdynge to the numbze of all the males, frō a moneth old and aboue was syxe thousand and two hundzed. The captayne and the moste auncyent of their house that were of the kynred of Merari, was Zuriel the sonne of Abihael: & these shal pytche on the nozthesyde of the tabernacle. And vnder the custodye of the sonnes of Merari shalbe the bozdes of the dwellyng, and the barres, pillers & sockettes therof, all the vessell therof, & all that serueth therto: & the pyllers of the courte rounde aboute, with theyz sockets, theyz pynnes & theyz cozdes, But on the foze front of the habitacion before the tabernacle of witnesse eastwarde shall Moses and Aarō and hys sonnes pytche and wayte to kepe the sanctuary, and to kepe the childzen of Israel. And the straunger that commeth nye, shalbe slayne. And the whole summe of the Leuites whiche Moses and Aaron numbzed, at the commaundement of the LORDE throwout their kynredes (euen all the males from a moneth olde and aboue) was * .xxii. thousande. Nu.26.g

And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses: Numbze all the fyrste bozne that are males amonge the childzen of Israell (from a moneth olde and aboue) and take the number of theyz names. And thou shalte appoynt the Leuites to me (foz I am the LORDE) foz all the fyrste bozne of the childzen of Israel, and the cattell of the Leuites, foz all the fyrste gendzed of the cattel of the childzen of Israell. And Moses numbzed as the LORDE commaunded him, all the firste bozne of the childzen of Israell. And al the first bozne males rehersed by theyz names (from a moneth old and aboue, accozdyng to their numbze) were .xxii. thousande two hundzed and. lxxiii.

And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: take the Leuites foz all ꝑ fyrste bozne of the childzen of Israell, and the cattell of the Leuites foz their cattell, & the Leuites shall be myne. I am the LORDE. And foz the redemynge of the two hundzed and .lxxiii. (whiche are mo then the Leuites in the firste bozne of the childzen of Israell) take .v. sycles of euery heade after the weyght of the Sanctuarye * the sycle conteynynge twentye halfepens. And geue the money wherwith the odde number of thē is redemed vnto Aarō and his sonnes. And Moses toke the redempcyon money, of the ouerplus that were moe thē the Leuites: of the firste bozne of the childzen of Israel toke he this money: euen a thousande thzee hundzed .lxv. sycles, after the sycle of the sanctuary. And Moses gaue the money of them ꝑ were redemed, vnto Aarō & his sonnes, accozdyng to the wozd of the LORDE, euen as the LORDE commaunded Moses.

¶ The.iiii. Chapter.

The offyces of the Leuites.

And

3 AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, and Aaron, sayinge: Take the summe of the children of Cahath from amonge the sonnes of Leui, after their kynredes, and houses of their fathers (from thyrtie yere a aboue vntyl fyftie) all that are able to go furth to the warre: for to doe the woorke in the tabernacle of wytnesse. The office of the children of Cahath in ꝑ Tabernacle of wytnesse, is moste holy. And whē the host remoueth, Aaron a his sonnes shall come and take downe the vayle, that hangeth betwene, and wrappe the arke of witnesse in it: a shal put theron a couerynge of tarus skynnes, and shal spreade vpon it a clothe that is altogether of yelowe silke a put in the barres therof. And vpon the sheawe table, they shall spreade abroade a cloth of yelowe sylke, and putte thereon the dysshes, spones, flatpeces, and pottes to powre with, and there shalbe breade thereon contynually: and they shall spreade vpō them a couerynge of purple, and couer ꝑ same wt a couerynge of tarus skynnes and put in the barres therof. And they shall take a clothe of yelowe sylke, and couer the candelsticke of lyghte, wyth his lampes, tonges, and snoffers, and all the oyle vesselles, whiche they occupye aboute it: and they shall put both it, and all the vessel therof within a couerynge of tarus skynnes, a put it vpō a barre.

And vpon the golden altar they shal spread a cloth of yelowe sylke, and couer it with a couerynge of tarus skynnes, and put in the barres therof. And they shall take all the thynges, (which they occupie to minister within ꝑ holy place) and put a clothe of yelowe sylke vpon them, and couer them with a couerynge of tarus skinnes, and put them on a barre.

And they shall take awaye the ashes from the aultar, a spreade a purple cloth theron: and put vpon it all the vesselles therof that they minister withall: euen the cole pannes, ꝑ fleshhokes, the shouels, the basens, and the other vesselles of the aultar, and they shall spreade vpon it a couerynge of tarus skynnes, and put in the barres of it. And when Aarō and hys sonnes haue made an ende of couerynge the holy thynges, and all the vesselles of the sanctuary (against that the hooste remoue) then the sonnes of Cahath shall come in for to beare, but they shal not touche any holye thynge, least they dye. And this is the charge of the sonnes of Cahath in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And to the office of Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the priest, pertayneth the oyle for the lyghte, the swete cense, the dayly meate offerynge, and the anoyntyng oyle, and the ouersyghte of all the tabernacle, and of all that therin is, both in the sanctuarye a in all the vesselles thereof. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses and Aaron saying: ye shall not destroye the trybe of the kynred of the Cahathites, from among the Leuites. But thus do vnto them, ꝑ they may liue and not dye, whē they goe vnto the moste holy thynges: Let Aaron and hys sonnes goe in, and take them downe, to euerye one after his seruyce, and after his charge. But let them not goe in, to se when the holy thynges are folden vp, lest they dye.

And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Take also the summe of ꝑ children of Gerson, throwout the houses of their fathers, and throwoute theyr kynreds: from .xxx. yere a aboue, vntil fyftye shalte thou number them, al that are able to go forth to the warre for to do seruice in the tabernacle of witnes. And this is the seruyce of the kynred of the Gersonites, to serue and to beare. They shall beare the curtaynes of the dwellyng, and the rouse of the tabernacle of wytnesse, his couerynge, and the couerynge of tarus skynnes, that is aboue vpon it, and the hangyng of the doze whiche is in the Tabernacle of wytnesse: and the hangynges of the courte, and the hangyng that is in the entrynge in of the gate of the courte rounde aboute the dwellynge, and the altar, with the cordes, and all ꝑ instrumentes ꝑ serue vnto them, and all that is made for to serue them. At ꝑ mouth of Aarō and his sonnes, shal al the seruyce of the children of the Gersonites be done, in all their charges, and in all their seruice, and ye shall number vnto them all theyr burdens to kepe. And this is the seruice of the kynred of the children of Gerson in the tabernacle of wytnesse, and theyr watche shal be vnder the hande of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron ꝑ priest. And thou shalt number the sonnes

the sonnes of Merari after their kynredes, and after the houses of their fathers: from thyrtie yeres and aboue vnto fyftie shalt thou number them, euerye one that is able to goe forth to ꝑ warre, to do the seruice of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And this is the charge that they must wayte vpon, accordyng to all their seruice in the tabernacle of wytnes. The bordes of the dwellyng, with the barres, pyllers, and sockettes therof, and the pyllers that are rounde about the courte, with their sockettes, pynnes and cordes, and with al the instrumentes of it, for all theyr seruyce. And by name ye shal reken the thinges that they muste wayte vpon to beare. This is the seruyce of the kynredes of the sonnes of Merari accordyng to al their office in the Tabernacle of wytnesse vnder the hande of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the priest.

And Moses and Aaron and ꝑ princes of the multitude numbred ꝑ sonnes of the Cahathites, after their kynreds and houses of their fathers, frō thirtye yere and aboue vnto fiftie, al that were able to go forth to the warre, to do seruice in the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And the numbres of them thorowoute their kynredes were two thousande, seuen hundred and fyftye. This is the numbre of ꝑ kynredes of Cahath: namely, all that myghte do seruice in the tabernacle of wytnesse, whiche Moses and Aaron dyd numbre accordynge to the commaundemēt of the LORDE by the hande of Moses. These are ꝑ numbres of the sonnes of Gerson thorowe out theyr kynredes and houses of their fathers, from thyrtye yere vp vnto fiftye all that were able to go forth to the warre, for to do seruice in ꝑ tabernacle of wytnesse. And the numbres of them thorowout their kynredes, and houses of their fathers, were two thousande fyre hundred and thyrtye. This is the numbre of the kynredes of the sonnes of Gerson of al that dyd seruyce in the tabernacle of witnesse, whiche Moses and Aaron dyd numbre accordynge to the commaundemente of the LORDE. And these are the numbres of the kynredes of ꝑ sons of Merari thorowoute their kynreds & houses of their fathers frō thirty yere vp vnto fyftie: all ꝑ wēt forth to warre, and serued in the tabernacle of wytnes. And the nūbres of thē after their kynredes were three thousande and two hundred. This is the summe of the kynredes of the sonnes of Merari, whiche Moses and Aaron numbred accordyng to the worde of ꝑ LORDE, by the hande of Moses. And so all the numbres of ꝑ Leuites, which Moses, Aaron and the Lordes of Israell numbred, after their kynredes & houholdes of their fathers, from thirtie yere vp vnto fiftie, euery one ꝑ came to do hys office and seruyce, & to beare his burthē in ꝑ tabernacle of witnesse: were (when they were numbred) .viij. thousande .v. hundred and .lxxx. Accordyng to the worde of the LORDE dyd (Aaron) numbre them by the hande of Moses, euery one accordynge to theyr seruyce and charge, and accordynge to their offices: as the LORDE commaūded Moses.

¶ The.v.Chapter.

The knowledgynge of synne. The clensynge of synne. The lawe of the firste fruites / and of gelousye.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: commaund the childrē of Israel that they *put out of the hoost, euery leper and euerye one that hath an yssue, and whosoeuer is defyled vpō a soule. Both male and female shal ye put out: euen out of the host shal ye put thē, that they defyle not the tentes amonge whiche I dwell. And the childrē of Israell dyd so, and put thē oute of the hoost: euen as the LORDE spake vnto Moses, so dyd the chyldren of Israell. I Leui.13.g

And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto the childrē of Israell: whether it be *man or woman. Leuit.5.a yf they haue committed any sinne that a man doeth, and haue trespaced agaynste the LORDE, that soule hathe done amisse: Therfore they shal knowledge their sinne which they haue done and let hym restore agayne the hurte ꝑ he hath done in the hole, and put the .v. part of it more therto, and geue it vnto hym whō he hath trespassed agaynste. B

But and yf there be not a man to restore the hurte vnto, nor a kynsman of his, let the trespace be made good vnto the LORD, and it shalbe the priestes, beside the ramme of the attonemente.

wherby an attonemente shall be made for him. And euery heueoffering that is made of the holy thinges of the childrē of Israel whiche they bringe vnto the priest, shalbe his, and euery mans halowed thinges shal be his: and whatsoeuer any man geueth the priest, it shalbe his. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Speake vnto the childzen of Israell, and saye vnto them. If any mannes wyfe go asyde & trespace agaynste hym, so that another man lye with her fleshlye, and it be hyd from the eyes of her husbande, and is not come to lyght that she is defiled, and there is no wytnes against her, neyther she taken with the maner, and the spzete of gelousie commeth vpon him, so that he is gelouse ouer his wife, which is defiled: or yf ꝓ spzite of gelousye come vpō him, so that he is gelouse ouer his wife whiche is yet vndefyled: then lette the man bzyng his wyfe vnto the priestе, & bzynge with her an offerynge for her: ꝓ tenth part of an Epha of barlye meale, but let hym powze none oile vpō it, nor put frankencens theron: for it is an offerynge of gelousy, an offerynge for a remembzaunce causynge the synne to be thought vpon.

C And the priest shall bzynge her, and Ex. 19. b. sette her before the LORDE, and lette him* take holy water in an erthen vessell, and of the dust that is in the flooze of the habytacyon, and put it into the water. And let the priest set the womā before the LORDE, and vncouer ꝓ womans head, and put the memozial of ꝓ offerynge in her handes whiche is the gelousye offerynge, and the priest shall haue bytter and cursed water in hys hande, and the priest shall charge her, and saye vnto the woman. If no man haue lyen with the, neyther haste gone asyde to vncleanesse without thy husbande, then haue thou no harme of this bytter and cursed waters. But and yf thou haste gone asyde behynde thyne husbande, and arte defyled, and some other man hathe lyen wyth the besyde thyne husbande, (and the priest shall charge the woman wyth an hozryble curse, and the priest shall saye vnto the woman) the LORDE make the to be an abhomination and a curse amonge thy people: when the LORDE doeth make thy thye rotte, & thy belly swell: These cursed waters go into the bowelles of the, that they may make thy belly swel and thy thye rotte, and let the woman saye, Amen, Amen. And let the priest D wzyte these curses: And when they be cleansed, let hym caste them into bytter waters, and geue the woman those bitter and cursed waters to drinke, that those cursed & bytter waters maye enter into her. And then the Priest shall take the gelousy offryng oute of ꝓ womannes hand, and waue it before the LORDE, and bzing it vnto the aultar, & the priest shall take an handefull of the offerynge for a memozyall, and burne it vpon the altar, and then make the woman drynke the water: & when he hath made the womā drinke the waters, (if she be defiled & haue trespassed against her husbande) then shall the cursed and bitter waters go into her, and her belly shall swell, and her thye shal rotte, & the woman shalbe a curse amonge her people. And if the womā be not defiled but is cleane, she shall haue no harme, but shall conceaue and beare. This is the lawe of gelousie, when a wife goth asyde behynde her husbande, and is defiled, or when ꝓ spzete of gelowsye cōmeth vpon a mā, and he beyng gelowse ouer his wife, doeth bzynge her before the LORDE. And the Priest shal do accozdyng vnto al this law, and the man shall be gyltlesse, and the woman shall beare her synne.

The. vi. Chayter.

¶ The lawe of abstynence. The blessyng of the people.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the childzen of Israell, and say vnto them: when ether man or woman doth seperate themselues to bowe a bowe of an abstyner, and appoint themselues vnto the LORDE, he shall seperate hym Leuit.
selfe from* wyne and strong drynke, & shall drynke no vyneagre of wine or of stronge drynke, nor shal drynke what soeuer is pzessed out of grapes: & shall eate no freshe grapes neyther yet dzied. As longe as his abstynence endureth, shal he eate nothing that is made of the vyne tree, or of the carnels, or of the huske of ꝓ grape. And as long as he boweth, & is seperated, there shall no rasure come vpō his heade: but vntyll his daies be out, in the whiche he seperateth rateth hymselfe vnto the LORDE, he B shalbe holy, and shall let the lockes of his heare growe. As long as he consecreteth hym selfe vnto the LORDE, he shall come at no deade bodye: he shall not make him selfe vncleane at ꝑ death of his father, mother, brother, or syster:

because that the vowe of the abstynēce of his GOD is vpon his heade. All the dayes of his abstynence he is holy vnto the LORDE. And if it fortune that any man by chaūce dye sodenly before him, the heade of hys abstynence shalbe defyled, and he shall shaue *his heade the d Leui. 14.d daye of his clensynge: euen the seuenth daye he shall shaue it. And the eyghte daye he shal bryng two turtels or two yonge pygeons to the priest, before the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And the priest shall offer the one for synne, and the other for a burntofferyng, and make an attonement for hym as cōcer-nynge that he synned vpon a soule, and shall halowe his heade the same daye, and he shall consecrate himselfe vnto ꝑ LORD (the time of his abstinencie) and shall bryng a lambe of a yere olde for a trespace: but ꝑ dayes that were before are lost, because his abstinēcie was de-C fyled. This is the lawe of the absteyner, when the time of his abstinencie is out, he shalbe brought vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and he shal bryng his offeryng vnto the LORDE:
an he lambe of a yeare olde wythoute blemyshe for a burnte offerynge, and a she lambe of a yeare olde withoute ble-myshe for synne, a ramme wythoute blemishe also for a peaceoffering, and a basket of swete bread, euen cakes of fyne floure mingled with oyle, and wafers of swete brede anointed with oyle, with their meatofferynges and drink-offerynges.

And the Priest shall bryng hym before the LORDE, and offer hys synoffe-ryng and his burntofferynge, and shall offer the ramme for a peaceofferynge vnto the LORDE, vᵇ the basket of swete bread, and the priest shal offer also his meateofferyng & his drynke offering.
And he shall shaue the heade of the ab-steyner in the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse: euen the heade of hys abstynence, and shall take the heare of hys sober head, and put it in the fyre, which is vnder the peaceofferynge. And the priest shal take ꝑ sode shulder of ꝑ ram, D & one swete cake out of the basket, and one swete wafer also, and put thē vpon the handes of the absteyner (after he hath shauen his abstynence of) and the Priest shall (take them of him and) waue them before the LORDE. And these holy thynges shalbe the priestes, with the wauebrest and heue shoulder, and then the absteiner maye drynke wine. This is the law of the absteyner which hath vowed his offerynge vnto the LORDE for his consecracyon: Beysydes those thinges that his hande can get, accor-dyng to the vowe whiche he vowed, euen so he muste do after the lawe of his abstynence. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto Aaron and his sonnes, saying: of this wise ye shall blesse the chyldren of Israell, & saye vnto them.

The LORDE blesse the, and kepe the.
The LORDE make his face shyne vp-on the, and be mercyfull vnto the. The LORDE lyfte vp his countenaunce vp-on the, and geue thee peace. And they shall put my name vpon the chyldren of Israell, and I wyll blesse them.

The.vii.Chapter.

¶ The offerynge of the Lordes and heades of Israell.

AND it fortuned in that daye, when I
*Moses had full set vp the habi- Exo. 40.d tacion & anoynted it, & sanctifyed it, and all the apparell therof, the altar also and all the vesselles thereof, & had anointed them and sanctified thē, then the princes of Israel, heades ouer the houses of their fathers whiche were ꝑ Lordes of the trybes, standing in their offyces, offered and broughte their sacrifices before the LORDE: syxe couered charettes, and twelue oxen: one charet for two Lordes, and for one an oxe, & they broughte them before the habita-cyon, and the LORDE spake vnto Mo ses, saying: take it of them, ꝑ they maye be to do the seruice of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and thou shalt geue thē vnto
the Leuites, to euery man accordynge vnto his offyce. And Moses toke the charettes and the oxen, and gaue them vnto the Leuites: two charreters and foure oxen he gaue vnto the sonnes of Gerson, accordynge vnto theyr offyce.
And foure charettes and eyghte oxen he gaue vnto ꝑ sonnes of Merari (accor-

The tenth day: Ahiezer the sonne of Ammi Sadai, captayne of the childzen of Dan, offered. And hys offeryng was a syluer charger of an hundzed & thyztye sycles: a syluer boule of seuenty sycles after the sycle of the sanctuary, both ful of fyne floure myngled wyth oyle foz a meatofferyng: a golden spone of ten sycles ful of cens: a bullock, a ram, a lábe of a yere olde foz a burnt offerynge: an he gote foz synne: & foz a peace offeryng two oxen, v. rammes, v. he gotes, fyue lábes of a yere olde. This was ꝑ offering of Ahiezer the sone of Ammi Sadai. The eleuenth daye, Pagiel ꝑ sonne of Ocran: captayne of the chyldzen of Aser, offered. And hys offeryng was a syluer charger of an hundzed & thyztye sycles: a syluer boule of seuentye sycles after the sycle of the sanctuary, both ful of fyne floure myngled wyth oyle foz a meatofferyng: a golden spone of ten sycles, ful of cens: a bullocke, a ramme, a lambe of a yere olde foz a burnt offering, an he gote foz synne: & foz a peace offeryng: two oxen, fyue rammes, fyue he gotes, fyue lambes of one yere olde. Thys was the offeryng of Pagiel the sonne of Ocran.

The twelueth daye, Ahira the sonne of Enan, captayne of the chyldzen of Nephtali offered. And hys offerynge was a syluer charger of an hundzed & thyztye sycles: a syluer boule of.lxx. sycles after ꝑ sicle of the sanctuary, both ful of fyne floure mingled with oyle foz a meat offering: a golden spone of.x. sycles, ful of cens: a bullocke, a ramme, a lambe of one yere olde foz a burnt offeryng: an he gote foz synne: & foz a peace offeryng .ii. oxen, v. rámes, v. he gotes, v. lábes of one yere olde. This was the offeryng of Ahira, the sonne of Enan. The offeryng of Ahira.

Thys was the dedicacion of ꝑ alter in the daye when it was anoynted: vnto the whych was brought of the prynces of Israel, xii. chargers of syluer, xii syluer boules, twelue spones of golde: euery charger contaynyng an hundzed and thyzty sycles of syluer, euery boule lxx. And all the syluer vessel contayned two thousande and foure hundzed sycles after ꝑ sicle of the sanctuarye. And the golden spones were.xii. ful of cens contayning.x. sycles a pece, after the sycle of the sanctuary: so that al the golde of the spones, was an hundzed & twentye sycles. G

All the bullockes foz the burnt offerynge, were twelue: the rámes twelue, the lambes of a yere olde twelue, wyth the meatofferyng: and the he gotes foz synne, twelue. And all the oxen foz the peaceoffering, were.xxiiii. the rammes syrtye, the hegotes.ix. the lambes of a yere olde syrty. Thys was the dedication of ꝑ aulter, after ꝑ it was anointed. And when Moses was gone into the tabernacle of wytnes, to speake vñ hym, he hearde the voyce of one speakyng vnto hym frō of the mercy seate, that was vpon the arke of wytnes betwene ꝑ two cherubins: and he talked wyth hym.

The.viii. Chapter.

The order of the lampes. The forme of the candelstycke. The clensing and offering of the Leuites

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto Aaron, & saye vnto him: * when thou puttest on the lápes, the same seuen lampes shall geue lyght toward the foze front of the candelstycke. And Aaron dyd euen so, & lyghted the lampes towarde the foze front of the candelstycke, as the LORD I Exod. 25.d

cõmaunded Moses, & the worke of the candelstycke was of stytte golde, both ẏ shafte & the floures therof: accordynge vnto the vysion which the LORDE had shewed Moses, euen so he made ẏ candelstycke. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses saying: take the Leuites frõ amonge the chyldren of Israel, & clense them. But thus shalt thou do vnto thẽ, when thou clensest thẽ: sprinkle water of purifying vpon them, & let thẽ make a rasure to runne a longe vpon all the flesshe of them, & let thẽ washe theyr clothes, & so make them selues cleane.

B Then let them take a bullocke with hys meatofferyng: euẽ fyne floure mingled with oile: & another bullocke shalt thou take for sinne. And whẽ thou dost bryng the Leuites before ẏ tabernacle of wytnesse, thou shalt gather ẏ whole multitude of the chyldren of Israel together, & bryng the Leuites before the LORD, & the children of Israel shal put theyr hãdes vpõ the Leuites. And Aaron shall waue the Leuites before the LORD for a waue offeryng of the chyldren of Israel, that they may execute ẏ ministracion of ẏ seruyce of ẏ lord. And ẏ Leuites shall put theyr handes vpon ẏ heades of the bullockes, & thou shalt offer ẏ one for sinne, and the other for a burnt offeryng vnto ẏ Lord, that thou mayest make an attonement for ẏ Leuites. And thou shalt set ẏ Leuites before Aaron and hys sons, & waue them for a waueofferynge before the Lorde. And thus thou shalt seperat ẏ Leuites from among ẏ children of Israell, & the Leuites shalbe mine: after that shall ẏ Leuites go in, to do the seruyce of ẏ tabernacle of witnesse. And ẏ shalt clense them & waue them, for they are geuen and delyuered vnto me from amonge ẏ chyldren of Israel for suche as open enery wombe: euen for the fyrst borne of all the children of Israel haue I taken them vnto me.

C * For all the fyrst borne of ẏ chyldrẽ of Israel are myne both mã & beast: sẽ the daye ẏ I smote euery fyrst borne in the lande of Egypt, I sanctifyed them for my selfe: & I haue takẽ the Leuites for all the fyrst borne of the chyldren of Israel, & haue geuen the Leuites as a gyft vnto Aaron and hys sonnes from amonge ẏ chyldren of Israel, to do the seruyce of the chyldren of Israel in the tabernacle of wytnesse, to make an attonement for the chyldren of Israel, ẏ there be no plage amonge the chyldren of Israel, yf the chyldrẽ of Israel come nye vnto the holy thinges. And Moses and Aaron & all the cõgregacion of the chyldren of Israel dyd with the Leuites accordyng vnto al ẏ the LORDE cõmaunded Moses cõcernyng the Leuites: euen so dyd the chyldren of Israel vnto them. And the Leuites were purifyed, and washed theyr clothes. And Aaron waued them before the LORD, and made an attonement for them, and clensed them. After that went the Leuites in to do theyr seruyce in the Tabernacle of wytnesse before Aaron and hys sonnes: as the LORD had cõmaũded Moses concernynge the Leuites, euen so they dyd vnto them.

And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: this is it that belongeth vnto ẏ Leuites: *from .xxv. yere vpward they shal go in, to waite vpon the seruice of the tabernacle of wytnesse, & from the age of fyfty yere, they shal cease waytyng vpon the seruyce therof, and shall serue no more: but shall mynister vnto theyr brethrẽ in the tabernacle of wytnes, to waite, but shal do no more seruyce. Thus therfore shalte thou do vnto the Lyuites in theyr watche.

¶ The.ii. Chapter.

The Passeouer. Of the cloude.

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses in the wylderneße of Sinai, in the fyrst moneth of the seconde yere, after they *were come out of the lande of Egipte, saying: let ẏ chyldren of Israel offer passeouer in hys season: euen the xiiii. day of this moneth at euen, let him kepe it in hys season, accordyng to al ẏ ceremonies of it, and accordynge to all the maners therof. And Moses spake vnto the chyldren of Israel, that they shulde offer passeouer, and they offered passeouer the .xiiii. daye of the fyrst moneth at euen in the wylderneße of Sinai, accordyng to all that the LORDE commaunded Moses, euen so dyd the chyldren of Israel.

And certayne men were defyled vpõ the soule of a mã, that they myght not offer passeouer the same day. And they came before Moses and Aaron ẏ same daye. And the wey sayd vnto hym: we are defyled vpon ꝑ soule of a mā: wherfore are we kept backe ꝑ we maye not offer an offering vnto ꝑ LORD in ꝑ due season, among the chyldren of Israel: And Moses sayd vnto them: Stande styll, & I wyll heare what the LORDE wyll commaunde concernyng you.

are

And the LORD spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and say: yf any man among you or your chyldren after you, be vncleane by the reason of a corse, or is in ꝑ way far from you, & wyl offer Passeouer vnto ꝑ LORD: the fourtene daye of the seconde moneth at euen let him offer it, & eate it wyth swete breade & sowre herbes: let them leaue none of it vnto ꝑ morgnyng *nor breake any bone of it: But accordyng to all the ordinaunce of the passeouer let them offer it.

But the mā that is cleane & is not in a iourney, & yet was negligent to offer Passeouer: the same soule shal perysshe frō his people, because he brought not the offryng of the LORD in his due season, that mā shal beare hys synne. And yf a straūger dwel amōg you, & wyl offer Passeouer vnto ꝑ LORD, according to the ordinaūce of Passeouer & maner therof, he shall offer it thus. ye shall haue one lawe both for the straūger, & for him ꝑ was borne at home in ꝑ lāde.

At the same day that the Tabernacle was reared vp, a*cloude couered ꝑ habitaciō, which was a tabernacle of the wytnesse: and at euen there was vpon the habitacion, as it were ꝑ similitude of fyre vntyll the morgnyng. So it was alwaye, the cloude couered it by daye, and the similitude of fyre by night. And when the cloude was takē vp from of the tabernacle, then the chyldrē of Israel iourneyed: and where the cloude abode, there the chyldren of Israel pytched theyr tentes. At the mouth of the LORD the childrē of Israel iourneyed, and at the mouthe of the LORDE they pytched. And as longe as the cloude abode vpon the habitacion they laye styll: and when the cloude taryed styll vpon the habitacion lōge time, the chyldren of Israel kept the watch of ꝑ LORDE, and iourneyed not. And it chaūced that when the cloude abode a fewe dayes vpon the habitacion, they abode in theyr tentes, accordyng to the commaundement of the LORDE: and they iourneyed also at the cōmaundement of the LORDE.

And it happened that when ꝑ cloude abode vpon the habitacion from euen vnto the morgnyng, & was taken vp in the morgning, then they iorneyed. Whether it was by daye or by nygh: that ꝑ cloude was taken vp, they iourneyed. Or yf the cloude taryed two dayes or a moneth, or a longe season vpon ꝑ habitacion, & remayned theron, the chyldren of Israel abode styll, & iourneyed not. And assone as the cloud was taken vp, they iourneyed. At the mouth of the LORD, they rested in the tentes, and at the cōmaundement of the LORD, they iourneyed, keppyng the watche of the LORD, at the commaundement of the LORDE by the hande of Moses.

The.x. Chapter.

The trompettes of syluer. The Israelites departe from Sinai. The captaynes of the hoost are nūbred. Hobab refuseth to go wyth Moses.

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses, saying: Make the two trompettes of syluer: of an whole pece shalte thou make them, that thou mayest vse them to cal the congregacion together, and when the hoost shal iorney. Therfore shall they blowe wyth them, that all the multitude may resorte to the before the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And yf they blowe but one tōpet, then the prynces whyche are heades ouer the thousandes of Israel shal come vnto the. But yf ye trompe, the hostes that lye on the east partes shall go forwarde. And yf ye trompe the seconde tyme, the hoste that lyeth on the southe syde shall take theyr iourney: for they shall trompe when they take theyr iourneyes. But when the congregacion is to be gathered together, they shall blowe onely, and not trompe. And the sonnes of Aaron the Priest shall blowe wyth theyr trompettes, and ye shall haue them as a lawe for euer in your generacions.

And yf ye go to warre in your lande against your enemies that vexe you, ye shal blow with the trōpets, & ye shalbe remēbred before the LORD your GOD to be saued frō your enemyes. Also in ꝑ daye of your gladnesse, & in your feaste dayes, and in the begynnynge of youre monethes, ye shall blowe the trompettes ouer youre burnte sacrifices and peaceofferynges, that they may be a remembraunce for you before youre God. I am the LORDE your GOD.

And it came to passe the twēteth day of the seconde moneth in ỳ secōde yere, that the cloude was taken vp from of the habitacion of wytnesse. And ỳ chyldren of Israel toke theyr iorney out of the deserte of Sinai, and the cloude rested in the wylderneſſe of Pharan. And the fyrst toke theyr iourney at ỳ mouth of the LORDE, by the hande of Moses. In the fyrst place went the stādarde of the hoste of Juda, accordynge to theyr armyes: whose captayne was Nahasson the sonne of Aminadab. And ouer the hoste of the trybe of the chyldren of Isachar, was Nathanael the sonne of Suar. And ouer the hooste of ỳ trybe of ỳ childrē of Zabulon, was Eliab ỳ sōne of Helon. And ỳ habitacion was taken downe: & ỳ sonnes of Gerson and Merari went forth beatyng ỳ habitacion.

And the hoste of Ruben wēt forth wt theyr standarde & armyes, whose captayne was Elizur ỳ sonne of Sedeur. And ouer ỳ hoste of ỳ trybe of ỳ childrē of Symeon was Salamiel ỳ sonne of Suri Saddai. And ouer ỳ hoste of the trybe of ỳ chyldren of Gad was Eliasaph the sonne of Deguel. The Cahathites also went forward & bare ỳ sanctuary, & the other dyd set vp ỳ habitacion agaynst they came. And ỳ stādard of the hooste of ỳ chyldren of Ephraim went forth accordyng to theyr armyes whose captayne was Elisama ỳ sonne of Amiud. And ouer ỳ hoste of ỳ trybe of the sonnes of Manasse, was Gamaliel ỳ sonne Pedazur. And ouer ỳ hoste of the trybe of ỳ sonnes of Ben Jamin was Abidan the sonne of Gedeoni.

And ỳ standarde of ỳ hoste of ỳ chyldren of Dan came forth (hauyng al the hooſtes together) throwout theyr armyes: whose captayne was Ahiezer ỳ sonne of Ammi Saddai. And ouer the hoste of ỳ trybe of ỳ chyldren of Aser, was Pagiel ỳ sonne of Ochram. And ouer ỳ hoste of the trybe of ỳ chyldrē of Nephthali, was Ahira ỳ sonne of Enā. These are the iorneyes of the chyldren of Israel throwout theyr armyes, & thus the hooſtes remoued.

And Moses sayd vnto Hobab ỳ son of Raguel the Madianite: which was Moses father in lawe: we go vnto the place of whych the LORD sayd: I wyll geue it you. Come thou therfore wt vs, & we wil do the good: for ỳ LORD hath promised good vnto Israel. And he answered hym: I wyl not go: but wyl departe to myne owne lande & to my kynred. He sayd: Oh naye, leaue vs not: for thou knowest our mānsions in the wylderneſſe: & thou haste ben to vs in stede of eyes. And if thou go wt vs loke what goodneſſe the LORD sheweth vnto vs, the same wyll we shewe vnto the.

And they departed from the mount of the LORD, thre daies iorney: & the arke of the testament of the LORD went before them in the thre dayes iourney, to searche out a restyng place for them. And the LORDE made a shadowe for them throwe the cloude by day, when they went out of the tentes.

And it fortuned, that when the arke went forth, Moses said: *Rise vp LORDE, and let thyne enemyes be scattred: and let them that hate the, flye before the. And when the arke rested, he sayd: Returne O LORD vnto ỳ many thousandes of Israel. D *Psal. 68.

The. xi. Chapter.

The people murmureth, they desyre flesshe, they lothe Manna, the wauerynge fayth of Moses, the Lorde deuyderh the burden of Moses to seuenty of the auncientes, and they prophesy. It rayneth quayles, the flesshe raueners are punysshed.

AND it fortuned, that whā *the people dyd wickedly, it was a displeasure in the eares of the Lorde. And when the Lorde hearde it, hys countenaunce was prouoked to wrathe, & the fyre of the Lord burnt amonge them, & consumed them that were ỳ vttermost of the hooste. And the people cried vnto Moses. And whan Moses made intercession vnto the lord, the fyre quenched. And the name of the place was called Thaberah, because the fyer of the Lord burnt amonge them. *Exod. 32.

And the rascal people ỳ was among them fell a lustinge, & turned thē selues and wepte (euen as dyd also the childrē of Israel) & sayd: who shal geue vs flesh to eate: we remēbre ỳ fysshe wheych we dyd eate in Egypte for naught, and the curūbers & melons, lekes, onyōs & garlike. But now our soule is dried away, for we can se nothing els, saue Manna. B went about & gathered it, & ground it in mylles, or bet it in mozters, & baked it in pānes, & made cakes of it. And the taste of it was lyke vnto the taste of an oyle cake. And when the dewe fell downe vpon the hoost in the nyght, the Manna fell vpon it.

C And when Moses heardе the people wepe thozowout theyr houssholdes, euery man in the doze of his tente, ẏ face of ẏ LORD was prouoked vnto wzath exceadingli: & it greued Moses also. And Moses sayd vnto the LORD: wherfoze haste thou dealt cruelly wyth thy seruaunte? And wherfoze haue I not foūde fauour in thy syght, seyng ẏ thou purtest ẏ weyght of al this people vpō me? haue I conceaued al thys people? Or haue I begotten them, ẏ thou shuldest saye vnto me: cary them in thy bosome (as a nurse beareth the suckynge chylde) vnto ẏ lande, whych thou swarest vnto theyr fathers? Where should I haue flesche, to geue vnto al this people, which wepe before me, saying: geue vs flesche ẏ we may eate? I am not able to bear al this people alone, seyng it is to heuy for me. Yf ẏ deale thus wt me, kil me, I pray the, if I haue foūd fauour in thy syght: ẏ I se not my wzetchednesse.

D Exo.18.a. And ẏ LORD said vnto Moses, *gather vnto me. lxx. men of ẏ elders of Israel, which thou knowest, ẏ they are ẏ elders of ẏ people & officers ouer them, & thou shalt bzyng them vnto ẏ tabernacle of witnesse, that they may stande there with the: And I wyl come downe and talke wyth the there, and take of ẏ spirite which is vpon the, and put vpon them, and they shall beare the burthē of the people wyth the, lest thou be constrayned to beare it alone.

Exo.16.c. And say thou vnto the *people: be halowed agaynst to mozowe, & ye shal eat flesche: for your whynyng is in ẏ eares of the LORD, seyng ye sayd: who shall geue vs flesche to eate? we were happy in Egipt: therfoze the LORD wyl geue you flesche, & ye shal eat. ye shal not eat one day noz two, noz .v. dayes, neyther ten, noz twentye dayes: but euen a moneth longe vntyl it come out at the nostrels of you; & make you to perbzake, because that ye haue caste the Lozde a syde whiche is amonge you: and haue wepte before hym, sayinge: why came we thus out of Egipt? And Moses said *syxe hūdzed thousād foteme are there of the people, among which I am. And thou hast sayd I wyl geue them flesche, that they may eat a moneth long. Shal the shepe & the oxen be slayne for them, to synde them? eyther shall al the fyshe of ẏ sea be gathered together for them to serue them? And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses: Shall * the LORDES hande be wared shozte? Thou shalte se nowe whether my wozde shall come to passe vnto the, oz not,

Exo.16.a. Esai.50.a. & 59.a.

And Moses wente out, and tolde the people the saying of the LORDE, & gathered the .lxx. elders of the people, and set them rounde about the tabernacle. And ẏ LORD came downe in a cloud, & spake vnto hym, and toke of the spirite that was vpon hym, and gaue it vnto the .lxx. elders. And it fortuned, ẏ when the spirite rested vpon them, they prophecyed, and dyd not cease. But there remayned two of the men in the hoost: the name of ẏ one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad. And the spirite rested vpon them, and they were of them that were wzytten, and went not out vnto the tabernacle, but prophecied in the hoost. And there ranne a yonge man, and tolde Moses and said: Eldad and Medad do prophecy in the hoost. And Josua the sonne of Nun the seruaunt of Moses, one of hys yonge men, aunswered and sayd: master Moses, *fozbyd the. And Moses said vnto hym: enuyest thou for my sake? *welde GOD that al the LORDES people could prophecye, and that the LORDE wolde put hys spirite vpon them. the lãde of Canaan whych I geue vnto the chyldren of Jsrael: of euery trybe of theyr fathers shall ye sende a man, & let thẽ al be suche as are rulers amõg them. And Moses at the cõmaũdement of þ LORD sent forth out of the wyldernesse of Pharan suche men as were al heades of the childrẽ of Jsrael. Theyr names are these. Of the tribe of Rubẽ, Sãmua the sonne of Zacur. Of the tribe of Simeõ, Saphat þ sonne of Hori. Of the trybe of Juda, Caleb the sonne of Jephune. Of the trybe of Jsachar, Jgeal þ sonne of Joseph. Of the trybe of Ephraim, Osea þ sõne of Nun. Of þ trybe of Ben Jamin, Palthi the sonne of Raphu. Of þ trybe of Zabulõ, Gadiel the sonne of Sodi. Of þ trybe of Joseph, namely of the trybe of Manasse, Gaddi þ of son Susi. Of þ trybe of Dan, Jmiel þ sonne of Gemali. Of þ trybe of Aser, Sethur þ sonne of Michael. Of the trybe of Nephtali, Nahebi the sonne of Uaphsi. Of the trybe of Gad, Guel the sonne of Machi. These are the names of the men, whych Moses sent to spye out the land. And Moses called the name of Osea the sonne of Nun, Josua.

B And Moses sent them forth to spye out þ lande of Canaã, & sayd vnto thẽ: get you vp this waye southwarde, that ye may go vp into the hye coũtrey, and se the lande what maner thyng it is, & the people þ dwelleth therin: whether they be stronge or weake, ether fewe or many, and what the lande is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad: and what maner of cyties they be, that they dwell in, whether they dwell in tentes or walled townes: and what maner of lande it is, whether it be fatte or leane, and whether there be trees ther in or not. Be of a good corage, & bryng of the frute of the lande. And it was about þ tyme that grapes are fyrst ripe.

And

And so they went vp, & searched out the lande frō the wylderneſſe of Zin vnto Rehob, as mē come to Hemath, & they aſcended vnto the ſouth, and came vnto Hebron, where Ahiman was & Seſai & Thalmai, the ſonnes of Enack. Hebron was buylt .vii. yere before Zoan in Egipte. And they came vnto ꝑ ryuer of Eſcol, and cutte downe there a braūche wyth one clouſtre of grapes & twayne bare it vpon a ſtaffe: and they brought alſo of the pomgranates & of the fygges. And the place was called the ryuer Eſcol: becauſe of the clouſtre of grapes whych ꝑ chyldren of Iſrael cut downe thēce. And they turned backe agayne frō ſearchyng of ꝑ lande after fourty dayes. And they went and came to Moſes & Aaron and vnto all the multitude of the chyldren of Iſrael in the wylderneſſe of Pharan: whyche is Cades, and brought them wordē, & alſo vnto al the cōgregacion, & ſhewed them the frute of the lande. And they tolde hym, and ſayd: we came vnto the land whither thou ſenddeſt vs, & ſuerly it floweth with mylke and hony: & here is of the frute of it. Neuertheleſſe, the people be ſtronge that dwell in ꝑ lāde, & the cyties are walled and exceadyng great: and moreouer, we ſawe the chyldrē of Enacke there. The Amalechites dwell in the ſouth coūtrey, and the Hethites, Jebuſites, & the Amorites dwel in the mountaynes, and the Cananites dwel by ꝑ ſea, & by ꝑ coſtes of Jordan.

And Caleb ſtylled ꝑ (murmure that was rayſed vp) of the people before Moſes, ſaying: we wyl go vp, and conquere it: for we be able to ouercome it. But the men that went vp wyth hym, ſayd: we be not able to go vp againſt the people for they are ſtrōger then we. And they brought vp an euel report of the lande whych they had ſearched, ſaying vnto the chyldren of Iſrael: the lande which we haue gone thorow to ſearche it out, is a lāde that eateth vp the inhabiters therof: and the people that we ſawe in it, are men of a great ſtature. And there we ſawe alſo gyauntes, the chyldren of Enacke, whych come of the gyauntes. And we ſemed in our ſyght as it were greſhoppers, and ſo we dyd in theyr ſyght.

The.xiiij. Chapter.

The people murmure agaynſt God / and woulde haue ſtoned Caleb and Joſue. The ſearchers of the lande dye. Amalech fyghteth the Iſraelites.

And all the multitude of the people cryed out, and wepte thorowe out that nyght, and all the chyldren of Iſrael murmured agaynſt Moſes and Aaron. And the whole congregacion ſayd vnto them: woulde GOD that we had dyed in the lande of Egypt, eyther that we had dyed in thys wylderneſſe. Wherfore hath the LORD brought vs vnto thys lande, to fall vpon ꝑ ſwearde: and that our wyues, and our chyldren ſhould be a praye? were it not better ꝑ we returne vnto Egypt agayne? And they ſayd one to another: we wyl make a captayne and returne vnto Egypte agayne.

But Moſes and Aaron fell on theyr faces before al the cōgregacion & multytude of ꝑ chyldren of Iſrael. And Joſua the ſōne of Nun, & Caleb the ſonne of Jephune (whych were of them that ſearched the lande) rent theyr clothes, and ſpake vnto all the company of the chyldren of Iſrael, ſaying: The lande whyche we walked thorowe to ſearche it, is a very good lande. yf the LORDE hath luſte to vs, he wyll brynge vs into thys land and geue it vs, which is ſuch a lāde as floweth wyth mylke & hony. But in any wyſe rebell not ye agaynſte the LORDE.* Neyther nede ye to feare the people of the lande for they are but bread for vs. Theyr ſhadowe is departed from them, and the LORDE is wyth vs: feare them not therfore. Deut.20.a

But al they whych were in that multitude bad ſtone them with ſtones. And the glory of the LORD appeared in the Tabernacle of wytneſſe, before all the chyldren of Iſrael. And the LORD ſaid vnto Moſes: How long do this people prouoke me, & howe long wyll it be yer they beleue me, for al ꝑ ſygnes whyche I haue ſhewed amonge them? I wyll ſmyte them wt the peſtilence, & deſtroye them: & wyl make of thee a greater nacion, and a myghtyer then they.

And Moſes ſayde vnto the LORDE: then the Egipcians ſhall heare it, for thou broughteſt thys people in thy myght frō among them. And it wyll be tolde to the inhabyters of thys lande alſo: for they haue heard lykewyſe, that thou LORD art amonge thys people:

and that thou LORDE art sene face to face, and that thy cloude standeth ouer them, and that* thou goest before them by day tyme in a pyller of a cloude, & in a pyller of fyre by nyght, yf thou shalt kyll all thys people as they were but one man, then the nacions which haue heard the fame of the, wyll saye: The LORD is not able to bryng in this people into the lande, whych he sware vnto them: but hath slayne them in the wylderneſſe. And now I beseche the, let the power of my LORD be great, accordyng as thou hast spoken, saying: the LORD is lōge yer he be angry, & ful of mercy, & sufferyth iniquitie, & synne, & leaueth no man innocent, and vysiteth the vnryghteousneſſe of the fathers vpon the chyldren, in the thyrd & fourth generacion: be mercyfull I beseche the vnto ꝑ synne of thys people, accordynge vnto thy great mercy, as thou hast forgeuen this people frō Egipt, euen vntyl now. And the LORD sayd: I haue forgeuen it accordynge to thy request. But as truely as I lyue, al ꝑ earth shalbe fylled wyth the glory of the LORDE. But al those men whych haue sene my glory & my myracles whych I dyd in Egipte and in the wylderneſſe, and haue tempted me nowe this ten tymes and wyl not hearken vnto my voyce, shall not se the lāde whych I sware vnto theyr fathers: neyther shal any of thē that prouoked me se it. But my seruaunt* Caleb: wyth whome there was another maner of spirite: & because he hath followed me vnto the vtmoste, hym wyl I bryng into ꝑ lande which he hath walked in, and his sede shal inherite it, and also the Amalechites and Cananites whych dwel in the playne coūtrey. To morow turne you, & get you into ꝑ wilderneſſe: euē by the way of the red sea.

And the LORD spake vnto Moses & Aaron, saying: howe longe doeth thys euel multytude murmure agaynst me: I haue herde the murmurynges of the chyldren of Israel, wyth the whyche they murmure agaynst me: Tell them therfore: As truely as I lyue (sayeth ꝑ LORDE) I wyl do vnto you euen as ye haue spoken in myne eares. your carkasses shall lye in thys wylderneſſe. And al you that were tolde thorowout your numbres, from twentye yere and aboue (whych haue murmured against me) shall not come into the lande, ouer whych I lyfted vp myne hāde, to make you dwel therin, saue Caleb the sonne of Iephune, & Iosua the sonne of Nun.

But your childrē, which ye saye shuld be a praye, them wyll I bryngе in, and they shall knowe the lande whyche ye haue refused, and your carkasses shall lye in thys wylderneſſe. And your chyldren shall wander in thys wylderneſſe, forty yeres, and suffer for your whoredome, vntyl your carkasses be wasted in the wylderneſſe, after the numbre of the dayes in whych ye serched out the lande, euen forty dayes, * euery daye for a yere shal ye beare your vnryghteousneſſe euen forty yere, and ye shall knowe my displeasure. I the LORDE haue sayd, that I wyl do it vnto al this euel cōgregacion that are gathered together against me. For in thys wylderneſſe they shalbe consumed, & here they shall dye.

And the men whych Moses sente to searche the lande, & whych (when they came agayn) made al ꝑ people to murmure before hym & brought vp a slaūder vpon ꝑ lande, euen those men ꝑ dyd bryngе vp ꝑ slaūder vpon it, as though it had ben euel, dyed in a great* plage before the LORDE. But Iosua the son of Nun & Caleb the sonne of Iephune, whych were of the men that wente to searche the lande, lyued styl. And Moses told these sayinges vnto al the chyldren of Israel, & the people toke great sorowe. And they rose vp early in the mornyng, & gat them vp into the toppe of the mountayne, saying: * lo, we be here, and wyll go vp vnto the place of whych the LORD sayd vnto vs, for we haue synned. And Moses sayd: wherfore wyll ye go on thys maner, beyond the worde of ꝑ LORDE? it wyll not come wel to passe: go not vp therfore: (for the LORD is not amōg you) that ye be not slayne before your enemyes. For ꝑ Amalechites & the Cananites are there before you, and ye wyll fall vpon the swearde because ye are tourned away from the LORDE, and the LORDE wyll not be wyth you.

But they presumed obstinatly to go vp into the hyll toppe. Neuerthelatter the Arke of the testament of the LORDE, and Moses departed not out of the hoost. Then the Amalechites and the the Cananites, whiche dwelte in that hyll came downe and smote them, and hewed them, euen vnto Hozma.

The.xv Chapter.

¶ The drynke offerynges of them that entre into the lande. The punyshment of him that synneth of arrogancie or pride.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell, and saye vnto thē: *whē ye be come vnto the land of youre habitacions, whiche I geue vnto you, and wyll offer an offerynge vnto the LORDE. Namely a burntofferyng oz a speciall sacrifice, ether of a vowe oz of a wyllyng mynde, and in your principal feastes, to make a swete sauoure vnto the LORDE of the oxen oz of þ flocke.

¶ Then *let him that offereth his offerynge vnto the LORDE, bzynge also a meateofferyng of a tenth deale of flour myngled with the fourth parte of an hin of oyle, and the fourthe parte of an hin of wine foz a dzynke offeryng, and offer with the burntofferynge oz anye other offeryng when it is a lambe. Oz yf it be a ramme, thou shalte offer foz a meate offerynge, two tenthe deales of floure myngle wyth the thyrde parte of an hin of oyle: and foz a dzynke offerynge, thou shalte offer the thyrde part of an hyn of wyne foz a swete sauoure vnto the LORDE.

And when thou offerest a bullocke foz a burnteofferynge oz foz a specyall vowe oz peaceoffering vnto þ LORDE, lette hym bzynge with a bullocke a meateofferynge of thzee tenth deales of floure myngled with halfe an hin of oyle. And thou shalt bzynge foz a dzink offeryng: euen halfe an hin of wyne, foz an offeryng of a swete sauoure vnto þ LORDE. After thys maner shall it be done foz an oxe, oz foz a ramme, oz foz a lambe oz a kyd. Loke what nūbze thou makest in these, suche a numbze shalte thou make in them also.

And accozding to the numbze of such offrynges thou shalte encrease þ meat offerynges and the dzynkeofferynges. All that are of your selues shal do these thynges after this maner, to offer an offerynge of swete sauoure vnto the LORDE. And yf a straūger sojourne wyth you, oz whosoeuer be amonge you in your generacions, & wyll offer an offeryng of a swete sauoure vnto þ LORD: euen as ye do, so he shall do. One ozdynaunce shalbe both foz you of the congregacyō, & also foz the straunger. It shalbe an ozdynaunce foz euer in your generacions, both vnto you and to the straunger before the LORD. One law and one maner shall serue, both foz you and foz the straunger that sojourneth with you. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and say vnto thē: * whē ye be come into the lande to the which I bzynge you, then when ye wyll eate of the bzeade of the lande, ye shall take vp an heue offeryng vnto the LORDE.

Ye shall take vp a cake of the fyrst of your dowe foz an heueofferynge, * as ye do the heueoffering of the barne, euē so ye shall heue it. Of the firste of youre dowe ye shal geue vnto the LORDE an heueofferyng in your generacions.

And yf ye ouerse youre selues, and obserue not al these commaundementes, whiche the LORDE hathe spoken vnto Moses, euen all that the LORDE hath commaunded you by the hande of Moses from the first day that the LORDE commaunded Moses, and hence forwarde amonge youre generacyons.

If it happen that ought is commytted ignozauntlie of the cōgregacion, al the multytude shall offer a bullocke foz a burntofferyng, to be a swete sauour vnto the LORDE, with the meateoffering and dzynkeofferyng therto, accozding to the maner, and an he goat foz synne. And the pzieste shal make an attonemēt foz all the multytude of the childzen of Israell, and it shall be forgeuen them: foz it is ygnozaunce. And they shall bzyng theyz offeryng foz a sacrifice vnto the LORDE: & their synoffering before the LORDE foz theyz ygnozaunce. And it shall be forgeuen vnto all the multytude of the childzen of Israell, and vnto the straunger that dwelleth amōge you: seynge all the people were in ygnozaunce.

* If any one soule synne thozowe ygnozaunce, he shall bzyng a she goate of a yeare olde foz synne. And þ pzieste shall make an attonement foz the soule that synned ygnozauntlye, with þ synoffering before the LORDE to recōcyle hym: and that it maye be forgeuen him. And bothe thou that arte bozne of the childzen of Israell, and the straunger that dwelleth among you, shall have bothe one lawe, whoso doth synne thorowe ignorauncē. But the soule that doeth ought presumptuously, whither he be an Israelite or a straunger, the same blaspheməth the LORDE. And that soule shall be roted out frō amōge his people, because he hath dispised the worde of the LORDE, and hath broken his cōmaundemente: that soule therefore shall perysshe, and his synne shalbe vpō him. And while the childzen of Israell were in the wyldernes, they fōud a man that gathered styckes vpon the

And they that found him gathering stickes, brought him vnto Moses and Aaron, and vnto all the congregacion:
Lem.24.d *and they put him in warde, seynge it was not declared what should be done vnto him. And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses: Let the man dye: and let all the multitude stone him with stones without the hooste. And all the multytude broughte hym without the hooste, and stoned him with stones, and he died as the LORDE commaunded Moses. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying:
Deut.22.k speake vnto the childzen of Israel and byd them that they *make thē gardes in the quarters of their garmentes thorowout their generacions, and put vpon the garde of the quarters a ribande of yelowe sylke. And the garde shall be vnto you to loke vpon it, that ye maye remembze all the cōmaundementes of the LORDE, and do them: and that ye seke not after your owne hart, or youre owne eyes: after the which ye vse to go a whozinge: but ye shall remembze rather and do al my commaundementes, and be holy vnto your GOD: I am the LORDE your GOD, whiche brought you oute of the lande of Egipte, for to be youre GOD: I am the LORDE your GOD.

The.xvi. Chapter.

¶ The rebellyon of Corah. Dathan and Abiram.

A
Exod.6.f ND *Corah the sonne of Jezehar, the sonne of Cahath, the son of Leui, and Dathan, and Abiram the son of Eliab, and On the sonne of Peleth, the sonne of Ruben: rose vp before Moses, wyth other men of the childzen of Israell, two hundzed and fyftie, which were captaines of the multitude, great and famous men in the congregacion: and they gathered thē selues together againste Moses and Aaron, and sayde vnto them: ye make muche to do, seyng all the multitude are holy euery one of them, and the LORDE is among them, why heue ye your selues vp aboue the cōgregacyō of the LORDE: And when Moses heard it, he fell vpon his face, and spake vnto Corah and vnto all his company, sayinge: to morowe the LORD wyll shewe who are his, who is holye, and who oughte to approche nye vnto him, and whō he hath chosen to come to him. This do therfore, take you firepās bothe Corah and all hys cōpanye and do fire therin, and put cens in them before the LORDE to morowe.

And the man whō the LORDE doth B chose, the same shalbe holy. ye make muche to do, ye childzen of Leui. And Num.17.a Moses sayde vnto Corah: *heare ye childzen of Leui: Is it but a smal thig vnto you that the GOD of Israel hath seperated you frō the multitude of Israell: and brought you to hym selfe, to do the seruyce of the dwelling place of the LORDE, and to stande before the multitude and to minister vnto him: he hath taken the to hym and all thy brethren the sonnes of Leui with the, and seke ye the office of the priest also: For whiche cause both thou and al thy cōpanie are gathered together agaynste the LORDE. And what is Aarō that ye murmur agaynst him:

And Moses sente, and called Dathā, C and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab, which sayd: we wyll not come vp. Is it a smal thing that thou hast brought vs out of a lande that floweth with mylke and hony, to kyl vs in the wyldernesse, and to raygne ouer vs also: Haste thou brought vs vnto a land that floweth w mylke and hony, and geuen vs inheritaunce of feldes and vyneyardes: Wylt thou pull oute the eyes of these men: we wyl not come vp. And Moses waxed very angry, and sayde vnto the LORDE. Turne not thou vnto theyr offerynge. I haue not taken so muche as an asse frō thē, nether haue I hurte any of them. And Moses sayed vnto Corah: Be thou and all thy cōpany before the LORDE: bothe thou, they, and Aarō to morowe. And take euery man hys censer, and put cens in them, that ye may offer before the LORDE: euery

man of the two hundred and fyftie take his censour, thou also Aarō, that euery one maye haue his censer. And they toke euery man his censer, and put fire in them, and layde cens thereon, and stode in the doze of the Tabernacle of wytnesse with Moses and Aarō. And Cozah gathered all the cōgregacyō agaynste them vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse.

And the glozy of the LORDE appeared vnto all the cōgregacyō. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses and Aarō, sayinge: seperate your selues frō amōg this cōgregaciō, that I maye consume them at once. And they fel vpō their faces and sayde. * O most myghtie GOD of the spzites of all flesshe, if one manne hath sinned, wilte thou be wzoth with all the multitude? And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the congregacyon and say: Get you away frō about ỳ dwellyng of Cozah, Dathan, and Abiram. And Moses rose vp, and went vnto Dathan and Abirā, and the elders of Israel folowed hym. And he spake vnto the congregacyon, saying: depart from the tentes of these wycked men, and touche nothynge of theyrs: lest ye perishe in all their sinnes. And so they gate them from the dwellynge of Cozah, Dathan and Abiram on euery syde. And Dathan and Abirā came out and stode in the doze of theyr tentes with their wiues, their sonnes, and their lytle childzen. And Moses sayde: Here by ye shall knowe that the LORDE hathe sente me to do all these wozkes, and that I haue not done thē of myne owne mynde. If these men die the comen death of al men: oz yf they be visyted after the visitacion of all men, then the LORDE hath not sente me. But and yf the LORDE make a newe thyng, and the earth open her mouth, and swalow them vp with al that they haue: and they goe downe quicke into hell: then ye shal vnderstand, that these men haue pzouoked the LORDE.

And at foztuned that as sone as he had made an ende of speakyng al these wozdes, * ỳ groūd clouē a sunder that was vnder thē: & the earth opened her mouth, and swalowed them vp, and their houses, and al the men that were with Cozah, and al theyr goodes. And they and all that they had, went down alyue vnto hell, and ỳ earth closed vpō them and they perysshed from amonge the congregacion. And all Israell that were aboute them fledde at the cric of them. And they sayed: leste the earth swalowe vs vp also. And there came out a fyze from the LORDE, and consumed the two hundzed and fyftie men ỳ offered cens. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Speake vnto Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron the Pzieste that he take vp the censers oute of the burnyng and skater the fyze here and there, foz the censers of these synners are halowed in their deathes: and lette them make of them thynne beaten plates foz a couering of the altar. Foz they offered them befoze the LORDE, & therfoze they are halowed, and they shalbe a sygne vnto the childzen of Israell.

And Eleazar the pzieste toke the bzasen censers whiche they that were burnte had offered, and beate them thynne foz a couerynge of the altar, to be a remembzaunce vnto the childzen of Israell, ỳ no straunger whiche is not of the sede of Aaron, come nere to offer cens befoze the LORD, that it happē not vnto hym, lyke as vnto Cozah and hys company: as the LORDE sayde of him by ỳ hand of Moses. But on the mozowe all the multytude of the childzen of Israell murmured agaynst Moses and Aarō, saynge: ye haue killed the people of the LORDE. And it foztuned that whē the multytude was gathered agaynst Moses and Aaron, they loked towarde the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And beholde, (when they were entred into it) the cloude couered it, and the glozye of the LORDE appeared. And Moses and Aarō came befoze the tabernacle of wytnesse. And the LORD spake vnto Moses, saying: Get you from amonge this congregacion, that I may consume them quickly. And they fell vpon their faces. And Moses sayde vnto Aaron: take a censer, and put fyze therin out of the altar, and powze on cens, and go quyckelye vnto the congregaciō, that thou maiste obtayne fozgeuenesse foz them. Foz there is wzathe gone oute frome the LORDE, and there is a plage begonne.

And Aarō toke as Moses commaunded hym, and ranne into the myddes of the congregacyon, and beholde, the plage was begonne amonge ỳ people, & he put

he put on eens, and made an attonemēt for the people. And when he stode betwene the deade and them that were a lyue, the plage ceased. They that dyed in the plage were fourtene thousand & seuen hundred: beside them that dyed about the busines of Corah. And Aaron went agayne vnto Moses before the dore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and the plage ceased.

The.xvii. Chapter.

Aarons rod budded and bearyth blossoms.

3 AND the LORD spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel: and take of euery prince of them a rodde, after þ houses of their fathers, euē twelue roddes: and wryte euery mans name vpon his rodde. And write Aarons name vpon the rodde of Leui: for euerye rod is for an house of their fathers. And put thē in þ Tabernacle of wytnes, euē in the place wher I mete you. And the mans rod whom I chose, shall blossome. And I will make ceasse from me the grudgynges of the chyldren of Israel, wherevp they grudge against you.

And Moses spake vnto the chyldren of Israell, and al the princes gaue him euery prynce ouer theyr fathers houses a rodde, euen twelue roddes: and the rod of Aaron was amōg þ roddes: And Moses put the roddes before the LORDE, in the Tabernacle of wytnes. And on the morowe, Moses went into the tabernacle of wytnesse: and behold, Exod. 7. 8 *the rod of Aaron for the house of Leui, was budded, and bare blossoms and almondes. And Moses brought out al the roddes from before the LORDE vnto all the chyldren of Israell: and they loked vpon them, and toke euery man his rod. And the LORDE sayde vnto Moses: bryng Aarons rod agayne before the wytnesse to be kept for a token of the chyldrens rebellyō, and that their murmuring maye cease from me, and that they dye not. And Moses dyd as the LORDE commaunded him, euen so dyd he. And the chyldrē of Israel spake vnto Moses, sayinge: beholde, we are wasted awaye and consumed: we all come to nought, who so euer commeth nye the dwellyng of the LORDE, dieth. Shall we vtterly consume awaye?

The.xviii. Chapter.

The offyce of the Leuites. The tythes and first fruites must be geuen them. Aarons heritage.

AND the LORDE sayd vnto Aaron, 1
thou and thy sonnes and thy fathers house with the shall beare þ faulte of that which is done amysse in the holy place. And thou and thy sonne with the, shall beare the faulte of that whiche is done amysse in youre priesthode. * And thy brethren of the tribe of Leui, and of thy fathers householde thou shalt take vnto the, that they may be ioyned vnto the, and minister vnto the: euen vnto the and thy sonnes with the, before the tabernacle of wytnesse. They shal wayte vpon the and vpō all the tabernacle: only let them not come nye the vessels of the sanctuary and the altar, that they and ye also dye not. And they shall be by the, and wayte on the tabernacle of wytnesse for all the seruyce of the tabernacle, and lette no straunger come nye vnto you.

Therfore shal ye kepe the holy place and the altar, that there fall no more wrath vpon the chyldren of Israell: beholde, I haue taken your brethren the Leuites from amonge the chyldren of Israel, whiche as a gyft of yours are geuen vnto the LORDE, to do the seruice of the tabernacle of witnes. Therfore shalte thou and thy sonnes wyth the, take hede vnto your priestes offyce for all thynges that pertayne vnto the aultar, and for all that are wythin the vayle. And se that ye serue: for I haue geuen your priestes offyce vnto you as 5 a gyfte: and therfore the straunger that commeth nye, must be slayne. And the LORDE spake vnto Aaron: beholde, I haue geuen thee the keppynge of myne heue offerynges, of all the halowed thynges of the chyldren of Israell. Euē vnto thee, I haue geuen them for the anoyntyng, and to thy sonnes, for a dutye for euer. This shal be thyne of most holy from the fire of the altar. All theyr sacrifices for all theyr meate offerynges, synofferynges, of trespasseofferinges, whyche they bryng vntō me, are moste holy. It is thine and thy sonnes. In the most holy place shalte thou eate it: and all that are males shall eate of it, let it be holy vnto the. And this also is thyne * the heue offerynges of theyr gyftes, throwout al the waue offerynges of the chyldren of Israell: I haue geuen them vnto the and thy sonnes & thy doughters with the, to be a dutye for euer: and all that are cleane in thy house, shall eate of it, all the fatte of the oyle, and all the fatte of the wyne and of the corne, whiche they shall offer vnto the LORDE for fyrst frutes, the same haue I geuen vnto the. And what so euer is fyrste ripe in theyr lande whiche they bryng vnto the LORDE shalbe thyne, and all that are cleane in thyne house shall eate of it. All dedicate thinges in Israell shalbe thyne. All that breaketh the matrice in all flesche that men bringe vnto the LORDE, whether it be of men or beastes, shalbe thyne.

C Neuerthelater the fyrste borne of man shalte thou redeme: and the firste borne of vncleane beastes: shalt thou redeme lykewyse. Those that are to be redemed, shalt thou redeme from the age of a moneth, for the value of the money, namely for fyue sicles after the sicle of the sanctuarye. A sicle maketh twenty halfpens. But the fyrste borne of oxen, sheep and goates shalte thou not redeme. For they are holye: therfore thou shalte sprynkle theyr blonde vpon the altar, and shalte burne theyr fat vpon the sacrifice for a swete sauour vnto ỹ LORDE. And the flesche of them is thyne Leuit.7.d *as the wauebrest and the ryght shulder. These are thyne. All the holy heueofferynges whiche the childzen of Israell offer vnto the LORDE, haue I geuen thee, and thy sons and thy doughters with the, to be a dutye for euer, let it be a salted couenaunt for euer: before the LORDE, bothe vnto the and to thy sede with the. And the LORDE spake Deut.13.a Iosue.14.g vnto Aaron: *thou shalt haue none inheritaunce in theyr lande, nether shalte thou haue any part among them. I am thy parte and thy enheryptaunce amõg the childzen of Israel. Beholde I haue geuen the childzen of Leui al the tenth in Israell to inheryte, for the seruyce whiche they serue in the tabernacle of wytnesse. Nether muste the childzẽ of Israel henceforth come nye the tabernacle of wytnes, lest they beare synne, and dye. But the Leuites shall do the D seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse & beare theyr synne. It shalbe a lawe for euer in youre generacyons that amõg the childzẽ of Israel, they possesse none inheryptaunce. But the tythes of the childzen of Israel, which they paye as an heueofferynge vnto the LORDE, I haue geuen the Leuites to inheryte. And therfore I haue sayde vnto them. Amonge the childzen of Israel ye shal possesse none enheryptaunce. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the Leuites, and say vnto them: when ye take of the childzen of Israell the tythes whiche I haue geuen you of them for your enheryptaũce, ye shall take an heueofferynge of that same for the LORDE: euen the tenthe parte of the tyth. And thys your heueofferyng shalbe rekened vnto you, euẽ as thoughe it were of the corne of the barne, or out of the fulnesse of the wine presse. Of this maner ye shall therfore seperate an heueofferynge vnto the LORDE of all youre tythes whiche ye receiue of the childzen of Israel, and ye shal geue thereof vnto the LORDE an heueofferyng, whiche shall belonge to Aaron the preest. Of all your gyftes, ye shal take out al the LORDES heueofferinges, euen the fatte of their halowed thynges. Therfore thou shalte say vnto them: when ye haue taken away the fat of it from it, it shalbe counted vnto the Leuites, as yf it were the encrease of the corne floze, or the encrease of the wyne presse. And ye shall eate it in all places, both ye and your housholds for it is your rewarde for youre seruice in the tabernacle of witnesse. And ye shal beare no synne by the reason of it, when ye haue taken from it the fat of it: neyther shall ye vnhalowe the holy thynges of the childzen of Israell, lest ye dye.

The.xix.Chapter.

¶Of the red kowe. The law of him that dieth in the Tabernacle, and of him also that toucheth any vncleane thyng. I

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses, and Aaron sayinge: this is the ordynaunce of the law: whych the LORDE hathe commaunded, sayinge: speake vnto the childzen of Israel that they bryng thee a red kowe wout spot, and wherein is no blemyshe, and vpon whiche neuer came yoke. And ye shall geue her vnto Eleazar the preest, that he maye bringe *her without the Deut.13.f hoste, and cause her to be slayne before his face. And let Eleazar the preste take of her blond with his synger, and sprynckle sprynkle it before the Tabernacle of wytnesse seuen tymes. And cause the kowe to be burnt in his syght with her *skynne, flesche and blonde. And the dung of her shall he burne also. And let the preest take Cedar wood, and yssope and purple clothe, and caste it vpon the kowe as she burneth. Then let ỳ preest washe his clothes, and he shall bath his flesche in water, and then come into the host, and the preest shalbe vncleane vnto ỳ euen. And he that burneth her, shall washe his clothes in water, and bath his flesche in water, & be vncleane vntyll euen. And a man that is cleane shal take vp the asshes of the kowe, and put them without the hoste in a cleane place. And it shalbe kept for the multitude of the children of Israell * for a sprynckelynge water, and for an attonement of synne. Therefore he that gathereth the asshes of ỳ kowe, shal washe his clothes, and remayne vncleane vntyll euen. And this shalbe vnto ỳ chyldren of Israell and vnto the straunger that dwelleth amonge them, a statute for euer. * He that toucheth the dead body of any man, shalbe vncleane seuē dayes. And he shall purifie himselfe wt this water the thyrd day & the seuenth daye, and he shalbe cleane.

But if he purifie not himselfe the thyrd day and the seuenth day, he shall not be cleane. Whoso euer toucheth the corse of any mā that is dead, and sprinkleth not him selfe, defyleth the dwellyng of the LORD, and that soule shalbe roted oute of Israell, because the sprynklynge water was not sprynkled vpon him. He shalbe therfore vncleane, and his vncleannesse shall remayne vpō him. This is the lawe of the man that dyeth in a tente: all that come into the tent, and al that is in ỳ tent shal be vncleane seuen dayes. And all the vessels that be opē which haue no lyd nor couering vpō thē shalbe vncleane. And who soeuer toucheth one that is slaine with a swearde in the feldes, or a dead person, or a bone of a dead mā, or a graue, shalbe vncleane seuē dayes. Therfore, for an vncleane person they shall take of the burnt asshes of the synofferyng, and runnynge water shal be put therto in a vessell. And let a cleane persone *take yssope and dippe it in the water, and sprynkle it vpon the tent, and vpon all the vesselles, and on the soules that were therin, and vpō him that touched a bone, or a slayne persone, or a dead bodye or a graue. And the cleane persone shall sprynkle vpon the vncleane the thyrd day & the .vii. day, & ỳ seuēth daye he shal purifie himselfe, and washe his clothes, and bath hymselfe in water, & shal be cleane at euen. But the mā that is vncleane and sprynkleth not hymselfe, the same soule shall be destroyed from amonge the cōgregacion: because he hathe defyled the holye place of the LORDE, and the sprinkling water hath not bene sprynkled vpon him, therefore shall he remayne vncleane. And thys shalbe a perpetuall lawe vnto them. And he that sprynkleth the sprynklyng water, shall washe his clothes. And he that toucheth the sprynklynge water, shal be vncleane vntyl euen. And what soeuer the vncleane persone toucheth shalbe vncleane. And ỳ soule that toucheth it shalbe vncleane vntyl the euē.

The .xx. Chapter.

Mir Jam dyeth. The people murmur. They haue water euen out of the rocke. Edom denyed the Israelites passage thoro we his realme. The death of Aaron in whose rowme Eleazar succedeth

AND the children of Israel came wt the whole multitude into the desert* of Syn in the fyrst moneth, & the people abode at Cades. And there died Mir Jam, & was buried there. But there was no water for the multitude, and they gathered themselues togethter agaynste Moses and Aaron. And the people chode with Moses, and spake, sayinge: woulde GOD that we had perished, when our brethren dyed before ỳ LORD. Why haue ye brought the congregacyon of the LORDE vnto this wildernesse, that both we and our catell should dye in it? * Wherfore haue ye made vs to go out of Egipt, to bring vs into this vngracyous place, which is no place of sede nor of figges, nor vines, nor of pomgranates, neyther is there any water to drinke. And Moses and Aaron wente from the congregacyon vnto the doze of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and fell vpon their faces. (And they cried vnto the Lord, and sayd: o Lorde God heare the cry of this people, and open them thy treasure, euen a fountaine of liuynge water, that they may be satisfied, and that their murmuring maye cease.) And the glozye of ỳ LORDE appeared appeared vnto them. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: take ỳ rod, and gather thou and thy brother Aarō the congregacion together, and speake vnto the rocke before theyr eyes, and it shall geue forth his water. And thou shalt bring them water out of ỳ rocke, to geue the companye drynke, & theyr beastes also. * And Moses toke ỳ rod from before the LORD, as he commaūded hym. And Moses and Aaron gathered the congregacyon together before the rocke, and Moses sayde vnto them: heare ye rebellyons: must we fet you water out of this rocke? And Moses lyfte vp hys hande, & wyth his *rod he smote the rocke two tymes, and the water came out abundauntly, and the multitude dranke and their beastes also. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses and Aaron: because ye beleued me not, to sanctifie me in the eyes of the childrē of Israel, therfore ye shall not bringe this congregacion into the land which I haue geuen them. This is the water of stryfe, because the chyldren of Israel stroue with the LORDE, and he was sanctified in them. And Moses * sente messengers from Cades vnto the king of Edom. Thus sayth thy brother Israell: Thou knowest al the trauayle ỳ hath happened vs. Our fathers went downe into Egipt, and we haue dwelt in Egipte a longe tyme, and the Egiptians vexed vs and our fathers. And when we cryed vnto the LORDE, he hearde our voyce, and sent an aungell, and hath fet vs vp out of Egipte. And beholde we are in Cades, euen in ỳ vttermoste citye of thy border. We wyll go nowe thorowe thy countre * but we wyll not go thorowe the feldes or vinyardes, neyther wyll we drynke of the water of the fountaynes: we wil go by the kynges hye way, and nether tourne vnto the ryghte hande nor to the lefte, vntyll we be past thy countrie. And Edom answered him.

Thou shalt not go by me: lest I come out agaynst thee with the swearde.

The chyldren of Israel sayde vnto him: we wyl go by the beaten way: and if I and my cattell drynke of thy water, I wyll pay for it, I wyll but onely (without any harme) go thorowe on my fete. He answered: Thou shalt not go thorowe. And Edom came out agaynste hym with muche people, and with a myghtie power. And thus Edom denied to geue Israell passage thorow hys countrye, wherefore Israell turned awaye from him. And the childrē of Israell departed from Cades, & came vnto mounte Hor wyth all the congregacion. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses and Aaron in mount Hor, hard by the coast of the lande of Edom, saying: Aaron shalbe gathered vnto hys people, for he shal not come into ỳ land, whiche I haue geuen vnto the chyldrē of Israell, because ye dysobeyed my mouth at the water of stryfe. Take Aaron and Eleazar his sonne and bringe them vp into mounte Hor, & thou shalt stryppe Aaron oute of his vestimentes and put them vpon Eleazar his sonne, and Aaron shall be gathered vnto hys people and shall dye there. And Moses dyd as the LORDE commaunded, and they went vp into mount Hor in ỳ sight of all the multitude. And Moses toke of Aarons clothes, and put them vpon Eleazar hys sonne, * and Aaron dyed there in the top of the mounte. And Moses and Eleazar came downe out of the mounte. When all the multytude sawe that Aaron was dead, they mourned for Aarō thyrtie dayes, thorowout all the housholdes of Israell.

AND when kyng* Arad the Cananite whiche dwelt toward ỳ south hearde tell that Israel came by ỳ waye that the spies had founde out, he fought agaynst Israell, and toke some of them pryseners. And Israel vowed a vowe vnto the LORDE, and sayd: If thou wylt delyuer this people into my hande, I wyl vtterly destroye theyr cytyes. And the LORDE heard the voyce of Israell, and deliuered them the Cananites. And they destroyed them and theyr cities, and called the name of the *place * Horma.

¶ The xxii. Chapter.

kynge

Kyng Balac sendeth for Balaam whose name in the Hebrue is written Bileam. Balaamo asse speaketh.

AND the chyldren of Israell departed & pitched in the feldes of Moab, on the other syde of Jordane, ouer against Jericho. *Balac the sonne of Ziphor sawe al that Israel had done to the Amorites: & the Moabytes were sore afrayde of the people, because they were many, and stode in feare of ỹ children of Israel. And Moab sayde vnto the elders of Madian: nowe shall this company licke vp al ỹ are rounde about vs, as an ore lycketh vp ỹ gralle of the felde. And Balac the sonne of Zyphor was kyng of the Moabites at ỹ tyme. He sent messengers therfore vnto *Balaam ỹ sonne of Beor in Pethor (which is by the ryuer in the lande of the children of his folke) to call him, sayinge: beholde, there is a people come out of Egipt: and beholde, they couer the face of ỹ earth, and dwell ouer against̃e me. Come nowe therfore, & curse this people for my sake. For they are to mighty for me, yf so peraduenture I mighte be able to smite them and to dryue thē out of the lande. For I wote that he whom thou blessest, is blessed: and whom thou cursest, is cursed. And ỹ elders of Moab and ỹ elders of Madian departed, hauinge the rewarde of the sothsaying in their hāde. And they came vnto Balaam, and tolde him ỹ wordes of Balac. He answered thē: tary here this night, and I will bringe you worde, euen as the LORDE shal saye vnto me. And the Lordes of Moab abode with Balaam.

And GOD came vnto Balaam: and said, what men are these with the? And Balaā said vnto GOD: Balac the sonne of Ziphor, kyng of Moab, hath sēt vnto me, sayinge: beholde, there is a people come out of Egipt and couereth ỹ face of the earth: come nowe therfore, and curse them for my sake, yf so peraduenture I maye be able to ouercome them in battell, and to dryue them oute. And GOD sayd vnto Balaam: Go not thou with them, nether curse the people, for they are blessed. And Balaam rose vp in the morninge, & sayde vnto ỹ Lordes of Balac: get you vnto your lande: for ỹ LORDE wyll not suffer me to goe with you. And the Lordes of Moab rose vp, and went vnto Balac and sayde: Balaam woulde not come wt vs. And Balac sente againe a greater cōpany of Lordes, & more honorable then they: which came to Balaam, and tolde him: Thus sayeth Balac the sonne of Ziphor: oh, let nothing let the, but come vnto me, for I wyll greatly promote the vnto greate honour, and will doe what so euer thou sayest vnto me: come I pray the, curse this people for my sake. And Balaam answered and sayde vnto the seruauntes of Balac: * If Balac woulde geue me his house ful of syluer and golde, I can not go beyonde ỹ word of ỹ LORD my GOD, to do lesse or more. Nowe therfore tarye here this night: that I may wete, what the LORD wyl say vnto me more. And GOD came vnto Balaam by night, and said vnto him: If ỹ men come to call the, rise vp & go with thē: but loke what I say vnto the, that shalt thou do. And Balaam rose vp earely, and sadled his asse, & went with the Lordes of Moab.

And the countenaunce of GOD was angry because he went. And the aungel of the LORD stode in the waye against him, as he rode vpon his asse, and his two seruauntes were with him. And when ỹ asse sawe the angel of ỹ LORD stande in ỹ waye, & hauyng a swearde drawen in his hāde, ỹ asse turned aside out of the waye, and went out into the felde. And Balaam smote the asse, to turne her into the waye.

But the aungel of the LORD stode in a path betwene the beyneyardes, and there was a wall on the one side and another on the other. And when the asse sawe the aungel of the LORD, she wrēched vnto the wall, & thrust Balaams fote vnto the wall, and he smote her agayne. And the angel of the LORD wēt further & stode in a narow place, where was no waye to turne, eyther to the right hande or to ỹ lyft. And when the asse sawe the angel of the LORD, she fell downe vnder Balaam: & Balaam was wroth, and smote the asse with a staffe. And the LORD opened the mouth of ỹ asse, and she sayd vnto Balaam: what haue I done vnto the, that thou haste smytten me nowe thre tymes? And Balaam sayde vnto the asse: because thou haste mocked me: I woulde also there were a swearde in my hande, for euen nowe woulde I kyll the. And the asse said vnto Balaam: am not I thine asse whiche thou hast rydden hytherto sence thou wast borne vnto this daye: was I euer wonte to doe so vnto the? he sayde: naye.

And the LORDE opened the eyes of Balaam: and he sawe the aungel of the LORD standynge in the waye, hauinge a swearde drawen in his hande. He bowed him selfe therfore, and fel flat on his face. And the Aungell of the LORD sayde vnto him: Wherfore hast þ smittē thyne asse thre tymes? beholde, I came out as an aduersary, because thou makest thy waye contrary vnto me, & the asse saw me, and wēt backe fro me thre tymes: or elles yf she had not turned fro me (geuing place to me that stode in the way) I had surely slayne the, and saued her alyue. Balaam said vnto the aungel of the LORD: I haue synned: for I wyste not that thou stodest in the way against me. Nowe therfore yf it displease the I wyll turne home againe. The aungell sayde vnto Balaam, go with þ mē: but what I say vnto the, that shalte thou speake. And so Balaam went with the Lordes of Balac. And when Balac heard that Balaam was come, he went out to mete hym vnto a Cytie of Moab, whiche is in þ border of Arnon, euē in þ vtmost coast. And Balac sayd vnto Balaam: dyd I not sende for the, to call the? And wherfore camest thou not vnto me? because I am not able to promote the vnto honour? And Balaam made answer vnto Balac: Lo, I am come vnto the. And can I nowe say any thing at al: The word þ GOD *putteth in my mouth that shal I speake. And Balaam wente with Balac, and they came vnto a cytie of stretes.

And Balac offered oxen and shepe, and sente (rewardes) for Balaam, and for the Lordes that were with him. And on the morowe Balac toke Balaam, & broughte him vp into the hye place of Baal, that thence he myghte se the vttermost parte of the people.

The.xxiii. Chapter.

Balaam blesseth the people.

AND Balaam sayde vnto Balac: buylde me here seuen aultars, and prepare me here seuen oxen and seuen rammes. And Balac dyd as Balaam sayde. And Balac and Balaam offered on euery aultar, an ox and a ram. And Balaam sayde vnto Balac: stande by the sacryfice, and I wil go, yf happily the LORDE will mete me: and what so euer he sheweth me, I wyll tell the: and he went forth alone. But GOD met Balaam, & Balaam said vnto him: I haue prepared seuen aultars, & haue offered vpon euery aultar, an ox and a ramme. And the LORD put a saying in Balaams mouth, & sayde: go againe to Balac and saye on this wyse. And whē he went againe vnto him, lo, he stode by his sacrifice, he & al þ lordes of Moab.

And he toke vp his parable and said, *Balac the kyng of Moab hath set me from Mesopotamia out of the mountaines of the east (saying) come, curse Jacob for my sake: come and defye Israel. How shal I curse him, whō GOD hath not cursed? or howe shall I defye hym whome GOD hathe not defyed? from the top of the rockes I se him, & from the hylles I beholde him: lo the people shall dwel by them selues, and shal not be rekened amōg þ nations. Who can tel the dust of Jacob, & the number of þ fourth parte of Israel? I pray GOD, þ my soule may dye þ death of þ righteous, and that my last ende maye be lyke his. And Balac sayd vnto Balaam: what hast thou done vnto me? I set thee to curse myne enemyes, & beholde, þ hast blessed them. He answered & sayd: must I not kepe that and speake it, whiche þ LORDE hath put in my mouthe? And Balac sayde vnto him: come I pray the with me vnto another place, whence thou mayst se them, and thou shalt se but the vtmost part of thē, and shalt not se thē al: curse thē out of þ place for my sake.

And he brought him into a felde (wher men might se farre of) euen to the top of an hyl, and buylt seuen aultars, and offred an ox and a ram on euery aultar. And he sayd vnto Balac stāde here by the sacrifyce, whyle I go ponder. And the LORD met Balaam, and *put a worde in his mouthe, and sayde: go againe vnto Balac, and thus saye. And when he came to him: beholde he stode by hys sacryfyce, and the Lordes of

of Moab with him. And Balac sayd vnto him: what hath the LORDE sayde?

And he toke vp his parable, and answered: ryse vp Balac and heare, and herken vnto me thou sonne of Ziphor.

Le.1.b. Nu.16.f. *GOD is not a man þ he should lye, nether þ sonne of a mā þ he should repēt: shoulde he saye, & not doe? or shoulde he speake and not make it good? behold, I haue takē vpon me to blesse, for he hath blessed, & it is not in my power to alter it. But Balaam answered & sayde vnto Balac: told not I thee saying: al that þ LORD speaketh, that must I doe? And Balac said vnto Balaam: come I pray the, and I wyl bryng the yet vnto another place, yf peraduēture it shal please GOD, that thou mayest thence curse them for my sake. And Balac brought Balaam vnto the toppe of Peor, that loweth towarde þ wyldernesse of Jesymmon. And Balaam sayde vnto Balac: make me here seuen aultars, & prepare me here seuē oxen, & seuē rammes. 3 AND whē Balaā sawe that it pleased the LORDE, þ he shoulde blesse Israel, he wēt not as he dyd twise before to set sothsayinge: but set hys face towarde the wildernesse. And Balaam lyfte vp his eyes, and loked vpon Israel as he lay accordynge to his trybes, and the spirite of GOD came vpon him. *And he toke vp his parable & said Balaam the son of Beor hath sayd, and the man whose eye is open hath said: he hath sayd, whyche heareth the wordes of God, and seeth the visions of the almyghtye: and falleth downe wyth open eyes.

How goodly are thy tentes, O Jacob, and thyne habitacions, o Israel! Euen as the valleys are they layed abrode, and as gardeyns by the ryuers syde: as the tentes whyche the LORDE hath pytched, and as Cypers trees besyde the waters. The water droppeth out of hys boket, & hys sede shalbe many waters * and his kynge shalbe hyer then Agag. And hys kyngdome shalbe exalted. *God brought hym out of Egypt: as the strength of an Unicorne is he vnto hym. And Balac was wroth with Balaam, and smote his handes together: and Balac sayde vnto Balaam: I sente for the to curse myne enemies, and beholde, thou hast blessed thē this thre tymes. Therfore now get þ quickly vnto thy place. I thought that I woulde promote the vnto honour, but loe, the LORDE hath kepte the backe from worshyp.

B 1.Re.17.b. Num.23.b. Gen.49.d.

Balaam answered vnto Balac: tolde I not thy messengers which thou sentest vnto me, saying: *yf Balac woulde geue me his house full of syluer & golde, I can not passe þ worde of the LORDE, to do eyther good or bad of myne owne mynde. But what the LORDE sayeth: þ am I compelled to speake. And now beholde, I go vnto my people: come therfore, and I wil aduertise the, what this people shal doe to thy folke in the later daies. And he toke vp his parable and sayd: Balaam the son of Beor hath sayd: the man whose eye is open, hathe sayde. He hath said þ heareth þ wordes of GOD, and hath the knowledge of þ most highe, and beholdeth the vision of the Almightye, and that falleth with open eyes: I shall se him, but not nowe. I shall beholde him, but not nighe. *There shal come a starre of Jacob, & ryse a sceptre of Israell, and shall * smyte the coastes of Moab and vndermyne all the chyldren of Seth.

C Nu.22.d. Mat.2.c. 2.Re.8.a.

*And Edom shall be possessed, & Seir shal fall to ꝑ possession of theyr enemyes, and Israel shall do manfully. Out of Jacob shall come he that shall haue dominion, & shal destroy the remnaunt of the cytie. And when he loked on Amalech, he toke vp his parable, & saide: Amalech is the fyrst of ꝑ nations * but hys latter ende shal perysshe vtterly. And he loked on the Kenites, & toke vp his parable, and sayde: stronge is thy dwellynge place, and thou puttest thy nest in a rocke. Neuertheiesse, ꝑ Kenite shal be roted out, vntyll Assur take the prysoner. And he toke vp his parable, & sayde: Alas, who shall lyue when GOD dothe this? The shippes also shal come out of the costes of Italye, and subdue Assur, and subdue Eber, & he him selfe shal perysshe at ꝑ last. And Balaam rose vp, and wēte and returned to his place: and Balac also went hys waye.

¶ The people commiteth fornicacion with the doughters of Moab / Phinehes killeth zamri and Cozby. God commaundeth to kyl the Madianites.

AND Israel dwelte in Sittim & the people beganne to cōmit whordome with ꝑ doughters of Moab, whiche called the people vnto ꝑ sacrifyce of their gods. * And the people did eate, & worshipped their goddes. & Israel coupled him selfe vnto Baal Peor. And the indignacion of the LORD was prouoked against Israel, and ꝑ LORD sayd vnto Moses: take al the heades of ꝑ people, & hang thē vp before ꝑ LORD against ꝑ sunne, ꝑ the wrath of ꝑ LORDES countenaunce may be turned away from Israel. And Moses sayd vnto the Judges of Israel * euery one slay hys men that wer ioyned vnto Baal Peor.

And beholde, one of the chyldren of Israel came and brought vnto his brethrē a Madianitishe wife euē in ꝑ sight of Moses, and in the syght of al ꝑ multitude of the chyldren of Israell, ꝑ wept before ꝑ doze of the tabernacle of witnesse. * And when Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the sonne of Aarō ꝑ preast sawe it, he rose vp out of the myddes of ꝑ company, & toke a weapō in his hād, and went after the man of Israell into the tente, and thrust them thorow: both the man of Israel and also the woman, euen thorowe the belly of her. And the plage ceassed from the chyldren of Israel. * And there dyed in the plage, xxiiii. thousande.

And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: * Phinehes ꝑ sonne of Eleazar the son of Aarō the preist, hath turned myne anger away from the chyldren of Israell, whyle he was gelous for my sake among them, ꝑ I had not cōsumed the chyldren of Israel in my gelousye. Wher fore saye: beholde, * I geue vnto him my couenaunt of peace, and he shal haue it, and his sede after him, euen the couenaunt of ꝑ Preistes office for euer: because he was gelous for his Goddes sake, and made an attonemente for the chyldren of Israel. The name of the Israelite, whiche was slayne with ꝑ Madianitysshe wyfe was zamari the sonne of Salu, a LORD of an house & kynred of Simeon. And the name of ꝑ Madianitishe wyfe that was slayne, was Cozbi ꝑ doughter of zur, a heade ouer ꝑ people of an house & kinred of Madiā.

And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, saying: * vexe the Madianites, & smyte them, for they trouble you with theyr wyles, whiche haue begyled you by diseate in the cause of Peor, & in ꝑ cause of their syster Cozbi the doughter of a Lorde of the Madianytes, which was slayne in the daye of the plage for Peors sake.

The.xxvi. Chapter.

The children of Israel are numbred.

AND it fortuned that after ꝑ plage, the LORD spake vnto Moses, & vnto Eleazar ꝑ son of Aaron ꝑ preist saying: * take the numbre of al ꝑ multitude of the chyldren of Israell from twenty yere & aboue thorow out theyr fathers houses, all that are able to goe to warre in Israel. And Moses & Eleazar the preaste spake vnto them in the feldes of Moab, by Jordan, ouer against Jerico from twenty yere & aboue, as ꝑ LORDE commaunded Moses and the chyldren of Israel, when they wer come out of Egipt. * Ruben the eldest sonne of Israel. And vnto Aarō were bozne Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar & Ithamar. Exod. 6.

* And Nadab and Abihu dyed when they offered straunge fyze before the LORD. And after theyr numbzes, they were * foure and twenty thousande, al males from a moneth olde and aboue. Num. 3. Num. 1.

For they were not nūbzed amonge the childzen of Israel, because there was no enheritaunce geuen them amonge the childzen of Israel.

These are the numbzes, when Moses and Eleazar ꝑ Pziest numbzed the childzen of Israel in ꝑ plaine of Moab, faste by Jozdan, ouer against Jericho. And amōge these there was not a man of them, whom Moses and Aaron nūbzed, when they tolde the childzē of Israel in the wyldernesse of Sinai. For the LORD sayd of them: they shall dye in the wyldernesse, and there was not left a man of them: saue Caleb the sōne of Jephune, and Josua the sonne of Nun. Deu. 32.14. Exod.

¶ The. xxvii. Chapter.

The lawe of the heritage of the doughters of Zelaphead. The lande of promis is shewed vnto Moses, in whose stead is appointed Josue.

I AND the doughters of * Zelaphead the sonne of Heber, the sōne of Gilead, the sonne of Machir, the son of Manasse: of the kynred of Manasse the sōne of Joseph (whose names were Mahela, Noha, Hagla, Melcha, and Thyrza) came, & stode before Moses, & Eleazar the pziest, & before ꝑ Lozdes, & al the multitude by the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, saying: our father dyed in the wildernesse: * and was not in the company of them that gathered the selues together agaynst the LORD in the cōgregacion of Corah. But dyed in his owne synne, and had no sonnes. Num. 27. a. Josh. 17. a. Num. 16.

Wher-

wherfore then is the name of our father, taken awaye from amonge hys kynred, because he hath no sonne?

*Geue vnto vs therfore a possession amonge the brethrē of our father. And Moses brought theyr cause before the LORDE. And ꝑ LORD spake vnto Moses, saying: The doughters of zelaphead spake ryght: thou shalt geue them a possessiō to enheryt amōg their fathers brethren, & shalt turne the enheritaunce of theyr father vnto them. And ꝑ shalt speake vnto the childzen of Israel, saying: If a man dye & haue no son, ye shal turne hys inheritaūce vnto his doughter. ꝑ he haue no doughter, ye shall geue hys inheritaūce vnto his brethrē. ꝑ he haue also no brethren, ye shall geue his inheritaūce vnto hys fathers brethrē. And ꝑ hys father haue no brethren, ye shal geue his enheritaūce vnto hym that is nerte to hym of hys kynred, & he shal possesse it. And this shalbe vnto the chyldzen of Israel a lawe of iudgement, as the LORDE hath commaunded Moses.

And the LORDE sayd vnto Moses: * get the vp into this mount Abarim, & beholde the lande which I haue geuen vnto the chyldzen of Israel. And when thou haste sene it, thou shalt be gathered vnto thy people also, as Aaron thy brother was gathered. For ye were dis obedient vnto my mouth in the deserte of Sin, in the stryfe of the cōgregacion. Neyther dyd ye sanctifie me in the waters before theyr eyes. *That is ꝑ water of stryfe in Cades in the wyldernes of Sin. And Moses spake vnto the LORD, saying: let ꝑ LORD GOD of the spirites of al flesche set a man ouer ꝑ cōgregacion, whyche may go out and in before them, and leade them out and in: that the cōgregacion of the LORD be not as shepe which haue not a shepe hearde.

And the LORDE sayd vnto Moses: take Iosua the sōne of Nun, in whom is the spirite, and put thine hādes vpon him, & set him before Eleazar the priest, and before all the congregacion: & geue hym a charge in theyr syght. And put of thy prayse vpon hym, that all the cōpany of the chyldzen of Israell may be obedient. And he shall stande before Eleazar the priest, whych shall aske coūsell for hym * after the iudgement of Uzim before the LORDE. And accordyng vnto hys worde shall they go out and in, both he & all the chyldzen of Israel wyth hym and all the congregacion. And Moses dyd as the LORDE cōmaunded hym: and he toke Iosua, and set hym before Eleazar the priest, and before all the congregacion: * and put hys handes vpon hym, and gaue hym a charge, as the LORDE commaunded thorowe the hande of Moses.

The.xxviii.Chapter.

What muste be offered on every feast daye.

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses, saying: Cōmaund the chyldzen of Israel, & saye vnto them: My offeryng and my breade for my sacrifyces whyche are made for a swete sauoure, shall ye obserue in theyr due season. And thou shalt saye vnto them: *Thys is the offeryng whych ye shall offer vnto the LORD, two lambes of a yere olde wythout spot daye by daye, for a continuall burntofferyng. One lambe shalt thou offer in the mornyng, and ꝑ other at euen. *And therto the tenth parte of an Epha of floure for a meatofferynge myngled wyth beaten oyle, conteyning the fourth parte of an hin. It is a dayly burntofferyng suche as was ordeyned in the mount Sinai for a swete sauoure, a sacrifyce vnto the LORD. And let the drynke offeryng of ꝑ same be the fourth parte of an hin for one lābe, & in the holy place shalt thou cōmaunde the wyne to be poured vnto the LORDE.

And the other lambe thou shalt offer at euē after the maner of the meatofferyng, and ꝑ drynkofferyng of ꝑ mornyng: a sacrifyce shalte thou offer for a swete sauour vnto the LORDE. And on the sabboth daye two lambes of a yere olde a pece, and without spot, and two tenth deales of floure for a meatofferyng myngled with oyle, and ꝑ drynkoffering therto. The burnte offeryngе of ꝑ sabboth must be done in ꝑ selfe sabboth, besyde the dayly burntofferinge, and his drynkoffering. And in the begynning of your monethes, ye shall offer a burnt offeryng vnto the LORDE: two yong bullockes, and a ramme, and seuen lambes of a yere olde wythoute spot: and three tenth deales of floure for a meatoffering mingled with oyle for one bullocke, and two tenth deales of floure for a meatofferyng myngled wyth oyle for one ramme. And a tenth deale of floure myngled wyth oyle for a meatcofferyng vnto one lambe, for a burntofferyng and a swete sauour, and a sacrifyce vnto the LORDE.

C And theyr drynkofferynges shalbe halfe an hin of wine vnto one bullocke, and the thirde parte of an hin of wyne vnto a ram, & ꝑ fourth parte of an hin vnto a lambe. This is ꝑ burnt offering of ꝑ moneth in his moneth, thorowout the monethes of the yere: & one he gote for a synoffring vnto ꝑ LORDE shalbe offered, after the dayly burnte offering and his drynkofferyng. *And the fourtenth day of ꝑ fyrst moneth, is the passeouer of the Lorde. And in the fyftenth day of ꝑ same moneth is ꝑ feast: & seuen daies longe shall vnleuened breade bee eaten. In the *fyrste daye shalbe an holy conuocacyon, ye shall do no maner of seruile worke therin. But ye shall offer a sacrifyce for a burntofferyng vnto ꝑ LORD, two yonge bullockes, one ram, and seuen lambes of a yere olde, whych are to you wythout spot, and let theyr meatofferyng be of floure myngled wt oyle: thre tenth deales also shal ye offer for a bullocke, and two tenth deales for a rãme: one tenth deale shalt thou offer for euery lambe of the seuen lambes: & an he gote for sinne to make an attonement for you.

D ye shall offer these, besyde the burntofferyng in the morning, which is a cõtinual burntsacrifice. After this maner ye shal offer thorowout the seuẽ dayes: the fode of the sacrifyce for a swete sauoure vnto the LORDE. And it shalbe done besyde the dayly burntofferyng & hys drynkeoffering. And in the seuenth daye ye shal haue an holy cõuocation, & ye shal do no seruile worke. Therfore in the day of your fyrst frutes, when ye bryngе a newe meatofferyng vnto the LORD (accordyng to your weekes) ye shall haue an holy conuocation, and ye shal do no seruile worke in it: but offer a burntoffering for a swete sauour vnto the LORDE, two yonge bullockes, a ramme, * and seuen lambes of a yeare olde a pece, with theyr meatofferinges of floure myngled with oyle, thre tenth deales vnto a bullocke, two tenth deales to a ram, and one tenth deale vnto a lambe thorowout the seuen lambes, and an he gote to make an attonement for you. This ye shall do besydes the contynuall burnte offerynge, and his meate offerynge: and they shalbe vnto you wythoute spot, with theyr drynke offerynges.

The.xxx.Chapter.

¶ Of vowes when they ſhalbe kepte, and when not.

AND Moſes ſpake vnto the heades of the trybes of the chyldꝛen of Iſrael, ſaying: this is ỹ thing which the LORDE hath commaunded. * yf a man bowe a bowe vnto the LORDE, oꝛ ſweare an othe to bynd his ſoule, he ſhall not go backe with hys woꝛde: but ſhall fulfyll all that is pꝛoceded out of his mouthe. Deu. xxiij.d.

yf a woman alſo bowe a bowe vnto the LORDE and bynde her ſelfe beinge in her fathers houſe, in the time of her youth, and her father heare her bowe & bonde whiche ſhe hath made vpon her ſoule, and holde his peace thereto: then al her bowes & bondes whych ſhe hath made vpõ her ſoule, ſhal ſtãde in effect. But & if her father foꝛbyd her the ſame daye ỹ he heareth it, none of her bowes noꝛ bondes which ſhe hath made vpon her ſoule ſhalbe of value: & the LORDE ſhall foꝛgeue her, becauſe her father foꝛbad her. yf ſhe had an huſbãde when ſhe bowed oꝛ pꝛonounced ought out of her lyppes, wherwyth ſhe bounde her ſoule, & her huſbãde herde it & helde his peace thereat the ſame daye he herde it, then her bowe and her bõdes wherwith ſhe bouñde her ſoule ſhal ſtande in effecte. And yf her husbande forbad her the same day that he hearde it: and made her bowe whiche she hath vpon her of none effecte, and released the openyng of her lippes, wherwith she bounde her soule, the LORD shal forgeue her.

C But euery bowe of a wydowe, and of her that is deuorced (that they haue bounde their soule withall) shal stande in effecte with them. If she bowed in her husbādes house, or bounde her soule with an othe, and her husbande hearde it, and helde his peace, and forbad her not, then al her bowes & bondes wherwith she bounde her soule, shall stande. But yf her husbande dysanulled them, the same day that he hearde them, then nothing that proceadeth out of her lippes in bowes and bōdes (wherwith she bound her soule) shall stande in effecte: for her husbande hath looced theym.

And the LORDE shal forgeue her. All bowes and othes that binde to humble the soule, maye her husbande stably she or breake. But yf her husbande holde his peace from one day vnto another, then he stablisheth all her bowes and bondes whiche she had vpon her, because he held his peace the same daye þ he hearde them. But yf he breake thē, after that he hath hearde them, he shal beare her synne him selfe. These are the ordynaunces whiche the LORDE commaunded Moses, betwene a man and his wyfe: and betwene þ father and his doughter, beynge yet a damosell in her fathers house.

The.xxxi Chapter.

¶ The Madianites and Balaam are slayne. The pray is equally deuided. A present geuē of Israel.

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses, saying: *auenge the childrē of Israel of the Madianytes, & afterwarde shalt thou be gathered vnto thy people. And Moses spake vnto þ folke, sayinge: Harnesse some of you vnto warre, and let thē goe vpon þ Madianytes, and auenge the LORD of þ Madianites. Let ther be chosen a thousāde out of euery trybe of Israel, þ out of all þ tribes ye may sēde some to þ warre. And ther were taken out of þ thousāds of Israell, twelue thousande prepared vnto warre, of euery trybe a thousāde.

Num. 25. I

And Moses sent them to the warre, euen a thousande of euery trybe, & with them, Phineas the sonne of Eleazar the preaste, and the holy vesselles: and the * trompets to blowe, were in his hāde. And they warred against þ Madianytes, as the LORDE commaunded Moses, & slue all the males. And they slue þ kinges of Madian among other þ were slayne: Namely, Eui & Rekem, Zur and Hur, and Reba, fiue kynges of Madian with Balaam, þ sonne of Beor, whome they slue with þ swearde: And the childrē of Israel toke al þ wemē of Madian prisoners, & their childrē, & spoyled all their catel, and all their flockes, and al their goodes. And they burnte al their cities wherin they dwelte, and all their castels with fyre.

Num. 4

And they toke al the spoyle, & al that they could catche, bothe of men & beastes. And they broughte the captyues & that whiche they had taken, & þ spoyle vnto Moses and Eleazar the preast, & vnto the company of the childrē of Israel, euen vnto the Hoste that wer in þ feldes of Moab by Iordā, ouer againste Jericho. And Moses and Eleazar the preast, and al þ lordes of the congregacion went out of þ host againste them. And Moses was angry wt the officers of þ Hoste, wt the captaines ouer thousandes & ouer hundredes, which came from the warre and battayle: & Moses sayde vnto them: Haue ye saued all the wemen alyue? beholde, *these caused þ childrē of Israel thorow the councell of *Balaam, to commit trespasse againste the LORDE, in the busynesse of Peor, and there folowed a plage amonge the congregacion of þ LORDE. Now therfore, *slay al the men childrē, and the wemen that haue lyen with mē fleshly. But al the wemē childrē that haue not lien with men, kepe alyue for your selues. And ye shall remayne without the host seuen dayes, all þ haue kylled anye persone: *and all þ haue touched anye deade body, and purifye both your selues and your prysoners the thyrd daye and þ seuenth. And sprynkle all youre raymentes and al that is made of skinnes and all worke of gootes heare, and all thinges made of woode.

And Eleazar the priest sayed vnto the men of warre, which came from þ battayle: this is the ordynaunce of þ lawe whiche the LORD commaunded Moses: Golde syluer, brasse, and yron, tyn, and leade, and all that maye abyde the fire fyre, ye shall make it goe thorowe the fyre, and it shalbe cleane. Neuertheles, it shalbe sprinkled w sprinklinge water. And all that suffereth not the fyre, ye shall make go thorow the water.

And washe youre clothes the seuenth daye, and ye shall be cleane. And afterwarde come into the host.

And the LORD spake vnto Moses, saying: take the summe of ỳ praye that was taken, both of the wemen and of the cattel, thou and Eleazar the priest, & the auncyente fathers of the congregacion. And deuide it into two partes betwene them that toke the warre vpon them, and went out to battayle, and all the congregacion. And take a porcion vnto the LORDE of ỳ men of war, which went out to battayle: one soule of fyue hundred, both of the wemen, & of the oxen, and of the asses, and of the shepe: and ye shall take it of theyr halfe and geue it vnto Eleazar the priest, as an heueofferyng of the LORDE.

And of the halfe of the chyldren of Israell, thou shalte take one porcyon of fyftie, of the wemen, of the oxen, of ỳ asses, and of the shepe, and of all maner of beastes: & geue them vnto ỳ Leuites, whiche wayte vpon the habitacion of the LORDE. And Moses and Eleazar the priest dyd as the LORDE commaũded Moses. And the botye, and ỳ praye whiche the men of warre had caughte, was fyre hundred thousande, & .lxxv. thousande shepe: and .lxxii. thousande oxen. lxi. thousande asses: & .xxxii. thousande soules of wemen, that had lyen by no man. And the halfe whiche was the parte of them that wente oute to warre, was thre hundred thousande: & seuen and thirtye thousande and fyue hundred shepe. And the LORDES part of the shepe was fyre hundred & .lxxv. And the oxen were .xxxvi. thousand, of whiche the LORDES parte was. lxxii.
And the asses were thirtye thousãde and .v. hundred, of which the LORDES parte was. lxi. And the soules of wemẽ were .xvi. thousande, of which ỳ LORDES parte was .xxxii. soules. And Moses gaue the summe whiche was the LORDES heueofferynge, vnto Eleazar the priest, as the LORDE commaunded Moses. And the other halfe of the chyldren of Israell whiche Moses seperated from the men of warre, (that is to wete the halfe that pertayned vnto the congregacyon) was thre hundred thousande, and .xxxvii. thousand, and .v. hundred shepe: and .xxxvi. thousande oxen: and .xxx. thousand asses, and .v. hundred and .xvi. thousande soules of wemen.
And Moses toke of this halfe that pertayned vnto the childzen of Israel, one porcion of fyftie, bothe of the wemen & of the cattell, and gaue them vnto the Leuites, whiche wayted vpon the habitacion of the LORDE, as the LORDE commaũded Moses. And the officers of thousandes of the host, ỳ captaynes ouer the thousandes, and ỳ captaynes ouer ỳ hundredes came forth, and saide vnto Moses: Thy seruauntes haue taken the sum of the men of warre which are vnder oure auctorite, & there lacketh not one man of vs.

We haue therfore broughte a presente vnto the LORDE what euery mã founde of iewelles of golde, cheynes, bracellettes, rynges, earynges, & spangelles, to make an attonement for oure soules before the LORDE. And Moses and Eleazar toke the golde of them, iewelles of all maner fashyons. And all the gold of the heueofferyng that they heued vp to the LORD, (of ỳ captaines ouer thousandes and hundredes) was syxtene thousande, seuen hundred and fyftie sycles, for the men of warre had spoyled, euery man for hymselfe. And Moses and Eleazar the priest, toke ỳ golde of the captaynes ouer the thousandes, and of the captaynes ouer the hundredes, and brought it into ỳ Tabernacle of wytnesse, for a memoryall of the chyldren of Israell before the LORDE.

¶ The.xxxii. Chapter.

To Ruben and Gad, and to halfe the tribe of Manasses, is promised the possession beyonde Jordan, Eastwarde.

THe childzen of Ruben, and the chyldrẽ of Gad had an exceding greate multitude of cattell. And when they sawe the lande of Jazer, and the land of Galead, that it was an apt place for cattell, the chyldren of Ruben and the childzen of Gad came & spake vnto Moses and Eleazar the Priestes, and vnto the LORDES of the congregacyon, sayinge: The lande of Ataroth & Dibon Jazer, and Nemrah, Heshbon & Elealeh, Sabam and Nebo & Beon:

which countrey the LORDE smote before the congregacion of Israel: is a lande mete for catell, and we thy seruauntes haue catell: wherfore (sayde they) yf we haue founde grace in thy sighte, let this lande be geuen vnto thy seruauntes to possesse, and bringe vs not ouer Jordan.

B And Moses sayde vnto the childzen of Gad and of Ruben: shall youre brethzen go to warre, and ye shall syt here? Wherefore dyscorage ye the harte of ꝑ childzen of Israel: that they should not go ouer into the lande, which ꝑ LORD Num. 14. hath geuen them? * Thus dyd your fathers when I sente them from Cades Barne to se the lande. For when they went vp euen vnto the ryuer of Escoll, and sawe the lande: they dyscoraged the hartes of the childzen of Israell, ꝑ they should not go into the land, which the LORDE hath geuen them.

C And the LORD was wroth the same Num. 14. tyme, and swore, saying: * None of the men that came oute of Egypte frō. xx. yere olde and aboue, shall se the lande whiche I swāre vnto Abzahā, Isahac, and Jacob, because they haue not wholye folowed me: saue Caleb the sonne of Jephune the kenesyte, and Josua the sonne of Nun: for they haue folowed ꝑ LORDE. And the LORDE was angrye with Israell, & made them wander in the wildernesse forty yere, vntyll all the generacion that had done euyll in the syghte of the LORDE, were consumed.

And beholde, ye are rysen vp in your fathers stede, as an encrease of synful men, to augment ꝑ fearce wzath of the LORDE, toward Israel. For if ye turne awaye from after hym, he will yet agayne leaue the people in the wildernesse, and ye shal destroye al this folke. And they went nere hym and sayd: we will buylde shepe foldes here for oure shepe and for our cattel, and (walled) cytyes for our childzen. But we oure selues will go ready armed before ꝑ childzen of Israel, vntyl we haue brought them vnto their place. And our childrē D (and what so euer we maye haue) shal dwel in the fenced cities, because of the inhabiters of the lande. We wyl not returne vnto our houses, vntyll the childzen of Israell haue enherited, euery man his enherytaunce. Neyther wyll we enheritr with them on yonder syde Jozdan forwarde, because oure enherytaunce is fallen to vs on thys syde Jozdan eastwarde.

And Moses sayde vnto them: yf ye wyll do this thynge, and go harnessed before the LORDE to warre, and wyll go all of you in harnesse ouer Jozdan before the LORDE, vntyll he haue cast out his enemies before hym: and vntill the lande be subdued before ꝑ LORDE, then ye shall returne and be wythoute synne before the LORD, and before Israell, and this lande shalbe youre possession before the LORDE. But and yf ye wyll not do so, beholde, ye haue synned agaynste the LORDE: and be sure your synne wyll synde you out.

Nowe therefore, buylde cyties for E your childrē, and foldes for your shepe, and do that ye haue spoken. The childzen of Gad and the childzen of Rubē spake vnto Moses, sayinge: thy seruaūtes wyl do as my Lozd commaundeth. Our childzen, our wyues, our shepe, & our catel shal remaine here in ꝑ cities Jos. 1. of Gilead. But * thy seruauntes wil go al harnessed for ꝑ warre, & vnto batalle before the LORD, as my LORD sayeth. And for theyr sakes Moses cōmaūded Eleazar the prieste, and Josua the sōne of Nun, and the auncient fathers of the trybes of the childzen of Israel: and Moses sayd vnto them: yf the childrē of Gad and the childzen of Ruben wyl go with you ouer Jozdan, al prepared to fyght before the LORDE, then when the lāde is subdued before you, ye shal geue them the lande of Gilead to possesse: but and yf they wyll not go ouer F wyth you in harnesse, they shall haue theyr possessions amonge you in ꝑ lāde of Canaan.

And the childzen of Gad and ꝑ childzen of Ruben answered, saying: As ꝑ LORD hath sayd vnto thy seruauntes, so wyll we do. * We wyll go harnessed Jos. 1. before the LORDE into the lande of Canaan: that the possessyon of our enheryptaunce may be on this side Jozdā. And Moses gaue vnto the childzen of Gad, and to the childrē of Ruben, and vnto halfe the tribe of Manasse the son of Joseph, the kyngdō of Sehon kynge of the Amozites, and the kyngdome of Og, kynge of Basan: the lande wyth ꝑ cytyes therof, in the coostes and cities of the countrey rounde aboute. And the chyldren of Gad buylte Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aroer, & Atroth, Sophan Jaeser, and Jegabea, Bethnimra, and Betharan, fenced Cityes, & they buylte foldes for the shepe.

6 And the chyldren of Ruben buylte Heshon, Eleale, Kiryathaim, Nebo, Baal, Meon, and turned theyr names, and Sibama also: & gaue other names vnto the cities whiche they buylded.
And the chyldren of Machir: the sonne of Manasse went to Gilead, and toke it and put out ꝑ Amorites that dwelte therin. And Moses gaue Gilead vnto Machir the sonne of Manasse, and he Deut. 3.d dwelte therin. And *Jahir the sonne of Manasse went & toke the smal townes therof, and called them Hauoth Jair.
And Nobah wente and toke Kenath, & the townes longyng therto, and called it Nobah, after hys owne name.

¶ The.xxviii.Chapter.

¶ The iourneyes of Israel are numbred. They are commaunded to fyll the Cananites.

1 THese are ꝑ iourneys of the chyldren of Israel, which went oute of the lande of Egypt with their armies vnder the hande of Moses and Aaron. And Moses wrote theyr going out by theyr iourneys accordynge to ꝑ commaundement of the LORDE: euen these are the iourneys of theyr goynge

And they pytched by Jordan, frō Beth Num.xxv.a Jasimoth *vnto the playne of Sittim in the feldes of Moab.

And the LORDE spake vnto Moses in the feldes of Moab by Jordan ouer agaynste Jericho, saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israell, and saye vnto Deut.vii.a. them: *when ye are come ouer Jordan to entre into the lande of Canaan, ye shall dryue oute all the inhabyters of ỹ lande before you, and destroye al their pyctures, and breake a sunder all their ymages of metall, and plucke downe all theyr aultars. And possesse the land and dwell therin, for I haue geuen you the land to enioy it. And ye shal deuyde the enheritaunce of the lande by lot amonge youre kynredes, *and geue to manye, the more enherytaunce, and to the fewer the lesse enherytaunce. And Num.xxvi.f your enheritaunce shalbe in the tribes of your fathers, euery mannes enherytaunce in ỹ place where his lot falleth. Iudi.i.c.i * But and yf ye wyll not dryue oute Ezech.v.g the inhabyters of the lande before you, then those which ye let remayne of thē, shalbe pryckes in youre eyes, and dartes in your sydes, and shall vexe you in the lande wherein ye dwel. Moreouer, it wyll come to passe, that I shall do vnto you, as I thought to do vnto thē.

The.xxxiiii. Chapter.

The coastes and borders of the lande of promysse. Certayne men are assygned to deuide the lande.

AND the LORD spake vnto Moses, A sayinge: commaunde the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto thē, when ye come into the lande of Canaan: this is the lande that shal fal vnto your enherytaunce, the lande of Canaan with her coastes. * And your southquarter Iosu.xv.a shalbe from the wylderneſſe of Sin: a longe by the coaste of Edom, so ỹ your southquarter reache vpon the syde of the salte sea eastwarde: and fet a compasse frō the south vp to Acrabim: and reache to Zuna. And go out from the south to Cades Barne, and go out also to Hazar Addar, and go alonge to Azmon, and fet a compasse agayne from Azmon vnto the ryuer of Egypte, and shall go out at the sea.

And let your westquarter be ỹ great B sea: let the same sea be your westcoast. And this shalbe your northquarter: ye shall compasse youre borders from the great sea vnto mount Hor. And from mount Hor, ye shal describe your border, tyll it come vnto Hemath, and the ende of the coste shalbe at Zedada, and the coste shall reache out to Ziphron, & go out at Hazar Enan. Thys shalbe your northquarter.

And ye shall cōpasse your eastquarter from Hazerenan to Sepham. And the coste shall go downe from Sepha to Ribla on the east syde of Ain. And the same border shall descende and go out at the syde of the sea of Cenereth eastwarde. And then go downe alonge by Jordan, and leaue at the salt sea. And thys shalbe youre lande wyth the costes therof rounde about. C

And Moses commaunded the chyldren of Israel, saying: this is the lande whych ye shall enheryt by lot, & whych the LORD commaunded to geue vnto Num. nyne trybes and an halfe: * for ỹ tryde of the chyldren of Ruben accordyng to the housholdes of their fathers, and the tryde of the chyldren of Gad, accordyng to theyr fathers housholdes, and halfe the tryde of Manasse, haue receyued theyr enheritaunce: two tribes and an halfe haue receyued theyr inheritaūce on ỹ other syde of Jordan, ouer against Jericho eastwarde. And the LORDE D spake to Moses, saying: these are the names of the men, whych shall deuyde the the lande vnto you: Eleazar the preest, and Iosua the sonne of* Nun. And ye shall take also a Lorde of euerye tribe when ye deuyde the lande. The names of the men are these: Of the trybe of Juda, Caleb ꝑ sonne of Iephune. Of the trybe of the chyldren of Simeon, Semuel ꝑ sonne of Amiud. Of ꝑ trybe of Ben Jamin, Elidad: the son of Cisló. Of the tribe of the chyldren of Dan the Lorde Bucki, the sonne of Jagli.

From amonge the chyldren of Joseph for ꝑ tribe of the chyldren of Manasse, the Lord Haniel, the sonne of Ephod. Of the trybe of the chyldren of Ephraim, the Lord Camuel, the sonne Siphtan. Of the trybe of the sonnes of Zabulon, the Lorde Palzaphan: the sonne of Pharnache. Of ꝑ trybe of the chyldren of Jsachar, the lorde Elimel: the sonne of Ilan. Of the trybe of the sonnes of Aser, the lorde Ahihud ꝑ son Salomi.

Of the trybe of ꝑ children of Nephthali, the Lorde Peda El, the sonne of Ammihud. These are they whom the LORDE commaunded to deuide ꝑ enheritaunce vnto the children of Jsrael in the lande of Canaan.

¶ The.xxxv. Chapter.

Vnto the Leuites are geuen Cities and suburbes. The cities of refuge. The lawe of manquellyng. For one mannes wytnesse shall no man be condempned.

AND the LORDE spake vnto Moses in the feldes of Moab by Jordan, ouer agaynste Jericho, sayinge: commaund the chyldrē of Jsrael, that they geue vnto the Leuites of ꝑ enherytaunce of theyr possessyon, *cytyes to dwell in. And ye shall geue also vnto the Cities of the Leuites, suburbes harde by theyr cities round about them. The cityes shall they haue to dwell in, and the suburbes for theyr catell, and for theyr possessyon and all maner of beastes of theyrs. And ꝑ suburbes of the Cityes whiche ye shall geue vnto the Leuites, shall reache frō the wall of the cytie outwarde, a thousande cubites rounde aboute. And ye shall measure without the Cytie of the eastsyde, two thousande cubytes. And of the southsyde, two thousande cubytes. And of the west syde two thousande cubytes. And of the nozth syde two thousande cubytes also: and the Cytye shall be in the myddes. And these shall be the suburbes of theyr cytyes.

And from among the Cytyes which ye shall geue vnto the Leuites, *there shalbe syxe Cities for refuge, which ye shall appoynte to that entente, that he whiche kylleth, maye flye thyther. And to them ye shall adde. xlii. cities moo: so that all the cytyes whiche ye shall geue the Leuites, maye be. xlviii. wyth their suburbes. And the cytyes whiche ye shall geue, shalbe oute of the possessyon of the chyldren of Jsrael. They that haue manye, shall geue many. But of thē that haue fewe, ye shall take fewe. Euery one shall geue of his cities vnto the Leuites accozdinge to the enheritaunce whiche he enheryteth. And the LORDE spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Jsrael, and say vnto them: *when ye be come ouer Jozdane into the lande of Canaan, ye shall appoynt you cities to be cyties of refuge, for you: that he whych sleeyeth a soule vnwares: maye flye thyther. And the cityе shalbe to flye from the auenger of bloud, ꝑ he whych kylleth die not, vntyll he stande before the cōgregacyon in iudgement.

And of these syxe fre cyties which ye shall geue, ye shall geue three on thys syde Jozdane, and three in the lande of Canaan. And the syxe fre cyties shalbe a refuge both for the childrē of Jsrael, and for the straunger, and for hym that dwelleth amonge you: ꝑ all they which kyll any persoone vnwares, maye flye thyther. *And yf any man smyte another with an instrumente of yron that he dye, then is he a murtherer, & shall dye for it. yf he smyte hym with a thzowyng stone that a man may dye wyth, and yf he dye, he that smote hym is a murtherer, let the same murtherer be slayne therfoze. Oz yf he smyte him wt a hande weapon of woode that a man may dye wt, then yf he dye, he is a murtherer, lette the murtherer be slayne therfoze.

The iustyce of blonde shall slaye the murtherer: when he meteth hym, he maye slaye him. But yf he thzust at him *of hate, oz hourle at him with layinge of wayt, that he dye, oz smyte him with his hande of enuye, that he dye, he that smote him, shall dye, for he is a murtherer ver. The Justice of bloude shall sleye the murtherer as soone as he fyndeth hym.

But and yf he pushed him by chaūce, and not of hate, or caste at him with any maner of thynge, and not of layinge of wayte: or caste anye maner of stone at hym (that a man maye dye with) & sawe him not. And he caste it vpon him and he dye, and was not his enemye, neyther soughte hym anye harme: Then the congregacion shal iudge betwene the sleyer & the executer of bloud in suche cases. And the congregacyon shall delyuer the sleyer oute of the hande of the auenger of bloude, and ỹ congregacion shall restore him againe vnto the Citie of his refuge, whither he was fledde.

Iohn. 20. d And he shal byde there* vnto ỹ death of the hye Priest, whiche was anoynted with holy oyle. But and yf ỹ sleyer come without the borders of his priuileged citie whyther he was fledde, yf the auenger of bloud fynde hym without the borders of his free towne, and sleye the murtherer, he shall be guyltelesse, because he shoulde haue bydden in his free towne, vntyl the death of the hye Priest: and after the death of the hye Priest, to returne agayne vnto the lande of his possession.

These commaundementes shalbe a lawe vnto you, for your generacions in al your dwellinges. Who so euer killeth a soule, the same mān slayer muste be slaine him selfe, thorow* wytnesses. Deut. 17. d & 19. b Neyther shall one wytnesse auayle to putte a man to death. Moreouer ye shal take none amendes for the lyfe of the murtherer, which is worthy to dye: But he shall be put to death.

Also ye shall take no money of hym ỹ is fledde to a free Cyte, that he should come agayne, and dwell in the lande, before the death of the hye Priest. And se that ye pollute not the land which ye shall dwell in: for bloude defyleth the lande. And the lande can none otherwise be clensed of the bloud that is shed therin, but by the bloud of him ỹ shedde bloude. Defyle not therefore the lande whiche ye shall inhabite, for I am in the myddes thereof: Euen I the LORDE dwell amonge the chyldren of Israell.

The xxxvi. Chapter.

AND the auncient fathers of ỹ chil- 1 dren of Gilead the sonne of Machir, the sonne of Manasse, of the kynred of the chyldre of Joseph, came forth and spake before Moses and the princes and auncyent fathers of the children of Israel, and sayde: * The Num. LORDE commaunded my Lorde, to geue the lande to enherite by lot to the children of Israell. And my Lord commaunded in GODDES behalfe, to geue the enheritaunce of* Zelaphead oure brother, vnto his doughters. Whome yf any of the sonnes of the other tribes of Israell take to wyues, then shall theyr enheritaunce be take from ỹ enheritaunce of our fathers, and shall be put vnto the enheritaunce of the tribe which they are receyued into: and shal be taken from the lotte of our enheritaunce. And when the yere of Jubelye 3 of the children of Israell commeth, the shall theyr enheritaunce be put vnto ỹ enheritaunce of ỹ tribe wherinto they are receyued: and so shall their enheritaunce be taken awaye from the enheritaunce of the tribe of our fathers.

And Moses commaunded the chyldren of Israell: according to the word of the LORDE, saying: the children of ỹ tribe of Joseph haue sayde well. C
This therfore doeth the LORDE commaunde the doughters of Zelaphead, sayinge: *let them be wyues to whom they themselfe thynke best, onely to the Ex. xxxii. kynred and tribe of their father shall they marye: so shal not the enheritaunce of the children of Israell remoue from tribe to tribe, when the children of Israell abyde euerye man in the enheritaunce of the tribe of his fathers. Num. xxvii.

And euery doughter that possesseth any enheritaunce in any tribe of the children of Israell, shall be wyfe vnto one which is of the kynred of the tribe of her father: that the children of Israell maye enioye euery man the enheritaunce of his father: Neyther ought the enheritaunce to go from one tribe to another: but euery one of the tribes of the children of Israell must abyde in 2 hys owne enheritaunce.

And as the LORDE commaunded Moses: euen so dyd the doughters of Zelaphead.

zelaphead. And Mahela, Thirza, Hagla, Milcha, and Noa were maried vnto their fathers brother sonnes, whiche were of the kynredde of the childzen of Manasses, the sonne of Joseph: and so their enheritaũce remayned in ỳ tribe of the kynred of their father.

These are the commaundementes and lawes whiche the LORD cõmaunded by the hande of Moses, vnto ỳ childzen of Israel in the feldes of Moab: by Jozdan, ouer against Jericho.

The ende of the fourth boke of Moses.

The fyfth booke of Moses, called in the Hebzue: Elleh addebarim, and in the Latin, Deuteronomium.

The.first Chapter.

A briefe rehersal of thinges done before.

THese be ỳ wozdes which Moses spake vnto all Israel, on ỳ other syde Jozdane in the wyldernesse: in the playne ouer against the red sea, betwene Pharam and Thophel, Laban, Hazerot, & Disahab, eleuen dayes iurney from Hozeb vnto Cades barne, by mount Seir. And it fortuned the firste daye of the eleuenth moneth, in the fortyeth yere, ỳ Moses spake vnto ỳ childzen of Israel accozdinge vnto all that ỳ LORD had geuen him in cõmaundement vnto them, after that he had smitten* Sehon the kyng of the Amozites which dwelte in Hesbon, and Og kyng of Basan whiche dwelt at Astarothe in Edzai. On the other syde Jozdan in the lande of Moab beganne Moses to declare this law, saying: the LORDE our GOD spake vnto vs in Hozeb, saying: ye haue dwelt long ynoughe in this mout, departe therfoze and take youre iourney, and goe vnto the hyll of the Amozites, and vnto all places nye therunto, both vnto the plaine and hylles and dales: to the south, to the seas syde, to the lande of Canaan, and vnto Libanon: euen vnto the greate ryuer Euphzates.

Beholde, I haue set that lande before you: go in and* possesse the lande whiche the LORD swate vnto your fathers Abzaham, Isahac and Jacob, to geue vnto them & their sede after them. And I spake vnto you the same season, saying: I am not able to beare you my selfe alone. Foz the LORDE your GOD hath multiplyed you: & beholde, ye are this daye as the starres of heauen in numbze (ỳ LORD GOD of your fathers make you a thousande tymes so manye mo as ye ar, and blesse you as he hathe promysed you how) can* I my selfe alone beare the cumbzaunce, charge and stryfe that is among you: bzyng (from among you) men of wysdome, & of vnderstanding, and experte, accozdyng to your trybes, and I wyll make them rulers ouer you.

And ye answered me and sayde: that which thou host spoken is good foz vs to doe. And out of your tribes I toke the captaynes, (men of wysdome, and that were expert) and made them rulers ouer you, captaynes ouer thousades and ouer hundzedes, ouer syfty and ouer ten, & officers amõg your trybes.

And I charged your Iudges that same tyme, saying: heare the cause of your bzethzen, and* iudge righteously betwene euery man and his bzother, & the straunger that is ỳ him. Se that ye knowe no faces in iudgement: * but heare the smal as wel as the great, and be afrayde of no man: foz the iudgemẽt is Goddes. And ỳ cause ỳ is to* harde foz you, bzing vnto me, and I wil heare it. And I cõmaunded you the same season, all the thinges whiche ye shoulde doe. And when we departed from Horeb, we went thozow all that great and terrible wildernesse, as ye haue sene, along be the way of the hyl of the Amozites, as the LORDE our GOD cõmaũded vs, and came to Cades Barne.

And I sayd vnto you: ye are come vnto the hil of the Amozites, which the LORD our GOD wil geue vnto vs. Beholde, the LORD thy GOD hath set the lande before the: go vp and conquer it, as ỳ LORD GOD of thy fathers hathe saide vnto the* feare not, nether be dismayed. But ye came vnto me euerye one and said: * we wil sende men before vs, to searche vs out the lande, & to bzing vs wozde agayne, what waye we must go vp by, & vnto what Cyties we shall come. And the sayinge pleased me wel: and I toke twelue men of you, of euery tribe one. Whiche departed, and went vp into the hye countrey, & came vnto the ryuer Eschol, & searched it out, and toke of the frute of the lande: (to declare the plenteousnesse thereof) in their han-des, and brought it vnto vs, & brought vs worde againe, and sayd: it is a good lande, whiche the LORDE oure GOD dothe geue vs.

Notwithstandinge, ye wolde not cõsent to go vp, but were disobedient vnto the mouth of the LORD your GOD, and murmured in your tentes, and said: because ỳ LORD hateth vs, therfore hath he brought vs out of the lãde of Egipt, to deliuer vs into the hande of ỳ Amorites, and to destroy vs. Howe shall we go vp: Our brethren haue discouraged Num. 13.d our hertes, saying: *the people is greater & taller then we, & haue cities great and walled euen vp to Heauen, & more-ouer we haue sene the sonnes of the Enakims there. And I sayde vnto you:
drede not, nor be afrayd of them. The LORDE youre GOD whiche goeth before you, he shall fyght e for you, accordynge to all that he dyd vnto you in Egipt before your eyes. In the wildernesse also thou haste sene howe that the LORDE thy GOD bare the, euen as a man doth beare his sonne, in all ỳ way which ye haue gone by, vntyll ye came vnto this place. And yet in this thing ye dyd not beleue ỳ LORD youre God. He went in the waye before you to searche you out a place to pitche your tentes in,

and. 27. c. LORDE was angry with me, lykewise for youre sakes, saying: thou also shalt not go in thyther. But Josua the sonne of Nun whyche standeth before thee, he shall go in thyther. Bolden him therfore, for he shall cause Israell to inherit the lande. *Moreouer, your Nu.
childrẽ which ye said should be a pray, & your sonnes whiche in that day had no knowledge betwene good and euel, they shal go in thyther, and vnto them wil I geue it, & they shal enioy it. But as for you, turne youre face, and take your iourney into the wildernesse: euen by the waye of the red sea. Then ye answerred & sayde vnto me: * we haue Nu. synned against the LORD, we wilgo vp and fyght, accordig to al that ỳ LORD Iud. 3. d our GOD commaunded vs.

And when ye had gyrde on euery mã G

LORD sayde vnto me: saye vnto them Ge. 14. d that they go not vp, and that they fighte not, for I am not amõg you: lest ye fal before your enemyes. I tolde you therfore, & ye wolde not heare, but disobeyed the mouth of the LORDE, & went presumpteously vp into the hyl. And the Amorites which dwelt in ỳ hil came out against you, and chased you (as bees vse to do) and smote you in Seir, euen vnto Horma. And ye came againe, and wepte before the LORDE: but ỳ LORD woulde not heare your voyce nor geue Nu.
you audyence. * And so ye abode in Cades a long season, accordinge vnto the tyme that ye remayned in other places.

The. ii. Chapter.

That whiche was done from the tyme they departed from Cades barne, vnto the battel against the kynges Sehon and Og. I

Then we * turned our face, & toke Nu.
our iourney into ỳ wyldernesse, euen by ỳ way of the red sea, as ỳ LORD spake vnto me. And we compassed mount Seir a long tyme. And the LORD spake vnto me, sayinge, ye haue cõpassed this mountaine lõg ynoughe, turne you northwarde. And warne thou the people, sayinge: ye shal go tho-rowe the coast of your brethrẽ the children of Esau whiche dwel in Seir, and they shall be afrayed of you: Take ye good hede vnto youre selues therfore.
ye shal not prouoke them, for I wil not Gen.

parted from our brethren, the childzen of Esau which dwelt in Seir, ỳ playne waye from Elath and from Ezion Ga-gainst the Moabites, neyther prouoke whiche also were take for giauntes as the Enakims: whom the Moabites cal Emims. The Horims dwelt in Seir before tyme, whose possession the chyl-dzen of Esau occupyed, and destroyed them before them, and dwelte in theyr

D was against them, to destroy them frõ amonge the hoste, tyll they were consumed. And so it came to passe, that al the men of warre were consumed & dead from among the people. And ỳ LORDE spake vnto me, saying: Thou shalte go thorowe Ar, the cost of Moab this day:
and when thou commest nye vnto the childzen of Ammon, ỳ shalt not lay sege vnto thẽ, nor moue warre against them.
For I wyll not geue the of the lãde of the childzen of Ammon a possession: but I haue geuen it vnto the childzen of Loth to possesse. That also is taken for a lande of gyauntes, & gyauntes dwelt Num.21.f. therin in olde tyme whome the Ammo-nites call Zamzummims,* a people that was greate, many and tall, as the Enakims. But the LORDE destroyed thẽ before thẽ, and they succeded them in the inheritaunce & dwelte in theyr steade: as he dyd for the childzen of Esau* whiche dwelt in Seir whẽ he de- Gen.36.b. stroyed ỳ Horims before them: they cõquered their possession, & dwelt in their steade vnto this daye. And the Auims which dwelt in Hazarim euẽ vnto Aza, the Caphthorims whiche came out of Caphthor destroyed them, and dwelt in theyr steade.

Ryse vp therfore, and take your iour- E haue geuen into thy hande Sehon ỳ A-morite kyng of Hesbõ, and his lande.

Go to therfore and conquer, & prouoke him to battell. This daye wyll I be-gynne to sende the feare & dzend of the,
vpon all nations that are vnder al the heuen: so that they which heare speake of the shal tremble & quake before thee.
And so I sent messengers out of ỳ wil-dernes of Kedmoth vnto Sehon kyng of Hesbõ, with wordes of peace, saying: Num.21.b
*I wil go thorowe thy lande, I wil go Deu.2.d a longe by the hye waye: I wil neyther F turne vnto ỳ right hande nor to ỳ leste.
Thou shalt sell me meate for money for to eate, and geue me dzynke for money for to dzynke: Onely graunt me, ỳ
I may go thorow on my fote (as ỳ childzen of Esau whiche dwelt in Seir, & the Moabites whiche dwel in Ar, dyd vnto me) vntyl I be come ouer Iordan, into the lande whiche the LORDE our GOD geueth vs. But Sehon the kyng of Hesbon woulde not let vs passe by him, for the LORD thy GOD hardened his spzete, & made his hert toughe, because he woulde delyuer him into thy hande, as it is come to passe this daye.
And ỳ LORD said vnto me: beholde, I G haue begon to set Sehon & his lãde before the: go to and conquere, & possesse his lande.* Then both Sehon & all his Num.21.f people came out against vs to fyght at Deu.29.d Iaza. And the LORD set him before vs, & we smote him & his sons & al his people. And we toke al his cities the, same season, & slewe ỳ men, wemen, & childzen of al ỳ cities, & let nothig remaine, saue
the cattel, only we caught vnto our selnes & the spoyle of ỳ cyties whiche we toke from Aroer which is by ỳ bzynke of ỳ riuer of Arnon, & from the citie ỳ is in ỳ ryuer, vnto Gilead: there was not one citie to strõg for vs. The LORD our GOD delyuered al vnto vs: onely vnto the lande of the childrē of Ammon thou camest not, nor vnto euery place of the ryuer Jabok, nor vnto the cities in the mountaynes, nor vnto whatsoeuer the LORDE our GOD forbad vs.

¶ The.iii. Chapter.

Thinges that chaunsed from the victorye of the two kynges Sehon and Og, vnto the institucion of Iesue in Moses steade.

A Num.21.g. Deut.2.b. THen we turned & wēt vp ꝑ waye to Basā.* And Og the kynge of Basan came out against vs, he & al his people to battel at Edrai. And ꝑ LORDE said vnto me: feare him not, for I wil deliuer him, and al his people, & his lande into thy hande, and thou shalt do vnto him, as thou dydest vnto Sehō kynge of the Amorites, whiche dwelte at Hesbon. And so the LORD our GOD deliuered into our handes, Og also the kynge of Basan, and all his folke. And we smote him, vntil none was left hym alyue. And we toke al his cities ꝑ same ceasō (neyther was there a cytie which we toke not from them) euen thre score cities thorow out al the region of Argob, the kyngdome of Og in Basan. Al these cities also were made strong wt hye walles, gates and barres, beside vnwalled townes a great many. And we vtterly destroyed them, as we dyd vnto Sehon king of Hesbon, brynging to nought all the cities, with men, wemen, & childrē. But al ꝑ catel & ꝑ spoyle of ꝑ cities, we caught for our selues.

B And thus we toke ꝑ same ceason, out of the hande of two kinges of the Amorites, the lande that was on the other syde Jordan from the ryuer of Arnon vnto mount Hermon (whych Hermon the Sidons cal Sirion, and the Amorites call it Senir) al the cyties ꝑ laye in the playne, & al Gilead and al Basan vnto Salecha & Edrai, cities of ꝑ kingdome of Og in Basā. For only Og king of Basan remayned of the remnaunt of the gyantes, whose bed was a bed of yron. And is it not yet at Rabah among the chyldrē of Ammō? ix. cubites doeth the length therof cōteine, and foure cubytes the bredth of it after the cubyte of a mā. And so we conquered this lāde the same tyme, from Aroer which is by the ryuer of Arnon, vnto halfe mounte m 11.f 1.27.b. L.20.b Gilead,* and the cyties ther of gaue I vnto the Rubenites and Gaddites.

And the reste of Gilead and all Basan of the kyngdome of Og, gaue I vnto the halfe tribe of Manasse: euen al the region of Argob wyth al Basan: which is called the lande of gyauntes. Iair the sonne of Manasse toke al the region of Argob, vnto the coastes of Gesuri and Maachati, and called them after his owne name: Basan Hauoth Iair vnto thys daye. And I gaue Gilead vnto Machir.

C And vnto ꝑ Rubenites & Gaddites I gaue halfe Gilead vnto ꝑ ryuer of Arnon, halfe the valey and beyonde, euen vnto the ryuer of Jaboch, which is the border of the childrē of Ammon: the playne also (of the wildernesse) and Jordan & the coste therof, from Cenereth euen vnto the sea whiche is in the playne, euen the salte sea vnder the sprynges of the hil, eastwarde.* And I commaunded you the same tyme, saying: ꝑ LORD your GOD hath geuen you this lande to enioy it: ye shall go harnessed before your brethren ꝑ childrē of Israel, al ꝑ are mete for the war. your wiues only, your childrē, & your catell (for I wote that ye haue muche catel) shal abyde in your cities, which I haue geuen you, vntil the LORD haue geuen reste vnto your brethren as wel as vnto you, and vntil they also haue conquered ꝑ lāde, whiche the LORD your GOD hath geuen them beyonde Jordan: & then shal ye retourne againe, euery mā vnto his possession whiche I haue geuen you.

D * And I warned Iosua ꝑ same time, saying: thine eyes haue sene al that the LORD your GOD hath done vnto these two kynges, euen so shal he do vnto all kingdoms whither thou goest, ye shall not feare them, for ꝑ LORD your GOD, he shall fight for you. And I besought ꝑ LORD the same time, sayinge: O LORDE GOD, thou hast begonne to shewe thy seruaunt thy greatnesse and thy mightie hande, for elles where is there a GOD in heauen or in earth, that can do after thy workes, & after thy powers? let me go ouer & se ꝑ good lāde ꝑ is beyonde Jordan, that goodly mountayne, and Libanon.

* But the LORD was angrye wyth me for your sakes, & wouldē not heare me. And the LORDE sayde vnto me: be cōtent, speake nomore vnto me of this matter. * Get ꝑ vp into the top of the hyll, hyll,and lyft vp thyne eyes weſtwarde, northwarde,ſouthwarde, & eſtewarde, and beholde it wt thyne eyes, for thou ſhalt not go ouer this Iordan. But charge Ioſua:and corage him,& bolden hun.*For he ſhal go before this people, and he ſhall deuyde vnto them the lãde whiche thou ſhalte ſe.And ſo we abode in the valley ouer againſte the houſe of Peor.

Specially the day that thou ſtodeſt before the LORDE thy GOD in Horeb, when the LORD ſayde vnto me:gather me ỹ people together,& I wil make the heare my wordes,that they may lerne to feare me all the dayes that they ſhal lyue vpon ỹ earth*and that they maye teache their children: ye came*& ſtode alſo vnder the hyl,and the hil burnt wt fyre:euen vnto the myddes of heuen, & there was darckneſſe,cloudes,& myſt. And the LORDE ſpake vnto you out of the myddes of the fire,and ye heard the voyce of the wordes * but ſawe no Image,ſaue heard a voice onely.And he declared vnto you his couenaũt which he commaunded you to do,euẽ ten verſes which he wrote vpon two tables of ſtone.And the LORDE cõmaunded me that ſame ſeaſon,that I ſhoulde teache you ordinaunces and lawes,whiche ye ought to do in the lande whyther ye go to poſſeſſe it.

Take therefore good hede vnto your ſelues,as pertayning to youre ſoules, for ye ſaw no maner of ymage in ỹ day that the LORDE ſpake vnto you in Horeb out of the middes of the fyre:leſt ye marre your ſelues & make you a grauẽ ymage,and picture of any maner of fygure:ỹ likeneſſe of man or woman,the lykeneſſe of any maner of beaſte that is on earthe, or the lykeneſſe of any maner fethered foule that flyeth in the ayre, of the lykeneſſe of any maner worme that crepeth on the earth, or the lykeneſſe of any maner fiſhe that is in ỹ waters beneth ỹ earthe.*yea and leſt thou lyfte vp thyne eyes vnto heauen, and when thou ſeeſt the ſunne the mone and ſtarres with all the hoſte of heauẽ,ſhouldeſt be deceyued, & ſhouldeſt worſhip & ſerue the thinges,which the LORDE thy*GOD hathe made to ſerue al nacions vnder ỹ whole heauen,

But ỹ Lorde hath takẽ you & brought you out of the yron fornace:euen out of Egipt, to be vnto him a people & enheritaũce as ye be this daye. Furthermore the LORDE was angry with me for youre ſakes, and ſware ỹ I ſhoulde not go ouer Iordan,and that I ſhould not go in vnto that good lande, whiche ỹ LORDE thy GOD geueth to the to enheritaũce.*But I muſte dye in this lande,and ſhal not go ouer Iordã.But ye ſhal go ouer,and cõquere that good lande.Take hede vnto your ſelues, ỹ ye forget not the appointmente of the LORDE your GOD which he made wt you, & þ ye make you no graue ymage, or any picture that the Lorde thy God Lyth.26. hath forbydden the. *For the LORDE thy GOD is a consumynge fyre, and a gelouse GOD.

If thou doest beget childrē & childrēs childrē, and when ye haue dwelte in Jere.4.1. the lāde, ye do wickedly, and make any maner of grauen * ymage, and worke euel in þ sight of the LORD thy GOD, to prouoke him to angre, I cal Heauen and earth to recorde againste you this daye, that ye shal shortly perysshe from
of the lande, whither ye go ouer Jordā to possesse it: ye shal not prolonge your dayes therin, but shall vtterlye be destroyed. And the LORD shal scater you among the nacions, and ye shalbe lefte fewe in numbre among þ people, why-ther the Lord shal bring you: and there ye shall serue goddes whiche are the worke of mans hande, woode & stone,
C whiche neither se, nor heare, nor eate,
Deu.10.2. nor smell. * And there thou shalt seke þ Jere.29.4. LORD thy GOD: and shalt fynde hym, yf thou seke him wt all thyne herte, & wt al thy soule. When thou art in tribulacion, & when al these thinges (that be here spoken of) are come vpon the euen in the later dayes, thou shalt retourne againe to the LORD thy GOD, and be obedyent vnto his voice. For þ LORDE Leui.26.3. thy GOD is a mercyful God: he wil not forsake the, nether destroy the * nor forget the appoyntmente of thy fathers, whiche he sware vnto them.

For aske of the dayes that are paste, which were before the, sence þ day that GOD created mā vpō þ earthe, & (aske) from þ one syde of Heauen vnto the other, yf euer there came to passe suche
a great thinge, or whether anye suche lyke thing hath bene hearde. Dyd euer a nacion heare the voyce of GOD speakyng out of þ myddes of a fyre, as thou hast hearde, and yet liued (eyther whether GOD assayed to go and take him a people from among nacions thorow temptacions, sygnes, wonders, warre,
Ps.136.b. a mighty hande, a * stretched out arme, & thorowe greate syghtes, accordynge vnto al þ the LORDE your GOD dyd vnto you in Egipt before your eyes?

Unto the it was shewed, that thou
E mightest knowe, how that the LORDE
he is GOD, and that there is none o-20.19.c ther but he. * Out of Heuē he made the heare his voice, þ he might nourtoure the, & vpō earth he shewed þ his great fire, and thou heardest his wordes out of the myddes of þ fyre. And because he loued thy fathers, he chose their sede after them, and brought the out in hys syght, and with his mightye power out of * Egipt: to thrust out nacions great En.
and mightier then thou, before the, and to bringe the in, and to geue the their lande to enheritaunce: as it is come to passe this daye.

Understande therfore this day, and tourne it to thine herte, that þ LORD, he is GOD in heauen aboue, & vpon þ earthe beneth: neyther is there any other. Thou shalt kepe therfore his ordinaunces, & his cōmaundemētes which I commaunde the this daye, þ it maye go wel with the and with thy children after the, and that thou mayst prolong thy dayes vpon the earth, whiche the LORD thy GOD geueth the thy lyfe longe. * Then Moses seuered thre citi- G es on the other side Jordan toward the sunne rising: þ he shoulde flye thyther, whiche had kylled his neyghboure vn-wares, & hated him not in tyme paste, & therfore should flye vnto one of þ same cityes, and lyue: Namely Bezer in the wyldernesse: euen in the playne coūtrey of the tribe of Ruben: and Ramothe in Gilead of the tribe of Gad, and Golan in Basan of the tribe of Manasse.

And so this is the lawe whiche Moses set before þ childrē of Jsrael. These are þ witnesse, statutes, & ordinaūces, whiche Moses tolde the childrē of Js-rael after they came out of Egipt, on þ other syde Jordan, in the baley ouer against the house of Peor, in the lande of Sehon king of the Amorites, which dwelt at Hesbon: whom Moses and þ childrē of Jsrael * smote, after they were come out of Egipt, and cōquered his lande, and the lande of Og, kynge of Basan: two kinges of the Amorites, whiche were on the other syde Jordan towarde the sunne rising: from Aroer which is by the banke of the ryuer Ar-non, vnto Mount Sion: which is Hermon, and al the plaine on the other side Jordā estward: euē vnto þ sea, which is in þ playne vnder the sprynges of þ hyl.

¶ The. v Chapter.

The ten commaundementes.

And

I And Moses called al Israel, & said vnto them. Heare O Israel the ordinaũces & lawes which I speake in youre eares this daye, that ye maye learne them, and fulfyl them in dede. The LORDE oure GOD made an appoyntment wt vs in Horeb. The LORD made not this bonde with our fathers, but with vs: euen with vs, whiche are al here alyue this daye. The LORDE talked with you face to face in ỹ mouñt, out of the myds of the fyre. And I stode betwene the LORDE and you the same tyme, and shewed you the worde of the Lorde. For ye were afrayde at ỹ syght of the fyre, & went not vp into ỹ mount, and he saide: * I am ỹ LORD thy GOD, which brought the out of ỹ lãd of Egipt frõ ỹ house of bõdage. Thou shalt haue none other goddes in my presence.

* Thou shalt make the no grauen ymage of any maner of lykenesse that is in heauen aboue, and that is in ỹ earth beneth, and ỹ is in ỹ waters beneth the earth. Thou shalt neither bow thy selfe vnto thẽ, nor serue them, for I ỹ LORD thy GOD, am a gelouse GOD, visityng the wickednesse of ỹ fathers vpõ ỹ children, euen in the thirde and fourthe generatiõ among them that hate me: and shewe mercye vpon thousandes amõg them that loue me, and kepe my Commaundementes. * Thou shalt not take ỹ name of ỹ LORD thy GOD in vayne: for the LORD wyll not holde him guiltlesse, that taketh his name in vayne.

Kepe the Sabboth day, ỹ thou sanctifie it, as ỹ LORD thy GOD hath cõmaũded the. * Syx dayes thou shalt laboure & do al that thou hast to do, but ỹ * seuẽth day is ỹ Sabboth of ỹ Lord thy GOD: thou shalt not do any worke, thou and thy sonne, thy doughter, thy seruaunte, and thy mayde, thyne ore & thyne asse, and al thy cattel, and the straũger that is within thy gates, that thy seruaunt and thy maide may rest as wel as thou. Remember that thou wast a seruaunt in the lande of Egipt, and how that the LORD thy GOD brought the out thẽce thorowe * a mightie hãde & a stretched out arme. For whiche cause ỹ LORDE thy GOD commaunded the to kepe the Sabboth daye.

* Honour thy father and thy mother, as ỹ LORD thy GOD hath commaũded the: that thy dayes may be prolonged, and ỹ it maye goe well wt the in ỹ lãde, whiche the LORD thy God geueth the.

* Thou shalt not slay.

* Thou shalt not breake wedlocke.

* Thou shalt not steale.

* Thou shalt not beare false wytnes against thy neighboure.

* Thou shalt not lust after thy neighbours wife, ỹ shalt not couet thy neighbours house, his feide, his seruaunt, or his mayde, his ore, his asse, or oughte ỹ thy neighbour hath. These wordes the LORD spake vnto al your multitude in the mounte out of the myddes of ỹ fire, cloude and darkenesse, with a greate voyce, and added nomore thereto, and wrote them in two tables of stone, & delyuered them vnto me.

C And it fortuned, that when ye heard the voyce out of the middes of ỹ darkenesse, & saw that ỹ hil did burne wt fyre, ye came vnto me with the captaynes of your trybes and your elders, & ye saide: beholde, the Lorde our GOD hath shewed vs his glorye & his greatnes, and * we haue hearde his voyce out of the myddes of ỹ fire: we haue sene this day that GOD doth talke with a man, and he yet lyueth. Nowe therfore, why should we dye ỹ this great fyre should consume vs: yf we heare the voyce of ỹ LORD our GOD any more, we shal die. For what fleshe hath it bene, that euer hearde the voyce of the lyuyng GOD speakyng out of the myddes of ỹ fyre (as we haue done) and yet did lyue: Go thou and heare al ỹ ỹ LORD our GOD sayth, and tell thou vnto vs al that the LORD our GOD sayeth vnto the, * and we wyll heare it and do it.

D And the LORD heard ỹ voice of your wordes, whẽ ye spake vnto me, and the LORD said vnto me: I haue hearde the voyce of ỹ wordes of this people, which they haue spokẽ vnto the: they haue wel sayde all that they haue spoken. * Oh that there were suche an harte in them that they woulde feare me, and kepe al my commaundementes alwaye, that it might go wel with them, & wt theyr children for euer. Go and say vnto thẽ: get you into your tentes againe but stande thou here by me, and I wil tell the all the commaundementes, ordynaunces, and lawes, which thou shalt teache them, that they may do them in the lande whiche I geue thē to possesse. Take hede therfore, ꝓ ye do in dede as the LORDE your GOD hath commaūded you, & *turne not a syde eyther to ꝓ right hande or to the lefte, but walke in all the wayes whiche the LORDE your GOD hath commaunded you, ꝓ ye may lyue, and that it may go wel with you, and that ye may prolong your dayes in the lande whiche ye shal possesse.

Deu.17.d.

The.vi. Chapter.

The lawe of God may not be forgotten.

I THese are the commaundemētes, ordinaunces, and lawes, which ꝓ LORDE your GOD commaūded me to teache you, that ye might do thē in the lāde: whither ye go to possesse it: namely, that thou mightest * feare the LORDE thy GOD, and kepe all his ordinaunces & commaundemētes which I commaunde the: thou and thy sonne, and thy sonnes sonne all dayes of thy lyfe, that thy dayes may be prolonged. Heare therefore, O Israell, & take hede that thou do therafter, that it maye go wel with the, and that ye may encrease mightely, euen as the LORDE GOD of thy fathers hath promysed the a lande, that floweth with mylke and hony.

Deut.10.c

B Heare O Israel, the LORDE our GOD is LORDE onely, and * thou shalt loue the LORD thy GOD with al thyne harte, and with all thy soule, and with all thy mighte. * And these wordes which I commaund ꝓ this day, shalbe in thyne hart, and thou shalte shew thē vnto thy children, & shalt talke of them when thou art at home in thyne house, and as thou walkest by the waye, and when thou lyest downe, and when thou rysest vp: and thou shalt bynde them for a sygne vpon thyne hande. And they shalbe warnynges betwene thine eies, and thou shalt wryte thē vpon ꝓ postes of thy house, and vpon thy gates.

And when the LORDE thy GOD hath brought the into the lande, whiche he sware vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Isahac, and Iacob, and geueth the greate and goodly cities which thou buildedst not, houses full of all maner of goods which thou fylledst not, and welys dygged which thou dyggedst not, vineyardes & olyue trees which thou plantedst not, & when thou hast eaten & arte full: Thē beware lest thou forget ꝓ LORDE, whiche brought the oute of the lande of Egipt, from the house of bondage.

C Deu.

* Thou shalt feare the LORDE thy GOD, and serue him, and sweare by his name. Se ꝓ ye walke not after straūge goddes: the goddes of ꝓ nacions which are about you. For ꝓ LORD thy GOD is a gelouse God among you: leest the countenaunce of the LORDE thy GOD be moued to wrath against the, and destroye the from of the earthe. * ye shall not tempte the LORDE your GOD, as ye dyd in the temptacion. But kepe the commaundementes of the LORD your GOD, and his wytnesses, and his ordynaunces which he hath commaunded the, and thou shalte doe that whiche is right and good in ꝓ sighte of ꝓ LORD, that thou mayste prospere, and ꝓ thou maiest go in, and conquere that good lande which the LORD sware vnto thy fathers, to caste out all thyne enemyes before the, as the Lorde hath sayde.

Dn.4.D

* And whē thy sonne asketh the in time to come, sayinge: what meaneth these witnesses, ordinaūces, & lawes, whiche the LORDE our GOD hath commaunded you: Then thou shalt saye vnto thy sonne: we were Pharaos bondmen in Egipt, and the LORD brought vs out of Egipt with a mightye hande. And ꝓ LORDE shewed sygnes and wonders, great & euel vpon Egipt, vpon Pharao and vpon all his houshold, before our eyes, but brought vs oute from thence: to bringe vs in, and to geue vs the lāde whiche he sware vnto our fathers. And he hathe commaunded vs, to do all these ordinaunces, and to feare the LORDE our GOD, for oure welth, al the dayes of our lyfe, as it is come to passe this day. Moreouer, this shall be oure righteousnesse before the LORDE oure God, yf we take hede & kepe al these cōmaūdemēts, as he hath cōmaūded vs.

The.vii. Chapter.

The Israelytes may make no couenaunt with the Gentyles. They must destroy their Idolles. Idolaters must be slayne.

I WHen ꝓ LORDE thy GOD hath brought the into the lāde whither thou goest to possesse it, & hath cast out many nacions before the: namely the Hethites, the Gergesites, the Amorites, the Cananites, the Pherezites, the Hewites and the Iebusites cheubusites, seuen nacyons greater and myghtyer then thou, * and when the LORDE thy GOD hath sette them before the, thou shalte smyte the,

and vtterlye destroye them, and make no couenaunte with them, nor haue compassyon on them. Thou shalte make no maryages with them, nether geue thy doughter vnto his sonne, nor take his doughter vnto thy sonne. For they will dysceyue thy sonne that he shoulde not feare me, & they shal serue straunge goddes, and then will the wrathe of the LORDE ware whote a-gaynste you, and destroye you shortly.

But thus ye shall deale with the:
* ye shall ouerthrowe theyr aultars, and breake downe theyr pyllers, smyte downe their groues, and burne theyr grauen ymages with fyre. * For thou art an holy nacion vnto the LORD thy GOD: * the LORDE thy GOD hath chosen thee, to be a seuerall people vnto himselfe, aboue al nacyons that are vpon the earth. It was not because of the multitude of you aboue all nacyons, that the LORDE hathe luste vnto you, and chose you, seynge ye were fewest of all nacyons. But because the LORD loued you, & because he wouldе kepe the * othe which he had sworne vnto your fathers, therfore hath the LORD brought you oute of Egipte thorowe a myghtye hande, and delyuered you out of the house of bondage: euen from the hande of Pharao kyng of Egipte.

Understande therfore, that the LORD thy God he is God, and that a trewe God * whych kepeth appointment and mercy vnto them that loue hym & kepe his cõmaũdementes, euen thorowout a thousande generacions, and rewar-deth them that hate him before his face so that he bryngeth them to noughte, and doeth not delarre the tyme, but re-wardeth him that hateth him, before hys face. Kepe thou therfore the cõmaunmentes, and ordynaunces and lawes, whych I cõmaunde the thys day, that thou do them.

* yf ye herken vnto these lawes, & obserue and do them, the LORDE thy God also shall kepe vnto thee the ap-poyntment, and the mercy whyche he sware vnto thy fathers. He will loue the, and blesse the, and multiplye thee:
he will also blesse the frute of thy wõbe,
and the frute of thy lande, thy corne, thy wyne, and thyne oyle, & the encrease of thine oxen, & the flockes of thy shepe, in the lande, whych he sware vnto thy fathers to geue the. Thou shalte be blessed aboue al nacions: there shalbe neyther man nor woman vnfrutful amonge you, nor any thynge vnfrutfull amonge your cattell. Moreouer, the LORDE will * take awaye from thee, all maner infyrmities, and will putte none of the euell dyseases of * Egypte (whiche thou knowest) vpon thee, but will sende them vpon all them that hate thee.

Thou shalt consume al the nacyons whiche the LORDE thy GOD shall de-liuer thee: thyne eye shall haue no pyt-tie vpon them, neither shalt thou serue theyr goddes, for that shalbe thy decaye. yf thou saye in thyne harte: these nacyons are mo then I, howe can I caste them out: * Thou shalt not feare them, but remembre what the LORDE thy GOD dyd vnto Pharao, and vnto all Egypte: the greate temptacyons whyche thyne eyes sawe, and the syg-nes and wonders, and the myghty hand and stretched out arme, wherthorow
the LORDE thy GOD brought the out, euen so shall the LORDE thy GOD do vnto al the nacyons, of whom thou art afrayde. * Moreouer, the LORDE thy GOD will sende hornettes among the vntyll they that are lefte, & hyde themselues from the, be destroyed. Thou shalte not feare them, for the LORDE thy GOD is amonge you a myghtye GOD: and a terryble. For the LORDE thy GOD will put oute these nacyons before the by a litle and a lytle: * thou mayste not consume them at once, leest
the beastes of the felde encrease vpon thee.

But the LORDE thy GOD shal geue them ouer before thee, and shal destroy them with a myghtye tempeste, vntyll
he haue brought them to naughte.
* And he shall deliuer their kinges into thyne hande, and thou shalt destroy their name from vnder heuen. There shall no man be able to stande before thee, vntill thou haue destroyed them.
The grauen ymages of theyr goddes shalte thou burne with fire, and * couet not the golde and siluer that is on the,
nor take it vnto thee, lest thou be snared therin. For it is an abhominacyon before the LORD thy GOD. Bryng not therefore abhominacyon into thyne house: lest thou be a damned thyng, as it is: but vtterly defye it, & abhorre it, for it is a dampned thynge.

¶ The. viii. Chapter.

Moses putteth the Israelites in remembrance what God hath done to them in the wylderne

¶ ALl the commaundementes which I commaunde the this daye, shall ye kepe for to do them, that ye may lyue, and multiply, and go in, and possesse the lande which the LORD sware vnto your fathers. And thou shalte thynke on all the waye which ỹ LORD thy GOD led thee this foretye yere in ỹ wylderneſſe, for to humble thee: and to proue thee, and to were what was in thyne hearte, whither thou wouldest kepe hys commaundementes or no.

Exod. 16. Num. 11. He *humbled thee, and suffered thee to hunger, and fed thee w Manna, which neyther thou nor thy fathers knew of,

Mat. 4. to make thee knowe, that * a man doth not lyue by breade onelye: but by euery (worde) that proceadeth oute of the mouth of the LORDE, doeth a man

B lyue. * Thy raymente wared not olde Deut. 29. vpon thee: neyther dyd thy fote swell those foretye yeres.

This also shalte thou consyder in thyne hearte, that as a man nurtereth his sonne, euen so the LORD thy GOD nurtereth thee. Therfore shalte thou kepe the commaundementes of the LORDE thy GOD, that thou walke in his wayes, and feare hym. For the LORDE thy GOD bryngeth thee into a good lande, a lande in the whiche are ryuers of water, and fountaynes, and sprynges that sprynge out of valeys & hylles: a lande wherin is wheate and barley, vineyardes, fygtrees, and pomgranates: a lande wherin is oyle olyue and honey: a lande wherin thou shalte eate breade without skarcenes, neyther shalte thou lacke anye thynge: a Deut. 8. lande * whose stones are yron, and out of whose hilles thou shalt digge brasse. When thou haste eaten therefore & fylled thy selfe, thou shalt bielle ỹ LORD thy GOD in that good lande, whiche he hath geuen the.

C Beware that thou forgette not the LORD thy GOD, that thou wouldest not kepe hys commaundementes, hys lawes and his ordynaūces whiche I commaunde thee this daye: * yea, and Num. 15. when thou haste eaten and fylled thy selfe, and haste buylte goodlye houses and dwelt therin, & when thy beastes, and thy shepe are waredmany, and thy syluer and golde is multiplyed, and all that thou haste is encreased, then beware lest thyne hert ryse, and thou forget ỹ LORD thy God, which broughte the out of the lande of Egypte, and frō the house of bondage, and whiche was thy gyde in the greate and terryble wylderneſſe (wherein were) fyrye serpentes, scorpyons, and drouthe wythoute any water. But he broughte onte water for thee, euen out of the rocke of flynte: he fed thee in the wyldernes wt Manna, which thy fathers knew not, euen for to humble thee, and to proue thee, & that he myghte so do thee good at thy latter ende. Lest thou shouldest D saye in thyne hert, * my power and the Esa. myghte of myne owne hande hath prepared me this abundance: But remēbre the LORD thy GOD, howe that it is he whiche geueth thee power to get substaunce, for to make good the promyse which he sware vnto thy fathers, as this daye doeth wytnesse.

And yf thou forget the LORDE thy Deut. 4. GOD, and walke after straūge* gods, and serue them, and worshyp them, I testifye vnto you thys day that ye shal surely perysshe. As the nacyons which the LORDE destroyeth before you, euē so ye shall perysshe because ye wouldē not be obedyente vnto the voyce of the LORDE your GOD.

¶ The. ix Chapter.

They are forbydden to trust in their own strength

¶ HEare O Israell, thou passest o- I uer Jordan this daye, to go in, and conquer nacyons, greater and myghtier then thy selfe: Cytyes greate and walled vp to heuen, a * peo- Num. 13. ple greate and tal, euen the childzen of the Enakims, which thou knowest of, and of whom thou hast heard say, who wyll stande before the childzen of Enacke. Understande therfore this day, that the LORDE thy GOD is euen he whiche goeth ouer before the, as a (deuouryng and) a consumynge fyre he shall destroye them, and he shall bryng them downe before thy face. He shall caste them out and bryngē them to naughte quyckely

quyckely, as the LORDE hathe sayde vnto thee. Speake not thou in thyne herte, after that the LORDE thy GOD hath cast them out before thee, saying: for my ryghteousnes the LORDE hath brought me in, to possesse this lande. Naye: but for the wickednesse of these nacyons the LORDE hath caste them out before thee. It is not for thy righteousnes sake, or for thy ryght hearte, that thou goest to possesse their lande.

* But for the wyckednesse of these nacyons, the LORDE thy GOD doeth cast them oute before thee, euen to performe the worde whyche the LORDE thy GOD sware vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Isahac, and Iacob.

Vnderstande therefore that it is not for thy ryghteousnesse sake, that the LORDE thy GOD doeth geue thee this good land to possesse it, seing thou arte a styfnecked people. Remembre & forget not, howe thou prouokedst the LORDE thy GOD in the wyldernes, sence the daye that thou dydest depart oute of the lande of Egypte vntyll ye came vnto thys place: ye haue rebelled agaynste the LORDE. *Also in Horeb ye angred the LORDE, so that the LORDE was wroth with you, euen to haue destroyed you, when I was gone vp in to the mount, to receaue ỳ tables of stone, the tables of appoyntmeute, whiche the LORDE made with you. And I abode in the hyll foretye dayes & foretye nyghtes, when I nether did eat breade nor dranke water. *And the LORD deliuered me two tables of stone wrytten with ỳ fynger of GOD, and in them was accordynge to all ỳ wordes whiche the LORDE sayd vnto you in the mounte, out of the myddest of ỳ fyre in the daye of the gatherynge together.

And when the foretye dayes and foretye nyghtes were ended, the LORDE gaue me the two tables of stone, ỳ tables of the couenaunt, and the LORDE sayd vnto me. *Up, and get the downe quyckelye from hence, for thy people which thou hast brought out of Egipt, haue marred all. They are tourned attonce out of the waye, whiche I commaunded them, and haue made them a molten ymage. Furthermore, the LORDE spake vnto me, saying: I haue sene this people, and beholde it is a stynecked people, let me alone, that I maye destroye them, and put oute the name of them from vnder heauen, and I wyll make of thee a myghtie nacyon and greater then they be.

And I turned me, and came downe from the hyll (euen from the hyll that burnt with fyre) and the two tables of the appoyntment were in my handes. And I loked, and beholde: ye had synned agaynst the LORDE your GOD, and had made you a molten calfe, and had turned attonce oute of the waye whiche the LORDE had commaunded you. *And I toke the two tables and caste them out of my two handes, and brake them before your eyes. *And I fell downe flatte before the LORDE, euen as at the fyrst tyme: & foretye dayes, and foretye nyghtes I dyd neyther eat breade nor drynke water, because of all youre synnes, whiche ye synned: in doynge wyckedlye in the syghte of the LORDE, in that ye prouoked him vnto wrathe. For I was afrayed that for ỳ wrath and fearfulnesse wherewith the LORDE was moued agaynste you, he woulde haue destroyed you. But the LORDE hearde me at that time also.

The Lorde was verye angry wyth Aaron also cuẽ to haue destroyed him, and I made intercessyon for Aaron also the same tyme. And I toke your synne the calfe whiche ye had made, & burnt him with fyre, and stamped him and grounde hym a good, euen vnto small duste, And I caste the dust therof into the broke, that descended out of the mounte. Also at the burnynge at the temptacyon, and at the sepulchres of lust ye angred the LORDE. Lykewise when the LORDE sente you from Cades Barne, saying: go vp, and conquer the lande which I haue geuen you *ye disobeyed the mouth of the Lord your GOD, and neyther beleued hym, nor harkened vnto his voice. ye haue bene disobedyent vnto the LORDE, sence ỳ daye that I knewe you,

And I fell downe flat before the Lorde foretye dayes and forety nyghtes whiche I laye there, for the LORDE sayde, that he would destroye you: I made intercessyon therefore vnto the LORDE, and sayde: *O Lorde GOD, destroye not thy people and thyne enheritaunce, whiche thou haste delyue-red thorowe thy greatnesse, and which thou hast brought out of Egypte thorowe a myghtye hand. Remember thy seruauntes Abraham, Isaac, & Iacob, and loke not vnto the stoburnes of this people, nor to theyr wyckednesse & synne: lest the lad whence thou broughtest them, say: The LORDE is not able to bringe them into the lande whiche he promysed them: and because he hated them, therfore hath he caried them out, to slaye them in the wyldernesse. Beholde, they are thy people, and thine enheritaunce whiche thou broughtest out in thy myghtye power, and in thy stretched out arme.

Deu. 4. a

AT the same season the LORDE sayde vnto me, * hewe the two tables of stone lyke vnto ꝑ fyrst, and come vp vnto me into the mounte, and make thee an Arke of woode, and I wyll wryte in the tables the wordes that were in the fyrste tables whyche thou brakest, and thou shalte put them in ꝑ arke. And I made an arke of Sethim wood, and hewed two tables of stone * lyke vnto the fyrste, and wente vp into the mountayne, hauyng the two tables in myne hande.

And he wrote in the tables * accordynge to the fyrste wrytynge (the ten verses whyche the LORDE spake vnto you in the mount out of the myddes of the fyre, in the day of the gatherynge together) and the LORDE gaue them vnto me. And I departed, & came downe from the hyll, and put * the tables in ꝑ arke whiche I had made: & there they be, as the LORDE commaunded me:

An exhortacion to regarde the lawe.

THerefore thou shalte loue the LORDE thy GOD, and kepe hys obseruaunces, hys ordynaūces, hys

J

hys lawes, and his cõmaundementes alwaye. Call to your mynde this daye that whiche youre childzen haue neyther knowen noz sene: euẽ the nurtour of the LORD your GOD, his greatnes, his myghtie hande, and hys stretched oute arme, his myracles, and his actes which he dyd in the myddes of Egypt, euen vnto Pharao the kyng of Egipte and vnto al his lande: and what he did vnto the host of Egipt, vnto theyr hozses and charettes *howe he brought the water of the red sea vpon them, as they chased you behynde: and how the LORDE hath brought them to naught vnto this daye, and what he dyd vnto you in the wyldernesse, vntyll ye came vnto this place: and what he dyd vnto *Dathan and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab the son of Ruben, howe ỹ earthe opened her mouthe, and swalowed thẽ wyth theyr householdes and theyr tentes, and all theyr substaunce that was in theyr possessyon, in the myddes of Israell.

Doutlesse, your eyes haue sene al the great actes of the LORDE whiche he dyd. Therfoze shall ye kepe al the commaundementes, whiche I commaund you this daye, that ye maye be stronge: and go in and conquer the lande whether ye go to possesse it, and that ye may prolonge youre dayes in the lande whiche the LORDE sware vnto youre fathers, to geue vnto thẽ and to their sede, a lande that floweth with mylke and honie. Foz *the land whither thou goest to possesse it, is not as the land of Egypte that ye came oute of, where thou sowedst thy sede: and watereddst it with thy feete as a garden of herbes: but the lande whyther ye go ouer to possesse it, is a lande that hath hylles & valleys, and drynketh water of ỹ raine of heauen. This lande doth the LORD thy GOD care foz, and the eyes of the LORDE thy GOD are alwayes vpõ it, from the begynnynge of the yere, vnto the ende of the yere.

If ye shal herken therfoze vnto my commaundementes, whyche I commaunde you this daye, that ye loue the LORDE youre GOD and serue hym w all youre hearte, and wyth all youre soule *I also wil geue raine vnto your lande in due season: the fyrste rayne & the latter, that thou mayest gather in thy cozne, thy wyne, and thyne oyle. And I wyll sende grasse in thy feldes foz thy catell: that thou mayst eate, and fyl thy selfe. But beware that youre harte deceaue you not: and ye tourne asyde: and serue straunge goddes, and wourshyp them, and then the LORDE beyng wzoth against you, *shut vp the heaue, that there be no raine, and that your lande yelde not her frute and lest ye perysshe quickely frõ of ỹ good land, which the LORDE geueth you.

Therefoze shall ye putte vp these my wozdes in *youre hearte and in youre soule, and bynde them foz a sygne vpon your hand, that they may be as a warnyng betwene your eyes, and ye shall *teache them your childzen that they maye talke of them, when thou syttest in thine house and when thou walkest by the waye: when thou lyest downe, & when thou rysest vp: yea, & thou shalte wzyte them vpon the dooze postes of thyne house, and vpon thy gates, that youre dayes maye be multiplyed, and the dayes of youre childzen in ỹ lande whiche the LORDE sware vnto youre fathers to geue them as longe as the daies of heauen last vpõ the earth. Foz if ye kepe al these commaundementes, which I commaunde you, so that ye do them: Namely, that ye loue the LORD youre GOD: & walke in al his wayes and cleaue vnto him. Then wyll the LORDE caste out al these nacyons befoze you, and ye shall be the heyzes of greate nacyons, and of them that are myghtier then youre selues. *All the places wheron the soles of your fete shall treade, shalbe youres, euen from the wyldernesse and from Libanon, & from the ryuer Euphrates, euen vnto the vttermoste sea, shal your coaste be. There shall no man be able to stande befoze you: foz the LORDE youre GOD shall caste the feare and dzead of you vpon all the lande that ye shall treade vpon, as he hath sayd vnto you.

*Beholde, I set befoze you this day a blessynge and a curse *a blessynge: yf ye obey the commaundementes of the LORDE youre GOD whiche I commaũde you this day. And a curse: yf ye wyll not obey the commaundementes of the LORDE youre GOD: but turne oute of the waye, whyche I commaũd you this day, to go after straũge gods, which

¶ The.xii. Chapter.

Idolatry must the Israelites destroy and flee from. They must onely do that thynge whiche God commaundeth.

1 These are the ordynaunces and lawes, whiche ye shal obserue & do in the lande which the LORD GOD of thy fathers geueth the to possesse it as long as ye liue vpon ỹ earth.
Deut. 7. a. *ye shall destroye all places wherin ỹ nacyons whiche ye shall conquer serued theyr goddes, vpon hye mountains on hylles and vnder euery thycke tree. Ouerthrow theyr aultars, and breake theyr pyllers, and burne theyr groues with fyre, and hewe downe the graue ymages of the goddes that they haue, and bryng the names of thẽ to nought out of that place. ye shall not so do vnto the LORDE your GOD, but ye shall seke the place which the LORDE your GOD shal haue chosen out of al your trybes, to put his name there, and ther to dwel. And thither *thou shalt come,
Deu. 14. b. and. 16. b and thyther ye shall bryng your burnt sacrifices, your offeringes, your tithes, and heue offeringes of your hand, your vowes, your frewyllofferinges and the fyrst gendred of your oxen and of your shepe. And there ye shall eate before ỹ LORDE your GOD, & ye shall reioyce in all that ye put your hand vnto, both ye and your housholdes, wherein the LORDE thy GOD hath blessed thee.

8 Ye shall not do after all the thynges that we do here thys daye, euerye ma what semeth hym good in his owne eyes. For ye are not yet come to rest, & to the enheritaunce which the LORDE your GOD geueth you. But when ye go ouer Iordan, and dwell in the lande whiche the LORDE your GOD hath geuen you to enherit, and whẽ he hath geuen you rest from all your enemies rounde about, so that ye dwell in safetie, thã vnto the place which ỹ LORDE youre GOD hath chosen, to put hys name there, ye shall bryng all that I commaunde you: Namely your burntsacrifices, your offerynges, your tithes, the heue offerynge of your hande, and all your speryal vowes which ye vow vnto the LORDE. And ye shall reioyce before the LORDE your GOD, ye and your sonnes and your doughters, your seruauntes, and your maydens, and ỹ Leuite that is within your gates *for Deut. 12. a. asmuche as he hath no parte nor enheritaunce with you. Take hede that thou offre not thy burntofferynges in euerye place that thou seest: but in the place whiche the LORDE shall haue chosen in one of thy trybes, there thou shalte offer thy burnt offerynges, and there thou shalt do all that I cõmaũd thee. Notwithstandyng thou mayst kil and eate flesche in all thy cyties, what soeuer thy soule lusteth after, accordyng to the blessing of the LORDE thy GOD whiche he hath geuen thee. Both the vncleane & the cleane maye eate therof, euen as the roo, or the harte: oncly ye shall not eate the bloode, but powre it vpon the earth as water.

Thou mayest not eate within thy ¶ gates ỹ tythe of thy corne, of thy wyne and of thy oyle, and the first gendred of thyne oxen, & of thy shepe, neyther anye of thy vowes which thou bowest, nor thy frewyllofferynges or heue offerynge of thyne hande: but thou must eate the before the LORDE thy GOD, in the place which the LORDE thy GOD hath chosẽ, thou and thy sonne, & thy doughter, thy seruaunte, and thy mayde, and the Leuite that is within thy gates, & thou shalte reioyce (and be refreshed) before the LORDE thy GOD, in all that Exo. thou puttest thyne hand to. *Beware, that thou forsake not the Leuit, as lõg as thou lyuest vpon the earth.

19 (when the LORDE thy GOD hath Gen. enlarged thy border *as he hathe pro- Deut. mysed thee) thou say, I wyl eate flesche, because thy soule longeth to eate flesh: thou mayst eate flesche whatsoeuer thy

soule

soule lusteth. yf the place whiche the LORDE thy GOD hath chosen to putte his name there, be to farre from thee, then thou shalte kyl of thy oxen, and of thy shepe which the LORD hath gyuē thee, as I haue commaūded thee, and thou shalt eate in thine own citie, what soeuer thy soule lusteth.

* And as the roo and ꝑ hart is eaten, euen so thou shalte eate them: both the cleane and the vncleane shall eate of them. But be stronge * that thou eate not the bloud. For the bloude, that is ꝑ lyfe, and thou mayest not eate the lyfe with the flesshe: thou shalte not eate it: but powre it vpon the earth as water. Se thou eate it not, that it may go wel with thee, and with thy chyldren after thee: But thou shalte do that which is ryght in the syght of the LORDE. But thy holy thynges which thou hast, and thy vowes * thou shalt take, and come vnto the place whiche the LORD hath chosen, and thou shalte offer thy burnt offeryngs both flesshe and bloud vpon the aultar of the LORD thy GOD, and the bloude of thyne offeryngs shalbe powred out vpon the altar of ꝑ LORD thy GOD, and thou shalt eate ꝑ flesshe. Take hede and heare all these wordes which I commaund thee, that it maye go wel with thee, and with thy childrē after thee for euer, yf thou doest that whiche is good and ryght in ꝑ sight of the LORDE thy GOD.

When the LORDE thy GOD hath destroyed ꝑ nacyons before the, whyther thou goest to conquere them, and thou succedest in their enheritaunce & dwellest in theyr lande: Beware, that thou be not taken in a snare after thē, after that they be destroied before the, & that thou aske not after their gods, saying: howe dyd these nacyons serue theyr goddes: I wyll do so lykewyse. Nay * thou shalte not so do vnto the LORDE thy GOD: for all abhominacions, and that whyche the LORDE hateth, ꝑ same haue they done vnto their goddes. * For they burne both theyr sonnes and theyr doughters with fire before their goddes. Therefore whatsoeuer I cōmaund you, that take hede you do (onely vnto the lorde) and * put thou nought therto, nor take ought therefrom.

The.xiii. Chapter.

The false prophet must be put to death. God proueth our fayth by false miracles.

IF ther aryse among you a *prophet or a dreamer of dremes, and gyue thee a sygne or a wondre, and that sygne or wondre whiche he hath sayde come to passe, and then say: let vs go after straunge goddes, which thou hast not knowen, and let vs serue them: herken not thou vnto the wordes of the prophet or dreamer of dreames. * For the LORDE thy GOD proueth you, to wytte whether ye loue the LORDE your GOD with all your hert, and with all youre soule: ye shal walke after the LORDE youre GOD, & feare him, kepe his commaundementes, and herken vnto his voyce, serue him, and cleue vnto him.

*And ꝑ prophet or dremer of dremes shall dye because he hathe spoken to turne you awaye from the LORD your GOD (whiche brought you oute of the lande of Egipt, and delyuered you out of the house of bondage) to thrust thee out of the waye, which the LORDE thy GOD commaunded thee to walke in: & therfore thou shalt put the euyl away from thee. yf thy brother, the sonne of thy mother, or thyne own sonne, or thy doughter, or the wyfe that lyeth in thy bosomme: or thy frende whiche is as thyne owne soule vnto thee, entyce the secretlye, sayinge: let vs go and serue straunge goddes, which thou hast not knowen, nor yet thy fathers. And they be of the goddes of the people whych are rounde aboute you, whether they be nye vnto thee, or far of frō thee, from the one end of the earth vnto the other: Thou shalte not consent vnto him, nor herken vnto hym: thyne eye shall not pytye hym, neyther shalte thou haue compassyon on hym, nor kepe hym secrete, * but cause hym to be slayne. Thyne hande shalbe fyrst vpon him to kyll hym, and then the handes of al the people. And thou shalt stone him wyth stones that he dye, because he hathe gone aboute to thrust thee away from the LORDE thy GOD, whiche brought thee out of the land of Egypt, and frō the house of bondage. And all Israel shall heare and feare, and shall do no more any suche wyckednesse as thys is amonge you. If thou shalte heare saye in one of thy cytyes whyche the LORDE thy GOD hathe geuen thee to dwell in, that certayne men beyng the childzen of Belial are gone oute from amonge you, and haue moued the inhabiters of theyr cytie, sayinge: let vs go and serue straunge goddes, whiche ye haue not knowen. Then thou muste seke, and make searche and enquire dilygently. And beholde, if it be true, and the thynge of a suretie, that suche abhominacion is wrought among you: then thou shalt smyte the dwellers of that citie in the edge of the swerde, and destroye it vtterly, and all that is therin, and euen the very cattel therof with the edge of the swerde. And gather al ỳ spoyle of it into the myddes of ỳ strete thereof, and burne with fyre both the cytie and all the spoyle thereof euerye whit, for LORDE thy GOD. And it shal be an heape for euer, and shall not be buylt agayne. * And there shall cleaue nought of the damned thynge in thyne hande, that the LORDE may turne frō the fearcenes of his wrathe, and shewe thee mercye, and haue compassyon on thee, and multiplye thee, as he hathe swoorne vnto thy fathers. * Therefore shalte thou herken vnto the voyce of ỳ LORDE thy GOD, to kepe all his commaundementes which I commaunde thee this daye, that thou do it whyche is ryghte in the eyes of the LORDE thy GOD.

¶ The. xiiii. Chapter.

¶ The maners of the gentyles maye not be followed. What beastes are cleane to be eaten/ and what not.

YE are the childzen of the LORDE youre GOD. * ye shall not cut youre selues, nor make you any baldnesse betweene youre eyes for anye dead man. * For thou arte an holy people vnto the LORDE thy GOD, and the LORDE hath chosen thee to be a seuerall people vnto himselfe, aboue al the nacyons that are vpon the earth.

Thou shalt * eate no maner of abhominacio. These are the beastes whiche ye shal eat of, oxe, sheepe, & goates, hart, roo and bugle, wylde goate, vnicorne, wylde oxe, and camelion. And all the beastes that cleaue the hose, and fyt it in the two clawes, and chewe the cud, them ye shall eate. Neuertheles, these ye shall not eate: of them that chewe cud, and of thē that deuide and cleaue the hose: the camell, the hare, and ỳ cony: whiche chewe cud, but deuide not ỳ hose: therefore are they vncleane vnto you: and also the swyne, though he deuyde the hose, yet he cheweth not cud, therefore is he vncleane vnto you: ye shall not eate of the flesche of suche, nor touche the deade carkasse of them.

* These ye shall eate, of all that are in the waters: All that haue fynnes and scales, shall ye eate. And whatsoeuer hath not fyns & scales, of ỳ ye may not eate, but it is vncleane vnto you.

Of all cleane byrdes ye shal eate: but these are they of which ye shal not eat: the Egle, ỳ goshawke, & the ozmeraūt, the Irion, the vultur, the kyte, after her kynde, and all kynde of rauens, the estrych, the nyghterowe, the kuckowe and the sparowhawke after her kynd, the lytie owle, the great owle, ỳ backe, the bitture, the pie, the stozke, the herō, the tay in his kynde, the lapwinge, the swalowe. And let al creppyng soules be vncleane vnto you, and not be eaten of: but of all cleane soules ye maye eate.

ye shall eate of nothynge that dyeth alone: But thou shalte gyue it vnto the straunger that is in the cytie, that he eate it, or thou mayest sel it vnto an aliaunt. For thou art an holy people vnto the LORDE thy GOD. Thou shalte not * seeth a kyd in his mothers mylke. Thou shalte tythe all the encrease of thy seed, that the fylde bryngeth forth yere by yere. And thou shalt eate before the LORD thy GOD (in the * place whiche he hathe chosen, and where he hath put his name) ỳ tithe of thy corne, of thy wyne, and of thyne oyle, and the fyrst gendred of thyne oxen and of thy shepe, that thou mayest learne to feare the LORDE thy GOD alwaye. * If ỳ waye be to longe for thee, so that thou arte not able to cary it, and if the place be farre from thee, whiche the LORDE thy GOD hath chosen to set his name there (and the LORDE thy GOD hath blessed thee) than shalte thou make it in money, and take the money in thyne hande, and go vnto the place which the LORDE thy GOD hath chosen, & bestowe the money for whatsoeuer thy soule lusteth after: for oxen, and sheepe, wyne and strouge dzynke, & for whatsoeuer thy soule desyreth, and eat ther before before the LORDE thy GOD, & be mery: both thou and thine housholde, & the Leuit that is within thy gates, shalt thou not forsake, *for he hath neither parte nor enheritaunce with the.

* At the ende of thre yeare, thou shalt bryng forth al the tythes of thyne encrease the same yeare, & lay it by within thyne owne gates. And ỳ Leuit which hath no parte nor enheritaũce w thee, shall come, & the straũger, the fatherles & the wedowe, whych are wythin thy gates, shall eate & be fylled: ỳ the LORD thy GOD may blesse the, in all the workes of thyne hande which thou doest.

¶ The.xv. Chapter.

The forgeuenes of debtes in the seuenth yeare.

IN the seuenth yeare thou shalte make a fredome. * And thys is ỳ maner of the fredom: * who soeuer lendeth ought wyth hys hãde vnto his neyghbour, may not aske agayne (ỳ which he hath lent) of his neighbour or of his brother: because it is called the LORDES fre yere: yet of a straũger (and of an alcaunt) ỳ mayst cal it home agayne.

But * he that is thy brother, him shal thyne hand remit. Neuertheiesse there shalbe no begger among you. For the LORD shal blesse the in ỳ lande, whiche the LORD thy GOD gyueth the, an enheritaũce to possesse it: so that thou herken vnto ỳ voyce of ỳ LORD thy GOD, to obserue and do al these commaundementes, whiche I commaunde the this day. For the LORD thy GOD hath blessed the as he hath promised the, & * thou shalt lẽde vnto many nacions, but thou thy selfe shalte not borowe: And thou shalt raigne ouer many nacions, & they shal not raigne ouer the. yf one of thy * brethren among you be poore wtin any of thy gates in thy lande, which the LORD thy GOD geueth the, thou shalt not harden thy hert, nor shut thine hãd from thy poore brother: * But open thine hand vnto him, & lend him sufficient for his nede, which he hath. Beware ỳ there be not a wicked poynt in thyne hert, that thou wouldest say:

The seuenth yere, the yere of fredom is at hand, and therfore it greueth the to loke on thy poore brother, and geuest him nought, & he then cry vnto ỳ LORD against the, and it be synne vnto thee: But geue him, & let it not greue thyne hert to geue vnto him. Because that for this thing, the LORDE thy GOD shall blesse the in al thy workes, & in all that thou puttest thyne hande to. * The lãd shal neuer be without poore: And therfore I commaunde the, sayinge: Thou shalt open thine hãde vnto thy brother, that is nedye and poore in thy lande.

* yf thy brother an Hebrue sell hymselfe to the, or an Hebruelle, and serue the syre yeare, in the seuenth yere thou shalt let him go free from the. And whẽ thou sendest him out free from the, thou shalte not let him go away empty, but shalt geue him of thy shepe, of thy corne, and of thy wyne, & geue him of ỳ, wherwith the LORD thy GOD hathe blessed the. And remẽber ỳ thou wast a seruaũt in the lãde of Egipt, and the LORD thy GOD delyuered the thẽce: and therfore I commaunde the this thing to daye.

* And yf he say vnto the: I wil not goe away from the, because he loueth the & thy house, and is wel at ease with thee: Then shalte thou take a naule, & nayle his eare to the doore therwith, and let hym be thy seruaũt for euer: And vnto thy maydeseruaunt thou shalt do lykewyse. And let it not greue thyne eye, when thou letteste him go out fre from the, for he hath ben worth a double hyred seruaunt to the in his seruyce syre yeres. And the LORDE thy GOD shall blesse the in al that thou doest.

* All the first gendred ỳ come of thyne oxẽ, & of thy shepe that are males, thou shalt halow vnto the LORD thy GOD. Thou shalt do no worke with the fyrst gendred of thine oxen, nor sheare ỳ first gendred of thy shepe. * Thou shalt eate it before the LORD thy GOD yere by yere, in the place which the LORD hath chosen, both thou and thyne housholde. * yf there be any deformitie therin, as if it be lame or blynde, or haue anye other euyl fauoredness, thou shalt not offre it vnto ỳ LORD thy GOD. But shalt eate it within thine owne * gates, ỳ vncleane, & ỳ cleane indifferẽtlye, as ỳ roe & the herte. Only eate not ỳ blood therof, but poure it vpon ỳ grounde as water.

¶ The.xvi. Chapter.

Of Ester/ Whitsontyde/ and the feast of tabernacles, what officers ought to be ordeyned.

OBserue ỳ * moneth of new corne that thou mayest offre * passouer vnto the LORDE thy GOD. For in the moneth when corne begynneth to ripe, the LORD thy GOD broughte thee out of Egipt by night.

Thou shalte therefore offre passeouer vnto ꝑ Lord thy God (of shepe & ore) *in the place which the LORD shall chose to put his name there. Thou shalte eat no leuened bred with it: but seuē dayes shalt thou eat vnleuened bread therwith:
euen ꝑ bread of tribulacio (for ꝑ camest out of the lande of Egipt in hast) ꝑ thou mayest remembre ꝑ day when ꝑ camest out of the lāde of Egipt, al dayes of thy lyfe. And there shal be no leuened bread sene in al thy coastes seuen dayes lōge, neither shal there remayne any thing of the flesh whiche thou offrest ꝑ first day at euen, vntil ꝑ morowyng. Thou mayest not offre passeouer with any of thy gates, which the LORD thy GOD geueth the: but * in ꝑ place which ꝑ LORD thy GOD shal chose to set his name in, ther thou shalt offre passeouer at euē aboute the goyng downe of the sunne, euen in ꝑ season that thou camest out of Egipt.
And thou shalt seeth & eate it, in ꝑ place which the LORDE thy God hath chosē, and depart on the morow, & get the vnto thy tent. Sixe dayes shalte thou eate swete bread, & the seuenth day is a gathering together before the LORD thy GOD: thou shalte do no worke therin.
*Seuen wekes shalt thou numbre vnto the and begin to numbre the .vii. we-kes, when thou beginnest to put ꝑ sickel to ꝑ corne, *& kepe ꝑ feast of wekes vnto the LORD thy GOD, with a free wil offering of thine hande, which thou shalt geue vnto ꝑ LORD thy GOD, according as ꝑ LORD thy GOD hath blessed the.
And reioyce before ꝑ LORDE thy GOD, thou and thy son, thy doughter, thy seruaūt, & thy maide, & ꝑ Leuite ꝑ is with thy gates, & ꝑ straūger, ꝑ fatherlesse, & ꝑ widow, that are amōge you, in the place whiche the LORD thy GOD hath chosē to put his name there. And remembre that thou wast a seruaūt in Egipt, and thou shalte obserue and do these or-dinaunces.

Thou shalt also obserue the feast of tabernacles .vii. daies, after ꝑ thou hast gathered in thy corne & thy wyne. And thou shalt reioice in that thy feast: thou and thy son, thy doughter, thy seruaunt and thy maide, ꝑ Leuite, the straunger, and the fatherlesse, & the wydowe, that are with thy gates. *Seuen daies shalt thou kepe holy day vnto the LORD thy GOD, in ꝑ place whiche ꝑ LORDE shall chose: for ꝑ Lord thy God shal blesse the in al thy frutes, and in al the workes of thine hādes, therfore shalt thou be glad.
*Thre tymes in ꝑ yere shal al the mannes apere before ꝑ LORD thy God in ꝑ place which he shal chose: in the feast of swete bred, in the feast of wekes, and in the feast of tabernacles. And they shall not *appeare before the LORD empty, but euery man according to the gyft of his hande, and according to ꝑ blessinge of the LORD thy GOD, which he hath geuē the. Iudges & officers shalt thou make the in al thy cities, which ꝑ Lord thy God geueth the throughout thy tribes: & they shal iudge the people rightously. * wrest not thou the lawe, nor know any person, neyther take any re-warde: *for gyftes blynde ꝑ wyse, and peruerte the wordes of the ryghteous.
That which is iust & right, shalte thou folow, that thou maiest lyue, and enioy ꝑ lād which ꝑ Lord thy god geueth the.

Thou shalte plant the no groue, of whatsoeuer trees it be, nye vnto ꝑ aul-tar of the LORDE thy GOD, whiche thou shalt make the. Thou shalte set vp no * pyller, whiche the LORDE thy GOD hateth.

¶ The .xvii. Chapter.

The punyshment for ydolatry. The punyshment of a rebel. The institution of a kyng.

Thou shalte offre vnto ꝑ LORD thy GOD no ore nor shepe * wherin is blemish or any deformitie, for that is an abhominacion vnto ꝑ Lorde thy GOD. * Yf there be found amōg you win any of thy gates, which ꝑ LORDE thy God geueth the, mā or woman that hath wrought wyckednes in the syght of ꝑ LORDE thy God, so that they haue gone beyonde his appoyntment, & gone and serued straunge goddes, and worshipped them, *the sunne or moone, or any of the hoost of heauē, which I haue not commaunded, and it is told the, & thou hast hearde of it: *then shalt thou enquire diligētly. And yf it be true, and the thing of a suretie, that suche abhominacion is wrought in Israell, then shalt thou bring forth that man or that woman (which haue committed ꝑ wicked thing) vnto the gates, and shalte stone them with stones, tyll they dye.
*At the mouthe of two or three witnesses shal he ꝑ is worthy of deathe, dye:
and

and at the mouth of one witnes, let no man dye. The handes of the witnesses shalbe first vpon him, to kyl him: and afterwarde the handes of al the people, & thou shalt put the wicked awaye from the. ¶ If there ryse a matter to harde for them in iudgement betwene bloode and bloode, betwene ple and ple, betwene plage and plage, and the matters come to stryfe within thy gates: Then shalte thou aryse, and get the vp vnto the place whiche the LORDE thy GOD hathe chosen, and come vnto the priestes the Leuites, and vnto ỳ iudge that shalbe in those daies, & aske: * and they shal shewe the, the sentẽce of iudgemẽt, and thou must do accoꝛding to ỳ which they of that place (whiche the LORDE hath chosen) shewe the: and thou shalte obserue to do, accoꝛding to al that they enfourme the. Accoꝛding to ỳ sentence of ỳ lawes which they teache the, & accoꝛding to the iudgement whiche they tel the, shalt thou do: and bow not from that whiche they shew the, neyther to ỳ right hande, noꝛ to the lefte. And ỳ man that wyll do pꝛesumpteously, and wyll not herken vnto the pꝛiest (that stãdeth ther beforе ỳ LORD thy GOD to minister) oꝛ vnto ỳ iudge, ỳ man shal dye, & thou shalt put away euil from Israell. And al the people, shal heare ỳ they may feare, and do nomoꝛe pꝛesumptiously. ¶ When thou art come vnto ỳ lãd which the LORDE thy GOD geueth the, and enioyest it, and dwellest therin: and yf thou shalt say: * I wyl set a kynge ouer me, lyke as al the nations ỳ are aboute me, thẽ thou shalt make him king ouer the, whom the LORDE thy GOD shal chose: euen one from amonge thy bꝛethꝛen shalt thou make kyng ouer thee, & thou mayest not set a straunger ouer the, which is not of thy bꝛethꝛen. * But he shal not multiply hoꝛses to him selfe, noꝛ bꝛyng the people againe to Egypte thoꝛow the multitude of hoꝛses, foꝛasmuch as ỳ LORD hath sayde vnto you: ye shal hensfoꝛth go nomoꝛe again that way. Also he * oughte not to multiplye wiues to him selfe, lest his hert turne away, neither shal he gather him * siluer & golde to much. And whẽ he is set vpõ ỳ seate of his kingdõ, he shal wꝛite him out a copy of this law in a booke beforе the pꝛiestes the Leuytes. And it shalbe with him, and he ought to reade therin * al dayes of his lyfe, ỳ he may learne to feare the LORDE his GOD, & to kepe al the woꝛdes of this law, & these oꝛdynaunces, foꝛ to do them: & that his hert arise not aboue his bꝛethꝛẽ, and that he turne not from the commaundemente, to the right hande oꝛ to the lefte, but ỳ he may pꝛolonge his daies in his kingdome: he and his childꝛen in Israel.

¶ The.xviii. Chapter.

The Leuites had no possessions. Idolatry muste be fled. The prophet Christ is promised. The false prophet must be slaine: and how he may be knowen.

THe pꝛiestes, the Leuites, and all the tribe of Leui * muste haue no parte noꝛ enheritaunce with Israel: but shal eate the offeringes of the LORDE, and his enheritaunce. Therfoꝛe shal they haue no enheritaunce amonge their bꝛethꝛen: but the LORD, he is their enheritaunce, as he hathe sayde vnto them. And this is the pꝛiestes dutye of the people, and of them that offre sacrifice, whether it be oxe oꝛ shepe: They must geue vnto the pꝛiest, ỳ shoulder, and the two chekes, & the maw, the first frutes also of thy coꝛne, wyne, and oyle, and ỳ first of the wolle of thy shepe shalt thou geue him: * foꝛ the LORDE thy GOD hath chosen him out of al thy trybes, to stande and to minister in the name of the LORD: he and his sonnes foꝛ euer. ¶ If a Leuite come out of any of thy cities of al Israel, where he is a sotourner, and come with all ỳ lust of his hert vnto the place whiche the LORDE hath chosen: he shal minister in ỳ name of the LORD his GOD, as his other bꝛethꝛen ỳ Leuites do, which remaine there beforе ỳ LORDE. And they shal haue lyke poꝛcions to eate besyde that which commeth to him of ỳ patrimony of his elders.

* When thou arte come into the lãde whiche the LORD thy God geueth the, se that thou learne not to do after ỳ abhominations of those nacions. Let ther not be founde among you any one that maketh his son oꝛ doughter to go thoꝛow ỳ fire, oꝛ that vseth witchecrafte, oꝛ a chaser out of dayes, * oꝛ that regardeth the flying of soules, oꝛ a soꝛcerer, oꝛ a charmer, oꝛ that counseleth with spiriters, oꝛ a sothsayer, oꝛ that asketh (the truthe) at them that be dead.

Foꝛ al that do suche thinges are abom.ii. hominacion homynacion vnto the LORD, & because of these abhominacions the LORD thy God doth cast the out before the. Thou shalte be perfecte therfore (and without blemysshe) in the sighte of the LORDE thy GOD. For these nacions whiche thou shalt cõquere, herken vnto chosers out of dayes, and vnto sorcerers: But the Lord thy GOD hath not suffered the so to do. The Lord thy GOD wil *stere vp vnto the a prophet among you: euen of thy brethren, like vnto me *vnto him ye shal hearken, accordyng to al that thou desyredst of the LORD thy GOD in Horeb, in the day of þ gathering together, when thou saydest: *Let me heare the voyce of my LORD GOD nomore, nor se this great fire any more, þ I dye not.

D And þ LORD said vnto me, they haue wel spoken, I wil rayse the vp a Prophete from amõg their brethre lyke vnto the, and wyll put my wordes in hys mouth, and he shal speake vnto them al that I shal cõmaunde him. *And whosoeuer wil not hearke vnto the wordes, which he shal speake in my name, I wil require it of him. * But the prophet which shal presume to speake a word in my name, which I haue not commaunded him to speake, or that speketh in the name of straunge goddes, the same prophet shall dye. And yf thou saye in thine hert, how shal we knowe þ worde which þ LORD hath not spoken: (This token shalt thou haue) Euen whẽ a prophet speaketh in the name of the LORDE yf the thing folowe not, nor come to passe, that is the thing which the LORD hath not spoken. But the prophet hath spokẽ it presumpteously. Thou shalt not therfore be afraied of hym.

¶ The.xix. Chapter.

The fraunchesed townes. The punishment of him that beareth false witnesse.

A WHen þ LORD thy GOD *hathe rooted out the nations, whose lãde þ LORD thy GOD geueth the, & thou succedest in their enherytaunce, and dwellest in their cityes, & in their houses: thou shalt appoint *three cities for the in the middes of the lande whiche the LORD thy GOD geueth the to possesse it: thou shalt prepare þ waye, and deuide the coastes of thy lãd, which the LORDE thy GOD geueth the to enherit, into three partes, that *whosoeuer committeth murther, maye flye thyther. * For this cause must the slayer flye thither, that he may lyue, whoso kylleth his neighbour ignorãtlye, & hated him not in tyme passed: As when a man goeth vnto the wood with hys neighboure to hewe wood, (thynkyng no harme,) & as his hande fetcheth a stroke with the axe to cut downe the tree, the head slippeth frõ þ helue, & smiteth his neighbour that he dyeth, the same shalt flye vnto one of the same cyties, & lyue. Lest the executer of blood folowe after the slayer while his herte is hote, and ouertake him, because the waye is lõg: and slaye hym, and yet ther is no cause worthy of death in him, inasmuche as he hated him not in tyme passed. Wherfore I commaũde the, saying: thou shalt appoint out three cities for the.

C And yf the LORD thy GOD enlarge thy coastes (as he hath swore vnto thy fathers) & geue the al the lãd whiche he said he would geue vnto thy fathers, thou shalt kepe al these cõmaundemẽtes to do them, which I commaũde the this day, that thou loue the LORD thy GOD: and walke in his wayes euer, & adde three cyties mo for the vnto those three, that innocent blood be not shed in thy land, which the LORDE thy GOD geueth the to enherit, & so bloode come vpon the. * But and yf a man hate hys neighbour, and lay waite for him, & rise against him, and smite him that he dye, and then flyeth vnto any of these cities: þ elders of his cytie shal sende & fetche him thence, and delyuer him into the handes of the Iustice of blood, that he may dye. Thine eye shall not spare him, but thou shalt put away innocẽt blood from Israel, that it may go wel vnto the.

D * Thou shalte not remoue thy neyghbours marke, whiche they of olde time haue set in thine enheritaũce, that thou shalt enherit in the lande, whiche the LORD thy God geueth the to enioye it.

* One witnesse shall not rise against a mã for any maner trespace, or for any maner synne, or for any maner faute, þ he offẽdeth in. *But at þ mouth of two wytnesses or of three wytnesses shal the matter be stablished. * yf an vnrighteous wytnesse rise vp against a mã to accuse him of trespasse: then both the men whiche stryue together, shall stande before the LORDE, before the priestes and the iudges, whiche shalbe in in those dates, and ꝑ iudges shal make diligent inquisicō. And yf the witnesse be founde false, and that he hath geuen false witnes against his brother, then shal ye do vnto him as he had thought to doe vnto his brother, and thou shalt put euil away from the. And other shal heare, & feare: & shall hence forth cōmit no more any suche wickednesse among you. And thyne eye shal haue no cōpassion, but *lyfe for lyfe, eye for eye, toth for toth, hande for hande, fote for fote, shalt thou require.

¶ The.xx. Chapter.

Who ought to go to battail. The lawe of armes. The Cananites must they kyll.

WHē ꝑ goest out to battel against thine enemyes, & seest horses & charettes, and people mo then thou, be not *afraid of thē, for ꝑ LORD thy GOD is wt the, whiche brought the out of ꝑ land of Egipt. And whē ye are come nye vnto ꝑ battaile, the priest shal come forth to speake vnto the people, & shal say vnto them: Heare O Israel, ye ar come to batel against your enemyes * let not your hertes faynte, neyther feare, nor be amased nor adred of them. For ꝑ * LORD your GOD goeth with you, to fight for you against your enemyes, & to saue you. * And let the officers speake vnto the people, sayinge: yf any man haue buylt a new house, and haue not dedicate it, let him go and returne to his house lest he dye in the battel, & an other man dedicate it. And yf any mā haue plāted a vyneyard, & haue not made it cōmē. (and lawfol for every man to eate of) let him go and returne agayne vnto his house, lest he dye in ꝑ battaile, & another make it cōmen. * And yf any man be betrouthed vnto a wyfe, & haue not taken her, let him go and returne agayne vnto his house, lest he dye in the battayle, and an other man take her.

And let ꝑ officers speake further vnto the people, and say: *yf any mā feare & be fayntherted, let him go and returne vnto his house, lest he make his brothers hert faynte as well as his. And whē the officers haue made an ende of speakyng vnto ꝑ people, they shal make captaines of warre ouer them. when thou comest nye vnto a citie to fight against it * offre thē peace. And yf they answer the againe peaceably, and open vnto the, then let al ꝑ people ꝑ is founde therin, be tributaries vnto the, & serue the. And yf they wyll make no peace wt the, but make warre against the, thou shalt beseige it. And whē the LORD thy GOD hath deliuered it into thyne handes, thou shalt smite all ꝑ males therof with the edge of the sword. But the wemen and the childzen, *and the cattell, and al that is in the citie and al ꝑ spoile therof shalt thou take vnto thy selfe, & eate the spoyle of thyne enemies which ꝑ LORD thy GOD hath geuē the. Thus shalt thou do vnto all the cities which are a great way of from the, and not of the cyties of these nacions.

But of ꝑ cyties of these naciōs, which the LORD thy GOD shal giue the to enherit, thou shalt saue aliue nothig ꝑ breth*But shalt destroy them without redemcion, namely, the Hethites, ꝑ Amorites, the Cananites, the Pherezites, the Heuites, and the Iebusites, as the LORD thy GOD hath commaunded the, that they teache you not to do after al their abhominacions, whiche they haue done vnto their goddes, and so ye should synne against ꝑ LORD your God. When thou hast beliegeed a cytie longe time, & made warre against it to take it, destroy not the trees therof: ꝑ thou woldest thrust an axe vnto them. But eat of thē, & cut thē not downe, for ꝑ trees of ꝑ feldes are no men, to come against the, & to beseige the. Only those trees which thou knowest ꝑ they are not frutefull, (but wylde, and fyt for other vses) those shalt thou destroye, and cut downe, & make bulwerkes against the citie that maketh warr with the, vntil thou subdue it.

¶ The.xxi. Chapter.

Inquisicion for murther. Punishment for childre that disobey father and mother.

IF one be founde slayne in ꝑ lāde, whiche the LORD thy GOD giueth the to possesse it, & lieth in ꝑ feide: and it is not knowen who hathe slayne him. Then thyne elders and thy iudges shal come forthe and mete vnto the cities ꝑ are rōnde about the slaine. And let the elders of that cytie whiche is nerte vnto the slayne man, take out of the droue, an heyfer that is not labourd with, nor hathe drawen in the yoke, and let the elders of that cytye bryng the heyfer vnto an harde valley, which is nether eared nor sowē, & stryke of the heyfers necke there in the valley.

*Thou shalt not make ỳ gardes (in the hemmes) vpō the. iiii. quarters of thy vesture, wherwith thou coueresi thy selfe. yf a man take a wyfe, & when he hathe lyen with her, hate her, & lay shameful thinges vnto her charge, and bring vp an euel name vpō her, & say: I toke this wyfe, & when I came to her I foūd her not a maide, Then shal ỳ father of ỳ dāsel & the mother bring forth ỳ tokens of the damsels virginitie vnto the elders of the cytie in the gate. And ỳ damsels father shall say vnto ỳ elders: I gaue my doughter vnto this man to wyfe, & he hateth her: & lo, he layeth shamefull thiges vnto her charge, saying: I foūde not thy doughter a maide. And yet these are the tokens of my doughters virginitie. And they shall spreade the vesture before the elders of the citie. And ỳ elders of ỳ citie shall take that man and chastice him, and meerce him in an hūdred sycles of syluer, and gyue thē vnto the father of the damsell, bycause he hath brought vp an euil name vpon a maid of Israel. The.xrtii. Chapter.

What maner of men may not be admitted into the church. Of pollucion that happē in the night of vsure.

ONe that is gelded or hath hys pryeuye mēbres cut of, shal come into ỳ congregatiō of ỳ LORD. And he that is borne of a cōmē womā, shal not come into ỳ congregation of ỳ LORDE, no not in the tenth generatiō he shal not entre into the congregatiō of the LORDE. *The Ammonites & the Moabites shal not come into the congregation of the LORDE, no, not in the tenth generation, nor they shall neuer come into the congregation of ỳ LORD bicause they met you not with bread & water in the way, when ye came out of Egipt: and because they hired against the *Balaam ỳ son of Beor, of Pethor of Mesopotamia, to curse the. Neuertheless, ỳ LORD thy GOD woulde not herken vnto Balaam, but ỳ LORD thy GOD turned the curse to a blessing vnto the, bicause ỳ LORD thy GOD loued the. Thou shalt not seke the prosperitie or wealth of thē al thy dayes for euer. *Thou shalt not abhorre an Edomite, for he is thy brother, neither shalt thou abhor an Egiptian, bycause thou wast a straunger in his lāde. The childzen ỳ are begotten of them shal come into the congregacion of the LORD, in ỳ thirde generacion. When thou goest out wt the host against thine enemies, kepe the frō all wyckednesse. yf there be amonge you any man ꝑ is vncleane by the reason of vnclennes that chaúceth him by night, let him go out of ꝑ hoste, and not come in againe into ꝑ hoste, but at euen let him wash him selfe with water, and whē whē the sun is downe, let him come into the host againe. Thou shalt haue a place also without the hooste whither ꝑ shalt resorte to, (for thy natural necessitie.) and thou shalt haue a sharpe point vpon thy weapon, & when thou wilte ease thy selfe, dig therwith, and turne and couer that whiche is departed frō the. For the LORD thy GOD walketh in ꝑ midst of thyne hoost, to ryd the, & to set thyne enemyes before the. Therefore thal ꝑ place of thyne hoost be pure, that he se no vnclene thinge in the, & so turne him selfe from the. Thou shalt not deliuer vnto his master ꝑ seruannt whiche is escaped from his master vnto the. He shall dwel w the, euen amonge you, in what place he him selfe lyketh best, in one of ꝑ cities where it is good for him, & thou shalt not vexe him. There shalbe no whore of ꝑ doughters of Israel, nor whore keper of the sonnes of Israel.

*Thou shalte neither bryng ꝑ hyre of an whore, nor the price of a dog into ꝑ house of ꝑ LORD thy GOD in any maner of vowe: for euē both of them ar abominaciō vnto ꝑ Lord thy GOD. *Thou shalt not hurte thy brother by vsurye of money, nor by vsury of corne, nor by vsury of any thing that he may be hurte withal. Vnto a straunger thou mayest lende vpon vsury, but not vnto thy brother, ꝑ the LORD thy GOD maye blesse the in al that thou settest thyne hāde to, in the lande whither thou goest to conquere it. *Whē thou hast vowed a vow vnto the LORDE thy GOD, thou shalte not slacke to paye it. For the LORD thy GOD wil surely require it of thee, and it shalbe syn in the. yf thou shalte leaue vowing it shalbe no synne in thee, but that whiche is ones gone out of thy lippes, thou must kepe and do, accordyng as thou haste vowed vnto the LORDE thy GOD of a frewyl: and as thou hast spoken with thy mouthe. When thou commest into thy neighbours vineyarde, thou maiest eat grapes thy belly full at thyne owne pleasure: but thou shalt put none in thy vessel: Euen so when thou commest into thy neyghbours corne, *thou mayest plucke the eares w thine hāde, but thou shalt not moue a sicle vnto thy neighbors corne.

The.xxiii. Chapter.

Syuercement is permitted. He that is newly maried shal not be compelled to go to warre.

When a man hath taken a wyfe and maried her, yf she finde no fauour in his eyes, bycause he hath spied some vnclēnes in her, * Thē let him write her a byll of diuorcemēt and put it in her hāde, & send her out of his house. And whē she is departed out of his house, let her goe, & be an other mans wyfe. And yf ꝑ seconde husbande hate her, let him wryte her also a letter of diuorcement, and put it in her hand, & sende her out of his house: or yf the secōde man dye whiche toke her to wyfe, her first mā which sent her away, may not take her againe to be his wife, after ꝑ she is defiled. For that is abhominaciō in ꝑ sight of the LORD. And thou shalt not cause the lande to syn, whiche ꝑ Lord thy God shal giue ꝑ to enherit.

* When a man taketh a newe wife, he shall not go a warfare, neyther shalbe charged w any business: but shalbe free at home one yere, and reioyse with hys wyfe which he hath take. *No mā shal take the nether nor the vpper mylstone to pledge, for then he shall hurt a mans lyfe. *yf any man be found stealinge any of his brethren ꝑ children of Israel, & abuseth him, or selleth him, the thefe shal dye. And thou shalt put euil away frō the: take hede to thy selfe as concerning ꝑ plage of leprosy, ꝑ thou obserue diligently. And ye shal do accordyng to al ꝑ the priestes the Leuites shal teach you. Euē as I cōmaūded thē, so ye shal obserue to do. Remēbre what ꝑ LORD thy GOD did vnto * Mir Iam by the way after ꝑ ye wer come out of Egipt. When thou dost lende thy brother any thing: thou shalt not go into his house to fetch a pledge from thence: but shalt stāde thout, & ꝑ mā ꝑ borowed it of the, shal bring ꝑ pledge out vnto the: Furthermore yf it be a poore bodye, thou shalte not slepe with his pledge: but deliuer him the pledge againe whē ꝑ sun goeth downe, ꝑ he may slepe in his own raymēt, & blesse the. And it shalbe righteousnes vnto the, before ꝑ lord thy god.

* Thou shalt not defraude an hyred seruannt that is nedy & poore, whether he be of thy brethren, or of the straungers ꝑ are in thy lande within thy gates. But shalte giue him his hyre the same same daye, and lette not the sunne go downe theron. For he is nedy, & therewith susteyneth his lyfe: lest he crye agaynst thee vnto the LORDE, and it be synne vnto thee. The fathers shall not dye for the children, nor the children for the fathers: but euery man shal dye for his owne synne. Thou shalt not hynder the ryght of the straunger, nor of the fatherles, nor take a widdowes rayment to pledge. But remember that thou wast a seruaunt in Egypte, and how the LORDE thy GOD delyuered thee thence. And therefore I cõmaunde thee to do this thing.

*When thou cuttest downe thy harnest in the fielde, and hast forgotten a shefe in the fyelde, thou shalte not goe agayne to fet it. But it shalbe for the straunger, the fatherlesse, and the wydowe, that the LORDE thy GOD may blesse thee in all the workes of thyne hande. When thou beatest downe thine olyue tree, thou shalt not turne againe to gather vp that thou lefte behynde thee, but it shalbe for the straunger, the fatherlesse, and the wydow. Whē thou gatherest thy vyneyarde, thou shalte not gather ꝑ grapes cleane after thee, but leaue them for the straunger, the fatherlesse and the wydowe. And remembre that thou also wast a seruaũte in the lande of Egipte: and therfore I commaunde thee to do this thinge.

¶ The.xxv. Chapter.

¶ The punishement of the offenders. The law of rasyng syde to the brother that is dead. Measures and weyghtes.

If there be stryfe betwene men, they shall come vnto the lawe, and let ꝑ iudges geue sentence betwene them, and iustifye ꝑ ryghteous, and condempne the vngodly. And yf any man be vngodly, and worthy of strypes, than let ꝑ iudge cause to take him down, and to beate him before his face: accordyng to his trespasse, vnto a certayne numbre* fourtye strypes he shall geue him and not paste: lest yf he should excede & beate him aboue that with many stripes, thy brother should appere vngoodly before thyne eyes.

Thou shalt not muzel the ore ꝑ treadeth out the cozne (in the barne). If brethren dwel together, and one of thē die & haue no chylde, ꝑ wyfe of ꝑ dead shall not marry wout vnto a straũger, but his brother shal go in vnto her, & take her to wyfe, & occupy the rowme of his kinsmā. And ꝑ eldest son which she bereth, shal succede in ꝑ name of his brother which is dead: ꝑ his name be not put out of Israel. And yf ꝑ man wil not take his brothers wyfe, thē let her goe vp to the gate vnto the elders, and say: My husbādes brother refuseth to stirre vp vnto his brother a name in Israel, neither wyll he mary me. Then the elders of his citie shal cal him, & cõmen wt him. And yf he stand & say: I wyl not take her, thē shal his kinswoman come vnto him in ꝑ presẽce of ꝑ elders, & lose his shoo of his fote, & spyt in his face, & answer, & say: So shal it be done vnto ꝑ mā, ꝑ doeth not builde vp his brothers house. And his name shalbe called in Israel, ꝑ vnshode house. yf whē men stryue together, one wt another, the wife of the one run to, for to rid her husband out of the hands of him ꝑ smiteth him & put forth her hāde, & take him by the secrets: Thou shalt cut of her hād, & let not thine eye pity her. Thou shalte not haue in thy bag two* maner of weyghtes a greate & a smal: nether shalt thou haue in thyne house diuerse measures a great & a smal. But thou shalt haue a right & iust weight, & a perfyte & a iust measure shalte thou haue, ꝑ thy dayes may be lengthened in ꝑ lande, which ꝑ LORD thy GOD geueth the. For al ꝑ do such thinges, & all ꝑ do vnright, ar abhomination vnto ꝑ LORDE thy GOD.

*Remembre what Amaleth dyd vnto the by the way, whē ye wer come out of Egipt, how he met the by ꝑ waye, and smote ꝑ hidmost of you, al ꝑ wer feble & came behynde, when thou wast faynted and wery, & he feared not God. Therefore, when the LORDE thy God hathe geuē the rest frō al thine enemies rouñd about in ꝑ lād which ꝑ Lord thy GOD geueth thee to enheryt & possesse: se ꝑ ꝑ put out the remembrãce of Amaleth from vnder heauen, and forget not.

¶ The people are exhorted to obserue the commaundementes, whiche yf they breake they are thretened to be plaged.

THese are the wordes of the *appoyntment whiche the LORDE commaunded Moses to make with the childzen of Israell in the land of Moab, beside the appointmēt which he made with thē in Horeb: and Moses called al Israell, and sayde vnto them: Ye haue sene all that the LORDE dyd before your eyes in the land of Egipt: vnto Pharao, & vnto al his seruauntes, and vnto al his lande, the great temptacions whyche thyne eyes haue sene, those greate miracles and wonders: & yet the LORDE hath not geuen you an herte to perceaue and eyes to see, and eares to heare, vnto this daye. And I haue led you fourty yere in the wildernes, and your*clothes are not wared olde vpon you, & thy shoe is not wared olde vpon thy fote. ye haue eaten no breade: nor dronke wyne: or stronge drinke, that ye myght know, how that I am the LORDE your GOD. I make not thys bonde & thys othe with you only, but both with him that standeth here wyth vs this day before the LORDE oure GOD, and also with him that is not here with vs this day. For ye knowe, howe we haue dwelte in the lande of Egypte, and howe we came thozowe the myddes of the nacions whiche ye passed by. And ye haue sene their abhominacyons and their ydols (wood and stone, syluer & golde) whiche were among them. Lest there be amonge you, man or woman, kynred or trybe, whose hert turneth away thys day from the LORDE oure GOD, to go and serue the goddes of these nacyons: and leste there be amonge you summe rote that beareth gal & wormwoode, so that when he heareth ꝑ wordes of this othe, he blisse himselfe in his herte, sayinge. *I shall haue peace, I wyll walke in the meanynge of myne owne herte, (to put the dronken to the thyrstie.) And so the LORDE wyll not consente to be mercyful vnto him, but then the wrath of the LORDE and hys gelousy shal smoke agaynst that man, and all the curses that are wrytten in this boke, shal syght vpon him: and the LORDE shal do out his name from vnder heauen, and the LORDE shal seperate hym vnto euil out of al the trybes of Israel, accordyng vnto all the curses of the appoyntment, that are wrytten in the boke of this lawe. So that the generacion to come of your childzen, ꝑ shal ryse vp after you, and the straunger that shal come from a farre lande, shal say when they se the plages of that lande, and the diseases wherwith the LORDE hath smitten it, how al the land is burnt vp with brimstone and salt, and that it is nether sowen, nor beareth, nor anye grasse groweth therin, lyke as in the place of the ouerthrowyng of *Sodome, Gomor, Adama, Gen.14.a

Adama, and Zeboim: which ꝑ LORDE ouerthrew in his wrath and angre: Euen then shal al nacyons saye: * wherfore hath the LORDE done of thys facyon vnto thys lande? O howe featee is thys great wrath? And men shal saye: because they leite the testament of the LORDE GOD of their fathers, whiche he made wyth them, when he brought them out of the lande of Egypte. For they went and serued straunge goddes, and worshypped them: Goddes which they knewe not, and whiche had geuen them nought. And the wrath of the LORDE wared whote agaynste thys lande, to bringe vpon it all the curses that are wrytten in this boke. And the LORD cast thē out of their lande in anger, wrath, & greate indignaciō, & caste them into a straunge land as this day beareth wytnesse. The secretes of the LORDE oure GOD * are opened vnto vs, and to oure children for euer, that we maye do all the wordes of thys lawe.

The.xxx.Chapter.

The worde of God is at hande.

WHen al these wordes are come vpon thee, * ꝑ blessing and the curse which I haue set before thee, thou shalt turne vnto thine herte, among al ꝑ nacions whether ꝑ Lord thy GOD hath thrust the, * & come agayne vnto ꝑ LORDE thy GOD, and herken vnto his voyce in al these thinges that I commaunde thee this day: thou and thy children with al thyne hert, and all thy soule. * And the LORD thy GOD wil turne thy captiuitie, & haue cōpassiō vpon the, & wyl turne, & set thee agayne from all the nacyons, amonge which the LORD thy GOD shall haue scatered the. Thoughe thou were cast vnto the extreme partes of heauen, euē from thence wil the LORD thy GOD gather the, and from thence will he fet thee, and the LORDE thy GOD wyll bring thee into the land which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt enioy it.

And he wyll shewe the kyndnesse, & multiply the aboue thy fathers. * And the LORDE thy GOD wyll circumcyse thyne herte, and the herte of thy sede, that thou mayest loue the LORDE thy GOD with al thyne herte, and all thy soule ꝑ thou mayst lyue. And ꝑ LORDE thy GOD wyl put al these curses vpon thyne enemies, and on thē that hate the, and that persecute thee. But thou shalt turne, and herken vnto the voice of the LORD, and do al his commaundementes, whiche I commaunde thee this daye. And the LORDE thy GOD wyl make the plenteous in al the workes of thyne hande, in the fruite of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattel, and in the fruite of thy lande for thy welth. * For the LORDE wil turne agayne & reioyce ouer thee to do the good, as he reioyced ouer thy fathers. If thou herken onely vnto the voyce of the LORD thy GOD to kepe his cōmaūdemētes and his ordinaunces whiche are writen in the booke of this lawe, & yf thou turne vnto the LORDE thy GOD with al thine hert, and al thy soule. * For the commaundement whiche I commaūd the this day, is not seperated from the, neyther farre of.

It is not in heuen, that thou nedest to (complayne and) say: who shall go vp for vs to heuen, and fet it vs, that we may heare it, and do it? Nether is it beyond the sea, that thou shouldest saye: who shall go ouer the sea for vs, and fet it vs, that we maye heare it, and do it? But the worde is very nie vnto the: euen in thy mouth and in thyne herte, ꝑ thou do it. * Beholde I haue set before thee this day lyfe and good, death and euel: For wheras I cōmaund the thys daye, to loue the LORDE thy GOD, to walke in his wayes, and to kepe hys commaundementes, his ordinaunces and his lawes (yf thou so do) thou shalt lyue and multiplye, and the LORD thy GOD shal bleste thee in the lande, whither thou goest to possesse it. But & yf thyne hert turne awaye, so that thou wylt not heare: but shalt goe astraye & worshyppe straunge goddes, and serue them, I pronounce vnto you also thys daye that ye shall surely perysshe, & that ye shall not prolonge your dayes vpon the lād whither thou passest ouer Iordan to possesse it. * I call heuen & earth to recorde this day against you, that I haue set before you lyfe and death, blessyng and cursyng. Therfore chose lyfe, that both thou and thy sede maye liue, that thou mayste loue the LORDE thy GOD, and be obedyent to his voyce, & cleaue vnto him. And Moses came and spake all the wordes of this songe in the eares of ꝑ 6 people, he and Iosua ꝑ sonne of Nun. And Moses spake al these wordes vnto the ende, to al the people of Israell, and sayde vnto them: * Set your hartes vnto all the wordes whiche I testifie vnto you this daye: and ye shall commaunde them vnto your childzen, that they may obserue & do al the wordes of this lawe. And let it not be a vayne wozde vnto you: for it is youre lyfe, and thorowe this wozde ye shall prolonge your dayes in the lande whither ye go ouer Iordan to conquer it.

And the LORD spake vnto Moses ꝑ selfe same daye, saying: get thee vp into this mountayne Abarim, (that is to say, a passage) vnto mounte Nebo, which is in the lande of Moab, ouer agaynst Jericho. And beholde the lande of Canaan, which I geue vnto the childzen of Israell to possesse: And dye in the mount which thou goest vp vnto, & thou shalt be gathered vnto thy people. * As Aaron thy bzother dyed in mount Hoz, & was gathered vnto his people, because ye trespased agaynst me among ꝑ childzen of Israel, * at the waters of strife, at Cades in the wyldernes of Zin: for ye sanctified me not among the childze of Israel. Thou shalte therefoze se the lande before thee, and shalt not go thyther, vnto the lande whiche I geue the childzen of Israell.

Let Ruben lyue, and not dye: and be fewe in number. This same also shall happen to Juda. And he sayde: heare LORDE the voyce of Juda, and bringe him vnto his people: his handes shalbe good ynough for him, if thou helpe him agaynst his enemyes.

And vnto Leui he sayde: Thumim & Urim shalbe with thee, & with euerye one that is godly in the. Thou dyddest proue hym also in the tentacyon, and stryuedst wyth hym at the waters of stryfe. He that hath sayde vnto his father and to his mother: I haue not sene him. And he that knewe not hys brethren, nor knewe hys owne childzen, these are they that haue obserued thy word, & shal kepe thy couenaunt. They shal teach Jacob thy iudgemētes, & Israell thy lawe. They shal put cens before thy nose, and the burnte sacrifyce vpon thyne aultar. Blesse LORDE hys fyrste frutes, and accepte the worke of his handes, smyte the loynes of them þ ryse against him, and of them that hate him, that they ryse not agayne.

And of Ben Jamin he sayde. The LORDES derlyng shal dwell in saletie vpon him, and the LORDE shall couer hym all the daye long, and he shal dwel betwene his shoulders.

And of Joseph he sayde: blessed of þ LORDE is his lande, for the fruites of heuen, thorow the dewe and sprynges that lye beneth, and for the swete frutes of the encreace of the sunne, & rype fruites of the moone: for fyrst þ fruites of the pryncipal mountaines, and for þ fruites that the hylles bryng forth for euer, & for þ fruites of þ earth, & fulnes therof: and for þ good wyll of him that dwelt in the* bushe, shall the blessynge come vpon the head of Joseph, & vpon the toppe of the head of hym that was separated from among his brethren. his fyrste borne ore hath bewtye, and hys hornes are as the hornes of an Vnycorne. And with them he shall trouble the nacyōs together, euen vnto the endes of the worlde. These are also the many thousandes of Ephraim, and the thousandes of Manasses. And vnto Zabulon he sayde: Reioyce Zabulon in thy goynge oute, and thou Issachar in thy tentes.

Deu. 33. a.

They shal cal the people vnto the hil, and there they shall offer offerynges of ryghteousnesse. For they shall suckle of the abundaunce of the sea, and of treasure hyd in the sande.

And vnto Gad he sayde: blessed be the rowme maker Gad: he dwelleth as a Lyon, that catcheth the arme with the head. He sawe therfore his begynnyng, and that there was a porcyon there to hyde the lawegeuer, and he came wyth the heades of the people, and executed the ryghteousnesse of the LORDE, and hys Judgementes with Israel.

And vnto Dan he sayde: Dan is a Lyons whelpe, he shal flow frō Basā.

And vnto Nephtali he sayd: Nephtali hathe abundaunce of GODS good pleasure, & is fylled wt the blessynge of þ LORD, and shal haue his possessions toward the southwest.

And vnto Aser he sayde: Aser shalbe blessed with childzen: he shalbe acceptable vnto his brethren, and shall dyppe his fote in oyle. Thy dwelling be þrō & brasse, & thine age be as thy youth

The Lorde comforteth Josua to invade the lande of promesse/and commaundeth him continually to reade Deuteronomie.

A Fter the deathe of Moses the seruaũt of ỳ Lord, it happened also ỳ the lord spake vnto Josua ỳ sonne of Nun, Moses minister, sayig: Moses my seruaũt is dead. Nowe therfore vp and go ouer Jordan thou and al this people, vnto ỳ lande the which I geue vnto ỳ childrẽ of Israel.* Al the places that ỳ soles of youre fete shall treade vpon, haue I geuen you as I sayd vnto Moses: from the wildernes and this Libanon vnto the great riuer Euphrates: all the lãde of the Hethites, euen vnto the great sea towarde the goyng downe of ỳ sunne, shalbe your coast. There shal not a man beable to withstande the all the dayes of thy lyfe. *For as I was with Moses so wyl I be with the, *and wyll not fayle the, nor forsake the. * Be stronge therfore and bolde: for vnto this people shalte thou deuyde the lande whiche I sware vnto their fathers to geue them. Onely be thou stronge and as bolde as thou canste, that thou mayst obserue, & do accordyng to al the law, which Moses my seruaunte commaunded the. *Turne ther from nether to the right hande, nor to the leste: that thou mayest do wysely in al that thou takest in hãd: *let not the booke of this lawe departe out of thy mouthe: But recorde therein daye & night, that thou mayest obserue, and do accordynge to al that is wrytẽ therin. For then shalte thou make thy waye prosperouse, and then thou shalte do wysely. Haue not I commaunded the, that thou shouldest be strong & hardye and not feare nor be fayntehartede For I the LORDE thy GOD am with the, whither soeuer thou goest.

Then Josua commaunded the officers of the people, sayinge: Go thorowe the myddes of the hoste, and commaunde ỳ people, sayinge: prepare you vitayles, for after thre dayes ye shal passe ouer this Jordan, to go in and enioy ỳ lande, whiche the LORDE your GOD geueth you to possesse it.

And vnto ỳ Rubenites, Gaddites, and halfe the tribe of Manasses, spake Josua sayinge: *Remember the worde, whiche Moses ỳ seruaunt of ỳ LORD commaunded you, sayinge: the LORDE your GOD hath geuen you reast, & hath geuen you this lãde: your wyues, your childrẽ, and your cattel shall remayne in the lande which Moses gaue you on this syde Jordan: but ye shal go before your brethren armed, al that be men of warre, and helpe them vntyl the LORD haue geuen your brethren reaste, as he hath you, and vntyll they also haue obtayned the lande, whiche the LORDE your GOD geueth them. And then shal ye returne vnto the lande of youre possession and enioye it, which lande Moses the LORDES seruaunt gaue you on this side Jordan, towarde the sunne rising. And they answered Josua, saying: *All that thou hast commaunded vs, we wyll do, and whithersoeuer ỳ sendest vs, we wyll go. I accordynge as we obeyed Moses in al thinges, so wyl we obey the, onely the LORDE thy GOD be with the as he was with Moses. ¶ The. ii. Chapter.

Josua sendeth spyes to Jericho/ whiche were hyd of Rahab.

AND Josua the sonne of Nun sẽt out of Settim two mẽ to spye secretly, saying: go and bewe ỳ lande & also Jericho. And they went, and came into a harlottes house, named Rahab, and lodged there. And it was tolde the king of Jericho, and said: Beholde, ther came men in hither to night, of the childrẽ of Israel, to spye out the countreye. And the kynge of Jericho sente vnto Rahab, saying: bryng forthe ỳ men that are come to the, and whiche are entred into thyne house, for they be come to searche out all the lande.

And the woman toke the two men *and hyd them. And sayde thus: in dede there came men vnto me, but I wyste not whence they were. And about the tyme of the shutting of the gate when it was darcke, the men went out: whither ꝑ men went I wote not: folowe ye after them quickly, for ye shall ouer take them. And as sone and.3. as we had hearde these thinges (we wer sore afrayde and) oure hertes dyd faynte. And there remayned no more courage in any man at the presence of you. For the LORDE your GOD, he is the GOD in heaue aboue, and on ꝑ earth beneth.

Nowe therfore (I praye you) sweare Deut.10.d vnto me* by the LORD, that as I haue C shewed you mercye, ye shal also shewe mercy vnto my fathers house, and geue me a true token. And that ye shall saue alyue, both my father, and my mother, my brethren, & my systers, and all that they haue. And that ye shal deliuer oure soules from death.

And the men answered her: our lyues for you to dye, yf ye vtter not this oure busynes. And when the LORD hath geIos.2.c.e uen vs the lande* we wyll deale mercifully and truly with the. And thē she let 1.Re.19.c Actes.9.d them downe by a coarde, * throwe a wyndowe: For her house was by the towne wal. And she dwelte by ꝑ towne wal. And she sayd vnto them, gette you into the mountayne, leste the pursuers mete you, & hyde your selues there thre dayes vntil the pursuers be returned, and then shal ye go your owne waye.

And the men sayde vnto her: we wyll be blamelesse of this thy othe, whiche thou hast made vs sweare. Beholde, when we come into the lāde, thou shalt bynd this purple coarde in ꝑ wyndow, which thou lettest vs downe by. And thou shalt bringe thy father & thy mother, thy brethren and all thy fathers houshold, euen into thy house.

And then whosoeuer dothe go out at D the dores of thy house, into the streate, his bloud shalbe vpon his owne heade, and we wilbe guiltelesse. And whosoeuer shalbe with the in the house, his bloude shall be on our heade, yf any manes hande touche him: And yf thou vtter these our wordes, we wilbe quite of thy othe which thou hast made vs sweare. And she sayde: accordynge vnto youre wordes, so be it. and she sent them away to departe. And she bounde the purple coarde in the wyndowe.

And they departed, and came into the mountayne, & there abode thre dayes, vntil the pursuers were returned. And the pursuers sought them thorowe out all the waye, but founde them not. And the two men returned, & descended frō the mountaine, and passed ouer, & came to Iosua the sonne of Nun, and tolde him al that had chaunced thē. And they sayde vnto Iosua: the LORD truly hath deliuered into our handes all ꝑ lande, and all the enhabiters of the contreye faynte at the presence of vs.

The.iii. Chapter.

¶ Iesua with the people passe ouer Iordan.

AND Iosua rose early: & they remoA 1 ued frō Settim, and came to Iordan, he and all the children of Israell, and lodged there, before they wente ouer.

And after thre dayes it fortuned, that the officers went thorow out the hoste, and commaūded ꝑ people, sayinge: whē ye se ꝑ arcke of the testamēt of ꝑ LORD your GOD and the priestes that are Leuites bearing it: ye shall departe from your place, and go after it. Yet yet that ther shalbe a space betwene you and it, about a two thousāde cubytes by measure. And ye shal not come nye vnto it, B that ye maye knowe the way, by which ye muste go: for ye haue not gone thys waye in tymes past (and beware, that ye approche not nye vnto the Arke,) And Iosua said vnto the people:* Sanctifie your selues, for to morowe the LORDE shall do wonders amonge you.

And Iosua spake vnto the preastes, sayinge:

saying: Take vp the Arke of the couenaunt and goe before the people. And they toke vp the arke of the Testament and went before the people.

And the LORDE said vnto Josua: this daye wyl I beginne to magnifye the in the sight of all Israell, that they maye know how that* as I was wt Moses, so wyl I be with thee. And thou shalte commaũde the preastes that beare the arke of the couenaunt, saying: when ye are come to the edge of the waters of Jordan, ye shal stande styll in it.

And Josua sayd vnto the childzen of Israel: come hyther, & heare ẏ wordes of the LORDE your GOD. And Josua said: Hereby ye shal know that ẏ liuing GOD is among you, and that he wyll without fayle caste out before you, the Cananites, and the Hethites, the Heuytes, the Pherezytes, the Gergesites, the Amorites, and the Jebusytes: Beholde, the arke of the apointment of the LORDE of all the worlde goeth before you into Jordan. Nowe therefore take from among you twelue men out of the tribes of Israel, out of euery tribe a mã.

And as sone as the solles of the fete of the preastes (that beare the arke of the LORDE the Gouernoure of all the worlde) treade in the waters of Jordã, the waters of Jordan (that are beneth, shall renne downe/and) shalbe deuided: & ẏ waters that come from aboue, shal stande stil vpon an heape. And it fortuned, that when ẏ people were departed frõ theyr tentes to go ouer Jordan, the preastes bearing* the arke of the appointment went before the people. And as sone as they that bare the arke came vnto Jordan, and ẏ fete of the preastes that bare the arke were dypped in the brim of the water.* (For Jordan vseth to fyl al his banckes al ẏ tyme of haruest) ẏ waters also that came downe from aboue, dyd rise vp vpõ an heape (and appeared as great as a mountayne/) and departed farre from ẏ citye of Adã, that was beside zarthã. And the waters ẏ were beneth toward the sea of the wyldernes, fell away and departed into the salt sea, and the people* went right ouer against Jericho. And ẏ preastes that bare the arcke of ẏ appointment of the LORDE, stode dyre within Jordã ready prepared, & al the Israelites went ouer thorow the dyre, vntyll all the people were gone cleane ouer thorow we Jordan.

The.iiii. Chapter.

Josua setteth vp twelue stones in Jordan.

AND it fortuned, that whan ẏ people were al gone* ouer Jordan, the LORDE spake vnto Josua, saying: Take you twelue mẽ out of the people, out of euery tribe a mã. And cõmaũde you them, sayinge: take you hence out of the myddes of Jordan (euen out of ẏ place where the preastes stode in a redines) twelue (of the most hardest) stones, whiche ye shal take away wt you, and leaue them in the place, wh ere you shal lodge this night.

And Josua called the twelue men, whiche he had prepared of the childzen of Israel, out of euery tribe a man, and Josua sayde vnto them: get you before the arcke of the LORDE youre GOD, euen thorowe the myddes of Jordan* and take vp euery man of you a stone vpon his shoulder, accordyng vnto the numbre of the trybes of the childzen of Israel, that this may be a signe among you. That when your childzen aske their fathers in tyme to come, saying: what meane these stones with you: ye maye answere them how that ẏ waters of Jordane deuided at ẏ presence of the arcke of the appoyntment of the LORD. For whan it went ouer Jordan, ẏ waters of Jordan deuided. And these stones are become a memorial vnto the childzen of Israel for euer.

And the childzen of Israel dyd euẽ so as Josua commaunded, and toke vp* twelue stones out of ẏ middes of Jordan, as the LORDE said vnto Josua, accordynge to the numbre of the tribes of the childzen of Israel, and caried thẽ awaye with them vnto the place where they lodged, and layd thẽ downe there. And Josua set vp twelue stones also in the myddes of Jordan, in ẏ place wher the fete of the priestes whiche bare the arcke of the testament stode.

And there haue they continued vnto this day. For the preastes whiche bare the arke stode in the myddes of Jordã, vntyll all was fynished that the LORD commaunded Josua to saye vnto the people, accordyng to all ẏ Moses charged Josua. And the people hasted & wẽt ouer. It fortuned also, that whan all ẏ people were cleane ouer, the Arke of the LORDE went ouer also, and the Numb. 32.f preastes before the people.* And ỳ childzen of Ruben, and the childzē of Gad, and half the trybe of Manasses wente before the childzen of Israel armed, as Moses charged them. Euen fourtye thousande prepared for warre, wente before the LORD vnto battel, thorow ỳ

And when the preastes ỳ bare the arke of the appoyntmēt of ỳ LORD were come vp out of ỳ myddes of Jordan, and as sone as the soles of ỳ preastes fete were set on ỳ drye lāde, ỳ waters of Jordan retourned againe vnto their place, and wēt ouer al their banckes as they dyd before. And the people came vp out of Jordan the tenth day of the first moneth, and pitched in Gilgal, euen in ỳ east border of ỳ citie Jericho.

And ỳ twelue stones which they toke out of Jordan, did Josua pitche in Gilgal. And he spake vnto the childzen of

¶ The. v. Chapter.

I ¶ The Cananites are afearde.

ANd it fortuned that whē al ỳ kynges of the Amorites which are beyonde Jordan westwarde, & all the kynges of the Cananites whiche were by the sea, hearde how ỳ LORD had dried vp the waters of Jordan before the childzen of Israel vntil they were gone Josue. 2.b ouer, their hartes fainted for feare. And there was no spirite in them any more, for the presence of the childzen of Israel. That same tyme the LORD said Exo. B vnto Josua: Make the sharpe knyues (of stone) and go to againe & circumcise the childzen of Israel ỳ seconde tyme. B
And Josua made him sharpe knyues (of stone) & circūcised ỳ childzē of Israel in the place called ỳ Hyl of ỳ foreskynnes. And this is the cause why Josua circūcysed al the people that came out of Egipt, namely, such as were males: because that al the men of warre, dyed in the wildernes by the waye, after they came out of Egipt. For al ỳ people that came out were circumcised. But all the people ỳ wer borne in ỳ wildernesse by the way after they came out of Egipte, were not circumcised. For ỳ childzen of Israel walked forty yeares in the wilderneslle, tyll all the people of the men of warre that came oute of Egipt wer consumed, because they harkened not vnto the voyce of the LORDE.

Wherfore the LORD sware, that he

And when they had circumcised al the people, they abode stil together in the host til they were whole. And ỳ LORD sayd vnto Josua: this day I haue takē away ỳ shame of Egipt frō you: wherfore ỳ name of the same place is called Gilgal vnto this day. And ỳ childzē of

For ỳ* Manna ceased on ỳ morow af-of the lande, neither had the childzen of Israel Mana any more: but dyd eate of ỳ corne of ỳ lāde of Canaan that yeare.

And it fortuned that whē Josua was nye to Jerico, he lyft vp his eyes & loked: & beholde, there stode a man against him, hauing a swearde drawen in hys hande. And Josua went vnto hym, and sayde vnto him: arte thou on our syde or on oure aduersaryes?

And he sayde: Naye, but as a captaine of the of the hoost of ꝑ LORD am I now come. And Josua fell on his face to ꝑ earthe, & dyd reuerence, & said vnto him: what sayeth my LORD vnto his seruaunte? And the captaine of the LORDES hoost said vnto Josua: *do thy sho of thy fote, for the place wheron thou standest, is holy. And Josua dyd so.

¶ The.vi. Chapter.

The walles of Jericho fall, and it is destroyed.

AND Jericho was shut vp, & locked because of the childzen of Israel, nether might any mā go out or in. And ꝑ LORD said vnto Josua: behold, I haue geuen into thy hande Jericho and and her king & the strong mē of warre. And ye shal compasse the cytie, al ye ꝑ be men of warre, and go rounde about it once, & so shal you do syxe dayes. And seuen prestes shal beare before ꝑ Arke, seuen trompettes of rammes hoznes, (that be vsed in the Jubylie.) And the seuēth daye, ye shall compasse the cytie seuen tymes, and ꝑ prieftes shall blowe with the trompettes.

And when they make a longe blaste with the rāmes hozne, and ye heare the sounde of the hozne, all the people shall showte w a great showte. And thē shal the wal of the citye fal downe, & ꝑ people shall ascende vp, euery man streyght before him. And Josua ꝑ sonne of Nun, called ꝑ prestes & said vnto them: take vp ꝑ arke of ꝑ appoitment, and let seuen prestes beare seuē tröpettes of rāmes hoznes before ꝑ arke of the LORD. And he sayde vnto the people, go & compasse the cytie: and let him that is harnessed, go before the arke of the LORDE. And when Josua had spoken vnto ꝑ people, the seuen prestes bare the seuen trompettes of rammes hoznes, & went forth before the arke of the LORD, and blewe with the trompettes, and the arke of ꝑ B couenaūt of the LORD folowed them.

And al the men of armes went before the prestes, that blewe with ꝑ trompettes, & the commen people came after ꝑ arke: & the prestes that went, blewe with trompettes. And Josua cōmaunded ꝑ people, saying: ye shal not showte, nor make any noyse with your boyce, neyther shal any worde proceede oute of your mouthe, vntil the day I byd you showte, then shall ye showte. And so ꝑ arke of the LORD compassed the cytie, and wente about it once: and they returned into the hoost, & lodged there.

And Josua rose early in ꝑ morninge, and ꝑ prestes toke vp the arke of the LORDE, and seuen prestes bare seuen trompettes of rammes hoznes, & went before the arke of the LORD, and blew with the trompettes. And all the mē of armes went before them, but ꝑ commē people came after the arke of ꝑ LORD, whiche went before vñ the blowynge of the trompettes. And ꝑ seconde day they compassed ꝑ citie once, and returned againe into ꝑ host, & so thei did syxe dates. And when the seuenth day came, they rose early: euen with the dawnyng of ꝑ daye, and compassed the citye after the same maner seuen tymes: only that day they compassed the citie seuen tymes.

And at the seuenth tyme, whan the prestes blewe vñ the trompettes, Josua sayde vnto the people: showte, for ꝑ C LORDE hath geuen you the citye. And the citie shalbe damned, both it and al ꝑ are therin, vnto the LORD: only Rahab ꝑ harlot shal lyue, and al that are vñ her in the house, because she *hyd the messengers that we sent. And in any wyse be ye ware of the excommunicate thinges, lest ye make youre selues excōmunicate, & take of ꝑ excommunicate thinges, and make the host of Israel excommunicate and trouble it. But al the siluer, golde, vessels of brasse, & yron, shalbe consecrate vnto the LORDE, & shal come into his treasurye. *Josua. 2. 6

And the people showted, and blewe vñ trompettes. And whē the people heard the sounde of the trompe, they showted w a great showt: & the* wall fel downe, so that the people went vp into ꝑ cytie: euery man streight before him, and toke the citie. And they vtterlye destroyed al that was in the cytie bothe man & woman, yonge and olde, oxe, shepe and asse, with the edge of the swearde. E *Hebr. 11. f.

Then Josua sayde vnto the two men that had spyed out the contreye: * goe into the harlottes house, & bzynge out thence the womā, and al that she hath, *as ye sware to her. And the younge men that wer spyes, went in, & brought out Rahab, and her father & mother, and her bzethzen, and all that she had. And they brought out all her kynred, and put them without the hoost of Israel. D *Hebr. 11. f *Josue. 2. 6

And they burnt the citie with fyer, & al that was therin. Only the siluer and the gold, the vessels of brasse and yron they put vnto the treasure of the house the LORDE. * And Josua saued Rahab the harlotte, and her fathers household, and al ỹ she had, and she dweit in Israel, euen vnto this day because she hyd the messengers, whiche Josua sent to spye out Jericho.

Heb. vi. f

And Josua swore at that tyme, saying: cursed be the man before ỹ LORD, ỹ ryseth vp, and bildeth this cytie Jericho: he shal laye the foundacio* in his eldest sonne, and in his yongest sonne shall he set vp the gates of it. And so the LORD was with Josua, & his fame was noysed thorowe out all landes.

Kaios spredeth Jean to stoned.

A

BVt yet the childrē of Israel trespased in the * excōmunicate thinges. And * Jean the son of Carmy, the sonne of zabdi the sonne of zareth of the tribe of Juda, toke of the excommunicate thinges. And the wrath of the LORDE wared whote against the childrē of Israell.

Deute. vii. d. Iosu. xxii. d. * Iosu. xxii. d. Heb. vi. d. Iosu. vii. f.

And Josua sent men frō Jericho to Hai, which is beside Bethauē, on ỹ east side of Bethel, & spake vnto thē, saying: get you vp, & bewe ỹ countrey. And the mē wēt vp, & spied out Hai. And returned to Josua, & said vnto him, let not al the people go vp, but lette as it were a two or thre thousande men goe vp, and smite Hai, and make not al the pepie to labour thither, for they are but fewe.

And so there went vp thither, of the people, about a thre thousande mē, and they fled before ỹ men of Hai. And the men of Hai smote of them vpon a thirtye and syre men: for they chased them from before the gate euen vnto Sebarim, & smote them in the goyng downe.

Psal. xxi. c.

Wherfore, the hertes of the people* for feare, melted away like water. And Josua rent his clothes, & fel to ỹ earth vpon his face before the arcke of ỹ Lord, vntil the euen tide, he & the elders of Israel, and put earth vpon theyr heades.

Deut. ix. d

And Josua said* Alas, O Lord God, wherfore hast thou brought this people ouer Jordan, to delyuer vs into ỹ hāde of ỹ Amorites, & to destroye vs: wold to GOD we had bene content, & dwelt on the other syde Jordan. Oh Lord what shal I say, when Israell turneth theyr backes before their enemyes: Surely ỹ Cananites, & al ỹ enhabiters of ỹ Lāde shal heare of it, & shal conspire against vs, and destroye the name of vs out of the worlde: And what wylte thou do vnto thy myghtye name?

And the LORD sayde vnto Josua: get the vp: wherfore lyest thou thus vpō thy face? Israel hath synned, and they haue transgressed myne appointment, which I commaunded thē: for they haue takē of the excommunicate thinges, & haue stolen, and dissembled, & put them vnto their owne stuffe. And therefore is it ỹ ỹ childrē of Israel cannot stande before their enemies, but shal turne their backes before their enemyes because they be excommunicate. Nether wil I be with you any moare, excepte ye rote out the excommunicate from amonge you.

Exo.

* Vp therfore, and sanctifie ỹ people, & say: sanctifye your selues against to morow, for so saith ỹ LORD GOD of Israel. There is a damned thing amonge you (O Israel,) & therfore ye cannot stande against your enemies, vntil ye haue put the dāned thing frō amōg you. To morow morning therfore ye shalbe brought accordīg to your tribes. And the tribe which ỹ LORD taketh, shal come accordīg to the kinreds therof. Deut. vii. c.

And so Josua rose vp erly in ỹ morning and brought Israel by their tribes: and ỹ tribe of Juda was caught. And he brought ỹ kynredes of Juda, & toke the kynred of ỹ zarehites. Iosu. vi. d. Deut. xii. c.

D

And Josua said vnto Jean: my sonne I beseche thee, geue glorye to ỹ LORD GOD of Israell, and geue him prayse, and shewe me what thou haste done, hyde it not from me.

And Jean answered Josua, and sayd: of a truthe I haue synned against the

LORDE

LORD GOD of Israel, & thus & thus haue I done. I sawe amonge ꝑ spoyle a goodlye Babyloniſhe garment, and two hundred sicles of syluer, & a tonge of golde of fyftie sycles weyght, and I coueted them, and toke them. And beholde they lie hyd in ꝑ earth in my tent and the syluer is there vnder.

And so Josua sent messegers, which when they ran vnto his tent, beholde, they were hyd in his tent, and ꝑ syluer there vnder.

Therfore, they toke them out of the myddest of his tent, and brought them vnto Josua, & vnto al ꝑ chyldre of Israel, & layed the out before the LORD.

And Josua toke Achan the sonne of Zareth, and the siluer, and the garmēt, and ꝑ rong of golde, and hys sons and his daughters, his oxen, and his asses, his shepe, and his tent, and all that he had, and al Israel with him, broughte them vnto the valey of Achor.

And Josua sayde: Inas muche as thou hast troubled vs, the LORD shall trouble the this day. And al Israel stoned him wt stones, & burned thē with fyre, and ouerwhelmed them wt stones. And cast vpō hi a great heape of stones vnto thys day. And so the LORDE turned from the wrath of hys indignacion. And the name of the place is called the valey of Achor vnto this daye.

¶ The.viii. Chapter.

The seege and wynning of Hai. The kyng therof is hanged. Josua setteth vp an altar. He blesseth the people.

AND the LORDE sayd vnto Josua: *feare not, neither be thou fayntharted. Take al the men of warre with thee, and vp: and get thee to Hai. Beholde, I haue geuen into thy hand, the kynge of Hai, and hys people, hys cytie and his lande.

And thou shalte do to Hai and her kynge, as thou dyddest vnto *Jericho and her kynge. Neuertheles, the spoile and *cattell therof, shall ye take vnto your selues: And lay a watch vnto the towne, on the backsyde therof.

And so Josua arose, and all the men of warre to go vp agaynste Hai. And Josua chose out thyrty thousand strōg men of warre, and sent them away by vyghte. And he commaunded them, sayinge: beholde, ye shall laye a wayte vnto the towne on the backsyde therof. Go not very farre from the citie, but be all ready.

And I, and al the people that are wt me, wyll approche vnto the cytie. And when they come oute agaynste vs, as they did at the fyrst tyme, then wyll we flee before them. For they will come out after vs: and we wyll bringe them out of the citie. For they wyll saye: they flee before vs, as at the first tyme, and we wyll flee before them. In the meane tyme shall ye ryse vp from lying awaite and destroy the citie: For the LORDE your GOD wyll deliuer it into your hand. And whan ye haue taken ꝑ citie, ye shall set it on fire.

Accordyng to the commaundement of the LORD shal ye do: behold, I haue charged you. Josua therefore sent thē forth, and they went to lye awaite, and abode betwene Bethel and Hai, on the west syde of the cytie of Hai. But Josua lodged that night amōge ꝑ people.

And Josua rose vp early in the morninge, and numbred the people, & went vp, he and the elders of Israel before the people against Hai. And al the men of warre that were with him, went vp and drue nye, and came against ꝑ citie, and pytched on the north syde of Hai. And there was a valey betwene them and Hai. And he toke vpon a fiue thousande men, and put them to lye awaite, betwene Bethell and Hai, on the west syde of the citie. And they put ꝑ people (euen al the host that were on ꝑ north syde) agaynst the cytie, and the lyers awayte on the west. And Josua walked the same vyght in the myddes of ꝑ valey. And it fortuned, that when ꝑ kinge of Hai sawe it, they hasted and rose vp earely, and the men of the cytye wente out agaynste Israell to battell, he and all his people at a tyme appoynted, euen before the plaine, and wist not that there were liers awayte on the backe syde of the cytie.

And Josua and all Israell fayned them selues to be put to the worse before them, and fled toward the wildernesse. And all the people of the towne were called togethe, to folowe after them. And they folowed after Josua & were drawen awaye frō the cytie: And there was not a man lefte in Hai, & in Bethel, that went not out after Israel. And they lefte the cytie open, and solowed after Israel.

And the LORDE sayde vnto Josua: stretche out the speare that is in thyne hande towarde Hai, for I wyll geue it into thy hande. And Josua stretched out the speare that he had in his hand, towarde the citie. And the lyers awaite arose quickely out of theyr place, & ran assone as Josua had stretched out hys hande, and they entred into the cytye, & toke it, and hasted, and set the cytye on fyre. And when the men of Hai loked backe after them, they sawe the smoke of the citie ascende vp to heauen. And they had no leysure to flye, eyther thys waye or that, and the people that fled to the wildernes, turned backe againe vpon the folowers.

And when Josua and al Israel saw that the lyers awayte had taken the cytie, and that the smoke of it ascended, they turned agayne, and layed on the men of Hai. And the other issued oute of the cytie agaynst them. And so were they in the myddest of Israell: for these were on the one side of them, and ꝑ rest on the other syde. * And they layed vpon them, so that they let none of them eskape, nor remayne. And the kynge of Hai they toke alyue, and brought hym to Josua. And when Israel had made an ende of slayinge all the inhabiters of Hai in the felde of the wyldernesse, where they chased thē, and when they were all fallen on the edge of ꝑ sword, vntyll they were wasted, all the Israelites returned vnto Hai, & smote it in the edge of the sword. And al ꝑ fel that day, both of men & womē, were twelue thousande, euen all the men of Hai.

Josua. 8.c

For Josua plucked not his hande backe agayne whiche he stretched out vpon the speare, vntyll he had vtterly destroyed all the enhabitours of Hai.

Num. 31.b. Deut. 20.c

* Onely the cattell and the spoyle of ꝑ cytie, Israel toke vnto themselues, accordyng vnto the worde of the LORD, whiche he commaunded Josua. And Josua set Hai on fyre, and made it an heape for euer, and a wyldernesse, euen vnto this daye. And the kynge of Hai he hanged on a tree, vntyll euen. And assone as the sunne was down, Josua cōmaunded * that they should take the carkasse downe of the tree, and caste it at the entryng of the gate of the cytye, & * laye theron a great heape of stones, that remayneth vnto this daye.

Josua. 7.b

Then Josua * buylte an alter vnto the LORDE GOD of Israel, in mount Ebal, as Moses the seruaunte of the LORDE commaunded the childzen of Israel, and as it is wzitten in ꝑ * boke of ꝑ law of Moses: an * altar of whole stones, ouer which no mā hath lyft any tole of yron. And they sacrificed theron burnt sacrifices vnto ꝑ LORD, & offred peaceofferinges. And he wzot therypō ꝑ stones, a rehearsall of ꝑ lawe of Moses, and wzote it in the pzesence of the childzen of Israel.

Deut. 7.a

Deut. 27.b

Exo. 20.c

And al Israel and the elders therof, and theyr offycers and Judges stode, parte on thys syde the arke, and parte on that syde, before the pziestes ꝑ were Leuites, whyche bare the arke of the appointment of the LORDE: as wel the straunger, as they that were borne amōge them: halfe of them on ꝑ forefrōt of mouṫ Garizim, and halfe of them on the forefront of mount Ebal: as Moses the seruaunt of the LORDE had cōmaunded before, that they should bielle the people Israel. Afterward, he red al the wordes of the lawe, the bieslynges and curslynges, accordyng to al that is wzitten in the boke of the lawe: And there was not one wozde of all ꝑ Moses commaunded, which Josua red not before all the congregation of Israell: The women and childzen, (and the straungers that were come) standyng amonge them.

The.ix. Chapter.

The Gibeonites obtayne peace of Josua.

AND it foztuned that when all the kinges ꝑ dwell on thys syde Jordan, in the hylles and valeyes, & alonge by all the coastes of the greate sea, ouer agaynste Libanon, (Namely the Hethites, the Amozites, the Cananites, the Pherezites, the Heuites & the Jebusites) hearde therof, they gathered themselues together, to fyghte agaynst Josua, and against Israel with one accozde.

1

* And the enhabytours of Gibeon heard what Josua had done vnto Jericho, and to Hai. And they dyd wozke wyply, and wente, and made themselues embassadours, & toke (them vitayles/ and) olde sackes vpon their Asses, and wyne bottelles old, and rent & wozne, and old clouted shoes vpon their fete,

and

and their raiment was olde, & all their prouision of breade was dryed vp, and houred. And they came vnto Josua into the hooste, to Gilgall, and sayd vnto him, and vnto all the men of Israel: we be come from a far countrye and nowe make ye agrement with vs. And the men of Israell sayde vnto the Heuyte:
peraduenture thou dwellest amonge vs: and then howe can I make peace wyth thee?

B And they sayde vnto Josua: we are thy seruauntes. And Josua sayde vnto them agayne: what are ye? and whence come ye? They answered hym: From a very farre country thy seruauntes are come, for the name of the LORDE thy GOD: for we haue hearde the fame (of the power) of hym, and all that he dyd in Egypte, and all that he dyd to the two *kynges of the Amorites that were beyonde Jordan, Sehon kyng of Hesbon, and Og kyng of Basan, whiche was at Astharoth. Wherefore, oure elders and al the enhabytours of our cō-trey spake to vs, saying: take vytayles with you to serue by the waye, and go mete them, and saye vnto them: we are your seruauntes. And now make ye a couenaunt of peace with vs. This our foode of breade, we toke with vs out of our houses whotte, the daye we departed to come vnto you. And now be-holde, it is dried vp and houred. And these bottels of wyne which we filled, were newe: and se they be rente. And these oure garmentes and shoes, are worne for oldnes, by the reason of ỳ ex-ceadyng long iourney.

C And the men toke of theyr vitayles, and counceled not with the mouth of ỳ LORDE. And Josua made peace with 1.Reg.11.f them, and *made a couenaūt w them, that they should be suffred to lyue: and the Lordes of the congregacion sware vnto them: And it fortuned, that three daies after they had made peace with them, they hearde that they were theyr neighbours, and that they dwelt amonge them. And the childzen of Israell toke their iourney, and came vnto their cyties the thirde day, and their cities were Gibeon, and Caphira, Be-roth and Kariath Jarim. And ỳ children of Israel slewe them not, because the Lordes of the congregacyon had sworne vnto them by the LORD GOD of Israell. And all the multitude murmured agaynste the Lordes. But all the Lordes said vnto al ỳ congregacy-on: we haue sworne vnto them, by the LORDE GOD of Israell, and therfore we maye not hurte them. But thys we D will do to them. We wyll let them lyue, lest wrath be vpō vs because of ỳ othe whiche we sware vnto them. And the Lordes sayde vnto them agayne: Let them lyue, *and hewe wood, and draw Deut.29.b water vnto al ỳ congregaciō, and they dyd as the Lordes sayde vnto them.

And Josua sent for them, and talked with them, and sayd: wherfore haue ye begiled vs, saying: We dwell farre frō you, when ye dwell among vs? & nowe are ye cursed, and there shall not cease to be of you, bonde men, and hewers of woode, and drawers of water for the house of my GOD.

And they answered Josua & sayde:
it was tolde thy seruauntes, how that the LORD thy GOD, had commaunded his seruaunte Moses, to geue you all the lande, and to destroye all the enhabitoures therof out of your syght, and therfore we were exceadyng sore afraid (and dyd prouide) for oure lyues at ỳ presence of you, and haue done this thing:
and beholde we are in thyne hande, as it semeth good and ryght in thine eyes to do vnto vs, so do.

And euen so dyd he vnto them, and ryd them oute of the hande of the children of Israell, and they slewe thē not.
And Josua made them that same daye hewers of wod, and drawers of water for the congregation, and for the alter of GOD vnto this day, in ỳ place which GOD shoulde chose.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

¶ The Amorites are ouercome of Josua. Je rayneth stones. The sunne standeth styll. The
v. Kynges are hanged.

A And it fortuned, that when Adonizedech kynge of Jerusalem had hearde how Josua had take Hai, and had distroyed it, & howe that *as Josua. 6.c he had done to Jericho and her kyng, and.8.a euen so he had done to Hai & her king, and howe the enhabytours of Gibeon had made peace with Israel, and were amonge them, they feared exceadyngly:
for Gibeon was a greate cytye, as any citie of the kyngdome, and was greater then Hai, and all the men thereof
were

were very myghtie.

Wherfore Adonizedech kyng of Ierusalem, sent vnto Hoham king of Hebrō, and vnto Piria king of Jarmuth, and vnto Japhia king of Lachis, & vnto Debir king of Eglon, saying: Come vp vnto me, and helpe me, that we may smyte Gibeō: for they haue made peace with Josua, and wyth the chyldren of Israell. Therfore the .v. kynges of the Amorites, the kynge of Ierusalem, the kyng of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachis, & the king of Eglō gathered themselues togither: they w al their hostes, and besieged Gibeon, & made warre agaynst it.

And the men of Gibeon sente vnto Josua, and to the hoste of Gilgall, saying: withdrawe not thy hand from thy seruauntes, come vp to vs, to saue vs and to helpe vs. For all the kynges of the Amorites whiche dwell in the mountaynes, are gathered together agaynst vs.

And so Josua ascēded from Gilgal, he and al ꝑ people of warre wyth him, and all ꝑ men of myght, and the LORD sayde vnto Josua: feare them not, for I haue delyuered thē into thyne hand. Neyther shall anye of them stande agaynst thee. Josua therfore came vnto them sodenly, and went vp from Gilgall al nyght. And the LORD troubled them before Israel, and slewe them w a great slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them along the way that goeth vp to Bethoron, and smote thē to Esaka and Makeda. And it fortuned, that as they fled from Israell, and were in the goyng downe to Bethoron, the LORD caste downe greate stones from heauē vpon them, vntyl Esaka. And there were mo dead with hayle stones, then they were whom the chyldren of Israel slewe with the swerde.

Then spake Josua before the LORD, in the daye when the LORD delyuered the Amorytes before the chyldren of Israell, and he sayd in the syght of Israell. * Sunne stande thou styll vpon Gibeon, and thou Moone, in Ialon. And the Sunne abode, and ꝑ Moone stoode styll, vntyll the people auenged themselues vpon their enemyes. Is not this wrytten in ꝑ boke of the righteous. The Sunne (I say) abode in the myddest of heuen, and hasted not to go downe by the space of a whole daye. And there was no day lyke that, before it, or after it, that the LORDE hearde the voyce of a man. For the LORDE fought for Israell.

And Josua retourned, and al Israel with him vnto the hoste to Gilgall: but the fyue kynges fled, and were hyd in a caue at Makeda. And it was told Josua of one, saying: the fyue kynges are founde hyd in a Caue which is at Makeda. And Josua sayde roule greate stones vpon the mouth of the caue, and set men by it, for to kepe them.

And stande ye not styll, but folow after your enemyes, & smyte al ꝑ hindermost: And suffre them not to entre into their cyties, for the LORD your GOD hath delyuered them into your hande. And it fortuned when Josua and the chyldren of Israell had made an ende of sleyinge them with an exceadynge great slaughter, tyl they were wasted, the rest that remayned of them, entred into walled cyties.

And al the people returned to ꝑ host, to Josua at Makeda in peace, neither dyd any man moue his tonge agaynst the chyldren of Israell. Then sayd Josua: open the mouthe of the caue, and bryng out these .v. kynges vnto me out of the caue. And they dyd so, & brought those .v. kynges vnto him out of ꝑ caue, euen the kyng of Ierusalem, the kynge of Hebron, the kynge of Jarmuth, the kyng of Lachys, and ꝑ kyng of Eglon.

And it fortuned, that when they brought out those kinges vnto Josua: Josua called for all ꝑ men of Israell, & sayd vnto ꝑ chief of ꝑ mē of war, which wente with him: come nere, and putte your fete vpō ꝑ neckes of these kinges. And they came nere and put their fete vpon the neckes of them. And Josua sayde vnto them, ye shall not feare nor be fayntе herted: But be stronge and plucke vp your hertes, for thus shall ꝑ LORDE do to al your enemies agaynst whom ye fyghte.

And then Josua smote them, & slewe them, and hāged them on .v. trees. And they hanged styll vpon the trees vntil the euenyng. And at ꝑ goyng down of the Sunne, it fortuned ꝑ Josua gaue commaundement, and they toke them downe of the *trees, and caste them in- to ꝑ caue, (wherin they had bene hyd)

and

slayed great stones on ꝑ caues mouth, whiche remaine vntyll this daye.

And that same day Josua toke Maketa and smote it with the edge of the swearde, and the kyng therof also *destroyed he vtterly, with al the soules ꝑ were therin, and let nought remayne. And he dyd to the king of Maketa *as he dyd vnto the kynge of Jericho.

Then Josua went from Maketa, & all Israell with him vnto Libna, and fought against Libna. And the LORD delyuered it, and the kynge therof into the hande of Israel: and he smote it wᵗ the edge of the swerde, and all the soules that were therin. He let nought remayne in it, but dyd vnto ꝑ kyng therof as he dyd vnto the kyng of Jericho.

And Josua departed from Libna, & all Israel with him vnto Lachys, and besieged it, and assaulted it. And the LORDE deliuered Lachys into ꝑ hand of Israel, which toke it the second day, and smote it with the edge of ꝑ sweard, and all the soules that were therein, doyng accordyng to al, as he had done to the citie of Libna.

Then Horam kynge of Geser came vp to helpe Lachys: And Josua smote hym and his people, vntyll noughte remayned of him.

And from Lachys Josua departed, vnto Eglon, and al Israell with him, & they besieged it, and assaulted it, & toke it the same daye, and smote it with the edge of swearde, and all the soules that were therin he vtterly destroied ꝑ same daye, accordynge to al that he had done to Lachys.

And Josua departed vp from Eglon and all Israell with him, vnto Hebrō. And they fought agaynst it, and when they had taken it, they smote it with ꝑ edge of the sweard, and the kyng therof, and al the townes that pertained to it, and all the soules that were therein, and he lefte nought remaynynge: but dyd accordyng to al as he had done to Eglon, and destroyed it vtterly, and al the soules that were therin.

And Josua returned, and al Israel with him to Dabir, and fought against it. And when he had taken it, and the kynge therof, and all the townes that pertayned thereto, they smote them wᵗ the edge of the sweard, and vtterly destroyed al the soules that were therin, neyther let he ought remaine. Euen as he dyd to Hebron, so he dyd to Dabir and the king therof, as he had done also to Libna, and her kyng.

Josua therfore smote all the hil countreyes, & the south countreyes, & ꝑ valleyes, and the hyll sydes, and all theyr kinges, and let nought remaine of the, but vtterly destroyed all ꝑ * breathed, as the LORDE GOD of Israell commaūded. And Josua smote them from Cades barne vnto Hasa, and al the cōtreye of Gosan, euen vnto Gibeon. All those kynges and their lande dyd Josua take at one tyme: because ꝑ LORD GOD of Israel fought for Israel. And Josua and all Israel retourned vnto ꝑ host that was in Gilgal.

Deut. 20. d

The. xi. Chapter.

The battaile of Josua with diuerse kynges.

AND it fortuned, that when Jabin kynge of Hazor, had heard those thinges: he sent to Jobab kyng of Madon, and to the kynge of Simrom, and to the kynge of Achsaph, and vnto the kynges that are by the north in the mountaynes, and plaines towarde the southsyde of Cenereth, and in the low countreys: and in the borders of Dor, westwarde, and vnto the Cananites, both by easte and west, and vnto the Amorites, Hethites, Pherezites, & Gebusites in the mountaynes: and vnto the Heuites that wer vnder Hermō in the lāde of Mizpa: And they came out and all their hostes with them, a multitude of folke, euen as the sāde that is on the sea shore in a great numbre wᵗ horses & charrettes exceedynge manye. And all these kynges met together, and came and pitched together at the waters of Merom, for to fyght against Israel.

And the LORDE sayd vnto Josua: be not afrayde at the presence of them: for to morowe about this tyme wyl I deliuer them al slayne before Israel: thou shalt hough their horses, & burne theyr charrettes with fyre. And so Josua came, and all the men of warre wᵗ hym against them by ꝑ waters of Merom. and sodenly fel vpon them. And the LORDE delyuered them into the hand of Israell: and they smote them, & chased them vnto great Sidon, and vnto the whot waters, and vnto the baleye of Mizpa which is Eastward: & smote them vntyll they had none remaynyng of them. And Josua did vnto them, as the LORDE bad hym: he houghed their horses, and burute their charrettes wyth fyre.

And Josua at ỳ tyme turned backe and toke Hazor, and smote the kynge therof with the swearde. And Hazor before tyme was the heade of all those kyngdomes. And they smote all the soules that were therin with the edge of the swearde, vtterly destroyng all: nothyng ỳ breathed, was let remayne. And he burnt Hazor with fyre. And all the cyties of those kynges, and all the kynges of them did Josua take, and smote them with the edge of ỳ sweard, and vtterlye destroyed them* as Moses the seruaunte of the LORDE commaunded.

Exod. 17. b and. 4. b Deut. 7.

But Israel burnt none of the cyties that stode styll in their strength, saue Hazor onely that Josua burnt. And al the spoyle of the sayde cities and ỳ catel, the childzen of Israell caught vnto them selues. But the men only they smote with the edge of the sweard vntyll they had destroyed them, neyther leste they ought that had breath. As ỳ LORDE commaunded Moses his seruaunt, so dyd Moses commaunde Josua, and euen so dyd Josua* so that he minished no word of all that ỳ LORDE commaunded Moses.

Deut. 10. d

And so Josua toke all the lande, the hylles and all the south countrey, and all the land of Gosan, and the lowe cõtrey, and ỳ playne, and the mountaine of Israel, and the lowe countrey of the same, euen from the mount of parting, that goeth vp to Seir, vnto the playne of Gad in the valey of Libanon, vnder mount Hermon. And al the kynges of the same he toke, and smote them. And slewe them.

Josua made warre long tyme with those kynges: neyther was there anye cytie that made peace with the childzẽ of Israell, saue those Hethites that enhabited Gibeon, and therefore al other they toke with battayle, for it came of the LORDE, whiche dyd harden theyr hertes that they shoulde come against Israell in battayle, and ỳ they shoulde destroy them vtterly, and shewe them no mercy, but to bring them to nought: As the LORDE commaunded Moses.

And that same season came Josua, and destroyed the Enakites out of the mountaynes: Namely out of Hebron, Dabir, Anab, and out of all the mountaynes of Juda, and out of al ỳ mountaynes of Israell. And Josua destroyed them vtterly, with their cities. Ther was not one Enakite leste in the lande of the childzen of Israel, onely in Asah, *Geth, and Asdod, there remayned of them.

Num. 13. c

And Josua toke the whole land, accordyng to all that the LORDE sayde vnto Moses, and Josua gaue it for a possession vnto Israell* accordynge to their partes and trybes: and the lande rested from warre.

¶ The.xiii. chapter.

Josua is commaunded to deuide the land to the children of Israel.

IOsua was olde, and stryken in yeres, and the LORDE sayd vnto hym: thou art olde and striken in yeres, and there remaineth yet exceedyng muche lande to be possessed. This is ꝑ land that yet remayneth: al the regions of the Philistines: & all Gesuri: from Nilus which is on the outwarde parte of Egypte, vnto the bozders of Ekron northwarde: whiche lande is counted vnto Cananie, euen fyue lozdshyppes of the Philistines, the Asathites, Asdothites, Ascalonites, Gethites Akaronites, and the Euytes. And frō the south: all the lande of the Cananites, and the caue that is besyde ꝑ Sydonianes, euen vnto Appher, and to ꝑ bozder of the Amozytes. And ꝑ lande of the Giblytes, & al Libanon, toward the Sunne rysyng, from the playne of Gad vnder mounte Hermon, vntyll a man come to Hemath: all the enhabitours of the hill countrey from Libanon vnto the whot waters: and all the Sidonianes, will I cast out from before the children of Israel: onely se that thou in any wyse deuide it by lot vnto the Israelites, to enherite, as I haue commaunded thee. Nowe therfore deuyde this lande to enherite, vnto the nyne trybes and the halfe tribe of Manasses. For with the other halfe ꝑ Rubenites and the Gaddites haue receyued their enheritaūce, *which Moses gaue them beyonde Jozdan eastward: euen as Moses the seruaunte of the LORDE gaue them: from Aroer that lyeth on the bzym of the ryuer Arnon, and from the cytie that is in the myddest of the ryuer. And all the playne of Medeba vnto Dibon, and al the cities of Sehō kyng of the Amozites, which raygned in Hesbon, euen vnto the bozde of the childzen of Ammon: and Gilead, and the bozder of Gesuri & Machati, and all mounte Hermon, with all Basan vnto Salecah: euen all the kyngdome of Og in Basan, whiche reygned in Astharoth & Edzai: whiche same remayned yet of the rest of ꝑ Giauntes. These dyd Moses smyte, and cast them out.

Neuertheless, the childzen of Israel expelled not the Gesurites and ꝑ Machathites: But the Gesurites and the Machathites dwell among the Israelites euen vntyll this daye. Onely vnto the trybe of Leui, he gaue none enherytaunce: *But the offerynge of the LORDE GOD of Israell is their enheritaunce, as he sayde vnto them.

Moses gaue vnto the trybe of the chyldzen of Ruben, enheritaunce, accozdyng to theyr kynredes. And theyr coast was from Aroer that lyeth on ꝑ bancke of the ryuer Arnon, and from the cytie that is in the myddest of the ryuer, and all the playne whiche is by Medeba, Hesbō, with al theyr townes that lye in the playne: Dibon and ꝑ hul places of Baal, and the house Baalmeō: and Jahazah, and Kedemoth and Mephaah Kiriathaim, Sabamath, & Zarath zahar in the mounte of ꝑ valley, the house of Peoz, and ꝑ spyrynges of the hylles: and Bethpheoz, and the spyrynges of Phasgah: & Bethiesimoth:

and all the cyties of the playne. And all the kyngdome of Sehon kynge of the Amorites, whiche reygned in Hesbon, Num. 21. a whiche Moses smote* with the lordes of Madian, Eui, Rekem, Zur and Hur & Reba, the whiche were dukes of Sehon, dwellyng in the countrey. And Balaam also, the sonne of Beor the sothsayer, dyd the chyldren of Israell slaye with the sweard, among other of them that were slayne. And the border of the chyldren of Ruben was Jordan, with the countrey that lyeth theron. This was the enheritaunce of ỹ chyldren of Ruben after their kynredes, cytyes & vyllages perteynyng thereto.

D And Moses gaue enherytaunce vnto the trybe of Gad, euen vnto ỹ childrē of Gad he gaue by theyr kynredes. And their coastes were Jazer, and all ỹ cyties of Gilead, and halfe the land of the chyldren of Ammon vnto Aroer that lyeth before Rabba. And from Hesbon vnto Ramoth, Mazphah, & Betonim: and from Mahanaim vnto ỹ borders of Lidbir. And in ỹ valey they had Betharam Bethnimra, Socoth, and Zaphon, the rest of the kyngdō of Sehon kynge of Hesbon, vnto Jordan and the coastes that lye theron euen vnto the edge of the see of Cenereth, on ỹ other syde Jordan Eastewarde. This is the enherytaunce of the chyldren of Gad, after their kynredes, theyr cytyes and vyllages.

A And Moses gaue enheritaunce vnto the halfe trybe of Manasses. And this was the possessiō of the halfe tribe of Manasses by their kynredes. Their coaste was from Mahanaim, euen all Basan, & all the kyngdome of Og kyng of Basan, and all the townes of Jair whiche lye in Basan, euen thyrtescore cities, and halfe Gilead, Astaroth, and Edrai, cytyes of the kyngdome of Og Num. 32. g in Basan* whiche perteyne vnto the chyldren of Machir the sonne of Manasses, euen the halfe porcyon of the chyldren of Machir by their kynredes.

These are the thynges whiche Moses did distribute in the feldes of Moab on the other syde Jordan ouer a- Josu. 13. b gaynst Jericho eastwarde. * But vnto the trybe of Leui, Moses gaue none enheritaūce, for the LORD GOD of Is- Num. 18. c rael is their enheritaūce, *as he sayde vnto them.

The.xiiii. Chapter.

Caleb requireth the heritage that was promysed him, and Hebron was gyuen him.

AND these are the countreyes which the chyldren of Israell enherited in the lande of Canaan, *whiche Eleazer the preest, & Josua the son of Num. 34. Nun, and the aunciente heades of the tribes of the chyldren of Israell, distributed to them.

By lot they receyued theyr possessions, as the LORDE commaunded, by Num. 26. the hand of Moses, to geue vnto the nyne trybes, and vnto the halfe trybe. For Moses had gyuen enherytaunce vnto two trybes and an halfe, on the other syde Jordan. But vnto the Leuites he gaue none enheritaunce among them. For the childrē of Joseph were Gen. 48. two trybes. Manasses and Ephraim. And therfore they gaue no parte vnto the Leuites in the lande, saue cities to dwell in, with the suburbes of ỹ same, for their beastes and cattell. * As the Num. LORDE commaunded Moses: euen so the chyldren of Israell dyd when they deuided the lande.

B And the chyldren of Juda came vnto Josua in Gilgal.* And Caleb the son Num. 13. of Jephune ỹ kenesite sayd vnto hym: thou wottest what the LORDE sayde vnto Moses the man of GOD, aboute my matter and thine in Cades Barne. *Fortie yere old was I when Moses Num. 14. the seruaunt of the LORDE sent me frō Cadesbarne to espie out the land: And I brought him word agayne euen as it was in myne herte. Neuertheless my brethren that went vp with me, discouraged the herte of the people. And I folowed the LORD GOD.

C And Moses sware the same daye: saying* the land wheron thy fete haue Nu. 14. Deu. 1. troden, shalbe thyne enheritaunce and thy chyldrens for euer, because thou hast folowed the LORD GOD. And beholde, the LORD hath kept me aliue Exo. 16. (as he sayd) *this fortie and fiue yeres euen synce the LORD spake this worde vnto Moses, while the children of Israel wandred in the wildernesse. And now lo I am thys day fourscore and .v. yere old: & yet am as strōg at this tyme, as I was when Moses sente me: loke how strong I was thē, so strong am I now, whether I go to warre, or to come agayne.

D Now therfore gyue me this mountain whereof the LORD spake in ỹ daye, for thou thou hardest in that daye, howe the Enakims are there, and the cityes great and walled. Peraduenture the LORD wil be wt me, & I shall be able to dryue them out, as the LORD said: And Josua blessed him, and gaue vnto Caleb the sonne of Jephune, Hebron to enherit: And Hebron therfore became the enheritaunce of Caleb þ sonne of Jephune the kenesite, vnto this day: because he folowed þ LORD GOD of Israel. And the name of *Hebrō was called in olde tyme, Kariah Arbe. For the same was a great man among the Enakims. And the lande ceased from warre.

The.xv. Chapter.

¶ The lotte of the children of Juda, and the names of the cytes and vyllages of the same.

1 THis was the lotte of the trybe of the childrē of Juda by their kynredes. Namely, towarde the bozder of Edom in the wildernesse of zin, southwarde, euen from the vtmost part
Num.34.b of the south coaste. * And their southe coaste was from the bzynke of the salt sea, from a rocke þ leaneth southward. And it wente out to the south syde towarde the goyng vp to Acrabim, & wēt a long to zinna, and ascended vp on the southsyde vnto Cades barne: and went along to Hezron, and went vp to Adar, and fet a compasse to Karca. Frō thence went it along to Azmon, and reached vnto the ryuer of Egipt and the ende of that coast was on the weste syde. And this is their south coast.

B Their east coast is the salt sea, euen vnto the edge of Jozdan. And their bozder in the nozthe quarter was frō the rocke of the sea and from the edge of Jozdan. And the same bozder went vp to Bethhagla, and went alonge by the nozthsyde of Betharabah, and vp from thence to the stone of Bohen the sonne of Ruben. And againe, the same bozder went vp to Dabir from the valleye of Acoz, and so nozthwarde, turnynge towarde Gilgal, þ lyeth before þ goynge vp to Adonim, whiche is of the southe syde of the ryuer. And the same bozder went vp to the waters of the fountaine
1.Reg.1 of the Sunne, and ended at the *wel of Rogel. And then went vp to the valeye of the sonne of Hemon, euen vnto the south syde of Jebusi: the same is Jerusalem. And then went vp to the toppe of the hylle that lyeth before the valey of Hennon westwarde, and by the edge of the valey of the Giaunts nozthwarde: And then it compasseth from the toppe of the hyll vnto the fountayne of þ water of Nephthoah, and goeth out at the cyties of mount Ephzon: and drawe th to Baala, which is Kiriathiarim, (That is a cityе of woodes) and then it compasseth from Balah westwarde vnto mounte Seir, and then goeth a long vnto þ side of mount Jarim, whiche (is Chesalon) on the nozth syde. And commeth downe to Bethsames, & goeth to Thamnah, and goeth out againe vnto the syde of Akaron nozthwarde: And thē drawe th to Secron and goeth a long to mount Balah, & goeth out at Jabnel: and the endes of the coastes leaue at þ west sea. And the west bozder was the great sea, & þ same coast was þ coast of þ childzen of Juda roūde about in their kinredes. C

And vnto Caleb þ sonne of Jephune did Josua geue a parte among þ childzē of Juda, accozding to the mouth of the Josu.14.b
LORD, euen * Kiriatharbe of the father of Enoch, whiche cityе is Hebzon. And Caleb dzoue thence the thze sonnes of Enach, Sesai, and Ahman, and Thalmai, whiche were the sonnes of Enach. And he went vp thence, to the enhabytoures of Dabir. And the name of Dabir in þ olde tyme was Kariath sepher. (That is a cyte of letters.) And Caleb sayd: Judic.1.c *he that smyteth Kariath sepher, & taketh it, to him wyll I geue Achsah my doughter to wife. And Othniel, þ sonne of Kenes, the bzother of Caleb toke it. And he gaue him Achsah his doughter to wyfe: And as she wente in vnto him, she moued him, to aske of her father a felde. And she alyghted of her asse. And Caleb sayde vnto her, what ayleth the: who answered: geue me a blessynge: for thou hast geuē me a south (and drye) lād: geue me also spzinges of water. And he gaue her spzinges of water, both aboue and beneth. This is the enheritaunce of the trybe of the childzen of Juda, by their kynredes. D

And the vtmost cyties of the trybe of þ childzen of Juda, towarde þ coastes of Edom southwarde, wer: Kabzel, Eder and Jagur: Kinah, Dimonah, and Adada: Kedes, Hazor and Jethnon: ziph, Telem and Baloth, Hazor, Hadathah, Karioth Hesrō (which is Hazor) Enām Sami, and Holadah: Hazargadah, Hasmon and Bethpheleth: Hasar sual, Berlsabe, and Bazothiah: Baalah, Jim, and Azem: Eltholad, Cesil, and Hozma: Ziklag, Medemenah and Sensenah: Labaoth, Selhim, Ain and Rimon: all these cities are twentye and nyne with their vyllages. And in ꝑ lowe contreye: they had Esthaol, Zareah & Asenah: Zanoah, Enganim. Thaphuah and Enã: Jarmuth, Adulam, Socoh, and Azkah: Saarẽ, Adithaim, Gederah, & Gederothai: Fourtene cyties wᵗ their vyllages.

Zenan, Hadasah, and Magdalgad: Delcam, Hizpa, and Jekthel: Lachis, Bascath & Eglon: Cabon, Lahamam, & Cethlis Caderoth, Bethdagon, Naamah and Makedah: Syxtene cytyes with their vyllages.

Lebnah, Ether, & Asan: Jephthah, Asnach, & Nezib: Keilah, Achezip, & Maresah: nyne cyties with their vyllages. Akron with her townes and vyllages. From Akron & from the west, al ꝑ lyeth about Asdod wᵗ their vyllages. Asdod with her townes and vyllages. Azah with her townes and vyllages, euen vnto the ryuer of Egipt, and the greate sea was their coaste.

And in the mountaines, they had Samir Jathir, and Socoh, Danah: and Kariah senath, whiche is Dabir: Anab, Esthemoh, and Anim, Gozen, Holon, and Giloh, xi. cyties wᵗ their vyllages. Arab, Dumah, & Esean: Janim, Bethaphuah, and Aphcah: Humatah, & Kariath arbe: whiche is Hebron and Zior: nyne cities wᵗ their vyllages. Maon, Carmel, Siph, and Jutah: Jesreel, Jukadan, and Zanoah: Cain, Gabaah, and Thamnah: ten cities wᵗ their vyllages. Halhul, Bethzur, and Gedor: Maarath, Bethanoth, and Eltheon: Syxe cityes with their vyllages. Kariath Baal whiche is Kariath Jarim (the cityе of woodes) and Harabba: two cyties with their vyllages.

In the wyldernes they had Betharabah, Meddin and Sacacah: Nebsã, the cyte of salt, and Engaddi: Syxe cyties with their vyllages. Neuertheles, the Jebusytes that were the enhabiters of Jerusalem, couldе not the chyldzen of Juda cast out. But the Jebusites dwel with the chyldzen of Juda at Jerusalẽ vnto this daye.

¶ The.xvi. Chapter.

The Lotte or parte of Ephraim

AND the lotte of the chyldzen of Joseph felle from Jordã by Jericho, vnto the water of Jericho Eastewarde, and to ꝑ wilderneſſe that goeth vp from Jericho thorowe out mounte Bethel: and goeth out from Bethel to Lus, & rũneth a long vnto ꝑ borders of Archimataroth: & goeth downe againe westwarde euen to the coaste of Japhlethi, and vnto the coast of Bethzon the nether, and to Gasor, and the endes of their coastes leaue at the west sea. And so the chyldzẽ of Joseph Manasses and Ephraim toke their enheritaunce.

And the border of the chyldzen of Ephraim was by their kynredes. Their bozder on the eastsyde, was Ataroth, Adar, euen vnto Bethhoron ꝑ vpper, & went out westwarde to Machmathah on the Northsyde, and returneth Eastwarde vnto Thaanath Silo, and past it on the Estside vnto Jonoah, & wente downe from Jonoah to Ataroth, and Naarath, & came to Jericho, and went out at Jordan. And their bozder went from Thaphuah westwarde vnto ꝑ riuer Kanah, & the endes were ꝑ west sea. This is the enheritaunce of the tribe of the chyldzen of Ephraim by their kynredes. And the separate cyties for the chyldzen of Ephraim, were amonge the enheritaũce of ꝑ chyldzẽ of Manasses: euen the cities with their vyllages: And they dzaue not out ꝑ Cananites that dwelt in Gasor: but ꝑ Cananites dwel among the Ephraites vnto this dare, and serue vnder tribute.

¶ The.xvii. Chapter.

The lotte or porcion of the halfe tryde of Manasseo. The Cananites become tributaries to the Israelites. Manasseo and Ephraim require a greater porcion of heritage THYS was the lotte of the tryde of Manasses, which was the * Eldest sonne of Joseph. And Machir ꝑ Eldest sonne of Manasses which was the father of Gilead (and a mã of warre) had Gilead & Basan. This was the possession of the rest of ꝑ chyldzen of Manasses by their kynredes: Namely, of the chyldzen of Abiezer: ꝑ chyldzen of Helech: the chyldzen of Ariel: the chyldzẽ of Sichem, the chyldzen of Hepher: the chyldzen of Semida: for these wer the male chyldzẽ of Manasses the sonne of Joseph, by their kynredes.

But

* But Zelaphead the sonne of Hepher, ꝑ sonne of Gilead: ꝑ sonne of Machir, the sonne of Manasses, had no sonnes but daughters, whose names are these: Mahela, Noa, Hagla, Melcha & Thirza, which came before Eleazar ꝑ preast, and before Josua ꝑ soune of Nun, and before the Lordes saying: * the LORD commaunded Moses to geue vs an enheritaunce among our brethren. And therfore accordynge to the commaundement of ꝑ LORD, he gaue thē an enheritaūce amōg the brethrē of their father. And there fel ten portions to Manasses, besyde ꝑ lande of Gilead & Basā, which is on ꝑ other syde Jordā, because ꝑ daughters of Manasses dyd enherit amonge his sonnes. And Manasses other sonnes, had the lande of Gilead.

And the coaste of Manasses was frō Aser to Machmathath ꝑ lyeth before Sichem, and went along on the righte hande, euen vnto the enhabiters of Enthaphuah: and ꝑ lande of Thaphuah, belōged to Manasses, which Thaphuah is besyde the Border of Manasses, & besyde the border of the childzen of Ephraim. And the coast descēded vnto the riuer Canah southward, euē to ꝑ riuer of ꝑ cities of Ephraim, & betwene ꝑ cytyes of Manasses. The coaste of Manasses went also on the northsyde to ꝑ riuer, & the endes of it go out at the sea, so that ꝑ south pertayned to Ephraim, and the north to Manasses, & the sea is his border. And they mette together in Aser northwarde, and in Issacar eastewarde. And Manasses had in Issacar & in Aser, Bethsean, and her townes: Ibleam, and her townes: and the enhabitoures of Dor, with ꝑ townes pertayning to the same: and the enhabitoures of Endor with the townes of the same: and the enhabitoures of Thaanath wher townes: & the enhabitoures of Mageddo with the townes of the same, euen thre contreyes. yet the childzen of Manasses coulde not ouercome those cytyes. But ꝑ Cananites presumed to dwel in the same lande. Neuertheless, assone as the childzen of Israell were waxed stronge, they put the Cananites vnder trybute, but expelled them not.

And the childrē of Joseph spake vnto Josua saying: why hast thou geuen me but one lot & one portion to enherit, seyng I am a great people, & for as much as the LORD hath blessed me hitherto? And Josua answered them: yf thou be muche people, then gette the vp to the wodde cōtrey, and prepare for thy selfe there in the lande of the Pherezites and of the Giauntes, yf mount Ephraim be to narowe for the. And the childzen of Joseph sayde: The hyll is not ynoughe for vs: and all the Cananites that dwel in the lowe contrey haue charrettes of yron, and so haue they that enhabite Bethsean, and the townes of the same, and they also that dwel in the valeye of Jezreel. And Josua sayde vnto ꝑ house of Joseph, Ephraim and Manasses: ye be much people, and haue great power, and shall not therfore haue one lotte. Therfore the hyl shalbe youres, and ye shal cut downe the wod that is in it: & the endes of it shalbe youres, yf ye caste out the Cananites whiche haue yron charrettes, and are very strong.

¶ The. xviii. Chapter.

Certen are sent to deuide the lande to the other seuē trybes. The lotte of the children of Ben Jamin

A And the whole congregation of the childzen of Israell came together at Silo, & set vp the tabernacle of witnesse there, & the lande was in subiection before them. And ther remained among ꝑ childzen of Israel seuē tribes, which had not yet receaued their enheritaunce. And Josua said vnto ꝑ childrē of Israel: howe long are ye so slacke to come, and possesse the lande which the LORD GOD of your fathers hath geuē you? Geue out frō amōg you for euery trybe thre men, that I may sende them. And that they may ryse, and walke thorowe the lande and distribute it accordynge to the enheritaunce therof, and come againe to me.

And let them deuide it vnto them into seuen partes. And Juda shall abyde in their coast on the southe, and the house of Joseph shal stande in their coastes on the north. Describe ye ꝑ lande therfore into the seuen partes, and bryngе the description hether to me and I shal cast lottes for you here before ꝑ LORD our GOD. * But the Leuites haue no parte among you, for the preasthode of the LORD is their enheritaunce. * And Gad, & Ruben & halfe the tribe of Manasses haue receaued their enheritaūce beyonde Jordā eastwarde, which Moses the seruaūt of the LORD gaue thē.

Josu. 13. d. and 14. a

Josu. 22. d

And the men arose, and wente theyr waye. And Josua charged them ꝑ wēt to describe ꝑ lande, saying: departe and go thorow the lande, & describe it, and come againe to me, ꝑ I may here caste lottes for you before ꝑ LORD in Silo.
And the men departed, & walked thorowe the lande, & described it by cityes into seuē partes in a booke, and retourned to Josua into ꝑ hoost at Silo. And Josua cast lottes for thē in Silo before the LORD, and there Josua deuided the lande vnto the childrē of Israel, to eche theyr portion. And the lotte of the tribe of the childzen of Ben Jamin came vp accordyng to their kynredes. And the coaste of their lotte came betwene the childzen of Juda and the childzen of Joseph. And their nozth coast was frō Jordan, & went vp to ꝑ syde of Jericho on the nozthsyde, and went vp thorowe the mountaines westwarde, and they ended at the wildernesse of Bethauen: and wēt from thēce towarde Lus euen to the southe syde of Lus (the same is Bethel) and descended againe to Atrothader, vnto the hyll that lyeth on the southsyde of the neyther Bethhoron.
And the coast turneth thence and compasseth ꝑ corner of the sea southwarde, euen from the hyll ꝑ lyeth before Bethhoron southwarde, & goeth out at Kiriathbaal whiche is Kiriath Jarim a cytie of the childrē of Juda: this is ꝑ west quarter: & ꝑ south coast goeth from the edge of Kiriath Jarim, and goeth out westwarde, and thence it turneth to ꝑ water well of Nephthoah, & commeth downe againe to the edge of the hyll, that lyeth before the valeye of the sonne of Hennon, euen in the valeye of ꝑ Giauntes nozthward, and descendeth into the valeye of Hennon beside Jebusy southwarde, and goeth downe to ꝑ wel of Rogell, and compaseth from ꝑ nozth, and goeth forthe to the well of ꝑ sonne, and departeth from thēce to the places of Gelloth, whyche are towarde the goyng vp vnto Adommim: & goeth downe to the stone of Bohan the sonne of Ruben: and then goeth a long towarde the syde of the playne nozthwarde: and goeth downe into the feldes: and goeth along to the syde of Bethhagiah nozthwarde, and endeth at the poynte of the salte sea northe there from, euen at the southe ende of Jozdan. This is the southe coaste.
And Jozdan kepeth in this coaste on the eastside, and this is the enheritaūce of the childrē of Beniamin by their coastes rounde aboute thozowe out theyr kynredes. These were the cityes of the trybes of the chyldzen of Beniamin thozowoute their kinredes: Jericho, Bethagiah, and the playne of Kaziz, Betharabah, zamarim, and Bethel: Auim, Pharah, & Ophzah: Chepar, Ammona, Ophny, and Gabai, twelue cytyes wt their vyllages. Gibeō, Ramah, & Beroth: Mazphah, Caphairah, and Mozah: Reken, Jarephel, & Thareiah, zela, Eleph, and Jebusi, which is Jerusalem, Gibeath, and Kiriath, fourtene cyties with their vyllages. This is the enheritaunce of the childzen of Beniamin thozowout their kynredes.

The.xix. Chapter.

The lottes or partes of zabulon/Issachar/Aser/Nephthali/Dan/and Josua.

And the secōde lot came out for the tribe of the childzen of Simeon by their kynredes. And their enheritaunce was in the myddes of the enheritaunce of the childzen of Juda. And they had in their enheritaunce, Bersabe, Sabe, and Moladah, Hazorsual, Balah, and Izē, Eltholad, Bethul and Hozmah, zikelag, Bethmarcaboth and Hazetsusah Bethlebaoth, & Saruhen, thirtene cities with their vyllages. Aim, Remō, Ether, and Asan, foure cities with their vyllages: & thereto al ꝑ vyllages ꝑ were rounde about these cities, euē vnto Balaath, Beor and Ramath, southwarde. This is the enheritaunte of the tryde of the childzen of Simeon thorow out their kinredes. Out of ꝑ lot of the childzen of Juda, came ꝑ enheritaunce of the childzen of Simeon. For the parte of the childrē of Juda was to muche for them: and therfore ꝑ childrē of Simeon had their enheritaūce in the enheritaunce of them.
And the thirde lot arose for the childzen of zabulon thorowe out theyr kinredes. And the coastes of their enheritaunce came to Marid, and went vp westwarde, & to Marialath, & reached to Dabaseth, & came thence to the riuer that lyeth before Jokneuen: and turned from Marid eastwarde towarde ꝑ sunne rising vnto ꝑ bozder of Chisloth Thabor: & then goeth out to Dabereth, and

and goeth vp to Japhia: & frō thēce goeth a long eastwarde, to Gethah, Epher, Ithah and Jazin, and goeth to Remō, Methoar, and Neah. And compasseth it on the nozth syde to Nathan, and endeth in the valeye of Jephthahel. And Jatath, Nahalol, Semron, Jedalah, and Bethlehē: twelue cytyes with their villages. This is the enheritaūce of the childzen of Zabulon thozowe out theyz kynredes, and these are the cities with theyz vyllages.

And the fourth lot came out foz ꝑ childzen of Jsachar by their kinredes. And their coast was Jesraelah, Casuloth, & Sunem, Hapharaim, Sion, and Anaharath, Harabith kysiō, and Abez, Rameth, Enganim, Enhadah, and Bethphazez. And his coast reacheth to Thabor, and Sahazimah and Bethsames, and endeth at Jozdan: Syxtene cyties w̄ their villages. This is ꝑ enheritaūce of the trybe of the childzen of Jsachar by their kynredes. And these are the cyties with their vyllages.

And the syxte lot came out foz ꝑ trybe of the childzē of Aser by their kynredes. And their coast was: Helkath, Hali, Beten and Achsap, Alamelech, Amaad and Miseal: and came to Carmel westwarde, and to Sihor, Labanath, & turned towarde the sonne risinge to Bethdagon, and commeth to Zabulon and to the valey of Jephthahel, towarde the nozthside of Bethemek and Negel, and goeth out on ꝑ lefte syde of Cabul: and to Hebzon, Rohob, Ramon, and Kanah, euen vnto greate Sidon. And then the coast turneth to Ramah and to ꝑ strōg citie of Zoz, and turneth to Hozah, & endeth at the sea, by the possession of Achzibah: Amah also and Aphek & Rohob: Twentye and two cytyes with theyz vyllages. This is the enheritaunce of the childzen of Aser by their kynredes: These are the cytyes with theyz vyllages.

And the syxte lot came out foz ꝑ childzen of Nephthali by their kinredes. And their coast was from Heleph and frō Elom to Zaananim Adami, Nekeb and Jabneel, euen to Lakum, and doth go out at Jozdā. And then ꝑ coaste turneth westwarde to Asanoth Thabor, & then goeth out frō thence to Hukokah, and reacheth to Zabulon on the southe syde, and goeth to Aser on the westsyde, and to Juda vpon Jozdan towarde the sunne rysynge. And their strong cytyes are Zidim, Zer, Hamath, Racah and Cenereth, Adamah, Hermah and Hazor, Kedes, Edzai, & Enhazor: Jerō, Magdeiel: Horē, Bethanah and Bethsames: nyntene cyties with their vyllages. This is the enheritaunce of the tribe of the childzen of Nephthali by their kynredes: these also are the cytyes and theyz vyllages.

And the seuenth lot came out foz the trybe of ꝑ childzen of Dan by their kinredes. And ꝑ coaste of their enheritaūce was: Zaraah, Esthaol, * Irsames, Sachabin, Aialon, Jethlah: Eglon & Thennathah, and Akarō: Elthekeh, Gibethō and Baalath: Jehud Banebarak and Gathermō, Meiericon & Jarcon, with the vozder ꝑ lyeth befoze Japho. And the coastes of the childzen of Dan wēt out frō them. And the childzen of Dan went vp to fyght against Lesen, & toke it, & smote it with ꝑ edge of ꝑ swerade, and conquered it, and dwelt therin, and called it * Dan, after the name of Dan their father.

* Hebrewe called, ꝑ cyte of ꝑ sun

Jud. 18. g.

This is the enheritaunce of the tribe of the childzē of Dan in their kinredes: these also are the cyties with their vyllages. When they had made an ende of deuydynge the lande by her coastes, the childzen of Jsrael gaue an enheritaūce vnto Josua the sonne of Nun amonge them, accozding to ꝑ wozd of ꝑ LORDE they gaue him ꝑ citie which he asked, euē * Thānoth serah in moūt Ephzaim. And he bylte ꝑ citie and dwelte therin.

Josu. 14. g

Nu. 34. d.

* These are the enheritaunces whiche Eleazar the prest & Josua the sonne of Nun, and ꝑ auncyēt fathers of ꝑ tribes of the childzen of Jsrael deuyded by lot in Siloh befoze the LORD, in the doze of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, & so they made an ende of deuiding the contrey.

¶ The.xx. Chapter.

The cyties of refuge or Sanctuaryes.

THe LORD also spake vnto Josua saying: speake to ꝑ childzē of Jsrael, & say: * Appoynte oute frō among you cyties of refuge, whereof I spake vnto you by the hande of Moses, that the slear that killeth any person vnwares and vnwyttynglye, may flee thyther. And those cyties shal be youre refuge from ꝑ auēger of bloude. And he ꝑ doeth flee vnto one of those cities, shal stande at the entring of the gate of the cytie, and shall shewe his cause in the eares of the elders of the cytie.

And they shal take him into the cityе vnto them, and geue him a place, that he maye dwel amonge them.

B And yf the auenger of bloude folowe after hym, they shal not delyuer ẏ slear into his hande because he smote his frende ignorauntlye, and hated hym not before tyme.

And he shal dwel in the said cytie vntil he stande before the congregacion in iudgement, *and vntil the death of the hye preast that shalbe in those dayes: for then shal the slear retourne, & come vnto his owne citie, and vnto his owne house, and vnto the cytie from whence he fled. And they sanctified Kedes in Galile, in moũt Nephtali, and Sichem in mount Ephraim, and Kariath Arbe (whiche is Hebron) in the mountayne of Juda. And on the otherside Jordan ouer against Jericho eastwarde, they appointed Bosor in the wildernesse vpon the plaine, out of the tribe of Ruben: and Ramoth in Galead, out of the trybe of Gad: and Golan in Basan out of the trybe of Manasses. These were the cyties appoynted for al the childrẽ of Israel, and for the straunger ẏ soiourned among them: that whosoeuer killed any person ignorantly, the same myghte flee thether, & should not dye by ẏ hand of the auenger of bloude, vntyl he stode before ẏ cõgregacion (to declare his cause.)

C The.xxi. Chapter.

The cities geuen to the Leuites, in number.xlviii.

A Nd thẽ came the principal fathers of ẏ Leuites vnto Eleazar ẏ preest, and vnto Josua ẏ sonne of Nun, & vnto ẏ auncient fathers ẏ were ouer ẏ tribes of ẏ childrẽ of Israel, & spake vnto thẽ at Silo in the lande of Canaan, saying: *ẏ LORD cõmaunded by Moses, to geue vs cities to dwell in, with the Suburbes therof, for our catel. And ẏ childrẽ of Israel gaue vnto the Leuites, oute of their enheritaunce at the byddynge of the LORDE, these cytyes folowynge with their Suburbes.

And the lotte came out for ẏ kynred of the Cahathites: & the childrẽ of Aarõ the preaste, which were of the Leuites, had geuen them by lotte, oute of the trybe of Juda, oute of the trybe of Simeon, and out of ẏ trybe of Beniamin: thirtene cyties. And the rest of ẏ childrẽ of Cahath had by lot, out of ẏ kinredes of the trybe of Ephraim, out of ẏ trybe of Dan, and oute of the halfe trybe of Manasses: ten cities. And the childrẽ of Gerson had by lot oute of the kynredes of the trybe of Issachar, and oute of the trybe of Aser, out of the tribe of Nephthali, and out of the other halfe tribe of Manasses in Basan: thyrtene cyties.

And ẏ childrẽ of Merari by their kinredes, had out of the trybe of Ruben, & out of the tribe of Gad, and out of tribe of Zabulon, twelue cyties. And the childrẽ of Israell gaue by lotte vnto the Leuites these cities wt their Suburbes, as ẏ LORD cõmaunded by Moses. And they gaue out of the tribe of ẏ childrẽ of Juda, and out of the trybe of the childrẽ of Simeõ, these cities by name, which the childrẽ of Aaron beynge of the kinredes of the Cahathites, and of the childrẽ of Leui, obtayned: for theirs was the first lotte.

And they gaue them Kariathe Arbe of the father of Enack (which is Hebron) in the hyl contreye of Juda, wt ẏ Suburbes of the same rounde aboute it. But the lande that pertayned to ẏ cytie, and ẏ villages therof, gaue they to *Caleb the sonne of Jephune, to be his possession.

And out of the halfe trybe of Manasses, Thanach with her Suburbes: and Gathzemon with her Suburbes: two cytyes. Al ꝑ cities foz ꝑ other kinredes of the childzen of Cahath, were ten with their Suburbes.

And vnto the childzē of Gerson which wer of the kinredes of ꝑ Leuites, they gaue out of ꝑ other halfe trybe of Manasses, ꝑ citie of refuge foz ꝑ slear: Golan in Basā wt her Suburbes: & Beesthzah with her Suburbes: two cyties.

D And vnto the other kynredes of ꝑ childzen of Merari, the rest of the Leuites, they gaue out of the trybe of zabulon: Jetnam with her Suburbes: and Carthah wt her Suburbes: Damna with her Suburbes, and Nahalal with her Suburbes: foure cyties. And out of the tribe of Ruben, Bozoz wt her Suburbes: and Jahelah with her Suburbes: Kedmoth with her Suburbes, and Mephaath with her Suburbes: foure cities. And out of the tribe of Gad, they gaue the citie foz the slear to flee vnto: Ramoth in Gilead wt her Suburbes, and Mahanaim with her Suburbes: Hesbon with her Suburbes: and Jaser with her Suburbes, foure cyties in al: so that all the cytyes of the chyldzen of Merari thozowe oute theyz kynredes (whiche were the reste of the kynredes of ꝑ Leuites) were by their lot, twelue cyties. And al the cytyes that ꝑ Leuites had among the possessiō of the childzen of Jsraell were, xlviii. with their Suburbes. And these cities laye euery one seuerally, hauing their Suburbes rounde about them thozow out all the sayde cyties. And the LORD gaue vnto Jsrael al the lande whiche * he sware to geue vnto their fathers. And they cōquered it, and dwelt therin. And the LORDE gaue them rest rounde about, accozdyng to al ꝑ he sware vnto theyz fathers: and there stode not a man of al theyz enemyes befoze thē. The LORD also delyuered all their enemyes into their handez. * There shaped nothinge of al the good thinges, whiche ꝑ LORD had said vnto the house of Jsrael. But all came to passe. Gen.17.8. The.xxii. Chapter.

Ruben, Gad, and the halfe tribe of Manasseo are sent againe to their possessions. They buylde an altare for a memoriall.

THen Josua called vnto the Rubenites, ꝑ Gaddites, & to ꝑ halfe tribe of Manasses, and said vnto them: * ye haue kept al that Moses the seruaunt of the LORD cōmaunded you, and haue obeyed my voyce in al that J commaunded you: ye haue not left your bzethzen of a long season vnto this day, but haue kepte the commaundement of the LORDE your GOD. J Num.32.c.

And now that ꝑ LORD hath genē rest vnto your bzethzen as he pzomised thē, therfoze returne ye & go vnto your tentes, and vnto ꝑ lande of your possession, which Moses the seruaunt of ꝑ LORD gaue you on the other syde Jozdan.

But in any wyse take diligent hede & do the commaundemēt and law, which Moses the seruaūt of the LORD charged you: * that ye loue the LORD youre GOD, & walke in al his wayes, and kepe his commaundementes, & cleaue vnto him, and serue him with al your hertes and al your soules. And so Josua blessed them and sent them away. And they went vnto theyz tentes. Deut.10.

B Unto ꝑ one halfe of the trybe of Manasses Moses gaue possession in Basan: and vnto the other halfe therof gaue Josua amonge theyz bzethzen on this syde Jordan westwarde. And Josua sent them away also vnto their tentes, and blessed them, and said vnto thē: returne with muche riches vnto your tentes, and with a greate multitude of cattel, with syluer and golde with brasse, and yron, and w̄ much rayment, and * deuyde the spoyle of your enemyes with your brethren.

C And the childzen of Ruben, the childzē of Gad, & halfe the tribe of Manasses, returned, and departed from the childzen of Israel out of Silo (which is in the lande of Canaan) to go vnto ꝑ contrey of Gilead to the lande of their possession, which they had obtained, accordyng to the worde of the LORDE by the hande of Moses. And when they came vnto the place of Gelilothe beyde Jordan (that is in the lāde of Canaā) there the childzē of Ruben, ꝑ childzen of Gad and the halfe trybe of Manasses, buylt an altare fast by Jordan, & that a great altare to se to. Which when ꝑ childzē of Israel hearde of, they sayde: behold, the childzen of Ruben, the childzen Gad, and the halfe trybe of Manasses haue buylt an altar in the forefronte of ꝑ lād of Canaan, euen in Gelilothe beside Jordan on the syde of ꝑ childzen of Israel. And when the childzen of Israel hearde of it, the whole congregacion of ꝑ childzen of Israel gathered them together to Silo, to make battell againste them. And the childzen of Israel sent vnto the childzen of Ruben, and to the childzen of Gad, and to the halfe trybe of Manasses into the lande of Gilead, Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar ꝑ Preast, and with him ten Lordes, of euery chefe house a lorde, thorowe oute al ꝑ trybes of Israell, whiche were heades of their fathers housholdes among the thousandes of Israell. And they went vnto the childzen of Ruben, and to the childzen of Gad, and to the childzen of the halfe trybe of Manasses, vnto ꝑ lād of Gilead, & they spake w̄ them, saying.

D Thus saye the whole cōgregacion of the LORDE * what transgression is this that ye haue transgressed againste the GOD of Israel, to turne away this day from the LORDE in that ye haue buylded you an altar for to rebelle this day against the LORDE? Is the * wycked dede of Peor to litrel for vs, wher of we are not yet clensed vnto this daye, and for the which there was in the congregacio of the people a plage of ꝑ LORDE ye also are turned away this day from the LORDE. And seyng ye rebel to daye against the LORD, it wyl come to passe, that to morowe he shal be wroth w̄ all the congregacion of Israell. Notwithstandynge yf ye thynke, that the lāde of your possession is vncleane, then come ouer vnto the lande of the possession of ꝑ LORD, where in the lordes tabernacle dwelleth, and take possession amonge vs. But transgresse not againste the LORDE, nor prouoke vs, to buylde you any other aulter, saue the aulter of the LORDE our GOD. * Dyd not Achan the sonne of Zareth trespasse in the excommunicate thinge, and wrathe fel on all the congregacion of Israell, whyche not withstandynge that he was but one man, yet he alone perysched not for his wyckednesse?

Jos. 7.a

Then the childzen of Ruben and the childzen of Gad, and halfe the trybe of Manasses answered, and said vnto the heades ouer the thousandes of Israell: The God of goddes, the LORD GOD of goddes, euen the LORD he knoweth, & also shall Israel know. yf it be to rebel, or to transgresse against ꝑ LORD, then thou LORD saue vs not this daye. Or elles yf we haue buylte vs an aulter to turne from folowynge the LORD, or to offer theron burnt offring or meatofferynge, or to offer peaceofferinges theron: let the LORDE require it, (and iudge.) And yf we haue not rather done it of a carefulnes and of a sure occasion, sayinge: In tyme to come youre childzen might saye vnto ours: what haue ye to do with the LORD GOD of Israel? the LORD hath made Jordan a border betwene vs and you (ye childzen of Rubē and of Gad) ye haue no part therfore in ꝑ Lord: & so shal your childzē make our childzen ceasse from fearing the LORD.

Therfore we (vse better aduisement / and) said: We wil make vs an aulter, not for burntofferyng, nor for sacrifice, but for a * witnesse betwene vs and you, & our generacions after vs, that we shoulde serue the LORD, with oure offeringes, sacrifices and peaceofferinges before him: and that your childzen should not saye to ours in tyme to come: ye haue no parte in the LORDE.

6 And when Phinehes the prieste, and the Lordes of the congregacyon, and heades ouer the thousandes of Israell which were with him, heard these wordes that the childzen of Ruben, and the childzen of Gad, and the childzē of Manasses spake, they were well content. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the prieste, sayde vnto the childzē of Ruben, and to the childzen of Gad, and to the childzē of manasses: this day we perceyue, that the LORDE is amonge vs, because ye haue not done this trespasse agaynst the LORD: Now ye haue rydde the childzen of Israell out of the hand of the LORD.

And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the prieste with the lordes, returned frō the childzen of Ruben, and from þ childzen of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, vnto the lande of Canaan, to the childzen of Israell, and brought thē thys worde agayne. And the saying pleased the childzen of Israel, and they blessed GOD, and dyd not entende to goe agaynst them in battell, and to destroye the lande whiche the childzen of Rubē and Gad dwelte in. And the childzen of Ruben and the childzen of Gad called the aulter: Our wytnes, that þ LORD is GOD.

¶ The.xxiij. Chapter.

Josua exhorteth the people, that they ioyne not them selues to the Gentiles.

A And it came to passe a longe season after that the LORDE had geuen rest vnto Israell from all their enemyes rounde aboute, that Josua wared olde, and was stricken in age. And Josua called for all Israell, and for their elders, their heades, their iudges and officers, and sayde vnto them: I am olde and stryken in age. And ye haue sene all that the LORDE youre GOD hathe done vnto all these nacyons before you, howe the LORDE youre GOD hath fought for you. Beholde, I haue subdued vnto you these nacyons that remayne, to be an enherytaunce for youre trybes: euen from Jordan, and (from the lande) of all the nacyons that I haue destroyed, euen vnto the greate sea westwarde. (And there remayne yet many nacions) And þ Lord youre GOD shall expel them before you: and cast them from out of your syghte, and ye shal conquere theyr lande, as þ LORDE youre GOD hathe sayde vnto you.

B Go to therefore *as stronge ly as ye maye, that ye take hede and do all that is wrytten in the booke of the lawe of Moses, *that ye bowe not asyde therfrom, to the ryghte hande or to the left: and leste that whan ye come amonge these nacions, (euen among these that are lefte with you) ye make mencyō or sweare by the names of theyr goddes: and that ye neyther serue thē nor bow your selues vnto thē. But that ye stick faste vnto the LORDE youre GOD, as ye haue done vnto this daye. So shall C the LORDE cast out before you greate nacyons and myghty, as no man hath bene able to stand before you hitherto.

*One man of you shal chase a thousande: for the LORDE youre GOD he fyghteth for you, as he hath promysed you. Take good heede therefore vnto your selues, that ye loue the LORDE your GOD.

Els, yf ye go backe and cleaue vnto the rest of these nacyons that remayne wt you, & shall make mariages wt them, and go in vnto them, and they to you: be ye sure, that the LORDE youre GOD wyll nomore caste oute all these nacyons from before you. *But they shalbe snares and trappes vnto you & scourges in your sydes, and thornes in youre eyes, vntyll ye perysshe from of thys good lande, which þ LORD youre GOD hath geuen you.

And beholde, this day, do I entre into the waye of all the worlde, & ye know in al your hertes and in al your soules, that *nothing hath fayled of al þ good thynges whiche þ LORD youre GOD promised you: But al are come to passe and nothynge hathe fayled thereof. ¶ The.xxiiii. Chapter.

¶ Josua exhorteth the people to the kepyng of the lawe. He dyeth. The bones of Joseph are buried. Eleazar dyeth.

AND Josua gathered all the tribes of Israell to Sichem, and called for the elders of Israell, and for theyr heades, iudges and officers, and they preſented them ſelues before God. And Josua ſayde vnto all the people: thus ſayeth the LORDE GOD of Israell: *youre fathers dweit on the other ſyde of the floude in olde tyme: euen Thareth the father of Abraham and of Nachor, and ſerued ſtraunge goddes.

And I toke youre father Abraham from the other ſyde of the floude, and brought hym thorowe out all the land of Canaan, and multiplyed his ſeede, & *gaue him Isahac.

And I gaue vnto Isahac, Jacob and Esau. *And I gaue vnto Esau moūte Seir, to poſſeſſe it. But Jacob and his children went downe into Egipte.

I ſent Moſes alſo and Aaron. And I plaged Egypte: and when I had ſo done among them, I brought you out, and I brought your fathers out of Egypte. And as they came vnto the ſea, the Egyptyans folowed after your fathers with charrettes and horſmē vnto the reed ſea. And whan they cryed vnto the LORDE, the LORD put darkneſſe betwene you and the Egyptiās, and brought the ſea vpon them, and couered them. And your eies haue ſene what I haue done to the Egyptians. And ye dweite in the wyldernelle a lōg ſeason.

And *I brought you into the lande of the Amorites, whiche dweite on the other ſyde Jordan. And they fought with you: and I gaue them into your hand, that ye myght conquer their countrey. And I deſtroyed them from oute of your ſyghte.

*Then Balak the ſonne of Ziphor, kynge of Moab aroſe, and warred agaynſt Israel, and ſent and called Balaam the ſon of Beor for to curſe you. But I would not herken vnto Balak, and therfore he rather bleſſed you: And ſo I delyuered you oute of his hande. And ye wente ouer Jordan, and came vnto Jericho, and the men of Jericho fought agaynſt you: & Amorites, Pheresites, Canaanites, Hethites, Girgoſites, Heuites, and Jebuſites, and I delyuered them into your hande.

And I ſent * hornettes before you, whiche caſte them oute of your ſyghte: euen the two kynges of the Amorites: but not with your owne ſweard, or with your owne bowe. And I haue geuen you a land, in which ye did no labour, and cytyes whyche ye buylte not, and which ye dwel in: vyneyardes alſo and olyue trees whiche ye planted not, and wherof ye do eate.

*Nowe therfore feare the LORDE, & ſerue him in perfectneſſe and truthe: And put away the goddes, which your fathers ſerued on the other ſyde of the floud, & in Egipt, and ſerue ye the LORD. And yf it ſeme euell vnto you to ſerue the LORDE, then chooſe you this daye whome you will ſerue, whether the goddes whiche your fathers ſerued (that were on the other ſyde of the floude) or ether the goddes of the Amorites, in whoſe lande ye dwell. As for me and my houſe, we wyl ſerue the LORDE.

The people aunſwered and ſayde: GOD forbyd, that we ſhoulde forſake the LORDE, and ſerue ſtraunge gods. For the LORDE our GOD, he it is that brought vs and our fathers out of the lande of Egipte, and from the houſe of bondage, and whiche dyd thoſe greate myracles in our ſyghte, and preſerued vs in all the waye that we wente, and among all the nations which we came thorow. And the LORDE dyd caſte oute before vs all the nacyons, ſpecially the Amorites whiche dweite in the lande. And therfore wyll we alſo ſerue the LORDE, for he is oure GOD.

And Josua ſayd vnto the people, ye can not ſerue the LORDE: for he is an holy GOD, and a gelous GOD, and cannot beare your iniquitie and ſinne.

ye forsake the LORDE, and serue straunge gods, *he wyll turne and do you euell, and consume you, after that he hath done you good. And the people sayde vnto Josua: naye, but we will serue the LORDE.

And Josua sayde vnto the people: ye are witnesses your selues, that ye haue chosen you the LORD, to serue hym: and they sayde: we are witnesses. Thē put awaye (sayd he) the straunge gods which are among you, and bowe your hertes vnto the LORDE GOD of Israell. The people sayde vnto Josua: the LORD our GOD wyl we serue, and his voice wyl we obey. And so Josua *made a couenaunt with the people ꝑ same daye, and set an ordynaunce and lawe before them in Sichem.

And Josua wrote these wordes in ꝑ boke of the lawe of GOD, and *toke a greate stone, and pytched it on ende in the sayd place, euen vnder an oke that was in ꝑ sanctuary of the LORD. And Josua sayd vnto all the people, behold: *this stone shalbe a wytnesse vnto vs, for it hath heard all the wordes of the LORDE whiche he spake with vs. It shalbe therfore a wytnes vnto you, lest ye deny (and dissemble with) youre GOD. And so Josua let the people departe, euery man vnto his enheritaunce.

And after these thynges it came to passe, that Josua the sonne of Nun, the seruaunt of the LORD dyed, beinge an hundreth and ten yeres olde. And they buried him in the countrey of his *enheritaunce euen in Thānath Sareth, whiche is in mounte Ephraim, on the northside of the hyll of Gaas.

And Israell serued the LORD *all ꝑ dayes of Josua, and al the dayes of the elders that ouer lyued Josua, & which had knowen all the workes of ꝑ Lorde that he had done for Israell. And the *bones of Joseph, which the chyldren of Israell brought out of Egipte buried they in Sichē *in a parcel of grounde whiche Jacob bought of ꝑ sons of Hemor ꝑ father of Sichē, for an hundreth peces of siluer, & it became ꝑ enheritāce of ꝑ childrē of Joseph. And Eleazar ꝑ son of Aarō died, whō they buried in a hil ꝑ pertained to Phinehes his sonne, which (hil) was geuen him in mounte Ephraim.

¶ After Josua was dead, Juda was constitute lorde ouer the armye.

After the death of Josua it came to passe, that the chyldren of Israell asked the LORDE, saying: who shal go vp for vs agaynst the Cananites, & who shall fyrste fyghte agaynste them. And the LORDE sayde: Juda shall go vp, *beholde I haue deliuered ꝑ land into his handes. And Juda sayde vnto Simeon his brother: come vp with me in my lotte, that we may fight agaynst the Cananites: And I lykewyse wyll go with the into thy lotte. And so Simeon went with him.

And Juda went vp, & the LORD deliuered the Cananites and Pherezites into their handes. And they slewe of them in Bezek ten thousande men. And they found Adonibezek in Bezek. And they fought agaynst him, & slewe the Cananites and Pherezites. But Adonibezek fled, and they folowed after him, and caught him, and cut of his thombes and his great toes. And Adonibezek sayd: thre skore & ten kinges hauing their thombes and great toes cut of, gathered their meate vnder my table: *as I haue done, so GOD hathe done to me agayne. And they brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died.

The childrē of Juda fought against Jerusalem, and toke it *and smote it with the edge of the swearde, and set ꝑ cytie on fyre. Afterwarde the childrē of Juda went to fyght against the Cananites, that dwelte in the mountaine, and towarde the south, and in the lowe contrey. And Juda went agaynste the Cananites that dwelt in Hebrō, which before tyme was called Kariath Arbe. And slewe Sesai, Ahiman and Thalmai. And from thence they went to the inhabiters of Dabir, whose name in olde tyme was called Kariathsepher, that

A. went vp* oute of the cite of* palme Deu. xxxiv. trees with the childzen of Juda into the wylderneste of Juda, that lieth in the South of Arad, and they went & dwelt amonge the people.

D And Juda went with Simeon hys brother, and they slewe the Cananites that enhabited Zephath, and vtterlye Num. xxi. a destroyed it, and called the name of the cytie Horma. And at the last, Juda toke Azah with the coastes therof, and Askalon with the coastes thereof. And Ekaron with the coastes therof. And the LORDE was with Juda, and he conquered the mountaynes, but could not dryue out the enhabiters of the baleyes, because they had charrettes of Iosh. xv. d. yron. And they gaue Hebron vnto Caleb, as Moses sayd: And he expelled Num. xiv. c thence the thre sonnes of* Enak.

Iosh. xv. g. *And the childzen of Beniamin dyd C not caste out the Jebusites, that enhabyted Jerusalem, but the Jebusites dwell with the childzen of Ben Jamin in Jerusalem vnto this day.

Iosh. xvii. a. *And in lyke maner they that were of the house of Joseph went vp to Bethell, and the LORDE was with them, and the house of Joseph serched oute Bethell whiche before tyme was called Lus. And the spyes sawe a man come out of the cytie, and they said vnto him: shewe vs the way into the citie, Iosh. ii. f. *and we wyll shewe the mercy. And whan he had shewed them the waie into the citie, they smote it with the edge of the swearde, but let the man and all his houshelde go free. And the mā wēt into the lande of the Herbites, & buylt a citie, and called the name therof Lus whiche is the name thereof vnto thys daye.

*Nether dyd Manasses expel Beth 1 Iosh. seam with her townes, Thaanach with her townes, the enhabitours of Dor wt her townes, the enhabitours of Jebliam with her townes, neyther the enhabitours of Magedo wt her townes, but the Cananites were bolde to dwell in the land. But it came to passe, that as sone as Israell was wared myghtye, they put the Cananites to tribute, & expelled them not.

*In lyke maner Ephraim expelled Iosh. not the Cananites that dwelt in Gazer, but the Cananytes dwelte styl in Gazer among them.

Neyther dyd Zabulon expell the enhabytours of Ketron, neyther the enhabytoures of Nahalol: But the Cananytes dwelte amonge them, and became trybutaryes.

Neyther dyd Aser caste oute the en- 6 habitours of Acho, neither the enhabitoures of Zidon, and of Ahalab, Achzib, and Halbah, Aphek, nor of Rohob, but the Aserites dwelte among the Cananites the enhabytours of the lande, for they myght not dryue them out.

Neyther dyd Nephthalim dryue out the enhabitours of Bethsames, nor the enhabytours of Bethanath, but dwelt amongest the Cananites the enhabytours of the lande. Neuertheles the enhabitours of Bethsames and of Bethanath became tributaries vnto thē.

And the Amorites troubled the chyldzen of Dan in the mountayne, & suffered them not to come downe to the baley. And the Amorites were content to dwell in mounte Heres (whiche is by interpretacion a wyttnessing) in Hailon and in Salabim. And the hande of Joseph preuayled, so that they became trybutaryes: and the coaste of the Amorites was from the goynge vp to Acrabim, & from the rocke vp warde.

C The.ii. Chapter.

The Angel rebuketh the people, because they had made peace with the Cananites. Idolatres are punished.

I

AND the Angell of the LORD came vp frō Gilgal to Bochim, & said: I made you to come out of Egipte, & haue brought you vnto the land which Deu. vii. I sware vnto your fathers. * And I sayde: I wil not breake myne appointment

ment that I made with you. And ye also shall make no covenaunt with the enhabytoures of this lande, but shall breake downe their aultars: Neuertheles ye haue not herkened vnto my voyce, why haue ye this done? Wherfore I haue lykewise determined, that I wil not cast them out before you: but they shalbe thornes vnto you, and their goddes shalbe a snare vnto you. And when the angell of the LORDE spake these wordes vnto all the chyldren of Israel, the people cryed out and wept: And called the name of the sayd place: *Bochim, and offered sacrifices vnto the LORDE.

And when Josua had sente þ people awaye, the chyldren of Israell wente euerye man into his enheritaunce to possesse the lande. *And the people serued the LORDE al the dayes of Josua, and al the daies of the elders that outlyued Josua, and had sene al the great workes of the LORDE that he dyd for Israell: and Josua the sonne of Nun þ seruant of the LORDE *dyed, when he was an hundred and ten yeres olde: whom they buried in the coastes of his enheritaunce: euen in Thamnath Hares in mounte Ephraim on the northside of the hyll Gaas. And euen so all that generacyon were put vnto theyr fathers, and there arose another generacion after them which neither knew the LORDE, nor yet the workes which he had done for Israel.

And then the chyldren of Israel *did wyckedly in the syght of the LORDE, & serued Baalim, and forsoke the LORD GOD of their fathers, which broughte the out of the land of Egypt, & folowed straunge goddes, euen of þ gods of the nacions that were rounde aboute the, and bowed themselues vnto them, and angred the LORDE. They forsoke the LORDE, and serued Baal & Astharoth, and the wrathe of the LORDE wared hote agaynst Israell, and he delyuered them into the handes of raueners, that spoyled them, and solde them into the handes of their enemyes round about them, so that they had no power anye longer to stande before theyr enemyes. But whyther soeuer they went out, the hande of the LORDE was agaynst the with euell lucke, euen as the LORDE promysed them, and as he sware vnto them. And he punished them sore.

Neuertheles the LORDE raised vp Iudges, whiche delyuered them oute of the handes of theyr oppressers, and yet for all that they wouldе not herken vnto their Iudges: But rather wente a whoryng after straunge goddes, and bowed them selues vnto them, & turned quickely oute of the waye whiche theyr fathers walked in, obeying the commaundementes of the LORD: But they dyd not so.

And when the LORDE raysed them vp Iudges, he was with the Iudge, & deliuered the out of the handes of their enemies al the daies of the Iudge: *for the LORDE had compassion ouer their sorowynges, whiche they had, by the reason of them that oppressed them and vexed them: yet for all that *as sone as the iudge was dead, they turned & did worse then theyr fathers, in folowyng straunge goddes, and in seruyng the, and ceased not from theyr owne inuencyons, nor from theyr malicious waye.

And the wrath of LORD was moued agaynste Israell, and he sayd: because thys people hathe transgressed myne appoyntment whiche I commaunded theyr fathers, and haue not herkened vnto my voyce, I wyll hence forth not caste oute before them one man of the nacyons, whiche Josua lefte when he dyed: that through them I may *proue Israell, whether they wyll kepe þ way of the LORDE, and walke therein, as their fathers dyd or not. And so the LORDE lefte those nacyons, and droue them not out immediatly, neyther delyuered them into the hande of Josua.

The. iii. Chapter.

Othoniel deliuereth Israel. Ahod kylleth King Eglon. Samgar kylleth the Philistines.

These are the nacions which the LORDE lefte, that he might proue Israell by them: euen as many of Israell as had not known all the warres of Canaan: Onely for the lernynge of the generacyon of the childre of Israell: that he also myght teache them warre, in asmuche as they that were before them, knew nothyng therof. Of those whom he lefte, there were fyue lordes of the Philistines, and al þ Cananites, and þ Sodomites, and the Heuites that dwelt in mount Libano: euen from mounte Baalhermon vnto Hemath.

Exod. 2. b.

Iud. 2. b

Deut. 13.

Hemath. Those remayned to proue Israel by, to wete, whether they would herken vnto the commaundementes of the LORDE, whiche he commaunded their fathers by ꝑ hand of Moses.

And the children of Israell dwelte amongthe Cananites, Hethites, Amorytes, Pherezites, Heuites, and Jebusites, *and toke the doughters of them to be theyr wyues, & gaue theyr owne doughters to their sonnes, and serued their goddes. And the children of Israell dyd wyckedly in the syghte of the LORDE, and forgat the LORDE theyr GOD and serued Baalim and Aseroth. Therfore the LORD was angry wyth Israell, and delyuered them into the handes of Chusan Risathaim kynge of Mesopotamia, and the chyldren of Israell serued Chusan Risathaim. viii. yeres.

And when the chyldren of Israell cryed vnto the LORD, the LORDE styred vp a sauer, to the children of Israel and saued them: one Othoniel ꝑ sonne of Kenes, Calebs yonger brother. And the spirite of the LORD came vpō him. And he iudged Israell, and went oute to warre. And the LORDE delyuered Chusan Risathaim kynge of Mesopotamia into his hand, and his hand preuayled agaynst Chusan Risathaim.

And the lande had *rest forty yeres, and Othoniel the sonne of Kenes died. And ꝑ childrē of Israel went to again, and committed wickednes in ꝑ syghte of the LDRD. And ꝑ LORD strengthed Eglon the kynge of the Moabites, agaynst the children of Israell, because they had committed wyckednesse before the LORDE. And this (Eglon) gathered vnto him the childrē of Ammō, and the Amalekites, and went & smote Israel, & conquered ꝑ cytie of Dauine trees. And so the children of Israel serued Eglon the kynge of Moab. xviii. yeres. But when they cryed vnto the LORD, the LORD styred them vp a sauer. Ihud the sonne of Gera the sonne of Semini, a man that couldē do nothinge handesomlye with hys ryghte hande.

And by hym the chyldren of Israell sent a present vnto Eglon the kyng of Moab: but Ihud made hym a dagger with two edges, of a cubyte lengthe, & he did girde it vnto his garment vpon hys ryght thygh, & caryed the present vnto Eglon the kynge of Moab: And Eglon was a very fatte man. And it fortuned that when he had presented the present, he sente the people that bare it, awaye: but he him selfe turned againe (from the place of grauen ymages, that was by Gilgal) and sayde: I haue a secret errande vnto the, O kyng. Whiche sayde: kepe silence. And all that stode before him, went oute from him.

And Ihud came vnto him, and in a sumer parler, which he had, sat he hym selfe alone, and Ihud sayde: *I haue a message vnto the from GOD. And he arose out of his seate. And Ihud put forth his lefte hande, & toke the dagger from his right thygh, and thrust it into his bely, & ꝑ haft went in after ꝑ blade: And the fat closed the haste so that he myght not drawe the dagger oute of his bely, but the dyrte came oute. Ihud gat him oute at a posterne doze, & shut the dozes of the parler about him, and locked them.

When he was gone out, his seruātes came, and whan they saw that ꝑ dozes of the parler were locked, they sayde: peradnenture he couereth his fete in his sumer chamber. And they taryed tyl they were aschamed: and beholde, seynge he opened not the dozes of the parler, they toke a key, and opened thē. And beholde, their Lozde was fallen downe deade on the earth. And Ihud escaped (while they taryed) and was gone beyonde, to the place of the grauen ymages, & escaped into Seirath.

And when he was come *he blewe a trompet in mount Ephraim. And the children of Israel wente downe wyth him from the hyl, and he wente before them. And he sayde vnto them, folowe me: for the LORD hath delyuered your enemyes ꝑ Moabytes into your hāde. And they descended after him, and toke the passages of Jordā, toward Moab, and suffered not a man to passe ouer. And they slewe of the Moabites, the same tyme, vpon a ten thousande men, which were al satte, and men of warre, and there scaped not a man. * So Moab was subdued that daye, vnder the hande of Israell: and the land had rest. lxxx. yeres.

After hym was Samgar the sonne of of Anath, which slew of the Philistines vi. hundred men with an ore goade, and delyuered Israel also.

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

¶ Debora and Barak delyuer Israel: Sisara is slayne of Jael.

AND the childzen of Israell began agayne to do wyckedly in ꝑ syght of the LORDE when Ahud was dead. And the LORDE solde them into the hande of Jabin kynge of Canaan, that reigned in Hazor, whose captaine of warre was called Sisara, whiche dwelte in Haroseth of the gentyles. And the childzen of Israell cried vnto the LORDE: for he had nyne hundred charrettes of yron, and twentye yeres he troubled the childzen of Israell very sore.

And Deboza a Prophetysse, the wife of Lapidoth iudged Israell the same tyme, and the same Deboza dwelte vnder a paulme tree betwene Ramath & Bethel, in mounte Ephzaim.

And the childzen of Israell came vp to her for iudgement. And she sent and called* Barak the son of Abinoam, out of Kedes Nephthalim, and sayde vnto hym. Hath not the LORD GOD of Israell commaunded thee, to leade wyth sayze wozdes men to mount Thabor, & take with thee ten thousande men, of ꝑ childzen of Nephthalim & of the childzē of Zabulon: And I wyll bzynge vnto thee to the* ryuer kyson, Sisara, the captayne of warre vnto Jabin, wyth hys charrettes, and his people, & wyll delyuer him into thine handes. And Barak sayde vnto her: yf thou wylt go with me, I wyll go: But and yf thou wylt not come with me, I wyl not go: She sayde: I wyll surely go with the, but thys iourney that thou takest, shal not be for thine honour, for the LORD shal sel Sisara into the hand of a woman. Deboza went with Barak to Kedes. And Barak called Zabulon and Nephthalim to Kedes, and led after him ten thousande men: and Deboza went vp with him.

But Haber the Kenite (whiche was of ꝑ childze of* Hobab ꝑ father in lawe of Moses) remoued from ꝑ other Kenites, and pitched his tente vntyll the plaine of Zaanaim, which is by Kedes.

And they shewed Sisara, that Barak the sonne of Abinoam was gone vp to mounte Thabor. And Sisara gathered together all hys charrettes euen. ix. hundzed charrettes of yron, & al the people that were with him from of Haroseth of the gentyles, vnto the ryuer of kyson. And Deboza said vnto Barak: vp, for this is the day in which the LORD hath delyuered Sisara into thine hande: Is not the LORDE gone out before thee? And so Barak wente downe from mounte Thabor, and ten thousande men after him.

But the LORDE destroyed Sisara and all his charrettes, and all his host with the edge of the swearde, before Barak: so that Sisara sprgbred downe of his charrette, and fled awaye on his fete. But Barak folowed after ꝑ charrettes, and after the hooste, euen vnto Haroseth of the gentyles. And all the host of Sisara fel vpon the edge of the sweard, and there was not a man left. Howe be it Sisara fled awaye on hys fete to the tent of Jael the wife of Haber the kenite: for there was peace betwene Jabin the kynge of Hazor, and the housholde of Haber the kenite.

And Jael wente out to mete Sisara, and sayde vnto him: turne in my lorde, turne into me, feare not. And whan he had turned in vnto her into her tente, she couered him with a mantel. And he sayde vnto her, geue me a litle water to drinke, for I am thyrsty. And she opened* a bottle of milke, and gaue him drinke and couered him. And agayne he sayde vnto her: stand in the dore of the tente, and whan anye man doth come and enquire of the, whether ther be any man here, thou shalte saye: naye.

Then Jael Habers wife toke a naile of the tente, and an hammer in her hād, and went softely vnto him, and smote ꝑ nayle into the temples of his head, and fastened it into the grounde, for he slombred sore, and was werye: And so he died.

And beholde, as Barak folowed after Sisara, Jael came out to mete him and sayde vnto him: come, and I wyll shewe thee the man, whom thou seekest. And when he came into her tente: Beholde, Sisara laye dead, and the nayle was in his temples. And so GOD brought Jabin the kynge of Canaan into subiection vpon that daye before the childzen childzen of Israel. And the hand of the childzen of Israel prospered, and prevayled against Jaben the kyng of Canaan, vntyll they had brought him to naughte.

The.v. Chapter.

The songe and thankes geuing of Debora and Barak after the victorye.

1 WHen Deboza and Barak the son of Abinoam sange the same day, sayinge: Prayse ye the LORDE, for the auengyng of Israel, and for the people that became so wyllyng. Heare O ye kinges, herken O ye prynces: I, euen I, wyll synge vnto the LORDE. I wyll prayse the LORDE GOD of Israell.

Deut. 4. b. LORD, *whan thou wentest out of Seir, whā thou departedst out of the felde of Edom, the earth trembled, and the heauens rayned: the cloudes also dropped water. * The mountaynes melted before the LORDE, euen as did Synai, before the LORDE GOD of Israell.

Psal. 67. a.

Iudic. 5. Iudic. 4. c. In the daies of *Samgar the sonne of Anath, in the dayes of *Iael the hye wayes were vnoccupied: And the runners of the pathes walked thorowe by wayes.

The inhabyters of the townes were gone, they were gone in Israell, vntyll I Deboza came vp, whiche came vp a mother in Israell.

B They chose newe Goddes, and then had they (the enemy) in ꝑ gates, though there were shylde and speare. There was not a shylde or speare sene among fourty thousande of Israell.

My harte loueth the gouerners of Israel, and them that are wyllynge among the people. O prayse ye ꝑ LORD.

Speake ye that ryde on fayre asses, and that syt vppermoste in iudgement, and walke by the waies.

At the cryinge of the archers amōge the drawers of water, there shall they speake of the ryghteousnes of ꝑ LORD, his righteousnes in ꝑ vnlenced places of Israell: then shall the people of the LORDE go downe to the gates.

Vp Deboza vp, get thee vp, & synge a songe: *Tryse Barak, and leade thy captiuytie captyue, thou sonne of Abinoam.

Iudic. 4. a.

Then shal they that remayne, haue dominiō of ꝑ proudest of the people (of Jabin:) The LORDE shall for my sake haue dominion ouer the myghtie. Out of *Ephraim was there a rote of them agaynst Amelech, and after the Ben- Iud. 1. jamin amonge thy people. Oute of Machir came rulers, and out of Zabulon they that gouerne the penne of the wryter.

And of Isachar, there were prynces with Deboza, Isachar also and Barak were sent on their fete into the valley, when in the departyng awaye of Ruben there were greate men, and wyse of herte.

Why abodest thou among the shepe folde, to heare the bleatynges of the flockes, and to separate thy selfe away with great men and wyse of hert?

C Gilead also abode beyond Iordane: why doth Dan remayne in shyppes?

Aser contynued on the sea shore, and taried in his decayed places.

But the people of Zabulon haue ieoperde theyr lyues euen vnto the death: like as did Nephthalim in ꝑ hie places of the felde.

Iudic. 4. a. The kynges came and fought, then fought the kynges of Canaan in Thanab, by the waters of Megiddo, and wanne no money.

They fought from heauen, euen the starres in their courses fought against Sisera.

The ryuer of Cyson remoued them, that auncient ryuer, the ryuer Cyson: My soule shall treade (hym) downe myghtely.

Then were the horse hoffes smytten asunder by the meanes of the praun- D synges that theyr myghty men made.

Curse ye the cytie of Meros (sayde the angell of the LORDE) curse the inhabytours thereof, because they came not to helpe the LORDE, to helpe the LORDE with the myghtye.

Iael ꝑ wife of Haber ꝑ Kenite shalbe blessed aboue other wemē, blessed shall she be aboue other wemē in the tente.

The mother of Sisera loked out at a wyndowe, & cried thorowe the latteesse: why is his charret so long a comming: why tarye the wheles of his cartes?

Al the wyse ladies answered her, yea, & her owne wordes answered her selfe.

Surely they haue founde, they deuyde the spoyles: curry man hath a damsell or two: Sisera hath a praye of dyuers coloured garmentes, eue a praye of raiment dyed with sondry coloures, & that are made of nedle worke: raymente of dyuerse colours and of nedle worke whiche is mete for him that is chefe in distributyng of the spoyles. So periche all thyne enemyes, O LORDE: but they that loue him, let them be as ꝑ Sunne when he ryseth in his myght.

And the lande had rest fortye yeares.

¶ The. vi. Chapter.

Israel is oppressed of the Madianites: Gedeon is sent of God to be their delyuerer.

AND the childrē of Israel* cōmitted wickednes in the sight of ꝑ LORD. And ꝑ LORD deliuered them into the handes of Madian seuen yeares. And the hande of Madian preuailed against Israel, & because of ꝑ Madianites, ꝑ childrē of Israel made thē dennes in the mountaines, & caues and strong holdes. And when Israell had sowen, the Madianites, the Amalechites and they of the east countrey came vp together against them: & pytched their tentes against them, and destroyed the encrease of the earth, euen tyll thou come vnto Azah: and lefte no sustinaunce for Israell, neyther shepe, oxe, or asse: for they went vp, they and their cattel, and came wt their tentes as a multitude of grashoppers: so that both they and also their camels were without numbre.

And they entred into ꝑ lande to destroy it. And so was Israel exceedingly impouerished in the sight of ꝑ Madianites, & cried vnto ꝑ Lord. And whē ꝑ childrē of Israel cried vnto ꝑ Lord because of ꝑ Madianites, the LORD sent vnto thē a prophet, which said vnto them: Thus sayeth the LORD GOD of Israel: I fet you from Egipte and brought you out of the house of bondage, and I ryd you out of the hande of the Egiptians, and out of ꝑ hande of all that oppressed you and cast thē out before you, & gaue you their lande. And I said vnto you: I am ꝑ LORD your GOD, * feare not ꝑ goddes of ꝑ Amorites in whose lande you dwell. But you haue not obeyed my voice. And ꝑ angel of ꝑ Lord came, & sat vnder an Oke which was in Ephrah, ꝑ perteyned vnto Joas ꝑ father of ꝑ Esrites. And his sonne Gedeō preste out wheate out of the eares in a prese, to hyde it from the Madianites: and the Angel of the LORD apeared vnto him, and said: the LORDE is with the, thou mightye man of warre. And Gedeon aunswered him: Oh my LORDE, yf the LORD be with vs, why is all this come vpon vs: yea, and where be al his miracles which our fathers tolde vs of, and said: Did not ꝑ LORD bringe vs out of Egipt: But now the LORDE hath forsaken vs, and delyuered vs into ꝑ handes of the Madianites. And the LORD loked vpon him, and sayde: Go hence in this thy might, and thou shalte delyuer Israel out of ꝑ hādes of ꝑ Madianites: Haue not I sent the: And he answered him: Oh LORDE, wherwith shal I saue Israel: Beholde, my kynred is poore in Manasses, & I am lytle in my fathers house. The LORDE sayde vnto hym, I wil be wt the: and thou shalte smite the Madianites, as they were but one mā. And he aunswered him: Oh, yf I haue founde grace in thy sight, then shew me a sygne, that it is thou that talkest wt me. Departe not hence, vntyll I come againe vnto the, and tyll I bryng myne offringe, and haue set it before the.

And he sayde: I wyl tarye vntil thou come againe. And Gedeon went in, and made ready a kyd, and swete kakes of an Epha of floure, and put it with the flesshe in a basket, and put the broth in a pot, and brought it out vnto him vnder the Oke, and presented it. And ꝑ angell of GOD sayde vnto him: take the flesshe and the swete kakes, and lay them vpō this rocke, and poure out ꝑ broth. And he dyd so. Then the angel of the LORD put forth the ende of the staffe ꝑ he helde in his hande, and touched the flesshe and the swete kakes. And * there arose vp fire out of the rocke, and consumed the flesshe and the swete kakes. But the angell of the LORDE vanyshed out of his syght. And when Gedeon perceiued that it was an angel of the LORD, he said: Alas, O LORD GOD, * haue I therfore sene an angel of ꝑ LORD face to face, that I should dye: And ꝑ LORD said vnto him: peace be vnto the, feare not, thou shalt not dye. Then Gedeon made an aultare there vnto the LORD, and called it: The LORD of peace. And vnto this day it is yet in Ephrath, that pertayneth vnto the father of ꝑ Eseri-tes. And it fortuned that ꝑ same night the LORD sayd vnto him: take a yonge bullocke out of thy fathers droue, and another of .vii. yeares olde, and destroy the aultare of Baal ꝑ thy father hath, and cut downe the groue that is by it, and make an aultare vnto the LORDE thy GOD vpon the top of this rocke in a conuenient place. And take ꝑ secõde bullocke, and offer burnt sacrifice vpõ the wood of ꝑ groue, whiche thou shalt cut downe. Then Gedeon toke ten men of his seruauntes, and dyd as the LORDE had him. But because he durst not do it by day for feare of his fathers houshold and of the men of the cytie, he dyd it by nyght.

And when the men of the cytie were vp erly in the morynge: Beholde, the aultar of Baal was broke, & the grouе cut downe that was by it, and ꝑ secõde bullocke offred vpon the aulter that was made. And they sayde one to a-ther: who hathe done this thinge: and when they enquyred and asked, they sayde: Gedeon the sonne of Joas hath done this thinge. Then the men of the citie said vnto Joas: bryng out thy son, that he may dye, because he hathe de-stroyed the aultar of Baal, & cut downe the grouе ꝑ was by it. And Joas sayde vnto al that stode by him: wyl ye pleade Baals cause: or wyl ye be his defēders: he that hath medled againſt him, let him dye or the morynge. If he be a GOD let hym be auenged of hym that caste downe hys aulter. And from that day was Gedeon called: Jerobaal, because his father had sayd: Let Baal be auē-ged of hym, that hathe broken downe hys aulter.

All the Madianites therfore and the Amalekites and they of the caste, were gathered together, and went, & pitched in the baley of Jesrael: but the spyrite of the LORDE came vpon Gedeon, * And he blew a trompet, & called * Abiezer to folow him, and sẽt messengers thorow out al Manasses, and casted thẽ: which also did folow him. And he sent messen-gers vnto Aser, Zabulon and Nephtha-lim, and they came to mete him.

And Gedeon sayde vnto GOD: wilt thou saue Israel in my hande, as thou hast said: Beholde, I wyll put a fleece of wolle in the threshing place. And yf ꝑ dewe come on the fleece onely, and it be drye vpon al the earth beside, then shall I be sure, ꝑ thou wilte saue Israell by my hande, as thou saydest. And it came so to passe. For he rose vp earlye on the morow, and thrust the fleece together, & wrong the dewe therout, and fylled a bowle of water: and Gedeon said again vnto GOD: be not angry with me, that * I speake once more. For I wil proue once againe by the fleece. Let it be drye onely vpõ the fleece, and dewe vpon al ꝑ grounde. And GOD dyd so ꝑ same night: For it was drye vpon the fleece only and there was dewe on al the grounde.

The. vii. Chapter.

Gedeon with three hundred men ouercometh the Madianites. Oreb and Zeb are slayne.

Then * Jerobaal (otherwyse cal-led Gedeon) & al the people ꝑ were with him rose vp early, & pitched beside the wel of Harad, so that the host of ꝑ Madianites were on ꝑ Northside of ꝑ rocke that boweth towarde ꝑ val-ley. And the LORD saide vnto Gedeon: the people that are with the are to ma-ny for me to geue the Madianites into their handes, leste Israell make their vaunte against me and say: myne owne hande hath saued me. Nowe therefore make a proclamaciõ in the eares of the people, & saye: * yf any mã dread or be a ferde, let him returne. And the people a-rose early. And there departed and re-turned of ꝑ people which were at mount Gilead .xxii. thousande, and there abode ten thousande.

And the LORD said vnto Gedeon: the people are yet to many, bryng thẽ downe vnto ꝑ water, & I wil trye thẽ vnto the there. And of whõ I saye vnto the, this shall go with the, the same shal go with the. And of whome soeuer I saye vnto the, this shall not go with the, the same shall not go. So he brought downe the people vnto the water, and the LORD sayde vnto Gedeon: As manye as lappe, lappe the water with their tonges as a dogge doth, they put by them selues, & so do them that knele downe bpó their knees to drynke. And the numbre of them that put their handes to their mouthes and lapped, were .iii. hundred men. But al the remnaunt of the people kneled downe vpon theyr knees to drincke water. And the LORD said vnto Gedeon: By these thre hundred men that lapped watter, wil I saue you: and deliuer the Madianites into thine hãd. And let all the other people go euerye man vnto his place.

They therfore of the people toke vytailes w̃ them, & their trompettes. And he sent al the rest of Israel, euery man vnto his tente, & comforted those thre hundred with him. And ꝑ hoste of Madian was beneth him in a valey. And it fortuned that the same night ꝑ LORD sayde vnto him: Aryse, get the downe vnto the hoste, for I haue delyuered it into thine hande. But & yf thou feare to go downe, then go thou & Pharah thy ladde downe to the host, and thou shalt herkẽ what they say, & so shal thine hãdes be strong, to go downe vnto ꝑ host.

Then went he downe and Pharah his ladde, euen harde vnto the men of armes that were in the hoste. And the Madianites, the Amalekites & al they of the East, lay a long in the valey, lyke a multitude of grashoppers, & their camelles were without numbre, euen as the sande by the sea syde in multitude. And when Gedeon was come: Behold, there was a man that tolde a dreame vnto his neighbour, and said: Beholde, I dreamed a dreame, & me thought that a lofe of barley breade, tombled into the host of Madian, and came vnto a tente, and smote it that it felle, and ouertourned it, that the tente lay a long. And his felow answered and sayde: this is nothing elles saue the swearde of Gedeon the sonne of Joas a man of Israel: for into his hande hathe GOD delyuered Madian and al the host.

When Gedeõ hearde the telling of the dreame, & the interpretacion of ꝑ same, he worshipped, and returned vnto the host of Israel, and said: vp, for ꝑ LORD hath delyuered into your hande ꝑ hoste of Madian. And he deuided the thre hundred men into thre companyes, and gaue euery man a trompet in his hãde, with an empty pitcher, and lãpes therin, and said vnto them: loke on me, and do lykewyse, that when I come to ꝑ side of ꝑ hoste, euen as I do, so do you: Whẽ I blowe with a trompet & all that are with me, blowe ye with trompettes also on euery syde of the host, & say: here is the swearde of ꝑ LORD & of Gedeon.

And so Gedeon and the thre hundred men ꝑ wer with him, came vnto ꝑ syde of the host in the begynning of ꝑ middle watche, & reysed vp ꝑ watche mẽ. And they blewe with their trompettes, and brake the pitchers that were in theyr handes. And al ꝑ thre companies blew with trompettes and brake ꝑ pitchers, & helde ꝑ lampes in their leste handes, & the trompettes in their right to blow withal. And they cryed: the swearde of the LORDE and of Gedeon. And they stode styll, euery man in his place roũde about the host: And they within ꝑ host, ranne, and cryed, and fled. And the thre hundreth blewe with trompettes, & the LORDE set* euery mans swearde vpon his neighbour, throw out all the host. And the host fled to Bethsitah, to zererath, & to the edge of the playne of Beholah vnto Tabath. And the men of Israel being gathered together out of the tribe of Nephthalim, of Aser, and of all Manasses folowed after ꝑ Madianites. And Gedeon sent messengers vnto al moũte Ephraim, saying: come downe against the Madianites, & take before them the waters vnto Bethbarath and to Jordan. Then al ꝑ men of Ephraim gathered together and toke ꝑ waters vnto Bethbarath, and to Jordan. And they toke two captaynes of the Madianites, Oreb and zeb, and slewe Oreb vpon the rocke Oreb, and zeb at ꝑ presse zeb, and folowed after Madian. And brought the heades of Oreb and zeb, to Gedeon on the other syde Jordan.

¶ The. viii. Chapter.

Ephraim maketh insurrecciõ against Gedeon, but is sone pacified.

AND the men of Ephraim sayd vnto him: why hast ꝑ serued vs thus, ꝑ thou calledst vs not, when thou wentest to fight with the Madianites: and they chode with him a good (and had almost done him violence.) And he sayde vnto them: what dede haue I done lyke vnto youres: is not a cluster of Ephraim better, then the wyne haruest of Abiezer: GOD hathe delyuered into youre handes the Lordes of Ma-dian, Oreb and Zeb. And what was I able to do lyke as you haue done? And then their spirites abated from of him, when he had sayde that. And Gedeon came to Iordan to passe ouer, he and the thre hundred men that were w him, very sayntc, & yet folowed ꝑ chace.

And he said vnto ꝑ mē of Socoth: geue
I pray you kakes of breade vnto ꝑ people that folow me: for they be fayntc, ꝑ
I may folow after Zebah and Zalmona kinges of Madian. And the Lordes of Socoth said: are the handes of Zebah and Zalmona nowe in thine handes, ꝑ we shoulde geue breade vnto thyne army? Gedeon said, therfore whē ꝑ LORD hath deliuered Zebah and Zalmona into myne hande, I wyl teare the flesshe of you w the thornes of ꝑ wyldernes & with breers. And he went vp thence to Phanuel, & spake vnto thē lykewyse.
And the mē of Phanuel answered him,
as dyd the mē of Socoth. And he saied also vnto the men of Phanuel: whē I come againe in peace, I wyll breake downe this towre. Zebah & Zalmona were in Carkar, & their hostes w them, vpon a.xv. thousande men, which were al ꝑ were leite of al ꝑ hoostes of thē of the Caste: for there was slayne a hundred and twentye thousande men, that drewe swordes.

And Gedeō went thorow them that dwelt in tabernacles on ꝑ East syde of Nobah & Iehbahah, & smote the host: for the hoste did cast no perylles. And whā Zebah and Zalmona fledde, he folowed after them, and toke the two kynges of Madian, Zebah and Zalmona, and discomforted al the hoste.

And Gedeon the sonne of Joas returned frō battel, afore ꝑ sunne was down, and caught a ladde of the men of Socoth, & enquired of him. And he wrote him of ꝑ lordes and elders of Socoth. lxxvii. men. And he came vnto the men of Socoth, and sayde: Beholde, here I haue Zebah and Zalmona, with which ye dyd caste me in the tethe, saying: are the handes of Zebah and Zalmona already in thyne hande, that we shoulde geue breade vnto thy faintye men? And he toke the elders of the citie, & thornes of the wildernesse and breers, and made the men of Socoth to fele them. And he brake downe the towre of *Phanuel, & Iud. 8. slew the men of the citie.

And then said he vnto Zebah & Zal- C mona, what maner of men were they whom ye slew at Thabor? and they answered: the lykenesse of the and them is al one, euen after the fashion of ꝑ chyldren of a kynge. And he sayde: they were my brethren, euen my mothers childrē.
As truly as the LORD lyueth yf ye had saued their liues, I would not slay you.
And he said vnto Jether his eldest son:
vp and slay them: But the lad drue not his swearde, for he feared, because he was yet yonge. Then Zebah and Zal-mona sayde: Ryse thou, and sal vpō vs:
for as ꝑ man is, so is his strength. And Gedeō arose and slew Zebah and Zal-mona, and toke away the ornamentes, that were on their camels neckes.

Then the men of Israel said vnto Gedeon: Reigne thou ouer vs, bothe thou, thy sonne & thy sonnes son, for thou hast deliuered vs out of ꝑ hande of Madiā.
And Gedeō sayd vnto them: I wyll not reigne ouer you, nether shall my childe reigne ouer you, but the LORDE shall reigne ouer you.

And againe Gedeon sayde vnto them: f
I would desyre a certen requeste of you, euen ꝑ you woulde geue me euery man the *earinges of his pray. For they had Exo. 32. golden earinges because they were Ismaelites: and they answered: we wyll gyue thē. And they spred a mantel, and dyd cast there in euery man ꝑ earynges of his praye: and the weyght of ꝑ goldē earinges that he required was a thousande and seuen hundred sycles of gold, 1700.
beside cheynes, pommasiders & purple rayment ꝑ was on the kynges of Ma-dian, & beside the cheines, ꝑ were about their camels neckes. And Gedeō made an Ephod therof, & put it in his cytie Ephrah. And al Israell went a *who- Exo. 32.
ring after it, in the same place, whiche thing became a ruyne vnto Gedeon & to his house. Thus was Madian brought lowe before the children of Israel, so that they lyfte vp their heades no more. And the countrey was in qui-etnes forty yeres in ꝑ dayes of Gedeō.

And Jerobaal the sonne of Joas, wēt G

deō had *lxx. sonnes of his body begot- Gen. 46.
ten, for he had many wiues. And his cō-cubine

rubine that was in Sichem, bare him a sonne also, whose name he called Abimelech. And Gedeon the sonne of Joas dyed in a good age, & was buryed in the sepulchre of Joas his father, euē in Ephrah, that perteyned vnto ꝑ father of the Ezrites.

But it fortuned, that as sone as Gedeon was dead, the childzen of Israell turned away, & went a whozyng after Baalim, and made a couenaūt w Baal to be their GOD, and the childzen of Israel thought not on the LORDE theyr GOD, which had delyuered them out of ꝑ handes of all their enemyes on euery syde. Neyther shewed they mercye on ꝑ house of Jerobaal, otherwyse called Gedeon, accozdynge to al the goodnes whiche he had shewed vnto Israel.

The.ix. Chapter.

¶ Abymelech is made kynge.

ABimelech ꝑ sonne of Jerobaal wēt to Sichem, vnto his mothers bzethzē, and comuned with them and with all his mothers fathers kynred, saying: say I pray you, in the eares of al the enhabitoures of Sichem: whether is better for you, that all the sonnes of Jerobaal (whiche are. lxx. persones) reigne ouer you, eyther that one reigne ouer you: Remēbze, that I am of your bone, and of your flesche. And his mothers bzethzen spake of him in the audience of the mē of Sichem al these wozdes, and their hartes were moued to folowe Abimelech. For they saide: he is our bzother. And they gaue him. lxx. peces of syluer out of ꝑ temple of Baal Berith, wherwith Abimelech hyzed vayne and light persons whiche went with him. And he wēt vnto his fathers house at Ephrah* and slew al his bzethzen, ꝑ sonnes of Jerobaal: euen. lxx. persons w one stone. Notwithstandig, yet Joatham ꝑ yongest son of Jerobaal escaped, for he hyd him selfe. And all the mē of Sichem gathered togither, & al ꝑ house of Mello, and came and made Abimelech kyng in the playne, where the great stone was by Sichem.

And when they tolde it to Joatham, he went and stode in the toppe of mount Garizim, and lifte vp his voyce, & cryed, and said vnto thē: Herken vnto me you men of Sichem, that GOD may herken vnto you. * The trees went forthe to anoynte a kyng ouer them, and said vnto the Olyue tree: reygne thou ouer vs. But the olyue tree sayd vnto thē: Should I leaue my fattenes, whiche both goddes and men pzayse in me, and go to be pzomoted ouer the trees? And the trees sayde to ꝑ fygge tree: come thou, and be king ouer vs. The figge tree answered them: Should I forsake my swetnes, and my good frute, and go to be pzomoted ouer the trees? Then sayd the trees vnto the vyne: come thou and be king ouer vs. The vyne said vnto them: Shoulde I leaue my wyne, wherby I cheare both goddes and mē, and go to be pzomoted ouer the trees? Then said al ꝑ trees vnto ꝑ fyzre bushe: come thou & reigne ouer vs. And ꝑ fyzre bushe said vnto the trees: yf it be true that ye wil anoynte me kyng ouer you, then come, and put your trust vnder my shadow. yf no, the fyze come out of the fyzre bushe, and wast the Cedze trees of Libanon.

Nowe therfore, yf ye do truly & vncozruptly, to make Abimelech kyng: and yf ye haue dealte wel with Jerobaal and his house, and haue done vnto him accozdyng to the deseruyng of his hādes, iudge ye. For euen he (my father) fought for you, and aduentured his lyfe, and rydde you out of the hand of Madian. And ye are rysen vp against my fathers house this daye, & haue slayne his childzen, euen. lxx. persones w one stone, and haue made Abimelech ꝑ son of hys mayde seruaunt, king ouer the men of Sichem, because he is your bzother: yf ye thē haue dealt truly and purely with Jerobaal & with his house this day thē reioyce ye w Abimelech, and let him reioyce with you. But yf you haue not dealt truly, then I pray GOD a fire may come out of Abimelech & consume the men of Sichem & the house of Mello. And that there may come a fire from amonge the men of Sichem, and out of the house of Mello, and consume Abymelech. And Joathā ranne away, and fled, and went to Beer, and dweit there for feare of Abimelech his bzother.

whē Abimelech had reigned thze yeere, GOD sent a spzite of hate betwene Abimelech, and the men of Sichem. And the citizens of Sichem rayled vpō Abimelech, and wysshed that the wickednes done to the. lxx. sonnes of Jerobaal might come on him, and ꝑ GOD would lay the bloude of them vnto Abime-lech their brother which slew them, and vpon the other men of Sichem whiche ayded him in ꝑ kyllyng of his brethren.

And the citezens of Sichem set men to lay awayte for him in the toppe of the mountaynes: which men (whyle they taried for his comminge) robbed al that came a-longe the waye by them. And it was tolde Abimelech.

D And Gaal the sonne of Abed came wt his brethren, and they gat them to Si-chem. And the men of Sichem put their confidence in him. And they went oute into the feldes, and gathered in their grapes, and trode them, & made mery:
and wēt into the house of their goddes, & did eate & drincke, and cursed Abime-lech. And Gaal the sonne of Abed saide:
what is Abimelech, & what is Sichē, that we shoulde serue him: Is he not ꝑ son of Jerobaales zebul is his officere
Gen. 14. a. Serue suche as come of* Hemor ꝑ father of Sichem, for what reason is it ꝑ we should serue him: wolde GOD thys people were vnder my hande, thā wold I take Abimelech out of the way. And he spake againſt Abimelech: make thine hoste greater: & go out. And whē zebul the ruler of ꝑ citie hearde ꝑ wordes of Gaal the sonne of Abed, he was wroth, and sent messengers vnto Abimelech priuely, saying: Beholde, Gaal ꝑ sonne of Abed & his brethren be come to Si-chem: and beholde, they set the cytie a-gainſt the. Now therfore vp by nyghte, thou and all ꝑ people ꝑ is with the, and lye in wayte in the felde. And rysle early in the mornyng as soone as the sunne is vp, and fal vpon the citie. And yf he and the people that is with him, come oute
e againſt the, do to him what thine hādes shalbe able. And Abimelech rose vp, & al the people ꝑ wer with him by night.
And they laied awaite againſt Sichem in foure companies. And Gaal ꝑ sonne of Abed wēt out, and stode in ꝑ entring of the gate of the citie. And Abimelech rose vp, & the folke that were wt him, from laying awaite. And whē Gaal saw the people, he sayde to zebul: beholde, there come people downe from the top of the mountaines. And zebul sayd vnto him: the shadowe of the hylles seme mē vnto the (and by that errour are they de-ceiued,) and Gaal answered againe, and saide: se, there come folke downe by the middel of ꝑ lande, & another companye come along by ꝑ plaine of ꝑ charmarys.
Then sayde zebul vnto him: where is now thy mouth that sayde: what felow is Abimelech, ꝑ we should serue him: Is not this the people ꝑ thou hast despised: Go out now and fight with them. And Gaal went out before ꝑ citizens of Si-chem, & fought wt Abimelech. And Abimelech chaced him, ꝑ he fled before him (and he droue him into the cyte) & many were ouerthrowen and wounded, euen vnto the entering of the gate. And Abime-lech dwelt at Arumah.

And zebul thruste out Gaal & his brethren ꝑ they should not dwel in Sichē (and suffered them not to tary therin.) And on the morow, it happened that the people went out into the felde. And they tolde Abimelech. And he toke ꝑ people, & deuyded them into thre cōpanies & layed awayte in ꝑ feldes, and loked, & behold, the people were come out of the cytie, &
he ranne vpon them and smote them.
And Abimelech, & the cōpanies that were wt him reached further, and stode in the entring of the gate of the cytie.
And the two other cōpanies ranne vp-on al ꝑ people ꝑ were in ꝑ feldes, & slew them. And when Abimelech had fought againſt the cytye al that day, he toke it, & slew the people that was therin, and destroyed the citie, and sowed salte therowe it. And when al the men of ꝑ towre of Sichem heard ꝑ, they entred into a strōg hold of ꝑ house of their god Baal Berith, (where they made a bonde with him, and therof dyd the place take the name, whyche place was exceadinge strong.) And it was tolde Abimelech, that all ꝑ men of the towre of Sichem were gathered together, & Abimelech gat him to mounte zelmon, both he and al ꝑ people that were wit him, and toke axes wt hym & cut down bowes of trees, and toke them and bare them on his shoulder, & sayde vnto the folke that wer with him *what ye haue Iud. 9 seue me do, spede your selues, & do lykewyse as I haue done. And al the men ꝑ were among the people, cut downe bowes, and folowed Abimelech, & put thē into the holde, and set ꝑ holde a fyer by them: so that (with smoke and fyre) al the mē
of the towre of Sichem were slayne, bpon a thousande men and women.
Then went Abimelech to Thebez, & besieged it, and toke it. But there was a strong towre within ꝑ cytye, & thither ranne

ranne all the men and wemen, & all the chefe that were in the cytie, and shut it to them, & got thē vp (by the bulwerkes) to the toppe of the towze. And Abimelech came vnto the towze and fought against it, and went harde vnto the doze of the towze to set it on fyze. And a certaine woman * caste a pece of a mylstone vpon his heade, and all to brake hys brayne panne.

Then Abimelech called hastely vnto the young man ꝑ bare his harneste, and said vnto him: *drawe thy swearde and slee me, that men saye not of me: a woman slewe him. And his lad thrust him thorowe, and he dyed.

And when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, they departed euery man vnto his owne house. And thus *ꝑ wickednes of Abimelech which he did vnto his father, in sleynge his seuentye brethren, and therto al the wyckednesse of the men of Sichem, dyd GOD bring vpon their heades. And vpon them came the curse of Joathan the sonne of Jerobaall.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

Thola and Jair are Judges of Israel.

AFter Abimelech there arose, to defende Israel, one Thola (the sonne of Phuah) his vncles son, a mā of Issahar which dwelt in Samir in moūt Ephraim. And he iudged Israel. xxiii. yeare & died, & was buryed in Samir. And after him arose Jair a Gileadite, & iudged Israel. xxii. yeare. And he had thirtye sonnes ꝑ * rode on thirtye Asse coltes, and they had thirty cities, which are called the townes of Jair vnto this daye, & are in the lande of Gilead. And Jair dyed and was buried in Kamon.

* And the childzen of Israel wzought wickednesse yet againe, in the sight of ꝑ LORD, and serued Baalim & Astaroth, and the goddes of Syria, the goddes of Sidon, & ꝑ goddes of Moab, ꝑ goddes of the childzen of Ammō, & the goddes of the Philistines, and forsoke ꝑ LORD and serued not him. And ꝑ LORD was wroth vp Israel, & solde them into ꝑ hādes of ꝑ Philistines, & into the hādes of the childzen of Ammon: which krō that yere forth, pylde & oppzessed the childzē of Israel. xviii. yere al ꝑ wer on ꝑ other side Jozdā in ꝑ lād of ꝑ Amozites which is in Gilead. Moreouer, the childzen of Ammon went ouer Jozdan to fyght against Juda, Ben Jamin, & the house of Ephraim: so ꝑ Israel was soze combred. And ꝑ childzen of Israel cried vnto ꝑ LORD, sayinge: we haue synned against the: foz we haue forsaken oure owne God, & haue serued Baalim. And the LORD said vnto ꝑ childzē of Israel: did not the Egipcians, ꝑ Amozites, the childzen of Ammō, ꝑ Philistines, ꝑ Sidonites, the Amalekites, and ꝑ Maonites oppzesse you: And ye cryed to me & I delyuered you out of their handes. And foz al that ye haue forsaken me, & serued straunge goddes, wherfore I wyll helpe you nomoze. Go and crye vnto the goddes which ye haue chosen, & *let them saue you in the tyme of your tribulacion. And the childzen of Israel said vnto ꝑ LORD: We haue synned: do ꝑ vnto vs whatsoeuer please thee, deliuer vs onely this daye. And they put away the straunge goddes from them and serued the LORDE. And his soule had pitie on the myserye of Israel. Deu. 32. c. Iere. 2. c. D

Then the childzen of Ammon gathered together, & pitched in Gilead. And the childzen of Israel gathered thē together, and pitched in Mizpa. And the lozdes of Gilead sayde eche to other: whosoeuer wyll begynne the battel against the childzen of Ammon, ꝑ same shalbe head ouer all the enhabiters of Gilead.

¶ The.xi. Chapter.

Jephthah deliuered Israel from the Ammonites.

AND there was one Jephthah a Gileadite, a strong man, the sonne of an harlot: & Gilead begat Jephthah. And Gileads wyfe bare him sonnes, which when they wer come to age thrust out Jephthah, & sayde vnto him, thou shalt not enherit in oure fathers house, foz thou art ꝑ sonne of a straūge woman. Then Jephthah fled from hys brethren, and dwelt in ꝑ lande of Tob. And ther gathered ydle (and theyr selue) mē to Jephthah, and went out with him. A

And it chaūced in prozesse of tyme that the childzen of Ammon made warre against Israel. And whan the childzē of Ammon fought thus against Israel, ꝑ elders of Gilead went to set Jephthah out of the lande of Tob (to helpe them) and sayde vnto hym: come and be oure captayne, that we maye fyght with the childzen of Ammon. Jephthah answered the elders of Gilead: dyd not ye B hate me & expell me out of my fathers house: how happeneth it then, that you come vnto me nowe in tyme of youre

B tribulacion? And ye elders of Gilead said vnto Jephthah: Therfore we turne againe to the nowe, that thou maiest go w vs, & fight against ye childre of Ammō and be our head ouer al the enhabiters of Gilead. And Jephthah sayd vnto the elders of Gilead: yf ye bryng me home againe to fight with the childre of Ammon, then yf the LORDE delyuer them before me, shal I be your head: And the elders of Gilead said to Jephthah: the LORDE be witnesse betwene vs yf we do not accordynge to thy wordes. Then Jephthah wēt w the elders of Gilead.

And the people made him head & ruler ouer thē. And Jephthah rehearsed all his wordes before the LORDE in Mizpa.

And Jephthah sent messengers vnto the king of ye children of Ammō, saying: what hast thou to do w me, ye thou arte come against me, to fight in my lande? The kynge of the children of Ammon answered vnto ye messengers of Jephthah: Because Israell toke awaye my lande, whē they came out of Egipt: euē from Arnon vnto Jabok, & vnto Jordā. Nowe therfore restore those landes againe w fayre meanes. And Jephthah
C sent messengers againe vnto the kyng of ye children of Ammō: & said vnto him:
Deut. c. b thus saieth Jephthah: * Israel toke not away the lāde of Moab, nor the lāde of the children of Ammon. But when Israel came out of Egipte, and walked thorowe the wyldernesse, euen vnto the
Nu. 20. c. reed sea, they came to Cades * and sent messengers vnto ye kyng of Edom, saying: let me (I pray the) go thorowe thy lande. But the kynge of Edom wouldē not agree therto. And in like maner they sent vnto the kynge of Moab, but he wouldē not consent. And so Israell abode stil in Cades. And then they went a long thorow the wilderneſſe, & compassed the lande of Edom, and ye lāde of Moab, & came along by ye east syde of ye lād of Moab, & pitched on ye other syde of Arnon, & wold not come w in ye coast of Moab: * for Arnon was the vtmooſt
Num. 21. c border of Moab. And then Israel * sēte
Deu. 2. d messengers vnto Sehō, kyng of ye Amorites, & kyng of Hesbon, and sayde vnto
D him: Let vs passe thorowe thy lād vnto out owne countrey. But Sehon consented not to Israel, ye he shulde go thorow his coast: but gathered al his people together, & pitched in Jahza & fought w Israel. And the LORD GOD of Israell delyuered Sehon and al his folke into the handes of Israel. And so Israel smote them & conquered al ye lande of ye Amorites, the enhabiters of the sayde countrey: And they conquered al ye coastes of the Amorites, from Arnon vnto Jabok, and from the wyldernesse vnto Jordan. So now, seyng ye LORD GOD of Israel hath caste oute the Amorites before his people Israel, shouldest thou possesse the lande? Haye, but what people Camos thy GOD dryueth out, ye lād possesse thou. Suē so whatsoeuer nacō the LORDE oure GOD expelleth, that lande ought we to enioye.

* And art thou better then Balac the sonne of Zephor kyng of Moab? dyd he stryue w Israel or fight against them, all the while Israel dwelt in Hesbon & her tounes, in Aroer, & her townes, & in al the cities that be a long by ye coastes of Arnon, thre hūdred yeres? why dyddest thou not recouer them in all that space? Wherfore, I haue not synned against the. But thou doest me wrong to warre against me. The LORDE therfore which is a Judge, be Judge this day betwene the children of Israel, and the children of Ammon. Howbeit, the kyng of the children of Ammon, harkened not vnto the wordes of Jephthah, whiche he sent him.

Then the spirit of ye LORD came vpon Jephthah. And he passed ouer to Gilead and to Manasses, and came to Mazphah that lyeth in Gilead, & from thence vnto the children of Ammō. And
1 Jephthah vowed a vowe vnto ye LORD
Gen. 28. a and said: * yf thou shalt delyuer ye children of Ammon into my hādes, thē that thing ye cōmeth out of the dores of my house against me, whē I come home in peace, frō the children of Ammon, shal be the Lordes: & I wyl offer it vp for a burnt offringe. And so Jephthah went vnto ye children of Ammon to fyght w thē. And ye LORDE deliuered them into his handes. And he smote them from Aroer tyll thou come to Minith, euen xx. cytyes: and so forthe to the playne of the vyneyardes, with an exceadynge greate slaughter. And thus the chyldren of Ammon were brought vnder before the chyldren of Israel.

Whē Jephthah came to Maspha vnto his house, se his doughter came oute against him, w tymbrelles & daunses, whiche was his onely child: so that besyde her, he had neither son, nor dough-ter. And when he sawe her, he rent his clothes, and sayde: Alas my doughter, thou haste brought me lowe, and arte one of them that trouble me. For I haue opened my mouth vnto ꝑ LORD and cannot goe backe. And she sayde vnto him: my father yf thou haue opened thy mouth vnto the LORDE, then do with me accordyng to it that proceded out of thy mouth, for as much as ꝑ LORDE hathauenged thee (and geuen the victorie) of thine enemyes the chyldrē of Ammon. And she sayd vnto her father:
do thys muche for me, let me alone two monethes, that I maye go downe to the mountaynes, and bewayle my virginitie, I and my felowes. And he sayd go. and he sēt her awai two monethes.
And so she wente with her companyo-ons, and lamented her mayden heade vpon the mountaynes. And after the ende of two monethes she turned a-gayne vnto her father, which dyd with her accordynge to hys vowe which he had vowed, and she had knowen no
mā. And it grew to a custome in Israel. The doughters of Israel came yere by yere to lament the doughter of Jephthah ꝑ Gileadite. iiii. dayes in a yere.

The batayle of Jephthah agaynst Ephraim. After the death of Jephthah succedeth Elon. After Elon Abdon.

AND the mē of Ephraim gather ed them selues together, and wente
northward, & said vnto Jephthah:
* Wherefore wentest thou to fyghte w the chyldren of Ammon, and dydest not call vs to go with ther: we wyll therefore burne thine house vpon thee with fyre: And Jephthah sayde vnto them:
I and my people were at greate stryfe with the chyldren of Ammon. And whē I called vpon ye deliuered me not out of their handes. And when I sawe that ye deliuered me not, * I put my lyfe in my handes, and went vpon the chyldrē of Ammon. And the LORDE deliuered them into my handes. wherefore then are ye come vpon me nowe, to fyght w me? Jephthah therfore gathered together all the men of Gilead, and foughte with the Ephraites. And the men of Gilead smote the Ephraites because they sayde: ye Gileadites are but runneagates of Ephraim, amonge the E-phraites and the Manassites. Moreo-uer, the men of Gilead toke the passages of Jordan before the Ephraites.
And when those Ephraites that were escaped, sayde: let vs go ouer, then the men of Gilead sayde vnto them: Arte thou an Ephraite: they sayd: nay. Thē sayde they vnto hym: then say: Schibboleth (whiche is by interpretacion / an eare of corne.) And he sayde: Sybboleth: for he could not so pronounce. And then they toke him, and slewe hym at the passages of Jordan. And there were ouer-throwen at that time of the Ephraites

¶ The. xiii. Chapter.

Israel beyng an ydolater is oppressed of the Philistines. The birth of Samson. The sacrifice of Samsons father

AND the chyldren of Israell began agayne to commytte wyckednesse in the syghte of the LORDE. * And the LORDE deliuered them into the handes of the Philistines. xl. yere. And there was a man in Zaraah of the kin-red of Dan, named Manoah, whose wyfe was barren, and bare not. And ꝑ Aungell of the LORDE apeared vnto ꝑ woman, and sayde vnto her: Beholde, thou arte barren, and bearest not: But thou shalte conceaue, and beare a son.

Num.6.a. GOD, euē from his (infancy and from his) byrth. And he shal begynne to delyuer Israell out of the handes of the Philistines.

Then the wyfe came, and tolde her husbande, sayng: a man of GOD came vnto me, & the fashion of hym was lyke the fashiō an angel of GOD, exceadyng fearfull. But I asked hym not whence he was, neyther tolde he me his name, but sayde vnto me: *behold, thou shalt
B. Num.6.c Luke.1.c be with childe and beare a sonne, and now drynke no wyne nor strōg drink, neither eate anye vncleane thynge: for the ladde shalbe an abstayner to GOD, euen from his (infancy and from his) byrth, to the daye of his death.

Then Manoah made intercessyon to the LORDE, and sayde: I praye thee my LORDE, let the man of GOD which thou sendest, come once moze vnto vs, and teache vs what we shall do vnto the lad, when he is borne. And GOD hearde the voyce of Manoah, and the aungell of GOD came againe vnto the wyfe as she sat in the felde. But Manoah her husbande was not with her. And the wyfe made haste, and ranne, & shewed her husbande, and sayde vnto him: Behold, the man apered vnto me, that came vnto me to day.

And Manoah arose, and went after his wyfe, and came to the man, & sayde vnto hym: arte thou the manne that spakest vnto my wyfe? And he saide:
C I am. Manoah sayde: nowe when thy sayinge is come to passe: what shalbe ꝑ maner of the childe, and what shall he do? And the aungell of the LORD sayd vnto Manoah: thy wife must abstayne from all that I sayd vnto her: she may eate of nothinge that cometh of ꝑ vine tree, nor drinke wine or strong drinke, nor eate anye vncleane thynge: But must obserue all that I bad her. Manoah sayde vnto the Aungell of the LORD: we will kepe thee styll, vntyll

And the angell of the LORDE sayde vnto hym: *why askest ꝓ after my name, whiche

And so Manoah toke a kydde wyth a meate offerynge, and offered it vpon

And when ꝑ flame came vp towarde heauen from the altar, the angell of the LORDE ascended vp in the flame of the altar. And Manoah and his wife loked vpon it, and fel flat on their faces vnto the ground. But the angell of the LORDE dyd no moze apeare vnto Manoah & his wife. And then Manoah knew that it was an angell of the LORDE, and sayd vnto his wyfe * we shall suerlye dye, be-

And the wyfe bare a son, and called his name Samson. And the ladde grewe, and the LORDE blessed him. And the spirit of the LORDE began to moue hym in ꝑ hooste of Dan, betwene Zaraah and Esthaol.

¶ The.xiiii.Chapter.

The marriage of Samson. He kylleth a lion. He propoundeth a ryddle. He kylleth thyrtie men. His wyfe forsaketh him, and taketh another.

SAmson went downe to Thamnath, & sawe a woman in Thā-
I nath of the doughters of ꝑ Philistines, and he came vp, and tolde hys father & his mother, and sayde: I haue sene a woman in Thānath of ꝑ doughters of the Philistines. And now gene me her to wyfe. Then his father & mother sayde vnto him: *Is there neuer Deut.7.i a woman among the doughters of thy brethren, and amonge all my people, but that thou must go, and take a wife of the vncircumcised Philistines? And

Samson

Samson sayde vnto his father: geue me thys woman, for she pleaseth me well. But his father and mother wyst not that it was the LORDES doyng, & that he sought an occasion against the Philistines: for at that tyme the Philistines raygned ouer Israel.

Than went Samson and his father and his mother downe to Thamnath, and came to the vineyardes of Thamnath. And beholde, a yonge (wood) lyon roared vpon him. And the spirite of the LORDE came vpon him. And he tare him, as he would haue rent a kyd, and yet had nothyng in his hande, neyther tolde his father and mother what he had done. And he went down, & talked with the woman, which semed wel fauored in the syght of Samson.

And within a shorte space after as he wente thither agayne to take her to wyfe, he turned out of the waye to se þ carkasse of the lyon. And beholde, ther was a swarme of bees and hony in the carkasse of the lion. And he toke of the honye in his handes, and went eatyng, and came to his father and mother, & gaue them also. And they did eate. But he tolde not them, that he had taken þ hony out of the carkasse of the lyon.

And so hys father came vnto the woman, and Samson made there a feast, for so vsed the yonge men to doe. And when they (the syrefyns of that place) sawe hym, they brought. xxx. companyons to be with him. And Samson sayd vnto them: I wyl nowe put forth a ryddle vnto you: And yf you can declare it me within. vii. daies of þ feast, & fynde it out, I wyl geue you. xxx. shyrts, and. xxx. chaunge of garmentes: But and yf you can not declare it me, then shall ye geue me. xxx. shyrtes and xxx. chaunge of garmentes. And they answered him: put forth thy ridle, that we maye heare it. And he sayde vnto them. Oute of þ eater came meate: and out of the stronge came swetenes. And they coulde not in. iii. dayes expound þ riddle: And when the seuenth day was come, they sayde vnto Samsons wife: flatter thine husbande (and perswade him) that he maye declare vs the riddle, lest we burne thee and thy fathers house with fyre. Haue ye called vs hyther, to make vs beggers? And Samsons wife wepte before hym (complayned) and sayd: Surely thou hatest me, and louest me not: for thou haste put forthe a ryddle vnto the children of my folke and hast not tolde it me. And he sayde vnto her: Beholde, I haue not tolde it my father and my mother, and shall I tell it thee?

And Samsons wyfe wepte before him. vii. dayes while the feast lasted. And the seuenth daye he tolde her, because she laye so sore vpon him. And she tolde it the childre of her folke. And the men of the cytie sayde vnto him the seuenth daye, before the Sunne went downe. What is sweter then hony, and what is stronger then a Lyon? Then sayd he vnto them: yf ye had not plowed with my calfe, ye had not found out my ryddle. And the spirite of þ LORDE came vpon him. And he went down to Ashalon, and slewe thyrtye men of the, and spoyled them, and gaue chaunge of garmentes vnto them whyche expounded the riddle. And he was wroth, and went vp to his fathers house. But Samsons wyfe was geuen to one of hys companyons, that he had taken vnto him.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

¶ Samson tyeth firebrandes to foxes tayles, With the iawe bone of an asse he sleeth a thousande men. Out of a great toth in the iawe, god geueth him water.

But it chaunced within a while after, euen in the tyme of wheate haruest, þ Samson visited his wife with a kyd, saying: I wyl go in to my wyfe into the chamber: but her father wolde not suffre him to goe in. And her father sayd: I thought þ thou hadst hated her, & therfore gaue I her vnto one of thy companions. Is not her yonger sister fairer then she? Take her in stead of the other. Samson sayd vnto them: Now am I more blameles then the Philistines, and therfore wyll I do them displeasure.

And Samson went out, and caught thre hundred foxes, & toke fyrebrandes, and fastened tayle to tayle, and put a fyrebrand in the myddes betwene two tayles. And whan he had set the brandes on fyre, he sent them oute, (that they myght ruine abrode, which were immediatly) into the standyng corne of the Philistines, and burnt vp both the reped corne and also the standynge, with the vineyardes and oliues. Then þ Philistines sayd:

sayd: who hath done this? And it was tolde them that Samson the sonne in lawe of ꝑ Thamnite, because he had taken his wyfe, and geuen her to hys companion. And the Philistines came vp and burnt her, and her father with fire.

And Samson sayde vnto thē: though ye haue done this, yet wyl I be auenged on you, and then I will cease. And he smote them legge and thygh with a mygbtie plage. And then he went and dwelte in the caue of the rocke Etam.

Then the Philistines came vp, and pytched in Juda, and laye in (a place that was afterward called) Lehy (ꝑ is a iawe bone/where their hoost was scattered abrod.) And ꝑ men of Juda sayde, why are ye come vp vnto vs? They answered: to bynde Samson are we come vp, and to do to him as he hath done to vs. Then three thousande men of Juda wente downe to the caue of the rocke Etam, & sayde to Samson: wottest thou not that the Philistines are rulers ouer vs: wherfore then hast thou done thus vnto vs?
He answered them, *as they dyd vnto me, so haue I done vnto them.

And they sayd vnto him agayne: we are come down to bynde the, and to de-liuer thee into the hande of the Philistines. And Samson sayde vnto them:
sweare vnto me, (and promyse me) that ye shal not fal vpon me your selues. They answered him, saying: No, but we wyl bynde thee and deliuer thee vnto their handes. But we wyl not kyl thee. And they bounde him with two newe cordes, and brought hym from the rocke.
And when he came to Lehy, the Philistines houted agaynste him. And the spirite of the LORDE came vpon hym, and the cordes that were vpon his armes, became as flaxe that was burnte with fyre, so the bandes leused frō of his handes. And he founde a rotten iawebone of an asse, and put forth hys hande, and caughte it, and slue a thousande men therwith.

And Samson sayde: with the iawe
of an asse haue I made heapes of them:
with the iawe of an asse haue I slayne a thousand men. And when he had left speakyng: he cast awaye the iawe bone oute of his hande, and called the place: Ramath Lehi. (That is by interpretacion/the lyftyng vp of the iawebone). And he was sore athyrst, and called on the LORDE, and sayde: thou hast geuen this greate victorye, in the hande of thy seruaunt.
And nowe I must dye for thyrste, and fall into the handes of the vncircumci-sed. But GOD brake a great toth that was in the iawe, and there came water therout. And when he had dronke, hys spirite came agayne, & he was refres-shed, wherfore the name therof is called vnto this daye, the wel of the caller on, whiche came of the iawe. And he iudged Israel in the dayes of the Philistines twentye yeres.

¶ The. xvi. Chapter

¶ Samson lyfteth vp the gates of Gaza. He was decerned by Dalila. He pulleth downe the house vpon the Philistines/ and dyeth with the

THen went Samson to *Azath, & sawe there an harlot, and wente in vnto her. And it was tolde the Azathites, sayinge: Samson is come hither: And they went about, and layd wayte for him there all night in ꝑ gate of the citie, and were styl all the night, saying: in the morning when it is daye we shall kyll him. And Samson toke his rest tyll mydnyght, and arose at mydnight, and toke the dores of ꝑ gate of the cytie, and the two syde postes, & rente them of, with the barre and all, & put them vpon his shoulders, and caried them vp to ꝑ toppe of an hyl that is before Hebron.

And after this it fortuned, that by ꝑ riuer of Sorek, he loued a woman called Dalila: vnto whō came the lordes of the Philistines, and sayde vnto her:
perswade him, and se wherin his great strength lyeth, and by what meane we may ouercome him, that we may binde hym, to bryng hym vnder: and euery one of vs shall gyue thee a leuen hundred syluerlinges.

And Dalila sayde to Samson: Oh,
tell me where thy great strength lyeth, and howe thou myghtest be bounde, to bryght vnder. Samson answered vnto her: yf they bynde me with seuen grene wythes that were neuer dryed,
I shal be weake as other men.

And then the lordes of the Philistines brought her seuen wythes that were yet grene and neuer dryed, and she bounde him therwith. Notwithstanding she had men lyinge in wayte wyth her in the chambre. And she sayd

vnto

vnto him: the Philistines be vpon thee Samsō. And immediatly he brake the wythes as a stryng of towe (that is twyned) breaketh, when it feleth fire. And so his strength was not knowen.

And Dalila sayd vnto Samson: Se, thou hast mocked me and told me lies. Nowe therfore tell me wherwith thou myghtest be bounde. He answered her: yf they bynd me with newe ropes that neuer were occupyed, I shalbe weake, and as another man. Dalila therefore toke newe ropes, and bounde him therwith, & sayde vnto him: the Philistines be vpon the Samson. And there were lyers of wayte in the chambre, and he brake thē from of his armes as they had bene but a threde. And Dalila said to Samson, hytherto thou hast begiled me & told me lyes: yet tel me how thou myghtest be bounde. He sayd vnto her: yf thou platteddest the. vii. lockes of my head with an heere lace. And she fastened them with a nayle, and sayd vnto him: the Philistines be vpon thee Samson. And he awooke oute of hys slepe, and plucked away the nayle that was in the plattynge wyth the heere lace. And she sayde vnto him agayne: Howe canst thou saye that thou louest me, when thyne herte is not wyth me? Beholde, thou haste mocked me this three tymes, & hast not told me wherin thy great strength lyeth.

And as she laye vpon him wyth her wordes contynually vexing of him, his soule was encombred euen vnto the death. And so he tolde her all his hert, and sayde vnto her: *there neuer came rasour vpō myne head, for I haue bene an abstayner: (that is to say consecrate) vnto GOD, euen frō my mothers wombe: therfore whē I am shauē my strength wyl go from me, & I shal ware weake, and be lyke al other men. And when Dalila sawe that he had tolde her all his herte, she sente, and called for the lordes of the Philistines, saying: come vp yet this once, for he hath shewed me all his herte.

Then the lordes of the Philistines came vp vnto her, and broughte the money in their handes. And she made him slepe vpon her knees (and to laye hys head downe in her lap) and she sente for a man, & he dyd shaue of the seuen lockes of his head, and begā to vexe him, and his strength was gone from him. And she sayde: the Philistines be vpon thee Samson. And he awoke oute of his slepe, and sayde. I wyll go out now as at other times before, & shake my self: & he wyst not that the LORDE was departed from him. But the Philistines toke him, & put out his eyes, & brought him downe to *Azath, and bound him with two fetters of brasse. And he dyd grynd in the pryson house: howbeit the heere of his heade began to growe agayne after that he was shauen. *Or Gaza.

Then ꝑ lordes of the Philistines gathered them togyther for to offer a solempne offerynge vnto Dagon their god, and to reioyse: for they sayde: our god hath delyuered Samsō our enemy into our handes. And when the people sawe him, they prayled theyr god, for they sayde: oure God hathe delyuered into oure handes oure enemye and destroyer of oure countrey, whiche slue many of vs. And when theyr hertes were mery, it fortuned, that they sayd: sende for Samson, that he maye make vs laugh.

And they fet Samson oute of the pryson house, and he played before thē, and they set him betwene the pyllers. And Samson sayde vnto the ladd that led him by ꝑ hande: set me that I may touche the pyllers that ꝑ house stande vpon, and that I maye leane to them. And the house was ful of men & womē. And there were al the lordes of ꝑ Philistines. And there were vpon the rofe a three thousand men and women that beheld while Samson played.

And Samson called vpō the LORD, and sayde: O LORDE GOD thinke vpon me, and strengthen me, at this time onely, O LORDE GOD, that I may be auenged of the Philistines for my two eyes. And Samson caughte the two myddle pyllers on which ꝑ house stode, and on whiche it was borne vp: the one in his right hande, and the other in his lefte, and sayde: my soule shal dye with the Philistines, and bowed them with all his myght. And the house fell vpon the lordes and vpon all the people that were therein. And so the deade whiche he slue at his death were mo then they whiche he slue in his lyfe. And thē hys brethren and al the house of his father came downe & toke him vp, & broughte him and buried him betwene Zarah & Eſtahol in the buryinge place of Manoah his father. And he iudged Iſrael twentye yeres.

hym

¶ The.xvii. Chapter.

¶ Of Micah, whose mother made hym any dell of syluer.

THere was a man in mounte Ephraim named Micah, and he sayde vnto his mother: the leuen hundred syluerlynges that were take from the, about whiche thou cursedest and spakest it in mine eares: Beholde, the syluer is with me, I toke it awaye. And his mother sayde: blessed be thou my sonne in the LORDE. And when he had restored the leuen hundred syluerlynges to his mother agayne, his mother sayde: I vowed the siluer to the LORDE of myne hand for thee my son, that thou shouldest make a grauen ymage and an ymage of metall. Nowe therfore I wyll giue it thee agayne. And when he restored the money vnto his mother, his mother toke two hundred siluerlynges, and gaue them to a goldesmyth, which made therof a grauen ymage, and an image of metal, and it was in the house of Micah. And the man Micah had a temple of goddes, & made an Ephod and Theraphim: (that is to say a garment for the priest, and idols.) And fylled the hande of one of his sons which became his priest. * In those dayes there was no kynge in Iſrael, but euerye man did that whiche was good in his owne eyes.

And there was a ponge man out of Bethlehem Juda, of the kinred of Juda: which ponge man was a Leuite, & sojourned there. And the man departed oute of the citie of Bethlehem Juda, to goe dwell where he coulde fynde a conuenient place. And he came to mount Ephrai to the house of Micah as he iorned. And Micah said vnto him: Whence commest thou? The Leuite answered him: I am of Bethlehem Juda, and go to dwel where I may finde a place (and where I may espye it to be for my profyte.) And Micah sayde agayne vnto him: dwell with me and be vnto me a father and a priest. And I wyll geue thee ten syluerlynges by yeare, two garmentes, and thy meate and drynke.

And the Leuite was content to dwel with the man, and was vnto him as one of his owne sonnes. And Micah consecrated the hande of the Leuite, & the ponge man became his priest, and was in the house of Micah. Then said Micah: nowe I am sure that the LORD wyll be good vnto me: seinge I haue a Leuite to my priest.

¶ The.xviii. Chapter.

¶ The children of Dan take the goddes and the priest of Micah awaye. They destroy Lais, and after buylde it agayne.

IN those dayes * there was no kynge in Iſrael. And in those dayes the trybe of Dan sought them an inheritaunce to dwel in, * for vnto that tyme there fell none inheritaunce vnto them amonge the trybes of Iſrael.

And the children of Dan sente of their kynred, fiue actiue men in feates of warre out of their coastes, euen out of Zaraah and Eſtahol, to bewe the land, and searche it out, and sayde vnto them: go, and searche out the lande. Whiche when they came to mount Ephraim euen to the house of Micah, they lodged there. And when they were in the house of Micah, they knewe the voyce of the ponge man the Leuite: and when they turned in thither, they sayde vnto him: who brought the hyther? What makest thou in this place? and what hast thou here? And he answered them: thus and thus dealed Micah with me, and hath hyred me, and I am become his priest. And they sayde vnto him agayne: Aske counsayle nowe of GOD, that we may knowe whether the way which we go shall be prosperous or no. And the priest sayde vnto them: go in peace, for the LORDE gupdeth youre waye whiche ye go.

Then the fyue men departed, & came to Lais, and saw the people that were therein, howe they dwelte careleſſe, after the maner of the Sidons, styl, and without castinge of paryls: and that no man made any trouble in the lande, or vsurped any dominion, but were farre from the Sidons, and had no businesse with other men. And they came vnto their brethren to Zaraah and Eſtahol. And their brethren sayde vnto them: what haue ye done? And they answered: Arise, that we maye go vp agaynst them * for we haue sene the lande: surelye a very good one. And do ye sit styl: be not slouthful to departe. But come to conquere quier the land (it shalbe no labour.) ye ye wyll go ye shall come vnto a people ꝑ casteth no parylles, and it is a verye large countrye: whiche GOD hath gyuen into your hãdes. It is also a place whiche doth lacke nothynge that is in the worlde.

And there departed thence of the kynred of the Dannites, euen oute of Zaraah and Estahol, sixe hũdred men appoynted wt instrumentes of warre.
And they went vp and pitched in Kariath Jarim whiche is in Juda. Wherefore they called the place, ꝑ host of Dan vnto this daye: and it is on the backe-syde of Kariath Jarim. And they went thence vnto mounte Ephraim, & came to the house of Micah. Then answered the fyue men that went to spye out the countrey of Lais, and sayde vnto their brethren: wot ye not, that there is in these houses an Ephod, Theraphim, a grauen ymage, and an ymage of me-tall: Nowe therefore consyder what ye haue to do.

And they turned thitherwarde and came to the house of the yonge man ꝑ Leuite, euen vnto the house of Micah, and saluted him peaceably. And the .vi.
hundred men gyrded with weapons of warre whiche were of the childzen of Dan, stode by the entryng of ꝑ gate.
And ꝑ fyue mẽ that went to spie out ꝑ lande, wente in thyther, and toke the karued ymage and the Ephod, Thera-phim, and the image of metal. And the priest stode in the entrynge of the gate with the syxe hundred men that were armed vnto battayle, while the other wente into Micahs house, and fet the kerued ymage, the Ephod, Theraphi: and the ymage of metall. Then sayde the priest vnto them: what do ye? They answered him, holde thy peace, laye thyne hande vpon thy mouth, & come wyth vs to be oure father and priest.
Is it better for thee to be a priest vnto
the house of one manne, then to be a priest vnto a tribe or kynred in Israele?
And the priest was glad, and toke the Ephod and Theraphim, and the grauen ymage, and went with the people.
And they turned and departed, & put the childzen, the cattel, and their other substaunce before them.

And when they were a good waye from the house of Micah, the men that were in the houses, & in Micahs house made an outcrye, and followed after ꝑ childzen of Dan, and called vnto them.
And they turned their faces, and saide vnto Micah: what ayleth thee, ꝑ thou makest an outcrye? And he sayde: ye haue taken awaye my goddes whiche
I made, and also the priest, and go youe wayes with them. And what haue I more: howe then say ye vnto me: what ayleth thee? And the childzen of Dan sayde vnto him: let not thy voyce be hearde amonge vs, lest angry felowes runne vpon thee, and thou lese thy lyfe wt the lyues of al thyne household. And so the childzen of Dan wente theyr wayes.

And when Micah sawe that they were to stronge for hym, he turned,
and wente backe vnto hys house a-gayne.

And they toke the thynges whyche Micah had made, and the priest which he had, and came vnto Lais, euen vnto a people that were at rest and without mistrust, and smote them with ꝑ edge of the sweard, and burnt the citie with fire. And there was no man to helpe, because Lais was farre from Sidon, and they had no meddlynge with anye other man. And the cytie stode in the valley that lyeth by Betherob.

And they buylte them there a cytie, and dwelte therein. * And called it Josu.19.d Dan after the name of Dan theyr father, whiche was borne vnto Israell.
Howbeit, in very dede the name of the cytie was Lais at the begynnynge.

And the childzen Dan set them vp ꝑ grauen ymage. And Jonathan the son of Gerson the sonne of Manasses and his sonnes were the priestes in the trybe of Dan * vntyll they were ca- Iudi.18.g ried awaye out of the lande captyue.
And they set them vp the kerued image which Micah made, all the while that the house of GOD was in Silo.

¶ The.xix. Chapter.

¶ Of the Leuite whose wyfe was vilaynously kylled in Gibea.

IT chaunced in those dayes, whẽ
there was no kynge in Israell, that a certayne Leuite soiour-nynge on the syde of mount Ephraim:
toke to wyfe a concubyne out of Bethlehem Juda, and his concubine played the whore by him, and went away frõ him

him vnto her fathers house to Bethlehem Juda, and there continued four monethes. And her husbande arose & went after her, to speake frendely vnto her, and to bryng her home a gayne, hauing his lad with him: and a couple of asses.

And she broughte him vnto her fathers house, and when the father of the damsell sawe him, he reioyced of hys commynge. And his father in lawe the damsels father kepte him. And the Leuite abode with him three dayes, and so they dyd eate and drynke, and lodged there.

B The fourth daye when they arose erly in the mornyng, the man stode vp, to depart. And the damsels father said vnto his sonne in lawe: comfort thine herte with a morsel* of breade, and the go your waye. And they sat down, and dyd eate and drynke bothe of them together. And the damsels father sayde vnto the man: Be content I pray the, and tarie al nyght and let thine hert be mery. And when the man stode vp redy to departe, hys father in lawe compelled him to turne agayne, & to tarye all nyght there. And he arose vp early the fyfth daye to departe, and the damsels father sayde: comfort thine herte: and they taryed vntyll after myddaye. And they did eate both of them together.

C And when the man arose to departe with his concubine and his lad, his father in lawe the damsels father sayde vnto him: beholde, the daye goeth faste awaye and draweth toward euen, tarye all nyghte: at the lest way tary thys daye here, that thyne herte maye be mery. And to morowe get you yearlye vpon your waye, that thou mayest get thee to thy tent. Neuertheles, ỹ man woulde not tary, but arose and departed, and came as far as Jebus (which is Jerusalem) and his two asses laden, and his concubine and his lad wt him. And when they were fast by Jebus the daye was sore spente, and the yonge man sayd vnto his master: come I praye thee, and let vs turne in, into this cytye of the Jebusites, and lodge all nyght there. His master answered him: we wil not tourne into a straunge citie that are not of the children of Israell: we wyll goe forth to Gibea. And he sayde vnto his ladde: go forewarde,

& we shall come to one of these places, to lodge al nyght either in Gibea or in Rama. And they went forward vpon theyr waye, and the sunne wente down vpon them, when they were fast by Gibea whiche belongeth to them of Benjamin. And they turned thytherward to go in and lodge all nyght in Gibea. And when he came he sat him downe in a strete of the cytie, for there was no man ỹ toke thē to lodging. And behold, there came an old man frō his worke, out of the felde at euen, which was also of mounte Ephraim, and dwelt as a straunger in Gibea. But the men of the place were the children of Jemini. And when he had lyfte vp his eyes, he sawe a wayfaryng man in the stretes of the cytie. And the olde man sayde: whither C goest thou? And whence comest ỹ? He answered him: we came from Bethlehem Juda, towarde the syde of mount Ephraim: from thence am I, & I went to Bethlehem Juda, and goe nowe to the house of the LORDE. And there is no man that receyueth me to house. We haue strawe and prouandre for our asses, and bread and wyne for me and thy handemayde, and for the ladde that is with thy seruaunt: and we lack nothyng.

The olde man sayde: peace be wyth f thee, all that thou lackest shalte thou fynde with me: onelye abyde not in the strete all nyght. And so he brought him into his house, and gaue fodder vnto his asses. And they washed their fete, and did eate and drynke. And as they were makyng their hertes mery, behold the men of the citie which were wicked, beset the house rounde about, and thrust at the dore, and spake to the man of the house, the olde man, saying: bryng forthe the man that came into thyne house that we maye knowe hym.

And* the man of the house, the olde Gen. man went oute, and sayde vnto them: Oh nay my brethren do not so wickedly, seing ỹ this man is come into myne house: doe not so vnmete a thinge. Behold, here is my doughter, a maiden, & this mans concubine, thē wyl I bring out now vnto you, and humble them, & do wt thē what semeth you good: but vnto this man do not so abhominable a thing. But the mē would not herken

to him. And the man toke his cõcubine, and brought her out vnto them, which knew her, & abused her al the night, euẽ vnto the morning. And when the daye began to spring, they let her go.

And then came ꝑ woman in ꝑ dawning of the daye, and fell downe at the doore of the mans house where her Lord was tyl it was daye. And her Lorde arose vp in the morninge, & opened ꝑ dores of the house, & wente out to go hys way. And beholde, the woman, euẽ his concubyne laye along before ꝑ doore of the house, and her handes stretched out vpon the threshold. And he (thinckynge her to haue bene a slepe) sayde vnto her: vp & let vs be goyng. But she answered not. Then ꝑ man (perceyuyng that she was dead) toke her vp vpõ an asse, & stode vp, & gat him vnto his owne home. And whẽ he was come to his house, he toke a knyfe & caught his concubyne & deuyded her with the bones into twelue peces, and sent her into al quarters of Israel. And al that saw it, said: there was no suche dede done or seene syns the chyldren of Israel came oute of Egipte vnto this daye, consydre the matter, take auysement and saye your myndes.

¶ The.xx. Chapter.

The battayle of the Israelites against the tribe of Ben Jamin, for ꝑ Leuites wife which was killed.

Then al ꝑ chyldren of Israel went out: and the congregacion was gathered together as it had bene but one man, euen from Dan to Beersheba, and vnto the lande of Gilead, vnto the LORD in Mispa, and there stode folke out of all quarters and of all the trybes of Israel, in the congregacio of the people of GOD foure hundred thousande footemen that drewe sweardes. And when the chyldren of Ben Jamin hearde that the chyldrẽ of Israel were gone vp to Mispa, and had sayde: O ye chyldren of Israel, tell vs howe this wickednesse happened. And the Leuite, the womans husbãde that was slayne, answered and sayde: I came into Gibea that is in Ben Jamin with my concubyne to lodge all nyght, and the men of Gibea arose against me, and beset ꝑ house rounde about vpon me by night, and thought to haue slayne me, & my concubyne haue they so forced, ꝑ she is dead. And I toke my concubyne, and cut her in peces, and sente her throwout al the landes of the enheritance of Israel. For they haue cõmitted abhominacion and folye in Israel. Beholde, ye are al chyldrẽ of Israel. Ponder this matter, & gyue your aduyse in the case.

And all the people arose as it had ben one man, sayinge: there shal not a man of vs go to his tent, neyther turne into his house. But this shalbe it ꝑ we wyll do to Gibea. We wil go vp by lot against it. And we wyl take ten men of the hundred throwout al the trybes of Israel, and an hundred of the .M. and a thousande out of .x. M. to set vytayle for the people to make that they may go against Gibea Ben Jamin, because of al the abhominacion, that they haue wrought in Israel. And so al the men of Israell gathered together against ꝑ citie, knyt together as it had bene but one man. And the tribes of Israel sent men throw al the tribe of Ben Jamin, saying: Iosue.xx.b *what wickednesse is this ꝑ is happened among you? Now therfore delyuer vs ꝑ men, those chyldrẽ of Belial which are in Gibea, that we may slaye them, & put away euyll from Israel.

Neuerthelater, the chyldren of Ben Jamin wolde not herken vnto ꝑ voyce of their brethren the chyldren of Israel: but gathered thẽ selues together out of the cities vnto Gibea, to come out and fight against the chyldren of Israel. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin were numbred at that tyme out of the cities .xxvi. thousande men ꝑ drew sweardes, beside the inhabitours of Gibea, which wer numbred seuẽ hundred chosẽ men. And among al these folke wer seuẽ hũdred lefte handed men, which euery one coulde slyng stones at an heer breadth, and not mysse. And the chyldrẽ of Israel beside Ben Jamin, wer numbred foure hundred thousande men that drewe sweardes, and were al men of warre.

And the chyldren of Israel arose, and went vp to Bethel, and asked counsaile of GOD who should begin the battaile against the chyldrẽ of Ben Jamin. And ꝑ LORD said: Juda shal begyn. And the chyldren of Israel stode vp early & besieged Gibea. And the men of Israel went out to battel against Ben Jamin, and the men of Israel put them selues in araye to fighte agaynste them, beside Gibea. And the chyldren of Ben-Jamin came out of Gibea, & destroyed of the Israelites that daye .xxii. thousande men, & brought them to ꝓ earthe.

And the folke of the childzen of Israel plucked vp their hertes, and went to a gaine, and made battel in ꝓ same place where they dyd the firste daye. And the childzen of Israel went vp and wepte before the LORD vnto euen, & asked of the LORD, saying: shal we go againe to battayle against the childzē of Ben Jamin our brethren: And the LORD said: go vp against them. And the childzē of Israel came out against the childzē of Ben Jamin the seconde daye. And the childzen of Ben Jamin went against them oute of Gibea, the seconde daye, and destroyed to the earth of the childzē of Israel once againe .xviii. thousande men that drewe swerdes euery mā of them. Then the childzen of Israel & al ꝓ people went vp and came vnto Bethel, and wepte, and sat ther before ꝓ LORD, and fasted the same daye vnto euen, & offered burnte offringes & peace offerynges before the LORD. And ꝓ childzē of Israel asked ꝓ LORD: for there was the arke of the appointment of GOD in those dayes. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron waiting vpon it at that tyme, sayde: shall I get me vp to go out any more to battell against the childzen of Ben Jamin my brethren, or shal I cease? The LORDE said: go, for to morowe I wyl deliuer them into your handes. And Israel set lyers awayt rounde about Gibea. And the childzen of Israel went vp against the childzen of Ben Jamin the thyrde tyme, and put them selues in araye against Gibea, as twyse before. And the childzen of Ben Jamin came out against the people, and were drawen away from the cytie. And they began to smyte of the people dead (as twyse before, by two hye wayes of whiche one goeth vp to Bethel, & the other to Gibea thorow the fielde) vpon a thyrty mē of Israel. And the childzen of Ben Jamin sayde. They are fallen before vs, as at the first. But the childzē of Israel sayd: let vs flye and plucke them away from the cytie, vnto the hye wayes.

And al the men of Israel rose vp out of their place, and put themselues in aray at Baal Thamar. And lykewyse ꝓ lyers in wayte of Israel came forth out of their places, euen out of ꝓ medowes that wer about Gibea, & came against Gibea: ten thousande chosen men out of al Israel, & there was a sore battell. But ꝓ other wyst not that so great euil was so nye them. And ꝓ LORD plaged Ben Jamin before Israel, & the childzē of Israel destroyed of ꝓ Beniamites ꝓ the same daye .xxv. thousande, & an hundred men, ꝓ drue swerdes euery one of them. And whan ꝓ childzē of Bē Jamin saw that they wer put to the worse, the men of Israel gaue roume to the Ben Jamites, because they trusted vnto the lyers in waite which they had layd beside Gibea. And the lyers in wayte hasted, and ranne vpon Gibea, and went and smote al the citye with ꝓ edge of ꝓ swearde. And an appoyntment had the men of Israel from ꝓ lyers in wayte ꝓ they shoulde make a great smoke rise vp out of the cytie. And when the men of Israel fled in the battel: Ben Jamin began to smyte dead of the childzen of Israel, about a thirtye persones, and said: ꝓ other are put to the worse before vs, as in the first battel. But whā ther began to aryse out of ꝓ cytie a pyller of smoke, the Beniamites loked backe: & beholde, the wasting of the hole cytye began to ascende vp to heauen.

When the men of Israel also turned againe, the men of Ben Jamin were abashed, for they saw ꝓ euil approched them. And therfore they turned theyr backes before the men of Israel vnto ꝓ way ꝓ leadeth to the wyldernes, but ꝓ mē of warre ouer toke thē. And beside that, they which cam out of the citie, destroyed them in the myddle of thē. And thus they cōpassed the Beniamites about, & chased thē to Menuha, and ouer rāne thē to Gibea on ꝓ east syde: & there wer slaine of Ben Jamin .xviii. thousād, which wer al men of warre. And they turned & fled to the wildernes warde, & vnto ꝓ rocke of Rimmō. And the other slue by ꝓ way of ꝓ rest of thē, fyue thousande men, & sticked vnto thē, vntil they came to Gideom, and slue two thousād men of thē. So ꝓ al ꝓ wer slayne ꝓ same daye of Ben Jamin were .xxv. thousāde men that drue swerdes, whiche were al men of war: onely .vi. hundred men turned & fled to ꝓ wildernes, vnto the Rocke of Rimmō, & abode ther .iiii. monethes. And ꝓ mē of Israel turned backe againe

agaīne vnto ꝑ childzen of Ben Jamin, and ſmote them w the edge of ꝑ ſweard in the cities, both man and beaſt & all ꝑ came to hande, and ſet on fyze al the cities that they coulde come by.

¶ The. xxi. Chapter.

The enhabitoures of Gilead are vtterly deſtroyed.

AND euery man of Iſrael ſware in Mizpa, ſaying: there ſhall none of vs geue his doughter to any of Bē Jamin to wyfe. And the people came to Bethel and abode there tyll euē before GOD, and lyfte vp their voyces, & wept ſore, & ſaid: O LORDE GOD of Iſraell, why is this chaunced in Iſrael, ꝑ there ſhould be this daye one tribe lackynge in Iſrael? And on the morowe ꝑ people roſe vp betyme, and made there an aultare, and offered burnt offeringes and peaceofferinges.

And the childzen of Iſrael aſked, who are they among al the trybes of Iſrael, that came not vp with the congregatiō vnto the LORDE? for they had made a greate othe cōcernyng him ꝑ came not vp to ꝑ LORD to Mizpa, ſaying: he ſhal ſurely dye. And ꝑ childzē of Iſrael had pitie on Ben Jamin their bzethzen, and ſaid: there is one trybe cut of frō Iſrael this day: what ſhal we do vnto the remnaūt of them, ꝑ they may haue wyues: we haue ſwozne by ꝑ LORD: ꝑ we wyll not geue them of our doughters to wynes. And they ſaid: Is there any of the trybes of Iſraell, that came not vp to Mizpa to the LORD? And behold, ther came none of the enhabitours of Jabes Gilead vnto the hooſt and congregatiō. For the people wer bewed, and behold, there were none of ꝑ enhabiters of Jabes Gilead there. And they ſent thither a multitude, euē. xii. thouſande men of ꝑ ſtrongeſt of them, and cōmaunded thē, ſaying: go and ſmyte the enhabiters of Jabes Gilead w the edge of ꝑ ſwearde, both wemen and childzē. * And this is it that ye ſhall do, vtterly deſtroy al the males & al the wemē that haue lyen by men. And they founde among the enhabyters of Jabes Gilead foure hundzed damoſelles, virgins, that had knowen no man, by lyenge with any male. And they bzoughte them vnto the hooſte to Silo, whiche is in the lande Canaan.

And the hole congregacion ſente and ſpake with the childzen of Ben Jamin ꝑ were in the Rocke of Rymmon, & called peaceably vnto them: and Ben Jamin came againe at that tyme, & they gaue them wiues whiche they had ſaued a-lyue of the wemen of Jabes Gilead. But they ſuffiſed them not. And ꝑ people had compaſſion on Ben Jamin, be-cauſe that GOD had made a gappe in ꝑ trybes of Iſraell. And then the elders of the congregacion, ſaid: what ſhal we do to ꝑ remnaunte of thē, to get thē wi-ues, ſeyng al the wyues of Ben Jamin are deſtroyed? And they ſayd: there muſt be an enherītaunce for them that be eſ-caped of Ben Jamin, that a tribe be not deſtroyed out of Iſraell: howbeit, we may not geue thē wyues of our dough-ters. For the childzen of Iſraell had ſwozne, ſaying: curſed be he, that geueth a wyfe to Ben Jamin.

Then they ſayde: beholde, there is a feaſt of ꝑ LORD yearly in Silo, which is on the nozthſide of Bethel, and on the eaſt ſyde of the way that goeth frō Be-thel to Sichem, and ſouth from Liba-non. Therfoze they commaūded ꝑ chil-dzen of Ben Jamin, ſaying: go and lye in wayte in the vineyardes. And whan ye ſe that the doughters of Silo come out to daunce in a rowe, then come ye out of the vyneyardes, and catche you euery man a wyfe of the doughters of Ben Jamin. And whā their fathers or bzethzen come vnto vs to complayne, we wyll ſay vnto them haue pitye on vs for their ſakes, becauſe we reſerued not to eche man his wyfe in tyme of warre. Neyther haue ye geuen vnto them, that ye ſhould ſynne at this tyme.

And the childzen of Ben Jamin dyd euen ſo: and toke them wyues accozdig to the numbze of them that daunced, whom they caught. And they went, and returned vnto their enherītaunce, & re-payzed the cities and dwelt in them.

And the childzen of Iſrael departed thence at that tyme, & went euery man to his trybe, and to his kinred, and wēt out from thence euery man to his enhe-ritaunce. * In thoſe dayes there was no kynge in Iſrael: but euery man dyd that whyche ſemed ryghte in hys owne eyes. Iud. 17. b. Iud. 18. a.

The booke of Ruth.

¶ The first Chapter.

Elimelec goeth with his wyfe and children into the lande of Moab

I T fortuned that (in the dayes of a certaine Iudge) whē the iudges iudged, ther fell dearth in the lād, and a certen man of Bethlehē Juda wēt for to soiourne in the countrey of Moab: he and his wife, and his two sonnes. The name of the man was Elimelec, and the name of his wyfe, Naomi, and ꝑ names of his two sonnes were, Mahlon & Chilion, & they were Ephzaites, out of Bethlehē Juda. And when they came into ꝑ land of Moab, they continued there. And Elimelec Naomies husbande dyed, and she remayned wt her two sonnes which toke them wyues of the nations of the Moabites: the ones name was Orpha, and the others Ruth: And they dwelled there about a ten yere. And Mahlon & Chilion dyed also euen both of thē, and the woman was lefte desolate of her two sonnes, and of her husbande. Then stode she vp wt her doughters in law, & returned from the countrey of Moab: for she had heard say in the countrey of Moab, howe ꝑ the LORD had vysyted his people, & geuen them breade. Wherfore she departed out of the place wher she was, and her two doughters wt her. And they went on their way to returne vnto ꝑ lande of Juda. And Naomi said vnto her two doughters in lawe: go & returne eche of you vnto your mothers house: and the LORD deale as kindly wt you, as ye haue dealte wt the dead: and with me. And the LORD geue you, that you may fynde rest, eyther of you in the house of her husbande. And whan she kyssed them, they lyft vp their voyce, & wepte, and said vnto her: we wyll go wt the vnto thy folke. And Naomi sayde: turne againe my doughters: for what cause wyl you go wt me? Are there any mo children in my wombe, to be youre husbandes? Turne againe my doughters, & go: for I am to olde to haue an husbande. And yf I said, I haue hope, yf I toke a mā also this night: yea and thoughe I had already bozne sonnes, wolde ye tary after thē, tyl they wer of age? wolde ye for thē so lōg refraine from takynge of husbandes? Not so my doughters: for it greueth me muche for your sakes that the hande of the LORD is gone out against me.

And they lyfte vp their voyces, & wept againe, & Orpha kyssed her mother in lawe, but Ruth abode styll by her. And Naomi said: se, thy syster in law is gone backe again vnto her people & vnto her goddes: returne ꝑ after her. And Ruth answered: entreate me not to leaue the, & to returne frō after the: for whyther thou goest, I wil go also, & where thou dwellest, there I wil dwel: thy people shalbe my people, & thy GOD my GOD. Where thou dyest there wil I dye, and ther wil I be buried. The LORD do so & so to me, yf ought but death onely departe the and me a sondre.

When she saw that she was stedfastly mynded to go wt her, she lefte speaking vnto her. And so they wēt both, vntyll they came to Bethlehē. And when they were come to Bethlehem, it was noised of thē thorow al the citie, & the wemen sayde: is not this Naomi? And she answered thē: cal me not Naomi (that is to say, beautyful) but cal me Mara, (that is to say, bitter) for ꝑ almighty hath made me very bytter. I went out full & ꝑ LORD hath brought me home againe empty: Why thē cal ye me Naomi, seyng ꝑ lord hath humbled me, & ꝑ almightye hathe brought me vnto aduersytie? And so Naomi with Ruth the Moabitesse her doughter in lawe retourned oute of the countrey of Moab & came to Bethlehē, in the beginnyng of Barley haruest.

¶ The .ii. Chapter.

Ruth gathereth corne in the feldes of Booz.

A ND Naomies husbāde had a kinsman of strength & might (whiche was of ꝑ kinred of Elimelec) named Booz. And Ruth the Moabitesse said vnto Naomi: let me go to ꝑ felde, and gather eares of corne (such as the reapers leaue) after any mā in whose sight I fynde grace. And she saide vnto her: go my doughter. And she went and came to the felde, and gathered after ꝑ reapers, and her chaunce was, that ꝑ same felde perteyned vnto Booz, which was of the kinred of Elimelec. And behold,

Booz

Booz came from Bethlehem, and sayd vnto the reapers: the LORD be wt you. And they answered him: ꝑ LORD blesse the. Then said Booz vnto his yong mā that stode by ꝑ reapers. whose damosell is this? And the yong mā that stode by ꝑ reapers answered, and said: it is ꝑ Moabytische damosel, ꝑ came wt Naomi out of the countrey of Moab, & she said vnto vs: Oh let me lease & gather after the reapers ꝑ eares that remaine: and so she came, & hathe contynued euē from the morynyng vnto now, saue that she taried a lytle in the house.

Then sayde Booz vnto Ruth: hearest thou my doughter? go to no nother field to gather, neither go from hence: but abyde here by my maydens. Let thyne eyes be on the felde that they reape, and go thou after the maidens. Haue I not charged the yonge men, that they shal do the no hurte? Moreouer, when thou art athyrst, go vnto ꝑ vessels and drinke of that whiche the laddes haue drawen. Then she fell on her face and *bowed her selfe to the grounde, & said vnto him: how is it that I haue founde grace in thyne eyes, and that thou shuldest know me, seyng I am an aliaunt?

C And Booz answered & saide vnto her: al is tolde & shewed me, that thou haste done vnto thy mother in law, sence the death of thine husband, how thou haste lefte thy father and thy mother, and the lāde where thou wast borne, & art come vnto a nacion which thou knewest not in tyme passed. The LORDE quyte thy worcke, and a ful rewarde be geuen the of ꝑ LORD God of Israel: vnder whose wynges thou art come to abyde. Then she said: let me finde fauour in thy sight my LORDE, thou ꝑ haste comforted me, and spoken hartely vnto thy mayde, which yet am not lyke vnto one of thy maydens. Booz sayd vnto her agayne: in tyme of refeccion come thou hyther, and eate of the breade, and dyp thy sop in the vyneger. And she satte downe by the reapers, & he reached her* parched corne: of the whiche she dyd eate, & was sufficed, and lefte parte. And when she was rysen vp to gather, Booz cōmāded his yonge men, sayinge: let her gather euen amonge the heapes, and forbyd her not. And leaue her some of ꝑ thynes for the nonce and let it lye, that she maye gather it vp, (without shame) & rebuke her not. And so she gathered in the felde, vntil euen, & tresshed ꝑ she had gathered, and it was in measure vpō an Epha (that is three bushels) of barley. D And she toke it vp, and went into the cytye: and whan her mother in lawe had sene what she had gathered, she plucked out also, and gaue to her ꝑ she had reserued, when she had eaten ynoughe.

And her mother in law sayde vnto her: where hast thou gathered to daye? and where wroughtest thou? blessed be he, ꝑ knew the. And she shewed her mother in law howe she had wrought wt him, & said: the manes name with whome I wrought to day is Booz. And Naomi said vnto her doughter in lawe: blessed be he of ꝑ LORD, for he ceaseth not to do Tobi. 2. a *good to the lyuing and to the deade. And Naomi said againe vnto her: the man is nye vnto vs, and of oure nerte kynne. And Ruth the Moabite said: he sayde vnto me also. Thou shalt be with my yong men, vntyl they haue ended al my haruest: And Naomi answered vnto Ruth her doughter in law: it is best my doughter that thou go out with his maydens, that they fal not vpon the in any other felde. And so she kepte her by ꝑ maydens of Booz, to gather, vnto the ende of barley haruest, & of wheate haruest also: & dwelt wt her mother in law.

The. iii. Chapter.

Ruth sleapeth at Booz fete, and is knowen his kynswoman.

THen Naomi her mother in lawe I sayde vnto her: my doughter shal I not seke reste for the, ꝑ thou mayest prosper? And is not Booz oure kynsman, with whose maydens thou wast? Behold, he wynowyeth barley to night in the threshyng flooze: washe thy selfe therfore, and anoynte the, and put thy rayment vpon the, and get thee downe to the barne. But let not a man know of thee, vntyll he haue leafte eatyng and drinkyng. And when he goeth to sleape, marke ꝑ place wheare he layeth him downe, & then go & lyfte vp ꝑ clothes, ꝑ are on his fete, and lay thee downe there, and so shal he tel the what thou shalt do. And she answered her: al ꝑ thou biddest me, I wil do. And so she wēt downe vnto ꝑ barne, & did accordig to al that her mother in lawe bade her. B And when Booz had eaten & dronckē, & made him mery, & was gone in, to lye downe beside ꝑ heape of corne, she came softely, and lyfte vp the clothes of hys fete, & laid her downe. And at midnight the man was afrayde and groped. And beholde: a womá lay at his fete. And he said: what art thou? she answered: I am Ruth thyne handmayde, spreade thy wyng ouer thine handmayde, for thou art the nerre of ꝑ kynne. He said: blessed be thou in the LORD my doughter, for thou hast shewed more goodnes in the later ende, thē at the beginnynge, in as much as thou folowedest not yong mē, whether they were pore or riche. And now my doughter feare not, I wil do to the al ꝑ thou requirest, for al the citie of my people doth know, ꝑ thou art a woman of vertue. And it is true ꝑ I am of thy nerr kynne, howbeit ther is one nerer than I. Tary this night. And when morning is come, yf he wil mary the, it is good, so let him do. But and yf he wil not haue the, as sure as ꝑ LORD lyueth I wil haue the: lye styll vntyll the morning. And so she laye at his fete vntyll the morning. And she arose vp before one couldc know another. And he said: let no man know, that there came anye woman into the barne. And he saide agayne: bryng the mantel that thou hast vpon the, and holde it vp. And whan she helde it vp, he mette in syxe measures of barley, and layde it on her. And she gat her into the citie. & whan she came in to her mother in law, she said: how is it with the my doughter? And she tolde her all that the man had done to her. And sayd also: these syxe measures of Barleye gaue he me, & said: thou shalte not come empty vnto thy mother in lawe. Than said she: my doughter, syt styl, vntil thou know how ꝑ matter wil chaūce. For ꝑ man wil not be in rest, vntil he haue finished the thing this same daye.

¶ The.iii. Chapter.

Boos taketh Ruth to wife, of whō he begetteth Obed

THen went Booz vnto the gate, & sat him downe there: and behold ꝑ kynsman of which Booz spake, came by. Unto whom he said: come and syt downe here, and called him by hys name. And he turned in, & sat downe. And he toke ten mē of ꝑ elders of ꝑ citie, & said: sit ye downe here. And they sat downe. And he said vnto the kinsman: Naomi ꝑ is come again out of ꝑ coūtrey of Moab* wil sel a parcel of lande, which was ore brother Elimeleks. And I thought to do the to were, and bid the bye it before ꝑ enhabitours & elders of my people. yf ꝑ be disposed to redeme it, do: but & yf thou wilt not purchase it, then tel me, ꝑ I may know. For ther is none to chalenge it, saue thou, & I next the. And the other answered, I wyll purchase it.

Then said Booz, what day thou byest ꝑ felde of ꝑ hande of Naomi, thou must take also Ruth the Moabite ꝑ * wyfe of ꝑ dead, to fyre vp the name of ꝑ dead vpō his enheritaūce. The kynsman answered: I cannot purchase it, for marring of myne owne enheritaunce: take thou my right to the, for I cannot purchase it. Nowe this was the maner of olde tyme in Israel concerning purches and chaūging, for to stablishe al thing: ꝑ a man must plucke of hys shooe & geue it hys neighbour, and this was a sure witnesse in Israel.

Therfore ꝑ kynsmā said to Booz: Bye it thou: & so drue of his shooe. And Booz said vnto the elders & vnto al ꝑ people: ye are wytnesses this day, that I haue bought al that was Elimeleks, and all that was Chilions & Mahlons, of the hande of Naomy. And moreouer, Ruth ꝑ Moabite ꝑ wyfe of Mahlon, haue I purchased to be my wife, to fyre vp the name of the dead vpō hys enheritaūce, and that his name be not put out frō among his brethrē, & from ꝑ gate of his place: ye are witnesses this daye.

And al the people that were in ꝑ gate, and ꝑ elders said: we are witnesses: the LORD make ꝑ woman that is come into thine house, lyke * Rahel and Lea, which twaine dyd builde ꝑ house of Israel: do thou also valeauntly in Ephrata, and be famouse in Bethlehem. Thy house be lyke ꝑ house of Pharez * whō Thamar bare vnto Juda, euen of ꝑ sede whiche the LORDE shall geue the of this yonge woman.

And so Booz toke Ruth, & she was his wyfe. And whan he went in vnto her, ꝑ LORD gaue ꝑ she conceyued, and bare a sonne. And the wemen said vnto Naomi: blessed be the LORD, the whiche hath not left the without a kynsman, to haue a name in Israell, and that shall bryng thy lyfe againe, & cherysshe thine olde age. For thy doughter in lawe whiche loueth the, hath borne vnto him:

and

and she is better to the then seuen sonnes. And Naomi toke the childe, & layed it in her lappe, and became nourse vnto it. And her neighbours gaue it a name, saying: there is a childe borne to Naomi, and called it Obed, the same is the father of Isai, the father of Dauid. These are þ generacions of* Pharez: Pharez begat Hesrō: Hesron begat Ram, Rā begat Aminadab, Aminadab begat Nahson, Nahsō begat Salmon, Salmon begat Booz, Booz begat Obed, Obed begat Isai, Isai begat Dauid.

¶ The ende of the booke of Ruth.

The first boke of Samuel called the firste booke of the kynges.

¶ The first Chapter.

¶ Elkana hath ii. wiues. Anna and Phenenna.

THere was a man of one of the two Ramaths (of the kinred of Zophim, of mounte Ephraim) named* Elkana þ sonne of Jeroham, the sonne of Elihu, the sonne of Thohu, the sonne of Zuph, an Ephrathite: which had two wyues, the one called Hanna, and þ other Phenenna. And Phenenna had childrē, but Hanna had none.* And the sayde man went vp out of his cytie euery feastfull day, to praye, and to offre vnto þ LORD of hostes in Silo, where were the two sonnes of Eli (Hophny and Phinehes) the Lordes preastes. And it fell on a solempne daye, that Elkana offered, & gaue to Phenenna his wyfe & to al her sonnes & doughters portiōs. But vnto Hanna he gaue a portion with a heuy chere, for he loued Hanna, & the LORD had made her barren. And her enemye (Phenenna) vexed her sore cōtinually, to moue her, because þ LORD had made her barrē. And so did she yeare by yeare as ofte as she wēt vp to þ house of the LORD. And so chafed her, which wept, & did not eate. Thā said Elkana her husbāde to her: Hanna, why wepest thou? & why eatest þ not? & why is thine herte troubled? am not I better to the, thē ten sonnes? So Hanna rose vp after þ they had eate & dronke in Silo. And Eli þ preaste satte vpon a stole by one of the syde postes of þ temple of þ LORD. And she was troubled in her mindē, & praied vnto þ LORDE, & wept sore, & bowed a bowe, & said: O LORD of hostes, yf thou wylt loke on the trouble of thine handmayde & remēbre me, & not forget thine handmayd but gyue vnto thine handmaide a mā child: I wyl geue him vnto þ LORD al þdayes of his lyfe, & there shal no raser come vpon his head. And as she cōtinued praying before þ Lord, it fortuned þ Eli marked her mouthe. For Hanna spake in her hert, & her lyppes dyd but moue onely, but her voyce was not heard: & therfore Eli thought she had bene dronkē, & Eli said vnto her: How long wylt thou be dronken: put away from thee þ wyne þ thou hast. Hāna answered and said: not so my Lord, I am a woman of a sorowful herte: I haue dronke neyther wyne nor strong drynke, but haue powred out my soule before the LORD. Count not thine hādmayde to be lyke a doughter of Belial, for out of the aboundaunce of my heuines and grefe haue I spoken hitherto.

Judi. 13. a Num. 6. b.

Psal. 42. a.

Eli answered her againe: and said, go in peace: the GOD of Israel graunt the thy petitiō, that thou hast asked of him. She said: let thine hādmaid finde grace in thy sight. And so þ woman went her waye, and did eat, and loked no more so sad. And they rose vp earlye, and worshipped before the LORD, & then returned, & came to their house to Ramath. And when Elkana knewe Hanna hys wyfe, the LORD remembred her, for in processe of tyme it came to passe, þ she conceyued, and bare a sonne, and called his name Samuel (saying:) bycause I haue asked him of þ LORD. And Elkana & al his house went vp to offer vnto the LORD, þ offering due for þ feaste, & also his bowe: Neuertheless, Hanna wēt not vp, but said vnto her husbande: I wil tary vntil þ lad be weined, & then I wil bring him þ he maye appeare before the LORD, and ther abyde for euer. Elkana her husbande answered her: do what semeth the best: tary at home, vntil thou hast weyned him, and I beseche þ LORD, to make good his saying. And so the woman abode, and gaue her son sucke vntyll she weyned him. And when she had weyned hym, she toke hym with her, with three bullockes and an Epha of floure, and a bottle of wyne, and brought him vnto the house of the LORD in Silo, and ꝑ childe was yet but tendre of age. And they slue a bullocke, and brought in the lad to Eli, and she said: Oh my Lorde: as truly as thy soule lyueth my Lorde, I am ꝑ woman ꝑ stode before the here prayinge vnto ꝑ LORD. For this ladde I prayed, and the LORD hath geuen me my desire whiche I asked of him: and therfore I haue geuen him vnto the LORD, as lóg as he is mete for the LORD. And they worshipped the LORDE there.

¶ The. ii. Chapter.

¶ The songe of Hanna. The offence of the sonnes of Eli.

A AND Hanna prayed & sayde: myne hert reioyseth in the LORD, & mine horne is exalted in the LORD. My mouth is wide open ouer myne enemies, for I reioyce in thy saluacio. There is none so holy as ꝑ LORD, for without the, is nothing. Neyther is ther any of strength as is our GOD. Talke not to muche proudely, let olde thinges depart out of your mouthes, for ꝑ LORDE is a GOD of knowledge, and his purposes come to passe. The bowe with ꝑ myghtye men are broken: and they that were weake, haue gyrded them selues with strength. They that wer ful, haue hired out them selues for breade, & they that wer hungry, cease so to be, tyl the bare B hath borne seuen: and she ꝑ had manye Deut. 32. f. childzen, is wared feble. * The LORD kylleth, and maketh alyue: bryngeth downe to ꝑ graue & fetcheth vp againe. The LORDE maketh poore, and maketh riche: bringeth lowe, & heueth vp on hie. Psal. 113. b * He reyseth vp ꝑ poore out of the duste, & lifteth vp the beggar from ꝑ donghil: to set them among princes, & to enherit them with the seate of glorye. For the pillers of the earth are the Lordes, and he hath set the rounde worlde vpō thē. He wil kepe the fete of his saintes, and the wycked shal kepe sylence in darck- 1. Esdr. 4. b. nesse, and * in his owne myghte shal no man be strong. The Lordes aduersaries shal be destroyed of him: and oute of heauen shal he thunder vpon euery one C of them: The LORDE shall iudge ꝑ endes of the worlde, and shal geue myghte vnto his kyng, & exalte the horne of his anoynted. And Elkana wēt to Ramath to his house, and the ladde did minister vnto the LORD before Eli the preast.

But the sonnes of Eli were childzen of Belial, and knew not ꝑ Lord. And the preastes made a law for the people, that whensoeuer any man offered any offring, ꝑ preastes lad came, while ꝑ flesche was a sething and a flesh hoke with thre tethe in his hande, and thrust it into ꝑ panne, kettle, caldzen or potte. And al ꝑ the flesche hoke brought vp, ꝑ the preast toke awaye. And so they dyd vnto al the Israelites, that came thyther to Silo. yea, and therto, before they burnte the fatte, the preastes lad came and sayd to the man that offered: geue flesche that I maye rosste it for the preast, for he wil not haue sodden flesche of the, but rawe. And yf any man sayde vnto him: let thē burne the fat accordyng to the day, and then take as muche as thyne herte desyreth: The ladde woulde answer him, yea, thou shalt geue it me nowe: and yf thou wylt not, I wyl take it wt violēce. And the synne of the yong men was very great before the LORD. For men abhorred the offring of the LORD.

But the childe Samuel ministred before the LORD, girded about wt a lynē Ephod. Moreouer, his mother made him a lytle cote, and brought it to hym from yere to yere, when she came vp wt her husbande, to offre the offring in the solempne feastes: and Eli blessed Elkana and his wyfe, and sayde: the LORDE geue the seed of this woman, for ꝑ petition that she asked of ꝑ Lord. And they went vnto their owne home. And the LORD vysited Hanna, so that she conceyued, and bare thre sonnes, and two doughters. And the childe Samuel grew before the LORD.

Eli was very olde, and hearde all that his sonnes did vnto al Israel, and howe they lay with the women that wayted at ꝑ doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and he said vnto them: why do ye suche thinges: for of al these people, I heare euyl reportes of you. Oh, nape my sonnes: for it is no good report ꝑ I heare howe that ye make the Lordes people to trespasse. If one man synne against an other, Iuges men maye be iudges: but yf a man synne against the LORD, who wyll be his dayseman? Notwithstandynge, they hearkened not vnto the voyce of their father, because the

LORDE wolde slaye them. The childe Samuel pzofyted* and grewe, & was in fauour both with the LORDE, and also with men.

3 And there came a man of GOD vnto Eli, and sayde vnto him: thus sayeth the LORDE: dyd not I apere vnto the house of thy father when they were in Egipte, subiecte vnto Pharaos house? And I chose thy father oute of all the trybes of Israell to be my pzieste, to offre vpon myne auitar, and to burne incence, and to weare an Ephod before me. And I gaue vnto the house of thy father all the burntofferynges of the childzen of Israel. Wherfore tread you downe my sacrifice and myne offryng, whiche I commaunded to be made in the tabernacle, and honourest thy childzen aboue me, to make your selues fat of the fyrst frutes of all the offerynges of Israell my people? Wherfore, the LORDE GOD of Israell sayeth: I said that thy house, and the house of thy father shoulde walke before me for euer. But nowe the LORDE sayeth: that be farre from me: for them that worshyp me, I wyll worshyppe, and they that dispise me, shal come to shame. Behold, the dayes come, that I wyl cut of thine arme, & the arme of thy fathers house, þ ther shal not be an elder in thine house. And thou shalt see thine enemy in Tabernacle (of the LORDE) and in all the wealth which (GOD) shal gyue Israel, and there shall not be an elder in thyne house forever. Neuerthelelle, I wyl not destroye all the males that come of the fro myne altar. But to make thyne eies dase, and to make thyne hert melt. And all they that be multeptyed in thyne house* shall dye if they be men.

And this shalbe a sygne vnto thee, þ shall come vpon thy two sons* Hophny and Phinehes: euen in one day they shall dye both. And I will stire me vp a faythfull pziest, that shall do accozdyng to my herte and mynde. And I wyll buylde him a sure house. And he shall walke before myne anoynted for euer. And they that are lefte in thyne house, shall come and crouche to him for a lytle pece of syluer, and a cake of breade, and shall saye: put me (I praye thee) in one office or other among the pziestes, that I maye eate a morsell of breade.

The.iii. Chapter.

The Lord calleth Samuell three tymes.

AND the childe Samuell ministred vnto the LORDE before Eli: and þ 3 word of the LORD was pzecyous in those dayes, nether was ther any open visiõ. And it chaunced at that tyme, that Eli laye in his place, and his *eyes 1.Reg 4: beganne to waxe dymme that he could not se. And yet the lampe of GOD went out, Samuel layed him downe to slepe in the temple of the LORDE, where the arke of GOD was. And the LORD called Samuel, and he sayde, here I am, & he ran vnto Eli, and sayde: Here am I, for thou calledst me. And he sayde: I called the not: go againe, and slepe. And he went and layd him downe to slepe.
And the LORDE called once agayne: Samuel, and Samuel arose and went to Eli, and sayde: I am here: for thou diddest cal me. And he answered: I called thee not my sonne. Go agayne and take thy rest: Samuell knewe not yet the LORDE, neyther was the worde of the LORDE yet opened vnto him. And 5 the LORDE went to and called Samuell the thyrde tyme. And he arose, and wente to Eli, and saide: I am here for thou hast called me. And Eli perceaued that the LORDE had called the childe. Therfore Eli sayd vnto Samuell: goe, and lye down: and if he cal thee againe, then say: speake on LORDE, for thy seruaunt heareth. So Samuel went, and layed him downe in his place. And the LORDE came, and stode, and called as before Samuel Samuel. Samuel answered: speake on for thy seruaunt heareth. And the LORDE said to Samuel: beholde, I will do a thynge in Israell, that both the eares of as many as heareth it, shall tyngle. In that daye I wil rayse vp agaynst Eli, al thinges which I haue spoken concernyng hys house, from the begynnynge to the endyng. I haue tolde him* that I wyll iudge his 1.Reg.2.
house for euer. For the wyckednesse whiche he knoweth. For when the people cursed his sonnes for the same wickednes, he hath not corrected them.
And therefore I haue sworne vnto the house of Eli, that þ wickednes of Elies house, shal not be purged with sacrifice nor offerynge for euer. Samuel laye tyll the mornynge, and opened þ dores of the house of the LORD.

And Samuel feared to shewe Eli ꝑ vision. Then Eli called Samuel, and sayde: Samuel my sonne. And he answered: here I am. He sayde: what is it that the LORDE hath sayde vnto thee: I praye thee hyde it not frō me. *GOD do so, and so to thee, yf thou hyde anye thynge from me, of all that he sayde vnto thee. And Samuell tolde him euery whit, and hid nothinge from him. And he said, it is the LORD, let him do what semeth him best.

And Samuel grewe, and the LORD was with him, and left none of his wordes vnperfourmed. And all Israell frō Dan to Berſabe, wyste that faythfull Samuel was made the LORDES prophete. And the LORDE apeared againe in Silo: for the LORDE opened himselfe to Samuel in Silo, therowe the word of the LORDE.

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

The arke of the Lorde is taken. Eli and his children dye.

AND Samuel spake vnto al Israel. And it fortuned that in those dayes the Philistines came together to fyghte. And Israell wente out against the Philistines to battayle, ꝑ pytched beside the *helpe stone. And the Philistines pitched in Aphek. And put themselues in araye against Israell. And when they ioyned ꝑ battel, Israel was put to the worse before the Philistines. And the Philistines slue in araye along by the feldes about a foure thousande men.

And when the people were come into theyr tentes, the elders of Israel sayde: wherfore hath the LORD cast vs downe this daye before the Philistines: let vs fetch the arke of the oppoyntmente of ꝑ LORDE out of Silo vnto vs, that whē it commeth amonge vs, it maye saue vs oute of the hande of our enemy. And so the people sent to Silo, and fet frō thēce the arke of the appointment of ꝑ LORD of hostes, whiche dwelleth betwene the Cherubyns. And there were the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehes wt the arke of the appoyntmente of GOD. And it fortuned, that when the arke of the appoyntment of the LORDE came into the hooste, all Israell howted a mighty howte, so that the earth range agayne.

And when the Philistines heard the noyse of the shout, they sayd: what meaneth the saunde of this myghty showte in the hooste of the Ebzues? And they vnderstode, howe that the arke of the LORDE was come into the hooste. And the Philistines were afrayed, and said: GOD is come into the hooste. And they sayde agayne: Wo vnto vs, for it was neuer so before this: wo vnto vs who shal delyuer vs out of the hand of these myghtie Goddes? these are the Gods ꝑ smote the Egipcians wt so many plages in the wildernesse. Be strong and quite your selues lyke mē, O ye Philistines, that ye be no seruaūtes vnto ꝑ Ebzues, *as they haue bene to you. Be of a māly corage therfore and fyghte. And ꝑ Philystines fought, and Israell was put to the worse and fled euery man into his tent. And there was an exceding great slaughter, for there were ouerthrowen of Israel. xxx. M. fotemē. And the arke of GOD was taken, and the two sons of Eli, *Hophni, and Phinehes were dead. And there ran a man of Ben Jamin out of the araye, and came to Silo the same daye with his clothes rent, and earth vpon his head. And when he came, Eli sat vpon a stole, and loked towarde the wayr: for his hert feared for the arke of GOD. And when the man came into the cytye, and tolde it, all the cytie eryed.

And when Eli heard the noyse of the eryeng, he sayde: what meaneth thys noise of the rumor? And the man came in hastely, and told Eli. Eli was, xcviii. yeare olde, and *his syghte sayled hym that he coulde not se. And the man said vnto Eli: I am he that came out of the araye, and fled thys daye out of ꝑ host. And he sayde: what thinge is for tuned my sonne? The messenger answered, & sayde. Israell is fled before the Philistines, and there is a greate slaughter chaunsed amonge the people, and thy two sonnes, Hophni and Phinehes are dead, and the arke of GOD is taken. And it for tuned that when he made mencyon of the arke of GOD, Eli fell from of his stole backewarde vpon the threshold of the gate, and his necke brake, and he dyed: for he was an olde man and heuye, and iudged Israel forty yeares.

And his doughter in lawe Phinehes wyfe was with childe and nye ꝑ byrth. And when she heard the tydinges that the

the arke of GOD was taken, and that her father in lawe, and her husbande were dead, she bowed her selfe, and traueled, for her paynes came vpon her.
And about the tyme of her death, the women that stode aboute her, sayd vnto her: feare not, for thou haste borne a sonne: but she answered not, nor regarded it. And she named the childe* Ichabod, saying: The glory is departed frō Israel. Because the arke of GOD was taken, and because of her father in lawe & her husbande. And she sayde agayne: The glory is gone from Israel, for the arke of GOD is taken.

¶ The.v. Chapter.

Dagon the God of the Philistines is cast flat before the arke.

AND the Philistines toke the arke of GOD and caryed it from the helpe stone vnto Asdod, agayne þ Philistines toke the arke of GOD, and brought it into the house of Dagō, and set it by Dagon. And when they of Asdod were vp in the nexte daye in the morning, beholde, Dagon laye vpon þ earth before the arke of the LORDE.
And they toke Dagon, & set him in hys place agayne. And when they were vp early in the nexte morninge, beholde, Dagon laye vpon the grounde before þ arke of the LORDE, and his head, and his two handes cut of vpon the threshholde, that only the shape of a fysh was lefte on him. And therfore is it, that the priestes of Dagon (nether any man that commeth into Dagons house) tread not on the threshholde of Dagon in Asdod, vnto thys daye. But the hande of the LORDE was heuy vpon them of Asdod, and he destroyed them, and smote them with emerodes, both Asdod, and in all the coastes therof. (The villages also and the feldes in the myddes of the countre were full / and there came vp mice / and there was a confusyon of greate death in the citie.) And when the men of Asdod sawe that it was so, they said: the arke of the GOD of Israel shal not abyde here with vs, for his hand is sore vpon vs and vpon Dagon oure GOD. They sent therfore and gathered al the lordes of the Philistines vnto them, & sayde: what shall we do with the Arke of the GOD of Israel? They answered: let the arke of the GOD of Israel be caried aboute vnto Gath. And they caryed the arke of the GOD of Israel about. And it fortuned, that whē they had caryed it aboute, there was by the hande of the LORDE a myghtie great noyse in the cytie, and he smote the men of þ cytye both small and great, and they had secret diseases. (And the Gethites toke counsel / and made themselues preuy seates of skinnes.) Therfore they sent the arke of GOD to Akaron. And assone as þ arke of GOD, came to Akaron, the Akaronites cried out sayinge: they haue brought þ Arke of the GOD of Israel to vs, to slee vs & our people.

And so they sent, and gathered together all þ lordes of the Philistines, and sayde: sende away the arke of the GOD of Israell, to go agayne to his owne place, that it slee vs not and our people. For there was great lamentacion ouer the dead thorow out all the cytie, and þ hand of GOD was exceding sore there. And the men that dyed not, were smytten with the Emerodes: and the crye of the cytye went vp to heauen.

The.vi. Chapter.

The kyne bringe home the arke with the rewardes.

THe arke of the LORDE was in þ countrey of the Philistines seuen monethes, and the Philistines called for the prestes and the sothsayers, sayinge: what shall we do with the arke of the LORDE? tell vs wherewith we shall sende it home agayne? They sayd: yf you send the arke of þ GOD of Israel home agayne, send it not empty. But reward it with a trespace offering: and then ye shalbe whole, and it shal be knowē to you, why his hand departeth not from you.

Then sayde they: And what shalbe the trespasse offeringe, whiche we shall reward him with. They answered: fiue golden arses, and .v. golden myce, accordyng to the nūmber of the lordes of the Philistines. For it is one maner of plage on you all, and on youre lordes. Wherfore ye shall make ymages like to your arses, and ymages lyke to youre myce that corrupt the land, and ye shall geue glory vnto þ GOD of Israell: that he may take his hand from of you, and from of your goddes, and from of youre lande.

Wherfore do ye harden youre heres as the Egipcians and Pharao hardened dened their hertes: whichwhen he toke on agaynste them, dyd they not let the people go, and they departed? Nowe therfore, make a newe carte, and take two meleche kine: on whose necke there hath come no yocke. And tye the kyne to the carte, & bringe þ calues home frō them. And take þ arke of the LORD, and laye it vpon the carte, & put the iewels of golde (whiche ye rewarde him wyth for a synne offeryng) in a cofre by þ side ther of, and sende it awaye, that it maye go. And yf ye se that he go vp by the way of his owne coast to Bethsames: then it is he that dyd vs thys greate euyll. yf no, we shall knowe then, that it is not his hande that smote vs: but it was a chaunce that happened vs. And the men dyd euen so: and toke two kine that gaue mylke, and tyed them to the carte, and kepte the calues at home, and they layde the arke of the LORDE vpon the carte, & the coser with þ myce of golde, and with the ymages of theyr arses. And the kyne toke the streyghte waye to Bethsames, and wente on the streyght waye: & as they wente, lowed, and turned neither to the righte hande nor to the lefte. And the lordes of the Philistines wente after them, vntil the borders of Bethsames.

And they of Bethsames were reaping theyr wheate harueste in the valey. And they lyfte vp theyr eyes, and spyed the arke. And reioyced when they sawe it. And the carte came into the felde of one Iehosua a Bethsamite, & stode styll there. There was also a greate stone. And they claue the woode of the carte and offered the kyne a burntofferyng vnto the LORDE. And the Leuites toke downe the arke of the LORDE, and the cofer that was with it, wherein the iewels of golde were: and put them on þ great stone. And the men of Bethsames sacrificed burntsacrifice, and offred offerynges þ same day vnto the LORDE. And when the fyue lordes of the Philistines had sene it, they returned to Akaron the same daye. And these are the golden arses whiche the Philistines gaue to amendes for a trespace offering, to the LORDE: for Asdod one: for* Gaza one: for Askalon one: for Gath one: & for Akaron one: And golden myce, accordynge to the number of al the cyties of the Philistines, euen accordynge to þ fiue lordes, both of walled townes and of townes vnwalled: euē vnto þ great stone of lamentacion, whereon they set downe the arke of the LORDE: whiche stone remayneth vnto this daye in the felde of Iehosua the Bethsamite. And he plaged þ men of Bethsames, because they had sene the arke of the LORDE. And he slue amonge the people fyfty thousande and three score and ten men. And the other people lamēted, because the LORDE had slayne the people with so greate a slaughter. Wherfore þ men of Bethsames sayd: who is able to stād before the LORDE so holy a GOD: and to whom shall he go from vs? And they sent messengers to the enhabyters of Kariath Iarim, sayinge: The Philistines haue brought agayne the arke of þ LORD: come ye downe therfore, and fet it vp to you.

¶ The. vii. Chapter.

The arke is brought to Kariathiarim.

AND so þ mē of Kariathiarim came, and fet vp the arke of the LORDE: and* brought it into the house of Aminadab in Gibea, and sanctified Eleazar his sonne, to kepe the arke of the LORDE: and whyle the arke abode in Kariathiarim þ dayes multiplyed, and there passed ouer twenty yeres, and the house of Israel lamēted after þ LORD. And Samuell spake vnto all the house of Israel, saying: yf ye be come agayne vnto the LORDE with al youre hertes, then* put awaye the straunge goddes and Astharoth from amonge you: and prepare your hertes vnto the LORDE, and serue him* onelye: for he shall ryd you out of the hande of the Philistines. Then the children of Israel dyd put awaye Baalim & Astharoth, and serued the LORDE onely. And Samuel sayde: gather all Israel to Mizpa, and I wyl praye for you vnto the LORDE. And they gathered together to Mizpa, and drewe water: and powred it out before the LORD, and fasted the same daye, & sayd there: we haue synned agaynst the LORDE. And Samuel iudged the children of Israell in Mizpa. When the Philistines heard that the children of Israel were gathered together to Mizpa, the lordes of the Philistines wente vp agaynst Israell. And when the children of Israell heard that, they were

afrayed

affrayed of ꝑ Philistines, and ꝑ childzen of Israel sayd to Samuel: ceasse not to crye vnto the LORDE our GOD for vs, that he maye saue vs oute of the hande of the Philistines. * And Samuel toke a suckyng lambe, and offered it altogether for a burntoffering vnto the LORD, and cryed vnto the LORD for Israell, & the LORDE hearde him. And as Samuel offred the burntoffering, the Philistines came to fyght agaynst Israell. But the LORD thondzed a great thonder that same daye among the Philistines, and scattered them, that they fell before Israell. And the men of Israel went out to Mispa, and pursued the Philistines, and followed vpon them vntyl the place that is vnder Bethcar.

And then Samuel * toke a stone and pitched it betwene Mispa & the marke of the rocke, and called the name therof, the * stone of helpe, saying: Hytherto hath the LORDE helped vs. And so the Philistines were bzought vnder, & they came nomoze into the coastes of Israel: and the hand of ꝑ LORD was agaynst the Philistines all the dayes of Samuel. Therto the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israell, were restozed agayne to Israell, euen from Acaron to Gath: with the coastes of ꝑ same, and Israell plucked them out of the handes of the Philistines. And there was peace betwene Israel and ꝑ Amozites. Samuel iudged Israell all the dayes of his lyfe, and wente aboute yeare by yeare to Bethel, Gilgal, and Mispa, and iudged Israell in all those places, and came agayne to Rama: for there was his houle, and there he iudged Israell also, & there he buylt an altar vnto the LORDE.

¶ The. viii. Chapter.

¶ The people require a kyng.

When Samuel was olde, he made his sonnes iudges ouer Israel. The name of his eldest son was Joel, and the name of the second Abia: & they were iudges in Beersheba. And his sonnes walked not in hys wayes: but turned asyde after lucre, and * toke rewarde, and peruerted the right. Then all the elders of Israel gathered them togyther, and came to Samuel vnto Rama, and sayd vnto him: behold, thou arte olde, and thy sonnes walke not in thy wayes. Nowe therfore * make vs a kynge to iudge vs, as all other nacyons haue. But the thynge displeased Samuel, when they sayde: gyue vs a kyng to iudge vs. And Samuel prayed vnto the LORDE. And the LORDE sayd vnto Samuel, heare the voyce of the people in all ꝑ they say vnto the. For they haue not cast the away, but me: that I should not raygne ouer thē. And as they haue euer done (sins I bzought them oute of Egipt vnto this daye: and haue forsake me, and serued other Gods) euen so do they vnto ther. Nowe therefore herken vnto their voice: howe be it, yet testifie vnto them and shewe them * the authoryte of the kynge that shall raygne ouer them. And Samuell tolde all the wozdes of the LORDE vnto the people that asked a kynge of him, and he sayde: this shalbe the authozitie of the kynge that shal raygne ouer you: * he will take youre sonnes and put them to his charettes, and make his hozlemē of thē, to runne before his charet, and will make him of them, captaynes ouer thousādes and ouer fyfties, and wyll set them to eare his grounde, and to gather in hys harueft, and to make instrumentes of warre, and apparel for his charrettes. And he wyll take youre doughters and make thē apoticaries, cookes and bakers. And he shal take ꝑ best of your feldes, * & of your vineyardes, & of your olyue tres, & giue thē to his seruātes. And he shal take ꝑ tenth of your seede, and of your vyneyardes, & gyue it to hys chāberlaynes: and to his seruauntes. And he shall take the best of youre men seruauntes, and mayde seruauntes, & yong men, and of your asses, and put them to his worke. And he shall take the tenth of your shepe, & ye shal be his seruātes. And ye shall crye out at that time vpon your kynge, whiche ye shal haue chosen you, and the LORD wyl not heare you at that daye.

Neuertheleſſe, the people would not heare the voyce of Samuel, but did say: naye, not so. But there shalbe a kynge ouer vs, that we maye be like other nacions, and that oure kynge maye iudge vs, and go oute before vs, and fyghte oure battayles (for vs.) Therfore, when Samuel hearde all the wozdes of the people, he rehearsed them in the eares of the LORDE. And the LORDE sayde to Samuel: herken vnto theyr voyce, & make make them a kynge: And Samuel sayd vnto the men of Israell: go euery man vnto his cytie.

The. ix. Chapter.

Saule the sonne of Cis is chosen kynge.

1. reg. 14. g
1. Par. 8. d

THere was a man of Ben Jamin named* Cis the sonne of Abiel, ꝑ sonne of Zeroz, the sonne of Bechozath, the sonne of Aphiah, the sonne of a man that was a Jemmite, a man of strength and myghte: and the same had a sonne called Saule, a goodlye ponge man and a fayze: so that among the children of Israel there was none goodlier then he. Foz from the shulders vpward, he was hier then all the other people. And ꝑ asses of this Cis, Sauls father, were lost: and Cis sayde to Saule hys sonne: take one of the laddes with the, and goe vp, and seke the asses. And he went thozowe mount Ephzaim, & thorowe the lande of Salisa: but they fond them not. Then they went thozowe the lande of Sali, and there they were not. When they went also thozow the lande of Jemini, they founde them not. At the laste when they were come to the lande of Zuph, Saule sayde vnto his lad that was with him: come let vs returne, lest my father leaue caring foz ꝑ asses, and take thought foz vs. He saide vnto him: beholde, there is in this citie a man of GOD, and he is a wozshypfull man, all that he sayeth commeth surely to passe. Nowe then let vs go thyther: peraduẽture he shall shewe vs what waye we maye goe. Then sayde Saule to hys lad: yf we wyll go, what shall we bzing the man? Foz our bzead is al spent out of our vessels, and there is none other pzesent to bzyng the man of GOD: what haue we? And the lad answered Saule agayne, and sayd: I haue found aboute me the fourth parte of a sicle that wyll I gyue the man of GOD, to tell vs our waye.

B

Before tyme in Israell whan a man went to seke an answere of GOD, thus wise he spake: come, and let vs go to the sear. Foz he that is nowe called a Pzophete was in the olde time called a sear. Then sayde Saule to his lad: wel saide of thee: come, let vs go. And so they went vnto the citie where the man of GOD was. And as they were goynge vp into the citie, they mette with damosels that came out to dzawe water, and said vnto them: is there here a sear? And the maidens answered them: yea, (here is one) Beholde, he is before you. Make haste nowe, foz he came this daye to the cytie, foz there is an offerynge of the people this day in the hyll. When ye be come into the citie ye shal finde him streyght waye yer he goe vp to the hyll to eate: foz the people wyll not eate vntyll he come, bicause he doth bielle the offering. And then eate they that be bydden to ꝑ feast. Now therfoze get you vp, foz this daye shall ye synde him. And they went vp into the cytie. And when they were come into the myddes of the cytie: Beholde, Samuel came out against them, foz to go vp to the hyl.* But the LORD had tolde Samuel in his eare (a day before Saule came,) sayinge: to mozowe this tyme I wyll sende the a man oute of the lande of Ben Jamin, hym shalte thou annoynte to be captayne ouer my people Israel, that he may saue my people out of ꝑ handes of ꝑ Philistines: foz I haue loked vpon my people, and their crye is come vnto me. When Samuel therfoze sawe Saule, the LORDE answered him: see, this is the man whom I spake to the of. This same shal raigne ouer my people.

Then went Saule to Samuel in ꝑ myddle of the gate, and sayde: tell me I pzaye thee where the sears house is. Samuel answered Saul, and sayde: I am the sear, go vp before me vnto ꝑ hyl, foz ye shall eate with me to day. And to mozowe I wyll let thee go, and wyl tell the al that is in thine herte. And as foz thyne asses that were lost thze dayes ago: care not foz them, foz they are fond. And mozeouer whose shal the beautiful thynges of Israel be? Belonge they not to thee, and to al thy fathers house? But Saule answered and sayde: am not I the sonne of a Jemmite of the smallest trybe of Israell: and my kynred is the leest of all the kynredes of the trybe of Ben Jamin. Wherefoze then speakest thou so to me? And Samuel toke Saul and his lad, and bzought them into the parlour, and made the syt in the chiefest place amonge them that were bydden: whiche were vpon a thyrtye parsons. And Samuel said vnto the cooke: bzing fozth the pozcion whiche I gaue thee, of whiche I sayd vnto thee: kepe it with thee. And the cooke toke vp ꝑ shoulder, and that whiche was vpon it: and set it before Saule. And Samuel sayde: beholde, that whiche is left: put it before the and eate: for hitherto hathe it bene kepte for thee, of purpose, when I called the people. And so Saul did eat wᵗ Samuel that daye. And when they were come downe from the hyll into the cytie, Samuel communed with Saule vpon the toppe of the house: and when they arose early aboute the sprynge of ꝑ daye, Samuel called Saule vpon the toppe of the house, sayinge: vp, that I maye sende the away. And Saul arose. And they went out at the dores, bothe he and Samuel. And when they were come almoste out of the towne, Samuel saide to Saule: byd the ladde go before vs (and he went before) but stande thou styll a while, that I may shew the what GOD saieth.

¶ The. x. Chapter.

¶ Saule is annoynted kynge, and prophecieth.

AND then Samuel toke a vessell of oyle and powred it vpon his heade and *kyssed him, and sayd: hath not the LORD anoynted the to be captayne ouer his enheritaunce: (And thou shalt deliuer his people out of the handes of their enemies whiche are rounde aboute them. And this token shalt thou haue, that the Lord hath annoynted thee to be prynce.) When thou art departed fro me this daye, thou shalt fynde two men by *Rahels sepulchre in the bordre of Ben Jamin, euen at Zalezah. And they wyll saye vnto thee: the asses whiche thou went est to seke, are found. And lo, thy father hath lefte the care of ꝑ asses, and sorroweth for you, sayinge: What shal I do for my sonne? Then shalte thou go forthe from thence, and shalte come to the playne of Thabor. And there shal mete the three men goynge vp to GOD to Bethel: one caryinge thre kyddes: & another caryinge thre loues of bread: & another carying a bottell of wine. And they wyl salute the, & geue ther the two loues of breade: whiche thou shalte receyue of theyr handes. After that shalte thou come to the hyl of GOD, where the Philistines kepe their watch. And whē thou arte come thither to the cytie, thou shalte mete a companye of Prophetes commynge downe from the hill with a psalter, a tymbrell, a pype and an harpe before them: and they shall prophecye. And the spyrite of the LORDE wil come vpon the also, and thou shalte prophecy with them, and shalte be turned into an other mā. Therfore when *these signes are chaunced thee, do what thou hast to do, for GOD is with the. And thou shalt go before me to Gilgal: and I also wyll come downe vnto the, to sacrifice burnt sacrifyces, & to offre peaceofferynges. *Tarye for me seuen dayes, tyl I come to thee, and shewe the what thou shalte doe. And alsoone as he had turned hys shoulder to go frō Samuel, GOD gaue hym an other maner of herte: & all those tokēs came to passe that same day. And when they came to the hyll: beholde, the company of prophetes met him: and * ꝑ spirite of GOD came vpon hym also, and he prophecyed amonge them. And all that knewe him before, when they saw that he prophecyed among the prophetes, they sayde eche to other: howe is this that is happened vnto the sonne of Cis: *Is Saule also amonge the prophetes? And one of the same place answered and sayde: who is their father? And therof came the prouerbe: what is Saule also among the prophetes? And when he had made an ende of prophecying, he came to the hyll. And Sauls fathers brother sayde vnto him: and to his lad, whyther wente ye? He sayde: to seke the asses, and when we sawe that they were no where, we came to Samuel. And Sauls vncle sayde: tell me what Samuel sayde vnto you? Saule answered his vncle: he tolde vs playnely, that the asses were founde. But of ꝑ kyngdom whereof Samuel spake, told he him not. And Samuell called ꝑ people together vnto the LORD to Mispa, and sayde vnto the children of Israel: thus sayde the LORDE GOD of Israel: I brought Israel out of Egipt, and deliuered you out of the hande of the Egyptians, and oute of the handes of all kyngdomes that troubled you. And ye haue this daye cast awaye youre GOD, that helped you oute of all your aduersities and tribulacions. And ye haue sayde vnto hym: * make a kynge ouer vs. Nowe therefore stande ye before the LORDE by your tribes and your thousandes. And whē Samuel had brought all the tribes of Israel, the trybe of Ben Jamin was caught. When he had brought ꝑ tribe of Ben Jamin by their kynreddes, the kynred of Matri was caught raught: and at the laste Saule the son of Cis was caughte. And when they soughte him he coulde not be founde. Therfore they asked the LORD further, yf ỳ man shoulde come thither. And the LORDE answered: beholde, he hath hyd himselfe among the stuffe. And they ran and fet him thence. And whē he stode among ỳ people, he was hier then any of the people, from the shoulders vpward. ¶ The. xii. Chapter.

¶ The people renueth the kyngdom of Saule.

NAhas the Ammonite came, and belieged Jabes in Gilead. And all the men of Jabes sayde vnto Nahas: make a couenaunt with vs, and we wil be thy seruauntes. And Nahas the Ammonite answered them: In this wyll I make a couenaunte with you, yf I maye thrust out al your ryght eies, and bring that shame vpō al Israel. To whome the elders of Jabes sayd: gyue vs seuē dayes respite: that we may send messengers vnto all the coastes of Israel. And then yf there be no mā to help vs: we wyll come out to thee. Thē came the messengers to Gibea vnto Saule, and tolde this tidynges in the eares of the people. And all the people lyfte vp their voyces and wepte. And beholde, Saule came folowyng the cattel oute of the felde, and Saul sayd: what ayleth this people, ỳ they wepe? And they tolde him the tydynges of the men of Jabes. And the spirit of GOD came vpō Saul, whē he hearde those tydynges, and he was exceedyng angry, & toke a yoke of oxen, and hewed them in peces, and sent them throwoute all the coastes of Israell by the handes of messengers, sayinge: whosoeuer commeth not forth after Saule and after Samuel, so shal his oxē be serued. And ỳ feare of ỳ LORD fell on the people, and they came out as it hadde bene but one man. And when he * numbred them in Bezech, the chyldren of Israel were thre hundred thousande men: and the men of Juda thrytye thousande. And they sayde vnto the messengers that came: so saye vnto the men of Jabes in Gilead: to morowe by that tyme ỳ sunne be hote, ye shal haue helpe. And the messengers came & shewed the mē of Jabes, which were glad. Therefore the men of Jabes sayde: to morowe we wyll come out vnto you, & ye shall do with vs al that pleaseth you. And on the morowe it fortuned, that Saule put the people in thre partes, & they came in vpon the hooste in the mornynge watche, and slue the Ammonites vntyll ỳ heate of ỳ daye. And they that remayned, were scattered: so that two of them were not lefte togyther.

And ỳ people sayd vnto Samuel: what is he that dare saye: shall Saule raigne ouer vs? brynge those mē, that we maye slaye them.

And Saule sayde: there shall no man dye thys daye, for to daye the LORDE hath saued Israell. Then sayd Samuel vnto the people: come, that we may go to Gilgal, and renue ỳ kyngdom there: And all the people went to Gilgall, and made Saule kynge there before the LORDE in Gilgal. And there they offered peaceoffrynges before the LORDE. And there Saule and al the men of Israel reioyced exceedyngly.

hurt vs: neyther hast thou take ought of any mans hande. He sayd vnto them again: ꝑ LORD is witnesse against you, & his annointed is witnesse this day, ꝑ ye haue founde nought in my handes. And they answered: he is witnesse. And Samuel sayd vnto the people: it is the LORDE ꝑ made Moses and Aaron, & that brought your fathers out of ꝑ lãd of Egipt. Now therfore stãde styl, that I may reason wt you before ꝑ LORDE, according to al ꝑ righteousnesse of the LORDE, whiche he shewed bothe you and your fathers.

* After that Jacob was come into Egipt, & your fathers cryed vnto the LORD, *the LORD sẽt Moses & Aarõ which brought your fathers out of Egipte, & made them dwel in this place. And when they forgat ꝑ LORD their GOD, he delyuered them into the hãde of Sisara captaine of the hoost of Hazor and into ꝑ hande of ꝑ Philistines, and* into the hãde of the kyng of Moab, and they fought againũ them. And they cried vnto the LORD, and sayd: we haue synned, because we haue forsakẽ the LORD, and haue serued Baalim & Astharoth. Nowe therfore delyuer vs out of the handes of our enemyes, and we wyl serue the. And ꝑ LORDE sent Jerobaal* Badã* Jephthah, & Samuel, and delyuered you out of ꝑ handes of youre enemyes on euery syde, & ye dwelled safe. And for all that, when you saw, that Nahas the king of ꝑ children of Ammon came againste you, ye sayde vnto me: not so, but a kyng shal raygne ouer vs: whẽ yet ꝑ LORD your GOD was your kyng. Nowe therfore beholde, the kyng whome ye haue chosen, and whom ye haue desyred lo, the LORD hath set a kyng ouer you. yf ye wil feare the LORD and serue him, and heare his voyce, and not disobey the worde of ꝑ LORD: both ye & the kyng ꝑ raigneth ouer you, shal folow ꝑ LORD your GOD: yf ye wyl not herken vnto the voyce of the LORD, but disobey the LORDES mouth, then shal ꝑ hand of ꝑ LORDE be vpon you, and on youre fathers. Nowe also stande and se this great thinge whiche the LORDE wyll do before youre eyes: Is it not nowe wheate haruest? I wyll call vnto the LORDE, and he shall sende thunder and rayne: that ye maye perceyue and se, how that your wickednesse is great, whiche ye haue done in the sight of the LORD, in askyng you a kynge. And so Samuel called vnto the LORD, and ꝑ LORD sent thunder and rayne ꝑ same daye. And al the people feared ꝑ LORD and Samuel exceadyngly. And all the people sayde vnto Samuel: praye for thy seruauntes vnto the LORDE thy GOD, that we dye not: for we haue synned in asking vs a kyng, besyde all the synnes that euer we dyd.

And Samuel said vnto the people: feare not: ye haue in dede done all this wickednes, yet departe not from folowyng the LORD. But serue him enẽ wt al your hertes. Neither tourne ye after vayne thinges whiche are not hable to profite you, for they are but vanitie. For* ꝑ LORD wyl not forsake his people, bycause of his greate names sake: bycause it hath pleased the LORDE to make you his people. Moreouer, GOD forbyd ꝑ I shoulde synne againste the Lorde, & ceasse praying for you, but to shew you ꝑ good and right way. Therfore feare you the LORD, & serue hym in the truthe, and with al your hertes, and consydre how great thiges he hath done for you. But and yf ye do wickedlye, then shall ye perysshe, bothe ye and your kynge.

And Jonathas smote the hold of ꝑ Philistines, that was in the hyl: and it came to the Philistines eares. And Saul blewe the trompet thorowout al the lande, saying: let the Hebrues heare. And all Israel hearde saye: howe that Saul had destroyed an holde of ꝑ Philistines, wherfore Israel stanke before the Philistines. And the people gathered together after Saule to Gilgall. And the men of the watch answered Jonathas, and his harnesbearer, & said: come vp to vs, and we wyl shew you a thing: And Jonathas sayde vnto his harnesbearer: come vp after me, for ỹ LORDE hath delyuered them into the hande of Israel. And Jonathas clame vp vpon handes & fete, and his harnesbearer after him. And (so when they had sene Jonathas fall) they fel before Jonathas, and hys harnesbearer slue them after him. And the first slaughter whiche Jonathas & his harnesbearer made, was vpon .xx. men, within the compasse as it were about an halfe acre of lande. And there was a feare in the host in ỹ feld, & amōg al people: insomuch that they that wer gone out of ỹ watch to rob, wer afraied also: and the earth trembled for ỹ feare ỹ was sent of GOD. And ỹ watch men of Saul in Gibea Bē Jamin saw. And behold, ỹ people (of the Philistines) wer scattered, and wer smitē as they wēt. Then said Saul vnto the people ỹ wer with him. Searche & se, who is gone away frō vs. And whē they had nūbred, behold, Jonathas & his harnesbearer were not there. And Saul said vnto Ahia: bryng hither the arke of GOD. For the arke of GOD was at ỹ tyme with the childzen of Israel. And it fortuned that while Saul talked vnto the preest, the noyse ỹ was in the host of ỹ Philistines spred farther abrode, & encreased (by lyle and lyle, and gaue a more cleare sounde.) And Saul said vnto the preest, withdrawe thyne handes. And Saul topned him selfe vnto al ỹ people ỹ were with him, and they came to the battayle. And al the men of Israell also whiche had hid themselues in mount Ephraim as soone as they hearde howe that the Philistines were fled, they folowed after them in the battayle. And so GOD holpe Israel that day. And the battaile continued vnto Bethauen.

And while ỹ men of Israel wer kept downe with hūgre ỹ daye, Saul charged the people w an oth, saying: Cursed be ỹ mā ỹ eateth any foode vntil nyght, tyl I be auenged of myne ennemyes. And so none of ỹ people tasted any sustenaunce. And al the enhabiters of the lande came to a wood where hony laye vpon the groūde. And the people came into the wood: And beholde, the hony dropped, and no man moued his hande to his mouth, for ỹ people feared ỹ oth. But Jonathas heard not when his father charged the people with ỹ othe, wherfore he put forth the ende of ỹ rod that was in his hande, and dypte it in an hony combe, and put his hāde to his mouth, and his eyes receiued sight. Thē answered one of ỹ people, and said: thy father adiured the people, saying: Cursed be ỹ mā that eateth any sustenaūce this day, and the people were fayntye. Then said Jonathas: my father hathe troubled the lande: se howe myne eyes haue receyued sight, byeause I tasted a lytle of this hony, how much more then to daye yf the people had eaten of the spoile of their enemies which they foūd: And had there not bene thē a muche greater slaughter amōg ỹ Philistines: And they layed on the Philistines that day, from Michmas to Ialō. And the people were exceedynge faynte.

And the people brought euery mā his ore in his hande by night & slue them there. And Saul made an aultare vnto ꝑ LORD. And that was ꝑ first aultar ꝑ he made vnto ꝑ LORD. And Saul said: let vs go downe after the Philistines by night, and spoile thē vntyl it be daye in the morynge, & let vs not leaue one man of thē. And they said: do whatsoeuer thou thinkest best. f Then said ꝑ preast: let vs come hyther vnto GOD. And Saul asked of GOD: Shal I go downe after ꝑ Philistines: Wilt thou delyuer them into ꝑ handes of Israel: But he answered him not at that tyme. And Saul said: let the people come hyther out of al quarters, and know & se by whō this synne is chaūced this day: for as truly as ꝑ LORD liueth which saueth Israell, thoughe it be in Jonathas my sonne, he shall dye the death. But there was no man among al the people, that answered him.

Then he said vnto al Israel: be ye on one syde, and I and Jonathas my son wyl be on the other syde. And the people said vnto Saul: what thou thinkest best, ꝑ do. Therfore Saul said vnto ꝑ Lord God of Israel: gyue a perfect lot. (Lorde God geuer how the iudgement? How happeneth it, that thou gauest thy seruaunte no answere to day? If this syn be in me or in Jonathas my son, shewe it, or yf this iniquitie be in thy people.) And Saul & Jonathas were caughte, but the people escaped fre. And Saul said: cast lottes betwene me and Jonathas my sonne. And Jonathas was caught. Then Saul said to Jonathas: tel me what thou haste done? And Jonathas tolde him, and sayde: I tasted a lytle honye with the ende of the rod that was in myne hande: and lo, I muste dye.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

Saule is commaunded to slay Amalek. He is disobedient to the voyce of God. Samuel mourneth for Saul.

SAmuel sayde vnto Saul: * the 1. Re.

two hundred thousande fotemen, and ten thousande mē of Juda. And Saul came to a cytie of Amalek, & set watch in the valleye. And Saul sayde vnto the Kenites: go, and departe, and get you downe from amonge the Amalekites, lest I destroye you with them: for ye shewed mercy to al ꝑ children of Israel, whē they came out of Egipt. And so

the

the Kenites departed from a monge the Amalekytes.

And Saule smote the Amalekites fro Heuila as thou cõmest to Sur, þ lieth before Egipt, & toke Agag þ kinge of the Amalekytes alyue, and vtterly destroyed all the people with the edge of þ swearde. *But Saul & the people spared Agag, and the better shepe, and the fatter oxen, & the lambes, and all þ was good, & would not destroye them. But all þ was foule & nought worthe, that they destroied vtterly. Then came the worde of the LORD vnto Samuel, sayinge: it *repenteth me that I haue made Saul kinge. For he is turned fro me, and hathe not performed my cõmaundementes. And Samuel was eyrl apayed, and cryed vnto the LORDE all night. And when Samuel rose early to mete Saul in the morninge, it was told Samuel, that Saul was come to Carmel: and behold, he hath made him there a place, & is turned, and departed, and gone downe to Gilgal.

And Samuel came to Saul, and (Saul offered burnesacrifice vnto the Lorde, of the first of þ spoiles which he had brought from Amalec: and when Samuel was come vnto Saul) Saul said vnto him: Blessed be thou in þ LORD. I haue fulfilled þ commaundement of þ LORD. Samuel said: what meaneth then the bleatynge of the shepe in myne eares, and the noyse of the oxen which I heare? Saul answered: they haue brought them from the Amalekites. For the people spared the best of þ shepe and of the oxen to sacrifice them vnto the LORDE thy GOD. And the remnaunte haue we destroyed vtterly.

Samuel said to Saul: let me tel the what þ LORDE hathe sayde to me this night. And he said vnto him: say on. Samuel said: *whē thou wast little in thine owne sight, wast thou not made þ head of the trybes of Israel? And the LORD anoynted the kyng ouer Israell. And þ LORD sent the on a journey, & said: Go, and vtterly destroye those synners the Amalekites, and fighte against thē, vntyl thou vtterly destroy thē. And wherfore haste thou not herkened vnto the voyce of the LORDE, but haste tourned to the praye, and hast doone that which is wycked in the sight of the LORD.

And Saule sayd vnto Samuel: yea, I haue herkened vnto the voyce of the LORDE, and haue gone the way which þ LORD sent me vnto, & haue brought Agag the kynge of Amalek, and haue vtterly destroyed the Amalekites. But þ people toke of the spoile, shepe, oxen, & the chefest of the thinges which should haue bene destroyed, to offre vnto the LORDE thy GOD in Gilgal. And Samuel said: hath þ LORD as great pleasure in burnt sacrifices and offringes, as when the voyce of the LORDE is obeyed? Beholde, to obey is better then sacrifice: & to herken is better then the fat of rammes. For rebellion is as þ sin of *witchecraft, & stubburnesse is as the wickednesse of ydolatry. Because thou hast cast away the worde of the LORD, therfore hath the LORD cast away the also from beyng kynge.

Exo. 22. f. Deu. 18. b.

And Saul said vnto Samuel: I haue synned, for I haue gone further thē the saying of þ Lord and thy wordes, because I feared the people, and obeyed their voyce. Nowe therfore take away my synne, & turne againe with me, that I may worshyp the Lorde. And Samuel said vnto Saul: I wil not returne with the: for thou hast cast away þ worde of the LORD, and the LORD hathe cast away the, þ thou shalt not be kinge ouer Israell. And as Samuel turned hym selfe to go away, he caught the lappe of his coate, and it rent. And Samuel said vnto him: the LORD hath rent þ kyngdome of Israel from the this day, & hath geuen it to a neyghbour of thine, that is better thē thou. The strength of Israell wyll not begyle nor repent: for he is not a man that can repent.

He said: I haue synned. But nowe honoure me before the elders of my people, and before Israel, and turne again with me, that I maye worshyppe the LDRDE thy GOD. And so Samuel tourned againe, and folowed Saul. And Saul worshipped the LORDE. Then said Samuel: Bringe ye hyther to me Agag the kynge of the Amalekites. And Agag came vnto hym delicatelye. And Agag sayed: truelye thy bytter deathe commeth on. And Samuel sayed: as thy swerde hath made womē childlesse, so shall thy mother be childlesse aboue other women: And Samuel hewed Agag in peces before the LORD in Gilgall. And then *Samuel departed to Rama. And Saull wente home to his house to Gibea Saul. And Samuel came no more to se Saul vntil ꝑ day of his death. Neuertheles Samuel mourned for Saul, & the LORDE repented, that he had made Saul kyng ouer Israel.

¶ The. xvi. Chapter.

¶ Sauid is annoynted kyng. An euyll sprite commeth vpon Saul.

THe LORDE sayde vnto Samuel: How long wilt thou mourne for Saul, seyng I haue cast him away from raynynge ouer Israel: Fyll thyne horne with oyntement, & come, ꝑ I may sende the to Isai ꝑ Bethlehemite, for I haue prouyded me a kyng amóg his sónes. And Samuel said: how can I go: for yf Saul heare it, he wyl kyl me. The Lord answered: Take an heyfer with the, and say: I am come to offre to the LORD. And cal Isai to the offring, and I wyl shewe the, what thou shalt do: & thou shalt annoint him whó I name vnto the. And so Samuel dyd as ꝑ LORD bad him, & came to Bethlehem, & the elders of the towne were astonyed at his cóming, & said: * Cómest thou peaceably: He answered: yea, I am come to offre vnto the LORDE. Sanctifie* your selues, & come wt me to the offring. And he sanctified Isai & his sonnes, and bad thé to the offringe. And when they wer come he loked on Eliab, and saide: Surely ꝑ Lordes annoynted is before him. But the LORD said vnto Samuel: loke not on his fassion, or on the heigth of his stature, because I haue refused him: For GOD seeth not as manne seeth. For man loketh on the outwarde apperaunce: but GOD beholdeth the heart. Then Isai called Ibinadab, and made him come before Samuel. And he sayde: neyther hath the LORDE chosen this. Then Isai made Samma come, & he said: neyther yet hath ꝑ LORD chosé him. Again Isai made seué of his sónes to come before Samuel: & Samuel said vnto Isai: the LORD hath chosen none of these.

And Samuel said vnto Isai: are here al thy childrén? He sayde: there is yet a lytle one behinde ꝑ kepeth ꝑ shepe. And Samuel said vnto Isai: sende & fet him, for we wil not sit downe, tyl he be come hither. And he sent, & brought him in. And he was brouneth, & of an excellent beauty, * & wel fauoured in sight. And ꝑ LORD said: Aryse, & annoint him for this is he. Therfore Samuel toke the horne with the oyntment, & annoynted him in the myddes of his brethren. And the spirit of ꝑ LORD came vpó Dauid, from ꝑ daye forewarde. And Samuel rose vp, and went to Rama.

But the spirit of ꝑ LORD departed from Saul, & an euil spirit sente of the LORD vexed him. And Sauls seruaútes said vnto him: Beholde, an euil spirit sent of GOD vexeth the, let our lord therfore commaunde his seruauntes ꝑ are before the) to seke a má, ꝑ is a connyng player wt an harpe: ꝑ when ꝑ euil spirit sent of GOD commeth vpon the, he maye playe wt his hande, & thou shalt be eased. Saul said vnto his seruaútes: prouyde me a man then that can playe wel, and bryng him to me. Thé answered one of his seruaútes, and said: Beholde, I haue sene a son of Isai ꝑ Bethlehemyte, that can playe vpó instrumétes, and is an actyue felowe, and a má of war and prudent in doyng of feates, and wel made, & the LORD is wt him. Wherfore Saul sent messengers vnto Isai, & said: sende me Dauid thy sonne, which is wt ꝑ shepe. And Isai toke an asse laden with bred & a flacket of wine, and a kyd, & sent them by Dauid his son vnto Saul. And Dauid came to Saul, and stode before him, and he loued him very wel, and he was made his harnes bearer. And Saul sent to Isai, saying: let Dauid remayne wt me, for he hathe founde fauour in my sight. And so it fortuned, that when the euil spirit sent of GOD came vpon Saul, Dauid toke an harpe and played with his hande, & so Saul was refreshed, and did amēd, and the euil spirite departed from him.

Dauid ouercometh great Goliah.

THe Philistines gathered their hoost to battail, & came together to Socoth which is in Juda, and pitched betwene Socoth & Azekah, in ꝑ coast of Dammin: And Saul & the mē of Israel came together, and pytched in the ockevalley, & put them selues in araye to fight against the Philistines. And the Philistines stode on an hyll on the one syde, and Israell stode on an hyll on the other syde, and there was a valley betwene them. And there cam a man betwene them both, out of ꝑ tentes of the Philistines, named Goliah * of Gath. vi. cubytes & an hãde bredth long, & had an helmet of brasse vpõ his head, & a coat of maile about him. And ꝑ weyght of his coat of mayle was. v. M sicles of brasse. And he had bootes of brasse vpon his legges, and a shilde of brasse vpon his shoulders. And ꝑ shaft of his speare was lyke a weauers beame. And his speare head weyed sixe hundred sycles of yron. And one bearing a shylde went before him.

And he stode & cryed against ꝑ hooste of Israel, and said vnto them: Why are ye come out in aray to battayle? am not I a Philistine and you seruauntes to Saul? chose you a man from amõge you, and let him come downe to me. And yf he be able to fight with me, & to beate me: thẽ wil we be your seruauntes. But yf I can ouercome him, and beate him, then shal ye be our seruauntes, and serue vs. And ꝑ Philistine said: I defye the hooste of Israel this daye, geue me a man, that we may fyghte together. When Saul & al Israel hearde those wordes of ꝑ Philistine, they were discouraged, and greatly afrayde. David was the sonne of an Ephrathite (of whome mencion is made afore) of Bethlehem Juda, named Isai, whiche had eyght sonnes. And was an olde man in the dayes of Saul, and came to age among mẽ. And the thre eldest sonnes of Isai went, and folowed Saul to ꝑ battayle. And the names of his thre sõnes ꝑ went to battayle, wer Eliab ꝑ eldest, and ꝑ next Abinadab, & the thirde Sãma, & David was the leest. And the thre eldest wẽt after Saul. David also wẽt, and departed frõ Saul to fede his fathers shepe at Bethlehem. And ꝑ Philistine came forth in the mornynge, and euenynge, and continued forty dayes.

And Isai said vnto David his sonne: take for thy brethren an Epha of thys parched corne, and these ten loues, and bryng it vnto the hooste to thy brethren. And cary these. x. freshe cheses vnto the captaine, & loke howe thy brethrẽ fare, and fet out their pledge. And Saul and they, & al the men of Israel were in the ocke valley, fightyng with the Philistines. And David rose vp early in ꝑ mornynge, and lefte the shepe with a keper keper, and toke and went as Isai had commaũded him, and came within the compasse of ꝑ hooste. And the hooste went out in araye, and houted in ꝑ battaile: for Israel and the Philistines had put thẽ selues in araye, the one against ꝑ other. And David toke downe ꝑ gear frõ him, & put them vnder the handes of the keper of the vessels, and ran into ꝑ host, and came: and saluted his brethrẽ. And as he talked wt thẽ, Beholde, ther stode a man in the myddes (Goliah the Philistine by name, of Gath) out of ꝑ araye of the Philistines, and spake of ꝑ maner aboue rehearsed, that David hearde it. And al the men of Israell, when they sawe the man, ran away from him, and were sore afrayed. And euery man of Israel sayde: Sawe ye this man come forth? euen to reuyle Israel is he come. *And to him that beateth him wyll the kyng gyue great richesse, and wyl geue him his doughter therto: yea, and make his fathers house free in Israel. Josu. 15. c.

And David spake to the men ꝑ stode by, and said: What shalbe done to ꝑ mã that beateth this Philistine, & taketh awaye the shame frõ Israel? And what is this vncircumcised Philistine, ꝑ he should reuyle the hooste of the lyuynge GOD? And the people answered hym (after this maner) saying: so shall it be done to the mã ꝑ beateth him. And Eliab his eldest brother hearde when he spake vnto the men, & Eliab was angry wt David, and said: why camest ꝯ downe hyther? & with whõ hast thou lefte those fewe shepe in the wildernesse? I knowe thy pryde & the malyce of thine hearte, that thou art come downe to se ꝑ battaile. And David said: And what haue I now done? is there not a worde? And he departed from him into the presence of an other, and spake of the same maner: and the people answered him again as before.

And they that heard ꝑ wordes which David spake, rehearsed them before Saul, which caused him to be fet. And David said to Saul: Let no mãs heart faile him because of him. Thy seruaunt wyll go, and fyghte with yonder Philistine. And Saul sayde to David againe: thou arte not able to go against yonder Philistine to fyght with him: for thou arte but a chylde, but he is a man of warre, euen from his youthe. Dauid answered vnto Saul: Thy seruaunt kepte his fathers shepe, and there came a * lyon & lykewyse a Beare, and toke a shepe out of ꝑ flocke. And I went out after him and smote him, & toke it out of his mouthe. And whē he arose agaīst me, I caught him by the bearde, and smote him, and slue him. And so thy seruaunt slue ꝑ lyon, and ꝑ Beare (also) hath thy seruaunte slayne. And truly this vncircumcised Philistine shalbe as one of them (Nowe wyll I go, and take awaye the rebuke of the people, for what is this vncircumcysed Philistine?) seyng he hath rayled on the hoste of the lyuyng GOD. And Dauid spake moreouer: the LORD that deliuered me out of the hande of the lyon, and out of the hande of the Beare, he shall deliuer me also out of the hande of the Philistine.

Judi. 14. b
Heli. 11. i

And Saul said vnto Dauid: go, and the LORD shal be wt the. And Saul put his rayment vpon Dauid, and put an helmet of brasse vpon his head, and put a coate of mayle vpon him, and gyrded Dauid with his owne swearde vpō his rayment. And he assayed to go. And because he neuer proued it, Dauid sayde vnto Saul: I cannot go with these, for I haue not vsed my selfe therto: And Dauid put them of him, and toke hys staffe in his hande, and chose him fyue smothe stones out of a brooke, and put thē in a shepheardes bag which he had, and in a slyng poke: & his slynge was in his hand, & he went to the Philistine.

And ꝑ Philistine came and drue nere against Dauid and the man ꝑ bare the shylde went before him. And when the Philistine loked about and saw Dauid, he disdayned him, for he was but yong, and well coloured, and goodly to loke vpon. And the Philistine said vnto Dauid: am I a dogge, that thou commest to me with a staffe? And the Philistine cursed Dauid in the name of his godhes. And the Philistine said to Dauid: come to me, and I wyll gyue thy flesshe vnto the foules of the ayre, and to the beastes of the feilde. Then sayd Dauid to the Philistine: thou commest to me wt a swearde, a speare and a shylde: But I come to the in the name of ꝑ LORDE of hoostes, the GOD of the hoost of Israel, whome thou haste rayled vpon. This daye shall the LORD deliuer the into my hande, and I shall smyte the and take thyne head from the, and wyll gyue ꝑ carkasses of ꝑ hoost of ꝑ Philistines this day vnto ꝑ foules of the ayre, and to the beastes of the earth, ꝑ al they which be in the worlde may knowe that ther is a GOD in Israel. And al this congregacion shall knowe: that the LORD saueth not with swearde & speare. For the battayle is the LORDES, & he shall geue you into our handes.

And when ꝑ Philistine arose to come and drawe nye vnto Dauid, Dauid hasted & ran into the battayle euen against the Philistine. And Dauid put his hād in his bag, & toke out a stone, and slang it, & smote ꝑ Philistine in his forehead, that ꝑ stone sonke in to his forehead, * & he fel groueling to ꝑ earth. And so Dauid ouercame ꝑ Philistine wt a slynge & a stone, & smote the Philistine and slue him, euē whē Dauid had no swearde in his hād. But Dauid ranne, & stode vpō the Philistine, & toke his swearde and drue it out of his sheeth, & slue him, and cut of his head therwith. And when the Philistines sawe, that theyr champion was dead, * they fled. And ꝑ men of Israel and Juda arose, & shouted, & followed after the Philistines, vntyl they came to the valley, and vnto the gates of Akaron. And ꝑ Philistines fel downe wouūded by ꝑ way to Saarim, euē vnto Gath & Akarō. And ꝑ childrē of Israel returned from chasyng after the Philistines, & spoyled their tentes. And Dauid toke the head of the Philistine, and brought it to Jerusalem: But he put his armour in his tent.

When Saul saw Dauid go forthe against ꝑ Philistine, he said vnto * Abner the captaine of his hoost: Abner, whose sonne is this yong man? Abner answered: as trulye as thy soule lyueth (O king) I cannot tel. And the king sayde: Enquire thou whose sonne ꝑ yongling is. And when Dauid was returned frō the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner toke him, & brought him before Saul, with the head of the Philistine in hys hande. And Saule sayde to him: whose sonne art thou, thou yong man? Dauid answered: I am the sonne of thy seruaunt Jsai the Bethlehemite.

¶ The. xviii. Chapter.

The bonde betwene Dauid and Jonathas. Saul goeth about to slaye Dauid.

And

A And when he had made an ende of speakyng vnto Saule, the soule of Jonathas was knit with ꝑ soule of Dauid, and Jonathas loued him as his owne soule. And Saule toke hym that day, and would let him go no more home to his fathers house. And Jona-thas made a couenaunte with Dauid because he loued him as his owne soule.
And Jonathas put of his owne coate ꝑ was vpon him, and gaue it Dauid, and therto his cloke, his swearde, his bowe and his gyrdle. And Dauid wente oute whither soeuer Saul sent him, and be-haued him selfe wysely. And Saule set him ouer his mē of warre, and he was accepted in ꝑ syght of al the people: and in the syghte of Sauls seruauntes.

B And it happened as they went, when Dauid was retourned from ꝑ slaughter of the Philistine, that women came out of al cyties of Israel, syngynge and daunsyng agaynste kynge Saule, and with tymbrels, with ioye, and with instrumentes of musyke. And the women answered one an other in their playe, & 1. Reg. 21. d. sayde: * Saule hath slayne his thou- 18. b sande, and Dauid his ten thousande.
And Saule was exceadynge wroth, and the saying displeased him, and he sayde:
they haue ascribed vnto Dauid. x. M. & to me but a thousande, and what can he more haue, saue the kyngdome? Wherefore Saule loked on side of Dauid frō ꝑ C day forward. And it happened on ꝑ mo-rowe, that the euil spirite sente of GOD came vpon Saule, and he prophecyed in the myddes of the house. And Dauid played with his hande lyke as at other tymes, and there was a tauelynge in Saules hande. And Saule toke the tauelyng, and sayd: I wil nayle Dauid to the wall with it. And Dauid auoyded oute of his presence two tymes. And Saule was afrayed of Dauid, because the LORD was with him, and was departed from Saule. Therefore Saule put him from him, and made him a captayne ouer a thousande, and he wente oute and in before ꝑ people. And Dauid D behaued himselfe wisely in al his waies, and the LORDE was with him. Wherefore when Saule sawe that he was so exceadyng wyse, he was afrayde of hym.
But al Israel and Juda loued Dauid, because he went out and in before them.
And Saule sayd to Dauid: Beholde, my eldest doughter Merob, her I wil giue thee to wife. Onely playe the man with me, & fyght the LORDE battayles. For Saule thoughte: myne hande shall not be vpon him, but the hande of the Philistines. And Dauid answered Saule:
what am I? and what is my lyfe, or the kynred of my father in Israell, that I E shoulde be sonne in lawe to the kynge?
Howbeit when the time was come that Merob Sauls doughter shoulde haue bene geuen to Dauid, she was geuē vnto Adriel a Meholothite, to wife. Howbeit, Michol Sauls doughter loued Dauid. And they shewed Saule: and ꝑ thing displeased him not. And Saule sayde: I wyl gyue him her that she may be a snare to him, and that the hande of the Philistines maye be agaynste hym.
Wherfore Saule sayde to Dauid: thou shalte this daye be my sonne in lawe in the other doughter. And Saul commaunded his seruauntes to commen wt Dauid secretly, and to saye: Beholde, ꝑ kynge hath a fauour to thee, and al hys seruantes loue thee, be nowe therefore the kynges sonne in lawe.

And Sauls seruauntes spake these wordes in the eares of Dauid. And Da- F uid sayde: semeth it to you a lyght thyng to be a kynges sonne in lawe? I am a poore man, and of small reputacion. And the seruauntes brought Saule worde agayne, sayinge: of this maner spake Dauid. And Saule sayde: this wise shal ye saye to Dauid: the kyng careth for no nother dowrye, but for an hundred fore-skinnes of the Philistines to be auenged of the kynges enemyes. But Saule thought to make Dauid fall into ꝑ han-des of the Philistines. And when his seruauntes tolde Dauid these wordes, it G pleased Dauid well, to be the kynges son in law. And or the dayes were expired, Dauid arose wt his men, & wente &
slue of the philistines, two hundred mē: & Dauid brought their foreskynnes, and satisfied the kyng thereof, to be his son in lawe. * Wherefore Saule gaue hym 1. Reg. 3. 4.
Michol his doughter to wyfe. And Saule sawe and vnderstode how that the LORDE was with Dauid, and that Michol his doughter loued him, and he was the more afrayed of Dauid: & Saul became alwaye Dauids enemye. The lordes of ꝑ Philistines vsed to go forth.
And it forthyned, that when they wente

foꝛth, Dauid behaued him selfe wyselyer then all the seruauntes of Saule: so that his name was muche set by.

¶ The. xix. Chapter.

¶ Saul commaundeth to slaye Dauid. Michol his wife sauyth him.

SAul spake to Jonathas his son, and to all his seruauntes, that they shoulde kyll Dauid. * But Jonathas Sauls sonne had a greate fauoure to Dauid, and Jonathas tolde Dauid, sayinge: Saule my father goeth aboute to slaye thee. Nowe therfoꝛe, take hede to thy selfe vntyll ꝑ moꝛning, and abide in some secret place, and hyde thy selfe. And I wyl go oute & stande by my father in the felde where thou art, and wyll commune with my father of thee, and whatsoeuer I see, I wil tell thee.

And Jonathas spake good of Dauid vnto Saule his father, and sayde vnto him: let not the kynge synne agaynste his seruaunte Dauid, foꝛ he hathe not synned agaynst thee, and his woꝛkes haue bene to theewarde very good. Foꝛ he did *put his life in his hand, and slue the philistime, and the LORDE bꝛought to passe a greate health foꝛ all Jsraell. Thou sawest it, and thou reioysedest: wherfoꝛe then wylt thou synne against innocent bloud, and slaye Dauid without a cause? And Saule hearkened vnto the voyce of Jonathas, and sware: as truely as the LORDE lyueth, he shal not dye. And Jonathas called Dauid, & shewed him all those woꝛdes, & bꝛought Dauid to Saul. And he was in his pꝛesence as in tymes past.

And the warre began agayne, and Dauid wente out and foughte with the Philistines, and slue them with a great slaughter, and they fled from him. And the euel spirite sente of the LORD was vpon Saule as he sat in his house haupnge a launcelyng in his hande, and Dauid played with his hande. And Saule entended to nayle Dauid to the wall w the launcelyng. But he rid himselfe out of Sauls pꝛesence, as he smote the speare (with a veyne strofe) in to the wall. And Dauid fled, and was saued the same nyght. Saule also sente messengers vnto Dauids house, to watche him, and to slaye him in the moꝛnynge. And Michol Dauids wife told it hi, saying: yf thou saue not thy selfe this nyght, to moꝛow thou wilt be slaine. And so * Michol let Dauid downe thoꝛowe a wyndowe, & he went and fled, and was saued. And then she toke an ymage and layed it in the bed, and put a pyllowe stuffed with goates heere vnder the head of it, and couered it with a cloth. And when Saule sente messengers to fetche Dauid, she sayde: he is syeke. And Saule sent the messengers agayne to se Dauid, saying: bꝛyng him to me, bed and all, that I may slaye him. And when the messengers were come in: Beholde, there laye an ymage in the bed, w a pyllowe of goates heere vnder the head of it. And Saule sayde vnto Michol: why hast thou mocked me so, & sente away myne enemy, that he is escaped? Michol answered Saule: foꝛ he sayde vnto me: let me go, oꝛ els I wil kyll thee. And so Dauid fled, & escaped, & came to Samuel to Rama, and tolde him al that Saul had done to him. And he and Samuell wente and dweite in Naioth.

And one told Saule, saying: Behold, Dauid is at Naioth in Rama. And Saule sente messengers to fet Dauid. And when they sawe a company of pꝛophetes pꝛophecynge, and Samuel stãdinge fast by them, the spꝛite of GOD fel vpon the messengers of Saul, and they pꝛophecyed to. And when it was tolde Saule, he sent other messengers, & they pꝛophecyed lykewise. And Saule sente messengers yet agaime the thirde tyme, and they pꝛophecyed also. Then wente he himselfe to Rama, and came to a great well that is in Sechu, and he asked and sayd: where are Samuel and Dauid? And one sayde: beholde, they be at Naioth in Rama, and he wente thyther, euen to Naioth in Rama, and the spꝛite of GOD came vpon him also, and he went pꝛophecyinge vntyl he came to Naioth in Rama. And he strypte of hys clothes, & pꝛophecyed befoꝛe Samuel in lyke maner, and fell naked all ꝑ daye & all that nyghte. * And therof it is, that they saye: is Saule also amonge the pꝛophetes?

The. xx. Chapter.

¶ Dauid complayneth vnto Jonathas.

AND Dauid fled fꝛõ Naioth which is in Rama, & came & sayd befoꝛe Jonathas: What haue I done? wherin am I faultie? what is the sin ꝑ I haue cõmytted befoꝛe thy father, ꝑ he seketh my my lyfe? he sayde vnto him. GOD forbyd, thou shalte not dye. Behold my father wyll do nothyng eyther greate or small, but that he wyl shewe it me. And howe shoulde my father hide this thing fro me: he wyll not do it. And Dauid sware agayne and sayde: thy father knoweth that I haue founde grace in thyne eyes, and therefore he sayth: Jonathas shall not knowe it, lest he be sorye. And in very dede, euen as truely as the LORDE lyueth, and as truely as thy soule lyueth, there is but a stey betwene me and death. Then sayde Jonathas vnto Dauid: whatsoeuer thy soule desyreth, that I wil do vnto thee. And Dauid sayde vnto Jonathas: Beholde, tomorowe is the begynnynge of the moneth, & I shoulde syt with the kynge at meate. But let me goe, that I may hide my selfe in the feldes vnto ỹ thyrd daye at euen. yf thy father speake of me, then say: Dauid asked leaue of me, ỹ he might go to Bethlehem to his owne cytie, for there is holden a yerely feast for all the kynred. And yf he saye: it is well done, then thy seruaunte shall haue peace.

But and yf he be angrye, then be sure that wickednesse is vtterly concluded of hym. And then thou shalte shewe mercy vnto thy seruaunt, *for thou hast made wt me thy seruaunt a bonde in ỹ LORD. Notwithstandynge, yf there be in me anye trespalle: then slaye me thy selfe, & brynge me not to thy father.

And Jonathas answered: GOD kepe ỹ fro thee (neyther is it possible to come to passe) For yf I knewe that wyckednesse were concluded of my father to come vpon thee: thynkest thou, that I shoulde not tell it thee? Then sayde Dauid: who shall tell me if thy father answere cruelly? And Jonathas sayd vnto Dauid, come, and let vs goe oute into the felde. And they wente oute bothe of them into the felde.

And Jonathas sayd vnto Dauid, the LORDE GOD of Israell loke on it, whē I haue groped my fathers mynde, one tyme or other wtin this .iii. dayes that it stande well with Dauid: yf I then sende not vnto thee, and shewe it thee, the LORD do so and so vnto Jonathas. But yf my father haue anye pleasure to do thee euyll, I wyll shewe thee also, & sende thee awaye ỹ thou mayest goe in peace. And the LORDE be with thee as he hath bene with my father. And thou shalte perfourme vnto me the mercy of the LORDE, not onely whyle I liue, but euen when I am deade, and pluck not thy mercy awaye fro my house for euer: No, not when ỹ LORDE hath destroied the enemyes of Dauid, euerye one from the face of the earth.

And so Jonathas made a bonde wt the house of Dauid, desyrynge that the LORDE shoulde seke it out by the hādes of Dauids enemyes, (if it were broken.) And with other wordes did Jonathas sweare vnto Dauid, bycause he loued hym. For he loued hym as hys owne soule.

Then sayde Jonathas to Dauid: tomorowe is the fyrst daye of the moone. And thou shalte be missed, bycause the place where thou wast wont to sit shal be emptye. Therefore this daye three dayes, come downe in any wyse vnto ỹ place where thou dyddest hyde thy selfe, when the businesse was in hande: euē by the stone Esel. And I wyll shote three arowes by ỹ one syde therof, as though I shot them at a marke, & wil send a lad & byd hym go seke the arowes. And if I say vnto the lad: see, the arowes are on this syde thee, brynge them: then come thou: for it is peace & no hurt, as sure as the LORDE lyueth. But & yf I say vnto the lad: behold, the arowes are beyonde thee, then go (in peace) for the LORD hath sente thee away. And as touchinge this which thou & I haue spoken: behold, the LORDE be betwene thee & me for euer. And so Dauid hid him selfe in the felde. And when the newe moone was come, the kyng sat hym downe to eate meate. And the kynge sat him downe after the olde maner, in his seate by the wal. And Jonathas arose, & Abner sat by Sauls syde, & Dauids place was emptie. Neuertheles Saule sayd nothyng at al ỹ daye. For he thoughte: some thynge hath chaunced him, ỹ he is not clene. But on the morowe whiche was the seconde day of the newe moone, it happened, ỹ Dauids place was emptie againe. And Saule sayde vnto Jonathas his sonne: Wherefore commeth not the son of Jsai to meate, neyther yesterday nor to daye? And Jonathas answered vnto Saule: Dauid asked lycence of me to go to Bethlehem, for he sayde: let me go, I praye thee, for oure kynred doeth holde holde an offeryng in ỳ cyte, & my brother hath sent for me. And therfore if I haue foude fauour in thine eies: let me go, & se my brethren. This is the cause that he commeth not vnto the kynges table. Then was Saule angrye with Jonathas, and sayde vnto him: Thou wicked rebel, do not I knowe, ỳ thou hast chosen the sonne of Jsai vnto thine owne rebuke, and vnto the rebuke and shame of thy mother? for as longe as ỳ sonne of Jsai lyueth vpō the earth, thou shalt not be stablished, nor yet thy kingdome: wherefore nowe sende & let hym vnto me, *for he is the childe of death.

1. Reg. c
1. Reg. d

And Jonathas answered vnto Saul his father, and sayde vnto him: Wherfore shoulde he dye? what hath he done?
And Saule lyfte vp a speare to hit him, wherby Jonathas wist wel that it was vtterly determyned of his father to slay Dauid. And so Jonathas arose from ỳ table in a greate anger, and dyd eate no meate at the seconde day of the moneth, for he was sory for Dauid, because hys father had done him shame. On ỳ nexte morowe Jonathas went out into the felde, at the tyme appointed with Da-uid, and a lytle ladde with hym. And he sayde vnto his boy: runne, and seke oute myne arowes which I shote: and as the boye ran he shot an arowe beyond him.
And when the lad was come to ỳ place
whither Jonathas had shotte ỳ arowe, Jonathas cried after the lad, and sayd:
Is not the arowe beyonde thee? And Jonathas cryed after the lad agayne: make spede, and stande not styll. And Jonathas lad gathered vp the arowes, and came to his master. But the ladde wyst nothinge of the matter. Onely Jonathas and Dauid wist it. And Jona-thas gaue his weapons vnto the lad that was with hym, & sayde vnto hym:
go and carye them to the towne. And assone as ỳ lad was gone, Dauid arose oute of a place that was towarde the south, & fel on his face to the grounde, & worshypped three tymes. And they kissed eyther other, and wepte togyther so longe, tyll Dauid exceaded in weppnge.
And Jonathas sayde to Dauid: go in peace. And the thinges whiche we haue swozne bothe of vs in the name of the LORDE, sayinge: the LORDE be be-twene thee and me, & betwene thy seede & myne, let them bide for euer. And he arose & departed. And Jonathas went into the towne.

The .xxi. Chapter.

Dauid flieth into Nob to Ahimelech the priest, and geteth of him the shewbred to satisfye his hunger. Afterward he flieth to kyng Achis, and there fayneth himselfe to be mad.

Then came Dauid to Nob, to Ahimelech the priest. And Ahimelech was astonied at the sodaine commynge of Dauid, and sayde vnto hym: Why arte thou alone, and noman with thee? And Dauid sayde to Ahimelech ỳ priest: the kynge hath commaunded me to do a certayne thyng, and hathe sayde vnto me: let noman knowe wheraboute
I sende thee, & what I haue commaunded the to do. And I haue appointed my seruauntes to such & such places. Now therfore yf thou hast ought vnder thine hande, * gene me .v. loues of breade, or what commeth to hande.

And the priest answered Dauid, and sayde: there is no commen bread vnder myne hande, but here is halowed bred, yf the younge men haue kepte themsel-ues from vncleane thynges, especyallye women. Dauid answered the prieste, & sayde vnto him: of a truth women haue bene locked vp from vs aboute three daies when I came out, and the besselis of the yong men were holy. Howbeit, this waye is vnpure, and howe muche more shall there be holynesse in the bessel? * And so ỳ priest gaue hym halowed breade, for there was none other brede there, saue the shewebreddes that were taken from before the LORDE, to putte fresh bred there, the day that it was taken away.

1. Reg. f
Jn.

And ther was there the same daye a certayne man of the seruauntes of Saul abydynge before the LORDE, named Doeg an Edomite, the chefest of Sauls herdemen.

And Dauid sade vnto Ahimelech: is not here vnder thine hand either speare or swerde, for I haue neither broughte my swearde nor my harnesse wyth me, because the kynges businesse required haste. And the priest sayde: the swearde of Goliath ỳ Philistine whō thou slewest in ỳ vcke valley: behold, it is here wrap-in a cloth behynde the Ephod. If thou wylt take that, take it: for there is none other saue that here. And Dauid sayde:
there is noye to that, geue it me.

And

And Dauid arose and fled the same daye from the presence of Saule, & went to Achis the kynge of Geth. And the seruauntes of Achis saide of him: is not this Dauid the kynge of the lande? dyd they not synge vnto hym in dauces, sayinge: *Saule hath slayne his thousande, and Dauid his ten thousande.

And Dauid put those wordes into his herte, and was sore afrayd of Achis, the kynge of Geth. And he chaunged hys speache before them, & fayned him selfe mad in their handes, and scrabled on ꝑ doores of the gate, and let his spettle fall downe vpon his beerde.

Then said Achis vnto his seruãtes: Lo: ye se that thys man is beside hym selfe, wherfore thẽ haue ye brought hym to me: haue I nede of mad mẽ, ꝑ ye haue brought this felowe to plaie the madde man in my presence, shal he come into my house?

The. xxii. Chapter.

¶ Doeg betrayeth Dauid. Abimeleth is accused of trason and slayne / and. lxxxiii. priestes mo with him / bycause they receyued Dauid. Nob is destroyed of Saule. Abiathar flyeth to Dauid.

Dauid therfore departed thence, & escaped, and came vnto the caue Odollam. When his brethren also and al his fathers house hearde it, they went downe thither to hym: And there gathered vnto hym all men that were in combraunce, & in det, and troubled in their myndes, & he became a captayne ouer them.

And there were with him vpon a fourt hundred men. And Dauid went thence to Mispa in the lande of Moab: & sayde vnto the kynge of Moab: Let my father and my mother (I pray the) come forth vnto you, tyll I knowe what GOD wil do for me. And he brought them before the kynge of Moab. And they dwelt vñ him all the while that Dauid kepte hym selfe in holde. And ꝑ prophete Gad said vnto Dauid: abyde not in holde, but departe and go into the lande of Juda. Then Dauid departed and came into ꝑ forest of Hareth. And Saule hearde ꝑ Dauid was come abrode, and also ꝑ mẽ that were with him. And Saule sat in Gibea vnder a tre in Rama, hauing his spere in his hãd, & al his mẽ stode about him. And Saul said vnto his seruãtes ꝑ stode about him. Heare I pray you ye sons of Jemini: wil the son of Jsai geue euerye one of you feldes & vineyardes, and make you al captaynes ouer thousandes, & ouer hundredes: that ye haue also conspired agaynst me, and there is none that telleth it me in myne eare? *And where as my sonne hath made a bonde with the sonne of Jsai, there is none of you that mourneth for me, or sheweth it in myne eare: beholde, my son hath stirred vp my seruãt to lye awaite against me this same day. 1. Reg. 21. a and. 22. b

Then answered Doeg the Edomite whiche also stode by the seruauntes of Saul, and sayd: I saw the sonne of Jsai when he came to Nob, to Ahimelech the sonne of Ahitob, whiche asked counsaile of the LORDE for him, & gaue hym victayles, and the swearde of Goliah the Philistine also. Then the kynge sente & called for Ahimelech the priest, the son of Ahitob, & all his fathers house: that is to say: the priestes that were in Nob.

And they came all to the kynge. And Saul sayd: heare now ꝑ son of Ahitob. He answered: here I am my lord. And Saule sayde vnto him: why haue ye cõspired agaynste me, thou and the sonne of Jsai, in that thou hast gyuen him victayle, & a sweard, and hast asked counsayle of GOD for him, that he shoulde aryse agaynst me, and lye awayt for me this daye? Ahimelech answered ꝑ kyng, and sayde: who is so fayethfull among al thy seruauntes as Dauid, and thereto ꝑ kynges sonne in lawe, and goeth at thy byddyng, and is had in honour in thine house: haue I this day fyrst begonne to aske counsayle at GOD for him? That be far fro me (yf I had knowẽ it) let not the kynge put suche a thynge vnto hys seruaunt, in all the house of my father. For thy seruaunt knewe nothing of all this, eyther lesse, or more. The kynge sayde: thou shalt surely dye Ahimelech, thou, and all thy fathers house. And the kynge sayde vnto the fote menne that stoode aboute him: tourne, and slaye the priestes of the LORD, both because their hande is with Dauid, and because they knewe when Dauid fled, and shewed it not to me. But the seruauntes of the kynge woulde not moue their handes to fall vpon the Priestes of the LORDE.

And the kynge sayde to Doeg: turne thou, and fall vpon the priestes. And Doeg the Edomite tourned, and ranne vpon the vpon ꝑ prieſtes, and ſlue that ſame daye foure ſcore and fyue perſonnes ꝑ dyd weare a lynen Ephod. And Nob ꝑ cytie of the prieſtes ſmote he with the edge of the ſwearde, bothe men and women, childzen and ſuckelynges, oxen, aſſes, and ſhepe.

And one of the ſonnes of Ahimelech, the ſonne of Ahitob (named Abiathar) eſcaped and fledde to Dauid. And Abiathar ſhewed Dauid, howe that Saule had ſlayne the LORDES prieſtes. And Dauid ſayd vnto Abiathar: I wyſt it the ſame day, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he would tel Saul. And I am cauſe of the death of al the ſoules of thy fathers houſe. Abyde thou wt me, and feare not. For yf any mā ſeke my ſoule, he ſhall ſeke thyne alſo, wyth me thou ſhalt be in ſauegarde.

The.xxiii. Chapter.

Dauid ſtyreth into the wildernesse of Ziph.

Then they tolde Dauid, ſayinge: Beholde, the Philiſtines fyght agaynſte Keilah, and ſpoyle ꝑ barnes. Therfore Dauid aſked ꝑ LORDES aduice, ſaying: ſhal I go and ſmite theſe Philiſtines? And the LORDE anſwered vnto Dauid: go and ſmyte the Philiſtines, and ſaue Keilah. And Dauids men that were with him, ſayde vnto him: ſee, we be afrayed here in Juda: howe much more then if we come to Keilah agaynſt the hoſt of the Philiſtines? Then Dauid aſked the LORDE agayne.

And the LORDE anſwered him, and ſaide: Aryſe, and go downe to Keila, for I wil deliuer the Philiſtines into thine hande.

And ſo Dauid and his men went to Keilah, and foughte with ꝑ Philiſtines, and droue awaye their cattell, & ſmote them with a greate ſlaughter. And ſo Dauid ſaued the enhabitours of Keila. And it chaunced when Abiathar ꝑ ſon of Ahimelech fledde to Dauid to Keila, that he brought an Ephod with him in his hande.

And it was tolde Saule that Dauid was come to Keila. And Saule ſayde: GOD hath deliuered hym into myne hande. For he is ſhut in nowe that he is come into a towne that hath gates and barres. And Saule called al the people together to warre, for to go downe to Keila, and to beſiege Dauid and his mē. And Dauid hauing knowledge ꝑ Saul ymagined myſcheefe agaynſt him, ſayde to Abiathar the prieſt. * Bryng the Ephod. Then ſayde Dauid: O LORDE GOD of Iſrael, thy ſeruāt hath heard, that Saule is aboute to come agaynſte Keila to deſtroye the citye for my ſake: wyll the men of Keila deliuer me into his hande? And will Saul come downe as thy ſeruaunte hath hearde ſaye? O LORDE GOD of Iſrael, tel thy ſeruāt. And the LORDE ſayde: he wyll come downe. Then ſayde Dauid: wyl ꝑ men of Keila deliuer me, and the men ꝑ are with me into the hande of Saule? & the LORDE ſayde: they wyl betray you.

Then Dauid and his men which were vpon a. vi. hundzed, aroſe, and departed oute of Keila, and wente whyther they couilde. And it was tolde Saul ꝑ Dauid was fled from Keila, & he let the iourney alone. Dauid abode in the wylderneſs in ſtrong holdes, and remayned in a mountayne in the wilderneſſe of Ziph. And Saule ſought him euery day, but GOD deliuered him not into his hande. And Dauid ſawe that Saule was come out to ſeke his lyfe. And Dauid was in the wildernes of Ziph in a thycket. And Jonathas Sauls ſonne aroſe & went to Dauid into the thicket, & confoꝛted hys hande in GOD, & ſayde vnto him: feare not, for the hande of Saule my father ſhal not fynde thee, and thou ſhalte be kynge ouer Iſraell, & I muſte be nexte vnto thee. And that doeth Saule my father knowe. * And they made a bonde both of thē together before the LORDE. And Dauid taried ſtil in ꝑ thicket, & Jonathas went to his houſe. Then came the Ziphites to Saul to Gibea, ſaying: doth not Dauid hyde hym ſelfe faſte by vs in ſtronge holdes, in a thicket that is by the hyll of Hachila, on the right ſyde of the wilderneſſe? Now therfore king, thou mayeſt come downe accordyng to all the luſte of thy ſoule: come downe, and oure parte ſhalbe to deliuer hym into the kynges hande. And Saul ſaid: Bleſſed are ye in the LORD: for ye haue compaſſion on me. Go, I praye you, and ordre the matter well, knowe and ſe his haunte, where hys fote hathe ben, and who hath ſene hym there, for it is tolde me that he is very ſubtyle, and worketh craftely. Se therfore, and know all the lurkyng places where he hydeth hymſelfe, and come ye agayne to me with the certeintie certentie, and I wyll go with you. And yf he be in the lande, I wyll serche him out thorowoute all the thousandes of Juda.

And they arose and went to Ziph before Saule. But Dauid and his men were in the wildernesse of Maon, in the playne that is on the right hande of Jesimon. Saule also and his men went to seke, and they told Dauid. Wherfore he went vnto a rocke, & abode in the wyldernesse of Maon. And when Saule hearde that, he folowed after Dauid in the wilderness of Maon. And Saule & his men wente on the one syde of the mountayne, and Dauid and his mē on the other side. And Dauid toke thought howe to get from Saule. For Saule & his men compassed Dauid and his mē, rounde aboute, to take them. But there came a messenger to Saule, saying: haste thee, and come, for the Philistines are come into the lande. Wherefore Saule returned from persecutynge Dauid, & went against the Philistines. And therfore is it, that they called the place: the rocke of separation. And Dauid wente thence, and dwelte in stronge holdes at Engaddi.

¶ The. xxiiii. Chapter.

¶ Dauid fleeth vnto Engaddi, and there hideth him in a cave. Saul commeth in thyther to do his easement.

When Saule was come agayne from folowynge after the Philistines, it fortuned that there were whiche tolde him, saying: behold, Dauid is in the wildernesse of Engaddi. Then Saul toke thre thousand chosen men out of all Israell, and wente to seke Dauid and his men in the heygth of the rockes, where wylde goates remayne.

And he came to the stockes of shepe in the waye. And Saule wente into a caue to couer his feete. And Dauid & his men remayned in the inwarde partes of the caue.

And the men of Dauid said vnto him: see, the daye is come, of which the LORD sayde vnto thee. Beholde, I wyl deliuer thyne enemie into thyne hande, & thou shalte do to him, as it shal seme good in thy syghte. Then Dauid arose & cut of a lappe of Sauls garment priuely. And immediatlye Dauids herte smote hym bycause he hadde cut of a lap of Sauls garment. And he sayde vnto hys men: the LORDE kepe me from doynge thynge vnto my master the LORDES anointed, to laye myne hande vpon hym, seynge he is the annoynted of the LORDE. (For as truely as the Lord lyueth, excepte the Lord smite him, or excepte his daye come, or if he go not downe to warre and perysshe, the Lorde be mercyfull vnto me, that I laye not myne hande vpon the Lordes annoynted.) And so Dauid kept of his seruauntes with these wordes, & suffered them not to ryse agaynste Saule.

But Saule rose vp out of the caue, & went awaye: Dauid also arose, and wēt out of the caue, & cried after Saul, sayinge: My lorde kynge. And when Saul loked behynde him: Dauid stouped to the earth, and bowed himselfe and saide to Saul: wherfore gyuest thou an eare to mennes wordes that say: Dauid seketh euyll agaynste thee? Beholde, this daye thyne eyes haue sene, howe that the LORDE hath deliuered the this day into mine hand in the caue. And some bad me kyll thee, but I had compassyon on thee, and sayd: I wyl not laye myne hādes on my master, for he is the LORDES annoynted. And moreouer my father: behold, and see yet the lappe of thy garment in my hande, in as muche as I killed the not, when I cut of the lap of thy garment. Understande therfore and se, that there is neyther euyl nor wyckednesse in me, and that I haue not synned agaynst the. And yet thou huntest after my soule to take it. The LORDE be iudge betwene thee and me, and the LORDE auenge me of thee. But myne hande be not vpon the. Accordynge as the olde prouerbe sayeth: wyckednesse proceadeth from the wicked. But myne hande be not vpon thee. After whom is the kynge of Israell come oute? After whom doest thou moue persecution: after a dead dogge, and after a flie. The LORDE be Judge, and Judge betwene thee and me, and se, and pleate my cause, and auenge me of thyne hād.

When Dauid had made an ende of speakyng these wordes to Saul, Saule sayde: *is this thy voyce my sonne Dauid? and Saul lyfte vp his voyce, and wepte, & sayed to Dauid: thou art righteouser then I, for thou hast rewarded me with good, wher as I haue rewarded the with euyll. And thou hast shewed thys daye, howe that thou hast dealt louingly with me, forasmuche as whē the LORDE had lockedme in thine handes, thou kylledst me not. For who shal fynde his enemye, and let hym departe into a good way? Wherfore the LORDE rewarde thee with good, for that thou hast done vnto me this daye. And nowe beholde, I wot wel þ thou shalt be king, and that the kyngdome of Israell shalbe stablyshed in thine hande.

Sweare nowe therfore vnto me by þ LORD, that thou shalte not destroye my seed after me, & that thou shalt not put my name out of my fathers house. And Dauid ware vnto Saule: and Saule went home. But Dauid and his mē gat them vp vnto an holde.

The.xxv. Chapter.

Samuel dyeth. Saul flieth into the wildernes of Pharan.

A 1. Reg. 25. a

AND* Samuel dyed, and all the Israelites gathered togyther, and lamented him, and buried him in hys owne house at Rama.

And Dauid arose, and gat him to the wyldernes of Pharan. And there was a man in Maon, whose possessyon was in Carmel, and the man was greedynge mynghte, and had thre thousande shepe, and a thousande goates. And he was shervng his shepe in Carmel.

The name of the man was Nabal, & the name of his wife was Abigail, & she was a woman of singuler wisedom, and beautifull. But the man was churlysh, and of shrewde condicions, and was of the kinred of Caleb. And Dauid heard in the wyldernesse that Nabal dyd shere his shepe. And Dauid sent out .x. ponge men, and sayde vnto them: Get you vp to Carmel, & go to Nabal, & greet him in my name. And thus shall you saye: peace be to thee, peace be to thy house, & peace be vnto al that thou hast. Behold, I haue heard saye, þ thou haste sherers. Nowe thy shepherdes were with vs (in the wildernes,) and we dyd them no spyte, nether was there ought (of the flocke) myssynge vnto them al the whyle they were in Carmel: aske thy laddes and they wil shewe thee. Wherfore let these ponge men fynde fauour in thine eyes (for we come in a good season,) & *gyue I praye thee, what soeuer commeth to thine hād vnto thy seruauntes, and to thy sonne Dauid.

1. Reg. 25. b

And when Dauids ponge men came, they tolde Nabal all those wordes in þ name of Dauid, & then helde their peace. And Nabal answered Dauids seruātes, and sayde: what is Dauid? and what is the sonne of Isai? there is plentie of seruauntes nowe a dayes, that breake awaye euery man from his master. Shal I then take my bread, my water, & my flesshe that I haue killed for my sherers, and gyue it vnto men whom I wot not whence they be? And so Dauids seruātes turned theyr way, and went againe, and came and tolde him all those thinges. And Dauid sayde vnto his mē: gird euery man his swerde aboute him: And they girded euerye man his swearde aboute him: and Dauid was girded with his swearde. And there folowed Dauid vpon a foure hundred men, and two hūdred abode by the stuffe. But one of the laddes tolde Abigail Nabals wife, saying: Beholde, Dauid sente messengers vnto our master out of the wyldernesse to salute him, and he rayled on thē. And yet the men are very good vnto vs, and dyd vs no displeasure, nether myssed we any thynge as longe as we were conuersaunte with them, when we were in the feldes. They were a wall of defence vnto vs both by nyghte and daye, al the while we were with thē kepyng shepe: Now therfore take hede, & se what thou hast to do, for there is an occasyon of euyll gyuen agaynst oure master and all his houshold, seyng he is a sonne of Belial vngracyous to speake to. Then Abigail made hast, and toke two hundred loues, and two botteis of wyne, & fyue shepe redy dressed, and fiue measures of parched corne, and an hundred frayles of reysynges, and two hundred topnettes of fygges, and laded them on asses, & sayde vnto her ponge men: go ye before me. Beholde, I come after you. But she tolde her husband Nabal nothing therof. And as she rode on her asse, she came priuely downe the syde of the hyll, and beholde, Dauid & hys men came downe agaynst her, and she met them.

And Dauid sayde: in vayne haue I kepte all that this felowe hath in þ wildernesse, so that nought was myssed of all that perteyned vnto him. And he hath quit me euell for good. So and so do GOD vnto the enemyes of Dauid, yf I leue of all that perteyneth to him, by the dawnyng of the day, any thing that

pylleth against the wal. And when Abigail saw Dauid, she hasted & lighted of her asse, and fell before Dauid on her face, and bowed her selfe to ꝑ grounde, and fell at his fete, & said: Let this vnhappy dede be counted myne, my lord: and let thyne handemayde speake in thine audiēce, and heare the wordes of thyne handmayde. Let not my Lorde (the kyng) regarde this vnthryftye man Nabal: for as his name is, so is he: Nabal is his name, and foly is with him. But I thyne handmayde sawe not the yongmen of my lorde whom thou sentest. Nowe therefore my Lorde, as sure as the Lorde lyueth, & as thy soule lyueth, the Lord hath withholden the frō commyng to shed bloude, & withdrawe thou thine hāde from bloudshed. Now I praye GOD, ꝑ thine enemyes & they that intende to do my lord euil, may be as Nabal. And now this is the blessig which thine handmaide hath brought vnto my lorde, & let it be geuen vnto the yongmen, that folow my lord. Forgeue the trespasse of thyne handmayde, for ꝑ Lorde wyl make my lorde a sure house, because my lorde fighteth the battailes of ꝑ Lorde, and there coulde no euel be founde in the in al thy da[illegible]s. And yf any man ryse to persecute the, & to seke thy soule, the soule of my lorde shalbe bounde as in the bondel of ꝑ lyuinge vō the LORD thy GOD. And the soules of thine enemyes shal GOD cast out, euen as out of the mydle of a slyng. And whē the Lorde shall haue done to my lorde al the good ꝑ he hath promysed the, and shal haue made the ruler ouer Israel: then shal it be no decaye vnto the, nor discourage of hert vnto my lorde, that thou haste not shedde bloude causeleslie, nor auenged thy selfe.

But when ꝑ LORD shal haue dealt wel with my lord, thē thincke on thine hādmaide. And Dauid said to Abigail: blessed be the LORDE GOD of Israell, whiche sent the this day to mete me. Blessed is thy saying, and blessed arte thou, whiche hast kept me this day frō commynge to shed bloude, and from auengynge my selfe with myne owne hande. For in very dede, as sure as the LORD GOD of Israel lyueth, whiche hathe kepte me backe from hurtynge the, except thou haddest hasted and met me, thynckest thou there had bene left vnto Nabal by the dawnynge of the day, a pysser against ꝑ wal. And so Dauid receyued of her hande that whiche she had brought him, and said to her: go vp in peace to thyne house. Beholde, I haue hearde thy voyce, and haue accepted thy person.

And Abigail came to Nabal: and beholde, he helde a feast in his house, lyke the feast of a kyng, & Nabals hert was mery within him, for he was very drōken. Wherfore she tolde him nothinge, neyther lesse nor more, vntyl ꝑ morow daye. But in the morynge when the wine was gone out of Nabal, his wife tolde him those wordes, and his hearte dyed wīn him, & he became as a stone. And vpon a ten dayes after, the LORD smote Nabal, that he dyed. And when Dauid hearde that Nabal was deade, he said: Blessed be the Lord that hathe iudged the cause of my rebuke of ꝑ hād of Nabal, and hath kept his seruaunte from euyl, & hath recompensed the wickednesse of Nabal vpō his owne head. And Dauid sent to commune with Abigail: to thintente to take her to his wyfe. And when the seruauntes of Dauid were come to Abigail to Carmel, they spake vnto her, saying: Dauid sent vs vnto the, to take the to his wife. And she arose, & bowed her selfe on her face to the earth, & said: behold, let thy handmayde be a seruaunt, to washe ꝑ feet of the seruauntes of my lord. And Abigail hasted, and arose, and gat her vp vpō an asse, with fyue damesels of hers, ꝑ went at her feet, and she wēt after the messēgers of Dauid, and became his wyfe. Dauid also toke Ahinoam of Jezrael, and they were bothe his wyues. But Saul gaue * Michol his doughter Dauids wyfe, to Phalti the sonne of Lais, which was of Gallim. 1. Reg. 3. c

¶ The. xxvi. Chapter.

Saul sleperh in his tent, and Dauid taketh away his speare, & a cruse of water ꝑ stode at his head.

THe ziphites came vnto Saule to Gibea, sayinge: Doth not Dauid hyde him selfe in the hil of Achila whiche is before Jesymon: Saul arose, & went downe to the wyldernesse of ziph, hauyng thre thousande chosen men of Israell with hym for to seke Dauid in the wyldernesse of ziph. And Saule pytched in the hyll of Achila chila, which lyeth before Jesimon by ꝑ wayes syde: But Dauid dwelt in the wildernesse. And he sawe that Saule came after him into the wildernesse. Dauid therfore sent out spies, & vnderstode, ꝑ Saul was come in very dede.

And Dauid arose and came to ꝑ place where Saul had pitched, and Dauid beheldе the place where Saul lay, and Abner ꝑ sonne of Ner whiche was his chefe captayne. Saul lay within, and the people and the hoost rounde about him. Then answered Dauid, and spake to Ahimelech ꝑ Hethite, and to Abisai the sonne of Zaruia, & brother to Joab, saying: who wil go downe with me to Saul to the hoost? And Abisai saide: I wyll go downe with the.

B And so Dauid & Abisai came downe to the people by nighte. And beholde, Saul lay sleping within the hoost, and his speare stacke in the grounde at his head. But Abner and the people laye rounde about him. Then said Abisai to Dauid: GOD hath delyuered thyne enemye into thine hande this daye. Nowe therfore, let me smyte him ones with my speare to the earth, and I wyll not smyte him the seconde tyme. And Dauid said to Abisai: destroy him not. For who can laye his hande on the lordes annointed, and be guiltlesse? And Dauid said furthermore: as sure as ꝑ LORD lyueth: the LORD shal smite him, or his day shal come, to dye: or he shal descende into battayle, and there perysshe.

C The LORD kepe me fro layinge myne hande vpon the Lordes annoynted. But take thou now ꝑ speare that is at his head, and the cruse of water, and let vs go. And so Dauid toke the speare & the cruse of water from Sauls head, and they gat them awaye, and noman saw it, or marked it, or awaked. For they wer al a slepe, because the LORD had sent a deade slepe vpon them. Then Dauid went ouer to the other syde, and stode on ꝑ toppe of an hyl a farre of (a great space being betwene them) and Dauid cryed to the people, & to Abner the sonne of Ner, saying: Heareſt thou not Abner? Abner answered, and sayd: what arte thou that cryeſt to ꝑ kynge? And Dauid said to Abner: art not thou a man? and who is lyke the in Israel? Wherfore then hast thou not kept thy Lord the kyng? For there came one of the folke in to destroy ꝑ kyng thy lord. It is not good that thou hast done. As truly as the LORD lyueth, *ye are worthy to dye, because ye haue not kept your master, the Lordes annoynted. And now se wher ꝑ kinges speare is, & the cruse of water ꝑ was at his heade. *1. Reg. 25

And Saul knew Dauids voice, and sayde: *is this thy voice my son Dauid? & Dauid said: it is my voice, my lord, O kyng. And he said: wherfore dothe my lorde thus persecute his seruaunt? for what haue I done? or what euyll is in myne hande? Nowe therfore let my lorde the kyng heare the wordes of his seruaũt. yf the LORD haue styrred the vp against me, let him smel the sauoure of a sacrifice. But and yf they be ꝑ children of men, cursed are they before the LORD. For they haue cast me out this day frõ abyding in the enheritaunce of the LORDE, saying: hence, & go serue other goddes. Now therfore let not my blonde fal to the earthe before the face of the LORDE. For ꝑ kyng of Israel is come out to hunte a flye, as when one doth hunt a partrige in ꝑ mountaines. Then said Saul: I haue synned: come againe my sonne Dauid, for I wyll do the nomore harme, because my soule was precious in thyne eyes this daye. Behold, I haue plaied the foole, & haue erred exceedigly. And Dauid answered, and said: Beholde the kynges speare, let one of ꝑ yongmen come ouer, and fet it. The LORD rewarde euery man accordyng to his righteou snesse & fayth: for the LORDE delyuered the into my hande this daye, but I woulde not lay myne hande vpon ꝑ Lordes annoynted. And beholde, lyke as thy lyfe was muche set by this day in myne eyes: so be my lyfe set by in ꝑ eyes of ꝑ LORD, that he delyuer me out of al tribulaciõ. Then Saul said to Dauid: Blessed art thou my sonne Dauid, for thou shalt be a doer, and preuayle.

And so Dauid went his waye, and Saul turned to his place againe.

¶ The. xxvii. Chapter.

Dauid flyeth to Achis king of Geth.

AND Dauid said in his hert: I shall perysshe one day or other by ꝑ hãd of Saul. Therfore is there nothig better for me, thẽ to flye & saue my selfe in ꝑ lande of the Philistines, and Saul shall ceasse, and seke me nomore in all the coastes of Israel, and so shall I escape out of his hande. And Dauid arose, and he and the syxe hundred men that were with him went vnto Achis ꝑ sonne of Nacho, kyng of Geth. And Dauid dwelt with Achis at Geth, both he and his men, euerye man with hys housholde, and Dauid with his two wyues, Ahinoam the Jezrahelite, and Abigail Nabals wyfe of Carmel.

B And it was tolde Saul that Dauid was fled to Geth, & he sought nomore for him. And Dauid said vnto Achis: yf I haue now foũde grace in thine eyes, let thē geue me a place in some towne in the feldes, that I maye dwel there. For why shoulde thy seruaunt dwel in the head cytie of the kyngdome wᵗ the? Then Achis gaue him zikleg ꝑ same day, for whiche cause zikleg perteineth vnto the kinges of Juda vnto this day.

C And the tyme that Dauid dwelt in the countrye of the Philistines, was foure moonethes and certayne dayes. And Dauid and his men wente vp, and ran vpon the Gesurites, the Gerzites and the Amalekites: For those naciõs were from the begynnynge the enhabitours of the lande, as men go to Sur, vnto ꝑ lande of Egipte. And Dauid smote the lande, & left neither man nor woman alyue, and droue away ꝑ shepe, ꝑ oxen, the asses, camels, and clothes & returned & came to Achis. And Achis saide: where haue ye bene a rouyng this day?

D And Dauid answered: Towarde the south of Juda, and towarde the south of the Jezrahelites, and towarde the south of the Kenites. And Dauid saued neither man nor woman alyue, nor suffred them to come to Geth, for feare (sayeth he) lest they shoulde tel on vs, saying: so dyd Dauid, and so wyl be his maner al the whyle he dwelleth in the countrye of the Philistines. And Achis beleued Dauid, sayinge: He abhorreth his people of Israell, and therfore he shalbe my seruaunte for euer.

The. xxviii. Chapter.

The Philistines moue warre against Saul, whiche seketh after an enchaunter.

A AND it chaunced in those dayes, ꝑ ꝑ Philistines gathered their hoost together to war, to fight with Israel. And Achis said to Dauid: Be sure, thou shalt go oute with me to the battayle, thou and the men ꝑ are with the.

And Dauid said to Achis: then thou shalte know what thy seruaunt can do. And Achis said againe to Dauid: Thē I wyl make the keper of my head for euer. * Samuel was then dead, and all Israel had lamented him, and buryed him in Rama his owne citye. * And Saul had put the womē that had spirites of prophecy and the southsayers out of the lande. And the Philistines gathered together, and came, and pytched in Sunem. And Saule gathered al Israel together, and they pitched in Gilboa: And when Saul saw the hoost of the Philistines, he was afrayed, & his hert was sore astonyed. And when Saul asked counsayle of the LORD: ꝑ LORD aunswered him not, neyther by dreames nor by Urim, nor yet by prophetes. Then said Saul vnto his seruauntes: * seke me a woman that hath a spirit of prophecye, that I maye go to her, and aske of her. And his seruãtes said to him: Beholde, there is a woman ꝑ hath a spirit of prophecye at Endor.

B And Saul chaunged him selfe, & put on other rayment, and then wēt he and two men wᵗ him, and they came to the woman by night. And he said: prophecy vnto me by the spirite, and bryng me him vp whom I shall name vnto thee. And the womā said vnto him: Behold, thou knowest what Saul hath doone, how he hath destroyed the women that had prophecying spirites, & the sorcerers out of the lande. Wherfore then sekest thou an occasiõ against my soule, that he maye kylme? And Saul sware to her by the LORD, saying: As surely as ꝑ LORD lyueth, there shal no harme chaunce the for this thing. Then sayde the woman: whome shall I set vp vnto the? He aunswered: Bryng me vp Samuel. When the woman saw Samuel, she cryed with a loude voice, and spake to Saul: saying: why hast thou disceyued me? for thou art Saul. And ꝑ king sayde vnto her: be not afrayed. What seest thou? The womā said vnto Saul: I se goddes ascendynge vp oute of the earth. He said vnto her againe: what fassion is he of? She aunswered: there cõmeth vp an olde man wᵗ a mãtel vpõ him. And Saule perceiued that it was Samuel, and he stouped with his face to the grounde, and bowed hym selfe. And Samuel sayde to Saul:

He refused, & said: I wyl not eate. But his seruauntes & the woman together compelled hym, and he harkened vnto their voice. And so he arose from the earth, and sate hym on a bedde. The woman had a fat calfe in the house, and she hasted, & killed it, & toke floure and kneded it, & dyd bake swete cakes therof, and brought them before Saul and before his seruauntes. And when they had eaten, they stode vp, and went away the same night.

¶ Dauid goeth with kyng Achis to fight against Saul.

THe Philistines wer gathered together with al their armyes vnto Aphec: And þ Israelites pytched in Iim, which is in Iesrahel. And the lordes of the Philistines wẽt forth with the hundredes and thousandes. But Dauid and his men came behinde with Achis. Then said the lordes of þ Philistines: what are põdre Hebrues? Achis said vnto the lordes of the Philistines: Is not this Dauid the seruaũt of Saul the king of Israel, which hath ben with me these dayes or yeres? I haue foũde no faut in him, syns he fled vnto me vnto this daye. And þ lordes of the Philistines were wroth wt hym, and said vnto him. Make this felowe
B returne, that he may goe againe to his place which thou hast appoynted him, and let him not go downe with vs to battayle, lest in the battayle he be an aduersarye to vs. For wherwith could he better obtaine the fauour of his master, then with the heades of these mẽ? Is not this Dauid, to whom they sang in daunces: *Saul slue his thousãde, 1. Reg. 18. d and Dauid his ten thousande? Then Achis called Dauid, & said vnto hym:
C Is sure as the LORD lyueth, thou hast ben honest and good in my sight, when thou wentest out and in with me, in þ hoost: neither haue I founde euil with the syns thou camest to me vnto this day: Neuertheles the lordes of þ Philistines fauour the not. wherfore now retourne, and go in peace, þ thou displease not the lordes of þ Philistines. And Dauid sayde vnto Achis: And what haue I done? what haste thou founde in thy seruaunt as longe as I haue bene with the vnto this day: that I maye not go fighte againste the enemies of my lorde the kyng?

Achis answered, and said to Dauid:
D I know that thou art good, and art in my sight, as an Aungel of GOD. Notwithstanding, the lordes of the Philystines haue said: Let him not go vp wt vs to battayle. Wherfore now, ryse vp earlye in the morning wt thy masters seruauntes that are come to the: and whẽ ye be vp early (as sone as ye haue lyght) depart. And so Dauid and hys men rose vp earlye to departe in the morning, and to retourne into þ lande of the Philistines. And the Philistines wente vp to Iesrahel.

¶ The. xxx. Chapter.

Dauid returnyng from fynge Achis / fyndeth zikleg burnt.

BVt when Dauid and his men were come to zikleg the thyrde daye, the Amalechites had ruſhed in vpon the ſouth, and vpō zikleg, and had ſmitten zikleg, and burnt it wᵗ fyre, and had taken the women (that were therin) pryſoners, both ſmal and great: but ſlue not a man, ſaue caryed them with them, and went their wayes. So Dauid and his mē came to the cytie: and beholde, it was burnt wᵗ fire, and their wiues, their ſonnes & theyr doughters were caried away. Then Dauid and the people that was with him, lyfte vp theyr voyces and wepte, vntyll they coulde wepe nomore. And Dauids two wyues were taken pryſoners alſo: Ahinoam the Jezrahelite, & Abigail the wyfe of Nabal ỹ Carmelyte. And Dauid was in a ſhreude combraunce: for ỹ people entended to ſtone him, becauſe the hertes of al the people were vexed for their ſonnes and theyr doughters.

But Dauid toke a good courage to him in the LORD his GOD, and * ſaid to Abiathar ỹ prieſt Ahimeleches ſon: I praye the bryng me the Ephod. And Abiathar brought the Ephod to Dauid. And Dauid aſked counſayle at the LORD, ſayinge: Shall I folowe after this companye: and ſhall I ouertake them: And he anſwered him: folow, for thou ſhalt ouertake them, and recouer the praye.

So Dauid and the fyre hundred men that were with him, wente, and came to the ryuer Beſor, where a part of thē abode. But Dauid and foure hundred men folowed: For two hundred abode behinde, beyng to werye to go ouer the ryuer Beſor. And they founde an Egipcian in the felde, and broughte hym to Dauid, * and gaue him bread to eate, and water to drynke, and gaue him a fewe fygges, and two cluſters of reyſynges. And whē he had eaten, his ſpirit came againe to him: for he had eatē no bread, nor dronke any water in thre dayes, and thre nightes. And Dauid ſaid vnto him: To whō belongeſt thou: and whence art thou? he ſayde. I am a yongman of Egipte, and ſeruaunte to an Amalechite: and my maſter left me behynde, becauſe it is thre dayes agone that I fel ſycke: we came a rouyng vpon ỹ ſouth of Chretus, and againſt Juda, and towarde ỹ ſouth of Caleb. And we burnt zikleg with fyre. And Dauid ſaide to him: canſt thou bryng me to this companye? And he ſayde: ſweare vnto me by GOD, that thou wylt neyther kyl me, nor delyuer me into ỹ handes of my maſter, and I wyll bring the to the companye. And when he had brought him thither, beholde, they lay ſcattered abrode vpon the earth, eatig and drinkynge, and daunſyng, becauſe of the plenteous and great pray ỹ they had caried awaye oute of the lande of the Philiſtines, and oute of the lande of Juda.

And Dauid layed vpon them from the euen vntyll the twylyght on ỹ morowe: ſo that there eſcaped not a mā of them, ſaue foure hundred yongmen, whiche rode awaye vpon camels, and fledde. And Dauid recouered all that the Amalekites had caried awaye, and Dauid reſcued his two wyues: ſo that there was no perſone of them lacking, ſmal or great, ſonne or doughter, or of the ſpoyle of all that they had taken awaye: Dauid recouered them al againe. And Dauid toke all the ſhepe, and the oxen: and they draue them before hys cattel, and ſaid: this is Dauids praye. And Dauid came to the two hundred men that were to werye for to folowe Dauid, whom they had made alſo to abyde at ỹ ryuer Beſor. And they came to mete Dauid, and the people that wer with him. And whē Dauid came to the people, he ſaluted them. Then anſwered al the wicked and the vnthryftes (of the men that went with Dauid,) & ſayde: becauſe they went not with vs, therfore wyl we geue them none of the pray, that we haue recouered. But let euery man take his wyfe and his children: Thoſe let them carye awaye and be walkynge.

Then ſaid Dauid: ye ſhall not doe ſo (my brethrē) with that which ỹ LORD hath geuen vs, and hath preſerued vs, and delyuered the company that came againſt vs, into our handes. For who ſhould hearken vnto you in this matter? * But as his parte is that goeth downe and fyghteth, ſo ſhall his parte be that taryeth by the ſtuffe, that it maye departed a lyde: And so from that day forewarde was that made a statute and a lawe in Israel, vntil this daye. When Dauid therfore came to zikleg, he sent (of the praye) of the praye vnto the elders of Juda, and to his frendes, saying: se, there is a blessing for you, of the spoyle of the enemyes of ꝑ LORD. He sent to them of Bethel: to them of south Ramoth: to thē of Jathir: to thē of Aroer: to them of Sephamoth: to thē of Esthemoa: to them of Rachel: to them of ꝑ cities of Jerahmeel: to them of the cityes of the Kenytes: to them of Hozma: to them of Bozasan: to them of Athach: to them that are in Hebron, and in al places where Dauid and his men were wont to haunt.

Saul fyllyth him selfe: and his children are slayne in the battayle.

THe *Philistines fought against Israel, and the mē of Israel fled away from the Philistines, and fell downe wounded in mount Gilboa. And the Philistines preased fore vpon Saul and his sonnes, and slue Jonathas and Abinadab and Melchisua Saules sonnes. And whē the battayle went fore against Saul, the archers wt bowes founde him, and he was fore afrayed of the archers. Then said Saul vnto his harnesbearer: *drawe out thy swarde, and thrust me thorowe therwith: lest these vncircūcised come and thrust me thorow, and make a mocking stocke of me. But his harnesbearer wold not, for he was fore afraied. And Saul toke a swearde and fel vpon it. And when his harnesbearer saw that Saul was deade, he fel lykewyse vpon his swearde, and dyed with him.

And so Saul dyed, and his thre sonnes, and his harnesbearer, and all his men, that same daye together.

And when the men of Israel ꝑ were on the other syde of the valley, and they of the otherlyde Jordan hearde that the men of Israel were put to flighte, and that Saul and his sonnes were dead, they left the cyties, and ranne away: and the Philistines came, & dwelt in them. * On the morowe when the Philistines were come to spoyle them that were slayne, they foūde Saul and his thre sonnes lying in mouṫ Gilboa. And they cut of his head, and stripped him out of his harnesse, & sent into the lande of the Philistines on euery syde, that they should publyshe it in the temple of their ydols, and among the people: and they layed vp his harnesse in the house of Astharoth, but they hāged vp his bodye on the wall of Bethsan.

*When the enhabitours of Jabes in Gilead hearde therof, what the Philistines hadde done to Saule, they arose (as many as were strong men) and went all nyght, and toke the bodye of Saul, and the bodyes of his sonnes, from the wal of Bethsan, and came to Jabes, & *burnt them there, and toke their bones & buried them vnder a tree at Jabes, and fasted seuen dayes.

The seconde boke of Samuel: otherwyse called the seconde boke of the Kynges.

The first Chapter.

The lamentacion of Dauid for Saul & Jonathas.

After the deathe of Saul, whē Dauid was returned frō the* slaughter of ꝑ Amalekites, & had ben two dayes in Zibleg: Beholde, ther came a man ꝑ thirde day out of the host frō Saule, wh his clothes rent, and earthe vpon hys heade. And when he came to Dauid, he fel to the earthe, and dyd obeysamce. Dauid sayed vnto him: whence commest thou? He sayed vnto hym: Out of the hoste of Israel I am escaped. And Dauyd sayed vnto hym: And what is chaunced? tel me. He said: the people is fled from the battaile, and manye of the people are ouerthrowē, & dead, & Saul and Jonathas his sonne are dead also:

And Dauid said vnto the yongmā, ꝑ tolde him these tidinges: how knowest thou that Saul and Jonathas his son be dead? The yong mā that tolde hym, answered: I came by chaunce to mōt Gilboa. And beholde, Saul leaned vpō his speare. For the charrettes and cōpanies of horsemē folowed hard after him. And when he loked backe he saw me, & called me. And I answered: here am I. And he sayd vnto me: what art thou? I answered him: I am an Amalekite. He sayde vnto me againe. Stande vpon me, and slaye me. For anguysshe is come vpon me, though my lyfe be yet al in me. And so I stode vpon him, & slue him, for I was sure that he couldē not lyue, after ꝑ he had fallen. And I toke the crowne that was vpō his heade, & the bracelet that was on his arme and haue broughte them hyther vnto my LORDE.

Then Dauid toke holde on his clothes* and rent them, and so dyd al the men that were with him. And they mourned and wepte, and fasted vntyll euen, for Saul & Jonathas his sonne, and for the people of the LORDE, and for the house of Israell, because they wer ouerthrowen with the swearde.

And Dauid sayde vnto the yong mā that brought him these tidinges: Whēce art thou? And he answered: I am ꝑ son of an aleaunt an Amalekite. And Dauid said vnto him: How is it that thou wast not afrayed, to laye thine hande on the Lordes annoynted, to destroye him. And Dauid called one of his yong men, & said: Go to, and runne vpō him. And he smote him that he dyed. Then said Dauid vnto him: thy bloude be vpō thyne owne head. * For thine owne mouthe hathe testifyed againste thee, sayinge: I haue slayne the Lordes annoynted.

And Dauid mourned with this lamentacion ouer Saul and ouer Jonathas his sonne, and bad teache the childrē of Israel the vse of the bowe. And beholde, it is wrytten in the boke of the righteous. (And he said: Consydre, O Israel, these that be dead and wounded vpon thy hie hilles) O noble Israel the wounded are slaine vpon thy hylles: Oh how are ꝑ mighty ouerthrowen? * Tel it not in Gath, nor publysshe it in the stretes of Askalon lest the doughters of the Philistines reioyse, and lest the doughters of the vncircumcised, triumphe. Ye mountaines of Gilboa, vpon you be neyther dewe nor rayne, nor vpon the feldes of offrynges. For there the shylde of ꝑ mighty is cast downe: ꝑ shilde of Saul, as though he had not ben annoynted with oyle. The bow of Jonathas and ꝑ swerd of Saul turned neuer backe againe empty, from the bloude of the slayne, and from the fatte of the mightye warriours.

Saul and Jonathas were louelye and pleasaunt in their lyues, & in their deathes they were not deuyded. They were swyfter then Egles, and stroger thē lyons. Ye doughters of Israel wepe ouer Saul, whiche clothed you in purple, with pleasures, and hanged ornamentes of golde vpon your apparel. How were ꝑ mighty slayne in battailes? Jonathas is dead on the hye hylles. Wo is me for the (my brother Jonathas) verye kynde haste thou ben vnto me. Thy loue to me was wondzefull, passynge the loue of women.

(As a mother loued her onely childe, euen so did I loue the.) O howe are the mighty ouer-throwen, and the weapons of warre destroyed!

¶ The. iii. Chapter.

¶ Abner commeth to Dauid, and bryngeth him his wife Michol. Joab killeth Abner.

THere was longe warre betwene the house of Saul, and the house of Dauid. But Dauid waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker. *And vnto Dauid were (fyue) childrē borne in Hebrō: his eldest son also was Ammō, of Ahinoam the Jezrahelite, the second Chileab of Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite: the thyrde Absalom, the sonne of Maachah the doughter of Thalmai, ꝑ kynge of Gessur: the fourth, Adonai the sonne of Hagith: the fyfth, Sephatia ꝑ sonne of Abital: the syxth, Jethream, by Egla Dauids wife. These were borne to Dauid in Hebron. And it fortuned, that whyle there was warre betwene ꝑ house of Saul, and the house of Dauid, Abner helde vp the house of Saul. And Saul had a cōcubine named Rizpa, ꝑ doughter of Aia. And Isboseth sayed to Abner: Wherfore haste thou gone in to my fathers concubine? Then was Abner verye wroth for ꝑ wordes of Isboseth, and sayde: Am I not a *dogges heade, whiche agaynste Juda do bewe mercy this daye vnto the house of Saule thy father, and to his brethren and frendes, and haue not delyuered the into ꝑ hāde of Dauid; and thou fyndest a faulte in me this day for this woman? *So and so do GOD to Abner. For as the LORD hath swore to Dauid, so wyll I be on his syde, to bringe the kyngdome from the house of Saule, that the throne of Dauid may be stablyshed ouer Israel, & ouer Juda, euē from Dan to Beersheba. And he could giue Abner neuer a word to answere, because he feared him.

C And Abner sent messengers to Dauid secretly, sayinge: Whose is the lande? Make a bonde with me, and beholde, myne hande is with thee, to bringe all Israell vnto thee. He sayde: It is good that I make a bond with thee. But one thynge I require of thee, that thou see not my face excepte thou fyrste bringe Michol Sauls doughter when thou comest to se me.

D And Dauid sente messengers to Isboseth Sauls sonne, sayinge: *delyuer me my wife Michol, whiche I maryed with *an hūdred foreskynnes of ꝑ Philistines. And Isboseth sent, and toke her from her husband *Paltiel the sonne of Lais. And her husbande went with her and came weepyng behynde her, tyl they came to Bahurim. Then sayd Abner vn to him: go and returne. And he returned. And Abner had comunication with the elders of Israel, saying: ye soughte for Dauid in tymes past, that he myght be your kynge. Nowe then do it: for the LORDE hath sayde of Dauid: By ꝑ hāde of my seruaunt Dauid I wyll saue my people Israell out of the handes of the Philistines, and out of the hande of all theyr enemyes. And Abner spake in the eares of Ben Jamin, and went to tell in the eares of Dauid in Hebron, all ꝑ Israell was contente with, and the whole house of Ben Jamin. And so Abner came to Dauid to Hebron, hauynge twentie men with him, and Dauid made hym and the men that were with hym a feast. And Abner sayde vnto Dauid: I wyll vp and go gather all Israell vnto my lord ꝑ kyng, that they may make an appoyntment with thee: and that thou mayest commaunde all, as thyne herte desyreth. And when Dauid had let Abner departe, he went in peace.

And beholde, the seruauntes of Dauid and Joab came from chasynge the robbers, & brought a great praye with them. But Abner was not with Dauid in Hebron: for he had sent him awaye to departe in peace. When Joab and all ꝑ host that was with him were come, me tolde Joab saying: Abner the sonne of Ner came to the kynge, and he hath sent him awaye, that he is gone in peace.

Then Joab came to the kynge, & sayde: what hast thou done? Beholde, Abner came vnto the, & why hast thou sent him away, that he should escape quit? Thou knowest Abner the sonne of Ner, for he came to disceyue thee, and to know thy outgoing and ingoinge, and to knowe all that thou doest. And whē Joab was come out from Dauid, he sente messengers after Abner, whiche brought hym againe from the well of Sira vnknowynge to Dauid. And when Abner was come againe to Hebron, Joab toke him Judic. 3.c a side in the gate *to speake with hym secretlye, & smote hym vnder the shorte ribbes, that he dyed: for the bloud of Asahel his brother. And when afterwarde it came to Dauids eare, he said:
f I and my kyngdome are gyltlesse before the LORDE for euer conterrynge the bloude of Abner the sonne of Ner. Let the bloude remayne on the head of Joab, and on all his fathers house, that the house of Joab be neuer without one or other that hath runnyng issues or lepre, & that leaneth on a staffe, and that doth fal on the swearde, & lacketh bread. And the cause why Joab & Abisai slue
2. Reg. 2. f Abner, was, þ Abner had* slayne their brother Asahel at Gibeon in battayle. And Dauid sayde to Joab, and to all the
2. Reg. 1. b people that were with him. *Rent your clothes, & put on sackecloth, & mourne before Abner. And kynge Dauid him selfe folowed the coorse. And when they buried Abner in Hebron, the kynge lyft vp his voyce, and wepte beside þ sepulchre of Abner, and so did all the people. And the kynge lamented ouer Abner, & sayde: dyed Abner as a foole dyeth? thy handes were not bounde, nor thy feete brought into cheines: but as a man falleth before wycked children, so fellest thou. And all they that were of þ people wept yet more ouer him.
G And when al the people came to eate meate with Dauid, while it was yet day, Dauid sware, saynge: So and so doe GOD to me, yf I tast bread, or ought els tyll the sunne be downe. And the people wyste it, and it pleased them. And what soeuer the kynge dyd, it pleased all the people. For all the people and al Israel vnderstode that daye, howe that it was not the kynges dede that Abner the sonne of Ner was slayne. And the kynge sayde vnto his seruauntes: know ye not, how that there is a lorde and a greate man fallen this daye in Israell? And I am this daye tender and annoynted kynge. And these men the sonnes of Zarui be to harde for me. The LORDE rewarde the doer of euyll accordyng to hys wickednesse.

¶ The. iiii. Chapter

¶ Baanah and Rechab slaye Isboseth the sonne of Saule.

WHen Sauls sonne hearde that Abner was dead in Hebron, his I handes were feble, and all the Israelites were afrayed: and Sauls sonne had two men þ were captaynes ouer the souldiers: the one called Baanah, and the other Rechab, the sonnes of Rimmon a Berothite of the children of Ben Jamin: for Beroth was reckened to Be Jamin. And these Berothites fled to Gitthaim, & sojourned there vntil þ same tyme. * And Jonathas Sauls
4. Reg. sonne had a son that was lame on hys feete. And he was fyue yere olde when the tydynges came of Saul and Jonathas out of Jesrahel. And his nurse toke him vp, and fledde awaye. And as she made haste to flye, the chylde fel, and began to halte, and his name was Miphiboseth. And the sonnes of Rimmon the Berothite, Rechab and Baanah wente, & came in the heate of þ day to the house of Isboseth, whiche slepte on a bed at noone. (And the woman that was the keper of the dore, and clensed the wheate, was a slepe.) C
And they came into the myddes of the house as though they woulde haue fetched wheate: and Rechab and Baanah hys brother smote him vnder the shorte ribbes, and fled. For when they came into the house, he slept on his bed in his resting chambre, and they smote him, and slue him, and beheded him, and toke his heade, and gatte them awaye thorowe the playne all the nyghte. And they brought the heade of Isboseth vnto Dauid to Hebron, and sayde to þ kyng: Beholde, there is the heade of Isboseth Sauls son, thyne enemye which sought after thy lyfe. And the LORDE hathe auenged my lorde the kynge thys day, of Saule and of his seede.
And Dauid aunswered Rechab and D Baanah his brother, þ sonnes of Rimmon

mon the Berothite, and saide vnto thē:
*as surely as the LORDE liueth, which hath deliuered my soule out of al aduersities: when one *tolde me, and sayd that Saule was deade, thynkynge to haue brought good tydynges, I caught him, and slue him in Zikleg: whiche thought that I woulde haue geuen him a re-warde for his tydynges bringynge.
How much more whē wicked mē haue slayne a ryghteous person, in his owne house, & vpō his bed: Shal I not require his bloude of your hande, and take you from the earth: And Dauid commaunded his yonge men, and they slue them, and cutte of their handes and fete, and hanged them vp ouer the poole in Hebron: But they toke ꝑ head of Isboseth, and buried it in the sepulchre of *Abner in Hebron.

¶ The. v. Chapter

¶ Dauid is yet agayne annoynted kynge, and taketh the arke from Syon.

THen came al the trybes of Israel
*to Dauid vnto Hebron, and said: Beholde, we are of thy bone and of thy flesche. And in time paste when Saule was our kyng, thou leddest Israel in and oute. And the LORDE hathe sayde to thee: thou shalt fede my people Israel, & thou shalte be a captaine ouer Israel. And so all the elders of Israel, came to the *kyng to Hebron. And king Dauid made a couenaunt with them in Hebron before the LORDE. And they annoynted Dauid kynge ouer Israell.
Dauid was thirtie yere old when he began to raigne, and he raygned fourtye yere. In Hebron he raygned ouer Iu-da seuen yere, and syxe monethes. And in Jerusalem he raygned thyrtye and three yeares ouer all Israel and Juda.
The kynge also and hys menne went to Jerusalem vnto the Jebusites, the enhabytours of the lande. Whiche spake vnto Dauid, sayinge: except thou take away the blynd and the lame, thou shalt not come in hyther. For they sayd: Thou art not able to come in hither. Ne nertheless, Dauid toke ꝑ strong hold of Sion. The same is ꝑ citie of Dauid. And Dauid sayd ꝑ same day: whosoeuer smyteth ꝑ Jebusites, & getteth vp to ꝑ gutters of ꝑ houses & smiteth ꝑ lame & blind ꝑ hate Dauids soule.* Wherfore, they said: ꝑ blind & the lame shal not come in ꝑ house. And so Dauid dwelt in ꝑ towre, & called it the cytye of Dauid, and buylte rounde aboute it from Millo inwarde.
And Dauid prospered and grewe, and the LORDE GOD of hoostes was with
hym. And Hiram kynge of Tyre sente messengers to Dauid, and Cedar trees, and Carpenters, and Masons for wal-les: and they buylte Dauid an house.
And Dauid perceyued, that the LORD C had stablyshed him kynge ouer Israell, and that he had exalted his kyngdome for his people Israels sake. And Dauid toke hym mo concubynes and wyues oute of Jerusalem, after he was come from Hebron, and mo sonnes & doughters were yet borne to Dauid. * And 1. Par. 3. b these be the names of the sonnes that were borne vnto hym in Jerusalem.
Sammua, Sobab, Nathan, and Salomon, Jibhar also, and Elisua, Nepheg.
& Japhia, Elisama, Eliada, & Eliapheiet.
But when the Philistines heard that they had annoynted Dauid kynge ouer Israell, they came all vp to seke Da-uid. And as soone as Dauid hearde of it, he gate hym to an holde. And when the Philistines came, they layed them alonge in the valleye of Raphaim.
* And Dauid asked counsayle of the 1. reg. 23. a LORDE, sayinge: Shall I goe vp to the 2. reg. 2. a Philistines: wylte thou deliuer them into myne handes: And the LORDE aunswered vnto Dauid: go vp, for I wyll doubteiesse deliuer the Philistines into thyne handes. And Dauid came to the playne of Perazim, and smote them there, and sayde: the LORD hath deuyded myne enemyes asondre before me, as waters be deuided a son-dre. And therfore the name of the place was called: The playne of Perazim.
And there they lefte their ymages, and Dauid and his men toke them vp. And the Philistines came yet agayne, and layed them selues in the valleye of Re-phaim. And when Dauid asked at the LORDE: (Shal I go vp against the Philistines? and wilt thou deliuer them into myne hande?) He aunswered: Thou shalte not go vp, but compasse them on the backside, and come vpon them ouer agaynst the peretrees. And when thou hearest the noise of a thynge goynge in the toppe of the peretrees, then remone. For then shall the LORDE go out before ther, to smyte the hoost of the Philistines. And Dauid did as the LORD had commaunded him

and

and smote the Philistines from Gibea, vntyll thou come to Gazer.

The.vi. Chapter.

The arke is brought forthe of the house of Abinadab. Uza is stryckē, and Dauid danceth before it, and is therfore despysed of his wife Michol.

3 AGayne, Dauid gathered togyther all the chosen men of Israell, euen thirtye thousande, and arose and went with all the folke that were with hym of the men of Juda to fet away frō thence the arke of GOD, whose name is called, the name of the LORDE of hostes that dwelleth vpon it, betwene the cherubins. And they putte the Arke of GOD vpon a newe carte, and brought it oute * of the house of Abinadab that was at Gibea. And Uza and Ahio the sonnes of Abinadab drawe the newe carte. And when they brought it out of the house of Abinadab that was at Gibea with the arke of GOD: Ahio wente before the arke. And Dauid and all the house of Israel played before ꝑ LORDE in sondry instrumentes made of Cedre woode, with harpes, psalteryes, tymbrels, fedles, and symbals. 1.Reg.7.a.

13 And when they came to Nachons threshyng floure: Uza put his hande to the arke of GOD, and helde it, for ꝑ oxen stombled. And the LORDE was wroth with Uza, and GOD smote hym in the same place for his faulte, and there he dyed before ꝑ arke of GOD: And Dauid was displeased, because the LORDE had smytten Uza. And the name of the place was called Perez: The renting of Uza, vntyll thys daye. And Dauid was then afrayed of the LORDE, and sayde: howe shal the arke of the LORDE come to me: And so Dauid wouldē not bringe ꝑ arke of the LORDE vnto him into the cytye of Dauid. But Dauid caryed it into the house of Obeth Edom, a Gethite. And ꝑ arke of the LORDE cōtinued in ꝑ house of * Obeth Edom the Gethite, thre monethes: and the LORDE blessed Obeth Edom, & al his houshold. And one tolde kyng Dauid how ꝑ the LORD had blessed ꝑ house of Obeth Edom & all ꝑ perteyned vnto him, bycause of the arke of GOD. And Dauid wente and brought the arke of GOD from the house of Obeth Edom, into ꝑ cytie of Dauid with gladnesse. (And there was with Dauid seuen formes of dauncers/and calues for sacrifice.) And when they that bare the arke of the LORDE had gone syx spaces, he offred an oxe and a fat shepe. And Dauid (played on harpe strynges/and) daunced before the LORDE with all his myghte, and was gyrded with a lynnen Ephod. So Dauid and all the house of Israell, brought the arke (of the couenaunt) of the LORDE, with shoutyng and trompet blowynge. 2.Sa.6.a

And it fortuned, that as the arke of ꝑ LORDE came into the cytie of Dauid, Michol Sauls doughter loked thorow a wyndow, and saw kyng Dauid spring and daunce before the LORDE: and she despised him in her herte. And when they brought in the arke of the LORD, they set it in his place, euen in the middes of the tabernacle that Dauid hadde pytched for it. And Dauid offred burntoffrynges and peaceoffrynges before ꝑ D LORDE. And as soone as Dauid hadde made an ende of offring burntoffringes and peaceofferynges, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD of hoostes, and gaue amonge all the folke, euen amonge the whole multitude of Israell, as well to the women as men, to euery one a cake of bread, and a pece of fleshe, and a flacket of drynke. And so all the people departed euery one to his house.

Then Dauid returned to blesse his houshold, and Michol the doughter of Saule came out to mete Dauid, & sayd: O how gloryous was the kynge of Israell this daye, which was vncouered to daye, in the eyes of the maydens of hys seruauntes, as yf it had bene a lyghte brayned felowe vncouered. And Dauid sayde vnto Michol: I thought to dance before the LORDE, whiche chose me rather then thy father, and all his kyn, & commaunded me to be ruler ouer al the people of the LORDE, euen ouer Israel. And therefore wyll I playe before the LORDE. And will be yet more vyle then so, and wyl be meke in mine owne sight: and of the very same maide seruauntes, whiche thou haste spoken of, shall I be had in honoure. Therefore Michol the doughter of Saul had no child, vnto the daye of her death.

The.vii. Chapter.

Dauid wolde haue builded God an house, but is forbidden of God.

IT fortuned, that as the kinge sat 1 in his house (after that ꝑ LORD had giuen him rest rounde about from from all his enemies) he sayd vnto Nathan the prophete, behold, I dwel now in an house of Cedar trees: but the arke of GOD dwelleth within the curtayne. And Nathan sayde vnto the kynge: go, and doe al that is in thine herte, for the LORDE is with thee.

And it fortuned the same nyght, that the worde of the LORD came vnto Nathan, saying: go, and tell my seruaunte Dauid, thus saieth the LORDE: shalte thou buylde me an house to dwell in? For I haue not dwelte in anye house synce the tyme that I brought ỳ childrē of Israel out of Egipte vnto this daye: but haue walked in a tent and tabernacle. In all ỳ places wherin I haue walked with al the childrē of Israel, spake I one worde with anye of the trybes of Israel (since I commaunded the iudges to fede my people Israel) sayinge: why buylde ye not me an house of Cedar trees? Nowe therfore, so saye vnto my seruaunte Dauid: thus sayeth ỳ LORD of hoostes. *I toke thee from the shepe coote (as thou wast folowynge shepe) ỳ thou myghtest be ruler ouer my people Israell. And I was with thee in al that thou wentest to, and haue destroyed all thine enemyes out of thy syghte, & haue made thee a greate name, lyke vnto the name of the greate men that are in the worlde. And therfore I wyll appoynt a place for my people Israell, & wil plant it, that they may dwel in a place of theyr owne, and moue nomore, neyther shall wycked people trouble them any more as they dyd at the begynnyng: syns the tyme that I set iudges ouer my people Israel. And I wyll gyue the reste from all thine enemyes. And the LORDE telleth the, that he wil make the an house.

And whē thy dayes be fulfylled, thou shalt slepe with thy fathers, and I wyl set vp thy seede after the, whiche shall proceede out of thy bodye, and wyll stablyshe his kyngdome. *He shall buylde an house for my name, and I wyll stablyshe the seate of his kyngdome for euer. *I wil be his father, and he shal be my sonne: *yf he synne I wyll chasten hym with suche a rodde as men be chastened with, and with suche plages as the childrē of mē be plaged with. But my mercy shall not depart awaye from him, as I toke it frō Saul, whom I put downe before thee. And thyne house & thy kyngdome shal endure without end after thee, *and thy seate shalbe stablished for euer. Ier. 33. a

According to all these wordes, & according to all this vision, dyd Nathan speake vnto Dauid. Then wente Dauid in, & set him downe before the LORD, & sayd: what am I, O LORD GOD? & what is my house? ỳ thou shouldest haue broughte me this farre forth? And this was yet a small thinge in thy syghte, O LORDE GOD, but thou haste spoken also of thy seruauntes house for a great whyle to come: For this is the lyfe of man, O LORDE GOD. And what can Dauid saye more vnto the? for thou, LORD GOD knowest thy seruaunt. Euen for thy wordes sake, and according to thyne owne herte hast thou done all these great thynges, to make thē knowen vnto thy seruaunt.

Wherfore thou arte great, O LORD GOD: for there is none lyke thee: * neyther is there anye god saue thou, according to all that we haue hearde with oure eares. *And what one people in ỳ erth is lyke thy people Israell? whose GOD wente and deliuered them, that they myght be his people, and that he myght make him a name, and to shewe greate and terryble thynges in the earthe, for thy people * which ỳ redemest to the out of Egypte: euen the people with theyr goddes. For thou haste ordeyned thy people Israel to be thy people for euer. And thou LORDE arte become theyr GOD: And nowe (LORD GOD) ỳ word that thou hast spoken concernynge thy seruaūt and his house, make it good for euer, and do as thou hast sayde. For so shall thy name be magnified for euer, & men that shall saye: the LORDE of hooste is the GOD of Israell: and ỳ house of thy seruaunt shalbe stablished before thee. For thou O LORD of hostes, GOD of Israell, haste tolde in the eare of thy seruaunte, sayinge: I wyll buylde the an house. Deut. 7. c. Deut. 4. a. Exod. 14. b

And therfore hath thy seruaūt found in his hert, to praye this prayer vnto thee. *Therfore now LORDE GOD, thou art GOD, & thy wordes must be true, thou ỳ haste tolde this goodnesse vnto thy seruaūt. And nowe go to and blesse ỳ house of thy seruaunte, that it maye contynue for euer before the, for thou LORD God hast spoken it: and wt thy blessyng shal ỳ house of thy seruaūt be blessed for euer. Deut. 31. f.

The

The.viii. Chapter.

Dauid overcommeth the Philistines.

A Fter this it foꝛtuned, that Dauid smote the Philistines, and subdued them, and tooke the bꝛydle of bondage out of the hand of the Philistines.

Num. 24. c. *And he smote the Moabites, and measured them with a lyne, and caste them downe to the grounde. Euen with two lynes measured he them whom he slue, and the length of one lyne saued he a lyue. And so became the Moabytes Dauids seruauntes, and payed tribute.

B Dauid smote also Hadaꝛezer the sonne of Rehob kynge of Zoba, as he went to recouer his boꝛdꝛe at the riuer Pherak. And Dauid toke a thousande and seuen hundꝛed hoꝛsemen of his hoost, and .xx. thousande fotemen, and cut of the hose of all his charethoꝛses, reseruyng onlye one hundꝛed charettes. And when the Syrians of Damascon came to succour Hadaꝛezer kynge of Zoba, Dauid slue of the Sirians two and twentye thousande men, and put souldiars in Siria Damascon. And the Sirians became seruauntes to Dauid, payinge trybute. And thus the LORD saued Dauid, in all that he went vnto. And Dauid toke the shyldes of gold that belonged to the seruauntes of Hadaꝛezer, and bꝛought thē to Jerusalem. And out of Beta, and Berothi (cyties of Hadaꝛezer) did Dauid bꝛynge exceadynge muche bꝛasse: (wherof Salomon made all the brasen vessell in the temple, and the brasen lauatoꝛye, and the pyllers, and the aultare,)

C 1. par. 19. c. *When Thoi kynge of Hamath herd howe Dauid had smytten all the hooste of Hadaꝛezer, he sente Joꝛam his sonne vnto kynge Dauid, to salute him wyth peace, and to blesse him bycause he had foughte agaynst Sadaꝛezer, and beate him: foꝛ Thoi had great war with Hadaꝛezer: whiche (Joꝛam) bꝛought with hym vessels of siluer, vessels of golde, & vessels of bꝛasse. Whiche bꝛasse kynge Dauid dyd dedicate vnto the LORDE, with the syluer and golde that he hadde consecrated of all nacyons, whyche he subdued: of Siria, of the Moabites, and

D of the childꝛen of Ammon, of the Philistines, and of Hamalecke, and of ꝑ spoile of Hadaꝛezer sonne of Rehob kynge of Zoba. And Dauid gat him a name after that he returned, and had smytten of the Sirians in ꝑ valley of Salte, eyghtene thousande men. *And he put kepers in Num. 24. Edom: euen thoꝛowout all Edom put he souldiers, and all they of Edom became Dauids seruauntes. And ꝑ LORD kepte Dauid whatsoeuer he toke in hād. And Dauid raigned ouer all Jsrael, and exeeuted ryghte and iustice vnto all hys people. And *Joab the sonne of Zarui 1. Kyn. 2. was ouer the hooste, and Jehosaphat ꝑ sonne of Ahilud was recoꝛder. And Sadok the sonne of Ahitob, and Ahimelech the sonne of Abiathar were the pꝛiestes, and Sarata was the scribe. And Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites and the Phelethites: and Dauids sonnes were chiefe rulers.

The.ix. Chapter.

Dauid restereth all the feldes of Saule, to Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas.

AND Dauid sayde: is there yet anye man left in the house of Saule, foꝛ I wyll shewe him mercye foꝛ Jonathas sake. 3

And there was of ꝑ houshold of Saul, a seruaunte whose name was Ziba, and when they had called him vnto Dauid, ꝑ kynge sayde vnto hym: arte thou Ziba? He sayde: Thy seruaunte is he. And the kynge sayde: remayneth there yet anye man of the house of Saul, whom I may shewe the mercy of GOD vpon? Ziba answered the kynge: *Jonathas hath yet 2. Kyn. 4. a sonne whiche is lame of his feete. The kynge sayde vnto him: where is he? Ziba sayde vnto the kynge: beholde, he is in ꝑ house of Machir the sonne of Amiel of 3 Lodeber. Then kynge Dauid sente, and fet him oute of the house of Machir the sonne of Amiel out of Lodeber. Nowe when Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas, the sonne of Saul, was come vnto Dauid, he fell on his face, and dyd reuerence. And the kinge sayd: Miphiboseth: He answered: Beholde thy seruaut. Dauid sayde vnto him: feare not, foꝛ I wyll surely shewe thee kyndnesse, foꝛ Jonathas thy fathers sake, and wil reC stoꝛe thee all the feldes of Saule thy father, and thou shalte eate bꝛeade on myne owne table continually. And he bowed him selfe, and sayde: what is thy seruaunte that thou shouldeste vouchsafe to looke vpon suche a deade dogge as I am?

Then ꝑ kyng called vnto Ziba Sauls yonge man, and sayde vnto him: I haue gyuen vnto thy masters sonne, all that pertained pertayned to Saul, and to all his house.

Se therfore that thou and thy sonnes, & thy seruauntes tyl the lande, and bring in, that *thy masters sonne maye haue foode to eate. But Miphiboseth thy masters sonne shall eate breade alwaye vpon my table. For Ziba had fiftene sonnes, and twenty seruauntes. Then sayd Ziba vnto the kynge: Accordynge to all that my lorde the kynge hath commaũded his seruaunte, so shall thy seruaunt do. Well (sayd the kyng,) Miphiboseth shall eate vpon my table, as one of the kynges sonnes. Miphiboseth had a son that was yonge, named Micha, and all that dwelled in the house of Ziba were seruauntes vnto Miphiboseth. And Miphiboseth dwelte in Ierusalem, for he dyd eate euer at the kynges table: *& was lame on both his fete.

¶ The. x. Chapter.

The messengers of Dauid are vilaynously entreated of the kynge of Moab.

IT happened after this, that the kynge of the childzen of Ammon dyed, and Hanon his sonne raigned in his stede. Then sayd Dauid: I wil shewe kindnesse vnto Hanon the sonne of Nahas, as his father shewed kyndnesse vnto me. And Dauid sent to cõfort him by the hande of his seruauntes, ouer (the dearth of) his father. And Dauids seruãtes came into the lãd of the childzẽ of Ammon, & the lordes of the childzen of Ammon sayd vnto Hanon theyr lord: thynkest thou that Dauid doth honour thy father, that he hath sent cõfortours to thee? Hath not Dauid rather sent his seruãtes vnto the, to searche the citie, and to spye it oute, and to ouerthrow it?
Wherefore Hanon toke Dauids seruauntes, and shaued of the halfe of euery mannes bearde, and cutte of their garmentes in the myddle, euen hard to the buttockes of them, and sente them awaye. When they tolde it vnto Dauid, he sent to mete them (for they were men exceedyngly ashamed) and the kyng said: tarie at Iericho vntyll your beerdes be growen, and then returne. And when the childzen of Ammon sawe, that they stanke in the syght of Dauid, they sente and hyred the Syrians of the house of Rehob, and the Sirians of Zoba twenty thousande fotemen, and of kynge Macha a thousande men, and of Istob. xii. thousande men. And when Dauid heard of it, he sente Joab and all the hooste of strong men. And the childzen of Ammõ came out, and waged battayle at ỳ entryng in of the gate, and the Sirians of Zobah, of Rehob, Istob, & Maacah were by them selues in the felde.
When Joab sawe that the fronte of the battayle was agaynst him, before & after, he chose of all the freshe yong men of Israell, and put them in aray against the Syrians. And the rest of the people he delyuered into the hãde of Abisai hys brother, that he myghte put them in araye against the chyldzen of Ammon. And he said: yf the Sirians be stronger then I, thou shalte helpe me. But yf the childzen of Ammon be to strong for the, I wyll come and succoure thee. Therfore quite the lyke a manne, and let vs stande styffe for our people, and for the cytyes of our GOD. And the LORD doe that whiche is good in his owne eyes.
And Joab proceded forth, and ỳ people that was with hym to fyghte wyth the Sirians. But they fled before him. And when the childzen of Ammon sawe that the Sirians were fled, then fled they also before Abisai, and entred into ỳ cytye. And so Joab returned from the childzẽ of Ammõ, and came to Ierusalem. And when the Sirians sawe that they were put to the worse before Israel, they gathered them togyther, and Hadarezer sent, and brought out the Sirians that were beyonde the riuer. And they came with theyr armye, and Sobah the captayne of the hooste of Hadarezer wente before them.
And when it was shewed Dauid, he gathered all Israel togyther, and passed ouer Iordan and came to Helam: And the Sirians set themselues in aray agaynste Dauid, and foughte with him: and the Sirians fled before Israel. And Dauid destroyed. vii. hũdred charrettes of the Sirians, and fourtye thousande horsemẽ, and smote Sobah the captain of their hooste, whiche also dyed there. And when all the kynges (that wer seruauntes to Hadarezer) sawe that they were put to the worse before Israell, they made peace with them, and serued them. And so the Sirias feared to helpe the childzen of Ammon any more.

¶ The. xi. Chapter

¶ The aduoutrye of Dauid with Bethsabe the wife of Vrias.

And

AND it came to passe that (after the yere was expired) in the time when kynges vse to go forth to battayle, Dauid sente Joab and his seruauntes with hym, and all Israell, whyche * destroyed the chyldren of Ammon, and besieged Raba. But Dauid taryed styll at Jerusalem. And it chaunced in an euenynge þ Dauid arose oute of his bed, and walked vpon the roofe of the kynges palace, and from the roofe he sawe a woman * washynge her selfe: and the woman was very beautifull to loke vpon. And he sente to enquire what womā it shoulde be, sayinge: is it not Bethsabe the doughter of Eliam, and wyfe to Vrias the Hethite? And Dauid sente messengers, & set her. And she came in vnto him, * & he lay with her. And (immediately) he was purified from her vncleannesse, and returned vnto her house. And the woman conceyued, and sent & tolde Dauid, & said: I am with child. And Dauid sent to Joab (saying:) send me Vrias the Hethite. And Joab lēt Vrias to Dauid. And whē Vrias was come vnto him, Dauid demaūded of him, how Joab did, & how the people fared, & how þ mē of warre prospered. And Dauid said to Vrias: go downe to thine house, and washe thy fete. And Vrias departed out of the kynges palace, and there followed him a seruice frō the kynges table. But Vrias slepte at the doore of the kynges palace: with al the seruaūtes of his lorde, & went not down to his house.

Whiche when they had tolde Dauid, (saying: Vrias went not downe into his house,) Dauid sayd vnto Vrias: Camest thou not frō thy iourney? why diddest thou not go down thē vnto thine house? Vrias answered Dauid. The arke and Israel and Juda dwell in pauilions: & my lord Joab and the seruauntes of my lorde lye vpon the flat earth: and shal I then go into myne house, to eate & drink, and lye with my wife? * By thy lyfe, and and by the lyfe of thy soule, I wyll not do this thinge. And Dauid sayde vnto Vrias: * tarye here this daye also, and tomorow I wil let the depart. And so Vrias abode in Jerusalem that day, & the morowe. And when Dauid had called him, he did eate & drinke before him, and he made him dronke. And at euen he wente oute to lye on his couche with the seruauntes of hys lorde, but wente not downe to hys house. On the morowe Dauid wrote a letter to Joab and sent it by the hande of Vrias. And he wrote thus in þ letter, saying: put Vrias in the fore front of the sharper battayle, and come ye backe from him, that he maye be smytten, and dye. So when Joab besieged the cytie, he assigned Vrias vnto a place, where he wyste that stronge men were. And the men of the cytie came oute, and foughte with Joab. And there were certayne ouerthrowen of the people, and of the seruaūtes of Dauid, & Vrias the Hethite died also.

Then Joab sente, and tolde Dauid al the thinges concernyng the warre, and charged the messenger, sayinge: when thou hast made an end of tellyng þ matters of the warre vnto the kynge, yf he begynne to fume, and saye vnto thee: Wherfore approched ye so nye vnto the cytie, when ye dyd fyghte? wyste ye not that they woulde hurle and shote from the wall? Who smote Abimelech sonne of Ierobaleth: * Dyd not a woman caste a peece of a mylstone vpon him from of the wal, & he dyed in Thebes: Why wēt you nie the wal? Then say thou: thy seruaunt Vrias the Hethite is dead also.

So the messenger wente, & came and shewed Dauid all þ Joab had sent him for: and the messenger said vnto Dauid: the men preuayled agaynste vs, & came oute vnto vs into the fielde, & we (with violence) stacke vnto them, euen vnto the entryng of the gate. And þ shoters shot from the walles vpon thy seruauntes, & some of the kynges seruauntes be dead. And thy seruaunte Vrias the Hethite is dead also. And Dauid sayde vnto the messenger: thus shalte thou saye vnto Joab: let not þ thynge trouble the. For (the chaunce of warre is diuers, and) the swerd deuoureth one as wel as another: make thy battayle more stronge agaynste the cytie to ouerthrowe it, and se that thou courage Joab. And when the wife of Vrias heard þ her husbande was dead, she mourned for hym. And when the mournyng was past, Dauid sent and fet her to his house, & she became his wife, and bare him a sonne. But this thynge that Dauid did, displeased the LORDE.

The. xii. Chapter.

Dauid is reproued for the slaughter of Vrias. The childe, conceyued in aduoutry dyeth. Aserui to Salomon borne.

And

1 AND the LORD sent Nathan vnto Dauid. And he came vnto him, and tolde him: there were two men in one citie ẏ one riche & the other poore: the riche man had exceding many shepe and oxen. But the poore had nothynge, saue one lytle shepe whiche he had bought, and nozished vp. And it grewe vp with him and with his childzē also, and did eate of his owne meate, & dzāke of his owne cuppe, and slept in his bosome, and was vnto him as his doughter. And there came a straunger vnto ẏ riche man. And he coulde not synde in his hert to take of his owne shepe, and of his owne oxen to dzesse foz the straūger that was come vnto him. But toke the poore mans shepe, and dzessed it foz the man ẏ was come to hym. And B Dauid was exceading wzoth with ẏ man, and sayde to Nathan: as surely as the Lozde lyueth, the man ẏ hath done this thig*is ẏ child of death. He shal restoze d Exo.22. Leui.6. ẏ lābe *soure folde, because he did this thynge, and had no pytie. And Nathan sayed to Dauid: thou art the manne. Thus sayth the LORD GOD of Israel: Reg.16 *I annoynted the kynge ouer Israel, and ryd the out of the hand of Saul, I gaue the thy masters house, & thy masters wyues into thy bosom, and gaue thee the house of Israel & of Juda, and might (ẏ that had bene to lytle) haue gyuen the so much more. Wherfoze thē haste thou despised ẏ commaundement of the LORDE to do wykednesse in hys sighte: thou haste killed Uzias the Hethite with the swerde, & hast taken his wyfe to thy wyfe, and haste slayne him with the swearde of the childzen C of Ammon.

Now therfoze the swerde shall neuer departe from thine house, bycause thou hast despised me, and taken the wyfe of Uzias ẏ Hethite to be thy wyfe. Wherfoze thus saith ẏ LORD: behold, I will

And Dauid sayed vnto Nathan: *I haue sinned against ẏ LORD. And Nathā said vnto Dauyd: the LORDE also hath put awaye thy sinne, ẏ shalt not dye. Howbeit, bycause in doinge thys dede, thou haste gyuē ẏ enemies of the LORD a cause to rayle, the childe ẏ is bozne vnto the, shal surely dye. And Nathan departed vnto his house. And the LORD stroke ẏ child ẏ Uzias wife bare vnto Dauid, & it syckened sozе. Dauyd therfoze besought GOD foz the childe, and fasted, and went in, & laye all nyght vpon the earthe. And the elders of hys house arose, & went to hym, to take him vp frō ẏ earth. But he would not, neither dyd he eate meate with them.

And it happened the seuēth day, that the child dyed. And ẏ seruaūtes of Dauid durst not tell hym ẏ the childe was dead. Foz they saied: behold, while the
E child was yet aliue, we spake vnto him, and he woulde not hearken vnto oure voice. How wyl he thē vexe him selfe, yf we tel him that the childe is dead? But Dauyd seing hys seruauntes whyspering, perceyued that the chylde was dead. And Dauid saied vnto his seruaūtes: is the childe deade? They said: yea. And Dauid arose from the earthe, and washed & annoynted hym selfe, & chaūged his apparel, and came into ẏ house of the LORD, and wozshypped, and afterwarde came to his owne house, and bad that they should set bzeade before hym, and he dyd eate. Then sayed hys
F seruaūtes vnto him: what thing is this that thou hast done. Thou diddest faste and wepe foz ẏ chylde, whyle it was alyue, & assone as it was dead, thou diddest ryse vp, and eate meate. He sayed: whyle the childe was yet alyue, I fasted, and wept: foz this I thought, who cā tel whether GOD will haue mercye on me, ẏ the child may lyue. *But now Leui.3.d. seinge he is dead, wherefoze shoulde I faste? canne I bzynge hym agayne any more? I shall go to hym, rather then he shall come agayne to me. And Dauyd cōfozted Bethsabe his wyfe, & wente in vnto her, and laye with her, and she bare a sonne, & called his name *Salomon, and the LORD loued him. And he sente by the hande of Nathan the pzophet, and called hys name * Jedidia, of the LORDES behalfe.

Bezaable Math. 1.a 1.par. 3. b

* Beloued of ẏ Lorde.

Joab sought againste Raba the citie of the childzen of Ammon, and toke the cytie of the kyngdome. And Joab sente messengers to Dauyd, sayinge: I G,i. haue

haue made assault to Raba, and haue taken the citie with waters. Nowe therfore gather the reste of the people together, and besiege ꝑ citie, that thou mayest take it, lest I take it, and call it after my name: And Dauid gathered al the people together, and went against Raba, and besieged it, & gat it. * And he toke their kynges crowne from of his head, whiche wayed an hundred weyght of golde, and in it were precious stones. And it was set on Dauids head: and he brought out the spoile of ꝑ citie in exceding great aboundaunce. And he caried out the people that was therin, & put them vpon sawes and vpon yron harowes, and vpon axes of yrō, and thrust them into the tyle kel. Thus dyd he with al the cities of the childzen of Ammon. And so Dauid and all the people returned vnto Jerusalem.

¶ The. xiii. Chapter.

Ammon Dauids sonne defyleth his syster Thamar, Absalom therfore killeth Ammon.

AFter this it chaūced, that Absalō ꝑ son of Dauid had a fayre syster, named Thamar, whom Ammon ꝑ son of Dauid loued: And he was so sore vexed that he fell sycke for ꝑ loue of his syster Thamar: for she was a virgin, & he thoughte it harde for hym, to haue his purpose of her. But Ammon had a frende called Jonadab, ꝑ sonne of Simeah Dauids brother: & Jonadab was a very wyse mā. And he said vnto him: how cōmeth it, ꝑ thou being ꝑ kynges sonne arte thus consumed euery daye: wylt thou not tel me? Ammon answered him: I loue Thamar my brother Absaloms syster. Jonadab sayde vnto him: laye the downe on thy bedde, and make thy selfe sicke. And when thy father is come to se the, saye vnto him: Oh, let my syster Thamar come, and geue me meate, & dresse it in my sight, ꝑ I may se it, and eate it of her hande.

B And so Ammon laye downe, & made him selfe sycke. And when the kynge was come to se him, Ammon said vnto him: Oh let Thamar my syster come, & make me a couple of frytters in my sight, that I maye eate of her hande. Then Dauid sente home to Thamar, sayinge: go nowe to thy brother Ammons house, and dresse him meate. So Thamar went to her brother Ammons house, and he was laied downe. And she toke floure, and made paste, and dressed fritters in his sight, & dyd bake them, and toke a platter, & poured them out before him: but he would not eate. And Ammon said: Haue out al me from me. And they went al out from him. And Ammō said vnto Thamar: bring the meate into ꝑ chamber, that I maye eate of thine hande. And Thamar toke the frytters, whiche she had made, and brought them into the chambre to Ammon her brother: And when she had set C them before him to eate, he toke her, & said vnto her: come lye with me my syster. And she aunswered him: naye my brother, doe not force me, for there hath no suche thing be done in Israel: do not thou this abhomination. For whither shal I be able to go with my shame? And thou shalte be as one of the foles in Israel. O speake vnto the kyng, and he shal not denye me vnto the.

Howbeit, he would not hearken vnto her voice, but toke her, and * forced her, Gen.34. Deut.22. and lay with her. And then Ammō hated her exceedyngly: so that the hate wherwith he hated her, was greater then the loue, with which he before loued her. And Ammon said vnto her: vp, and get the hence. She answered him: thou hast no cause. This euil that thou putteste me awaye, is greater then ꝑ other, that thou diddest vnto me. Neuertheles, he wouide not heare her, but called his boye that serued him, & sayd: put away this woman fro me, and bolt the doze after her. And she had a kyrtle D of dyuers colours vpon her: for w such were the kynges doughters (that were virgins) apparcled. Then his seruaunt brought her out, and locked ꝑ doze after her. And Thamar toke, & put ashes on her head and rent her gaye kyrtle ꝑ was on her, and layed her hande on her head, and so went: and as she went, cried. And Absalom her brother sayde vnto her: hath Ammō thy brother bene with the? Nowe yet be styl my syster: he is thy brother. Let not this thinge greue thyne heart. And so Thamar remayned desolate in her brother Absaloms house. But when kynge Dauid heard of al these thinges, he was very wroth. (And he would not vexe the spirite of Ammon his sonne, for he loued him, because he was his firste borne.) And Absalom sayde vnto his brother Ammon neyther neyther good noz bad. Howbeit, Abſalom hated Ammon, becauſe he had fozced his ſyſter Thamar.

And it happened after two yere, that Abſaló had *ſhepeſherers in ỳ plaine of Hazoz, beſyde the tryde of Ephzaim, and bad al the kynges ſonnes, & came to the kyng and ſaid: beholde, thy ſer-uaunt hath ſhepeſherers, let the kynge with his ſeruauntes come to thy ſer-uaunt: The king anſwered Abſaló: nay my ſonne. We wil not go al, noz be chargeable vnto the. And Abſalom lay ſoze vpon him: howbeit, he wouldc not go, but bleſſed him. Then ſaid Abſalom:
yf thou wylt not come, then let my bzo-ther Ammon go with vs. And ỳ kynge anſwered hym: what nedeth it, that he goe with thee? But Abſalom made ſuche inſtaunce, that he let Ammon and al the kynges childzen go with hym.

Now had Abſalom commaũded his yongmen ſaying: marke when Ammõs herte is mery with wyne, and when I byd you ſmyte Ammon, then kyl him: & feare not: haue not I bydden you: be bolde therfoze, and playe the men. And the yong men of Abſaló dyd vnto Ammon, euen as Abſaló had commaũded.
And al the kinges ſonnes aroſe, & euery man gat him vp vpon his mule, & fled:
And it foztuned, that whyle they were yet in the way, tidinges came to Dauid, ſaying: Abſaló hath ſlaine all ỳ kynges ſonnes, and there is none lefte alyue.
Then Dauid aroſe, and *tare his garmentes, and lay along on the earthe, & al his ſeruauntes ſtode by with theyz clothes rente. And Jonadab the ſon of Shimeath Dauids bzother anſwered & ſayd: let not my lozde ſuppoſe that they haue ſlayne al the yongmen ỳ kynges ſonnes, ſaue Ammon onely is deade.
Foz that hath bene determined in Abſaloms mynde, ſyns he fozced his ſiſter Thamar. Nowe therfoze let not my lozde the kynge take the thinge ſo grenouſlye, to thincke that all the kinges ſonnes are dead, ſaue Ammon onely is deade.

But Abſalom fled. And the yong mã that kept the watche lyfte vp his eyes, & loked. And beholde, there came much people by a waye, along by the hynder parte on an hilles ſyde. And Jonadab ſaid vnto the kyng: beholde, the kinges ſonnes come. As thy ſeruaunt ſaide, ſo it is. And as ſoone as he had lefte ſpea-kyng, behold, the kinges ſonnes came, & lift vp their voices, & wept. The king alſo & al his ſeruaũtes wept excedingly. But Abſalom eſcaped and wente to Thalmai the ſonne of Amihur kyng of Geſur. And Dauid mourned foz his ſon euery day. And ſo Abſalom eſcaped & went to Geſur, and was there thze yeres. And king Dauid deſired to go fozth vnto Abſalom: foz where as Ammon was deade, he was cõfozted ouer him.

¶ The. xiiii. Chapter.

By the wyſdome of the woman of The-koa, Abſalom is called againe.

IOab the ſonne of Zaruia perceiued, ỳ the kynges herte was to-warde Abſalom, and he ſente to Thekoa, & fette thence a wyſe woman, and ſaid vnto her: faine thy ſelfe to be a mourner, and put on mournynge apparel. And annoynte not thy ſelfe wt oyle.
But be as a woman that had lõg time mourned foz ſome dead bodye. And come to the kynge, and ſpeake of thys maner vnto him. And ſo Joab taughte her what ſhe ſhoulde ſaye.

And when the womã of Thekoa had fallen on her face to the grounde, and done obeyſaunce, ſhe ſayd vnto ỳ king:
helpe me, O kynge.

The kyng ſaid vnto her: what ayleth
the: She anſwered: I am a wyddowe, and my huſbãde is dead. And thy hãd-mayde had two ſonnes, and they two fought together in the felde (wher was no man to go betwene them) but ỳ one ſmote the other, and ſlue him. And be-holde, the hole kinred is ryſen againſte thine hãdmaide, and they ſaid: *deliuer Deu. 19.8 vs him, that ſmote his bzother: that we maye kyl him, foz the ſoule of his bzo-ther whom he ſlue. We wil deſtroye the heyze alſo. And ſo they ſhal quenche my ſparkle whiche is lefte, that he ſhal ſtyzre vp (to my huſbãde) neither name noz iſſue vpon the earthe. And ỳ kynge ſaid vnto the woman: go home to thine houſe, I wil geue a charge foz the. And the womã of Thekoa ſaid vnto ỳ king:
My lozde, O kyng, this treſpaſſe be on me, and on my fathers houſe, & ỳ kyng and his ſeate be giltleſſe. And the king ſayde: yf any man ſaye ought vnto the:
bzyng him to me, and he ſhal hurte the nomoze. Then ſayde ſhe: Let the kyng remembze his LORDE GOD, that the auenger of ꝑ bloude gather not on heapes together to destroye, and that they slaye not my sonne. And he aunswered: 1. Re. 14. g as sure as the LORD liueth, *there shal not one heere of thy son fal to ꝑ earth.

D The woman said: let thine handmaide speake one word more with my LORD the kyng. And he said: saye on. The woman said: wherfore then hast thou determyned suche a thynge agaynste the people of GOD? For the kynge dothe speake this thinge as one whiche is fautye, that he shoulde not fet home agayne his banished. For we must nedes dye, and perysshe as water spylt on the grounde, which cannot be gathered vp agayne. Neyther doth GOD spare any soule. Let the kynge therfore finde the meanes, ꝑ his banished be not vtterly expelled from him. Now therfore am I come to speake of this thing vnto the kyng my Lorde. For they ꝑ be of ꝑ people haue feared me. And thy hādmaide said. Now wil I speake vnto the kyng, peraduenture the kyng wyl performe the request of his handmayde. And the kyng shal heare his handemaide, to deliuer her out of the hande of the mā that would haue destroyed me, and also my sonne out of the enheritaunce of GOD. And thine handmayde saide: the worde of my Lorde the king shal now be comfortable. For my lord the kyng is as an aungel of GOD in hearing of good and bad: therfore the LORDE thy God be with thee.

Then the kyng answered, and sayde vnto the womā: hide not fro me (I pray the) the thing that I shal aske the: And the woman said: let my lorde the kynge now saye on. And ꝑ kyng said: Is not the hande of Joab with the in all thys matter? The woman answered, & said: 2. Reg. 14. b *as sure as thy soule lyueth my lorde kyng there is els noman (on the right hande nor on the left) but as my Lorde the kyng hath spoken, thy seruaūt Joab he bad me, and he put al these wordes in the mouth of thyne handmayde. For to the intent that I shoulde aulter my communication, hath thy seruaunt Joab done this thing. And my lorde is wyse euē as an Aungel of GOD to vnderstāde al thinges that are in ꝑ earth. And the kyng said vnto Joab: beholde, I am content to do this thing. Go and fet home the chylde Absalom agayne.

And Joab fell to the grounde on hys face, and bowed him selfe, and blessed ꝑ kyng. And Joab said: now thy seruaunt knoweth, that I haue founde grace in thy sight (my lorde, O kyng) in that the kyng hath fulfylled the request of hys seruaunte. And so Joab arose, and wēt to GESUR, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem. And the kynge sayde: let him turne to his owne house, and not se my face. And so Absalom returned to hys owne house, & saw not the kynges face.

But in all Israel there was not so goodly a man as Absalom, for he was very beautyful: insomuche that from ꝑ soule of his foote to the top of his head, there was no blemish in him. And whē he shaued his head (for at euery yeares ende he shaued it, because ꝑ heere was heuy on him, and must needes shaue it) the heere of his head weyed two hundred sycles after the kynges weyghte.

And this Absalō had thre sonnes borne him, & one doughter named Thamar: which was a fayre woman to loke vpon. So Absalom dwelt two yere in Jerusalem, and saw not the kynges face. Therfore Absalō sēt for Joab, to haue sent him to the king. But he would not come to him. And when he sent agayne, he would not come. Therfore he sayde vnto his seruauntes: beholde, Joab hath a parcel of lande fast by my place, & hath barly therin: go, & set it on fire. And Absaloms seruaūtes set it on fire. (And Joabs seruauntes came with their garmentes rent, & said: Absaloms seruauntes haue burnt the parte of lande with fire.)

Then Joab arose, and came to Absalom vnto his house, & said vnto hym: wherfore haue thy seruauntes burnte my felde with fyre? And Absalom aunswered Joab: beholde, I sente for the, desiring the to come, because I would haue sent the to the kynge, for to saye: wherfore am I come from GESUR? It had bene better for me to haue bene there styll. Nowe therfore woulde I se the kynges face. And yf there be any trespasse in me, kyl thou me. And so Joab came to the kynge, and tolde him: whiche when he had sent for Absalom, he came to the kynge, and fell to the grounde on his face before him. And the kyng kyssed Absalom.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

Absalom

Absalom maketh insurrection against his father. David is forced to flye for feare of him.

AFter this it foꝛtuned, that Absaló gat him charretes and hoꝛses, and fifty mẽ to runne befoꝛe him. And he aroſe vp early in ẏ moꝛnynges, and ſtode in the place of the entringe in of the gate. And euery man that had any matter, and came to ẏ kyng foꝛ iudgement, him did Absalom call vnto hym, and ſaid: of what citie art thou? He anſwered: thy ſeruaunt is of one of ẏ tribes of Iſrael. And Absalom ſayde vnto hym: ſe, thy matter is good and righteous, but there is no man deputed of ẏ kynge to heare the. Absalom ſayde moꝛeouer: Oh that I were made iudge in the lande, that euery mã which hath any ple and matter in the lawe, myght come to me, and that I might do hym iuſtice. And when anye man came nye to him and did him obeyſaunce, he put foꝛth his hande and toke him to him, & kyſſed him. And on this maner dyd Absalom to al Iſrael, that came to ẏ kyng foꝛ iudgement: and he ſtale the hertes of the men of Iſrael. And after fourtye yeares it foꝛtuned, that Absalom ſayde vnto the kyng: let me go now to Hebꝛó, and paye my vowe whiche I haue vowed vnto the LORD, foꝛ thy ſeruaunte vowed a vowe* (whẽ I was in Geſur, in the lande of Siria) ſayinge: yf the LORDE ſhall bꝛyng me againe to Ieruſalem, I wil ſerue the LORDE. And the kynge ſaid vnto him: go in peace. And ſo he aroſe, and wente to Hebꝛon.

But Absalom ſent ſpies thoꝛowout al the trybes of Iſrael, ſaying: as ſoone as ye heare the voyce of the trompet blowe, ye ſhal ſaye: Absalom raygneth king in Hebꝛó. And with Absalom wẽt two hundꝛed men out of Ieruſalem, ẏ were called. And they went with pure hertes, not knowyng of any thing. And Absalom ſent alſo foꝛ Ahithophel the Gilonite Dauids coũſailer, ẏ he ſhould come out of his citye Gilo, while he offred ſacrifices. And ther was wꝛought ſtrong treaſon. Foꝛ the people went, & encreaſed with Absalom in multitude. And there came a meſſenger to Dauid, and ſaid: the hertes of the men of Iſrael are turned after Absalom. And Dauid ſayde vnto all his ſeruauntes that were with him at Ieruſalem: vp, that we maye be gone, foꝛ we ſhall not eſcape from Absalom. Make ſpede, to departe, leſt he come ſodainly & catche vs, and bꝛyng ſome miſcheſe vpon vs, and ſmite the cytie with the edge of the ſwearde. And the kynges ſeruauntes ſayde vnto him: beholde, thy ſeruauntes are redy to do whatſoeuer my Lorde the kyng ſhal appoynte.

And the kyng and all his houſholde, departed on fote. And he lefte behynde hym * ten cõcubines to kepe the houſe. And ſo the kyng and al the people went out on fote, and taried in a place ẏ was farre of. And all his ſeruaũtes went about him. And al the Cerethites and al the Phelethites and all the Gethites (mighty men of warre) (euen fyre hundꝛed men whiche were come on foote from Geth) wente befoꝛe the kynge. Then ſayde the kynge to * Ithai the Gethite: wheꝛfoꝛe commeſt thou with vs? Returne and abyde with the kyng, foꝛ thou art a ſtraũger, and arte remoued from thyne owne place. Thou cameſt but yeſterday, and ſhoulde I diſquiet the to daye to go wt vs? I wyll go whyther I can. Theꝛfoꝛe retourne thou, & carye againe thy bꝛethꝛen. Mercye and truthe (ſhal the Lorde ſhewe vnto the.) And Ithai anſwered the kyng, and ſaide: as truly as GOD lyueth, and as my lorde ẏ kyng lyueth, in what place my lorde ẏ kyng ſhalbe whether in death oꝛ lyfe, euen there alſo wil thy ſeruaũt be. And Dauid the kyng ſaid to Ithai: come thẽ, and goe foꝛeward. And Ithai the Gethite went foꝛth, and al his men, and al the childꝛen that were with him. And al the countreye wepte with a loude voyce, and ſo dyd al the people that wẽt foꝛth. The kyng alſo him ſelfe paſſed ouer the bꝛooke Kydꝛon. And al the people went towarde the way that leadeth to the wyldernelſe. And Sadock and al the Leuites were with him, & bare ẏ arke of the appoyntment of GOD. And there they ſet downe the arke of GOD: And Abiathar went vp, vntill ẏ people were al come ouer, out of the cytie. And the kyng ſaid vnto Sadock: Carye the arke of GOD againe into the cytie. Yf I ſhal fynde fauour in the eyes of the LORD, he wyl bꝛing me againe, & ſhew me both it and the tabernacle therof. But and yf the LORD thus ſay: I haue no luſt vnto the, beholde, here am I: let him do with me, what ſemeth good in his eyes.

f The kyng saide also vnto Sadok the

The.xvi. Chapter.

¶ Siba bryngeth presentes to Dauid / doth falsely accuse Miphiboseth. Semei curseth Dauid / and hurleth stones at him. Absalom by ꝑ counsail of Ahithophel lyeth with his fathers concubynes.

ANd when Dauid was a litle paste
the toppe of the hil, beholde, Siba ꝑ seruaunt of Miphiboseth came to mete him, with a couple of asses sad-led, and vpon them two hundzed loues, & one hundzed bonches of reysynges, & an hundzed frayles of dzyed frygges, & a bottel of wyne. And the kynge sayde vnto Siba: what meanest thou wt these?
And Siba said: They be asses foz ꝑ kynges houshold to ryde on, and bzead & frute foz the yong men to eate: & wyne, that suche as be fainte in ꝑ wildernesse maye dzinke. And the kyng said: where is thy masters sonne? Siba answered vnto the kyng: beholde, he tarieth styll at Jerusalem. Foz he said: this day shal the house of Israel restoze me ꝑ kynge-dome of my father: then sayd ꝑ kynge to Siba: beholde, thyne are all that pertained vnto *Miphiboseth. And Siba said: 2.Reg.
I do homage to the: I beseche the, that I maye fynde grace in thy syghte, my Lozde, O kynge.

And when kyng Dauid came to Ba- 3 hurim, beholde, thēce came out a mā of the kinred of the house of Saul, named 2. Reg.
*Semei, the sonne of Gera, & he came out cursynge. And he cast stones at Da-uid, and at al ꝑ seruaūtes of kyng Da-
uid. And al the people also, and al ꝑ mē of war were on his right hande, and on his left. And thus sayde *Semei when Ex.
he cursed: come foz the, come foztb thou bloudchedder, and thou man of Belial.
The LORD hath bzoughte vpon the al the bloude of ꝑ house of Saul, in whose steade thou hast raygned, and ꝑ LORD hath delyuered the kyngdome into the hande of Absaló thy sonne. And beholde, thou art come to thy mischefe, because thou art a bloudchedder.

Then said Abisay the sonne of Zaru- c ia vnto ꝑ kynge: why doeth this dead dogge curse my lozde the kyng? let me go now and take of the head of him.
And the kynge said: what haue I to do with you, ye sonnes of Zaruia? let hym curse: foz the Lozde hathe bydden him curse Dauid. Who darre then saye: wherfoze hast thou done so? And Dauid said to Abisai, and to al his seruaūtes:
beholde, my sonne which came of myne doe it? Suffre him to curse, * foz ꝑ lozd 2.Reg.16 hathe bydden him: haply the LORDE wyl loke on my weping eyes and wzetchednesse, and do me good foz his cursynge this daye. And as Dauid and his men went by the way, Semei went along on ꝑ hilles syde ouer against him, and cursed as he went, & thzewe stones at him, and cast dust. And the kyng and al that were with hym came wery, and refreshed them selues *there. 2.Reg.17.

And

And Absalom and all the people of the men of Israell came to Jerusalem, and Ahithophel was with him. And as soone as Husai the Arachite Dauids frende was come vnto Absalom, he said vnto him: GOD saue the kyng, GOD saue the kyng. And Absalō said againe to Husi: is this the kyndnesse thou owest to thy frende? Why wentest thou not with him? Husai answered vnto Absalom: naye not so: but whome the LORD and this people and al the men of Israel chose, his wyll I be, and with him wyl I dwel. Moreouer, vnto whom shal I do seruice, but euen to his sonne? And as I was a seruaunt before vᵗ thy father, euen so shal I be with the. Then spake Absalom to Ahithophel: geue counsail what is best for vs to do. And Ahithophel sayd vnto Absalō, get the in vnto thy fathers *concubines, which he hath left to kepe the house. And al Israel shal heare, þ thou arte cast out of thy father: then shal the handes of al that are wᵗ the be strong. And so they pitched Absalō a tent vpō the toppe of the house. And he wente in vnto his fathers concubynes in the sighte of all Israel.

*2.reg.15.c. 16.d.

And the counsail of Ahithophel which he counsayled in those dayes, was as a man had asked counsayle of GOD: euē so was al the counsayle of Ahithophel, both with Dauid and with Absalom.

¶ The.xvii. Chapter.

Ahithophel seing his counsayle dysalowed of Husai, and forsaken, hangeth himselfe.

Ahithophel said to Absalom: let me chose out nowe twelue thousande men. And I wyl vp & folowe after Dauid this night. And I wil come vpon him whyle he is werye and weake handed, and wil feare him. And all the people þ are with him shal flye. And so I wyl smite þ kyng onely, & wil bryng againe al the people vnto the, euen as easely as yf I would bryng anye other thing. And when I haue slayne þ man whō thou sekest, al the people shal haue rest. And the sayinge pleased Absalom wel, and al the elders of Israell. Then said Absalō: cal also Husai þ Arachite, and let vs heare his counsayle. When Husai was come to Absalō, Absalom spake vnto him, sayig: Ahithophel hath geuen such counsayl: shal we do after his saying, or no: tell thou.

Husai answered vnto Absalō, þ counsayle that Ahithophel hath geuē, is not good at this time: For (said Husai) thou knowest thy father, and his mē, how þ they be stronge. And they be chafed in their myndes, and are euen as a *beere robbed of her whelpes in þ felde. Thy father is a man also practised in war, and maketh no tarying with þ people. Beholde, he lurketh now in some caue, or in some other, (stronge) place. And thoughe some of his men be ouerthrowen at the first brunt: yet they þ heare it, wyl say: The people that folow Absalom be put to þ worse. And the best men thou hast, whose hertes are as the hertes of lions, shal shrinke therat. For al Israel knoweth, that thy father is a myghtye man, and they which be with hym, are all men of warre.

*Pro.17.c.

Therfore my counsail is, that al Israel be gathered vnto the, frō Dan to Beersheba (whiche are as the sande of þ sea in numbre) & þ thou go to battail in thyne owne persō. For so shal we come vpon him in one place or other, where we shal finde him, & we wil fall vpon him euen as thicke as the dewe falleth on þ grounde. And of al the mē þ are wᵗ him, we shal not leaue him one. Moreouer, yf he be gotten in to a towne, then shal al the men of Israel bring ropes to that citie, & we wil draw it into the ryuer, vntyl there be not one stone founde there. And Absalom & al þ men of Israel said: the counsayle of Husai þ Arachite is better, then the counsail of Ahithophel. *For it was euē þ Lordes determinacion to destroy the good counsail of Ahithophel: þ the Lorde might bryng euil vpō Absalō. Thē said *Husai vnto Sadok & Abiathar þ priestes: of this and þ maner dyd Ahithophel & the elders of Israel counsayl Absalom. And thus & thus haue I counsayled. Now therfore sende quickly, and shew Dauid, saying: tary not al night in the feldes of the wilderneſſe, but get the ouer, lest þ kyng be deuourd & al þ people þ are wᵗ him. Now Jonathas & Ahimaas abode by the well Rogel: (for they might not be sene to come into the citie.) And a wench wēt, & tolde them. And they went & shewed king Dauid.

Esa.19.d.

2.reg.15.g.

Neuertheleſſe, a lad sawe them, and tolde it to Absalom. But they wente bothe of them away quickly, and came to a mans house in Bahurim, whiche had a wel in his yarde, into the which they went downe. And a woma toke & spred a couerlet ouer ꝑ welles mouth, and strawed fourmenty corne theron. And the thinge was not espyed.

And when Absalons seruauntes came to the wyfe, to ꝑ house, they said: Where is Ahimaaz & Jonathas? The woman answered them: they be gone ouer the lytle brooke of water. And when they had sought them, and coulde not fynde them, they retourned to Jerusalem.
And as soone as they were departed, ꝑ other came out of the well, and went & tolde kyng Dauid, and said vnto hym: vp, and get you quickly ouer ꝑ water, for suche coũsail hath Ahithophel geuẽ
f against you: Then Dauid arose, and al the people that were with him, & they wer come ouer Jordan by that it was day: so that there lacked not one of thẽ, that was not come ouer Jordan. And when Ahithophel saw, that his coũsail was not folowed, he sadled his asse, & arose, and gat him home to his owne house, and to his owne cytie, and pute his housholde in order, and hanged him selfe, and dyed: and was buryed in the 6 sepulchre of his father.

Then Dauid came to Mahenaim. And Absalom passed ouer Jordan, he & al the men of Israel with him. And Absalom made Amasa captaine of the host in ꝑ stede of Joab, which Amasa was a mannes sonne named Jethra, an Israhelite, ꝑ went into Abigail ꝑ doughter of Nahas, syster to Zeruia, Joabs mother. So Israel & Absalom pitched in the lande of Gilead. And when Dauid was come to Mahanaim, Sobi ꝑ

The. xviii. Chapter.

Absalom is ouercome in battayle. He hangeth by the heere in an oke. He is killed and put in a ditche. Dauid is so sorowful for the deathe of Absalom, that he wepeth.

And Dauid numbred ꝑ people that 1 wer with him, and set captaynes of thousandes and of hundzeds ouer them. And Dauid sente forthe the thirde part of ꝑ people vnder the hãde of Joab, and an other part vnder ꝑ hãd of Abisai ꝑ sonne of Zeruia Joabs brother, and the other thirde parte vnder the hande of Ithai the Gethite. And ꝑ kyng said vnto the people: I wil go w D you also. And ꝑ people answered: Thou shalt not go forth: for yf we flye, our aduersaries wyl not care for vs: neyther shal they regarde vs thoughe halfe of vs were slayne: but thou art worth ten thousande of vs: Wherfore it is better, that thou succour vs out of the citye.
And the king said vnto them: What semeth you best, that wyl I do.

And the kyng stode by the gate syde, 5 and al the people came out by hũdzedes and by thousandes, and the kyng commaunded Joab & Abisay, and * Ithai, 2. Reg. 18. Reg. 17. saying: entreate the yong man Absalõ gently for my sake. And al the people hearde that the kynge gaue al the captaynes charge concernyng Absalom.
And so ꝑ people wente out into ꝑ felde against Israel, & the battayle was in ꝑ wood of Ephraim, where the people of Israel were put to the worse before C the seruauntes of Dauid, & there was a great slaughter ꝑ day, euen of twentye thousande men. For the felde was fought there in diuers places, al abrode vpon the earth. And the wood deuoured mo people ꝑ day, thẽ dyd ꝑ swearde.
And Absalom came before the seruaũtes of Dauid, riding vpõ a mule, which caried him vnder the thycke boghes of a great oke. And his head was caught of the oke, & he was lyfte vp betwene heauen & earthe: & the mule ꝑ was vnder him went his waye. And one that C sawe it tolde Joab, saying: Beholde, I sawe Absalom hang in an Oke: & Joab sayde vnto the man that tolde hym: yf thou dyddest se him, why dyddest not thou there smyte him to the grounde, and I woulde haue geuen the ten sycles of syluer, and a gyrdle.

The man said vnto Joab: thoughe thou wouldest lay a thousande sycles of syluer in myne hãde, yet would I not stretche out myne hãde against ꝑ kynges sonne. For we hearde w our eares, when

when the kynge charged the, & Abiſai, & Ithai, ſayinge: Beware, þ none touche the yong man Abſalom. Moreouer, if I had done it, I ſhould haue done againſt myne owne lyfe: for there is no matter hyd from the kynge: yea, and thou thy ſelfe wouldeſt haue bene agaynſte me. Then ſayde Joab: I maye not ſtande thus tarying with thee.

And he toke three ſpeares in his hād, and thruſt them thorow Abſalom, while he was yet alyue on the body of þ tree. And ten ſeruauntes that bare Joabs weapons, turned and ſmote Abſalom, and ſlue him. And when Joab blewe the trompet, the people returned from folowyng Iſrael. For Joab ſpared the people. And they toke Abſalom, and caſt him into a great pyt in the woode, and layed a myghtye greate heape of ſtones vpon him. And all Iſraell fled to theyr tentes. And this Abſalom yet in his lyfe time *toke counſaile: and reared vp a pyller, whiche is in kynges dale. For he ſayde: I haue no ſonne. And therfore, to kepe my name in remembraunce do I it. And he called the pyller after hys owne name. And it is called vnto thys day: Abſaloms pyller. *ii. Reg. xviii.

Then ſayde Ahimaaz the ſonne of Sadok: let me runne nowe, and beare the kynge tydynges howe that the LORDE hathe iudged hym quite of the hande of his enemyes. And Joab ſaide vnto him: thou art no man to beare good tidinges to daye: thou ſhalte beare tydynges an other time, but to daye thou ſhalt beare none: becauſe the kinges ſonne is dead. Then ſayde Joab to Chuſi: goe, and tel the kynge, what thou haſt ſene. And Chuſi bowed himſelfe vnto Joab, and ranne. Then ſayde Ahimaaz the ſonne of Sadoc agayne to Joab: come what come wyl, let me alſo runne after Chuſi. And Joab ſayd: Wherfore wylt thou runne my ſonne, ſeynge that for the tydynges thou ſhalt haue no reward: wel (ſayde he) come what wyl, let me runne. He ſayd vnto him: runne. Then Ahimaaz ranne by the playne waye, and came before Chuſi. And Dauid ſat betwene the two gates. And the watchemanne wente vp to the roofe ouer the gate vnto the wall, and lifte vp his eies, & ſaw, and behold, there came a man running alone. And the watcheman cryed, & told the kynge. And the kynge ſayde: yf he be alone, there is good tydynges in hys mouth. And he came, and drew nie. And the watcheman ſawe another man runnyng, and he called vnto the porter, and ſaide: beholde, there commeth an other man runnyng alone. And the king ſaid: he is alſo a tydynges bringer. And the watchman ſayde: me thynketh the runnyng of the formoſt is lyke the running of Ahimaaz the ſonne of Sadok. The kynge ſayde: he is a good man, & cōmeth with good tydinges. And Ahimaaz called, & ſayd vnto the kyng: good tidinges, & he fel downe flat to the earth vpon his face before the kyng, & ſaide: bleſſed be þ LORDE thy GOD, whiche hath ſhut vp the men þ lyfte vp their hādes againſte my lorde the kynge. And the kyng ſayd: is the yong mā Abſalom ſafe: Ahimaaz anſwered: when Joab ſente (Chuſi) the kynges ſeruaunt, & me thy ſeruaunt, I ſawe muche ado: But I wot not what it was: And the kynge ſayde vnto hym: turne, & ſtande here. And he turned, and ſtoode ſtyll.

And beholde, Chuſi came alſo, & ſayd: Good tydynges my lorde the kynge, for the LORDE hath quite thee this day out of the hande of all them þ roſe againſte thee. And the kyng ſayd vnto Chuſi: Is the yonge man Abſalom ſafe: Chuſi anſwered: The enemyes of my lorde the kynge, & all that ryſe againſt thee, to do the hurte, be as that ponge mā is. And the kynge was moued, & went vp to a chambre ouer the gate, & wepte. And as he went, thus he ſayde: O my ſonne Abſalom, my ſon, my ſon Abſalom, would GOD I had dyed for thee: O Abſalom my ſonne, my ſonne.

¶ The. xix. Chapter.

¶ Dauid is reſtored to his kyngdom/ and broughte agayne to Jeruſalem.

AND it was tolde Joab: Behold, the kynge mourneth and wepeth for Abſalom. And the victorie of þ day was turned into mournynge vnto all the people. For the people hearde ſaye þ daye howe the kynge ſorowed for hys ſonne. And the people ſtale away þ day from goinge into the citie, as people cōfounded ſteale awaye when they flye in battayle. But the kynge hid his face, & cryed with a loude voyce: O my ſonne Abſalom, O Abſalō my ſonne, my ſon.

And Joab came into the houſe to the kynge, and ſayd: thou haſt ſhamed thys daye the faces of all thy seruauntes, whiche this day haue saued thy lyfe, & the lyues of thy sonnes & of thy doughters, and the lyues of thy wyues, and of thy concubynes, in ꝑ thou louest thine enemies, and hatest thy frēdes. For thou hast declared this day, that thou regardest neither thy lordes nor seruauntes. And this day I doe perceyue, ꝑ yf Absalom had lyued, and all we had dyed this daye, that had pleased the well. Nowe therfore vp, & come out, and speake kindly vnto thy seruauntes: For I sweare by the LORDE, excepte thou come oute, there wyll not tarye one man with the this night. And that will be worse vnto thee, then all the euil ꝑ fell on the frō thy youth vnto this houre. Then the kynge arose, and sat downe in the gate. And they tolde vnto all the people, sayinge: Behold, the kynge doth syt in the gate. And al the people came before the kyng. But Israell fled euery man to his tent.

And it fortuned, that all the people were at stryfe thorow out al the trybes of Israel, saying: the kyng saued vs out of the hande of our enemyes, he delyuered vs out of the hande of the Philistines, and nowe hens fled out of ꝑ land for Absalom. But Absalom whom we annoynted ouer vs is dead in battayle. Therfore why are ye so styll, ꝑ ye bryng not the kynge agayne? And kyng Dauid sent to Sadok & Abiathar the preistes, sayinge: speake vnto the elders of Juda and saye: why are ye behynde to bringe the kynge agayne to hys house, seynge that suche tydynges is come from all Israel vnto the kyng, euen to his house? (For the kynge had sayed. Thou shall ye saye vnto the people of Juda.) ye are my brethren, my bones and my flesshe: wherfore then are ye the last that bryng the kyng home agayne? And saye ye to Amasa: art thou not of my bone and of my flesshe? GOD do so & so to me, yf thou be not captaine of the hoost to me for euer in the roume of Joab. And he bowed the hertes of al the men of Juda, euen as the herte of one man: so that they sent this worde to the kyng: Returne thou with al thy seruauntes. So the kynge returned, and came to Jordan. And Juda came to Gilgal, for to go downe to mete ꝑ king, and to conuey him ouer Jordan. And 2.reg.16.b. Simei *the sonne of Gera, the sonne of Iemini, which was of Bahurim, hasted and came with the men of Juda to mete kynge Dauid, and there were a thousād men of Ben Jamin with him, and *Ziba 1.reg.14. the seruaunt of the house of Saul, & his xv. sonnes and twentie seruaūtes with him. And they went quickly ouer Jordā before the kynge. And there wente ouer a boate that caryed ouer the kynges housholde, and they dyd hym pleasure.

And Semei the sonne Gera fel before the kynge (as he was come ouer Jordā) and sayde vnto him: let not my lorde impute wickednesse vnto me, nor remembre the thynges that thy seruaunte dyd wyckedly (when my lorde the kyng departed out of Jerusalem) that the king shoulde take it to hert. For thy seruaūt doeth knowe, howe that I haue done amysse. And therfore beholde, I am the fyrste this day of al the house of Joseph, that am come to goe downe, to mete my lorde the kinge. But Abisai the sonne of Zeruia answered, and sayd: shal not Semei dye for this, bycause he cursed the LORDES anoynted? And Dauid sayde: what matter is betwene you and me, ye sonnes of Zeruia? For this daye ye be aduersaryes vnto me. Shall there any man dye this daye in Israel? Do not I knowe, that I am this daye kynge ouer Israel? And therefore the kynge sayde vnto Semei: thou shalt not die, and the kyng sware vnto him.

And Miphiboseth the sonne of Saul came also to mete the kynge, and hadde neyther washed his fete, nor shauen his beardе, nor washed his clothes from the tyme the kynge departed, vntyl he came againe in peace. And it fortuned ꝑ whē he was come to Jerusalē, & met ꝑ kyng, ꝑ king sayd vnto him: wherfore wentest not thou wt me Miphiboseth? He aunswered: my lord, O king, my seruaūt deceiued me. For thy seruaūt sayd: I wold haue myne asse sadled to ryde thereon, for to go to the kynge, bycause thy seruaunte is lame. And Ziba hath falsely reported of thy seruaunt vnto my lorde the kyng. And my lord the king is as an angel of GOD: do therfore what semeth good in thyne eyes. For all my fathers house were but deade menne before my lorde the kyng, and yet diddest thou put thy seruaunt among them that did eate at thine owne table. What ryghte therfore haue I yet, to crye anye more vnto the kynge. And the kynge sayde vnto him: why speakest thou yet in thine own cause? (It is determined, that) I haue sayd: thou & Ziba deuide the landes betwene you. And Miphibosheth sayde vnto the kynge: yea, let him take all: for so muche as my lorde the kyng is come againe in peace vnto his owne house.

And Berselai ꝑ Gileadite came down from Roglim, and wente ouer Iordan with the kyng, to conuey him ouer Iordan. Berselai was a very aged man, euē fourescore yere olde, and prouyded the kynge of sustenaunce, while he laye at Mahanaim: for he was a man of verye greate substaunce. And the kynge sayde vnto Berselai: come thou with me, and I wyl feede thee with me in Ierusalem. And *Berselai said vnto the king: I am thus olde, and howe am I able to goe vp with the kynge vnto Ierusalem? I am this daye fourescore yere olde: & can I deeerne betwene good & euyll? Hath thy seruaunt any taste in that he eateth or drynketh? Can he heare any more the voyce of syngynge men and women? Wherfore then shoulde thy seruaunt be yet a burthen vnto my lorde the kynge? Thy seruaunte wyll go a lytle waye ouer Iordan with the king, and why wil the kynge recompence it me with suche a reward? O let thy seruaũt turne back againe, that I maye dye in myne owne cytye, and (be buried) in the graue of my father and of my mother: Beholde, here is thy seruaunt Chimeam, let him go vp my lorde the kynge, and do to him what shall please the.

And the kynge answered: Chimeam shall goe with me. And I wyl do to him that thou shalte be content with. And what soeuer thou shalte require of me, that same will I doe for thee. And all ꝑ people wente ouer Iordan. And when the king was come ouer Iordā, he kissed Berselai, and blessed him, and he wente backe againe vnto his owne place. And then the kynge wente to Gilgal, and Chimeam went with him, and so dyd al the people of Iuda, and broughte ouer the kynge, and there were but halfe the men of Israell.

And beholde, all the men of Israell came to the kyng, and sayde vnto hym: why haue our brethren the men of Iuda stolen thee away, and haue brought the kinge and his houshold, and al Dauids men with hym ouer Iordan? And all the men of Iuda answered the men of Israel: the kyng is nere of kyn to vs: wherefore be ye angrye for the mattere thynke ye that we eate of ꝑ kynges cost, or that we take vs any gyftes? And the men of Israel answered the men of Iuda, and sayde: we haue ten partes in the kynge, and haue therto more ryghte to Dauid then ye. Why then dyd ye dispise vs, that our aduise shoulde not be fyrste had, in restorynge oure kynge agayne? And the wordes of the menne of Iuda were fearcer then the wordes of the men of Israell.

The. xx. Chapter.

¶ Seba the sonne of Bichri rayseth Israel against Dauid/ Ioab killeth Amasa trayterously. The heade of Seba is delyuered to Ioab/ Dauids seruyters are numbred.

When there came thither a certain man of Belial (named Seba, the sonne of Bichri, a mā of Semini) he blewe a trompet, and sayde: we haue no part in Dauid, nether haue we enheritaunce in the sonne of Isai, let the mē of Israel depart vnto their tentes. And so euery man of Israell wente from Dauid and folowed Seba the sonne of Bichri. But the men of Iuda claue fast vnto theyr kynge, from Iordan vnto Ierusalem.

And Dauid came to his house to Ierusalem, *and toke the ten women hys concubines, that he had left behynd him to kepe ꝑ house, and put them in ward, and fedde them: but laye no more with them. And so they were enclosed vnto the daye of their death, lyuynge in wydowehoode.

Then sayde the kynge vnto Amasa: call me ꝑ men of Iuda togyther against the thirde daye, and be thou here also. And so Amasa went to gather the men of Iuda togyther: but taried longer thē the time whiche he had appoynted him. And Dauid sayde to Abisai: nowe shall Seba the sonne of Bichri do vs more harme, then did Absalom. Take thou therfore thy lordes seruauntes and folowe after him, leste he get him walled cyties, and escape vs. And there wente oute after him Ioabs men, and the Crethites and the Phelethites, and all the myghtiest men. And they departed oute of Ierusalem, to folowe after Seba the sonne of Bichri. And when they were at the great stone in Gibeon, Amasa went

C And he went thorowe al the tribes of Israel vnto Abel, & Bethmaacha & al þ places of Barim. And they gathered togyther, & wēt after him. And they came, & besieged hi in Abel & in Bethmaacha. And they cast vp a banke against þ cytie that stode in the valley. All the people þ was wt Joab, thrust at the wal to ouerthrowe it. Then cryed a wise womā out of the cytie, heare, heare, bid Joab come hyther that I maye speake with hym.

f Whē Joab was come vnto her, the woman said: art thou Joab? he answered: I am he. She said vnto him: heare þ wordes of thine hādmaid. And he answered: I do heare: and she saide agayne. They spake in the olde tyme, saying: men must aske peace first, how much rather shuld they so do to Abel: For so haue they cōtinued (hitherto:) I am one of thē; that are peaceable and faythfull in Israel: & thou goest aboute to destroye a cytie & a mother in Israel. Why wilt thou deuoure the enheritaunce of the LORDE?

And Joab answered, and said: GOD forbyd, GOD forbyd it me, that I should eyther deuoure or destroye. The matter is not so: but a man of mount Ephraim (Seba the son of Bichri by name) hath lyfte vp his hande agaynste the kynge, euen againste Dauid. Deliuer vs hym onely, and I wyll departe from the cytie. And the woman said vnto Joab: Be Joab was ouer al the host of Israel. And Banaia the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites & Phelethites. And Aduram was ouer the tribute. And Jehosaphat þ sonne of Ahilud was recorder. Seua was scrybe. And Sadock & Abiathar were þ priestes. And Ira the Jairite was Dauids priest.

C The. xxi. Chapter.

Thre deare yeres. The vengeaunce of the sinnes of Saul lighteth on his. vii sonnes which are hanged. Foure great battayles whiche Dauid had againste the Philistines.

I Then there fel an hūgre in þ dayes of Dauid, three yeares togyther. And Dauid enquired of þ LORD. And þ LORD answered: it is for Saul, and þ house of bloud, bicause he slue the
1. Reg. 11. Gibaonites. And the kynge called the Gibaonites, and sayd vnto them: (Now the Gibaonites were not of the childrē Jose. 9. of Israel, but a remnaunte of the Amorites, and the childzen of Israell sware vnto them: And Saule soughte to slaye them: for a zele that he had to the childrē of Israel and of Juda.) Wherfore Dauid sayde vnto them: what shal I do for you, and wherwith shal I make the attonemente that ye may bielle þ enheritaunce of the LORDE?

The Gibaonites answered him: we wyll haue no syluer nor golde, of Saul, nor of his house: neyther is it our minde that thou shouldest kyll any man in Israel. He sayde: what saye ye then that I shal do for you: They answered the king the man that consumed vs and ymagined to bryngе vs to noughte, hym wyll we destroy, that nought of him continue in any of the coastes of Israel. Let seuen mē of his sonnes be delyuered vnto vs, and we wyll hange them vp vnto the LORDE, in Gibeah of Saule, whom the LORDE dyd chose. And the kynge sayd: I wyll gyue them you.

* But

But the kyng had compassion on Miphiboseth the sonne of Jonathas, the son of Saule, bycause of the LORDES othe, that was betwene them: euen betwene Dauid and Jonathas the son of Saul. But he toke the two sonnes of Rizpa ꝑ doughter of Aia (whome she bare vnto Saule) euen Armoni and Miphiboseth, and ꝑ fyue sonnes of Michol (ꝑ doughter of Saule) whom she bare to Adziel the sonne of Berzilai, the Meholathite. And he deliuered them vnto the handes of the Gibeonites, whiche hanged them in the hyll before the LORDE. And they fel al seuen togyther, and were slayne in the dayes of haruest: euē in ꝑ first daies, and in the begynnyng of barley haruest.

And Rizpa the doughter of Aia toke sackcloth and hanged it vp for them vpō the rocke, euen from the begynnyng of haruest, vntyll raine dropped vpon thē out of heauen: and suffered neyther birdes of the ayre to fall on them by daye, nor beastes of the felde by nyghte. And it was told Dauid what Rizpa ꝑ doughter of Aia the concubine of Saule had done: and Dauid went and toke the bones of Saul and of Jonathas his sonne frō the men of Jabes in Gilead (whiche had stollē them from the strete of Bethsan where the Philistines had hanged them, whē the Philistines had slayne Saul in Gilboa.) And he brought thēce the bones of Saul and the bones of Jonathas his sonne, and they toke vp the bones of them that were hanged. And ꝑ bones of Saule and Jonathas his son, buried they in the countrye of Ben Jamin in Zela, in the sepulchre of Cis hys father. And when they had performed all that the kynge commaunded, GOD was then at one with the lande.

It fortuned, that the Philistines had yet war againe with Israell. And Dauid went downe, and his seruauntes wᵗ him, and fought against the Philistines. And Dauid waxed fayntye, and Iesby of Nob one of the sons of the giaūtes (the yron of whose speare waied three hundred sicles, and he begyng gyrded wᵗ a newe swerde) thought to haue slayne Dauid. *But Abisai the son of Zaruia succoured him, and smote the Philistine, and kylled him. Then the seruauntes of Dauid sware vnto him, sayinge: Thou shalt go no more out with vs to battaile that thou quenche not the lyghte of Israell. And yet after this, there was a battayle with the Philistines at Nob, and then Sibbechai the Husathite slue Saph, whyche was one of the sonnes of the gyauntes.

And there was yet an other battaile in *Nob with the Philistines, where Elhanāꝑ son of Jaere Orgim, a Bethlehemite slue one Goliath a Gethite: ꝑ staffe of whose speare was as great as a weuers cloth beame. 1. par. 21.

And there was yet an other battayle in Geth, wher was a man of a great stature, and had on euery hand. vi. fingers, and on euery fote. vi. toes. xxiiii. in all. And was borne also of the kynred of the gyauntes in Geth. And when he defyed Israel, Jonathas the sonne of Simea the brother of Dauid slue him. These foure gyauntes were borne in Geth, and fel into the hande of Dauid, and into the handes of his seruauntes.

The. xxii. Chapter.

The songe of Dauid for his deliueraunce from his enemyes.

AND Dauid spake the wordes of this song vnto the LORDE, what tyme the LORDE had deliuered him out of the hand of all his enemyes, and out of the hand of Saule.

And he sayde: the LORDE is my rocke and my castell, and my deliuerer. GOD is my strength, in him wyll I truste: he is my shylde, and the horne of my saluacyon: my worshyppe and my refuge: my sauiour, ꝑ shalt saue me from wronge.

*I wyl call on the LORDE whiche is ꝓyse worthy, and so shall I be saued from myne enemyes. For the corrupcyons of death closed me about: ꝑ floudes of Belial put me in feare. The sorowes of hell compassed me aboute: the snares of death ouertoke me. In my tribulacīō wyll I call vpon the LORDE, and crye to my GOD. And he shal heare my voice out of his tēple, & my crye shall enter into his eares. The earth trembled & quaked: the foundacyons of heauen moued, and shuke, when he was angry. Psa. 17. a Smoke went vp in his wrath, and cōsumyng fyre out of his mouth, coales were kyndled therof. And he bowed heuen, and came downe, and there was darkenes vnder his fete. And he sat vpō Cherub and did flye, he was sene caried vpon the winges of the winde. He made darkenesse a tabernacle rounde about him.

him, with waters gathered together in thycke cloudes. Thorowe the bryghtnes of his presence were the fyre coales kyndled.

GOD thondred from heauen, and he that is most hye, doth put out his voice. He shot arowes, and scatered them: he hurled lyghtnynge, and ouerthrew thē. The flowinges of the sea appeared, and the foundatiōs of the world were sene, by the reason of the rebukynge of the LORDE, and thorowe the blastynge of ꝑ breath of his nostrelles. He shall sende from heauen, and fet me, he shall plucke me out of many waters. He shal delyuer me from my myghty aduersary, and frō myne enemyes, for they are to stronge for me. When they had ouertaken me in the daye of my calamitie, the LORDE stayed me vp. For he brought me out into roumth, he delyuered me, because he had a lone vnto me.

* The LORDE wyll rewarde me accordynge to my ryghtwysenesse: accordynge to the purenes of my handes wyll he recompence me. For I haue kept the wayes of the LORDE, and done no wickednes againste my GOD. For all his lawes are in my syght, and his statutes wil not I put away fro me. In his sight also haue I bene vndefyled, & haue kept me fro myne own iniquitie.

And the LORDE dyd to me agayne, accordynge to my ryghteousnesse, euen after my purenes in his eye syght. With the godly thou shalt be godly, and with the man that is vncorrupt, thou shalt be vncorrupte. With the pure thou shalte be pure, and wt the frowarde thou shalt be frowarde. And the poore people that are in aduersite, thou shalte helpe. And on the proude shalt thou cast thyne eies. Thou art my light O LORDE: ꝑ LORD shall lyght my darkenesse.

For with thy helpe I wyll runne thorowe an hooste of men, and in my GOD wyll I spring ouer a wal. GOD is vncorrupte in his waye: the worde of the LORDE is tryed in the fyre: he is ꝑ defender of all them that trust in him.

For who is a GOD saue the LORDE? and who is myghtye, saue oure GOD? GOD strengtheth me with power, and tryddeth the waye in battayle cleare before me. He maketh my fete lyke hartes fete, and setteth me faste vpon my hye holde.

* He teacheth my handes to fight, that euen a bowe of stele is to weake for myne armes. D Psa. 44.d

Thou hast gyuen me the shylde of thy saluatiō, and with thy louyng mekenes thou doest multiplye me. Thou shalte make me space to walke in, and my legges shal not fayle me. I wyll folowe vp on myne enemyes and destroye them, and turne not againe vntyll I haue cōsumed them.

I wil waste thē and smyte them, that they shall not be able to arise: yea, they shal fal vnder my fete.

Thou haste gyrded me aboute with myghte to battayle, and them that arose againste me, hast thou subdued vnder me.

And thou madest myne enemyes, (and them ꝑ hated me) to turne their backes to me, that I myght destroye thē. They loke for helpe, but there is none to saue them: yea, euen vnto the LORD do they crye, but he heareth them not.

I wyll beate them as small as the duste of the earth: I wyll stampe them as the dyrte of the strete, and wil spread them abrode.

Thou shalt delyuer me from the dyssencyon of my people: thou shalte kepe me to be a heade ouer nacyons: the people whiche I knewe not, shal serue me.

Straunge chyldren dissemble with me: At the hearynge of the eare they obeye me.

Straunge chyldren wyll shrynke awaye, and they shalbe smittē with feare, in their priuye chambre. GOD is alyue, and blessed be my maker: magnyfyed be GOD, my most stronge saluacyon. It is GOD that auengeth me, and bryngeth downe the people vnder me. He delyuereth me from myne enemyes, thou also shalte lyfte me vp on hye from thē that ryse agaynst me, thou shalt delyuer me from the wicked men.

And therfore I wyll prayse thee (O LORDE) amonge the nacyons, and wyll synge vnto thy name. Whyche sheweth greate saluacion for his kyng, and dealeth mercyfully with hys anoynted: euē with Dauid, and wyth hys seede for euermore. Psa. 18.d

¶ The. xxiii. Chapter.

The last communicacion of Dauid, and the description of the mighty men to him belongyng.

These

These be the last sayinges of Dauid. Dauid the sonne of Jsai said: And the man (which was made, the annoynted of the GOD of Jacob, & the noble Psalmist of Jsrael) sayde: the spirite of the LORDE spake by me, & his worde was in my tonge. The GOD of Jsrael spake of me, eue the most mighty of Jsrael, said: he that beareth rule ouer men, ought to rule iustely in the feare of GOD. And as the morninge lyght when the Sunne is vp, a morninge in whiche are no cloudes to let the bryghtnes, and as the grasse of the earth is by the vertue of the raine: Shall not my house be so with GOD. *For he hath made vnto me an euerlastinge couenaunt, parfyte and sure in al pointes: and this is truely al my health and al my desyre, þ it grow, but not as grasse. But the vngodly man of Belial shalbe as a thorne clean pluckt vp, whiche can not be taken with handes: But the manne that shall touche them, must haue yron, or a long helue. *Or elles must they be burnt with fyre in the same place.

These be the names of the mighty mẽ whom Dauid had: one that sat in þ seate of wisdome, beynge chiefest among thre, pleasaunte was he and stronge: he slue, viii. hundred at one time. After him was Eliazar the sonne of Dodi the sonne of Ahohi, one of the thre worthyes with Dauid, which defied þ Philistines that were there gathered together to battel: when the men of Jsrael were gone vp. He arose & layed on the Philistines vntil his hande was wery, and claue vnto þ swearde. And the LORDE gaue greate victorie the same daye. And the people (which had fled) returned, and wente after him to runne to the spoyle. After him was Samma the sonne of Age the Hararite: and the Philistines gathered together beside a towne, (where was a parcell of lande full of rice) and the people fledde from the Philistines. But he stode in the myddes of the grounde, and defended it, and slue the Philistines. And the LORDE gaue great victory.

* These thre (whiche were of the thirtie chiefe captaines) went downe to Dauid in the harueste tyme vnto þ caue of Adullam, and the hoofte of the Philistines abode in the valley of gyauntes. And Dauid was then in an holde. And the souldiers of the Philistines were in Bethleem. And Dauid longed and said: Oh, that I had of the water that is in þ well by the gate of Bethlehem, for to drinke. And the thre myghty brake thorowe the host of the Philistines, and fet water out of the wel of Bethlehem that was by the gate, and toke and broughte it to Dauid. Neuertheles he would not drink therof, but offred it vnto þ LORD, and sayde: the LORDE forbyd þ I shuld do so. Is not this the bloude of the men that went in ieopardy of their lyues? & therfore he would not drink it. And these thinges did these thre mighty men. *Asahel the brother of Joab, the sonne of Saruiah, was chefe amonge the three, and he lyfte vp his speare against three hundred, and slue them, and hadde the name among the thre. For he was nobler man then the three, and was their captayne. Howbeit he attayned not vnto (the first) three.

And Banaiahu þ sonne of Jehoiada, (the son of a myghtie man) valyaunte in actes, of Kabzeel slue two strong lyõs, eue lions of Moab. He went downe also, and slue a lyon in a pit in tyme of snowe. And he slue an Egyptiã a goodly bygge man, whiche had a speare in his hande. But he went down to him with a staffe, and plucked the speare out of the Egiptians hande, and slue him with his own speare. These thinges dyd Banaiahu þ sonne of Jehoiada, and had the name amonge the three worthyes. He was honorable amonge thyrtie, but he attayned not to the (fyrst) three. And Dauid made him of his councell. Asahel þ brother of Joab also was one of the thirty. Then Elhanã the son of Dodo of bethlehem: Samma the Haronite: Elica the Harodite: Helez þ Paltite: Ira þ sonne of Ikes the Thekoite: Abiezer of Anathoth, Mebonai the Husathite: Zelmon an Ahohite: Maharai, the Netophatite: Heleb the son of Baanah en Netophatite: Ithai the sonne of Ribai out of a hil of the children of Beniamin: Banaiahu the Phiratonite: Hedai of the riuer of Gaas: Abialbon the Arbathite: Asmaueth a Barhumite: Eliahba a Salbonite: and the sonnes of Jasen: Jonathas, Samma the Hararite. Ahiam the son of Sarar an Hararite. Eliphelet the sonne of Jasbai the sonne of a Maachathite: Eliam the son of Ahithophel the Gilonite: Hezrai the Carmelite

Paarai

Phaarai the Arbite: Igal ꝑ ſon of Nathā of Zoba: Bani ꝑ Gadite: Zelec an Amonite: Naharai a Berothite, whiche was the harneſbearer of Ioab the ſonne of Zeruia: Ira the Iethrite: Gareb the Iethrite: Uzia the Hethite, thyrtye and ſeuen in al.

The.xxiiij. Chapter.

¶ Dauid cauſeth the people to be numbred / and therfore is Iſrael plaged with peſtylence / ſo that in three dayes there dyed lxx. thouſande.

AND agayne, the LORD was wroth againſt Iſrael, and he moued Dauid againſte them, in that he ſayde: *go and numbre Iſrael and Iuda. For the kynge ſaid to Ioab the captayne of his hooſte: go thou abrode now, thorow out all the trybes of Iſrael, euen from Dan to Beerſeba, and numbre ye the people, that I maye knowe the numbre of them. And Ioab ſayde vnto the king: I beſeche the LORD thy GOD, to make thy people as many mo as they be: yea, and an hundred times ſo many mo, and that the eyes of my lorde the kyng maye ſe them. And what is the cauſe that my lord the kyng hath a luſt to thys thynge? Notwithſtandynge the kynges worde preuailed againſt Ioab, and againſt the captaynes of the hooſt.

And Ioab and the captaynes of the hoſt, went out frō the preſence of ꝑ king, to numbre the people of Iſrael. And they paſſed ouer Iordan, and pitched in Aroer on the ryghte ſyde of the cytye that lyeth in the myddes of the valleye of Gad ouer againſte Jazer. And then they came to Gilead, and to the nether lande, where was a newe habitacyon, & from thence they came to Dan Iaan about to Sidō, & came to the ſtrong hold of Tyre, & to all the cyties of ꝑ Heuites and of the Cananites, and then wente out to the South of Iuda euē to Beerſeba. And ſo, when they had bene abrod thorowe out all the land, they returned to Ieruſalem againe, after the ende of nyne monethes and tweuty daies. And Ioab delyuered vp the nūbre and ſūme of the people vnto the kynge. And there were in Iſrael eyght hundred thouſād men of myghte that drewe ſwearde. And the men of Iuda were fyue hundred thouſande men.

And Dauids herte ſmote hym, after that he had nūbred the people. And Dauid ſaid vnto ꝑ LORDE: I haue ſynned exceedyngly in that I haue done. And nowe LORDE take awaye the treſpace of thy ſeruaunte, for I haue done very foolyſhly. And when Dauid was vp in a morynge, the worde of ꝑ LORD came vnto the prophete Gad, Dauids ſear, ſayinge: go and ſaye vnto Dauid, thus ſayeth the LORDE: I offre the thre thynges, chooſe the which of them I ſhal do vnto thee.

So Gad came to Dauid, and ſhewed him, and ſayd vnto him. Wylt thou haue ſeuen yeres honger to come in thy land, or wilte thou flee three monethes before thine enemyes, they folowynge thee, or that there be three dayes peſtilence in thy lande? Nowe therfore adupſe thee, and ſee what aunſwere I ſhall gyue to him that ſent me. And Dauid ſaide vnto Gad: I am in extreme trouble. *We wil fall nowe into the hande of the LORDE, for much is his mercy, and let me not fal into the hande of man.

And ſo the LORDE ſent a peſtilence in Iſrael from the morynge vnto ꝑ tyme appoynted. And there died of the people from Dan to Beerſeba, ſeuenty thouſād men. And when the angell ſtretched out his hande vpon Ieruſalem to deſtroye it, the LORD had compaſſion to do that euell, and ſayde to the angell that deſtroyed the people: it is nowe ſufficient, holde thyne hande. And the angel of the LORDE was by the threſhynge place of Arefna the Iebuſite. And Dauid ſpake vnto the LORDE (when he ſawe the angell that ſmote the people) and ſaid: lo, it is I that haue ſynned, & I that haue done wickedly. But theſe ſhepe, what haue they done: let thine hande (I pray thee) be againſt me, and agaynſte my fathers houſe.

And Gad came the ſame daye to Dauid, and ſayde vnto him: go vp and reare an altar vnto ꝑ LORDE in the threſhing flowre of Arefna the Iebuſyte. And Dauid (according to the ſaying of Gad) wēt vp, as the LORDE commaunded. And Arefna loked, and ſawe the kynge and his ſeruauntes commyng toward him. And Arefna went out: and bowed hym ſelfe before the kyng, flatte on his face vpon the grounde, and Arefna ſayde: wherfore is my lorde the kynge come to hys ſeruaunt? Dauid anſwered: to bye the threſhynge flooze of thee, and to make an aultar vnto the LORD, that the plage plage maye ceasse from the people.

And Arefna sayd vnto Dauid: let my lord the king take & offre what semeth hym good in hys eyes: Beholde here be oxen for burnt sacrifice, & sleades, & the other instrumentes of ꝑ oxen for wood. All these thinges dyd Arefna geue vnto the kinge, and sayed moreouer vnto the kinge: the LORD thy GOD accepte the. And the kinge saied vnto Arefna: not so but I wyl bye it of the at a price, and wil not offre sacrifice vnto ꝑ LORD my GOD of that whiche doth coste me nothing. And so Dauid bought ꝑ threshing floure, and ꝑ oxen for fyfty sycles of siluer. And Dauid built there an aultare vnto the LORDE, and offered burntsacrifices, and peace offeringes. And so the LORDE was intreated for the lande. And the plage ceased from Israell.

¶ The ende of the seconde boke of Samuel: otherwise called the seconde boke of the Kynges.

The third boke of the kynges, after the rekenynge of the Latinistes: which thyrd boke and the fourthe also, is but one with the Hebrues.

¶ The fyrste Chapter.

The yonge virgyne Abisag keped Dauid in his extreme age. Adonia occupieth the realme vnwittinge to hys father. Salomon is annoynted kynge, and so Adonia getteth him a waye.

NOw kynge Dauid was olde & stryken in yeares: so ꝑ whē they couered him wt clothes, he caught no heate: wherfore his seruauntes said vnto him: let there her sought for my lorde the kynge a yonge mayden, to stande before the kyng, and to cherysshe hym. And let her lye in thy bosome, that my lorde the kynge maye get heate. And so they sought for a fayre damosell thorowe out al the coastes of Israel, and founde on Abisag a Sunamite, and brought her to the king. And the damosel was exceding fayre, and cherished the king and ministred to hym. But the kynge knew her not.

And Adonia the sonne of Hagith exalted hym selfe, sayinge: I wilbe king: And he gat hym charrettes & horsemē, & fyfty men to runne before hym. And hys father would not displease hym at any tyme, nor said so much to hi, as, why doest thou so? And he was a goodly mā, & his mother bare him nexte after Absalom. And he toke counsel at Joab ꝑ sonne of zaruia, and at Abiathar the priest. And they helped Adonia. But Sadock ꝑ priest, Banaiahu ꝑ sonne of Jehoiada, Nathan the prophete, Semei and Rei, and all the men of myght whiche were with Dauid, fauoured not Adonia. And Adonia sacrifyced shepe & oxen, & fat cattell, by the stone of zoheleth, which is fast* by ꝑ wel of Rogel, & called all hys brethren the kinges sonnes, and the men of Juda ꝑ kinges seruaūtes. But Nathan the Prophet, and Banaiahu, and the other valyaūt menne, and Salomon hys brother he called not. Iesu. 15. b

Wherfore Nathā spake vnto Bethsabe the mother of Salomon, sayinge: hast ꝑ not heard howe ꝑ Adonia ꝑ sōne of Hagith doth raigne, & Dauid oure lorde knoweth it not? Now therefore come, & I will gue the counsel, how to saue thine owne life, & ꝑ life of thy sōne Salomon. Go & get the in vnto kynge Dauid, and saye vnto hym: diddest not thou (my lorde O kynge) sweare vnto thy handmayde, sayinge: Salomon thy sonne shal raigne after me, & he shal syt vpon my seate: why is then Adonia king? Beholde, while thou yet talkest there with the kinge, I wyl come in after the, and confirme thy wordes.

And Bethsabe went in vnto the king into ꝑ chamber. And the kinge was very olde, & Abisag the Sunamite ministred vnto ꝑ king. And Bethsabe stouped & made obeysaūce vnto the kinge. And the king sayd: what is the matter? She answered him: my lord, thou swarest by the LORD thy GOD vnto thine handmayde: Salomon thy sonne shall raigne after me, and he shal sit vpō my seate. And beholde, nowe is Adonia kinge, and my lorde the kynge wotteth not of it. And he hath offred oxen, fat cattel, & many shepe, & hath called all ꝑ sonnes of the kynge, and Abiathar the prest, & Joab the captayne of the hoost.

But Salomon thy seruaũt hath he not bydden. And nowe my LORD (O king) ꝑ eyes of al Israel waite on the, ꝑ thou shuldest tell them, who ought to syt on the seate of my lord the king after him.
For els when my lorde the kynge shall slepe with his fathers, I and my sonne Salomon shalbe synners.

And whyle she yet talked with the kinge, Nathã ꝑ prophet came also. And they told the kinge saying: behold, here commeth Nathã ꝑ prophet. And when he was come in to the kyng he made o-beysaunce before the kinge vpon hys face on the ground, & Nathã sayd: My lorde (O king) hast ꝑ said, Adonia shall raigne after me, & he shall sit vpon my seate: For he is gone downe this day, & hath slayne many oxen, and fat shepe, and hath called all the kinges sonnes, &
the captaines of the hoost, & Abiathar the prest. And behold they eat & drinke before him, & say: GOD saue ꝑ king Adonia. But me thy seruaũt, & Sadocke the preste, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, and thy seruaunt Salomõ hath he not called. Is thys thyng done of my lord the kinge, and thou hast not shewed it vnto thy seruaunt, who shuld syt on the seate of my lord the kyng after hym:

Then king Dauid answered, & sayd:
cal, me Bethsabe. And she came in to ꝑ kinges presence, and stode before him.
And the kinge sware, sayinge: As true-ly as the LORD lyueth (that hathe ryd my soule out of all aduersitie) euen as I sware vnto the by the LORD GOD of Israel, saying: Salomon thy sonne shall raigne after me, & he shall sit vpon my seate for me, so wil I do thys daye.
Then Bethsabe bowed on her face to ꝑ earth, and did reuerence vnto ꝑ kinge, and sayd: I pray GOD ꝑ my lord kyng Dauid may lyue euer. And king Dauid said: call me Sadocke ꝑ prest, & Nathã the prophete, and Banaiahu ꝑ sonne of Jehoiada. And they came before the king. The kynge also sayd vnto them, take wt you the seruaũtes of your lord, & set Salomõ my sõne vpon mine owne mule, & cary him downe to Gihon. And let Sadocke ꝑ prest, and Nathan the prophet annoynte hym there, kynge ouer Israell. And blowe ye with tromppettes, and saye: GOD saue kinge Salomon. And then come vp after hym, ꝑ he maye come & syt vpõ my seat. For he shalbe king in my stead. And I will cõmaũd him to be captaine ouer Israel & Juda. And Banaiahu ꝑ sonne of Jehoiada answered the kinge, & sayd: Amẽ.
I praye GOD ꝑ the LORD GOD of my lord the kinge, saye so to. And as GOD hathe ben with my lord ꝑ king, euen so be he with Salomon also, & make his seat greater, then the seate of my lorde kinge Dauid hathe bene.

And so Sadocke the prest, & Nathã the prophet, & Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, & the Crethites and Phelethites wente downe, and set Salomon vpon kynge Dauids Mule, & brought him to Gihon. And Sadock the prest tooke an horne of oyle out of the tabernacle, & anointed Salomõ. And al they
of the people blewe trompettes, & sayd: GOD saue king Salomõ. And al ꝑ people came vp after him, pypynge with pipes, and reioysynge greatlye, so that the earth rang with the sound of them.

And Adonia and al the gestes that he had called vnto him, herd it, eũe as they had made an ende of eating. And when Joab heard the soũd of the trompet, he sayd: howe happeneth it that there is suche a noyse in the cytye? And as he yet spake: behold, Jonathas the sõne of Abiathar ꝑ prest, came. And Adonia said vnto hym: come in, for thou arte a valyaunt man, and bringest good tidinges.
And Jonathas answered & said to Adonia: Verely our lord king Dauid hath made Salomõ king. And ꝑ kinge hath sente with him, Sadock ꝑ prest, & Na-thã the prophet, & Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada & the Crethites, & the Phe lethites, and they haue set hym vpõ the kinges mule. And Sadock ꝑ prest, & Na than the prophet, haue anoynted hym king in Gihõ. And they cam vp againe, & reioysed, ꝑ the cytye did soũde againe.
And that is ꝑ noise that ye haue heard.
And Salomon sitteth on the seate of the kingdome. And moreouer ꝑ kinges seruaũtes came to blesse our lord king Dauid, sayinge: thy GOD make the name of Salomon more honorable then thy name, & make hys seate greater thẽ thy seate. And ꝑ kig bowed him selfe vpon the bedde. And thus sayde the kynge: Blessed be the LORD GOD of

of Israell: which hath made one to syt on my seate this day, myne eye seing it.

And al the gestes that were with Adonia were afrayed, & rose vp, & wente euery man his waye. And Adonia fearyng the presence of Salomon, arose, & wente (into the tabernacle of the Lorde) and caught holde on the hornes of the altare. And one tolde Salomon, sayinge: Beholde, Adonia doth fear kynge Salomon: for he hath* caught hold on the hornes of the altare, sayinge: let kynge Salomon sweare vnto me thys daye that he wyll not slaye hys seruaunte with the swearde.

And Salomon sayed, yf he wylbee a childe of vertue, there shal not an heere of hym fal to ỳ earthe: But & if wickednes be founde in hym, he shal dye. And so kinge Salomō sent, & they brought him from the altare. And he came and dyd obeysaunce vnto kinge Salomon. And Salomon sayd vnto hym, get thee to thyne house,

¶ The. ii. Chapter.

Dauid dyeth. Adonia requyreth to haue Abisag to his concubyne, and therfore Salomō commaundeth to slay hym. Abiathar is put from hys priesthode. Semei and Joab are slayne.

I THe dayes of Dauid drew nie that he shulde dye, & he charged Salomon his sonne, sayinge: I go the way of al ỳ worlde, *be thou strong therfore, and shewe thy selfe a manne. Iosu. 1.b 1.Sa. 2.1.b Deu. 31.f. Kepe thou the watch of the LORD thy GOD, that thou walcke in hys wayes, and kepe hys statutes, & hys preceptes, his iudgementes, and his testimonies, euen as it is written in ỳ lawe of Moses: that thou mayest prosper in al that thou doest, and in euery thing that thou medlest withal.

That the LORD also may make good hys worde whiche he spake vnto me, sayinge: if thy childrē take hede to theyr waye, ỳ they walke before me in trueth, wyth all theyr hertes, and with al their soules, *then shalt thou not be without a man on the seate of Israell. 1.Reg. 9.b

*Moreouer, thou wotest, how Joab ỳ sonne of Zaruia serued me, & what he dyde to the two capitaines of ỳ hostes of Israel: vnto Abner the sonne of Ner, and vnto Amasa ỳ sone of Jether, whō he slue, & shed bloude in tyme of peace (euen as it had ben in warre) & put the bloud of warre vpon his girdle ỳ was about his loines, and in his shoes that were on his fete. Deale with him therfore accordynge to thy wysedome, and bring not hys hoore head downe to the graue in peace. *But shew kindnes vnto the sonnes of Berselai the Gileadite, that they maye eate at thy table. For they came to me, when I fled from Absolom thy brother. B 2.reg.19.f.

*And beholde, thou haste with the Semei the sonne of Gera, the sonne of Gemini, of Bahurim, which cursed me with an horrible curse in the day when I went to Mahanahim. But he came to mete me at Jordane, and I sware to hym by the LORD, sayinge: I wyll not slaye the with the swearde: but thou shalt not coūt him as vngilty. For thou arte a man of wysedome, and knowest what thou oughtest to do vnto hym. His hoore head shalt thou bring to the graue with bloude. 2.reg.16.dg

And so* Dauyd slept with hys fathers, & was buryed in the cytie of Dauid. And ỳ daies which Dauid raigned vpon Israel, were fortye yeares: seuen yeares raigned he in Hebron: & thirtye & thre yeares raigned he in Jerusalem. Actes.2.c.

*Then sat Salomon vpon the seate of Dauid his father, & his kingdome was stablished myghtelye. And Adonia the sonne of Hagith cam to Bethsabe the mother of Salomō. And she sayd: *Comest thou peaceably? And he saied peaceably. He said moreouer: I haue somwhat to say vnto the. She said: say on. And he saied, thou knowest ỳ the kingdom was mine, & that al Israel set their faces on me, ỳ I shuld raigne, howbeit the kingdome is turned away, and geuen to my brother: for it is apoynted hi of the LORD: & now I aske a petitiō of the: deny me not. And she said vnto him: Say on. And he sayd: Speake, I pray the, vnto Salomon ỳ kinge, for he wyl not say the nay, that he geue me Abisag the sunamite to wyfe. And Bethsabe saied: well, I wyll speake for the vnto the kinge. C 1.par.29.f 1.reg.1.b

Bethsabe therfore went vnto kinge Salomon, to speake vnto him for Adonia. And the king rose vp to mete her & bowed him selfe vnto her, and sat hym downe on hys seate. And there was a seate set for ỳ kinges mother, & she sate on his right side. Then she said: I desire a lytell peticion of the, I praye the saye D me not nay. And the kynge sayed vnto her: Aske on my mother, for I wyl not saye the naye. She sayd: let Abisag the Sunamite be geuē to Adonia thy brother to wife. And king Salomō answered & sayd vnto hys mother: why dost thou aske Abisag the Sunamit for Adonia? aske for hym the kingdome also: for he is myne elder brother, and hathe for hym Abiathar the preiste, & Joab ꝑ sonne of Zaruia. Then kynge Salomon sware by the LORD, saying: GOD do so, and so to me, if Adonia hath not spoken thys worde agaynst hys owne life. Now therfore as truly as ꝑ LORD lyueth, whiche hathe ordeyned me, and set me on the seat of Dauyd my father, and made me an house as he promised, Adonia shal dye this daye. And kynge Salomon sent by the hande of Banaiahu ꝑ sonne of Jehoiada, and he smote hym that he dyed.

And vnto Abiathar the preist, sayd ꝑ king: get ꝑ to Anatoth vnto thine owne feldes: for thou art worthy of deathe: but I wyl not at this tyme kyll the, because thou baredst the arke of the LORD GOD before Dauyd my father, and because thou hast suffered with my father in al his afflictions. And so Salomō put awaye Abiathar from beynge preist vnto the LORDE: ꝑ he myght fulfyll the wordes of the LORD which he spake ouer ꝑ house of Eli in Silo. Thē tydynges came also to Joab: for Joab had turned after Adonia though he turned not after Absalō. And Joab fled vnto the tabernacle of the LORD, & caught holde on the hornes of the altare. And it was tolde kynge Salomon, howe ꝑ Joab fled vnto ꝑ tabernacle of ꝑ LORD & stode by the altare. Then Salomon sent Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, saying: go and fall vpon hym.

And Banaiahu came to the Tabernacle of the LORD, and sayd vnto hym. Thus sayeth the kyng: come out. And he sayd: naye, but I wyl dye euen here. And Banaiahu brought the king word agayne, sayinge: thus sayd Joab, and thus he answered me.

And the kynge sayed. Do euen as he hathe sayd: smite hym, & bury him, that thou mayest take away ꝑ blond which Joab shed causeles, from me, and from the house of my father. And the LORD shall bringe hys bloude vpon hys owne head, for he smote two men righteuser & better thē he, & slue them with ꝑ swearde, my father Dauyd not knowinge thereof: euē Abner ꝑ sonne of Ner, captain of ꝑ hooste of Israel, & Amasa ꝑ sonne of Jether captayne of the hooste of Juda. Theyr bloud shal therfore returne vpon the heade of Joab, & on the heade of his sede for euer. But vpō Dauyd, & vpon his sede, & vpon hys house, & vpon his seat, shall there be peace for euer of the LORDE. So Banaiahu the sōne of Jehoiada went vp, & smote him, & slue him, and buryed him in his owne house in ꝑ wildernes. And the king put Banaiahu ꝑ sonne of Jehoiada in hys rowme ouer the hoste, & put Sadock the preist in the roume of Abiathar.

And the kynge sente and called Semei, & sayd vnto him: build the an house in Jerusalē, and dwel there: and se that thou go not forth thence any whether: for bee thou sure, that the daye that thou goest out, and passest ouer the ryuer of Cedron, thou shalt dye that daye, and thy bloude shalbe vpon thine owne heade. And Semei sayd vnto ꝑ kynge: This is a good thinge: as my lorde the the kynge hath sayd, so wyl his seruaūt do. And Semei dweite in Jerusalē many a daye. And it chaunced after thre yeares, that two of the seruauntes of Semei ranne away vnto Achis, sonne of Maacha kynge of Geth. And they tolde Semei, saying: beholde, thy seruaūtes be in Geth. And Semei stode vp, & sadled his Asse, and gat him to Geth to Achis, to seke his seruauntes, & returned, and broughte hys seruauntes againe from Geth.

And it was tolde Salomō, how that Semei had gone from Jerusalem to Geth, & was come againe. And ꝑ kynge sent and called Semei, and sayde vnto him: Did I not charge the by ꝑ LORDE with an othe, and testified vnto the, saynge: be sure, that whē soeuer thou goest out, & walkest abroad any whither, thou shalt dye the death: And thou saidest vnto me: it is good tydynges that I haue heard. Why then hast thou not kept the othe of ꝑ LORD, & the cōmaūdement that I charged the withall?

The kyng sayd moreouer to Semei: *thou remembrest all the wyckednes whiche thyne hearte knoweth, that thou diddest to Dauid my father. The LORD also shal bring thy wickednesse vpon thyne owne heade: and kyng Salomon shalbe blessed, and the seate of Dauid stablyshed before the LORDE for euer. So the kynge commaunded Banaiahu ꝑ sonne of Iehoiada: which went out and smote him that he dyed. And the kyngdome was stablyshed in the hande of Salomon.

¶ The. iii. Chapter.

Salomon taketh Pharaos doughter to wyfe. The Lord appeareth to him and geueth him riches dom. The pleadyng of the two harlottes who ſhoulde owe the liuyng childe. and Salomons ſentence therin.

I SAlomon made affinitie wt Pharao kyng of Egipt, & toke Pharaos doughter, and brought her into ꝑ citie of Dauid, vntil he had made an ende of buyldyng hys owne house, & the house of the LORD, and the wall of Ierusalem rounde about. Only ꝑ people sacrifyced in altars made on hilles, because ther was no house built vnto ꝑ name of the LORD, vntyl those dayes. And Salomon loued ꝑ LORDE, & walked in the ordinaunces of Dauid his father, saue only that he sacrificed and offered incense vpon altares in hylles.

*And the kinge wēt to Gibeō, to offer there for ꝑ was a speciall offrynge place. And a thousand burnt offringes dyd Salomō offre vpō that altare: & in Gibeon the LORD appeared to Salomō in a dreame by night. And God said: aske what thou wylt that I may geue it the. And Salomō said: ꝑ hast shewed vnto thy seruaūt Dauid my father great mercy, whē he walked before the in trueth, in righteousnes, and in playnes of hearte with the. And ꝑ hast kept for hym this great mercye, ꝑ thou haste gyuen him a sonne, to syt on his seat: as it is come to passe this day. *And now, O LORD my GOD, it is thou that hast made thy seruaunte kyng in steade of Dauid my father. *And I am but yōge and wote not howe to go out & in. And thy seruaūt is in the middest of thy people, whiche thou hast chosen. And verely ꝑ people are so many that they canne not be told nor numbred for multitude. *Geue therefore vnto thy seruaunt an vnderstanding herte, to iudge thy people, that I may decerne betwene good and bad. For who is able to iudge this, thy so myghty a people?

And thys pleased the LORDE well, ꝑ Salomon had desyred this thyng. And GOD sayde vnto him: because thou hast asked thys thinge, and haste not asked longe lyfe, neyther haste asked ryches, nor the soule of thyne enemies, but hast asked vnderstādyng & discreciō in iudgemēt. Behold, I haue done according to thy peticiō. For I haue geuen the a wise & an vnderstādynge herte, so ꝑ ther was none lyke the before ꝑ, neither after the shall any aryse lyke vnto thee. And I haue also geuen the, that which thou hast not asked, euē riches and honour, so that there shalbe no kyng lyke vnto the al thy daies. And if thou wilte walke in my wayes, to kepe mine ordinaunces and my commaundementes, *as thy father Dauid did walke, I wyl lengthen thy dayes. When Salomō awoke, behold it was a dreame. *And he came to Ierusalem and stode before the arke of the testamēt of the LORDE, and offred burnt offrynges & peace offrynges, & made a feast to al his seruauntes.

Then came there two wemen, that were harlottes, vnto the king, and stode before him. And ꝑ one woman said: Oh my LORDE: I and thys woman dwell in one house. And I was delyuered of a child with her in ꝑ house. And the third daye after that I was delyuered, she was delyuered also: and we were together, and no straunger with vs in the house, saue we two.

And this wiues child died in ꝑ night, for she smothered it. And she rose at midnight, & toke my sonne frō my syde, while thine handmaide slept, & layde it in her bosome, and put her dead child in my bosome. And whē I rose vp to geue my childe sucke, behelde, it was dead. But when I had loked vpon it in the morowyng, behold, it was not my sonne, whiche I dyd beare.

The other woman saied: it is not so, but my sonne liueth, & thy sōne is dead. And she saied againe: No, but thy sonne is dead and mine is alyue. And thus they pleated before the kynge. Then sayed the kynge: the one sayeth, thys that is alyue is my sonne, and the dead is thine. And the other sayeth, naye: but thy sonne is dead, and the lyuynge child is myne. And the kynge sayed: bringe me a swearde. And they broughte out a swearde before the kyng. And the kyng said: Deuyde the ly-uynge chylde in two, and geue the one halfe to ꝑ one, and the other to the other.

Then spake the woman whose ꝑ ly-uyng chylde was, vnto the kinge: for her bowels yerned vpō her sonne, and said: I beseche the my lorde, geue her the li-uing chylde, and in no wyse slaye it. But the other said, let it be nether myne nor thyne, but deuyde it. Then the kynge
Luke. 7. c answered, and sayde: *geue her the ly-uynge chylde, and slaye it not: for she is the mother therof. And al they of Israel heard of the iudgement, whiche the kynge had iudged, and feared ꝑ kynge: for they sawe that the wysedom of God was in him to do iustice.

And his songes were a thousand and fyue. And he spake of trees, euen from ꝑ Cedar tree that groweth in Libanon, vnto the Isope that springeth out of the wal. He spake also of beastes, of fowles, of wormes, and of fysches. And there came of all nacions to heare the wysedome of Salomon, and from all kynges of the earth, which had herde of hys wisedōe.

¶ The. v. Chapter.

Kynge Hyram sendeth Cedar tymber to the buyldynge of the temple. The disorypcyon of the workes.

I AND Hyrā kyng of Tyre sēt his seruaūtes vnto Salomon, for he had heard, ꝑ they had anoynted hym kyng in the rowme of hys father.* For Hirā was euer a louer of Dauyd * And Salomon sent to Hiram, saying: thou knowest *howe that Dauid my father, could not buylde an house vnto ꝑ name of the LORDE hys GOD, for ꝑ warres which wer about him on euery side, vntyl the LORD put them vnder the soles of hys fete. But now the LORDE my GOD hathe geuē me rest on euery side, so that there is neyther aduersary, nor any euel plage. And behold, *I am determined to buylde an house vnto the name of ꝑ LORD my GOD, as ꝑ LORD spake vnto Dauyd my father, sayinge: thy sonne whome I wyll set vpon thy seat for the, he shal buylde an house vnto my name. Now therfore commaūde V thou that they hewe me Cedar trees out of Libanon. And my seruauntes, shalbe with thine, & vnto the wil I geue the hyre for thy seruaūtes, accordyng to al such thynges as thou shalt apoynte: for thou knowest that there are not amonge vs, that can skyll to hewe tymber, lyke vnto the Sidones.

When Hirā heard ꝑ wordes of Salomō, he reioyced greatly, and said: Blessed be ꝑ LORD this day which hath geuē vnto Dauyd a wyse sonne ouer thys mighty people. And Hirā sent to Salomon, sayinge: I haue considered the thynges whiche thou sentest to me for, and wyll accomplyshe al thy desyre, cōcernyng timber of Cedar trees & fyre. My seruaūtes shall bryngе them from Libanon to the sea. And I wyll conuey them by shyp vnto the place that thou shalt shewe me, and wyll cause them to be discharged there, and thou shalte receaue them. And thou shalte do me a C pleasure againe, ꝑ thou ministrest fode for myne house. And so Hirā gaue Salomon Cedar trees, and fyre trees, accordyng to al his desire. And Salomon gaue Hiram. xx. thousande quarters of wheate for foode to his houshold, and twēty buttes of pure oyle. Thus much gaue Salomō to Hirā yeare by yeare.

And the LORD gaue Salomō wysedom as he promysed him. And there was peace betwene Hiram and Salomon, and they two wer confederate together. And kynge Salomon raysed a summe oute of al Israel. And the D summe was thirtye thousande menne, whome he sente to Libanon, ten thousande a moneth by course, so that when they had bene one moneth in Libanon, they abode two monethes at home. 2. Ki. 4. d

And *Adoniram was ouer the sūme. And Salomon had thre score and ten thousande that bare burthens, & four score thousande masons in the mountaynes: besydes the Lordes, whō Salomon appoynted to ouerse the worke, euen thre thousande and thre hūdred, whiche ruled the people (and them) that wrought in the worke. And the kynge commaunded them to bryng great stones, fre stones, and hewed stones for ꝑ foundacion of ꝑ house. And Salomōs masons and the masons of Hiram, dyd hewe them vp to the workemē of the tymbers. And so they prepared bothe timber & stones for ꝑ buyldyng of ꝑ house.

euen in ꝑ forefronte of the house. And in the house he made windowes broade without, and narowe within.

And in the wal of the house, he made chaumbers rounde about, (euen in the walles of the house) rounde about the temple and the queer, and made sydes rounde aboute. The nethermost chamber was fiue cubites broade, & the middle, was syxe cubites broade: the thirde was seuē cubites broade. For without in the wal of the house, he layed beames rounde aboute, that the beames of the chambers should not be fastened in the walles of the house. And ꝑ house was buylt of stone, made perfyte alredy before it was broughte thither, so ꝑ there was nether hammer nor axe, ether any tole of yron heard in the house, while it was in buyldynge.

The dore of the middel chamber was in the right side of the house: & men wēt vp with winding steares into the middle chamber, and out of the myddle, into the thirde. And so he buylt the house, & fynished it, & rouft it with beames of Cedar tymber. And then he buylt chābers to all the temple of fyue cubytes heygth, & they were ioyned to ꝑ house, with beames of Cedar.

And the worde of ꝑ LORDE came to Salomon saying: concerning the house whiche thou art in buyldynge, yf thou wylt walke in myne ordinaunces, and execute my lawes, and kepe al my commaundementes, to walke in them: then wil I make good vnto the, my promes *which I promised Dauid thy father. *And I wil dwel among the childrē of Israel, and wyll not forsake my people Israel. Salomō therfore built ꝑ house, and funished it, and syled the walles of the house within with bordes of Cedar tre: euen from the pauement of ꝑ house vnto the roofe dyd he syle the walles of it within, with Cedar tre, and borded ꝑ floore of the house wᵗ planckes of fyxre.

And he syled twenty cubytes in ꝑ sydes of ꝑ queer of the temple, both floore & walles, with bordes of Cedar, & dressed it within in the secrete place of ꝑ tēple, euen in the most holy. And the furste house, that is to say, ꝑ body of the temple without was fourty cubites longe. And the Cedar of ꝑ house within, was kerued with knoppes, and grauen with floures, and al was Cedar tymber, so ꝑ no stone was sene. And the queer that was wᵗin the temple, he prepared to set there the arke of the appointment of the LORDE. And the queer before, was twenty cubites long, and .xx. cubites in bredth, & twentie cubites in heygth. And he syled it with pure golde, and borded the aultar with Cedar.

And Salomon also syled the house wᵗin, with pure golde. And he made goldē barres runne along the queer, which he had couered with gold. And ꝑ whole house, he ouerlayde with golde, vntyl he had ended it. And the aulter that was in the queer, he ouerlayde with golde also.

And within the queer he made two *Cherubins of olyue tree, ten cubytes hie. Fyue cubytes longe was a wing of ꝑ one Cherub, & fiue cubites lōg was a wyng of ꝑ other Cherub: so ꝑ frō the vttermost part of one wyng vnto ꝑ vttermost parte of the other, were ten cubytes. And the other Cherub was ten cubytes hie also: so that both the Cherubs were of one measure and one syse: For the heigth of the one Cherub was ten cubites, and so was it of the other. Exo. 25.

And he put the Cherubs within the inner house. *And the Cherubs stretched out their wynges, so that the one wynge of the one touched the one wall, and the one wynge of the other touched the other wall. And the other two wynges of them touched one another in the mydes of the house. And he ouer laide the Cherubs with golde. Exo. 25.

And in al the walles of the house rodd aboute, he made fygures of carued and syled worke: as namely pictures of Cherubs, and Paulme trees, and grauen flowers, bothe within in the queer, and without in the temple. And the floore of the house he couered wyth gold, both wythin in the queer, and wythoute in the temple. And in the entrynge of the queer he made two dores of olyue tree: And both the vpper and two syde postes were fyue square. The two doores also were of olyue tree, and he graued them with grauyng of Cherubs, and paulme trees: and grauen flowers, and couered them with golde, and layde thynne plates of gold vpon the Cherubs & paulme trees. And in lyke maner dyd he in the dore of ꝑ temple, sauyng that the postes were of olyue tree, foure square. The two dores wer of fyxre tree, and ether dore doze with two folding leues: he graued therō Cherubs, paulme trees, & flowers, couered them with golde, whiche was layed thynne vpon the carued wozke.

And he buylte the inner courte with thze rowes of hewed stone, & one rowe of Cedar woode.

In the fourth yeare was the foundacyon of the house of the LORDE, layd: euen in the moneth Zif: And in the leuēth yeare, in the moneth Bull (which is the viii. moneth) was the house ful finished thozowout all the partes therof, accozdyng to all the fashion of it, and so was he seuen yeare in buyldyng it.

¶ The. vii. Chapter.

The buildyng of the house of Salemon. The house of Pharaos doughter. The fourme of the pyllers of brasse, of the brasen sea. etc.

BUt Salomon was buildyng his owne house thirtene yeare, and fynyshed it all. And he buylt the house in the woode of Libanon, an hūdzed cubytes longe, and fyftie cubites brode, and thyztie cubites hye. And (it stode) vpon foure rowes of Cedar pyllers, and Ceder beames were layed vpō ỳ pillers. And ỳ roofe was cedar aboue vpon the beames that laye on the pillers, euen. xlv. beames in fyftene rowes. And there were wyndowes in thze rowes, and the wyndowes were one agaynste another, thzee folde. And the dozes with the fyde postes, and ỳ vpper poste, were foure square, and had wyndowes one agaynst an other thze folde.

And he made a pozche by the pyllers (that bare vp the house) fyftye cubites long, & .xxx. cubites brode, & that pozche was befoze those, and the other pyllers. Foz there was a thicke tree sette befoze them. Then he made a pozche to syt and iudge in, syled with Cedar thozowoute al the pauementes. And his own house (that he kepte residence in: and ỳ was in an other court without the pozche) was made of the same wozke. And then Salomon made an house foz Pharaoes doughter* (whom he had take to wife) lyke vnto the fashion of that pozche.

And all these were of the best stones, hewed after a measure, and sawed with sawes, within and without, from the foundacion vnto the beames (that laye aboue, after the measure) and euē so on the outsyde towarde the greate courte. And the foundacyon was layde vpon ryche stones, & that very greate stones, wherof some were ten cubites, and some eyghte cubites. And aboue were good stones, squared after a certayne rule, & couered with Cedar. And the greate court rounde aboute was with thzee rowes of hewed stones, and one rowe of Cedar plankes, after the maner of the inner courte of the house of the LORDE, and of the pozche of the temple. * And kynge Salomon sente, and set one Hirā out of Tyze, a wyddowes sonne of the trybe of Nephthalim, his father beynge a man of Tyze. Whiche Hiram was a crafteſman in brasse* ful of wysedome, vnderstandyng and connyng: to wozke all maner of wozke in brasse. And he came to kynge Salomon, and wzought all his wozke. Foz he cast* two pyllers of brasse, of .xviii. cubytes hie a peece, and a string of twelue cubytes did compasse eyther of them aboute. And he made two head peces of molten brasse (after the fashyon of a crowne) to sette on the toppes of the pyllers. The heygth of the one headpece contayned fyue cubites, & the heygth of the other heade pece contayned fyue cubites also: he made also net wozke, & garlandes of chaine wozke vpon the head peces that were on ỳ top of the pyllers, euen seuen (rowes) vpon the one headpece, and seuen on ỳ other. And so he made the pillers, and two rowes rounde aboute, in the one wzethen wozke to couer the headpeces that were vpon ỳ pomgranates. And thus dyd he also foz the other headpece. And ỳ headpeces that were on the toppes of ỳ pyllers couered he aboue, with a curyous wozke of roses towarde the palace by ỳ space of foure cubytes. Lykewise vnder the headpeces in those two pyllers beneth, ouer against the myddes, & befoze the netwozke: And vpon ỳ seconde headpece were there two hundzed pomgranates in two rowes rounde about. And he set vp the pyllers in the pozche of the temple. And when he had set vp ỳ right pyller, he called the name therof* Joachim: and when he hadde set vp the lefte pyller, he called the name thereof* Boaz. And in the toppe of the pyllers was a wozke of roses, and so was the wozkmanshyp of the pyllers finished.

And he made a molten lauatozy, ten cubites wide from bzym to bzym, rounde in compasse, and fyue cubytes hye. And a string a stryng of thyrtye cubites did compasse it aboute, and vnder the brym of it there were knoppes rounde aboute, ten in one cubite: and they compassed the lauatory rounde aboute. And the knoppes were cast with it, in two rowes, when it was caste. And it stode on twelue oxen: of whiche three loked towarde the northe, three towarde the weste, three towarde the south, and three towarde the east, & the lauatory stode vpon them, & al their hynderpartes were inward. It was an handebreadth thicke, and the brimme wrought lyke the brymme of a cup with flowres of lylyes. And it conteined two thousande Bates.

And he made ten sokettes of brasse, foure cubites longe, and foure cubites broade a pece, and three cubites hye. And the worke of the sokettes was on thys maner: They had sydes, and the sydes were betweene the ledges. And on the sydes that were betweene the ledges, were lyons, oxen, and Cherubs. And lyke wyse vpon the ledges that were aboue: and beneth the lions and oxē, were certayne addycyons made of thynne worke. And vnder euerye sokette were foure brasen wheles, and bordes of brasse. And in the foure corners therof, were vndersetters (vnder the lauatory) cast echeo uer agaynst hys felow.

And the stalke of the lauatory was in the myddes of it, (where it is seene on the ouer syde) one cubyte hye, & a cubite & an halfe rounde, & in the heigth of it were grauen workes whose sides were made foure-square, and not rounde. And vnder the sydes were foure wheles, and the axeltrees ioyned fast to the bottome. And the heigth of euery whele was a cubite & a halfe. And the workemanshyp of the wheles was lyke the worke of a charet whele. And þ axeltrees, þ naueiles, spokes & shaftes were almolten. And there were foure vndersetters in the foure corners of one socket: and the vndersetters were of the very bottome selfe.

And in the heygth of the bottom was ther a round cōpasse of half a cubite hie: and in that heygth of the botom, there procraded both ledges and sydes out of the same. For in the bordes of þ ledges, and on the sides he had grauē pyctures of Cherubins, lyons and paulmetrees, one by another rounde aboute. Thus made he the ten sokettes after this maner: And they had all one fashyon of castynge, one measure, and one syze. Than made he ten lauers of brasse, one lauer containyng fourty Bates: and one lauer was foure cubites, and vpō euery one of the ten sokettes, he put one lauer. And he put fyue of those sokettes on the ryght side of the house, and other fiue on the left. And he set the lauatory on the ryght side of the house eastward, and towarde the south.

And Hiram made pottes, shouelles & basens, & so fynished all the worke that he made kynge Salomon for the house of the LORD: that is to say, two pillers, and two round headpeces that were to be set on the toppes of the two pillers. Two net workes to couer þ two roūde headpeces, set vpon the toppes of þ pyllers, & four hundred pōgranates for the two net workes, (euen two rowes of pomgranates in one net worke) to couer the two head peces that were to be set on the toppes of the pyllers: And the ten sokettes, and ten lauers on the sokettes. The lauatory, and twelue oxen vnder it, and pottes, shouelles and basens. And all these vesselles whiche Hiram made to kynge Salomon for the house of the LORDE, were of bryght brasse. In the playne of Jordā did þ kyng cast thē: euen in the thycke claye betweene Socoth & Zarthā. And Salomō lefte all the vesselles vnwayed, because they were so exceadyng many, neyther found they out the weyght of the brasse. G

And so Salomon made all the vessel-les that perteyned vnto the house of the LORDE: the golden aultar, and the golden table wheron the shewbreade was: And fyue candelsticke, for the ryghte syde, and fyue for the lefte, before the queer of pure golde: with flowers, lampes, and snoffers of golde: and bouiles, flat peces, basens, spones, and malours of pure golde: and hyndges made he of golde, both for the dores of þ queer (the place moste holy) and for þ dores of the temple also.

And so was ended all the worke that kynge Salomon made for the house of the LORD. And * Salomon brought in, par. 1 þ thynges which Dauid his father had dedicated: euen the syluer, gold, and vessel-les, and layed thē vp among the treasures of the house of the LORDE.

They bare the arke of the LORDE, into the tabernacle of witnesse: and all the holy vesselles that were in ꝑ tabernacle, those dyd the pzieſtes and Leuites beare. And kyng Salomó, and all the congregacio of Israel, that were assembled vnto him (& wente with hym before the arke) did offre shepe and oxé, that coulde not be tolde noz numbzed foz multitude.

And so the pzieſtes bzought the arke of the appoyntment of the LORDE vnto his place: euen in the queer of the temple, and place moste holy, vnder ꝑ wynges of the Cherubs. Foz the Cherubs stretched out their winges ouer ꝑ place of the arke, and couered bothe it and also the staues thereof a hye vpon it. And they dzewe out the staues, that the endes of them might appeare out of the holy place within ꝑ queer, but they were not sene without. And there they haue bene vnto this daye. And there was no-

And it was in the herte of Dauid my father to buylde an house foz the name of the LORDE GOD of Israell. Therfore, heare thou in heuē thy dwellyng place, and do all that ꝓ straūger calleth to thee for: that al nations of the earth maye know thy name, & feare thee, as do thy people Israel: & that they maye know that thy name is called vpon in this house which I haue buylte.

Deut.20.b yf thy people goe oute to battayle against their enemy, whither so euer thou shalte sende them, and shall praye vnto thee (O LORDE) * towarde the waye of the cytie which thou haste chosen, & towarde the house that I haue buylte for thy name: (heare ꝓ in heuē theyr prayer and supplicatiō, and iudge theyr cause.)

Iob.15.a If they synne against the, * (for there is no man that sinneth not,) and thou be angry with them, and delyuer them vnto the hande of theyr enemyes, so ꝓ they carye them awaye prysoners vnto the lande of theyr enemyes, eyther farre or neare, yet yf they turne agayne vnto theyr hertes in the lande (to the whyche they be caryed awaye captiue,) and returne and praye vnto thee in the lande of their enemies, saying: we haue sinned, we haue done wickedly, and haue committed vngodlines, and so turne againe vnto thee with al their hert, and al their soule, in ꝓ land of theyr enemyes (which led them awaye captiue) and pray vnto thee, towarde the waye of their lande, whiche thou gaueſt vnto their fathers, and towarde the cytie whiche thou haſt chosen, and towarde the house which I haue built for thy name: then heare thou theyr * prayer and supplicacion in heuē thy dwellig place, and iudge their cause: and be mercyfull vnto thy people that haue synned agaynste thee, and vnto all their iniquities (wherevp they haue done wickedlye agaynste thee) and gyt thou

thou them the fauour of those which led them away captyue, that they may haue compassion on them. For they be thy people, and thyne enheritaunce, whiche thou broughtest out of Egipte, euē frō the myddest of ỳ fornace of yron. And let thyne eyes be open vnto ỳ prayer of thy seruaunt, and vnto the prayer of thy people Israel* to herken vnto them, in all that they call for vnto the. For thou didest seperate them from amonge all nacyons of ỳ earth, (to be thyne owne enheritaunce) as thou saydest by ỳ hande of Moses thy seruāt, whē thou broughtest our fathers* out of Egypt O LORD GOD.

* And when Salomon had made an ende of praying all this prayer, and supplication vnto the LORDE, he arose frō before the altar of the LORDE, and from kneling on his knees, & from stretching of his handes vp to heuen, and stode and blessed all the congregacion of Israell with a loude voyce, sayinge: Blessed be the LORD that hath geuen rest vnto his people Israel, accordynge to al that he promysed: * there hath not fayled one worde of all the good promyse which he promysed by the hande of Moses hys seruaunt. The LORDE our GOD be wᵗ vs, as he was with our fathers, and for sake vs not, neyther leaue vs: but that he maye bowe oure hertes vnto him, ỳ we may walke in al his waies, and kepe his commaundementes, his statutes & his lawes, which he cōmaunded our fathers. And these my wordes whiche I haue prayed before the LORD, be nye vnto the LORDE oure GOD, daye & nyght that he defende the cause of his seruaūt, and ỳ cause of his people Israell (what thinge soeuer chaunce at any tyme) that all nacyons of the earthe maye knowe that the LORDE is GOD, and none but he. Let youre herte therefore be perfyte with the LORDE our GOD, ỳ ye walke in his statutes, & kepe his commaundementes, as this daye.

And the kynge and all Israell wᵗ him, offered offerynges before the LORDE.

* And Salomon offered a sacrifyce of peace offrynges vnto the LORD, and he offered vnto the LORDE. xxii. M. oxen, and an hundred and twenty. M. shepe: And so the kynge and all the childzen of Israel dedicated the house of ỳ LORD. The same day dyd the kinge halowe the myddle of the courte, ỳ was before the house of the LORDE: for there he offered burntoffrynges, meatoffringes, & the fat of the peaceoffrynges: because the brasen altar that was before ỳ LORD, was to lytle to receyue the burntoffrynges, meat offriges, & ỳ fat of ỳ peaceoffriges.

And Salomon held that same time an hie feast and al Israel with him, a very great congregacyon, euen frō ỳ entring in of Hemath vnto the ryuer of Egipte, before the LORDE oure GOD, * seuen dayes, and seuen daies, euen. xiiii. daies. And the. viii. day he sent ỳ people away. And they blessed the kynge, and wente vnto theyr tentes ioyous & wᵗ glad hert, because of al the goodnes that ỳ LORD had done for Dauidhis seruaunt, and for Israel his people.

The. ix. Chapter.

¶ The Lorde appeareth the seconde time to Salomon. Salomon geueth townes to Hyram. The Cananites become tributaries. He sendeth shippes for golde. He buyldeth many cities.

AND when Salomon had * finished the buyldynge of the house of the LORDE, and the kinges palace, & al that he had in his mynd, & was appointed to make: the LORD appeared vnto him againe, as he appeared vnto him at Gibeon. And the LORD sayd vnto hym: I haue heard thy prayer and thy intercession, that thou haste made before me: For I haue halowed this house (which thou hast buylte,) to put my name there for euer, & myne eyes and my hert shalbe there perpetually. And yf thou wylte walke before me (as Dauid thy father walked, in purenes of hert, & in righteousnesse) to do al that I haue commaūded the, and wilt kepe my statutes, and my lawes, then wil I stablyth the seate of thy kyngdome vpon Israell for euer, as I promysed to Dauid thy father, saying: * Thou shalte not be withoute a man vpon the seate of Israel.

But and if ye and your childzen turne awaye from me, and wyll not kepe my commaūdemētes & my statutes (which I haue set before you) but go and serue other goddes, & worshyppe them: then wyll I wede Israell oute of the lande, which I haue giuen thē: And this house whiche I haue halowed* for my name, wil I caste out of my syght. And Israell shalbe a prouerbe and a fable among al nacions. And this house shalbe taken awaye:

away: so that euery one that passeth by it, shalbe astonyed, and shal hysse, & they shal saye: * why hath the LORDE done thus vnto this lande, and to this house? And they shal answere: because they forsoke the LORDE their GOD, whyche brought their fathers out of the land of Egipte, and haue taken holde vpon other goddes, and haue worshipped the, and serued them: therfore hath ỳ LORD brought vpon them all thys euill. * And it fortuned, that at the ende of twentye yeares, Salomon finished the buylding of the two houses, that is to were, the house of the LORD, and the kynges palace. And Hiram the kynge of Tyre brought Salomon tymber of Cedar, & fyre trees, gold, and whatsoeuer he desyred: And Salomon agayne gaue Hiram twentye cyties in the lande of Galile. And * Hiram came out from Tire to see the cyties whiche Salomon had geuen him, and they pleased hym not. And he sayde: what cyties are these, whyche thou hast geuen me, my brother? and he called them the land of Cabul vnto this daye. And Hiram sente the kynge. vi. score hundred weyght of golde, And this is the summe, whiche kyng Salomon raised for a trybut whe he buylded the house of the LORDE, and his owne house, and Millo, & the wal of Jerusalé, and Hazor, & Meggeddo, and Gazar.

For Pharao kynge of Egipte wente vp, and toke Gazar, and burnte it wyth fyre, and slue the Cananites that dwelt in the cytie, and gaue it for a present vnto his doughter, Salomons wyfe. And Salomon buylte Gazar and Beth Horon the nether: and Baalah & Thamar in the wylderneſſe, and in the lande: and al the treasure cities that Salomō had, (and were vnwalled, those he made stronge) and cyties for hys carrettes, and cities for his horsemen, and all that Salomon desyred, and would build in Jerusalem, in Libanō, & in al the lād of his dominiō.

And al the people that were lefte of ỳ Amorites, Hethites, Pheresites, Heuites and Jebusites, (which were not of ỳ childrē of Israel) their childrē ỳ wer left after them in the lande, whom the childzen of Israel also were not able to destroye: Those dyd Salomon compell to bryngе tribute vnto thys daye. But of the chyldzen of Israell dyd Salomō * make no bondmen. But they were mē of warre, his ministers, his lordes, hys captaines, and rulers of his charrettes, and his horsemen. And these were the lordes, that were sette ouer Salomons worke: euen fyue hūdred were they and fyftie, & they ruled the people ỳ wrought the worke.

And Pharaos doughter came vp out of ỳ citie of Dauid vnto the house which Salomon had buylte for her. And then dyd he also buylde Millo. And thryse a yeare dyd Salomon offre burnt offerinｇes and peace offerynges vpon the aultar whiche he buylte vnto the LORDE: And he burnt incense vpon the aultare that was before the LORDE, and so he fynished the house.

And kynge Salomon made a nauy of shyppes in Azion Gaber, whiche is beside Eloth, and ỳ bryncke of the red sea, in the lande of Edom. And Hiram sente by shyppe also of his seruauntes ỳ were shypmen, and had knowledge of the sea, with the seruauntes of Salomon. And they came to Ophir, and fet from thence one and twentie score hundred weyght of golde, and brought it to kynge Salomon.

¶ The. x. Chapter.

¶ The quene of Saba commeth to heare the wisedome of Salomon, whose royalty is here described,

AND the * quene of Saba hearinge the fame of Salomon (concernyng the name of the LORDE) came to proue him with hard questions. And she came to Jerusalem with a very greate trayne: with Camels that bare swete odoures, and golde exceedyng muche, and precyous stones. And she came to Salomon, and communed with hym of all that was in her herte. And Salomon declared vnto her, all her questions, so that there was not one thing hid frō the kyng, which he expounded not vnto her.

And the quene of Saba consydered all Salomons wisedome, and the house that he had buylded, and ỳ meate of hys table, and the sitting of hys seruauntes, the ordre of his ministers, and theyr apparel, his drynke & his burnt sacrifices that he offred in the house of the LORD, & she was astonyed. And she sayde vnto the king. It was a true word ỳ I heard in myne owne land of thy sayinges, and of thy wysedome. Howbeit I beleued it not tyll I came, and sawe it with myne eyes. And beholde ỳ one halfe was not

And she gaue the kynge. iii. score hundreth weyght of gold, & of swete odours exceedyng muche, and precyous stones. There came no more such aboundāce of swete odours, as the Quene of Saba gaue to kynge Salomon. The naupe 3.Reg.9.c also of the* shyppes of Hiram (that caried golde from Ophir) broughte lykewise great plentye of Almuge tree, and precious stones. And the kynge made of the Almuge tres, pilers for the house of the LORDE, and for the kynges palace, and made harpes and psalteries for singers. There came no more such Almuge trees, nor were any more sene vnto this daye. And kynge Salomon gaue vnto þ Quene of Saba accordyng to al her desyre whatsoeuer she asked: besydes that he gaue her of a free wyll with his own hande. And so she returned vnto her owne countrey, both she, & her seruātes.

C The weyghte of golde that came to Salomon in one yeare, was. vi. hūdred, three score and syxe talentes of gold, besydes that he had of chapmen, & of marchaūtes, and of poticaries, and of all the kynges of Arabye, and of the lordes of the countrey. And kynge Salomō made two hundred bouckelers of beatē golde, syxe hundred sycles of golde wente to a bouckeler. And he made three hundred shyldes of beaten golde, three pounde of golde wente to one shylde, and the kyng

And the kynge made a great seate of yuery, and couered it with the best gold. And the seate had syxe steppes. And the toppe of the seate was rounde behynde, and there were pomels on eyther syde on the place of the seat, and two Lyons stode besyde the pomels. And there stode xii. Lions on the steppes. vi. on a syde. There was none like (worke) sene in a-

And as for siluer, it was nothing worth in the dayes of Salomon. For þ kynges naup of shyppes wente on the sea vnto Tharsis w þ naup of Hirams shyppes, euen ones in three yeare went the naup to Tharsis, and brought golde and syluer, Elephātes teth, apes and perockes.

the kynges of the earth both in riches & in wisedome. And al the world resorted to Salomon, to heare his wisedō, which GOD had put in his hert. And broughte him euery man his presente, vesselles of syluer, and vesselles of golde, raymente, harnesse, and swete odours, and horses, and mules, yeare by yeare. And Salomon gathered together charrettes and horsemen: and he had a thousande & .iiii. hundred charrettes, and .xii. thousande horsemen, whom he bestowed in þ charrette cytyes, and with the kinge at Ierusalem.

* And the kynge made syluer in Ie- 2.Par.1.D
rusalem as plenteous as stones, & Cedar as plenteous as þ wyld sygge trees that growe aboūdauntly in the feldes. The bryngynge of horses also out of Egipte: and the collection of the wares: dyd the kynges marchauntes take agayne, and solde the stuffe for a price. A charret came vp out of Egipt for. vi. hūdred sicles of siluer: that is, one horse for an hundred and fyftye. And euen so for al the kynges of the Hethites and for þ kynges of Siria, did they bring thē out, thorowe their handes.

vii. hundred quenes, and three hundred cōcubines, and his wyues turned away his hert. For it came to passe, whē Salomon was olde, hys wyues turned hys hert after other gods: and his hert was not perfyte with the LORDE his GOD,

as was the herte of Dauid his father: for Salomō folowed Istaroth ꝑ GOD of the zidons, and Milcom the abhominacion of the Ammonites. And Salomon wrought wickednesse in the syght of the LORDE, & folowed not the LORD perfitly, as dyd Dauid his father. For then did Salomon buylde an hie place for Chamos the abhominacion of Moab, in the hyll that is before Jerusalem, and vnto Moloch the abhominacion of the childzen of Ammon. And lykewyse dyd he for all his outlandysshe wyues, whiche burnt incense, and offered vnto theyr goddes. And the LORDE was angry with Salomon, because his herte was turned from the LORDE GOD of
1. Reg. 3. a and. 9. a Israel *whiche had appeared vnto him twyse, and gaue him a charge (concernyng this thyng) that he shoulde not folowe other goddes. But he kepte not that, whiche the LORD cōmaunded him: wherfore ꝑ LORD sayd vnto Salomon: for as muche as this is done of the, and thou hast not kept myne appoyntmente, and my statutes (whiche I commaūded the,) I wyll rent the kyngdom from the, and wyll geue it to thy seruaunte. Notwithstanding in thy dayes, I wyll not do it, because of Dauid thy father, but wyl take it from the hande of thy sonne. Howbeit I wyll not take awaye all the kyngdome: But wyll geue one trybe to thy sonne, because of Dauid my seruaūt, and because of Jerusalem whiche I haue chosen.

And the LORD stired vp an aduersary vnto Salomon: euen one Hadad an Edomite, of the kynges sede, whiche was in Edom. For when Dauid was in Edō, and Joab the captayne of the hoste was gone vp to burie them that were slayne, he smote all the men childzen in Edom. For syre monethes dyd Joab remayne there, and al Israel, tyl he had destroied al the men childzen in Edom. And thys Hadad fledde and certayne other Edomites of hys seruauntes with hym, to come into Egipte, Hadad beynge yet a lytle child. And they arose out of Madian, and came to Paran, and toke men with them out of Paran, and came to Egypte vnto Pharao kynge of Egipte, whiche gaue him an house, and appointed him vitailes, and gaue him lande.

And Hadad gat greate fauour in the syght of Pharao, so that he gaue hym to wyfe, the syster of hys owne wyfe, euen the sister of Thahpenes the quene. And the syster of Thahpenes bare hym Genubath his sonne, whō Thahpenes norished in Pharaos house. And Genubath was of Pharaos housholde among the sonnes of Pharao. And when Hadad heard in Egipte, that Dauid was layde to slepe with his fathers, and that Joab the captayne of the host was dead also, he sayde to Pharao: let me departe, that I maye goe to myne owne countrey. Pharao sayd vnto hym: what hast thou lacked here with me, that thou woldest thus go to thyne own countrey? He answered, nothynge: howbeit let me go. And GOD stired him vp another aduersary, one Rezon the son of Eliada, which fled from his lorde Hodadezer kynge of Zoba. And he gathered men vnto hym, and became captayne ouer the companye, when Dauid slue them. And they wente to Damasco, and dwelte there, & raigned in Damasco. Therefore was he an aduersary to Israell all the daies of Salomon. And this was the mischefe, in that Hadad did abhorre Israell, and raygned ouer Syria.

And Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat an Ephrathite of Zareda (whose mother was called Zeruah, whiche was a widowe, and he Salomons seruaunt) lifte vp his hande agaynst the kynge. But thys was the cause, that he lyfte vp his hande agaynste the kynge: Salomon buylt Mello, & mended the broken places of the citie of Dauid his father. And this felowe Jeroboam was a man of warre. And Salomon sawe the yonge man that he was able to do the worke, he made him ruler ouer all the trybute of the house of Joseph. And it chaunced at that season, that Jeroboam went out of Jerusalem, & the prophet Ahiah the Silonite met him by ꝑ way, hauyng a newe mantell on him, & they. ii. were alone in the felde. And Ahiah caught ꝑ new mantel that was on him, and rente it in twelue peces, & saide to Jeroboam: take the ten peces. For thus sayeth the LORDE GOD of Israel: beholde, I will rent ꝑ kyngdō out of the hādes of Salomō, & wil gyue ten tribes to thee, & he shal haue one, for my seruaūt Dauids sake, & for Jerusalē ꝑ citie which I haue chosē out of al ꝑ tribes of Israel: because they haue forsaken me, and haue worshipped shipped vnto Astharoth the GOD of the Sidons, and Chamos the GOD of the Moabites, and Milcom the GOD of ꝑ chyldren of Ammon & haue not walked in my waies (to fulfil my pleasure, my statutes & my lawes) as did Dauid his father. I will not take the whole kingdome out of his hande: but I will make hi chief al his life long, for Dauid my seruauntes sake, whō I chose: because he kept my commaundementes & my statutes. But I will take ꝑ kingdome out of hys sonnes hande, & will giue it vnto the, euē ten trybes of it, & vnto his sōne wil I geue one tribe that Dauid my seruaūt may haue a light alway before me in Jerusalem, the cytie which I haue cholē me, to put my name there. And I wil take the, & thou shalt raigne accordyng to al ꝑ thy soule desyreth, & shalt be king ouer Israel. And if thou herken vnto all ꝑ I commaunde the, & wilt walke in my wayes & do ꝑ is right in my sight, ꝑ thou kepe my statutes & my cōmaundementes (as Dauid my seruaunt did) then will I be w the, & builde the a sure house that shall continue, as I built for my seruaunte Dauid, & wil geue Israel vnto the. And I wil for this offēce (which Salomon hath cōmuted) vexe the sede of Dauid, but not for euer.

Salomon sought therfore to kyl Jeroboam, & Jeroboam arose & fled into Egipte vnto Sisak king of Egipte, & continued there in Egipt vntil ꝑ death of Salomon. The rest of the wordes ꝑ concerne Salomon, and al that he did, and his wisedome: are they not wrytte in the boke of the wordes of Salomō: The tyme that Salomon raigned in Jerusalem vpon all Israel, was fourty yeare. And Salomō slepte and he layd hym with his fathers and was buryed in the cyty of Dauid his father, & Reboboam his sonne raigned in his stead.

¶ The. xii. Chapter.

The kingdome is deuyded / Rehoboam raigneth ouer two tribes, and Jeroboam ouer ten. Aduram is stoned. Jeroboam maketh golden calues.

AND* Rehoboam went to Sichē: for all Israell were come to Sichem, to make hi king. And Jeroboā the sonne of Nabat (which was yet in Egipte) herde of it * for he fledde to Egypt frō the ꝓsence of kinge Salomon, & dwelt in Egipt. So they sent & called him: & Jeroboam & al the cōgregacion of Israell came, and spake vnto Rehoboā, saying: thy father made our yocke greuous nowe therefore, make thou the greuouse seruyce of thy father & his sore yocke which he put vpon vs, lighter, & we will serue the. And he said vnto them: departe yet for the space of thre daies, and thē come againe to me. And the people departed.

And kinge Rehoboam toke counceil with the olde mē that stode before Salomon hys father, whyle he yet lyued, and sayd: what coūceil geue ye, that I may haue matter to answere this people? And they sayde vnto him: yf thou be a seruaūt vnto this people this daye, and folow theyr mindes and answere them, & speake kynde wordes to them: they wil be thy seruaūtes for euer. But he forsoke the counceil that the olde mē had geuen hym, & called vnto his coūceil yonge menne, that wer growen vp with hym, and wayted on hym.

And he sayd vnto them: what counceil geue ye, that we maye answer this people? for they haue communed with me, saying: make ꝑ yocke which thy father did put vpon vs, lyghter: And the yong men that were growen vp with hym, spake vnto hym sayinge. Thus shalt thou speake vnto thys people (ꝑ haue saied vnto the: thy father made our yocke heuy, but make ꝑ it vs lighter.) Euē thus shalt thou say vnto thē: My lytle fynger shalbe wayghtyer thē my father was in the loynes. And now where as my father dyd lade you and put a greuouse yocke vpon you, I wyll make it heuyer. My father also corrected you with scourges, but I wil chastice you with scorpions. And so Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the thyrd day, as the kinge had appointed, saying: come to me agayne the thyrde day. And the king answered the people chorlyshly, and lefte the olde mennes counceil (that they gaue hym) and spake to them after the counceil of the yonge men, saying: My father made your yocke greuouse, and I wil make it greuouser. My father also chastised you with whyppes, but I wil chastyse you with scorpions. And the kyng herkened not vnto the people: for it was the ordinaunce of GOD, that he might *performe hys sayinge, whiche the

J.i. LORD

D LORD spake by Ahia ꝑ Silonite vnto Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat.

And so when al Israell saw that the kinge regarded them not, ꝑ people answered the kynge with these wordes, sayinge: what porcion haue we in Dauid: we hane no enheritaunce in ꝑ sone of Isai. To youre tentes, O Israel, now se to thine own house Dauid. And so Israel departed vnto theyr tentes. Howbeit, ouer the childzen of Israell which dwelt in the citte of Juda, dyd Rehoboam raigne styll. The king Rehoboam sent Aduram ꝑ receiuer of the trybute. And all they of Israel stoned hym to deathe. But kynge Rehoboam made spede to get hi vp to his charret & to flye to Jerusalē. And they of Israel rebelled against ꝑ house of Dauid, vnto this day. And when al Israel hearde ꝑ Jeroboā was come againe, they sent & called him vnto ꝑ multitude, & made him king ouer al Israel: & ther was no tribe ꝑ folowed the house of Dauid, but Juda onely. *And when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalē, he gathered all ꝑ house of Juda w ꝑ tribe of Ben Jamin, an hūdred & foure score thousande of chosen men (whiche were good warriours) to fight against ꝑ house of Israel, & to bring the kingdome againe to Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon.

And ꝑ word of GOD came vnto Samaia the man of GOD, sayinge: speake vnto Rehoboam ꝑ sonne of Salomon king of Juda, & vnto al ꝑ house of Juda & Ben Jamin, & to the remnaunt of the people, saying: Thus sayeth the LORD. ye shal not go vp, nor yet fyght against youre brethren the childzen of Israell, returne euery man to his house, for this thynge is my doinge. They herkened therfore to the worde of the LORD and returned to departe, accordinge to the worde of the LORD. Then Jeroboam built Sichem in mounte Ephraim, and dwelt therein. And went from thence, *and buylt Penuel.

And Jeroboam thought in his hert: now shal the kingdome returne to the house of Dauid. For yf this people goe vp & do sacrifice in ꝑ house of the LORD at Jerusalem, thē shal the herte of thys people turne agayne vnto theyr lorde Rehoboam kynge of Juda: and so shall they kil me and go agayne to Rehoboam kinge of Juda. *Whereupon the kynge toke counsel, & made two calues of golde, & sayd vnto them. It is muche for you to go vp to Jerusalē. *Behold, O Israel: these are thy goddes, whiche brought you out of the land of Egipte. And he set the one in Bethel, and the other set he in Dan. And this thinge turned to synne, for the people went (because of the one) as farre as Dan. And he made an house of hil aultares, *and made priestes of the lowest of the people, which wer not of the sonnes of Leui. And Jeroboam made a feaste ꝑ xv. daye of the eyght moneth, lyke vnto the feast that is in Juda, & offered on ꝑ aultare. And so dyd he in Bethell, to offre vnto the calues ꝑ he had made. And he put in Bethell the priestes of the hyll aulters, which he had made. And he offred burnt offringes vpon the aultare, whiche he had made in Bethel, the xv. daye of the eyghte moneth: euen in the moneth which he had ymagined of hys owne hearte: & made a solempne feaste vnto the childzen of Israel, & offered vpō the aultare, and burnte incense.

¶ The. xiii. Chapter.

Jeroboam doyng sacrifice vnto the calues, is reprehended of the Prophete, Hys hande dryeth vp, while he putteth it out against the prophete. The prophet is killed, and buried.

AND beholde, there came a man of GOD out of Juda (By the worde of the LORD) vnto Bethel, & Jeroboam stode by the altare to put incense. And he cryed against the aultare in the word of the LORD & sayde. O aultare, aultar, thus saieth the LORD: Behold, a childe shalbe borne vnto the house of Dauid, (Josia by name) & vpon the shal he offre the priestes of the hyl aultares that burnt incense vpon the, and mens bones shalbe burnt vpon the. And he gaue a token the same tyme, saying: this is the token, that the LORD hath spoke it. Behold the aultare shal rente, & the ashes that are vpon it, shal fal out.

And whē the king heard the sayinge of ꝑ man of GOD (whiche had cryed against the aultare in Bethell) he stretched out his hande from ꝑ aultare, saying: holde hym. And hys hande whiche he put forth against him, dryed vp, and he could not pul it in againe to him: the aultare also clane asunder, & the ashes fell out from ꝑ aultar, accordyng to the token whiche the manne of GOD had geuen by the wozde of the LORD. And the kynge answered, & sayd vnto ꝑ mā of GOD. *Oh praye vnto ꝑ LORD thy GOD, & make intercession foz me, that my hande may be restozed me againe. And the mā of GOD besought ꝑ LORD, and the kinges hande was restozed againe, and became as it was afoze.

And the kynge sayd vnto the man of GOD, come home with me, that thou mayst dine, & I will giue the a reward. And the manne of GOD sayd vnto the kynge: yf thou wouldest geue me halfe thine house, I wyll not go in with the: neither wil I eate bzead oz dzinke water in this place. Foz so was it charged me, thozow ꝑ wozd of ꝑ LORD, saying: eate no bzeade noz dzynke water, noz turne againe by ꝑ same way that thou camest. And so he went another waye & returned not by ꝑ waye that he came to Bethel. And there dwelt an old pzophet in Bethel & his sōnes came, & told him al the wozkes, that ꝑ man of GOD had done that daye in Bethel, and the wozdes whiche he had spoken vnto the kynge, tolde they theyr father also. And theyr father sayd vnto thē: what waye went he: And his sonnes shewed hym what waye the manne of GOD went, whiche came from Juda. And he sayd vnto his sonnes: saddle me the asse. Whiche when they had sadeled, he gat hym vp theron, and wente after ꝑ man of GOD, & founde him syttynge vnder a tre. And he sayde vnto hym: arte thou the man of GOD that camest from Juda: And he sayd: I am.

He sayd vnto him: come home with me, & eate bzead. He answered: I maye not returne with the, to go in with the, neither wil I eat bzeade oz dzynke water with the in thys place. Foz it was sayd to me in the wozde of the LORDE. Thou shalt eate no bzeade, noz dzynke water there, noz turne againe to go by the way ꝑ thou camest. He said vnto hi: I am a pzophet also as well as thou, & an angel spake vnto me in the name of the LORD, saying: bzynge hym agayne with the into thine own houle, ꝑ he may eate bzeade & dzinke water. And he lyed vnto hym. And so he wente agayne with him, and dyd eate bzeade in hys house and dzanke water.

And it foztuned, ꝑ as they sat at ꝑ table, ꝑ wozd of the LORD came vnto the pzophet, that bzought him againe. And he cryed vnto ꝑ man of GOD ꝑ came frō Juda, saying: thus sayeth the LORDE: because thou hast disobeyed the mouth of the LORD, & hast not kepte ꝑ cōmaūdement which the Lozde thy God commaūded the: but camest backe agayne, & hast eaten bzead, & dzonke water, in ꝑ place (cōcerning ꝑ whiche ꝑ LORD did say vnto the: Thou shalt eat no bzeade noz dzinke water) thy carkasse shal not cum vnto the sepulchze of thy fathers.

And so it came to passe, that when he had eaten bzead & dzonke, the pzophet which bzought hym agayne, saddled hi an asse. And when he was gone, *a lyō met him by the waye, and slue him, and his carkasse was cast in the waye, and the asse stode therby, and the lyon stode by the coozse also. And men ꝑ passed by, saw the carkasse cast in the waye, & the lyon standinge therby: & they came and tolde it in the towne where the old pzophet dwelt. And when the pzophet that bzought hym backe agayne from the way hearde therof, he sayde: it is ꝑ man of GOD: he was disobedient vnto the wozd of the LORD, & therefoze ꝑ LORD hath deliuered hym vnto ꝑ lyon, which hathe rent hym and slayne hym, accoz-ding to the wozde of ꝑ LORDE, whiche he spake vnto hym. And he spake to his sonnes, sayinge: saddle me an asse: & so they dyd. And he went & founde his bo-dy cast in the waye, & the asse and the ly-on stode by the coozse. And the lyō had not eatē the carkasse noz hurt the asse. And the pzophet toke vp the bodye of the mā of GOD & layed it vpon the asse, and bzought it agayne: and the old pzo-phet came to the cytye, to lament, and to bury hym. And he layed hys bodye in his owne graue, & they lamēted ouer him (Alas, my bzother.)

And when he had buryed hym, he spake to hys sonnes, sayinge: when I am dead, se that ye bury me in ꝑ sepul-chze wherein the man of GOD is bury-ed: laye my bones beside his boones. *Foz the sayinge whiche he cryed at ꝑ wozd of LORD against ꝑ alter in Be-thel (& against al ꝑ houses of hilaniters which are in the cyties of Samarie) shall come to passe.

Howbeit, foz al that, Jeroboam con-uerted not from his wicked waye: but turned backe and made of ꝑ lowest of ꝑ people prieſtes of the hylaulters. And whoſo pleaſed him, he fulled his hande, and became prieſt of the hilaulters. And this thing turned to ſyn vnto the houſe of Jeroboam, euen to deſtroy him, & to bryng hym to nought from the face of the earthe.

¶ The. xiiii. Chapter.

Jeroboams wife aſketh counſayl of Ahia the prophet. Jeroboam dieth. Siſak king of Egipt robbeth the houſe of the Lorde. Rehoboam dyeth, and Abiam ſucceadeth him.

I

AT that tyme Abia the ſonne of Jeroboam fel ſycke. And Jeroboam ſayd vnto his wife: vp (I pray the) and diſguyſe thy ſelfe, that thou be not knowē to be ꝑ wife of Jeroboam, & get the to Silo. For ther is Ahia ꝑ prophet
1. Reg. 11. which tolde me * ꝑ I ſhuld be kinge ouer this people. And take wt the ten loues & crackneis, & a cruſe of hony, & go to him, ꝑ he may tel the what ſhal becōe of the child. And Jeroboams wyfe dyd ſo: & aroſe, & wente to Silo, & came to ꝑ houſe of Ahia. But Ahia coulde not ſe, for his eyes wer waren dimme for age.

And ꝑ LORD ſaid vnto Ahia: behold, the wife of Jeroboā commeth to aſke a thinge of the for her ſon, for he is ſicke. But thus ſhalt thou ſaye vnto her: And when ſhe came in, ſhe feyned her ſelf to be an other woman. But when Ahia heard the ſound of her fete as ſhe came in at the dore, he ſayd: come in thou wife of Jeroboam, why feyneſt thou thy ſelf to be an other: I am ſent to the to ſhew the heuye thinges.

Go tel Jeroboā, thus ſaith the LORD GOD of Iſrael. It repenteth me for aſmuch as * I exalted the from among ꝑ

1. Reg. 15. d. hym that * pyſſeth againſt the wall, and hym that is in priſon, and forſaken in Iſrael, and wyll take awaye the remnaunte of the houſe of Jeroboam, as a manne taketh away donge, tyll he hath caryed out all.

* Whoſoeuer (of Jeroboams houſe) 1. Reg. 14. dye in the towne, hym ſhal the dogges eate: and he ꝑ dyeth in the felde, ſhal the foules of the ayre eate: for the LORDE hath ſayd it. Vp therfore, and get the to thine houſe. Behold, when thy fote entreth into ꝑ cytie, the child ſhal dye. And all they of Iſrael ſhall mourne for him, D 2. Reg. 10. d. and bury hym: for he onely of Jeroboā ſhal come to the ſepulchre, becauſe in hym there is founde goodneſſe toward the LORD GOD of Iſrael in the houſe of Jeroboam. Moreouer, ꝑ LORD ſhal ſtyrre him vp a king ouer Iſrael which ſhall deſtroy the houſe of Jeroboam in that daye. But what is it now: For the LORDE ſhall ſmyte Iſrael, as when a reed is ſhaken in the water, & he ſhall wede Iſraell out of thys good lande (whiche he gaue to theyr fathers) and ſhal ſcattre them beyonde the riuer, becauſe they haue made them groues, & angred ꝑ LORD. And he ſhal gyue Iſrael vp, becauſe of the ſynnes of Jeroboam, which dyd ſyn, & made Iſrael to ſinne. And Jeroboams wife aroſe, & departed, & came to Thirzah, and whē ſhe came to the threſholde of the dore, the childe was dead. And all Iſrael buryed him, and lamented him, accordynge to the word of ꝑ LORD which he ſpake by the hand of hys ſeruaunte Ahia the prophet. And the reſte of the wordes ꝑ concerne Jeroboā, how he warred, and how he raigned: Behold they are written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iſrael. And the dayes which Jeroboam raigned wer. xxii. yere. And whē he was laied a ſlepe wt his fathers, Nadab his ſonne raigned in his ſtede.

Rehoboam the ſon of Salomō raigned in Juda, & Rehoboam was. xli. yere old when he begā to raygne, & he raigned. xvii. yere in Jeruſalem (the cytie which the LORD did chooſe out of al the tribes of Iſrael, to put his name ther.) Hys mothers name was Naama an ammonit. And Juda wrought wickednelle in the ſyght of ꝑ LORD, & angred hi in mo thinges thē theyr fathers did i theyr ſines whiche they ſined. For they alſo made thē hilaiters, images, & idols groues on euery hye hil, & vnder euery thick tre. And ther was a ſtues of male childzen

childzen in the land, and they did accozdinge to al the abhominacions of ꝑ nacions which the LORD cast out befoze the childzē of Israel. And it foztuned, ꝑ in ꝑ fiftie yere of king Rehoboā: Sisak king of Egipt came vp against Jerusalem, & toke away ꝑ treasures of ꝑ house of the LORD, and the treasures of the kinges house, & spoyled all that was to be had. And he toke away the shildes of golde* whiche Salomon had made. In whose stede kyng Rehoboā made bzasen shyldes, and committed them vnto the hādes of ꝑ keping of the captaines of the garde, which wayted at ꝑ dooze of the kynges house. And when ꝑ kyng went into the house of the LORD, they of the garde bare them, and bzoughte them againe into the garde chambze.

The rest of the wozdes that cōcerne Rehoboam, and al that he dyd, are they not wzitten in the boke of ꝑ Chzonicles of ꝑ kinges of Juda: And there was warre betwene Rehoboam & Jeroboā all their lyues. And Rehoboam slept wᵗ his fathers, and was buryed besyde his fathers in the citie of Dauid. His mothers name was Naama an Ammonit. And Abiam his sonne raygned in hys stede.

¶ The.xv. Chapter.

Wicked Abiam raigneth ouer Juda, and rigbteous Asa succedeth in hys roume. The battayle betwene Asa and Baasa. Josaphat succedeth Asa. Nadab succedeth Jeroboam. Baasa killeth Nadab

IN the.xviii. yere of kynge* Jeroboam the sōne of Nabat, raigned Abiā ouer Juda. Thze yeare rayned he in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Maacha, the doughter of Abisalom. And he walked in all ꝑ synnes of his father which he had done befoze him: and his herte was not perfect with the Lozd his GOD* as the hert of Dauid his father. Neuertheiesse, foz Dauids sake dyd ꝑ LORD his GOD giue hym a lyght in Jerusalem, that he sette vp his sōne after hym, & to stablysh Jerusalem: bycause Dauid dyd ꝑ whiche was ryght in the sight of the LORD, & turned from nothing that he commaūded him al ꝑ dayes of his life* saue only in ꝑ matter of Uzias ꝑ Hethite. And there was warre betwene Rehoboam and Jeroboam as long as they lyued. The rest of the wozdes that concerne Abiam, and al that he dyd, are they not wzytten in the booke of ꝑ Chzonicles of the kinges of Juda: And there was war betwene Abiam and Jeroboam. And Abiam slepte with his fathers: & they buryed hym in the cytie of Dauid. And Asa his sonne raigned in his stede:

*In the.xx. yere of Jeroboam kinge of Israel raygned Asa ouer Juda. xli. yere raigned he in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Maacha, ꝑ doughter of Abisalom. And Asa dyd ꝑ semed right in the eyes of ꝑ LORD, as did Dauid his father. *And he tokz away the whozekepers out of the lande, & put awaye all the abhominable ydols ꝑ hys father had made. And he put downe * Maacha his mother from bearynge rule, bycause she had made ymages in groues. And Asa destroyed her ymages & burnt them by the bzooke Cedzō. But ꝑ hil aulters were not put downe. Neuertheiesse, Asas herte was perfect with ꝑ LORD al his daies. He bzought in the holye vessels of hys father (and that he had dedicate) vnto the house of the LORD: gold and syluer, and iewels. And there was war betwene Asa and Baasa kynge of Israel al theyr dayes.

And Baasa kynge of Israel wente vp against Juda, and buylt Rama, so that he would let none go out oz in, to Asa kynge of Juda. Then Asa toke al the golde and siluer that was left in the treasures of ꝑ house of the LORD, & the treasures of the kinges house, & deliuered them vnto the handes of hys seruauntes, and Asa sent thē to Benhadad the sonne of Tabzimon the sonne of Hezion kynge of Siriae that dwelte at Damasco) saying: there is a bonde betwene the & me, betwene my father and thy father. And beholde, I haue sente vnto the a pzesente of syluer and golde, that thou come and bzeake the bond that thou haste with Baasa king of Israel, that he maye departe fro me. So Benhadad herkened vnto kyng Asa, & sente the captaynes of the hoostes (whiche he had) against the cytyes of Israel, & smote Hion & Dan, and Abel Beth, Maacha, and al the region of Cineroth, with al the lande of Nephthali. And whē Baasa hearde therof he lefte buyldyng of Rama, and dwelt in Thirza. Then king Asa made a pzoclamacio thozowout al Juda, ꝑ none shold be excused. And so they toke ꝑ stones of Ra-and the timber (wherwith Baasa had buylded) & kinge Asa buylt with thē ꝑ hyl of Ben Jamin and Mizpa. The rēnaunt of al the wozdes ꝑ concerne Asa, and al his might & all that he dyd, & the cyties whiche he buylded, are they not wzytten in the booke of ꝑ chzonycles of the kinges of Juda: Neuertheleſſe, in hys old age he was diſeaſed in his fete. And Asa ſlept with hys fathers, & was buried beſydes hys fathers in the cyty of Dauid his father. And* Jehoſaphat his ſon raygned in hys ſtede. And Nadab the ſonne of Jeroboam began to raygne vpon Iſrael ꝑ ſecond yere of Asa kynge of Juda, and raigned vpō Iſrael two yere. And he dyd euyll in the ſight of the LORDE, walkinge in the waye of hys father, and in hys ſynne, wherewith he made Iſrael ſynne. And Baasa ꝑ ſon of Ahia (which was of the houſe of Iſachar) cōſpired againſt him, & Baasa ſmote hym at Gibbethō which is a cytie of ꝑ Philiſtines, for Nadab & al Iſrael laied ſiege to Gibbethō. Euen in the thyrde yere of Asa kynge of Juda, did Baasa kaye him, & raygned in hys ſtede.* And it foꝛtuned, that when he was kinge, he ſmote all the houſe of Jeroboam, and lefte hym nought that bꝛeathed, vntyll he had put him cleane out, accoꝛding to ꝑ ſayinge of ꝑ LORD which he ſpake by hys ſeruaūt Ahia ꝑ Selonite: bycauſe of the ſynnes of Jeroboam wherewith he ſynned, & made Iſrael ſin, whē he with his pꝛouocacion angred ꝑ LORDE GOD of Iſrael. The reſt of the wozdes that cōcerne Nadab and al that he did, are they not wzitten in ꝑ boke of ꝑ Chzonicles of the kinges of Iſrael? And ther was warre betwen Asa and Baasa kyng of Iſrael al their dayes.

So in the third yere of Asa kynge of Juda, began Baasa ꝑ ſonne of Ahia to raygne ouer al Iſrael in Thirza. xxiiii. yeare. And he dyd that which is euyl in the ſight of the LORD, walkynge in ꝑ waye of Jeroboam, and in hys ſynne, which made Iſrael to ſynne.

¶ The. xvi. Chapter.

¶ Jehu propheteyeth agaynſte Baaſa/ whom Ela ſucceedeth/ Zimri killeth hys maſter Ela, and deſtroyeth the houſe of Baaſa. Ahab ſucceedeth Zimri/ and taketh to wife wicked Jezebel.

THen the wozde of ꝑ LORD came to Jehu the ſonne of Hanani a- 1 gainſt Baaſa, ſayig: foꝛ as much as I exalted the out of the duſt, & made the capitayne ouer my people Iſrael, & thou haſt walked in the waye of Jeroboam, & haſt made my people Iſrael to ſinne, to anger me with theyr ſynnes: Beholde, I wyl roote out the poſterity of Baaſa, & the poſteritie of his houſe, & wyl make his houſe like ꝑ houſe of Jeroboam the ſonne of Nebat.* That mā of Baaſa which dyeth in the cytye, him ſhall the dogges eate: & that mā of hym which dyeth in the feldes, ſhall the foules of the ayze eate.

The reſt of the wozdes that concerne Baaſa & what he dyd, and his power, 2 are they not wzytten in the booke of ꝑ Chzonicles of ꝑ kinges of Iſrael? And ſo Baaſa ſlept with his fathers, and was buryed in Thirza. And Ela hys ſonne raygned in hys ſtede. And by the hand of the pꝛopher Jehu the ſonne of Hanani, came the wozde of the LORDE againſt Baaſa, and againſt his houſe, & againſt all the wickednelle that he dyd in the ſighte of the LORDE (in angring hym with the wozke of hys owne handes) that he ſhoulde bee lyke ꝑ houſe of Jeroboam, and bycauſe he killed hym: That is to ſay/ Jehu the ſonne of Hanani the Pꝛophete.

The. xxvi. yere of Asa kyng of Juda began Ela, ꝑ ſonne of Baaſa to raigne ouer Iſrael in Thirza, two yere. And his ſeruaunte Zimri, (whiche was captayne of halfe his charettes) conſpired againſt hym, as he was in Thirza dꝛinking: and was dꝛondē in ꝑ the houſe of Arza ſtuarde of hys houſe in Thirza. And Zimri came & ſmote him, & killed hi in ꝑ. xxvii. yere of Asa kynge of Juda, and raygned in hys ſtede. And it foꝛtuned that when he was kynge, * and ſate on his ſeate, he ſlue all the houſe of Baaſa, not leauing thereof one to piſſe agaynſt a wal, yea, he ſlue hys kinſfolkes and frēdes alſo. And thus did Zimri deſtroy al the houſe of Baaſa, accoꝛding to the wozd of ꝑ LORD whiche he ſpake againſte Baaſa by the hande of Jehu the pꝛophete, foꝛ all the ſinnes of Baaſa & ſinnes of Ela his ſonne, which they ſynned & made Iſraell to ſynne, and angre the LORD GOD of Iſraell wt theyr vanities. The reſt of ꝑ wozdes that that concerne Elia, and al ꝑ he dyd: are they not wꝛittē in the booke of ꝑ Chꝛonicles of the kinges of Iſrael?

In the. xxvii. yere of Aſa king of Iuda, did zimry raigne. vii. daies in Thirza, & the people was then in the hoſt beſieging Gebbethon, a cyty of ꝑ Philiſtines. And the people of ꝑ hoſt heard one ſaye: zimri hath conſpyred, and ſlayne the kynge: wherfoꝛe all they of Iſrael made Amri (the captayne of the hoſte) kinge ouer Iſrael that ſame daye, euen in the hooſte. And Amri departed vp from Gibbethon, and all Iſraell with hym, and they beſieged Thirza. And when zimri ſawe, that ꝑ cytye muſt nedes be taken, he went into ꝑ palace of the kynges houſe, and burnt him ſelfe & the kinges houſe with fyꝛe, and ſo dyed foꝛ hys ſynnes whiche he ſynned, in doing that whiche is euil in the ſyghte of the LORD, and in walking in the wape of Ieroboam and his ſinnnes which he dyd, and in that he made Iſrael to ſyn.

The reſte of ꝑ woꝛdes that concerne zimry, and the treaſō that he wꝛought, are they not wꝛittē in ꝑ boke of ꝑ Chꝛonicles of the kynges of Iſraell? Then were the people of Iſraell deuyded into two partes, foꝛ halfe ꝑ people folowed Thibni the ſonne of Ginath, making him king, & the other half folowed Amri. But ꝑ people that folowed Amri pꝛeuayled againſt the people that folowed Thibni the ſonne of Ginath. And ſo Thibni dyed, and Amri raygned. In the. xxxi. yere of Aſa king of Iuda begā Amri to raygne ouer Iſraell twelue yere. Syxe yere raygned he in Thirza. He bought the hyll Schomron of one Schemar foꝛ two talentes of ſiluer, & buylte in the hyll, and called the name of the cyty which he buylt after ꝑ name of Schemar which had ben owner of ꝑ hyll, Schomron. But Amri wꝛought ꝑ whiche was euil in ꝑ eies of the LORD, and dyd woꝛſe then all that were before hym. Foꝛ he walked in all the wape of Ieroboam the ſonne of Nabat, & in his ſynnes that made Iſrael ſynne: to angre ꝑ LORD GOD of Iſrael with theyꝛ vanities. The reſte of the woꝛdes that concerne Amri, and all that he dyd, and his ſtrength that he ſhewed: are they not wꝛytten in the booke of ꝑ Chꝛonicles of ꝑ kinges of Iſrael? And ſo Amri ſlepte with hys fathers, and was buryed in Schemaron, and Ahab hys ſonne raygned in his ſtede.

In the. xxxviii. yere of Aſa kynge of Iuda, begā Ahab the ſonne of Amri to raygne ouer Iſrael: & the ſame Ahab ꝑ ſonne of Amri raigned ouer Iſraell in Samaria. xxii. yere. And Ahab ꝑ ſonne of Amri dyd euyl in ꝑ ſight of ꝑ LORD aboue all that were before hym. Foꝛ it ſemed vnto hym but a lyghte thynge to walke in the ſinnes of Ieroboam the ſonne of Nebat. He toke Iezabel alſo ꝑ doughter of Ethbaal king of the Sidonites to wyfe, and *went and ſerued Baal, and woꝛſhipped him. And he reared vp an aulter foꝛ Baal in the temple of Baal, which he had buylded i Schōron. And Ahab made groues, and pꝛoceaded further in angryng the LORDE GOD of Iſrael, then all ꝑ kinges of Iſrael that were before hym.

In his dates dyd Hiel of Bethel build Iericho. And it *coſt hym Abiram hys eldeſt ſonne when he layed the foundacion, & his yongeſt ſonne Segub, when he ſet vp the gates, accoꝛdinge vnto the woꝛde of the LORDE * whiche he ſpake by Joſua the ſonne of Nun.

The. xvii. Chapter.

Elias is norſhed and fed of rauens/ and after is ſent to zarphath (other wiſe called Sarepta) to a woman whoſe childe he rayſeth to lyfe.

AND Elia ꝑ Theſbit (which was of the enhabytours of Gilead) ſayde vnto Ahab: *as trulye as ꝑ LORD GOD of Iſrael lyueth, before whome I ſtande * there ſhall bee neyther dewe noꝛ rayne theſe yeres, but accoꝛding to my woꝛde.

And the woꝛde of ꝑ LORD came vnto hym ſaying: get the hence, & turne the eaſte warde, and hyde thy ſelfe in the bꝛoke Cherith, ꝑ is it that lyeth before Joꝛdā: Thou ſhalt dꝛinke of ꝑ ryuer: & I haue cōmaunded the rauens to fede the there. And ſo he went, & did accoꝛdig vnto ꝑ woꝛde of ꝑ LORD. Foꝛ he went, & dwelt by ꝑ bꝛoke Cherith ꝑ is before Joꝛdan. And the rauens bꝛought hym bꝛead and fleſhe in the moꝛning, & lykewyſe bꝛead and fleſh in the euenynge, & he dꝛanke of the bꝛooke. And it chaunced after a while, that the bꝛooke dꝛyed vp, bycauſe there fel no rayne vpon the earthe. And the woꝛde of the LORDE came vnto him, ſaying: *vp, & get the to zarphath, which is in Sidon, & dwell there. Beholde, I haue commaunded a widdow there to sustayne the. So he arose: & went to zarphath. And when he came to ꝑ gate of ꝑ citie, the wyddowe was ther gatheringe styckes. And he called to her, and sayd: *fet me I prayе Iud.4.6. the a lytle water in a vessel, ꝑ I maye drinke. And as she was going to fet it, he cryed after her, and sayd: bringe me I prayе the, a morsell of bread also in thine hande. She saide: As truly as ꝑ LORD thy GOD liueth, I haue no bread ready, but euen an handful of mele in a barell, & a litle oyle in a cruse. And behold, I am gathering two stryckes for to go in and dresse it for me & my sonne that we may eate, and dye.

C And Elia said vnto her: feare not, cum, and do as thou haste sayed, but make me thereof a litle cake fyrste of all: and bringe it vnto me, & afterwarde make for the, and thy sonne. For thus sayeth the LORDE GOD of Israel: the mele in the barel shal not be wasted: neither shal the oile in the cruse be diminished, vntil the LORD haue sent rayne vpon the earthe. And she went, & dyd as Elia sayd. And she & he, & her house dyd eat a good space, and the mele wasted not out of the barell, neither was the oyle spent out of the cruse, according to the worde of the LORDE, which he spake by the hande of Elia.

And after these thynges it happened, that the sonne of the wyfe of the house fel syeke. And his sickenesse was so sore, ꝑ there was no breth lefte in him. And she sayd vnto Elia: what haue I to do with the, O thou man of GOD? art thou come vnto me to call my synne agayne to remembraunce, & to slaye my sonne? He sayde vnto her: gyue me thy sonne, & D he toke him out of her lappe, and caried him vp into a lofte, where he abode, and layed hym vpon hys owne bed, and called vnto the LORD, and sayd: O LORD my GOD, haste thou punished also this widow (with whome I dwell as a straunger) and hast slayne her son: *And he stretched him self vpō ꝑ childe 4.reg.4.f thre times, & called vnto the LORD, & Actu.20.c. sayde: O LORD my God, let this childes soule come into hym againe. And ꝑ LORD hearde the voyce of Elia, and the soule of the child came in to him agayne, and he reuyued. And Elia toke the boye and brought hym downe out of the chambre into the house, and deliuered hym vnto hys mother, and Elya sayd: beholde, thy son liueth. And the woman sayd vnto Elia: now I knowe that thou art a man of GOD, and that the worde of the LORD in thy mouthe is true.

¶ The.xviii. Chapter.

Elia is sent to Ahab. Obadia, otherwise called Abdia hydeth an hundred prophetes. Elia sleeth all Baals prophetes and afterward obtaineth raine.

AFter processe of manye dayes the I worde of the LORD came to Elia in the third yere, saying: go shewe thy selfe vnto Thab, and I *will sende Deu.11.b rayne vpō the earthe. And Elia went to Iacob.c shewe him selfe vnto Ahab, & ther was a great famishment in Schomron. And Ahab called Obadia, which was ꝑ gouernoure of hys house: and Obadia feared GOD greatly: For when Iezabel destroied ꝑ prophetes of ꝑ LORD, he toke an hundred prophetes & hyd them, fyftie men in one caue, & fyftye in an other, and prouyded bread & water for them. And Ahab sayd vnto Obadia: go into the lande, vnto al the fountaines of water, & vnto al the brookes, if happely we may fynde grasse to saue the horses and the mules, and that we destroy not some of the beastes. And so they deuyded the lande betwene them to walke thorow it. Ahab went one way by him selfe, and Obadia went an other waye by hym selfe.

And it chaunced, ꝑ as Obadia was B in the way, Elia met hym. And Obadia knew him: & fel on his face, & sayd: arte not thou my lorde Elia? And he answered hym: I am he. Go and tel thy lorde: beholde, Elia is here. He sayde: what haue I sinned, that thou woldest deliuer thy seruaūt into ꝑ hand of Ahab, to slaye me? As truly as ꝑ LORD thy GOD liueth, there is no nacion or kingdome, whither my lord hathe not sent to seke the. And when they sayd: he is not ther, he toke an oth of ꝑ kingdom and nacīō, when he foūde the not. And now thou saiest: go & tell thy lorde, ꝑ Elia is here. And as soone as I am gone from the, the spirite of the LORDE shal cary the into some place that I do not knowe, & so when I come, and tell Ahab, and he C canne not fynde the, he shall slaye me. But I thy seruaunte feare the LORDE fro my youthe vp, was it not tolde my

lorde, what I did when Jezabel slue the prophetes of the LORD, howe I hid an hundred mē of the LORDES prophetes, fyfty men in one caue, and fyftie in an other, and prouided them of breade and water: And nowe thou sayest: go thou nowe and shewe thy lorde, beholde Elia is here, that he maye slaye me.

And Elia saide: as truely as ꝑ LORD of hostes lyueth, before whom I stande, I wyll shewe my selfe vnto hym thys daye. So Obadia wente to mete Ahab, and tolde him. And Ahab went to mete Elia. And it fortuned, that when Ahab sawe Elia, he saide vnto him: arte thou he that troubleth Israel? He answered: it is not I that haue troubled Israell, but thou: and thy fathers house, in that ye haue forsaken the commaūdementes of the LORDE, and thou haste folowed Baal. Nowe therfore sende, and gather to me all Israell, vnto mount Carmell, and the prophetes of Baal, *foure hundred and fyftie, & the prophetes of the ydoles groues, viii. hundred, which eat of Jezabels table. So Ahab sent vnto all the children of Israel: and gathered the prophetes togither vnto moūt Carmel.

And Elia came vnto al the people, and said: howe longe halte ye betwene two opinions? yf the LORD be GOD, folowe him: but if Baal be he, thē go after him: And ꝑ people answered him not a word. Then said Elia vnto the people againe: I onely remaine a prophete of ꝑ LORD: But Baals prophetes are foure hūdred and fyftie. Let them therefore gyue vs two oxē, and let them chose the one, and cut him in peces, & lay him on wood, and put no fyre vnder, and I wyll dresse the other oxe, & laye him on wood, & wyl put no fyre vnder. And call ye on the name of your god, and I wil call on the name of the LORDE: and then the GOD that answereth by fyre, let him be GOD.

*And al the people answered, and said: it is well spoken. And Elia saide vnto ꝑ prophetes of Baal: chose you an oxe, and dresse him firste, (for ye are manye) and call on the name of youre goddes, but put no fyre vnder. And they toke the one oxe that he dyd giue them, & they dressed it, *and called on the name of Baal, frō morning to noone: saying: O Baal heare vs. But there was no voyce, nor one to answere. And they lepte vpon the alter that they had made. And at noone it fortuned, that Elia mocked them, and said: crye loude, for he is a god, peraduenture he is talkyng or occupyed (in folowyng of his enemyes) or is in his iourneye, or happily he slepeth, and must be awaked with your crie. And they cried loud, and cutte them selues as their maner was, with knyues and launcers, tyll ꝑ bloud folowed on them. And it chaunced, that when myddaye was passed, they prophecyed vntyll the tyme of the euenyng sacrifice. But there was neyther voyce nor one to aunswere, nor anye that regarded them.

And Elia sayd vnto al the folke: come to me. And al ꝑ people came to him. *And he repayred the altar of the LORD that was broken. *And Elia toke .xii. stones, accordyng to the numbre of the twelue trybes of the sonnes of Jacob, (vnto whome the worde of the LORDE came) saying: *Israell shalbe thy name. And wt the stones he made an alter in ꝑ name of the LORD. And he made a dytch roūd aboute ꝑ alter, as brode as two forowes of the corne felde. And he put the wood in order, and hewed the oxe in pieces, and layed hym on the wood, and sayde: fyll foure barels with water, and poure it on the burntsacrifice, and on the wood. And he sayde, do so agayne. And they did so the seconde time. And he said againe, doe it the thirde tyme. And they dyd it yet the thyrde tyme. And the water ran rounde aboute the alter: he fylled the pyt with water also.

And it fortuned, when the tyme came (wherein the burntsacrifice of the euenyng vsed to be offered) Elia ꝑ prophet came, and sayd: LORD GOD of Abrahā, Isahac & of Israel, it shalbe knowē this day, ꝑ thou art the GOD of Israel, & that I am thy seruaunte, and that I haue done al these thynges at thy commaūdement. Heare me (O LORD) heare me, that this people maye knowe that thou art the LORD GOD, and that thou hast turned their hert againe nowe at ꝑ last. *And the fyre of the LORDE fell, & consumed the burnt sacrifyce, the wood, the stones and the dust, & lycked vp the water that was in the pit. And when al the people sawe it, they fell on theyr faces, & sayde: The LORDE, he is GOD: ꝑ LORD he is GOD. And Elia sayde vnto them:

Take ꝑ prophetes of Baal, & let not one of them escape. And they toke thē, & Elia brought thē to the brooke Kison, & slue them there. And Elia sayde vnto Ahab: Get thee vp, and eate and drynke, for there is a sounde of much rayne. And so Ahab wente vp to eate and to drynke, and Elia wente vp to the toppe of Carmel. And he layed hym selfe flatte vpon the earth, and put his face betwene hys knees, and sayde to hys seruaunte: goe vp, I praye thee, and looke toward the waye of the sea. And he went vp and loked, and sayde: there is nothinge. And he sayde: go againe, seuen tymes. And it foꝛtuned, that at the seuenth tyme, he said: behold, there ariseth a lytle cloud of the sea lyke a mannes hande. He sayde: Go, and say vnto Ahab: Make fast thy charrette, and gette the downe, that the raine stop thee not. And it came to passe, ꝑ in the meane whyle, the heauen was blacke with cloudes & wynde, and there was a great rayne. And Ahab gat vp, & came to Jezraell. And the hande of the LORDE was on Elia, and he gyrded vp his loynes, and ranne before Ahab, tyll he came to Jezrael.

¶ The.xix. Chapter.

Elia flying from Jezabel, is nourished of the angel of God, and is commaunded to annoint Jsrael, Jehu, and Eliseus, whom the Hebrues call Elisa.

AND Ahab tolde Jezabel, all ꝑ Elia had done, and howe he had slayne all the prophetes with the swearde. Then Jezabel sent a messenger vnto Elia, saying: *so and so let the goddes doe to me, yf I make not thy soule lyke one of theyrs by to morow this time. When he sawe that, he arose, and went for his lyfe, and came to Berseba in Juda, and lefte his seruaunt there. But he himselfe wente a dayes iourney into the wildernesse, and came, and sat downe vnder a Juniper tree, and desyred for his soule, that he myght dye, and said: *it is nowe ynoughe (O LORD) take my soule, for I am not better then my fathers.

And as he lay and slepte vnder ꝑ Juniper tree: behold, an aungell touched him, and said vnto him: vp, and eate. And when he loked about him: behold, there was a lofe of brosted breade and a bottel of water at his heade. And he dyd eate & drynke, and layde him downe agayne to slepe. And the aungell of the LORDE came agayne the seconde tyme, and touched him, and sayde: vp and eate, for thou hast yet a greate iourneye. And he arose, and dyd eate and drinke, and walked in the strength of that meate *fourtye dayes and fourtie nyghtes, euen vnto Horeb the mount of GOD. When he came thyther into a caue, he lodged therin al nyght.

And beholde, the worde of the LORDE came to him, and saide vnto hym: what doest thou here Elia? And he answered. I haue ben gelous for the LORD GOD of hoostes sake. For ꝑ children of Jsrael haue forsaken thy couenaunte, *broken downe thine alters, & slayne thy prophetes with the swerde, & I only am lefte, & they seke my lyfe to take it awaye. And he sayd: come out, and stand vpō ꝑ mount before the LORD. And behold, *ꝑ LORD went by, & a myghtie strōg winde ꝑ rent the mountaynes, & brake ꝑ rockes before the LORDE. But ꝑ LORD was not in the wynd. And after ꝑ wynd came an earthquake. But the LORDE was not in the earthquake. And after the earthquake came fyre: but the LORDE was not in ꝑ fyre. And after the fyre came a small styl voyce. And when Elia heard it, he couered his face with his mantell, and went out, and stoode in the entrynge in of the caue: And behold, there came a voice vnto him, & sayde: what doest thou here Elia? And he answered: I haue ben gelous for the LORDE GOD of hoostes sake, bicause the children of Jsrael haue forsaken thy couenaūt, cast down thine alters, & slayne thy prophetes with the swerde, and I only am lefte, & they seke my life to take it awaye. And ꝑ LORDE sayd vnto him: go and turne thy way to the wyldernesse vnto Damasco, ꝑ thou maye annoynt *Hazael king ouer Syria. And *Jehu the sonne of Nimsi shalt thou annoynt kyng ouer Jsrael. And Elisa ꝑ sonne of Saphat of Abel. Meholoh shalte thou annoynte to be prophete in thy roume. And it shall come to passe, that whoso escapeth the swerde of Hazael, him shall Jehu slay: and yf any man escape ꝑ swerde of Jehu, him shal Elisa put to death. And thereto *I haue lefte me. vii. M. in Jsrael, of which neuer mā bowed his knees vnto Baal, nor kissed him with his mouth.

So he departed thence, and founde Elisa the sonne of Saphat plowynge, and hauing twelue yoke of oxen before him, & he wt the. xii. And Elia wēt by hi, and cast his mantel vpon him. And he left the oxen, and ranne after Elia, and 3.4. said: *let me I pray the, kysse my father, & my mother, & then I wyll folowe thee. He sayde vnto him: go backe agayne, for what is it that I haue done to the? And when he wente backe againe from hym he toke a couple of oxen, and slue the, & dressed the flesshe with the instrumentes of the oxen, and gaue vnto the people, & they dyd eate. And then he arose & went after Elia, and ministred vnto him.

¶ The. xx. Chapter.

¶ The first and seconde time, that Samaria was besieged of Benhadad kyng of Syria.

1 AND Benhadad the kynge of Syria gathered al his hoste togyther, hauing .xxxii. kynges with him, & horses, and charrettes: & went vp, and besieged Samaria, and warred agaynste it. And he sent messengers to Ahab kyng of Israel, into the cytie, and sayd vnto him: thus sayth Benhadad: Thy siluer & thy gold is mine, and the fayrest of thy wiues, and of thy children, be myne. And the kyng of Israel answered, and sayde: My lord kynge according to thy sayinge, I am thine, and all that I haue.

And whē the messengers came again, they saide: thus sayth Benhadad: For as muche as I haue sent vnto the, sayinge: thou shalt deliuer me thy syluer & thy golde, and thy wyues, and thy children: I wyll therfore send my seruauntes vnto the tomorowe this time: & they shal searche thine house, and the houses of thy seruauntes. And what soeuer is pleasaunt in thine eies, they shal take it
2 in their handes, and bryngе it awaye. Then the kynge of Israell sente for all the elders of the lande, & sayd: take hede I praye you, & se how this felowe goeth about mischief. For he sent vnto me for my wyues, for my children, for my syluer and for my golde: and I denyed him not. And all the elders, and all the people sayde: herken not vnto hym, nor consent.

Wherfore he said vnto the messengers of Benhadad: tel my lorde the kynge, all that thou dyddest sende for, to thy seruaunt at the fyrst tyme, that I will doe, but this thinge I maye not do. And the messengers departed & brought answer agayne. And Benhadad sente vnto hym agayne and said: thus and thus doe the goddes to me, if the dust of Samaria be ynough for al the people that folow me, to take euery man an handfull. And the kynge of Israel answered, and sayd: tel him: Let not him that putteth on his harnesse boast him selfe, as he that putteth it of. And it fortuned, ꝑ when Benhadad heard ꝑ tidinges as he was with the kynges drinkyng win ꝑ pauilions, he sayde vnto his seruauntes: put on youre harnesse, & they set them selues in araye against the citie.

And beholde, there came a Prophete C vnto Ahab kynge of Israel, saying: thus saith the LORDE. Hast thou sene al this great multitude? Behold, I wil deliuer it into thyne hand thys day, & thou shalt know, that I am the LORDE. And Ahab said: by whom? He sayde: thus saith the LORDE: euen by the seruauntes of the gouernours of ꝑ shyres. He said againe: Who shal ordre the battayle? And he answered: thou. Then he nūbred the seruātes of the gouernours of ꝑ shyres, & they were .ii. hūdred & .xxxii. And after thē also he numbred al the people, all ꝑ childrē of Israel, euen .vii. M. And they wente out at noone: but Benhadad did dryncke tyl he was dronken in ꝑ pauilions, both he and the kynges: euen .xxxii. kinges, that holpe him. And the seruauntes of the gouernours of the shyres wente out firste.

And Benhadad sent out, & they shewed him, saying: there are men come out D of Samaria. He sayde: Whether they be come out for peace, take them alyue: or whether they be come out to fyght, take them yet alyue. And so those ponge men of the gouernours of ꝑ shyres came out of ꝑ citie, & the hoost after them, and they slue euery one his enemy ꝑ came in hys waye. And the Syrians fledde, & they of Israell folowed after them. And Benhadad the kynge of Syria escaped on an horse with his horsemen. And the kyng of Israel went oute, and smote the horses, and charrettes, and with a greate slaughter sluehe the Syrians.

And there came a prophet to the king of Israell, and saide vnto him: go forthe, and playe the man, be wyse & take hede what thou doest: for when the yeare is gone aboute, the kynge of Syria wyll come vp agaynst the. And ꝑ seruauntes of the kynge of Syria sayde vnto hym: The gods of the hylles are their gods, and therefore they had the better of vs:

but

but lette vs fyghte agaynste them in the playne, and for what ye wyl, we shal haue the better of them. And this doe: take the kynges awaye euery man oute of hys place, & put Dukes in theyr roumes. And do thou nübre the an host, like ꝓ host ꝓ thou hast lost, such horses, & such charrettes, & we wyll fyght against thē in the playne, and thou shalte se vs get ꝓ better of them. And he herkened vnto their voyce, and dyd euen so.

And it fortuned, that after the yeare was gone about, Benhadad numbred ꝓ Syrians, & went vp to Aphek to fyghte agaynst Israel. And the childzen of Israell were numbred, & with their whole numbre went they against them, & the childzen of Israel pitched before thē, like two lytle flockes of kyddes: but the Syrians fylled the countreye: And there came a mā of GOD, & saide vnto ꝓ kyng of Israel: thus sayeth ꝓ LORDE: Bycause the Syrians haue saide: the LORDE is but GOD of the hilles, & not GOD of the valleyes: therfore wyl I deliuer al this greate multitude into thyne hande, and ye shal know ꝓ I am the LORDE. And they pytched one ouer against the other, seuen dayes, & it came to passe that in ꝓ vii. daye the battayle was ioyned. And the childzen of Israell slue of the Syrians an hündred. M. fotemen in one daye. But the rest fled to Aphek into the cytie. And there fell a wall vpon. xxvii. thousande of the men ꝓ were lefte. And Benhadad fled, and came into the cytie, from chambre to chambre.

And his seruauntes saide vnto him. Behold we haue heard say, ꝓ the kinges of the house of Israel are mercyful kinges. We wil therfore put sackcloth about our loynes, & ropes about our neckes, & go oute to the kynge of Israel: yf happely he wyll saue thy lyfe. And so they gyrded sackcloth about theyr loines, and put ropes about their heades, & came to ꝓ kig of Israel, & said: Thy seruaunt Benhadad saith: I pray the let me lyue. He said: is he yet alyue? he is my brother. And they toke that worde for good lucke, & hastily caughte it oute of his mouth, and said: yea, thy brother Benhadad. He said: go, bringe him hyther. And Benhadad came oute vnto him, & he caused him to come vp into ꝓ charet. And he saide vnto him: the cyties whiche my father toke from thy father, I wyll restore agayne. And ꝓ shalt make stretes for the in Damasco, as my father dyd in Samaria. And I wyl make an appoyntment with thee, & sende the away. And so he made an appointmēt wt him, & sent him away.

And there was a certayne man of the childrē of the prophetes, which said vnto hys neyghboure in the worde of the LORDE: smyte me I praye the. And the man would not smyte him. Thē saide he vnto hi: bycause thou hast not herkened vnto ꝓ voice of the LORD: behold, assone as thou art departed fro me, a lyō shall slaye the. And it came to passe, ꝓ assoone as he was departed frō him, a *lyō found him, & slue him. Then he founde an other man, & saide: smite me I pray the. And ꝓ mā smote him, so ꝓ in smytyng he woūded him. So the prophet wēt forth, and wayted for ꝓ kyng by ꝓ way, & put hym selfe out of knowledge wt ashes whiche he layed vpon his face. And whē ꝓ kyng came by, he cried vnto ꝓ king, & sayd: thy seruaūt went out in ꝓ middes of ꝓ battayle: & beholde, there went away a man, whō an other man brought vnto me, & sayde: kepe this mā. And if he be myssed or lost, thy life shal go for his, or els thou shalt paye a talent of syluer. And as thy seruaūte had here & there to do, he was gone. And the kynge of Israel said vnto him: euen so shall thy iudgement be, as thou haste defined it thy selfe.

And he hasted, and toke the ashes awaye from his face: & the king of Israel knewe him that he was of the Prophetes: And he saide vnto him: thus sayth ꝓ LORDE: bycause thou hast let go a man that is in my curse, thy lyfe shall go for his lyfe: and thy people for his people. And the kynge of Israell wente to hys house, wayward and in displeasure, and came to Samaria.

The. xxi. Chapter.

Jezabel commaundeth to kyl Naboth for the vineyarde that he refused to sel to Ahab. Helias reproueth Ahab, and he repenteth.

After these thynges it chaunced ꝓ Naboth ꝓ Jezrahelite had a vineyarde in Jezrahel, hard by ꝓ palace of Ahab kyng of Samaria. And Ahab spake vnto Naboth, saying: *Gyue me thy vineyard, ꝓ I may make me a gardē of herbes therof, bycause it lyeth so nye myne house: & I wil gyue the for it a better vineyarde then it is: or rather yf it please pleaſe the, I wyll gyue the, ꝑ worth of it in money. And Naboth ſayde to Ahab: ꝑ LORDE forbyd that frame, ꝑ I ſhould gyue the enheritaunce of my father vnto thee.

B And Ahab came into his houſe heuye and euil apayed, becauſe of the worde which Naboth the Jezrahelite had ſpoken to him, for he had ſayde: I wyll not gyue the the enheritaſice of my fathers. And he layed him downe vpon his bed, and turned away his face (to the wall) and would eate no breade. But Jezabel his wyfe came to him, and ſaide vnto hym: why is thy ſpirite ſo waywarde, ꝑ thou eateſt no breade? And he ſayde vnto her: for I ſpake vnto Naboth the Jezrahelite, & ſaid vnto hym: Gyue me thy vineyarde for money, or elſ yf it pleaſe the, I wil gyue the an other vineyarde for it. And he anſwered: I wyll not gyue thee my vineyarde.

C And Jezabel his wyfe ſayd vnto him: Doeſt thou thus gouerne the kingdome of Iſrael? vp, & eate breade, & ſet thyne hert at reſt, I wil gyue the the vineyard of Naboth the Jezrahelite. And ſo ſhe wrote a letter in Ahabs name, and ſealed it with his ſeale, and ſent the letter vnto the elders, and to the nobles that were in hys cytye dwellynge with Naboth. And ſhe wrot in the letter, ſaying: Proclayme a faſte, & ſet Naboth on hye amonge the people, and ſet two vnthryftes before him, to beare (falſe) witneſſe againſt him, ſaying: thou didſt blaſpheme GOD and the kynge. And then carye him oute, and ſtone him to death.

D And the men of his citie, that is to ſay: whiche dwelte in his cytie, dyd as Jezabel had ſet vnto thē: & as it was written in the letter which ſhe had ſent vnto them. They proclaymed faſtyng, and ſet Naboth among the chiefe of the people, and there came in two men (the childrē of Belial) and ſat before him. And ꝑ two vnthryftye perſonnes witneſſed againſt Naboth in the preſence of the people, ſayinge: Naboth dyd blaſpheme GOD & the kynge. * And they caried him oute of the cytie, and ſtoned him with ſtones, that he dyed. And then they ſente to Jezabell, ſayinge: Naboth is ſtoned to death. And it fortuned, when Jezabell heard that Naboth was ſtoned to death, ſhe ſaid to Ahab: vp, and take poſſeſſion of the vineyarde of Naboth the Jezraelite, which he denyed to gyue thee for moneye, for Naboth is not alyue, but dead. And when Ahab hearde that Naboth was dead, he ſtode vp to go down to the vineyarde of Naboth the Jezraelite, and to take poſſeſſion of it.

E And the worde of the LORDE came vnto Elia the Theſbite, ſayinge: vp, and goe downe, to mete Ahab kynge of Iſrael, whiche is in Samaria. For lo, he is gone downe to the vineyarde of Naboth: to take poſſeſſion of it. And therefore ſhalte thou ſaye vnto him: thus ſayeth the LORDE, haſte thou kylled, and gotten poſſeſſion? And thou ſhalt ſpeake vnto him, ſaying: thus ſayth the LORD:

F *in the place where dogges lycked the bloude of Naboth, ſhall dogges lycke euen thy bloud alſo. And Ahab ſayde to to Elia: Haſte thou founde me, O thou myne enemy? He anſwered: I haue foūd thee: for thou arte euen ſolde to woorke wickednelle in the ſight of the LORDE. Beholde I wyll bryngе euyl vpon thee, and wyll make cleane riddaunce of thy poſteritie, and wyll * deſtroye from Ahab, euen him that maketh water againſt the wall, and him that is ſhutte vp and leſte behynde in Iſrael, and will make thyne houſe lyke the houſe of Jeroboam the ſonne of Nebat: and like the houſe of Baaſa the ſonne of Ahia, for the prouocacion wherewith thou haſte prouoked, and made Iſrael to ſynne.

1. Reg. 22. k

G And of Jezabel ſpake the LORD, ſayinge: * dogges ſhall eate Jezabel, in the poſſeſſiō of Jezrael. * And he that dieth of Ahab in the towne, him ſhall dogges eate: and he that dieth in the feldes, him ſhall the foules of the ayre eate. But there was none lyke Ahab, whiche dyd euen ſel him ſelfe, to worke wyckednelle in the ſyght of the LORDE: and that becauſe Jezabel his wife prycked him forwarde. He dyd exceadyng abhominably, in folowynge foule ydolles, accordynge to all thynges as dyd the Immorites, * whom the LORD caſt out before ꝑ children of Iſrael.

And they sayd go vp:for the LORDE shal delyuer it into the handes of the kinge. And Iehosaphat said:is there here neuer a prophet of the LORD more, ỹ we myght enquyre of hym: And the kynge of Israell sayde vnto Iehosaphat:there is yet one manne (Michea the sonne of Jimla) by whome we maye aske counsayle of the LORD. But I hate him, for he doeth not prophecie good vnto me, but euyll. And Iehosaphat saide: let not the kynge say so. Then the kynge of Israell called a chamberlayne, and saide:let Michea the sonne of Jimla hither anones.

And the kyng of Israel and Iehosaphat the kyng of Juda sate either in his seate, and theyr apparell on them, in a voyde place beside the entryng in of the gate of Samaria, and all the Prophetes prophecied before the. And zedekia, the sonne of Canaana, made hornes of yron, & saide:thus saith ỹ LORD:with these hornes shalte thou pushe the Syrians, vntyll thou haue made an ende of them. And all the prophetes prophecyed euen so, saying:Go vp to Ramoth in Gilead, and prosper, for the LORDE shall delyuer it into the kynges hande.

And the messenger that was gone to cal Michea, spake vnto him, saying: beholde, the wordes of ỹ prophetes speake good vnto the kyng with one mouth:let thy worde therfore (I praye the) be lyke the word of euery one of them, to speake that whiche is good. And Michea saide: as truely as the LORD liueth, whatsoeuer the LORD sayth vnto me, that wyll I speake. And so he came to the kynge: and the kynge sayde vnto him: Michea, ought we to go agaynste Ramoth in Gilead to battayle:or to be styll? He answered vnto him:*goe, and prosper, the

He saide: I sawe all them of Israell scattred vpon the hilles, as shepe that haue not a shepherde. And the LORDE sayd: these haue no master, let euerye man returne vnto hys house in peace. And the kynge of Israel sayd vnto Iehosaphat:dyd I not tell thee, that he wouldе prophecye no good vnto me, but euyl: And he sayde agayne:heare thou therfore the worde of the LORDE. I sawe the LORDE sit on his seate, & al the hooste of heauen stode about him on his ryght hande, & on hys lefte. And the LORDE saide:*who shall

And he sayde: I wyll go oute, & be a false spirite in the mouth of all hys prophetes. He saide:thou shalte perswade hym, & preuayle, go forth then, and do euen so. Now therfore beholde, *the LORDE hath put a lyenge spyrite in the mouthe of all these thy prophetes, & the LORDE hath spoken euyl towarde thee.

3.Reg.11.f

But Zedekia the sonne of Canaana went to:& smote Michea on the cheke, & sayde: when wente the spirite of the LORDE fro me, to speake vnto thee?

And

And Michea sayde: beholde, thou shalte se in ỳ day, when thou shalte go ſrō chām-bȝs to chambȝe to hyde thee. And the kyng of Israel sayd: Take Michea, and cary him vnto Amon the gouernour of the citie, and vnto Joab the kynges son, and say, thus sayth the kynge. Put this felow in the pȝison house, and feede hym with bȝead of affliccion, and with water of trouble, vntyl I returne in peace. And Michea said: if thou returne in peace, ỳ LORDE hath not spoken by me. And he said: herken you people euery one of you.

And so the kyng of Israel and Jehosaphat the kynge of Juda wente vp to Ramoth in Gilead, and the kynge of Israel saide to Jehosaphat, chaunge thee when thou goest to warre: and put on thyne apparell. And the kynge of Israel chaunged him selfe, and wente to battayle. But the kynge of Siria commaūded the .xxxii. captaynes (that had rule ouer his charrettes) sayinge: fyght neyther with small noȝ great, saue onely against the kynge of Israel. And when ỳ captaines of the charrettes sawe Jehosaphat, they said: surely it is the kynge of Israell, and they turned to fyghte agaīst him. And Jehosaphat cried. And so it came to passe, that whē the captaynes of the charrettes sawe that he was not the kynge of Israell, they turned backe from him.

And a certayne man dȝue a bowe ignoȝauntly, and (by chaunce) smote ỳ kyng of Israell betwene the rybbes and hys harnesse. Wherfoȝe he sayde vnto ỳ dȝiuer of his charrettes: turne thy hande, & cary me out of the hooste, foȝ I am (sore) hurt. And the battayle encreased ỳ day, and the kynge stode styll in his charette agaīst the Sirians, and dyed at euen. And the bloud ran oute of the wound in to the myddest of the charet. And there wente a pȝoclamacion thoȝowoute the host, about the goinge down of ỳ sunne, saying: euery man to his cytie, and to his owne countrye. And so the kynge of Israell dyed: and they came to Samaria, and buried him there. And one washed ỳ charret in the poole of Samaria, * and the dogges lycked vp his bloude (& harlottes washed by the pooles syde) accoȝdyng vnto ỳ woȝde of the LORD which he spake.

The rest of the woȝdes that concerne Ahab, and all that he dyd, and the iuoȝy house whiche he made, and all the cities that he buylded, are they not wȝitten in the booke of the Chȝonicles of the kinges of Israel? And so Ahab slepte with hys fathers: and Ahazia his sonne raigned in his stede.

*Jehosaphat the sonne of Aza began to raigne vpon Juda in the fourth yere of Ahab king of Israel: and Jehosaphat was .xxxv. yeare olde, when he began to raygne, and raygned .xxv. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Azuba the doughter of Silhi. And he walked in all the wayes of Aza his father, and bowed not therefrō: but did that which was right in the eyes of the LORDE. Neuertheiesse, the hyl aulters were not taken out of the way: foȝ ỳ people offred, and burnt incence yet in the hylaulters. And Jehosaphat made peace with the kyng of Israel. 1. par. 30. c.

*The rest of the woȝdes that concerne Jehosaphat, and the myghte that he vsed, & how he warred: are they not wȝitten in the booke of the Chȝonicles of ỳ kynges of Juda? And the remnaunte of the stues of the males, which remayned in the dayes of his father, he put cleane out of the land. There was then no king made in Edō. And Jehosaphat made .x. shyps in ỳ sea, to come thoȝow Tharsis to Ophir foȝ gold, but they went not, foȝ the shyppes brake at Ezion Gaber. Thē sayde Ahazia ỳ sonne of Ahab vnto Jehosaphat: let my seruauntes go with thy seruauntes in the shyppes. But Jehosaphat would not. And Jehosaphat dyd slepe wt his fathers, & was buried wt his father in ỳ citie of Dauid his father. And Jehoȝā his son raigned in his stede. G 3. reg. 15. c.

Ahazia the sonne of Ahab began to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria, ỳ .xvii. yeare of Jehosaphat kyng of Juda, and raygned two yeares ouer Israell. But he dyd euyll in the syght of the LORDE, & walked in the waye of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in ỳ waye of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israel to syn. Foȝ he serued Baal, and woȝshypped him: and pȝouoked the LORDE GOD of Israel vnto wȝath, accoȝdinge vnto all ỳ his father had done.

¶ The. i. Chapter.

¶ The captaynes ouer fiftye with their souldiers are burnt with fire from heauen, by the prayer of Helia. Ahazia is reproued of Helia / and dieth. Jehoram his brother succedeth him.

AND Moab dyd wyckedly against Israel after the death of Ahab. And Ahazia fell thorowe a latteffe wyndowe of his vpper chambre that he had in Samaria, & whyle he was in hys syckneffe, he sente messengers, and saide vnto them: goe, & enquyre of Belzebub the god of Ekrom, whether I shall recouer of this my disease. But the angel of the LORDE spake to Elia the Thesbite: Arise, and go vp against the messengers of the kynge of Samaria, and saye vnto them: Is there not a GOD in Israel, that ye go to aske counsayle at Belzebub the god of Ekrom: Wherfore, thus sayth the LORDE: thou shalt not come down from ỹ bedde on whiche thou arte gone vp, but shalte dye the death. And Elia departed.

And when ỹ messẽgers turned backe agayne vnto him, he sayd vnto thẽ: why are ye nowe come? They answered him: there came a man vp against vs, & sayde vnto vs: go, and turne agayne vnto the kynge that sent you, and saye vnto hym: Thus saith the LORDE. Is there not a GOD in Israel, that thou sendest to enquyre of Belzebub the god of Ekrom? Therfore thou shalt not come down frõ the bed on whiche thou art gone vp, but shalte dye the death. And he sayde vnto them: what maner of man was ỹ which came vp in your waye, & tolde you these wordes? And they answered him: it was an hery man, *and gyrde wt a gyrdle of lether about his loynes. And he sayde: it is Elia the Thesbite.

Then ỹ kyng sent vnto him a captaine ouer fiftye, (with his fyftie men) and beholde, he sat on the toppe of an hyll. And he spake vnto him: Thou man of GOD, the kynge hath sayde: come downe. Elia answered, and sayde to the captaine ouer ỹ fyftie: yf I be a man of GOD, fyre come downe from heauen, and consume the and thy fyftye. *And there came fire of GOD, and consumed him and his fyftie: And the kynge wente agayne, and sent another captayne ouer fyftie, with his fyftie. And he answered, and sayd vnto him: O man of GOD, thus hathe the kynge sayde, make haste, & come downe: Elia answered and sayd vnto them: yf I be a man of GOD, fyre come down frõ heuen, and consume the & thy fyftie. And there came fyre of GOD downe from heuen, and consumed him and his fyftie.

And the kynge went agayne, and sent the thyrde captayne ouer fyftie with his fyftie men. And the thirde captaine ouer fyftie went vp, and came, and fell on hys knees before Elia, and besoughte him, and saide vnto him: O man of GOD let my lyfe, and the lyfe of the fyftie, thy seruauntes be precyous in thy syghte. Beholde, there came fyre downe from heauen, and burnt vp the two fore captaynes ouer fyftie wt their fifties, therfore let my lyfe nowe be precious in thy syght. And the angel of the LORD sayd vnto Elia: go downe with him, & be not afrayed of him. And he arose, and went downe with him vnto the kyng.

And he sayd vnto him: thus sayth the LORD: for as moche, as thou haste sente messengers to aske counsayle at Belzebub the god of Ekrom, as though there had bene no GOD in Israel, whose word thou myghtest seke after: therefore thou shalt not come downe of ỹ bed on which thou art gone vp, but shalte dye ỹ death. And so he dyed accordynge to ỹ word of the LORD whiche Elia had spoken. And Jehoram (his brother) began to raygne in his stede, in the seconde yeare of Jehoram the sonne of Jehosaphat kynge of Juda, bicause he had no sonne. The rest of the wordes ỹ concerne Ahazia, what thynges that he dyd: are they not writte in the boke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Israel?

¶ The. ii. Chapter.

Elia deuideth the waters with his mantell. He is taken vp into heuen. The bytter and venemous waters are healed. The children that mocke Eliseus (otherwyse called Elisa) are rent in peces.

And it

1 AND it chaunced, that when the *LORD wolde take vp Elia into heauen by a whyrlewynde: Elia went with Elisa from Gilgal, and Elia sayd to Elisa: tary here, I praye the, for the LORD hath sent me to Bethel. Elisa said vnto him: *as surely as ꝑ LORD liueth, and as thy soule liueth: I will not leaue the. And they came downe to Bethel, and ꝑ children of the prophetes that wer at Bethel, came out to Elisa, & said vnto him: knowest thou not, how that the LORDE wyll take awaye thy master from thine heade this daye? He sayde: I knowe it also: holde ye youre peace.

3 And Elia sayd vnto hym: Elisa: tary here, I pray the, for ꝑ LORD hath sente me to Jericho. He said: as surely as the LORD liueth, & as surely as thy soule li-ueth I will not leue the, and so they cam to Jericho. And the children of the prophetes that were at Jericho came to Elisa, & sayde vnto him: knowest thou not, that the LORDE will take awaye thy master frō thine head this daye? He answered: I know it also: holde ye your peace. And Elia sayd vnto hym: tarye I praye the here, for the LORD hath sente me to Jordan. He sayde: as surely as ꝑ LORD liueth, & as thy soule liueth, I wil not leaue the. And so they two wēt togither. And fiftie men of the sonnes of ꝑ prophetes came & stode on ꝑ other syde afar of, & they two stode by Jordā.

And Elia toke his mantell, & wrapt it togither, and smote the waters, and they were deuyded, parte the one way, and parte the other: so that they two wente ouer thorow ꝑ dry lande. And it fortuned, that assone as they were ouer, Elia sayd vnto Elisa: aske what I shal do for the, yer I bee taken awaye from the. And Elisa saide: I praye the, let thy spirite be double vpon me. And he sayd: thou hast asked an hard thing.
Neuertheles, yf thou se me whē I am takē awaye from the, thou shalt haue it C for: if thou do not, it shall not bee. And it fortuned, that as they went walkinge & talking, behold, there appeared a char-ret of fyre, and horses of fyre: and parted them bothe a sounder.* And Elia went vp thorow ꝑ whyrlewynde into heauen. And Elisa saw, & cryed: O my father, O my father, the charette of Israell, and the horsemen therof, & he sawe him nomore: and he toke his own clothes, and rent them in two peces.

He toke vp also the mantel of Elia ꝑ fell from hym, and went backe againe, and stode by Jordans syde, and toke ꝑ mantell of Elia (that fell from hym.) & smote the waters (and they parted not aforehre), and he sayd: wher is ꝑ LORD GOD of Elia, and he him selfe: And when he had smytten the waters, they parted this way and that way; and Elisa went ouer. And when the children of ꝑ prophetes which were at Jericho saw him from afarre, they sayde: the spyrite of Elia doth rest on Elisa, and they came to mete him, and fell to the ground before him, and sayde vnto him: See, there be vi thy seruauntes fyftye strong men, let them goo, and seke thy master: hap-pely the spirite of the LORDE hath ta-kē him vp, and caste him vpō some moutayne, or into some valley. And he said:
ye shall sende none. And when they lay vpon him tyl he was a shamed, he said:
Send. They sent therfore fyftye men, which sought hym thre dayes, but foūd him not. And when they came againe to hym, whiche taryed at Jericho, he sayde vnto them: dyd not I saye vnto you, that ye shoulde not go?

And the men of the cytye sayde vnto D Elisa: beholde Syr, the dwellinge of this city is pleasaunt, as thou thy selfe seest: But the water is nought, and the grounde barren. He sayde: Bringe me a newe cruse: and put salt therein. And they brought it to hym. And he wente vnto the springe of the waters, and cast the salte in thither, and said: thus sayth the LORDE: I haue healed this water:
there shal not come hence forth eyther deathe, or barrennesse. So the waters were healed vntyll this day, accordyng to ꝑ saying of Eliseus whiche he spake.

And he wente vp from thence vnto Bethel. And as he was goinge vp the waye, there came lytle children out of the cytie, and mocked him, and sayd vnto hym: Go vp thou balde heade, go vp thou balde head. And he turned backe, & loked on them, and cursed them in the name of ꝑ Lord. And there came two she beares out of ꝑ wood, and tare .xlii. children of them. And he went from thence to mount Carmel, and from thence he turned agayne to Samaria.

¶ The.iii. Chapter

The kynges of Iſrael, Iuda and Edom lacke water, which they obtayne through the prayer of Eliſeus. The kyng of Moab fighteth agaynſt Iſrael.

I

IEhoram the ſonne of Ahab begā to raigne vpō Iſrael in Samaria, the.xviii. yere of Iehoſaphat kyng of Iuda, & raygned twelue yeres. And he wrought euyl in the ſight of the LORD, but not lyke his father and lyke hys mother: for he put away the ymages of Baal that his father had made. Neuertheleſſe, he cleued vnto the ſines of Ieroboam, the ſon of Nebat (whiche made Iſrael to ſinne) and departed not there from.

And Meſa kynge of Moab was a lorde of ſhepe, and rendred vnto ꝑ kyng of Iſrael an hūdred thouſand lambes, and an hundreth thouſand rammes wᵗh the woll. But when Ahab was dead, it ſortuned, that the kyng of Moab rebelled againſt the kinge of Iſrael. And kinge Iehoram went out of Samaria the ſame ſeaſon, and numbred al Iſrael and went, and ſent to Iehoſaphat ꝑ kynge of Iuda, ſayinge: the kinge of Moab hath offended againſt me, wilt thou come with me againſte Moab to battayle? He anſwered: I will come vp, for as I am, ſo art thou: & as my people be, ſo are thy people: and thy horſes as mine. And he ſayd: What way ſhal we goo vp? And he anſwered: The waye thorow the wilderneſſe of Edom.

And ſo the kynge of Iſrael toke hys iourney & the king of Iuda, & the king of Edom. And when they had compaſſed the waye ſeuen dayes, they had no water for the hooſte, and for the catell that folowed them. And the kynge of Iſrael ſayde: Alas, the LORD hath called theſe thre kinges togyther, to deliuer them ouer into the hand of Moab.

3.reg.22.a. But Iehoſaphat ſayde: * is there not here a Prophete of the LORD, that we maye enquyre of ꝑ LORD by him? And one of the kynge of Iſraels ſeruauntes anſwered, & ſayde: Here is Eliſa the ſonne of Saphat, which poured water on the handes of Elia. And Iehoſaphat ſayd: Is not the worde of the LORD wᵗh him? And ſo the king of Iſrael, and Iehoſaphat, and the king of Edom wente down to him.

And Eliſa ſayd vnto the king of Iſrael: what haue I to do wᵗh ther? Get the to the prophetes of thy father, and to ꝑ prophetes of thy mother. And the king of Iſrael ſayd vnto him: Oh, naye, for ꝑ LORDE hath called theſe thre kinges togyther to deliuer them into ꝑ handes of Moab. And Eliſa ſayd: as ſure as ꝑ LORD of hoſtes lyueth (in whoſe ſight I ſtand) and it were not, that I regarde the preſence of Iehoſaphat the king of Iuda, I would not loke toward thee, nor yet ſe the.

But nowe bryng me a mynſtrel. And when the mynſtrell played, the hand of the LORD cam vpon hym. And he ſayd: thus ſaith ꝑ LORD: Make this playne grounde ful of dyches. For thus ſayth ꝑ LORDE: ye ſhall ſe neyther wynde nor rayne, and yet the broke ſhalbe filled wᵗh water, that ye may drynke: both ye and your beaſtes, and your cattel. And this is yet but a ſmal thinge in the ſighte of the LORD, for as much as he will giue ouer the Moabites alſo into your handes. And ye ſhall ſmyte euerye ſtronge towne and euery goodly cytye, and ſhal fell euery pleaſaunt tree, and ſtoppe euery well of water, and marre euerye good plot of ground with ſtones. And in the morning when the meate offring was offred, it ſortuned, that there came water by the waye from Edom: and the countrye was filled with water.

And when all the Moabites heard ꝑ the kinges were come vp to fyghte againſt them, they gathered al togyther, from the youngeſt that was hable to put on harneſſe, and ſo vpwarde, and ſtode in the borde of the lande.

And they were vp early in the morning, and ꝑ ſunne ſhone vpon the water, that the Moabites ſawe the water afarre of, as red as bloude, and they ſayd: this is the bloude of ſlaughter: ꝑ kinges are ſlayne, and one hath ſmytten another. Now therfore Moab get the to the ſpoyle. And when they came to the hooſte of Iſrael, the Iſraelytes ſtode vp, & ſmote the Moabites, ſo that they fledde before them, but they folowed vpon them, and ſmote Moab. And they ouerthrew the cyties: & on euerye good parcell of land caſt euery man his ſtone, and fylled it, and they ſtopte all ꝑ wels of water, & felled all the good trees. Oneiye in the cytye of Kyrke, lefte they the ſtones thereof: howebeit they went

went about it with slinges, & smote it.

And when the kinge of Moab sawe that the battaile was soze against him, he toke with hym seuen hundzed men þ dzue þ swearde, to haue gone thozowe, euen vnto the kinge of Edom: but they coulde not. And then he toke hys eldest sonne (that should haue raigned in his stede) and offred him soz a burnt offring vpon the wal. And there was great indignacion against Israell, and they departed from him, and returned to theyr owne lande.

The. iiij. Chapter.

God sayueth a certayne poore woman oyle and flour by Heliseus Heliseus whom ꝓ nexte calleth Eliza obteyneth of God a chylde for his hostesse: which dyeth, and is after raysed to lyf. He maketh sweete the pottage, and multiplyeth the loues.

A Nd there cryed a certayne womã of the wyues of þ prophetes vnto Elisa, saying: thy seruaũte my husbande is dead, and thou knowest, that thy seruaunt did feare the LORD.

And the creditour is come to fet my two sonnes to bee his bondmen. Elisa said vnto her: tel me what I shal do soz the: what hast thou in thine house? She sayd: thine handmayd hath nothinge at al in the house, saue a pitcher of oyle. He said vnto her: Go, and bozow vessel soz the: of them þ are without, euen of all thy neyghbours, emptye vessels: and þ not a fewe. And when thou arte come in, thou shalt shut þ doze after thee, and after thy sonnes, and powze out into al those vessels, & set a side þ which is ful.

B And so the woman went from hym, & shut the doze after her, and after her sonnes. And they bzought to her, and she poured out. And it came to passe, þ when the vessels were ful, she sayd vnto her son: bzing me yet a vessel. And he sayd vnto her: I haue no mo. And þ oile ceassed. Then she came & tolde the man of GOD. And he said: go, & sel the oyle, & paye them that thou art in det vnto, but lyue thou and thy chyldzen of the rest.

And it fel on a daye, that Elisa came to Sunem, where was a great womã that toke hym in soz to eate bzead. And so it came to passe, that from that time sozth (as oft as he came that waye) he turned in thither to eate bzead. And she sayd vnto her husband: Behold, I perceyue, that this is an holy man of GOD that cõmeth so ofte by our place. Let vs make him a chamber (I pzay the) with walles, and let vs set him there a bed, & a table and a stole, and a candelsticke: that he maye turne in thyther when he commeth to vs.

And it soztuned on a day, þ he came thyther, and turned into the chambze, & laye therin, and sayd to Gehezi his seruaunt: call this Sunamite. And when he called her, she pzesented her selfe before hym. And againe he sayd vnto him: Tel her, Beholde, thou hast ben careful soz vs, & haste made all this pzouision. What shal we now do soz the: wouldest thou be spoken soz to the king, oz to the captaine of the hoste? She answered: I dwel among mine owne people. And he sayd again: what is to be done soz her? Gehezi answered: Verely she hathe no childe, and her husband is olde. And he said: cal her. And whẽ he had called her, she stode in þ doze. And he sayd * by such a tyme, & as soone as the fruyte canne lyue, thou shalt embzace a sonne. And she sayd: Oh nay, my lozde, thou man of GOD, do not lye vnto thy handmayde. And the wife conceiued, & bare a sonne that same season that Eliseus had sayd vnto her, assoone as þ frute could haue life. And when the childe was growen, it fel on a day, that he went out to hys father, and to the reapers. And he sayd to his father: my head, my head. And he sayd to a lad: Cary him to his mother. And when he had taken hym, & bzought him to his mother, he sat on her knees tyl noone, and then dyed. And she went vp, and layed him on the bed of the man of GOD, and shut the dooze about him, & went out, & called vnto her husbande, and sayd: sende with me (I pzaye the) one of the yong men, & one of the asses. Soz I will runne to the man of GOD, and come agayne. And he sayde: wherfoze wilt thou go to him, seinge that to day is neyther newe moone noz Sabboth daye? She answered: soz healthe. Then she sadled an asse, & sayde to her seruaunt: leade awaye the asse, & make her not to go slowlye, (bycause I ryd vpon her) but when I byd the.

And so she went, and came vnto the man of GOD to mount Carmel. And it soztuned, that: whẽ þ man of GOD saw her farre of, he sayd to Gehezi his seruaũt: Behold, yõder is the Sunamite. Runne therfoze to mete her, and saye vnto her: Is all wel with the? with thy husbande? with the lad? And she answered: All is well. And when she came c to the manne of GOD vp to the hyll, she caught hym by the feete. But Gehezi went to her, to thruste her away. And ꝑ man of GOD sayd: let her alone, for her soule is vered within her, & the LORDE hath hyd it fro me, and hath not told it me. Then she sayd: dyd I desyre a sonne of my lorde: dyd I not require the, that thou shouldest not disceyue me?

4. reg. 4. a. Luc. 10. a Thē he sayd to Gehezi: *gyrd vp thy loynes, & take my staffe in thyne hande, & go thy waye. *yf thou mete any man salute hi not. And if any salute the, answer him not againe. And lay my staffe vpon the face of the childe.

1. reg. 17. b
And the mother of the childe sayde: *as sure as the LORD lyueth, & as thy soule lyueth, I wil not leaue the. And he arose, & folowed her. Gehezi went before them, & layed the staffe vpon the face of the childe. But there was neyther voyce nor anye feleinge: wherefore he wente agayne to mete hym, and tolde hym, sayinge: the child is not awaked.

f
And when Elisa was come into the house, behold, the child was dead, and laied vpō his bed. He went in therfore, and shut the doore to the lad and hym, & prayed vnto ꝑ LORD. *And went vp, & laye vpō the lad, & put his mouth on his mouth, & his eies vpon his eies, and his handes, vpon his handes, and when he so laye vpon the childe, the flesshe of the childe wared warme. And he went agayne, & walked ones vp and downe in the house, and then went vp and laied hym selfe vpon hym agayne. And thē the childe gaspēd seuen tymes, and opened hys eyes. And he called Gehezi, and sayde: Call for thus Sunamit. So he called her, whiche whē she was come in vnto him, he sayde vnto her:

Luc. 5. c.
*Take thy sonne. Therfore she wente in, and fel at his fete, & bowed her selfe to the ground, & toke vp her sonne, and wente out. Elisa came agayne to Gilgall, and there was a dearthe in the lande, and the childrē of the prophetes dwelt with hym. And he sayd vnto his seruaunt: Set a greate pot on the fire, and make pottage for the childrē of the prophetes, and one wente out into the felde, to gather herbes, and founde (as were) a wylde vyne, and gathered thereof wylde Coloquintidas his lappe full, and came and shred them into the potte of pottage: for they knew it not. So they poured out for the men to eate. And it fortuned, that when they tasted of the pottage, they cryed oute, and sayd: O thou man of GOD, ther is death in the pot: & they could not eate therof. But he sayde: bringe mele. And he cast it into the pot, and sayde: Fyl for the people, that they maye eate, & there was nomore harme in the potte.

There came a man from Baal Salisa, and brought the man of GOD bred of the fyrst frutes, euen twenty loues of barly, and newe corne, whiche was yet in hys bagges, & he sayde: Giue vnto ꝑ people, that they maye eate. And hys minyster answered: why, shal I set this before an hundred mē? He sayd agayne: giue it vnto the people that they maye eate. For thus sayeth the LORD: *they

¶ The. v. Chapter.

Naaman the Syrian is healed of his leprousy. Gehezi is stryken with a leprosy, because he toke money and rayment of Naaman.

NAaman captayne of the host of the king of Syria, was a great man, & honourable in the sighte of his master: because that by hym the LORDE had giuen health vnto Syria. He also was a myghty man, and expert in warre, but he was a leper. And the Syrians had gone out by companyes, and had brought out of the countrye of Israel a lytle mayde, and she was with Naamans wyfe. And she sayde vnto her ladye: I would to GOD my lorde were with the prophet that is in Samaria: for he would deliuer hym of his leprosie. And he went in, & tolde his lorde, saying: thus and thus sayde the mayde that is of the lande of Israell.
I

mayest

mayst cure hym of hys leprosye. And it fortuned, that when the kyng of Israel had red the letter, he rent hys clothes, and sayde: *am I GOD, that I should slay and make alyue? For he doth send to me, that I should deliuer a man frō his leprosie: Wherfore consydre (I pray
you) and se how he seketh a quarell against me. Which when Elisa the man of GOD had hearde howe that ỹ kinge of Israel had rent his clothes, he sente vnto the kinge, sayinge: wherfore haste thou rente thy clothes? Let hym come now to me, & he shall knowe, that there is a Prophet in Israel.

And so Naamā came with his horses and wt his charets, & stode at ỹ doore of ỹ house of Elisa. And Elisa sent a messenger vnto hym, saying: go & wash the in Iordan. vii. tymes, & thy flesh shal come agayne to the, and thou shalte be clen-
sed. But Naaman was wroth & wente away, and sayde: Beholde, I thoughte with my selfe: he wouldе surely come out, and stande, & cal on the name of the LORDE his GOD, & put his hande on ỹ place, that he myght heale the leprosye.
Are not Abana & Parphar ryuers of Damasco, better then al the waters of Israel: yf I wash me also in them, shal
I not be clensed? And so he turned him, & departed with displeasure. And hys seruauntes came, and communed with hym, & saide: father, if the Prophet had bydden the do some great thing, ought-est ỹ not to haue done it? How much rather then, whē he sayth to the: washe, and be cleane? Then wente he downe, & washed hym selfe. vii. tymes in Iordan, according to the saying of the man of GOD: and his flesshe chaunged, lyke vnto the flesshe of a lytle chylde, *and he was cleansed.

And he turned agayne to the man of GOD: he & al his cōpany, and stode before him, & sayd: Beholde, I know now ỹ there is no GOD in all the worlde, but in Israel. Now therfore take a blessing of thy seruaūt. But he sayd: *as surely as the LORD lyueth (before whome I stand) I wyl receyue none. And when the other would haue constrained hym to receyue it, he wold not. And Naamā sayd: (euen as thou wilt, but I beseche the.) Shal ther not be giuē to thy seruaūt, a s muche of this earth as two mules may beare? For thy seruaūt wil henceforthe offre neither burnt sacrifice nor offring vnto any other god, saue vnto ỹ LORD.
But hereth the LORD be mercyfull vnto thy seruaunt, ỹ when my master goeth into the house of Rimmon, & doeth worship there, & leaneth on myne hand, & I also worshyp in the house of Rim-mon, (when I do worshyp, I say:) in ỹ house of Rimmon ỹ LORD be mercyful vnto thy seruaūt bycause of this thing.
Vnto whome he sayd: go in peace. And when he was departed from him as it were a forlonge of grounde, Gehezi the seruaunte of Elisa the manne of GOD, sayd: beholde, my master hathe spared Naaman thys Sirian, ỹ he would not receyue of his hand those thinges, that he offred. As surely as the LORDE lyueth, I will run after him, & take somewhat of hym. And so Gehezi folowed Naaman. And when Naaman saw him runnyng after him, he lyght downe frō the charette to mete him, and sayde: *is all well? He answered: Al is well. Be-holde, my master hathe sente me, saying: Se, there be come to me, euen now from mounte Ephraim two yong men of the chyldren of the Prophetes: gyue them I praye the, one talent of syluer, & two chaunge of garmētes. And Na-aman sayde: with a good wyll. Take two talentes: and he compelled him to bynde two talentes of siluer in two bagges, wt two chaunge of garmentes, and layed them vpon two of his seruaūtes, to beare them before him. And whē he came into a secrete place, he toke them from theyr hand, and bestowed it in the house, & the mē wer let go: & they departed. But he went in, & stode before hys master. And Elisa sayd vnto hi: whence commest thou Gehezi? He sayd: thy seruaunte wente no whither. But he said vnto him: went not myne hearte with the when the manne tourned agayne from his charet to mete the? Is it now a tyme to receyue money to receyue garmentes, olyue trees, vyneyardes, shepe and oxen, menne seruauntes, and mayde seruauntes? The leprosye therfore of Naaman shal cleaue vnto the, & vnto thi seed for euer. *And he wēt out frō his presēce a lepre, as whit as snow.

¶ The. vi. Chapter

Eliseus maketh yron to swimme aboue the water. The Syrians besiege Israel, so that two women agree together to eate their owne children.

THe children of ꝑ prophetes sayd vnto Elisa: Beholde, the place where we dwell vi ther is to litle for vs. We will therfore go vnto Jordan, and take thence euery mā a beme, & buylde vs a place to dwell in. And he answered: go. And one sayd: be content (I praythe) & come with thy seruaūtes. And he answered: I will come, & so he went vi them. And when they came to Jordā, they cut downe wood. But it fortuned, ꝑ as one was felling downe of a tree, ꝑ axe head fel into the water. And he cryed, & said: alas master, it was lent me. And the man of GOD sayd: where fel it? And he shewed him the place. And he cut downe a stycke, & caste it in thyther, & immediatly the yron dyd swym. Therefore sayde he: take it vp. And he stretched out his hand, & toke it vp.

But ꝑ king of Syria warred against Israel & toke coūsayl with his seruaūtes, and sayde: In yondre secrete place shalbe my remayning. And the man of GOD sent vnto the kinge of Israel, sayinge: Beware that thou go not ouer to such a place, for there the Syrians are lurkinge. Therfore the king of Israell sent to ꝑ place whiche the man of GOD told him, and warned him of, and saued hym selfe from it, not ones, nor twise. And the hert of the king of Syria was troubled for this thinge, & he called for his seruauntes & sayd vnto them: wyll ye not shew me which of our men (betrayeth me) to the kinge of Israel? And one of his seruauntes said: none my lord, O kynge, but Elisa the prophet that is in Israel telleth the king of Israel: yea, euen the wordes that thou spakest in thy preuy chambre. He sayde: go, and espye where he is, ꝑ I may send and fet him. And one told him, saying: beholde, he is in Dothaim. Therfore sente he thyther horses and charettes, & a mighty hoost. And they came by nyght, and compassed the cytye about.

And whē ꝑ seruaunt of ꝑ man of GOD arose vp earely to go out, beholde, there was an hoost rounde about the towne wt horses & charettes. And his seruaūt sayde vnto hym: Alas master what shal we do? He answered: *feare not, for they ꝑ be with vs are mo then they ꝑ be with them. And Elisa prayed, & sayde: LORD (I beseche the) opē vps eyes, ꝑ he may see. And ꝑ LORD opened the eyes of the yong man. And beholde, ꝑ mountayne was ful of horses & charettes of fyre round about Elisa. And whē they came downe to him, Elisa prayed vnto the LORD, & sayed: Smite this people (I pray the) *with blindnesse. And he smote them with blyndnesse, accordīg to ꝑ desyre of Elisa. And Elisa said vnto them: this is not the way, neyther is this the towne: folowe me, and I wyll bringe you to the man whome ye seke. But he led them to Samaria.

And it fortuned, ꝑ when they were come to Samaria, Elisa sayed: LORD, opē theyr eyes, that they maye se. And ꝑ LORD opened theyr eyes, & they sawe. And beholde, they were in the myddest of Samaria. And the kynge of Israell sayd vnto Elisa when he saw them: Shy father, shal I smyte them? And he answered: thou shalt not smyte them: But smite those ꝑ thou hast takē with thine owne swearde, and with thyne owne bowe. But rather set bread and water before them, that they maye eate and drynke, and go to theyr master. And he prepared a greate refection for them. And when they had eaten & dronke, he sent them away: and they went to their master. And so the souldyers of Syria came nomore into the land of Israel.

After this it chaunced, that Benhadad king of Syria gathered al his hoost, and went vp, & besieged Samaria. But there was a greate derth in Samaria: and beholde, they besieged it, vntill an asses heade (was solde) for foure score siluer pence: & the fourth parte of a cab of doues donge, for fyue sicles. And as the king of Israel was going vpon the wal, there cryed a woman vnto hym, saying: helpe, my LORD O kynge. He saied: yf the LORD do not succour the, wherwith can I helpe the: wt ꝑ barne or with the wyncpresse? And the kynge sayd vnto her: what wilt thou? She answered: yonder woman sayde vnto me: bring thy sonne, that we may eate hym to day, & we wil eate myne to morowe. And so we dressed my sonne, and dyd eat him. And I sayde to her the other day: bring thy son that we may eat hym, & she hath hyd her sonne. And it came to passe, ꝑ when the king heard ꝑ wordes of the woman, he rent his clothes, and went vp on ꝑ wal. And ꝑ people loked, & beholde, he had a sakcloth vnder vpon his his flesshe. Then he sayde: GOD do so and so to me, if the head of Elisa the son of Saphat shal stand on him this daye.

But Elisa sat in his house, and the elders satte by hym, and the kynge sent a man before him. But yer the messenger came to him, he said to the elders: haue ye not sene how that the sonne of this murtherer hath sent to take away mine head: be circumspecte when the messenger cōmeth, & shut the doze, and holde him at ꝑ doze: is not ꝑ sound of his masters feete behinde hym? Whyle he yet talked with them: beholde, the messenger came down vnto hym, and sayd: behold, this euyl is of the LORDE, & what moze shall I loke foz of the LORDE?

¶ The. vii. Chapter.

¶ Elisa prophecyeth plenteousnesse, of victuales and other thinges to Samaria. The Syrians runne a way, and haue no man folowing them. The lorde that wolde not beleue the worde of Elisa is troden to deathe.

Then Elisa sayd: heare ye ꝑ wozde of the LORD: thus saith ꝑ LORD:
*to mozow this time shall a bus-shell of fyne flower be solde foz a sicle, & two bushels of barly foz a sicle in ꝑ gate of Samaria. Then a certaine lozde (on whose hande ꝑ kinge leaned) answered ꝑ mā of GOD, & said: beholde, if ꝑ LORD wold make windowes in heuē, myghte this sayinge come to passe? He sayd: behold, thou shalt se it with thine eies, but shalt not eat thereof.

And there were foure leperous men at the entryng in of the gate. And they said one to an other: why sit we here vn til we dye? yf we say we wil enter into ꝑ citie: behold, the dearth is in the cytie, and we shall dye therin. And yf we syt styl here, we dye also. Nowe therefoze come, & let vs fal vpon the hoost of the Sirians: yf they saue our lyues we shall lyue: yf they kil vs, then are we dead. And so they arose in the nyghte, to go to the host of the Sirians. And whē they wer cū to ꝑ vtmost part of ꝑ hoost of Siria, behold, ther was nomā ther.
Foz the LORDE had made the hoste of the Sirians* to heare a noyse of cha-rettes, and a noyse of hozses, and the noyse of a greate hooste. In somuche that they sayd one to another. Loe, the kinge of Israel hathe hyred against vs ꝑ kinges of the Hethites, & the kinges of ꝑ Egyptians to come vpō vs, wherfoze they arose, & fled in ꝑ nyghte & left their tētes, theyr hozses & theyr asses, and the feld which they had pitched, euen as it was, & fled foz theyr lyues. And when these lepers came to ꝑ edge of ꝑ hooste, they went into a tent, & did eat & dzinke, & caried thence siluer & golde, and ray-ment, and went & hid it, came agayne, & entred into an other tent, and caryed thence also, and went & hyd it.

Then sayde one to an other: we do not well this day, foz as muche as it is a day to bzing good tydinges, & we holde our peace. yf we tary til the day lyght, some mischefe wyl come vpon vs. Nowe therfoze come, that we may go, & tel the kinges houshold. And so they came, and called vnto the pozter of the cytie, and tolde them, sayinge: we came to the pa-uylions of the Syrians: and se, there was noman there, neither voyce of mā, but hozses and asses tyed: & the tentes were euen as they were wont to be.

And so the man called vnto ꝑ pozters, & they told the kinges house with-
in. And ꝑ kinge arose in the night, and sayd vnto his seruauntes: I will shewe you now, what the Syryans haue done vnto vs. They know ꝑ we be hungry, & therfoze are they gone oute of the pauy-lions, to hyde them selues in the felde, saying: when they come oute of ꝑ cytye, we shal catche them alyue, & get into ꝑ citye. And one of his seruaūtes answered, & sayd: Let men take (I pzaye you) fyue of the hozses that remaine, and are left in the multitude. Beholde, they are euen as al the multitude of Israel that are left in the cytie: beholde (I say) they are euen as the multitude of the Israelites that are consumed, and we wyll sende, & se. They toke therfoze the hoz-ses of two charettes, and the king sent after the host of the Sirians, saying: go, and se. And they went after them, euen vnto Iozdan, and lo, al ꝑ way was ful of clothes and vessels which the Syrians had cast from them in theyr haste.

And the messengers returned, & told ꝑ king. And the people went oute, and spoiled ꝑ tentes of the Sirians. And so it came to passe, ꝑ a bushel of fyne floure was solde foz a sicle, and two bushels of barly foz a sicle *accozding to ꝑ wozde of the LORD. And the king appoynted the lozde (on whose hande he leaned) to be at ꝑ gate. And ꝑ people trod vpō him in ꝑ gate, & he died: accozding to ꝑ wozd of the man of GOD, which he sayd, whē the kinge came downe to him. And so came the thing to passe, that the man of GOD had spoken to the kinge, sayinge: two bushels of barlye for a sycle: and a bushel of fyne floure for another, shalbe

And he sayde: Behold, thou shalt se it with thine eyes, & shalte not eate therof. And euen so chaunced it vnto him: for the people trode vpon him in the gate, and he dyed.

¶ The. viii. Chapter

Elisa prophecyeth vnto the Sunamite the dearth of seuen yere. After the death of Benhadad raygneth Hazael in Syria. Jehoram the sonne of Jehosaphat raigneth in Juda. Edom falleth from Juda. Ohonad succedeth Jehoram.

4.reg.4.c. THen spake* Elisa vnto ꝑ womā, (whose sonne he had restored to life againe) saying: vp, & go, thou, & thine houle, & sotourne whersoeuer ꝑ canst, for the LORDE hath called for a derth, & the same shal come vpon ꝑ land seuen yeres. And the woman arose, and did after the saying of the man of GOD, and wēt both she and her household, & sotourned in the land of the ꝑPhilistines seuen yere. And at the seuen yeres end, it fortuned, that ꝑ woman came agayn out of ꝑ land of the ꝑPhilistines, & went out to cal vpon the kynge for her house
B & for her lande. And the king talked wt Gehezi ꝑ seruaūt of ꝑ mā of GOD, saying: tel me (I pray the) al ꝑ great dedes that Elisa hath done. He told the king, how he had restored a dead man to life againe: but in the meane tyme the woman (whose childe he had rayled vp againe) cryed to the kyng for her house and for her lande. And Gehezi sayde: My lorde O kinge, this is the woman, and this is her sonne whom Elisa raised vp againe. And whē the king asked the woman, she tolde hym. And so the king deliuered her a chamberlaine saynge: restore thou vnto her, all that are hers: & al the frutes of the feilde syns the day ꝑ she left the lande, vntyl this time.

C And* Elisa came to Damascon, and 9.reg.9.c. Benhadad the king of Syria was sick. And one told him, saynge: The man of GOD is come hither. And the king said
8.reg.14.c. vnto Hazael: *take a present in thyne hande, and go mete the man of GOD, & thou maist aske the LORD by him, whether I shal recouer of this disease. And so Hazael went to mete him, and toke ꝑ present with him, and of euerye good thinge of Damascon, euen as much as fourty camelles could beare, and came and presented him selfe before him, and sayde: Thy sonne Benhadad kynge of Syria hath sent me to the, saying: shall I recouer of this disease?

And Elisa sayd to hym: goo, and saye vnto hym: thou shalt recouer, howbeit, the LORD hath shewed me, that he shal surelye dye. And he loked aside, & was D ashamed, and the man of GOD wepte. And Hazael sayd: why wepeth my lorde? He answered: for I know the euil thinges that thou shalt do vnto the childrē of Israel: for their strong cytyes shalte thou set on fyre, & their yong men shalt thou slaye with the swerde, and shalte dashe out the brayns of their sucking childzen, and all to teare their women with childe.

But Hazael said: what is thy seruaūt a dog ꝑ I should do this great thinge? And Elisa answered: the LORDE hathe shewed me, ꝑ thou shalt be king of Syria. And so he departed from Elisa and came to hys master, which sayd to him: what sayde Elisa to the? He answered, he tolde me ꝑ thou shouldest recouer. And on the morowe it fortuned, that he tooke a thycke cloth, and dipte it in water, and spredde it on his face, and he dyed: and Hazael raigned in his stede.

The fyfth yeare of Jehoram ꝑ sonne of Ahab kynge of Israell, Jehosaphat being also kinge of Juda, Jehoram the son of Jehosaphat king of Juda began to raigne*. xxxii. yere olde was he, whē 2.par.21d

The rest of the wordes that concerne Jozam, and all that he did, are they not writte in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And Jozam rested with hys fathers, and was buryed beside his fathers in the citie of Dauid. And * Ahaziahu his sonne raygned in his stede. In the .xii. yere of Jozá the son of Ahab kynge of Israel, did Ahaziahu the son of Jehozá kynge of Juda begyn to raygne. Two & twenty yere old was Ahaziahu whē he began to raygne, & he raigned one yere in Jerusalē, & his mothers name was Athaliahu ỏ doughter of Omry king of Israel. But he walked in the way of the house of Ahab, and did euyl in the sight of the LORDE, euen as dyd the house of Ahab. For he was ỏ son in lawe of the house of Ahab.

And he wente with Jozam the son of Ahab to warr agaynste Hazael kynge of Siria in Ramoth Gilead, & the Siriās woūded Jozá. And * kyng Jozam went backe agayne to be healed in Jezrael of the woūdes which ỏ Siriās had gyuen hym at Ramoth when he fought against Hazael kynge of Siria. And Ahaziahu the sonne of Jehozá kynge of Juda wēt downe to see Jozam the sonne of Ahab in Jezrael, because he was sycke there.

¶ The .ix. Chapter.

¶ Jehu is made kyng of Israel, and killeth Jehoram the kyng thereof, & Ahaziahu otherwise called Ochozias the kyng of Juda also / and causeth Jezabel to be cast downe out of a wyndow / and the dogges eate her.

AND Elisa the prophet called one of the childzen of ỏ prophetes, & sayde vnto him: * girde vp thy loines and take this horne of oyle in thy hand, & get the to Ramoth in Gilead. And whē thou cōmest thyther, loke where is Jehu ỏ son of Jehosaphat, the sonne of Nimsi, & goe to him, & make him arise vp from amōge his brethren, and carye him to a secrete chambre. Then take the horne of oile, and poure it on his heade, and say: thus sayeth the LORDE: I haue annoynted thee to be kynge ouer Israel. And then open the doze, and flye without any tarryinge. And so the seruaunt of the prophete gat him to Ramoth Gilead, & when he came in, beholde, the captaynes of the hooste were syttinge together. And he sayde: I haue an errande to the, O captaine. And Jehu said: vnto which of al vs: He said: to the, O captaine. And he arose, & went into the house.

And he poured the oyle on his heade, & sayde vnto him: thus saieth the LORD GOD of Israel: * I haue annoynted the to be kinge ouer the people of ỏ LORDE, euen ouer Israell. Thou shalt smyte the house of Ahab thy mayster, that I maye auenge the bloud of my seruauntes the prophetes, and the bloud of the seruaūtes of the LORDE, of the hande of Jezabell, for the whole house of Ahab shalbe destroyed: & * I wyll destroye frō Ahab, euē him ỏ maketh water against the wal, & hym that is prysoned and forsaken in Israell: and I wyll make the house of Ahab lyke the house of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat, & lyke the house of Basa the sonne of Ahia. And as for Jezabell, * the dogges shall eate her in the felde of Jezrael, and there shalbe none to burie her. And he opened the dooze, and fledde.

Jehu came oute to the seruauntes of his lorde, & one sayd vnto him: is al well? wherfore came this mad felowe to thee? And he sayde vnto them: ye knowe what maner of mā it is, & what his communicacion is. They sayde vnto hym again: is it not so, tell vs: He saide: thus & thus spake he to me, sayinge: Thus sayeth the LORD: I haue annoynted the to be kinge ouer Israel. Then they besyde the horologye hasted, & toke euery man his garment, and put it vnder hym, & blewe with trumpettes, saying: Jehu is kynge. And so Jehu the sonne of Jehosaphat ỏ son of Nimsi, conspired agaynst Jozam. Joram kept Ramoth Gilead, he and al Israel because of Hazael kynge of Siria: and * kynge Jozam returned to be healed in Jezrael of the woundes whiche ỏ Sirians had gyuen him, when he fought with Azael kyng of Siria.

And Jehu sayd: yf it be your myndes, then let no man departe & escape oute of the citie, to go & tell in Jezrael. So Jehu gat vp into a charet, & wente to Jezrahel where Jozam laye, and Ahaziahu kynge of Juda was come down thither to se Jozam. And the watcheman that stoode on the towze in Jezrael, spied the companie of Jehu as he came, and said: I se a companie. And Jehozā saide: take a hozseman and sende to mete them, ꝓ he maye aske whether it be peace. And so there wente one on hozsbacke to mete him, & said: thus saith ꝓ king: is it peace? and Jehu saide: what hast thou to doe with peace? turne thee behynde me. And the watchman tolde, saying: the messenger came to them, but he commeth not againe.

Then he sente oute an other on hozse backe, whiche came to them, and sayde: thus sayeth the kynge: is it peace? Jehu answered: what haste ꝓ to do w peace? turne the behynd me. And the watchmā told, saying: he came to them also & commeth not again, & the drivinge is like the dryuing of Jehu the sonne of Nimsi: for he dryueth the charret as he were mad. And Jehozam said: make ready. And the charet was made ready. And Jehozam kyng of Israel & Ihaziahu kyng of Juda wēt out eyther of them in his charrt, against Jehu, & mette him in the fozlōg of Naboth the Jezraelite. And it fortuned that when Jehozam sawe Jehu: he sayde: is it peace Jehu? He answered. What peace should there be, so longe as the whozedomes of thy mother Jezabel, & her witchcraftes are so great? And Jehozam turned his handes, and fled, and saide to Ihaziahu: there is falshed, O Ihaziahu. And Jehu toke a bowe in his handes, and smote Jehozam betwene ꝓ armes, and the arowe went thozow his hert. And he fell downe flat in his charet. Then saide Jehu to Bydkar a captayne: take him and cast him in the plot of grouñd of Naboth the Jezraelite. For I remembze that when I & thou rode togither in a charet after Ahab his father, ꝓ LORDE layed this heuy burthen vpon him. I haue sene yesterday ꝓ blood of Naboth, & the blood of his sons, sayde the LORDE: & I wyl quyte it the in this ground: saith the LORD. Now therefore take him & cast him in the plot of grouñd, accozdyng to the wozde of the LORDE. But when Ihaziahu the kyng of Juda sawe this, he fled by the way of the garden house. And Jehu folowed after him, and sayd: smyte him also in the charret: (and they smote him) in his charet at the going vp to Gur by Jbleam, and he fled to Magiddo, and there dyed. And hys seruauntes caried him in a charrete to Jerusalem, and buried him there in his sepulchre w his fathers, in the cytie of Dauid. And in the .xi. yere of Jozam the sonne of Ahab, beganne Ihaziahu to raygne ouer Juda. And when Jehu was come to Jezrael, Jezabel heard of it, and starched her face, and tyzed her head, and loked out at a wyndow. And as Jehu entred at the gate, she said: had Zimri peace whiche slewe his maisters? And he lyft vp his eyes to the wyndowe, and sayde: who is of my syde, who? And there loked out to him two oz thzee chāberlaynes, & he sayd: thzowe her down. So they thzewe her downe, & her bloud dashed towarde the wall, & towarde the hozses, & he trode her vnderfote.

And when he was come in, he did eate and dzynk, & said: go & visite I pray you, ponder cursed creature, & bury her: *for she is a kynges doughter. And so when they came to burye her, they founde no moze of her then the skull & the fete: & the palmes of her handes. Wherefoze they came againe and tolde hym. And he said: this is the wozde of the LORDE, which he spake by the hand of his seruaunt Elia the Thesbite, saying: *in the feide of Jezrael shall dogges eate the flesshe of Jezabell. And so the carkas of Jezabell was euen as dunge vpon the earth in ꝓ feide of Jezrael: so that no man myghte saye: This was Jezabel.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

Jehu causeth the lxx. sonnes of Ahab to be slaine, and after that xlij. of his brethren. He fyndeth a meane also to kyll all the priestes of Baal. After his death, his sonne raygneth in his stede.

Ahab had *lxx. sonnes in Samaria. And Jehu wzote letters, and sente to Samaria vnto ꝓ rulers of Jezrael, to the elders, and to thē ꝓ bzought vp Ahabs childzen, sayinge: Nowe whē this letter commeth to you, ye that haue with you your maisters sonnes, ye haue with you both charretes and hozses: a stronge cytie haue ye also, and harnesse, loke whiche of youre masters sonnes is best, and most mete, & set him on his fathers seat, & fight for your lozdes house. But they were exceedyngly afrayde, and sayde: see, two kynges were not able to stande before him, howe shal we then be able to stande? And he ꝓ was gouernour of Ahabs house, & he ꝓ ruled the cytie, ꝓ elders also, and the tutours sent to Jehu

hu, saying: we are thy seruauntes, and wyll do all that thou shalt byd vs: we wyll make no man kynge, therefore do thou what semeth good in thyne eyes.
5 Then he wrote another letter to them, saying: yf ye be myne, & wyl herken vnto my voyce, the take the heades of the men that are your masters sonnes, and come to me to Jezrael by to morowe this time. And the kinges sonnes were lxx. persons, and they were wt the great men of the citie, whiche broughte them vp, & when the letter came to the: they toke the kinges children, & slewe them, euen lxx. persons, & laid their heades in basketes, and sente them vnto hym to Jezrael. And there came a messenger & tolde him, saynge: they haue broughte the heades of the kynges sons. And he said: let the lay the on. ii. heapes in ỹ entryng in of the gate, vntyl ỹ morninge.
C And when it was day he went out, & stode, & said to al the folke: ye be righteous. Beholde, I conspired againste my master, & slue hi. But who slue al these? Learne here, that there shall fall vnto the earth nothing of ỹ word of ỹ LORD whiche he spake concerning ỹ house of Ahab. For ỹ LORDE hath broughte to passe the thinges ỹ he spake by ỹ hande of his seruaũt *Elia. And so Jehu slue all ỹ remayned of the house of Ahab in Jezrael, & al that were great wt him, & his kynsfolkes & priestes, so ỹ he let nothig of him remaine. And he arose & departed, & came to Samaria. And when Jehu was in the way to ỹ house where ỹ shepherdes did shere their shepe, he met wt the brethren of Ahaziahu king of Juda, & said: what are ye? They answered: ỹ brethren of Ahaziahu are we, & go downe to salute ỹ children of the king & of ỹ quene. And he said: take the alyue. whom when they had taken the alyue, they slewe them at the wel which was beside the house where the shepe are whozen, euen. xlii. men, neyther lefte he any of them.
D And when he was departed thence, he met wt Jehonadab the son of *Rechab cõming agaĩst him. And he blessed him, & sayd to him: is thyne hert righte, as my hert is true wt thyne? And Jehonadab answered: yea ỹ it is. (If it be, saieth he) then giue me thyne hand. And when he had gyuen hym hys hande, he toke hym vp to him in the charet, & said: come with me, and se ỹ zeale that I haue for the LORDE: and so they made him ryde in his charet. And whe he came to Samaria, he slue all that remayned vnto Ahab in Samaria, tyll he had wypte him out, accordyng to the saying of the LORDE whiche he spake to Elia. And Jehu gathered all ỹ people together, & said vnto the: *Ahab serued Baal a lytle: but Jehu shal serue him more. Now therfore call vnto me al ỹ prophetes of Baal, al such as serue him, and all hys priestes, & let none be lackynge. For I haue a great sacrifice to do to Baal: & therfore whosoeuer is myssed, he shall not lyue. But Jehu did it for a subtylte, to thintent ỹ he might destroy ỹ seruãtes of Baal. And Jehu sayd: proclaime an holy conuocatiõ for Baal, & Jehu sẽt vnto al Israel. And al ỹ seruãtes of Baal came, ỹ there was not a mã left behynde ỹ came not. And they came into ỹ house of Baal, & ỹ house of Baal was full from one ende to another.
And he sayde to him that was ỹ keper of the destrye: bryng forth garmẽtes for all the seruauntes of Baal. And he brought them oute garmentes. And when Jehu went with Jehonadab the son of Rechab into the house of Baal, he sayde vnto the seruauntes of Baal: serche and loke, that there be here wt you none of the seruauntes of ỹ LORD, but the seruauntes of Baal onely. And when they wente in to offre sacrifice & burntoffrynge, Jehu appoynted eyghtie men without, and sayd: yf any of the mẽ whom I haue brought vnder your handes, escape, he that letteth him go, shall dye for him.
And it fortuned ỹ assone as he hadde made an ende of offeryng the burnt sacrifice, Jehu saide to the men of warre, and to the captaines: go in and slay thẽ, let none come oute. And they smote thẽ wt the edge of the swearde. And the mẽ of warre and the captaines cast them out, and wẽt vnto ỹ citie of ỹ temple of Baal, & set the ymages out of ỹ tẽple of Baal, & burnte thẽ. And they brake ỹ image of Baal, & brake ỹ house of Baal, & made a draft house of it vnto this daye. And so Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel. But frõ the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat, whiche made Israel to synne, Jehu departed not, neyther frõ folowing of thẽ (maugre for sorde he)

the golden calues that were in Bethel and in Dan.

And ꝑ LORD sayd vnto Jehu: bicause ꝑ hast done right wel in bringig to passe the thing ꝑ is right in myne eyes, & hast done vnto the house of Ahab accordig to al thinges ꝑ are in myne hert, therefore shall *thy children vnto the fourth generacion sit on the seate of Israell. But Jehu cared not for this, to walke in ꝑ law of ꝑ LORD GOD of Israell w al his herte, for he departed not frō the synnes of Jeroboam, whiche made Israel to synne. 4. Reg. 15.

In those dayes ꝑ LORDE began to cut Israel short: * & Hazael smote them in all the coastes of Israel, frō Jordan Eastwarde, euen al ꝑ land of Gilead, ꝑ Gadites, ꝑ Rubenites, & them ꝑ wer of Manasses, from Aroer vnto the ryuer Arnon: euen Gilead & Basan. The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehu, and al that he did, & all his power, are they not written in the booke of ꝑ Chronicles of the kynges of Israel: And Jehu slept with his fathers, and they buried him in Samaria, and Jehoahaz hys son raygned in his stede. And the tyme that Jehu raigned vpon Israel in Samaria, is. xxviii. yeres. 4. Reg. 8. c.

¶ The. xi. Chapter.

¶ Athalia putteth to death al the kynges sonnes except Joas the son of Ohoziah. Which is hidden, and after her death is made kynge.

AND Athalia the mother of Ahaziahu when she sawe ꝑ her sonne was deade, she arose, and destroyed all the kynges seede. But Jehosaba the doughter of kynge Joram, & syster to Ahaziahu toke Joas the son of Ahaziahu, & stale him frō amōge ꝑ kinges sons ꝑ were slayne, & his nource wt him, out of a sleping chābre, & hid him frō Athalia, ꝑ he was not slaine. And he was wt her hid in ꝑ house of the LORD. vi. yere. And Athalia did raigne ouer the lāde.

And the. vii. yere Jehoiada sent & let the rulers ouer the hundredes, wt the captaines, & them of the gard, and toke thē to him into ꝑ house of ꝑ LORD, and made a bonde wt them, & toke an othe of thē in ꝑ house of ꝑ LORD, & shewed thē the kinges son. And he cōmaunded thē, saying: this is it ꝑ ye must do: one third part of you, whose dutie is to come on ꝑ Sabboth day, shal kepe the watch of ꝑ kynges house: And an other third part shal kepe ꝑ gate of Sur: & an other. iii. part shal kepe ꝑ gate which is behynd thē of ꝑ gard: & so shal ye kepe ꝑ watch of the house of Messiah, & two partes of you, ꝑ is al ꝑ go out on ꝑ Sabboth day, shall kepe the watche of the house of ꝑ LORDE about the kyng, & ye shal compasse the kinge rounde about, and euery man shall haue his weapon in hys hand, and whosoeuer commeth within ꝑ ranges, let him be slayne. And se that ye be with the king, as he goth out & in.

And the captaynes ouer the hundredes did accordyng to all thinges that * Jehoiada the priest commaūded, and they toke euery mā his mē that wer to come in on ꝑ Sabboth daye, wt thē that should go out on ꝑ Sabboth, & came to Jehoiada ꝑ priest. And to ꝑ captaines ouer hūdredes did ꝑ priestes giue king Dauids speares & shyldes that were in ꝑ temple. And they of ꝑ gard stode, & euery man had his weapon in his hāde rounde aboute the kynge, from ꝑ right corner of the temple to ꝑ left, alonge by the aulter and ꝑ temple. And he brought out the kynges sonne, and put ꝑ crown vpon him, and deliuered him * ꝑ wytnes, and made him kynge, and annoynted him. And they clapt their handes, & sayde: GOD saue the kynge. * 1. par. 23.

* And when Athalia heard the noyse of the runnynge of the people, she came to the people into the Temple of the LORDE. And when she loked, beholde: the kyng stode by a piller, as the maner was, and the syngers and the trōpetters by the kyng, and all ꝑ people of the lande retoyced, and blew with trōpets. And Athalia rente her clothes, & cried, treasō, treason. But Jehoiada ꝑ priest cōmaūded ꝑ captaines of ꝑ hūdredes ꝑ had ꝑ rule of ꝑ hoost, & sayd vnto them: haue her out without ꝑ temple, that she maye be within the ranges, & if any folow her, kyl him with ꝑ swerde: for the priest had said: she may not be slayne in the house of ꝑ LORDE. And they layed hāders on her tyll she came into ꝑ waye, by the which the horses wente into the kinges palace, & there was she slayne. * And Jehoiada made a bond betwene the LORDE and ꝑ king, and the people, that they should be ꝑ LORDES people: & also betwene the kynge and ꝑ people. And al ꝑ people of ꝑ lande wēt into the house of Baal, and destroyed it, his aul- 2. par. 23.

alters also, and his ymages brake they downe lustely, & slue Mathan ꝑ priest of Baal before ꝑ alters. And the priestes set a watche ouer the house of ꝑ LORD: and toke the rulers ouer hundredes, ꝑ captaines, & them of the garde, and al the people of the lãd. And they brought ꝑ kynge frõ the house of ꝑ LORD: and came by the waye of the gate of thẽ of the garde to the kynges palace. And he sat him down on the seat of the kinges. And al the people of the lãde reioyced, and ꝑ cytye was in quiet. And they slue Athalia with the swearde besyde the kynges palace. Seuen yere olde was Iehoas when he began to raygne.

¶ The. xii. Chapter.

¶ Iehoas maketh prouision for the repayringe of the temple/ he is killed by two of his seruauntes/ & Amaziahu raigneth in his steade.

AND he began to raigne in the. vii. yere of Iehu. xl. yeare raygned he in Ierusalẽ, & hys mothers name was Zebiah of Beer seba. And he dyd ꝑ which was good in ꝑ syght of ꝑ LORD, as long as Iehoiada ꝑ priest enformed him. But the hylaulters were not take away, for the people offred & burnt incense yet vpon ꝑ hylaulters. And Iehoas sayd to the priestes: all the syluer of dedicate thinges that be broughte to ꝑ house of the LORDE in currãt money, that is to say, the money that euery mã is set at, & al the money ꝑ euery man wt a willing hert giueth & bringeth into ꝑ house of ꝑ LORD: let ꝑ priestes take it to them, euery mã of his acquaintãce: to repaire the broken places of ꝑ house, wheresoeuer any decay is foũd. And so it came to passe, ꝑ vnto the. xxiii. yere of kyng Iehoas, the priestes had mended nothyng that was decayed in the temple. The king Iehoas called for Iehoiada the bishop: & the priestes, & said vnto them: why repayre ye not the broken places of the temple? Now therfore: see that ye receyue no more money of your acquaintãce, except ye deliuer it to repayre the temple withal. And the priestes consented to receyue no more money of the people: except to repayre the decayed places of the temple.

But Iehoiada ꝑ priest toke a chest & bored an hole in the lyd of it, & set it besyde the altar on ꝑ right side, as euerye man cõmeth into ꝑ temple of ꝑ LORD. And the priestes that kept the vessels, put therin al the money ꝑ was brought into the house of the LORD. And it fortuned ꝑ when they saw ther was much money in the chest, *the kinges scribe & the hie priest came vp, and told the money that was founde in the house of the LORDE, & put it into a bagge. And they gaue the money sealed into ꝑ handes of them ꝑ executed ꝑ worke, and ꝑ had the ouersight of the house of the LORD: and they brought it oute to ꝑ carpenters & builders (ꝑ wrought vpõ ꝑ house of the LORD) & to masons & hewers of stone. And they boughte tymber & frestone, to repayre the decaye in the house of the LORDE, & to al ꝑ went out to mend the temple: howe be it there was not made for the house of the LORDE, bowles of syluer: instrumentes of musicke, basõs, tröpets: nor ani vessels of gold, or vessels of siluer, of ꝑ money that was brought into ꝑ house of ꝑ LORD. But they gaue that to ꝑ worckemẽ, and repayred therwith the house of ꝑ LORD. Moreouer, they rekened not wt the mẽ, into whose hãdes they deliuered ꝑ money to be bestowed on worckmen: for they did their busines faythfully. Howbeit trespasse money, & sin money was not brought into the house of the LORD, for it was the priestes.

Then came Hazael kynge of Syria vp, and fought agaynst Geth, and toke it, & Hazael set his face to go vp to Ierusalem. And Iehoas kynge of Iuda toke al the halowed thinges ꝑ Iehosaphat, Iehoram, & Haziahu his fathers, kynges of Iuda, had dedicate, & that he hymselfe had dedicated, & al the golde ꝑ was founde in the treasures of ꝑ house of the LORD: & in the kinges house, and sent it to Hazael kyng of Syria, & so he departed from Ierusalem.

The remnaunte of the worckes that concerne Iehoas, & al ꝑ he did, are they not written in ꝑ boke of the chronicles of the kinges of Iuda? And his owne seruaũtes arose & wrought treason, & slue Iehoas in the house of Millo, whẽ he came down to Silla. Iozabet ꝑ son of Semeath: & Iehozabad the sonne of Somer, his seruauntes smote him, & he dyed. And they buryed him with his fathers in the citie of Dauid. And Amaziahu his sonne raigned in his stede.

The. xiii. Chapter.

Iehoahaz the sonne of Iehu/ is deliuered into the handes handes of the Syrians, and dieth. Joas his son raygneth in his steade. Elisa dieth.

A In the.xxiii. yeare of Joas ꝑ son of Thaziahu kyng of Juda, Jehoahaz the son of Jehu began to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria. xvii. yere. And he wrought that which was euel in the syght of the LORDE, & folowed ꝑ sinnes of Jeroboā the son of Nebat, which made Israel to sin, & departed not therfrō. And the LORD was angry with Israel, & delyuered them into the hāde of Hazael king of Syria, & into ꝑ hande of Benhadad the son of Hazael all their dayes.

B And Jehoahaz besought ꝑ LORD, & ꝑ LORDE heard him. For he considered the trouble of Israel, wherewith the king of Syria troubled them. And ꝑ LORD gaue Israell a delyuerer, so that they went out from vnder the subiection of the Syrians. And ꝑ children of Israell dwelt in their tēts as before tyme. Neuertheless they departed not from the synnes of the house of Jeroboā whiche made Israell sin, but walked in them.

And there remayned an hoole groue stil also i Samaria. Nether did he leaue of the people to Jehoahaz, but fyfty horsemē, ten charrets, & ten. M. fotemē *for the king of Syria destroyed them, & made them lyke threshed dust. 4. Reg 13. b.

The rest of the wordes that cōcerne Jehoahaz and al that he did, & his power, are they not written in the boke of ꝑ Chronicles of the kinges of Israel? And Jehoahaz slepte with hys fathers, & they buried him in Samaria, & Joas his son raigned in his stede. In the.xxxvii. yere of Joas kynge of Juda, began Jehoas ꝑ sonne of Jehoahaz to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria. xvi. yere, and did that which is euil in the syght of ꝑ LORDE, and departed not from al the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat (ꝑ made Israel synne) for he walked therin.

C The remnaunt of the wordes ꝑ concerne Joas & al that he dyd, & hys power wherw he foughte agaynst Amaziahu kyng of Juda: are they not written in the chronicle of ꝑ boke of the kynges of Israel? And Joas slept w his fathers, & Jeroboā sat vpō his seate. And Joas was buried in Samaria among D the kynges of Israel.

When Elisa was fallen syeke of hys syeknesse (wherof he dyed) Joas the kynge of Israel came down vnto him, and wept before him, and saide: *O my father, my father: the charret of Israel, & the horsemen of the same. Elisa sayde vnto him: take bow & arrowes. And he toke vnto him bowe & arrowes. And he said to the kyng of Israel: put thine hande vpon ꝑ bowe, & he put his hande vpon it. And Elisa put his handes vpō the kynges handes, and sayde: open a wyndowe eastwarde: & when he had opened it, Elisa sayde: shote, and he shot. And he saide: the arrewe of helth of the LORDE, & the arrowe of helth against Syria: for thou shalt smite Syria in Aphek, tyl thou haue made an ende of the. 4. Reg. 13.

D And he sayde: take the arrowes: and he toke them. And he sayde vnto ꝑ kyng of Israel: smyte the ground: & he smote thryse, and ceassed. And the man of GOD was angrye with him, and sayde: thou shouldest haue smytten .v. or .vi. tymes (or seuen tymes) & then thou haddest smitte Syria, tyl thou haddest made an ende of them: where nowe thou shalte smyte Syria, but thryse. And so Elisa died, and they buried him: & the souldiers of the Moabites came into the lande the same yeare. And it chaunced as some of them were burying a man, & spyed the souldiers, they cast the man into the sepulchre of Elisa. And when the manne was rolled downe, and touched the bodye of Elisa, *he reuiued, and stode vpon his feete. E. 4. Reg.

But Hazael vexed Israel, al the daies of Jehoahaz. And the LORD had mercy on them, & pytied them: and had respecte vnto thē because of his appointment made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: & woulde not destroye them, nether cast he them from him as yet. So Hazael the kinge of Syria died: & Benhadad his sonne raigned in his steade. And Jehoas the son of Jehoahaz went agayne: & toke out of the hand of Benhadad the son of Hazael, ꝑ cities which he had taken awaye oute of the hāde of Jehoahaz his father, in warre: for thre tymes dyd Joas beate hym, & restored the cyties vnto Israel agayne.

¶ The. xiiii. Chapter.

¶ Amaziahu the kynge of Juda putteth to death the manquellers of his father / and after smyteth Edom. Joas dyeth / and Jeroboam his sonne succedeth in his rowme / and after him raigneth Azariah. Amazia is killed in Lachas / and Azaria raigneth in his stede.

The

The.xi. yere of Joas, sonne of Jehoahaz kyng of Israell, raigned Amaziahu the son of Joas king of Juda: *he was .xxv. yere olde when he bega to raigne, & raigned .xxix. yere in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Jehoadan, of Jerusalem. And he did that which is good in the syght of ỹ LORD, yet not lyke Dauid hys father, but did accordyng to all thinges as Joas his father did. Nether were the hilaulters taken away. For as yet ỹ people did sacrifice and burnt incense on ỹ hilaulters. And assone as the kyngdō was settelled in his hande: *it came to passe ỹ he slue his seruaunts which had killed the kynge his father.

But the childzen of those murtherers he slue not, accordyng vnto it that is written in the boke of ỹ law of Moses, wherin the LORD cōmaunded, saying: *let not the fathers dye for ỹ childzen, nor let ỹ childzē be slayne for ỹ fathers: But let euery mā be put to deth for his owne synne. He slue of Edom in the salte valeye * ten thousande, & toke the castel on the rocke in the same battel, & called the name of it Jokthеel vnto this daye.

Then Amaziahu sent messengers to Jehoas the sonne of Jehoahaz son of Jehu kyng of Israel, sayinge: come, let vs see eche other. And Jehoas ỹ kynge of Israell sente to Amaziahu kynge of Juda, saying: *dyd not a thistle that is in Libanon, sende to a Cedze tree that is in Libanon, saying: gyue thy doughter to my sonne to wyfe: And the wylde beast that was in Libanon, went and troade downe the thistle. Thou haste smyttē Edom, thine hert hath made the proude. Enioye this glozy: and tarye at home. Why doest thou prouoke to mischief, that thou shouldest be ouerthzowen, and Juda with thee

But Amaziahu would not heare. And Jehoas king of Israel went vp: and he and Amaziahu kynge of Juda saw eyther other at Bethzames whiche is in Juda. And Juda was put to ỹ wozse before Israel, and they fled euery man to theyr tentes. And Jehoas kynge of Israell toke Amaziahu kyng of Juda, the sonne of Jehoas the sonne of Ahaziahu: at Bethsames, and came to Jerusalem & brake down ỹ wall of Jerusalē, frō ỹ gate of Ephzaim to ỹ cozner gate. iiij. hundzed cubites. And he toke al the golde & syluer & all the vessels that were founde in the house of the LORD, and in the treasures of ỹ kinges house, & the childzē toke he to be his wardes: and returned to Samaria againe.

The rest of the actes of Jehoas which he did, and his power, and howe he fought with Amaziahu king of Juda, are they not wzitten in the Chronicle boke of the kynges of Israel? And Jehoas slepte with his fathers, and was buried at Samaria, amonge ỹ kynges of Israel: and Jeroboam his son raigned in his steade.

Amaziahu the sonne of Joas kyng of Juda, lyued after the death of Jehoas sonne of Jehoahaz kynge of Israel .xv. yere. And the remnaunt of the wozdes that concerne Amaziahu, are they not wzitten in the boke of the chronicles of the kinges of Juda: But they cōspired treason agaynst him in Jerusalem, and when he fled to Lachis, they sent after hym to Lachis: and slue him there. And they bzought him on hozses, & he was buried at Jerusalem, with his fathers, in the citie of Dauid. *And all ỹ people of Juda toke Azaria, whiche was .xvi. yeare olde, & made hym kynge for hys father Amaziahu. He built *Elath, and bzought it againe to Juda, after that ỹ kynge was layde to rest wt his fathers.

In the .xv. yere of Amaziahu ỹ sonne of Joas kynge of Juda, was Jeroboā the sonne of Joas made kyng ouer Israel in Samaria, & raigned .xli. yeare: & wzought ỹ whiche was cupl in ỹ sight of the LORD. Nether turned he awaye from all the synnes of Jeroboā the son of Nebat, whych made Israel to synne. He restozed ỹ coast of Israel frō the entrynge of Hemath, vnto the sea of the wyldernes, accordyng to the wozde of the LORDE GOD of Israell, whiche he spake by ỹ hāde of hys seruaunte *Jonas, the sonne of Amithai the prophet: which was of Geth Hepher. For the LORD saw howe ỹ the affliction of Israel was exceedyng bitter, in so much ỹ the pzysoned & the forsaken were at an ende. And there was none to helpe Israel. *And the LORDE sayd not, that he would put out the name of Israell frō vnder heauen, but he helped thē by the hande of Jeroboam the sonne of Joas.

The rest of the wozdes that cōcerne

Jeroboam.

Jeroboam, and all that he did: and his strength, whiche he executed in ꝑ warres: and howe he restored Damasco, & Hemath to Juda in Israell: are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And Jeroboā slept wᵗ hys fathers, euen wᵗ the kinges of Israel: and Zacharia his son raigned in his steade.

¶ The. xv. Chapter.

¶ Azaria the kyng of Juda becommeth a leper. Of Jothā, Sallum, Menahem, Pekahia, Phaeah, Jerbam, and Ahaz.

I N the. xxvii. yeare of Jeroboam kynge of Israel, began Azaria sonne of Amazia, kynge of Juda to raygne. Sixtene yeare olde was he when he was made kyng: and he raigned. lii. yeare in Jerusalem, & his mothers name was Jecholiahu of Jerusalē. And he did that which was right in the sight of the LORDE, according to all thinges as did his father Amaziahu: saue ꝑ the hylaiters were not put awaye: for people offred, and burned incense styll on the hylaulters. And the B LORDE smote the kynge: and he was a leper vnto the daye of his death, * and dwelte in a seuerall house at Lybertie, & Jothā the kinges sonne gouerned the palace, & iudged the people of the land. The rest of the wordes ꝑ concerne Azaria & al ꝑ he did: are they not written in the boke of the Chronicles of ꝑ kynges of Juda? And so Azaria slept with his fathers, and they buried hym with hys fathers in the cytie of Dauid, and Jotham his sonne raigned in his steade.

In the. xxxviii. yeare of Azaria king of Juda, did Zacharia the sonne of Jeroboam raigne vpon Israell in Samaria. vi. monethes: and wrought that which was euel in the sight of ꝑ LORD as did his fathers: & turned not awaye from the sinnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat, which made Israell to synne. And Sallū the sonne of Jabes conspired agaynste him, and smote him in the syght of the people, and kylled him, and raigned in his stede. The rest of ꝑ wordes that concerne zacharia, beholde, they are writtē in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Israell. These be also the wordes of the LORD, which he spake vnto Jehu, saying: * thy sons shal sit on the seate of Israel in the. iiii. generacion after thee. And it came so to passe.

Sallum the sonne of Jabes began to raigne in the. xxxix. yeare of Azaria kynge of Juda: and he raygned a moneth in Samaria. For Menahem the sonne of Gadi went vp from Thirza, & came to Samaria, & smote Sallū ꝑ son of Jabes in Samaria, & slue hym, and raigned in his steade. The rest of ꝑ wordes ꝑ concerne Sallum, & the treason whiche he conspired, beholde: they are written in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. The same time Menahē destroied Thiphsah, & al that were therin, & the coastes therof from Tharsahi. And (because they opened not to him) he smote it & ript vp al their women wᵗ child. The. xxxix. yere of Azaria kyng of Juda began Menahē ꝑ sonne of Gadi to raigne vpon Israel, ten yere in Samaria. And he did euyl in ꝑ syght of ꝑ LORD, & turned not awaye all his dayes from the sinne of Jeroboam, the sonne of Nebat, whiche made Israel to synne. And Phul the kynge of Assiria, came vpon ꝑ lande. And Menahē gaue Phul a. M. talentes of syluer, that hys hande myght be wᵗ hym, & stably she the kyngdome in his hande. And Menahē made a proclamacyon for ꝑ money in Israel, ꝑ al mē of substāce should geue ꝑ kinge of Assyria fyftie syeles of syluer a pece. And so the king of Assiria turned backe againe, & taried not there in the lande. The rest of the wordes that concerne Menahem, and al that he did: are they not written in the boke of ꝑ Chronicles of the kynges of Israell? And Menahem slept with his fathers, and Pekahia his son did in hys steade succede him in the kyngdome.

In the fiftyeth yere of Azaria kynge of Juda, began Pekahia ꝑ son of Menahē to raigne ouer Israell in Samaria two yere, & did that which was euel in the syght of the LORDE: & left not of from ꝑ synnes of Jeroboā ꝑ son of Nebat, which made Israel sinne. But Pekah the son of Remaliahu: which was a captaine of his, cōspired against him, & smote hym in Samaria: euen in the place of the kinges house wᵗ Argob and Aria: & with him were fyftye men of the Gileadites: & he kylled hym, and raygned in his rowme. The rest of the wordes that concerne Pekahia, & al that he did, behold: they are writtē in ꝑ boke of the Chronicles of ꝑ kynges of Israell.

Ju

In the.lii. yeare of Azaria kynge of Juda, begā Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu, to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria. xx. yeare, & dyd euell in the sight of ꝑ LORD, and turned not away from the sinnes of Jeroboā the sonne of Nebat, that made Israel synne. In ꝑ dayes of Pekah kinge of Israel, came Thiglath Peleser king of Assiria, and toke Jion, Abel, Bethmaacha, Janoah, Kedes, Hazor, Gilead, Galile, & al the lande of Nephthali, & caried them awaye to Assiria. And Hosea the sonne of Ela conspired treason against Pekah ꝑ son of Remaliah, & smote him, & slue him: and raigned in his steade in the.xx. yeare of Jotham the sonne of Uziahu. The rest of ꝑ wordes ꝑ concerne Pekah & al ꝑ he dyd, behold, they are written in ꝑ boke of ꝑ chronicles of the kinges of Israel.

6 The seconde yeare of Pekah the son of Remaliahu king of Israel, begā Jotham the sonne of Uziahu king of Juda to raygne. Fyue & twenty yeare olde was he when he began to raygne: and he raygned syxten yeare in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was Jerusa the doughter of Sadock. And he did ꝑ which is rycht in the sight of ꝑ LORDE: euen accordyng to al as dyd his father Uziahu so dyd he. But ꝑ hilaulters wer not put away: for the people offred & burnt incense styl in the hylaulters: he buylt the hygher dore of the house of the LORDE. The rest of the wordes that concerne Jotham, & all that he dyd, are they not writtē in the boke of the chronicles of the kinges of Juda? In those dayes ꝑ LORD began to sende into Juda, Rezin the kinge of Siria, & Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu. And Jotham slept with his fathers, and was buried with his fathers in the cyte of Dauyd hys father, and Ahaz his sonne raygned in hys steade.

¶ The.xvi. Chapter

Ahaz king of Juda consecrateth his sonne in fier, and herbe many batailles against the king of Israel. In ꝑ stead of Ahaz raigneth Ezekia his son.

A 1. par. 3. 3. In the.xvii. yeare of Pekah ꝑ sonne of Remaliahu kinge of Israell, Ahaz the sonne of Jotham kinge of Juda, beganne to raygne. Twentye yeare olde was he, when he was made kinge, & raigned syxtene yeare in Jerusalem, and did not ꝑ which was rychte in ꝑ eyes of ꝑ LORD his God: like Dauid his father: But walked in ꝑ way of ꝑ kinges of Israel, yea, & made *his son to go thorow the fier, after the abhominacions of the Heathen, whome the LORD caste out before the chyldren of Israel. And he offred & burnt incense in the hilaulters & on the hyls, & vnder euery thycke tree: *Then Rezin kynge of Syria, & Peka sonne of Remaliahu kinge of Israel came vp to Jerusalē to fight. And they foughte against Ahaz, but could not ouercome him. At ꝑ same tyme Rezin kinge of Siria brought Elath again to Siria, and rid the Jewes thence. And ꝑ Sirians *cam to Elath, and dwell therin vnto this daye.

4. reg. 14. b

So Ahaz sent messengers to Thyglat ꝑ Peleser kyng of Assiria, sayinge: I B am thy seruaunt & thy sonne, come vp & deliuer me out of the hande of the king of Syria, & out of the hande of the kyng of Israell whiche ryse vp against me. And Ahaz toke the syluer & the golde ꝑ was founde in the house of the LORDE & in ꝑ treasures of ꝑ kinges house, and sente a rewarde vnto the kinge of Assiria. *And the kinge of Assiria consented vnto him. For ꝑ kinge of Assiria wēt vp agaynst Damasco. And when he had taken it: he caried the people awaye to Kyr, & slue Rezin. And kinge Ahaz wēt to Damasco to mete Thiglath Peleser kinge of Assiria. And when kynge Ahaz sawe an aulter that was at Damasco, he sente to Uria ꝑ priest the paterne of the aulter, & the fashion of it, & al the workemanshyp therof. And Uria the priest made an aulter in al poyntes lyke to the paterne which kynge Ahaz had sente from Damasco: Euen so dyd Uria the priestе make it, agaynst kinge Ahaz came from Damasco. And so whē the kinge was come from Damasco he sawe the aulter: & the kinge went to it, and offered theron. And he burnte hys burnt offryng, and hys meate offering, and powred his drinkoffring: & sprynkled the bloud of his peaceoffringes beside the aulter that was by the brasen aulter which was before the LORD, & set it without the temple betwene the aulter and the temple of the LORDE: & put it on the northeside of the alter.

Leuy. 5. b

And kinge Ahaz commaunded Uria D ꝑ priest and said: vpon the great aulter set on fier in the morninge the burnte offring, & in the euen the meatoffringe,

& the kiges burnt sacrifice & his meat-offringe, with the burnt offrynge of all the people of the lande, & theyr meat-offringe, & theyr drynkoffringes: & powre therby all the bloude of the sacrifice of-fringes. But the brasen aultar will I come and se. And Uzia the prieste dyd accordyng to all thinges as kinge Ahaz 3 reg. 7. b. commaunded him.* And kinge Ahaz brake the sides of the botomes, & toke þ lauer from of them, & toke downe the lauatory from þ brasen oxen that were vnder it: and put it vpon a pauement of stones. And the veyle for the Sabboth (that they had made in the house) & the kinges entrye without towrned he to þ house of the LORD, for feare of the king of Assyria. The rest of the wordes that concerne Ahaz, what he dyd: are they not wrytten in the boke of the chronycles of the kinges of Juda: And Ahaz slept wt his fathers: & was buried with hys fathers in the cytie of David: and Hezekia his sone raigned in his stead.

The. xviii. Chapter.

Osea king of Israell is taken. And he and al hys people are brought to the Assyrians.

IN the. iii. yeare of Ahaz kinge of Juda, began Hosea the sonne of Ela to raygne in Samaria vpo Israel. ix. yeare, & dyd þ whiche was euell in the syght of the LORDE, but not as þ kinges of Israell, that were before him. And Salmanaser kinge of Assyria came vp agaynst him: & Hosea became hys seruaute and gaue hym presentes. And the kynge of Assyria found treason in Hosea: for he had sent messegers to So, kinge of Egypte, & brought no present vnto þ king of Assyria, fro yeare to yeare: & therfore the king of Assiria toke hym, and put hym in prison.

4. reg. 17. c. *And then the king of Assyria came vp thorow out all the lande, & gat vp against Samaria, and besieged it thre yeare. In the nynth yeare of Hosea, the 4. Esd. 13. c. *kinge of Assyria, toke Samaria, & caryed Israel awaye vnto Assyria, and put them in Hala, in Habor by þ riuer of Goza: & in the cities of þ Medes. For it came to passe, that the childzen of Israel synned against the LORDE theyr GOD, which had brought them out of þ land of Egipt: from vnder the hond of Pharao kinge of Egipt: & feared other gods. And they walked in þ ceremonies of þ heathen, whom the LORD cast out before the chyldzen of Israell: & in the ceremonies, which the kinges of Israel had made. And þ childzen of Israell went about to hide those thinges that were not well, fro þ LORD theyr GOD. And they buylt the hilalters in al their cities, bothe in the towres where they kepte watch, & also in þ strong townes. And they made them images & groues in euery hye hill, & vnder euery thycke tree. And there they burnt incense in al the hilalters, as did þ heathen (whō þ LORD caried awaye before them) and wrought wicked thinges to angre the LORDE withall: For they serued moste vile ydolles: wherof þ LORD had sayde vnto them: *ye shal do no such thynge. Deut. 4. c.

And the LORD testified in Israell, & in Juda by al the prophetes, & by al the sears, sayinge: *Turne from your wicked waies, & kepe my commaundementes & my statutes: accordinge to all the law which I cōmaunded your fathers, & whiche I sent to you by my servaun-tes the prophetes. Notwithstandinge, they would not heare, *but rather har-dened theyr nekkes, lyke to þ stubburnes of theyr fathers, þ did not beleue in the LORD theyr GOD. For they refused his statutes & his appointment that he mad wt theyr fathers, and þ witnesses (wherwith he witnessed vnto them) & they folowed vanitie, & became vaine, & went after the heathen þ were round about them: concerninge whome, the LORDE had charged them, that they should not do lyke them. But they lefte the commaundementes of the LORDE theyr GOD: and made them ymages of metal, *euen two calues: & made groues, & worshipped all the hooste of heauen: & serued Baall. *And they sacri-ficed theyr sonnes & theyr doughters in fyre, & vsed witchcrafte, & enchaunt-mentes, euen sellynge themselues to worke wickednesse in the syght of the LORD, and to angre hym. Deut. 18. d. 3. reg. 11. b. Deut. 18. d.

And the LORD was exceading wroth with Israell: & put the out of his sight. *þ there was lefte but the tryde of Ju-da only. Neuertheles, Juda also kepte not the commaundementes of þ LORD theyr God, but walked in þ ceremonies of Israell, whiche they made. And the LORD cast vp al þ sede of Israel, & vexed them, and deliuered them into the 1. reg. 12. d.

handes of spoylers, vntyll he had cast thē out of his sight. For Israel deuyded themselues from the house of Dauid, & made thē a kinge, euen Jeroboā ꝑ sonne of Nebat. And Jeroboam dryue Israel awaye (that they shoulde not folowe the LORD) and made them syn a great syn:
for ꝑ children of Israel walked in all ꝑ synnes of Jeroboam which he dyd, and departed not therfrom, vntyll ꝑ LORD put Israell away out of hys syghte, as he had sayde by all his seruauntes the prophetes. And so was Israell caryed away out of theyr own land, to Assyria, euen vnto this daye.

And the kinge of Assyria brought mē from Babylon, frō Cutha, from Iua, from Hamath, & frō Sepharuaim, and put them in the cities of Samaria, in stede of ꝑ children of Israell. And they possessed Samaria, & dwelt in ꝑ cyties therof. And it fortuned, that at ꝑ beginning of theyr dwellyng there, they feared not ꝑ LORD. And the LORD sent lions among them, which slue thē. Wherfore men sayd to ꝑ king of Assiria: The nations whiche thou hast translated, & put in ꝑ cities of Samaria, knowe not ꝑ lawe of ꝑ god of the lande, therfore he hath sent lyons vpon thē, & behold, they sley them: because they know not ꝑ maner of worshipping of ꝑ god of ꝑ lande.

Then the kynge of Assyria commaūded, saying: cary thyther one or twaine of ꝑ priestes whō ye brought thence, & let thē go & dwel there, & teach them the fashion how to serue the god of the coū-trey. And thā one of the priestes which they had caryed thence came & dwelt in Bethel, & taught them how they should feare the LORD. Howbeit, euery nacīō made them goddes of theyr owne, & put thē in the houses of ꝑ hilalters, which ꝑ Samarians had made euery nacion in theyr cities, wherin they dwelt. The men of Babilō made Socoth Benoth, & the men of Cuth made Nergal: & the men of Hamath made Asima. The Auites made Nibbaz, & Tharthak: And the Sepharuites burnte theyr childrē in fyre for Adramelech, & Anamelech ꝑ goddes of Sepharuaim. And so they feared the LORD & made them priestes of the hilalters, which sacrificed for thē in the houses of ꝑ hilalters. And so they feared the LORDE and serued their awn gods after ꝑ maner of the people whom they caried thence.

And vnto thys day they do after the olde maner, & neyther feare GOD, neyther do after theyr ordinaunces & customes, & after the lawe & commaundēment whiche the LORD cōmaunded ꝑ chyldren of Jacob, *whō he called Israel. And the LORD made an apoyntēment wt̄ them, & charged them, sayinge:
*feare none other gods, nor bow your selues to them, nor serue them, nor sacrifice to thē: but feare ꝑ LORD whiche brought you out of ꝑ land of Egipte wt̄ great power, & a stretched out arme: hi feare, & to him bowe, & to him do sacrifice. The statutes, ordinaunces, lawe, & commaundement which he wrote for you, se that ye be diligent to do for euer more: & feare not anye other gods. And the appointment ꝑ I haue made wyth you, se ye forget not, & feare none other gods: but the LORD your GOD ye shal feare, & he shal deliuer you out of ꝑ han-des of al your enemies. Howbeit they dyd not herken, but dyd after their old custome. And so these nacions feared the LORDE, and serued theyr ymages also: lyke as dyd theyr chyldren, & their chyldrens children. Euen as dyd theyr fathers: so do they vnto this daye.

The. xviii. Chapter.

¶ Hezekia king of Juda putteth downe the brasen serpent, and destroyeth the ydolles. Salmanasar bryngeth Israel to the Assirians. The blasphemye of Sennacherib, or Sanherib.

In the thyrde yeare of Hosea, son of Ela king of Israel, it came to passe, ꝑ Hezekia the son of Ahaz king of Juda dyd reygne. * Twentye & fyue yere old was he when he began to reigne, and reygned. xxix. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Abi the doughter of Zacharia, & he dyd ꝑ which is ryght in the syght of ꝑ LORD, accordinge to all as dyd Dauid his father: *he put away the hylaulters, and brake ꝑ ymages, & cut down ꝑ groues, and all to brake the *brasen serpent ꝑ Moses hadde made. For vnto those dayes the children of Israel did burne sacryfice to it, & he called it Nehustan.
He trusted in the LORD GOD of Israel: so ꝑ after hym was none like him amonge al the kinges of Juda, nether were there any such before hym. For he claue to the LORDE and departed not from hym, but kepte hys comaun-dementes, whiche the LORD cõmaunded Moses. And the LORD was with him: so that he prospered in all thinges, whiche he toke in hande. And he rebelled againste the kynge of Assyria, and serued hym not. He smote ꝑ Philistines euen vnto Iza, and the coastes therof: both castels where they kept watches, and stronge cyties.

C *And in ꝑ fourth yeare of king Hezekia (which was ꝑ seuenth yeare of Hosea, sonne of Ela kinge of Israel) it fortuned, that Salmanasser kinge of Assiria, came vp agaynst Samaria, and besieged it: And after .iii. yeares, they toke it: euen in the sixte yeare of Hezekia: ꝑ is to say, the nynth yeare of Hosea king of Israel. And Samaria was wonne. And the king of Assyria, dyd cary away Israell vnto Assyria, and put them in Halah and in Habor by ꝑ riuer of Gosan, and in the cities of the Medes: because they wouldе not herken vnto the voyce of the LORDE theyr GOD: but transgressed hys appoyntment, and al that Moses the seruaunt of the LORD commaunded, and would neither heare them nor do them.

*Therfore, in the .iiii. yeare of kinge Hezekia did Sennacherib king of Assiria come vp against all the stronge cyties of Juda, and toke them. And Hezekia kyng of Juda sente to the kinge of Assiria to Lachis, sayinge: I haue offẽded: departe from me, and all that thou puttest on me, that wyll I beare. And the king of Assiria appointed vnto Hezekia king of Juda thre hundred talentes of siluer, & thyrty talentes of golde. *And Hezekia gaue hym all the siluer that was found in ꝑ house of ꝑ LORD, & in the treasures of the kinges house: At the same season dyd Hezekia rent of the dores of the temple of the LORD, & the pillers (whiche the sayde Hezekia kinge of Juda had couered ouer) and gaue them to the kynge of Assiria.

And the kynge of Assyria sent Thartha & Rabsaris, & Rabsake from Lachis to king Hezekia with a great host, against Jerusalem. And they went vp, and cam to Jerusalem, and gat them vp, and stode by the condyte of the vpper poole, whiche is in the waye of the fullers feide. And when they had called to the kinge, there came out to them, *Eliakim the sonne of Elkia whyche was steward of housholde, and Sobna the scrybe, & Joah the son of Asaph the recorder. And Rabsake sayde vnto them: Tel ye Hezekia I pray you, thus sayth the great king, euen the kinge of Assyria: What confidence is this ꝑ thou hast? Doest ꝑ speake such a lyght word in dede? By counsell and power I wyll be ready to make warre. On whome thẽ doest thou trust, that thou rebellest againste me? *doest thou truste to the staffe of this broken rede Egypte, on which if a man leane, it will goo into hys hande, and pearce it: Euen so is Pharao king of Egypte vnto all that truste on him. *yf ye saye vnto me: we truste in the LORD our GOD: Is not ꝑ he whose hilaltares & his other alters, Hezekia hathe put downe, and hathe sayde to Juda and Jerusalem: ye shall worship before this altare here in Jerusalẽ: Now therfore, deliuer ꝑ wardes of my lord ꝑ king of Assiria, that ye rebel not, & I wyll delyuer the two thousand horses if thou be able to set riders vpon them: Why thynkest thou scorne at the presence of one of the least dukes of my maysters seruauntes, & trustest to Egipt for charrettes & horsemenne? Moreouer, am I nowe come without the bydding of the LORD to this place, to destroy it: the LORDE said to me: go vp to this land, and destroy it. And Heliakim the sonne of Helkia & Sobna, & Joah sayde vnto Rabsake: speake (I praye the) to thy seruauntes in the Syrians language, for we vnderstãde it: & talke not with vs in the Jewes tonge, in the eares of thys people ꝑ are on the wall. And Rabsake sayde vnto them, hathe my master sent me to thy master & to the, to speake these wordes: Hathe he not sente me because of the menne whiche syt on the wall, that they maye eate theyr owne donge, & drynke theyr owne pysse with you?

And so Rabsake stode, & cryed with a loude voyce in the Jewes language, & spake, sayinge: heare the sayinge of the great king of Assyria. Thus sayeth the kinge: let not Hezekia begile you, for he shal not bee able to deliuer you oute of my hande: neyther let Hezekia make you to trust in the LORDE, sayinge: the LORD shal surely deliuer vs: & this citie shall not be geuen ouer into ꝑ hand of ꝑ kinge of Assiria. Herken not vnto

Hezeki

Hezekia, for thus saith ꝑ kig of Assiria: Deale kindlye wᵗ me, & come out to me. And then eate euery man of his owne vine, & of his owne fygge tree, & drynke euery manne of the water of hys owne well, tyl I come, and fet you to as good a land as youres is: a lande of corne and wyne, a lande of breade and vyneyardes, a lande of oyle, of olyue trees, & of honye: that ye may lyue & not dye. And herken not vnto Hezekia, for he begyleth you, sayinge: the LORD shall deliuer vs. *Hath euery one of the goddes of the nacions deliuered hys lande out of ꝑ hande of the kinge of Assyria? wher is ꝑ GOD of Hamath, and of Arphad? & wher is ꝑ GOD of Sepharuaim: Hena and Iua? & dyd they delyuer Samaria out of mine hande: and what GOD is it amonge all the goddes of the nacions, that hathe delyuered his lande out of myne hand: Shal the LORDE delyuer Ierusalē out of myne hande?

But they that were of ꝑ people held theyr peace, and answered hym not a worde, for the king had commaunded, saying: answere him not. Thē Eliakim which was ꝑ stuarde of household, and Sobnah the scrybe, and Ioah the sone of Asaph the recorder, came to Hezekia with theyr clothes rent, & tolde him the wordes of Rabsake.

¶ The.xix. Chapter.

The aungel of the Lorde kylleth an hundreth and foure score and fyue thousande men of the Assirians. Sennacherib is killed of his owne sonnes.

SO it came to passe, that when king Hezekia hearde it, he rent his clothes & put on sacke: and came into ꝑ house of* the LORD: & sent Eliakim which was ꝑ stuard of household, & Sobna the scribe, and the elders of the prestes clothed in sacke, to Isay the prophet ꝑ sonne of Amoz. And they sayde vnto hym, thus sayeth Hezekia: thys daye is a daye of tribulacion and of rebuke, and blasphemie. For ꝑ chyldren are come to the byrthe, and ther is no strength to be delyuered. Peraduēture, the LORD thy GOD wil heare al ꝑ wordes of Rabsake, whome the kinge of Assyria his master hath sent, to raile on the lyuynge GOD, and to rebuke him with wordes which the LORD thy GOD hathe hearde. And lyfte thou vp thy prayes for the remnaunt ꝑ are left. So ꝑ seruauntes of king Hezekia came to Isay. And Isay sayd vnto them: So shall ye saye to your master: Thus sayeth the LORD: be not afrayed of ꝑ wordes which thou haste hearde, wᵗ whych the ponge men of the kinge of Assyria haue rayled on me: Beholde, I wyl put him in another mynde, & he shall heare tidinges, & so returne to his owne land: *And I will bring to passe, that he shal fall vpon the swearde, * euen in hys owne lande.

Esay. 37.a

Esay. 37.b & 36.b, 2. reg.

And Rabsakeh went backe agayne, & founde ꝑ king of Assyria fyghtyng agaynst Libna: for he had hearde how ꝑ he was departed from Lachis. And when he hearde men saye of Thirhaka kynge of the blacke Mores: Behold, he is come out to fyght agaynst the, he departed & sent messēgers vnto Hezekia, sayinge: Thus speake to Hezekia kyng of Juda, sayinge: let not thy GOD dyceiue the in whō thou trustest, saying: Ierusalem shal not be delyuered into ꝑ hande of the kinge of Assiria. Beholde, thou hast heard what the kinges of Assyria haue done to all landes, how they haue vtterlye destroyed thē. And shalt thou (a lone) escape? Haue the goddes of the heathen delyuered them whyche myne aunce stries haue destroyed: As Gozan, and Haran, Rezeph, and ꝑ chyldren of Eden which were in Bithasar? where is the kinge of Hamath, and the kinge of Arphad, the king of the cytie of Sepharuaim, and of Hena and Iua.

So Hezekia receyued the letter of ꝑ hande of the messengers, & redde it: And Hezekia wente vp into the house of the LORD, and layed it abrode before the LORD. And Hezekia prayed before the LORD, & sayd: O LORD GOD of Israel, which dwellest betwene ꝑ Cherubs, thou arte GOD alone ouer al the kingdomes of the earthe: thou haste made heauē & earth: LORD bow down thine eare, & hear. Open LORD thine eyes (I beseech the) and se: & heare the wordes of Senacherib which hath sent this man to raile on ꝑ lyuinge GOD. Of a truthe LORD, ꝑ kinges of Assiria haue destroied nacions & theyr lādes, and haue set fyre on theyr goddes: For they wer no goddes, but the worke of the handes of mā, euen of wood and stone. And they destroied thē. Now therfore, O LORD, oure GOD, I beseche the, saue thou vs out of hys hande, that all ꝑ kingdomes of the earthe may know, that thou only art the LORDE GOD. And Iſay the ſonne of Amoz ſent to Hezekia, ſaying: thus ſayeth the LORD GOD of Iſrael: that which thou haſte prayed me, concernyng Sennacherib king of Aſſyria, I haue hearde it. This is therefore the worde that the LORDE hath ſayde of him: The virgine, euen the doughter of Syon, hath deſpyſed the: and laughed the to ſcorne, (O thou king of Aſſiria) the doughter of Ieruſalem hath ſhaken her head at the, * Whom haſt thou rayled on, and whome haſte thou blaſphemed: Againſt whome haſt thou exalted thy voyce, and lyfted vp thyn eyes ſo hye: Euen againſt the holy of Iſrael. By the hande of thy meſſengers ꝑ haſt rayled on the LORD, and ſaid: with the multitude of my charettes I am come vp to the toppes of the mountaynes, euen alonge by the ſydes of Lybanon, & I will cut downe the hye Cedar trees, and the luſtye fyzre trees therof: and I wyll go into the lodgynge of his neſt: & into the wood of his plaine. I haue digged, and dzonke ſtraunge waters: and with the ſteppe of my goinge, wil I dzy al the water pooles that are beſieged.

Haſt thou not heard, how I haue ordeyned ſuch a thing a great whyle ago, and haue prepared it from the begynnynge? And ſhall I not nowe bringe it forth, that it may deſtroye, and to bring ſtronge cyties into waſte heapes of ſtones: and the inhabitours of them ſhalbe of lytel power, and faint herted, and confounded: & * ſhalbe lyke the graſſe of ꝑ feld, or grene herbe, or as the hey on ꝑ toppes of the houſes: or as the corne ꝑ is vnrype, & ſmytten with blaſtinge. I knowe thy dwellinge, thy commyng out and thy goyng in, (and thy waye) and thy furye againſt me. And becauſe thou rageſt againſt me and thinkeſt thy ſelfe ſo bleſſed: this is come vp vnto myne eares, and I wil put mine hoke in thy noſtrelles, and my byt in thy lyppes, and wyll bringe the backe againe the ſame way thou cameſt.

And this ſhalbe a ſygne vnto the (O Hezekia) ye ſhal eate thys yeare of ſuch thinges as growe of them ſelues: and ꝑ nexte yeare, ſuche as come vp of thoſe that did growe of theyr owne accorde. And the thyrd yeare ſowe ye and reape: plant vyneyardes, and eate the frutes therof. And it that is eſcaped and leſte of ꝑ doughter of Iuda, ſhall yet againe take rooting downeward, & bear fruit vpwarde. For out of Ieruſalem ſhall go a remnaunt, and a numbre that ſhal eſcape out of mounte Syon: the zele of the LORD of hooſtes ſhall bringe this thynge to paſſe.

Wherfore, thus ſayth the LORD concerninge the king of Aſſyria: he ſhal not cũ to thys citie, nor ſhote an arow into it, nor come before it with ſhyld, nor caſt banck againſte it: but ſhall go backe agayne the waye he came: and ſhall not come into this cytie, ſaieth the LORD: For I wyll defende thys cytie to ſaue it, for myne owne ſake: and for Dauid my ſeruauntes ſake.

And ſo it came to paſſe, that the ſelfe ſame night the aungell of the LORDE went out & ſmote in the hooſt of the Aſſyrians an hũdred foure ſcore and fyue thouſande. And when the remnaunte were by earelye in the morynge: they ſaw, they were all dead coarſes. * And ſo Sennacherib kinge of Aſſyria auoyded and departed, & went againe: and dwelt at Niniue. And it fortuned that as he was in a temple worſhyppynge Niſroch his god, Adramelech & Sarezar his owne ſonnes ſmote hym with the ſweard. And they eſcaped into the lande of Armenia, and Aſarhaddon hys ſonne raigned in his ſtede.

¶ The. xx. Chapter

Hezekia is ſycke and receyueth the ſigne of hys helthe. He receyueth rewardes of Benedach, and is reprehended of Iſay, becauſe he ſhewed him the treaſure. He dyeth and Manaſſe his ſon raigneth in his ſtede.

ABout ꝑ tyme * was Hezekia ſycke vnto death. And the prophet Iſay ꝑ ſonne of Amoz came to him, and ſayd vnto him. Thus ſaieth the LORD: put thy houſhould in an ordre, for thou ſhalt dye, & not lyue. And Hezekia tourned his face to the wal, and prayed to ꝑ LORD, ſayinge: I beſeche the nowe, O LORD, remembre how I haue walked before the in truthe, and with a parfyte heart, & haue done that whiche is good in thy ſyght: and Hezekia wepte ſore.

And it fortuned, that afore Iſay was gone out into the middle of the courte, the worde of the LORD came to him, ſayinge: turne agayne, and tell Hezekia the

the captaine of my people: Thus sayeth B the LORD GOD of Dauid thy father: I haue herd thy prayer, & sene thy teares, and beholde, I will heale the: so that on the thyrde daye, thou shalte goe vp into the house of the LORD. And I wil adde vnto thy dayes yet fyftene yeare, & will deliuer the and thys cytie out of the hande of the kinge of Assyria, and wyll defende this cytie for myne owne sake, & for Dauid my seruauntes sake. And Isay sayde: Take a lompe of fygges.
And they toke it and layed it on þ boyle:
and he recouered.

And Hezekia sayd vnto Isay: what shalbe the signe that þ LORD wyl heale me, and that I shall go vp into þ house of the LORD þ thyrd daye? Isay answered: this signe shalte thou haue of the degrees: (neither is that my desyre) but if the shadowe go backwarde ten degrees, it called vnto þ LORD, *& he brought the

oyntment, al the house of his armoury, and al that was foũd in his treasures:
there was nothyng in his house, and in all hys realme, that Hezekia shewed them not.

And Isay þ prophet came vnto king Hezekia, and sayd vnto him: what said these men, & from whence came they to a farre countrey, euen from Babylon.

And he sayde agayne: what haue they sene in thyne house? Hezekia answered, al the thinges þ are in my house haue they sene, there is nothinge amonge my

¶ The .xxi. Chapter

Wicked Manasse restoreth againe the Idols and after dyeth, in whose stede Amon his sonne succeedeth which is killed of his owne seruauntes. Af-ter him raigneth faythfull Josia, whome we vse to cal Josias, or Josiahu.

MAnasse* was .xii. yere olde whẽ
he began to raygne, & raigned fyftye & fyue yeare in Jerusalẽ:
his mothers name also was Hephzyba:
& he dyd euell in the sight of þ LORDE euẽ after the abhommaciõs of the heathen whome the* LORD cast out before Deu.18.b þ chyldren of Israel. For he wente and buylt vp þ hyghe aulters, * which Hezekia 4.reg.18.a his father had destroyed. And he reared vp alters for Baall, & made ydols groues (as dyd Ahab kyng of Israel,) & worshypped al the hoost of heauen, and serued them. And he buylte aulters in the house of the LORDE, of whiche the LORD sayde: * In Jerusalem wyll I 3.reg.7.b. put my name. And he buylt aulters for 2.reg.9.b all þ hoost of heauen: euen in two cour-tes of the house of the LORD. * And he Lam.20.b

tayned wozkers with spirites, and tellers of fortunes: & brought muche wickednesse in the sight of the LORD to angre hym.

B And he put an ymage of a groue (þ he had made) euen in þ temple: of which the LORD had sayd to Dauid & to Sa-lomõ his son, * in this house, & in Jeru- 2.reg.9.a salem (which I haue chosen out of all trybes of Israell) will I put my name for euer. Neither will I make þ fete of Israell moue any more out of þ land, whiche I gaue their fathers: so þ they will obserue and do al that I haue cõmaunded them: and accordinge to all þ lawe that my seruaunte Moses commaunded thẽ. But they herkened not, & Manasse led them out of þ way, to do more wyckedlye then dyd the heathen people, whome the LORD destroyed before the children of Israel.

And þ LORD spake by his seruaũtes þ prophetes, saying: bycause Manasse king of Juda hathe done such abhominacions, and hath wrought more wickedly then al that the Amorites (which were before hem) dyd: and hathe made Juda syn also with his Idolles: Therfore, thus sayeth the LORDE GOD of Israel. *Beholde I wil bringe such euell vpon Jerusalem and Juda, that who so heareth of it, both his eares shal tingle. And I wil stretch ouer Jerusalẽ, the squaring lyne of Samaria: & the plommet of the house of Ahab. And I will wype out Jerusalem, as a mã wypeth a dyshe, & when he hathe wiped it, tourneth it vpsyde downe. And I will leaue þ remnaũt of mine enheritaũce, & deliuer thẽ into þ hande of theyr enemyes, & they shalbe robbed & spoyled of al theyr aduersaries, euen bycause they haue done euell in my syght, & haue angred me, sins þ time theyr fathers came out of Egipt vntyl this day.

Jere. 19. a.

And Manasse shed innocent bloude exceding much, tyl he replenished Jerusalem from corner to corner, beside his sinne, wherwith he made Juda to sinne and to do euyll in the sight of the LORD.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Manasse, & al that he did, and his sinne that he sinned: are they not writtẽ in the boke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Juda? And Manasse slept with his fathers, and was buryed in his owne house, euen in the gardẽ of Vsa: & Amon his sonne raygned in hys stede.

2. par. 33. d. *Amon was. xxii. yeare olde, whẽ he began to raigne, & he raigned two yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Mesulemeth þ doughter of Harum of Jotba. And he did euil in þ sight of the LORDE (as his father Manasse dyd) and walked in all the waye þ his father walked in: and serued the Idols that his father serued: and worshyped them. And he forsoke the LORDE GOD of his fathers: and walked not in the waye of the LORD.

And the seruauntes of Amon conspired agaynst him, & slue the kinge in hys owne house. And the people of the land slue al thẽ that had conspyred againste kinge Amon, and the people made Josia hys sonne kinge, in hys stede. The rest of the wordes that concerne Amon, what thinges he did: are they not writtẽ in the boke of the Chronicles of the kinges of Juda? And they buryed hym in his sepulchre, in þ garden of Vsa: & Josia his sonne raigned in his stede.

¶ The. xxii. Chapter.

After Josias heard of the boke of the law that was founde in the temple, he sendeth to Huda the prophetesse for counsell.

JOsia was *eyght yeare old whẽ he begã to raygne, & he raigned xxxi. yeare in Jerusalẽ. His mothers name also was Jedida þ doughter of Idaia of Bozcath. He dyd that whiche is right in the sight of þ LORD, and walked in all the wayes of Dauid his father: and bowed neyther to the right hande, or to the lefte. 2. par. 34.

*And it came to passe, þ in the. xviii. yere of the raygne of kinge Josia, the king sent Saphan the sonne of Azalia the sonne of Mesulam the scrybe to the house of the LORDE, sayinge: *go vp to Helkia þ hie priest: that he may summe þ siluer whiche is brought into þ house of the LORD, whiche the keepers of the porch haue gathered of the people, and let them deliuer it into the hand of thẽ that do the worke, and that haue the ouersighte of the house of the LORDE, and let them gyue it to thẽ that worke in the house of the LORD: (to repayre þ decayed places of the temple) euen vnto carpenters and masons, and workers vpõ the walles: and for to bie timber, and fre stone to repayre the temple. Howbeit, let no rekening be made with them of the money that is deliuered into theyr hande, for they vse is to deale faythfullye. 2. par. 34. 4. reg. 22. b

*And Helkia the hye priest sayd vnto Saphan the scrybe: I haue found þ boke of the lawe in the house of the LORD, & Helkia gaue the boke to Saphan, and he red in it. And Saphan the scribe came to the kinge, and brought him word againe, & said: thy seruauntes haue bestowed þ money (þ was founde 2. par. 34.

in

in ꝑ temple:) and haue delyuered it vn-
to them that do the worke, and ꝑ haue
the ouersight of the house of the LORD.
And Saphan the scribe shewed ꝑ king, saying: Helkia the preest hath deliuered me a booke. And Saphan red in it before the kinge.

C And it fortuned, ꝑ when the kyng had heard the wordes of the boke of ꝑ law, he rente his clothes. And the kyng cō-maunded Helkia the preest, and Ahikā the sonne of Saphan, & Achbor the son of Michaia, and Saphan the scrybe, and Asahia a seruaunte of the kynges,
2.par.34. saying: *go ye and enquire of ꝑ LORD for me: and for ꝑ people, and for all Iu-da, concerning the wordes of this boke that is founde. For great is the wrath of the LORDE that is kyndled against vs, because our fathers haue not herkened vnto the wordes of this boke, to do according vnto al that, which is wrytten therin for vs.

So Helkia the hie preest and Ahikā, Achbor & Saphan, and Asahia wente vnto Hulda the prophetesse, the wife of Sullam, the sonne of Thikua, the sonne of Harhan keper of ꝑ wardrope: which prophetesse dwelt in Ierusalem in the house of the doctrine, and they communed with her. And she answered them:
thus saieth the LORD GOD of Israell:
D Tell ꝑ man ꝑ sent you to me, thus saith the LORD: beholde, I wyll bringe euil vpon this place, and on the inhabiters therof: (euen al the wordes of the boke which the kynge of Iuda hath red) because they haue forsaken me, and haue burnt incense vnto other gods, to anger me w all the workes of theyr han-des. My wrath also shalbe kyndled against this place, & shal not be quēched.

But to the kynge of Iuda (which sēt you to aske counsell of the LORDE) so shal ye say, thus sayth the LORD GOD of Israel, as touchyng ꝑ wordes which ye haue heard: Bycause thyne hert dyd melte: & bycause thou hast humbled thy selfe before me the LORDE, when thou herdest what I spake against this place, & against the inhabiters of ꝑ same (how ꝑ they should be destroyed & accursed:) and hast rent thy clothes, and wept before me: of that also haue I heard, sayeth ꝑ LORD: Behold, therfore I wil receiue the vnto thy fathers, & thou shalte be put into thy graue in peace, & thyne eyes shal not se all the euyll, whiche I wyll bringe vpon this place. And they brought the kyng worde againe.

¶ The. xxiii. Chapter.

¶ Iosia readeth Deuteronomy before the people. He purgeth down the Idolles, after he had kylled the preestes therof. He kepeth Passeouer. He was killed in Mageddo, & his son Iehoahaz raygneth in his steade. After he was taken, his sonne Ie-hoakim was made kinge.

AND *then the kynge sente, & there A gathered vnto him al the elders of 2.par.34.f Iuda & of Ierusalem. And ꝑ king went vp into ꝑ house of the LORDE, w all the men of Iuda and all the inhabitours of Ierusalem, with ꝑ preestes & prophetes, & all the people both small & great. And he red in the eares of them *al the wordes of ꝑ boke of ꝑ couenāt: 2.Esd.8.a whiche was founde in the house of the LORD. And ꝑ kynge stode by a pyller, Ios.24.f
*and made a couenaūt before ꝑ LORD ꝑ they should walke after the LORD, &
kepe his cōmaūdemētes, his witnesses, & his statutes, with all their herte, and al their soule, & make good the wordes of the sayde appoyntmente that were wrytten in the forsayde boke. And all ꝑ people consented to the appoyntment. B

And the kynge cōmaunded Helkia ꝑ hie preest, and the inferiour hie preestes, and the kepers of the ornamentes, to bryngе out of the temple of the LORD,
all the vesselles ꝑ were made for Baal,
for the idoles groues, and for al ꝑ hoste of heauen. And he burnt them without Ierusalem in the feldes of Cedron, and caried the aswes of them into Bethel.
And he put downe ꝑ ministers of Baal,
whō the kynges of Iuda had founded to burne incense in ꝑ* hyeauiters & cy- 4.reg.23.a ties of Iuda, ꝑ were rounde about Ierusalē: & also them ꝑ burnt incense vnto Baal, to the sunne, to the moone, to the planettes, & to al ꝑ host of heauen. And he brought oute the idoles groue frō ꝑ temple of ꝑ LORD without Ierusalem vnto ꝑ broke Cedrō, & burnt it there at the broke Cedrō, & stampt it to pouldre, & cast the dust therof vpon the graues of the childrē of ꝑ people. And he brake downe ꝑ selles of ꝑ male stues ꝑ were by the house of ꝑ LORD, where ꝑ womē woue hāgynges for ꝑ idoles groue.

And he brought al the preestes out of the cities of Iuda, and defyled the hyeauiters where the preestes had burnte incense, euen frō Geba to Berseba: and destroyed the aulters of the gates, that were in ꝑ entring in of ꝑ gate of Josua the gouernour of the cytie, which were (as a man goeth in) on the left hand of the gate of the citie. Neuertheles the ꝓiestes of the hylaulters came not vp to the aulter of the LORD in Jerusalē, saue oneiye they dyd eate of the swete breade among theyr brethren.

C
Jere. 7. d

And he defyled *Topheth: whiche is in the valley of the childzen of Hinnom: bycause no mā should offre hys son or his doughter in fire to Molech: he put down the hozses ꝑ the kinges of Israel had gyuen to the sunne, at ꝑ entringe in of the house of the LORD, by the chambze of Nathanmelech, the chambzelain, which was ruler of the suburbes, and burnt the charrets of ꝑ sunne with fire. And the aulters that were on the toppe of the parloure of Ahaz (whiche ꝑ kinges of Juda had made) and the *aulters whiche Manasse had made in the two courtes of the house of the LORDE, did the kynge breake downe, & ran thence: and caste the dust of thē into the broke Cedzon.

4. reg. 21. a

And the hylaulters that were before Jerusalem on the ryghte hande of the mount Oliuete, *(which Salomon the kyng of Israel had buylded for Astharoth ꝑ ydol of the zidons, and for Chamos the ydol of the Moabites, and for Milchom the abhominable ydoll of the childzen of Ammon) those the kyng defyled: and brake the ymages, and cutte downe the ydole groues, & filled their places with the bones of men.

3. reg. 11. b

Moreouer * the aulter that was at Bethel, the hilaulter made by Jeroboam, ꝑ sonne of Nebat (whiche made Israel sinne) both the aulter & also the hil, he brake downe, and burnt ꝑ hyl aulter and stampt it to powder, and burnt the idol groue. And as Josia turned hym selfe, he spied ꝑ graues, that were in the moūt, and sent, & fet the bones out of ꝑ graues, and burnt them vpon the aulter to polute it, accozdyng to ꝑ wozde of the LORD, that the man of GOD pzoclaimed * which told the same wozdes.

3. reg. 13. a

Then he sayde what graue stone is yonder that I see? And the mē of ꝑ citie tolde him, it is the sepulchze of ꝑ man of GOD, whiche came from Juda, and told ꝑ selfe same thinges that thou hast done to the aulter of Bethell. And he said let him be: se that no man moue his bones. And so his bones were saued wᵗ the bones of a pzophete that came oute of Samaria.

And all the houses of the hilaulters in the cyties of Samaria, whyche the kinges of Israell had made to angre (the Lorde) withall, those Josia put oute of the way, & did to them accozdyng to al ꝑ actes ꝑ he had done in Bethel. And he sacrificed all the pziestes of the hylaulters ꝑ were there, euen vpon the alters, and burnt mennes bones vpō thē, and returned to Jerusalem.

And the kynge commaunded all the people, sayinge: * kepe the feast of the passeouer vnto the LORDE your GOD, *as it is wzitten in the booke of thys couenaunt. * There was no passeouer holden lyke ꝑ frō the daies of ꝑ Judges that iudged Israel, and in al the dayes of the kynges of Israel, and of ꝑ kinges of Juda. In the. xviii. yere of kyng Josia was thys passeouer holden to the LORD in Jerusalem.

Exo. 12. d
4. reg. 23. d

And therto wozkers with spirites & sothsayers, ymages, ydols, & all the abhominacions that were espyed in the lande of Juda & in Jerusalē, those dyd Josia put out of the waye, to perfozme ꝑ wozdes of ꝑ law which were wzitē in the boke ꝑ Helkia ꝑ pziest found in the house of ꝑ LORD: like vnto hi was ther nō kig before him, ꝑ turned to ꝑ LORD wᵗ all his hert, wᵗ all his soule, & all hys might accozding to al ꝑ law of Moses, neither after him arose there any suche as he.

Notwithstādyng, the LORD tourned not frō ꝑ fearcenesse of his great wzath (wherwith he was angry agaynst Juda) bycause of al the pzouocacions that Manasse had pzouoked him wall. And the LORD sayde: * I wyl put Juda also out of my sight, as I haue done away Israel: & wil cast of this citie Jerusalē, whiche I haue chosen, and the house of which I sayd: my name shal be there.

F
4. reg. 24. d

The rest of the wozdes that concerne Josia, and all that he dyd: are they not wzitten in the boke of the Chzonicles of the kynges of Juda:

* In his daies Pharao Necho kynge of Egipt went vp againste the kynge of Assiria to the riuer Euphzates. And king Josia went agaynste hym, & was slayne slayne of him at Magiddo, whē he had sene him. And his seruāntes caried him dead from Magiddo, & brought him to Jerusalem, & buried him in his own sepulchre. And the people of the lande, toke Jehoahaz, the sonne of Josia, & annoynted hym, & made hym kynge in his fathers steade.

Jehoahaz was .xxiii. yere olde when he begā to raigne, & raigned three monethes in Jerusalē. His mothers name also was Hamiel the doughter of Jeremia of Libna. And he dyd euyll in the syght of ỳ LORD, accordyng to al thynges as his fathers had done. And Pharao Necho put him in bondes at Ribla in the lande of Hamath, that he should not raigne in Jerusalem: & put the lāde to a tribute of an hundred talentes of siluer, & a talent of golde. And Pharao Necho made Eliakim the sonne of Josia king in ỳ roume of Josia his father: & turned his name to Jehoakim, & toke Jehoahaz away, which when he came to Egipt, died there.

And Jehoakim gaue the siluer & the gold to Pharao, & tared the lād, to giue the money accordyng to the request of Pharao: requirynge of euery man (accordyng to their abilite) siluer & golde: euen of the people of the lande to gyue vnto Pharao Necho. Jehoakim was .xxv. yere olde when he begā to raygne, & he raigned .xi. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Zebuda the doughter of Pedaia of Ruma. And he dyd that whiche was euyll in the sight of the LORD, accordyng to all thynges, as his fathers had done.

The .xxiiii. Chapter.

Jehoakim dieth. Jerusalē is besieged of the Babylonians. Jehoakim yeldeth himselfe to the kyng of Babilon. And in his roume came Mathanah which was called Zedekiah.

I N hys daies came Nabuchodonozor, kyng of Babylon vp, and Jehoakim became his seruāte three yere, and thē turned, and rebelled against him. And the LORD sente vpon him men of warre from among ỳ Caldees, from among the Syrians out of ỳ Moabites, & from the chyldren of Ammon: & sent them agaynste Juda, to destroye it, accordyng to the saying of the LORD, which he spake by his seruāntes the prophetes. Onely at the bydding of the LORDE happened it so to Juda, to put them out of his syght, for ỳ sinnes of Manasse, accordynge to all that he dyd, and for the innocent bloud that he shed, & filled Jerusalem with innocent bloud, & the LORDE woulde not be reconcyled.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehoakim and al that he did, are they not written in the boke of ỳ Chronicles of the kinges of Juda? And so Jehoakim slepte with his fathers: & *Jehoachin his sonne raigned in his stede. And the kynge of Egipt came nomore outo of his lande: for the kynge of Babylon had taken frō the riuer of Egypt, vnto the riuer of Euphrates, all that pertained to the king of Egipt. Jehoachin was eyghtene yere olde, and raigned in Jerusalē three monethes. His mothers name also was Nehusta, the doughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem. And he dyd that which was euil in the syght of the LORDE, accordinge to all as his father had done. *In that tyme came the seruauntes of Nabuchadnezer kynge of Babylon vp agaynste Jerusalem, & the citie was besieged. And Nabuchadnezer kyng of Babylon came agaynste the cytie, & his seruauntes dyd besiege it. *And Jehoachin the kynge of Juda came oute to the kynge of Babylon, he & his mother, his seruāntes, his lordes, and his chamberlaynes. And the kinge of Babylon toke him in the eyght yere of his raigne.

* And he caryed oute thence al the treasures of the house of the LORDE, & the treasure of ỳ kynges house: & brake al the vessels of gold, which Salomon kyng of Israel had made in the temple of the LORD, as the LORDE had sayde. And he caried awaye all Jerusalem, & all the lordes, & all the stronge men of warre, euen ten thousande into captyuitie: & all craftesmen & keepers, none remaynyng saue the poore commen people of the lande.

*And he caried away Jehoachin to Babylon, & the kynges mother, and the kynges wyues, hys chamberlaynes, and them that were myghtye in the lande: those caryed he awaye into captiuitie from Jerusalem to Babylon. And al ỳ actiue mē of warr, euen .vii. M. & craftes mē & porters a .M. all ỳ were strong & apt for warr, did ỳ king of Babylon bryng to Babylon captiue.

And

*And the kynge of Babylō made Mathania his fathers bzother, kyng in his ſteade: & chaūged his name to Zedekia.

*Zedekia was .xxi. yere olde when he began to raigne, and he raigned .xi. yere in Ieruſalem. Hys mothers name alſo was Hamital the doughter of Jeremia of Libna. And he did euyll in the ſight of the LORDE, accozdynge to all as Iehoachin had done. For ỳ wzath of ỳ LORD was moued againſt Ieruſalē and Juda, vntyl he caſt them out of his ſyghte. And Zedekia rebelled agaynſte the kyng of Babylon.

The .xxv. Chapter.

Ieruſalem is beſieged of Nabuchodonezar / other wiſe called Nabuchadneyer, and it & the temple are both burnt. The ſonnes of Zedekia are ſlaine before his eies, and after are his owne eyes putte out. Juda is brought to Babilon, and after is Iehoachin exalted.

And it foztuned, that in the nynth yere of his raigne, the tenth daye of ỳ tenth moneth: Nabuchadnezar kyng of Babylon came, he and all hys hoſt againſt Ieruſalem, and pitched againſt it: & made engins againſt it on euery ſide. And ỳ citie was beſieged vnto the eleuēth yere of king Zedekia. And the .ix. daye of the monethe, there was ſo greate hunger in the citie: that there was no bzead foz the people of the lād.

And the citie was bzoken vp: and al the men of armes fledde by nyghte, by a waye thozowe a gate, whiche is betwene two walles by the kynges gardeyne: the Chaldees lyeng aboute the Cytie.

And the kynge wente the waye towarde the playne. And the ſouldiers of the Chaldees folowed after the kyng, and toke him in the playne of Jericho: and all his army were ſcattered away from him, (and left him.) So they toke the kynge, and bzoughte him to Nabuchadnezar the kyng of Babilon to Rybla, wher they reasoned with him. And they ſlue the ſonnes of Zedekia before his eies: & he put out ỳ eyes of Zedekia, and fettered him with two chaines, and caried him to Babylon.

And the .vii. daye of the .v. moneth which is the .xix. yeare of kynge Nabuchadnezar kyng of Babylon, came Nabuſaradan a ſeruāt of the kyng of Babylon, and chiefe captaine of the men of warre, vnto Ieruſalem: and burnt the houſe of the LORD, & the kinges houſe, and al the houſes of Ieruſalem, and all great houſes burnt he with fire. And al the ſouldiars of ỳ Chaldees that were with the chiefe captaine of the men of warre, bzoke downe the walles of Ieruſalem rounde aboute. But the reſt of the people that were lefte in the citie, & them that were fled to the kyng of Babylon, wt the remnaunt of the commen people, did Nabuſaradan ỳ chiefe captayne of the men of warre carie away: but the captayne of the ſouldyers lefte of the pooze of the lande to dzeſſe ỳ vynes, & to tyl the ground.

*And the pyllers of bzaſſe that were in the houſe of ỳ LORD, & the ſockets, & the bzaſen lauatozy ỳ was in the houſe of ỳ LORDE, did the Chaldees breake, and caried al the bzaſſe of them to Babylon. And the pottes, ſhouels, dreſſyng knyues, ſpones, & all the veſſelles of bzaſſe that they miniſtred in, toke they awaye. And ỳ fire pannes, & baſens, & ſuche thinges as were of gold, & of ſiluer, them toke the chyefe captayne awaye: euen two pyllers, one lauatozy, & the ſockettes whiche Salomon hadde made foz ỳ houſe ỳ LORD. The bzaſſe of all theſe veſſels was without weyghte. The heygth of the one pillar was .xviii. cubites, and ỳ head theron was bzaſſe, and thze cubytes hye, & vpon the heade was there a wzethen wozke and pomegranates rounde about, all of bzaſſe. And of the ſame faſhyon was ỳ ſeconde pyller, with a wzethen wozke.

And the chiefe captayne of the mē of warre, toke Saraia the chiefe Prieſt, & Zephoniah the nieſt prieſt ſaue one, and the thze kepers of the holye thynges. And out of the citie he toke a chamberlayne, that had the ouerſyghte of ỳ men of war, & .v. men of thē that were euer in the kynges preſence, whyche were founde in ỳ citye: & him that was ſcribe to ỳ captayne of ỳ hoſt, which bzoughte out the people of the lande to war, and thzee ſcoze men of the people of ỳ lande, that were founde in the citie. And Nabuſaradan the chiefe captayne of ỳ mē of warre toke theſe, & bzought them to the kynge of Babilon to Rybla. And the kyng of Babilon ſmote them, & ſlue thē at Rybla in ỳ lande of Hamath. And ſo Juda was caried awaye oute of their lande.

Howbeit

Howbeit, there remayned people in the lande of Juda, whom Nabuchadnezar kyng of Babilon lefte, and made Gedalia the ſonne of Ahikam the ſon of Saphan ruler ouer them. And all ꝑ captaynes of the ſouldiers & other men hearde, that the kynge of Babilon had made Gedalia gouernour: & there came to Gedalia to Mazyphah, Ismael the ſonne of Nethania, Johanna the ſon of Karea, Saraia the ſon of Thāhumeth the Nethophatite, & Jazaania ꝑ ſonne of Maachati, and theyr men. And Gedalia ſware to them, and to ꝑ men whō they had with them, & ſayd vnto them: feare not ye becauſe ye are the ſeruaūtes of the Chaldees, dwell in the land, and ſerue the kynge of Babilon and ye ſhalbe well.

But it chaunced in the ſeuenth moneth, ꝑ Ismael the ſonne of Nethanya, the ſon of Elisama, of the kynges blod, came, and tenne men with hym, & ſmote Gedalia, that he died: & ſo he did the Jewes, and the Chaldees that were with him at Mizpa.

And al the people both ſmal & great, and the captaines of war aroſe, & came to Egipte for they were afraide of the Chaldees. Notwithſtandyng yet in the ſeuen and thyrtie yere after Jehoachin kynge of Juda was caryed awaye, the ſeuen & twentye daye of the twelueth moneth, Euilmerodach kyng of Babilon, the ſame yere ꝑ he began to raigne, hyd lyft vp the head of Jehoachin kyng of Juda out of ꝑ priſon: & ſpake kyndly to hym: and ſet his ſeate aboue the ſeate of the kynges that were with hym in Babylon: & chaunged hys prꝛſon garmēres. And he did euer eate bꝛead befoꝛe him, all ꝑ daies of his life. His pozcīō was a cōtinual pozcion that was aſſigned him of ꝑ kyng, euery day a certaine aſ lōge as he lyued.

And the sonnes of Jisi were: Zoheth, and Benzoheth.

*The sonnes of Selah the sonne of Juda were Er ꝑ father of Lecha, and Laada the father of Mareſa, and the kinredes of the householdes of them ꝑ wrought lynnen in the house of Asbea. And Jokim and the men of Chosebah and Joas, & Saraph, whiche had the dominion in Moab, and Jasubi, Lehē. These also are wordes of olde. These were potters, and dwelt there among trees & hedges, nye vnto the kynge because of his worke.

The sonnes of Simeon were Nemuel, Jamin, Jarib, zerah & Saul: whose sonne was Sallū, & the sonne of hym was Mibsā, & his son was Misma: And the sonne of Misma was Hamuel, & his son was zachur, & the son of hi was Semehi. Semehi had. xvi. sons & vi. doughters. But his brethren had not manye chyldren, neyther was all the kynred of thē lyke to the chyldren of Juda in multitude.

And they dwelt at Beersheba, Molada, and at Hazar Sual, at Bilha, at Ezē, & at Tholad, at Bethuel, at Horma and at Ziklag, at Bethmarcaboth, Hazar, Susim, at Bethbiri, and at Saaraim. These were theyr cyties vnto the reygne of Dauid. And theyr vyllages were Etan, and Ain, Rimmon, Cochen, and Asan, fyue townes, & al theyr vyllages that were rounde aboute ỳ same cyties vnto Baal. Thys is the habitacyon of them and theyr genealogye. Mesobab and Jamlech, and Josa the sonne of Ama-sia: and Joel and Jehu the sonne of Josi-bia, the sonne of Saraia, the sonne of Asiel, and Elioenai, and Jaacoba, Jsohaia, and Asaiah, Adiel, Jsimiel, & Benaia, and Ziza
the sonne of Schibhi, the sonne of Allon, the sonne of Jedaia, the sonne of Zemri, the the sōne of Semaia. These are famous ca-pytaines in theyr kinredes, setting vp greatly the house of theyr fathers. And they wēt to the entryng in of Gedor: euen vnto the east syde of the valley, to seke pasture for theyr shepe. And they found fat pasture and good, and a wyde land, quiet and fruitful:
for they of Ham had dwelt there before.
And these nowe afore wrytten by name, came in the dayes of Hezekia kynge of Juda, and smote the tentes of them, and the habitacions that were founde there, and destroyed them vtterly vnto thys daye, and dwelt in theyr rowmes: because there was pasture there for theyr shepe. And some of the chyldren of Simeon wente to mounte Seir, euen .v. hundred menne, hauynge for theyr captaynes, Phelathia, Nearia, Raphaia, and Uziel the sonnes of Jsi: & smote the reste of the Amalekytes that were escāped, and they dwelt there vnto thys daye.

The. v. Chapter.

The genealogie of Ruben and Gad and of the halfe tryde of Manasse.

The sōnes of Ruben the eldest sōne of Jsrael: for asmuche as he was the eldeste, * and had defyled hys fathers bed, his byrthryght was geuen vnto the sonnes of Joseph the sonne of Jsrael. Howbeit, the genealogie is not rekened after hys byrthryght. For Juda, he preuayled aboue hys brethren, and of thys tryde came the chefe, and the byrtheryght was geuen to Joseph. The sonnes then of Ruben the eldest sonne of Jsrael were, Henoch, Phalu, Hezrō and Charmi.
The sonnes of Joel: Samaiah hys sonne, Gog his sonne, and Semhi hys sonne, Micah his sōne, Reaia his sonne, and Baal his sonne, Beera hys sonne, whom Thiglath Pilneser kynge of Assiria caryed awaye:
for he was a great lorde amonge ỳ Rubenites. And when hys brethren in theyr kin-redes, rekened the genealogie of theyr generations: Jeiel and Zacharias were the chefe. And Baal the sonne of Azan, the sōne of Sema, the sōne of Joel dwelt in Aroer: and so forth vnto Nebo & Baalmeon. And eastewarde, he inhabyted vnto the entryng in of the wyldernes from the ryuer Euphrates, for they had much cattel in ỳ land of Gilead. And in the dayes of Saul they warred with the Hagarites, whiche were ouerthrowen into theyr hande. And they dwelt in theyr tentes thorowout al the east lande of Gilgal. And the chyldren of Gad dwelt ouer against them in the land of Ba-san: euen vnto Salcha. And in Basan Joel was the chefest, and Saphan the next, thē Janai and Saphat. And theyr brethren of the houshold of theyr fathers were Michael, Meosuesam, Seba, Jorai, Jahcan, zia, Eber, Henē. These are the childrē of Abihail, the sōne of Huri, ỳ sonne of Jeroah, the sonne of Gilead, the sonne of Michael, ỳ sonne of Jesisai, ỳ sonne of Jahdo, ỳ sōne of Buz. Ahi (the sōne of Abdiel) ỳ sōne of Guni, was a captayne of ỳ houshold of theyr fathers. And they dwelt in Gilead, in Basā, and in her townes, & in all the Suburbes of Saron, and in theyr borders. All these were rekened by kynredes in the dayes of Jotham kinge of Juda, and in the dayes of Jeroboam kynge of Jsrael. The sonnes of Ruben and of Gad, and the halfe tryde of Manasse, were fyghtynge men, and able to beare shilde and sweardе, and to shote with bowe, exercysed in warre, euen foure and fourtye thousande, seuen hundred and thirtye, that went out to the warre. And they foughte with the Hagarites, with Jetur, Nephis, & Nodab. And they were holped of the Lorde agaynste them, and the Hagarites were delyuered into theyr hande, and so were all that were with them. For they cryed to God in the battayle, and he hearde them, because they put theyr truste in him.
And they toke of theyr cattel, and of theyr camelles fiftye thousand, and two hundred and fyftye thousande shepe, and two thousande asses, and of the soules of menne an hundred thousande, and there fell many wounded, because the warre was of God.
And they dwelte in theyr stedes, vntill the time ꝑ they were caried awaye. And ꝑ chil-D dren of the halfe tribe of Manasse, dwelt in the land, from Basan vnto Baal Hermon, and Senir, and vnto mounte Hermon: for they were growen to a greate multitude.

And these were the heades of ꝑ housholdes of theyr fathers: Epher and Jesi, Eliel and Azriel, Jeremia & Hodauia, and Jachdiel, stronge men and valeaunt famous menne, and heades of the housholdes of theyr fathers. And they transgressed agaynste the God of theyr fathers, and went a whoring after the goddes of the people of the lande, whom God destroyed before them: & God styrred vp the spyrite of Phul, kynge of Assyria. And the spyrite of Thiglath Pilneser, kynge of Assiria, and caryed them awaye: euen the Rubenites, the Gaddites, and the halfe tribe of Manasse, and broughte them vnto Halah, Habor, Hara: and to the riuer Gosan, vnto this daye.

And Sallū the sonne of Core the sonne of Abiasaph the sonne of Core, and hys brethren the Corahites (of ỳ house of theyr father) had D theyr busynesse and office to kepe the porches of the tabernacle, and theyr fathers ỳ hoost of the Lorde, kept the entrynge. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar was theyr foregoyde, and the Lord was with hym.

And Zacharia the sonne of Meselemia, kept the warde before the doore of the tabernacle of witnesse. All these were chosen men to kepe the three sholdes, euen two hundred & twelue: and thorow out al the genealogye, were they nombred in theyr villages. And them dyd Dauid and Samuel the sear institute, because of theyr fydelitie. So they and theyr children had the ouer syght of ỹ gates of the house of the Lorde, euen of the C tabernacle, to kepe them. * In foure quar-
Nume. 1. d ters dyd they kepe the warde: towarde the east, west, north, and south. And theyr brethren remayned in the countrey, and came after seuen dayes from tyme to tyme with thē. For the Leuites (whiche had the ouersyght of the vessyres and treasures of the house of God) were vnder the custodye of foure notable porters, and they laye round about the house of God: because the keping therof pertayned to them, and they had the keyes to open euery morning. And certayne of them had the rule of the mynistryng vessels, and brought them in and out by tale.
Some of them were appoynted to ouer se the vessels & all the ornamentes of the sanctuary, and the floure, wyne, oyle, frankensence, and swete odoures. And certayne of F the sōnes of ỹ priestes made oyntmētes of the swete odours. And Mathathia one of ỹ Leuites, which was the eldest sōne of Sallum the Corathite, had the ouersight of the thynges that were made in the fryingepan. And other of theyr brethren the sonnes of Cahath, had the ouersyght of the shewbred which they prepared euery sabboth. These are the syngers, euen auncient fathers of ỹ Leuites, whiche dwelt in separate chambres, and were free: for they had to do (in the temple) both daye and nyght: These were auncyente fathers of the Leuites in theyr generacions, and dwelt at Jerusalem. And in Gibeon dwelt Jehiel, whose wife was called Maacha, his eldest G sōne was Abdō, then zur, Cis, Baal, Ner, and Nadab, Gedor, Ahio, zacharia & Mikloth. And Mikloth begat Simeam. And they also dwelt with theyr brethren at Jerusalem, euen hard by them. And Ner be-

1. pa. 12. c begat Jehonathan, Malchisua, Abinadab and Esbaal. And the sonne of Jehonathan was Meribbaal. And Meribbaal begate Micah: and the sonnes of Micah were Pithon, Melech and Thahrea. And Thas begat Jahza: Jahza begat Alameth, Azmaneth, zimri: zimri begat Moza: Moza begat Bineа, whose sonne was Rephaia, and hys sonne was Elasa, and hys sonne Azell. And Azell had syxe sonnes, whose names are these: Ezrikam, Bochru, Jsmael, Searia, Obadia and Hanan: These are the sonnes of Azell.

The. x. Chapter.

The battayle of Saule agaynste the ỹ philistines: in whiche he dyeth and hys sonnes also.

AND the Philistines fought agaynste Jsrael. * And the menne of Jsrael fled
1. reg. 31. a before the Philistines, & were ouerthrowen and wounded in mounte Gilboa. And the philistines folowed & were fearce after Saul and hys sonnes, and the Philistines smote Jehonathā, and Abinadab, and Malchisua, the sonnes of Saul. And ỹ battayle went sore agaynste Saul, and the archers founde hym, and he was wounded of shoters. Then sayde Saul to hys weapon

And when hys harnesbearer saw that Saul was dead, he fel on a swerd also, and died. And thus Saul and his thre sonnes, and all they of hys house dyed together. And when al the men of Jsrael that were in the valley sawe how they fled, and that Saul and hys sonnes were dead, they forsoke theyr cyties, and ran awaye, and ỹ
C Philistines came, and dwelt in thē. * And
1. reg. 31. c it fortuned, that on the morowe when the Philistines came (to stryp ỹ dead bodies) they founde Saul and hys sonnes ouerthrowen in mounte Gilboa. And when they had strypte hym, they toke hys head & hys harnesse, and sent them into the land of the Philistines rounde aboute to shewe them vnto theyr idols, & to the people. And they put hys harnesse in the house of theyr God, and set vp his head in the temple of Dagō. And whē al they of Jabes in Gilead heard all that the Philistines had done to Saul, D they arose (al the strongest of them) and fet awaye the body of Saul, and the bodies of hys sonnes, & brought them to Jabes, and buryed the bones of them vnder an oke in Jabes, and fasted seuen dayes. So Saul dyed for hys trespasse, that he trespassed agaynste the Lorde, in that he kept not the worde of the Lorde, and in that he sought

and

& asked counsayle of a woman þ̄ wrought with a spirite, & asked not of the Lorde. And therfore he slue hym, and turned the kingdome vnto Dauid the sonne of Jsai.

¶ The. xi. Chapter.

After the deathe of Saul, is Dauid annoynted in Hebron. The Jebusites rebell agaynste Dauid, frō whō he taketh þ̄ towne of Sion. His mē are nūbred.

THen all Jsraell gathered them A selues to Dauid vnto Hebron, 2.Ki.5.a
* sayinge: beholde, we bee thy bones and thy flesh. And moreouer, in time past, euen when Saul was kyng, thou leddest Jsrael oute & in: And the Lorde thy God sayde vnto the: thou shalt fede my people Jsrael, & thou shalte be captayne ouer my people Jsraell.

Therfore came all the elders of Jsraell to the kyng to Hebron, and Dauid made a couenaunt with them in Hebron before the Lorde. And they annoynted Dauid 2.Ki.5.a kynge ouer Jsraell, *accordynge to the worde of the Lorde by the hande of Samuel. And Dauid and al Jsrael went to B Jerusalem, whiche is Jebus: where as were the Jebusites, the enhabitours of the land. And the enhabitours of Jebus sayde to Dauid: thou commest not here. Neuertheles se, Dauid wanne the castell of Syon, which is called the cytie of Da- 2.Ki.5.b
uid. And *Dauid sayde: whosoeuer smyteth the Jebusytes fyrst, shal be the principal captayne, and a lorde. So Joab the sonne of Zaruia went fyrst vp, and was made þ̄ chefe captaine. And Dauid dwelt in the castle Sion, and therfore they called it the citie of Dauid. And he buylt the cytie on euery side, euen frō Millo round about. And Joab repayred the rest of the cytie. And Dauid prospered, and wared C great. And the Lord of hostes was with 1.Ch.11.a
hym. * These are the principall menne of power whom Dauid had, and that claue to hym in hys kyngdom with all Jsrael, to make hym king: according to the worde of the Lorde vnto Jsraell. And thys is þ̄ numbre of the myghtye men whō Dauid had: Josobeam the sonne of Hachmoni, þ̄ chefe among thirtie: he lyft vp his speare agaynste thre hundred, and wounded thē at one time. After hym was Eleazar his vncles sōne an Jhothite, which was one of the thre myghtiest. He was wt Dauid at Pasdāmin, and there the Philistines were gathered together to battaile. And there was there a parcel of ground ful of barly, & the people fled before the Philistines. And they (the iii. afore sayd) stepte forthe into the middest of the fielde, & saued it from burning, and slue the Philistines. And the Lord gaue a greate victory. And the thre of the thirtye chefe cap- D taynes went to a rocke to Dauid, into þ̄ caue Adullā. And the hoste of the Philistines abode in þ̄ valey of Rephaim. And whē Dauid was in the hold, the Philistines watche was at Bethlehē the same 2.Ki.23.c tyme. And Dauid longed, & sayde: * Oh, that one wold geue me drinke of the water of the well that is at þ̄ gate at Bethlehem. And the thre brake thorowe the hooste of the Philistines, and drue water oute of the well that was by the gate at Bethlehē, and toke it and broughte it to Dauid. Neuertheles, Dauid would not drinke of it, but rather offered it to the Lord, and sayde: my God forbyd it me, þ̄ I should do thys thyng. Shall I drinke þ̄ bloud of these men, that haue put theyr liues in ieopardie? (for with þ̄ ieopardie of theyr lyues they brought it) therefore he wolde not drinke it: and this did these E thre myghtyest. And Abisai the brother of Joab, he also was captayne amonge thre: for he lift vp hys speare agaynst iii. C. and wounded them, & had a name among the thre: yea, among thre he was more honourable then þ̄ two, for he was theyr captayne. Howbeit he attained not vnto the (fyrste) thre: Banaia the sonne of Jehoiada the sonne of a very strong mā) dyd greater actes thē Cabzeel: for he slue ii. strong lyons of Moab, & went downe & slue a liō in a pit in time of snow. And he slue an Egipcian, whose stature was euē fyue cubites longe, and in the Egipcians hād was a speare like a weauers beame. And the other went downe to hym with F a waster, & plucked the speare out of þ̄ Egipcians hand, & slue him with his owne speare. Such thinges did Banaia þ̄ sōne of Jehoiada, and had the name among þ̄ thre mightiest, and was honourable among .rrr. but attayned not vnto þ̄ (first) iii. And Dauid made him of his counsaile. The other mē of armes were these: Asahel þ̄ brother of Joab, Elhanan his vncles sonne of Bethlehem. Shammoth the Harodite: Heles þ̄ Pelonite: Ira þ̄ sonne of Ickes the Thekoite: Abieser the Anatothite: Sibacai the Husathite: Ilai the Ahoite: Maharai þ̄ Nethophathite: Heled the sōne of Baana, the Nethophatite: Ithai the sonne of Ribai of Gibea, that pertaineth to the chyldren of Beniamin. Benaia the Phirathonite: Hurai of ꝑ ryuers of Gaas: Abiel ꝑ Arbathite: Azmaneth the Baharumite: Eliaba ꝑ Saalbonite. The ſones of Haſſe the Gezonite: Jonathan the ſone of Sage an Hararite: Ahiham the ſone of Sacar the Hararite: Eliphal the ſone of Ur: Hepher the Mecherathyte: Ahia the Pelonyte: Hezro ꝑ Carmelite: Naari the ſone of Ezbai: Joel the brother of Nathan: Mibhar the ſonne of Hari: Zelegam the Ammonite: Naharai a Berothyte, the bearer of the harneſſe of Joab, the ſone of Zeruia: Ira the Ithrite: & Gared a Gethrite, Uria the Hethite: and Zabad the ſone of Ahlai: Adina the ſonne of Siza a Rubenite, a capitayne of the Rubenites, & thyrtye wyth hym. Hanan the ſonne of Maacha, & Joſaphat a Mithanite: Uzia an Aſthrathite, Sama and Jehiel the ſonnes of Hothan an Aroerite: Jediel the ſonne of Zimri, & Joha hys brother an Hathzite: Eliel a Mahamite: Jeribai and Joſaia ꝑ ſones of Elnaam, & Ithma a Moabite. Eliel & Obed, & Jaſiel a Meſobaite.

The. xii. Chapter.

What they were that went with Dauid when he fled from Saul.

THeſe are they ꝑ came to Dauid to Zikleg whyle he yet kept him ſelfe cloſe, becauſe of Saule the ſonne of Cis: and they were very ſtrong helpers in battayle. They were weaponed with bowes, and coulde hurle ſtones with the ryght hande and with the lefte: & ſhote arowes out of a bowe, & were of Sauls brethrē, euen of Beniamin. The cheefeſt were Ahiezer & Joas, the ſonnes of Simaa a Gibeonite: and Jeziel and Pelet the ſonnes of Aſmaneth: Beracah & Jehu of Anathoth. And Iſmaia a Gibeonite a myghty man amonge thirtye, and more then the thyrtie. Jeremiah, Jehaziel, Johanan and Joſabad of Gedor, Eleuſai, Jerimoth, Bealia, Semaria, and Seaphatia ꝑ Haraphites. Elcana, Jeſia, Izaraci, Joezer, Joſebeam Hakorim, Joela and Zebadiah, the ſonnes of Jeroam of Gedud. And of the Gadites there ſeparated thē ſelues, ſome vnto Dauid into the holde of the wilderneſſe, men of myght, & men apt for warre, & that could handle ſhylde & ſpeare, whoſe faces were lyke the faces of lyons, and they were as ſwyfte as the roes in ꝑ mountaynes: Ezer the fyrſt, Obdia the ſecond, & Eliab ꝑ thyrd, Maſmana the fourth, Jeremia ꝑ fyfth, Arthai the ſyxth, Eliel the ſeuenth, Johanan the eyght, Elſabath the nynth, Jeremia the tenth, and Machbanai the eleuenth. Theſe were of ꝑ ſonnes of Gad, and were captaynes ouer the menne of warre, the ſmall purſued an hundred, & the greate a thouſande. Theſe are they that went ouer Jordan in the firſte moneth, whē he had filled ouer al his bākes. And they put to flyght al thē of the valley, both toward ꝑ eaſt & weſt. And there came of the chyldrē of Beniamin & Juda to the holde vnto Dauid. And Dauid went out to mete them, and anſwered & ſayd vnto them: yf ye be come peaceably vnto me, to helpe me, myne heart ſhalbe knyt vnto you: But and yf you come to betraye me to myne aduerſaryes (ſeyng there is no wickednes in myne handes) the God of our fathers loke theron, and rebuke it. And the ſpyrite came vpon Amaſai, which was the chefe among thirtie, and he ſayd: thyne are we Dauid, and on thy ſyde thou ſonne of Iſai: * Peace, peace be vnto thee, & peace be vnto thyne helpers, for thy God is thy helpe. Then Dauid receyued thē, & made thē heades of companyes of the men of warre. And there fel ſome of Manaſſe to Dauid, whē he came with the Philiſtines agaynſte Saul to battayle, * but they helped them not. For ꝑ lordes of the Philiſtines toke aduyſement, & ſent hym awaye agayne, ſaying: he wyll fall to hys maſter Saul, to the iopardye of our hedes. As he wēt to Zikleg, there fel to hym of Manaſſeh: Idna, Joſadad, Jediel, Michael, Joſabad, Elihu and Zilthai, heades of the thouſādes ꝑ were of Manaſſe. And they holp Dauid agaynſt ꝑ rouers. For they were al mightie mē of warre, & captaynes in ꝑ hooſt. For at that tyme there came one or other to Dauid, daye by daye to helpe him: vntil it was a great hooſte, like the hooſt of God. And this is the numbre of the chefe captaynes that were prepared to battayle, and came to Dauid to Hebrō to tourne the kingdome of Saul to hym, accordinge to the word of the Lord. The chyldrē of Juda that bare ſhild & ſpeare, were ſixe thouſand & eight hundred redye prepared to the warre. Of ꝑ children of Simeon, men of myght to warre, ſeuē thouſande and one hundred. Of the chyldren of Leui, foure thouſand & fyue hundred. And Jehoiada was ꝑ chefe of the of Jaron: & with him thre thousand and seuen hundred. And Sadock a yonge man strong and valyaunt, and of hys fathers houshold. xxii. capitaynes. And of ꝑ children of Ben Jamin the brethrē of Saul, thre thousand. And a great part of them (did vnto that tyme) folowe the house of Saul. And of the children of Ephraym, xx. thousand and eyght hundred myghtie men of warre, & famous mē in the hous-holde of theyr fathers. And of the halfe f tribe of Manasseh. xviii. thousād, which were appointed by name to come & make Dauid kynge. And of the children of I-sachar which were men that had vnderstandyng in the ryght time, to know (how to commaunde, what Israel ought to do.

The heades of them were two hundred,
and all theyr brethren were at theyr wil.
And of Sabulon ꝑ went out to ꝑ battaile, and proceded forthe to the warr, with all maner of instrumētes of warr, fiftie thousand that were prepared to the warr with oute any doublenesse of hearte. And of Nephthali a thousand captaines, & with them with child and speare. xxxvii. thousand. And of Dan, prepared to battayle, xxviii. thousand, and sixe hundred. And of Asser that went out to ꝑ warre & kept ꝑ forefronte of the battayle, fourtye thousand. And of the other syde of Jordan of G the Rubenites & Gaddites, & of the halfe trybe of Manasse wt all maner of instru-mētes of war, a hundred & twentie thousand. And these were men of war, keping the forefront of ꝑ battayle with perfect heart, & came to Hebron to make Dauid king ouer all Israel. And al ꝑ rest of Israell was of one accorde to make Dauid kynge. And there they were with Dauid
iii. dayes eating and drinking, for theyr brethren had prepared for thē. Moreo-uer they that were nye thē vntil Isacar, Sabulon & Nephthaly, brought bread on asses, camels, mules, and oxē, and meat, floure, figges, reysinges, wyne and oyle, oxen and shepe aboundauntly. For there was ioye in Israell.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The arke is brought agayne from Cariath Jarim to Jerusalem. Uza (otherwyse called Osa,) dyeth.

A Nd Dauid cōsayled with the capi-taynes of thousandes & hundreds, & with al the lordes, and sayd vnto all the congregaciō of Israell: yf it seme you good, & to be of the lord our god, we will take & send vnto oure brethrē, ꝑ are left in al ꝑ land of Israel: & with thē also, to ꝑ priestes & Leuites whiche are in theyr cities & suburbes, to gather thē together vnto vs. And we wil brig againe ꝑ arke of ꝑ lord to vs, for we regarded it not in ꝑ dayes of Saul. And al ꝑ cōgre-gaciō was cōtent ꝑ he should do so, for ꝑ thing semed good in the eyes of al ꝑ peo- B
ple. So Dauid gathered al Israel together, frō Sihor in Egipt, vnto ꝑ entryng of Hemath, to bring ꝑ arke of ꝑ Lord frō kiriath Jearim. And Dauid wēt vp & al Israel to an hie place towardes kiriath Jearim, ꝑ was in Juda, to fet thence the arke of ꝑ lord god ꝑ dwelleth betwene ꝑ cherubs, where hys name is called on.
And they caried ꝑ arke of God in a newe cart out of ꝑ house of Abinadab. And Uza & his brother guided ꝑ cart. And Da- C uid & al Israel played before the arke of god wt all theyr might, with singing and harpes, psalteries & timbrels & trōpets.
And when they came vnto ꝑ threshynge floore of Chidō, Uza put forth his hād to hold ꝑ arke, for ꝑ oxē (being a litle wild) stumbled. And ꝑ lord was wroth wt Uza, and smot him, because he put his hand to the D arke. And there he died before God. And Dauid was out of quiet, because ꝑ Lord had rent a rēt in Uza: & he called ꝑ name of ꝑ place, the renting of Uza, vnto thys day. And Dauid was afrayd of god that daye, saying: how shal I bring ꝑ arke of god home to me. And so Dauid brought not ꝑ arke home to him to ꝑ citie of Da-uid: but caryed it into the house of Obed Edom a Gethite. And the arke of god remayned wt Obed Edō, euen in his house, thre monethes. And the Lord blessed the house of Obed Edō, and all that he had.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

Hiram sendeth wood and workemen to Dauid, which hath two victoryes of the Philistines.

S Oxiā the king of Tire sēt messē- A gers to Dauid, & timbre of Ceder-trees, wt masons and carpēters to build him an house. And Dauid perceyu-ed ꝑ the lord had cōfirmed him king vp-on Israel, & that his kingdō was lift vp on hie, because of his people Israell: And Dauid toke yet mo wiues at Jerusalē, & begat mo sōnes & daughters. These are B the names of hys children whiche were borne vnto him at Jerusalē: Sammua, Sobab, Nathan and Salomō, Jibhar, Elisua and Eliphalet, Noga, Nepheg &
Japhia, Elisama, Beeliada, & Eliphalet.

And

And when ꝑ Philistines heard that Dauid was annointed king vpon al Israel: al ꝑ Philistines went vp to seke Dauid. And Dauid hearde of it, & went oute agaynste them. And the Philistines came in, & prauncēd thorowe the valey of Rephaim. And Dauid asked counsayle at God, saying: shall I go agaynst the Philistines, and wilt thou deliuer them in to myne hende? And the Lorde sayde vnto hym: go vp, for I will deliuer them into thine hand. And so they came vp to Baal Perazim, and Dauid smote them there. And Dauid sayd: god hath deuyded mine enemyes with myne hande, as a manne wolde deuyde water. And therefore they called the name of that place, Baal Perazim. And when they had lefte theyr goddes there, Dauid gaue a commaundement, and they were burned with fyre. And the Philistines came together agayne, and russhed into the valleye. And Dauid asked agayne at God. And God sayde to hym: go not vp after them, but turne away from them, that thou maiest come vpon them ouer agaynste the pere trees: And when thou hearest a sound go in the toppes of the peretrees, the go out to battayle: for God is gone forth before the, to smyte the hoste of the Philistines. Dauid therfore did as god commaunded hym: and they smote the hooste of ꝑ Philistines from Gibeon to Gazer. And the fame of Dauid went out into all lādes: & the Lorde made all nations feare hym.

The. xv. Chapter.

The Leuytes byring the arke agayne. Dauid dauncyng before it, is despysed of his wife Michol.

AND Dauid made hym houses in the cytie of Dauid, & prepared a place for the arke of God, and pitched for it a tente. Then Dauid sayde: the arke of God ought not to be caryed, but of ꝑ Leuytes. For them hath the Lorde chosen, to beare the arke of the Lorde, and to minister vnto him for euer. And Dauid gathered al Israel together to Jerusalem, to fetche the arke of the Lorde vnto hys place whiche he had ordeyned for it. And Dauid brought together the chyldren of Aaron and the Leuites. Of the sonnes of Cahath was Uriel ꝑ chefe, and of hys brethren there were an hundred & twenty. Of the children of Merari, Asaia the chefe: and of hys brethren two hundred & twentye. Of the sonnes of Gersom, Joel the chefe: and of his brethren an hundred & thyrtye. Of the children of Elisaphan, Semaia the chefe: & of his brethren two hundred. Of the sonnes of Hebron, Eliel the chefe, and of hys brethrē. lxxx. Of the sonnes of Uziel, Aminadab the chefe: & of hys brethren an hundred and twelue. And Dauid called Sadoc and Abiathar ꝑ priestes, and the Leuites, Uziel, Asaia, Joel, Semaia, Eliel, and Aminadab, & sayd vnto them: ye that are the principal fathers of the Leuites, se that ye be holy with youre brethren, that ye maye bring in the arke of the Lorde God of Israel, vnto the place that I haue prepared for it. For because ye were not there at the fyrst, ꝑ Lord our God made a rēt among vs, for that we sought hym not, as ꝑ faschiō ought to be. So the priestes and the Leuites sanctifyed them selues to fet the arke of the Lord God of Israel. And the children of ꝑ Leuites bare ꝑ arke of god vpon theyr shoulders with staues therō, as Moses commaunded, accordyng to ꝑ word of the Lorde. And Dauid spake to the chefe heades of ꝑ Leuites, that they shoulde appoynte certayne of theyr brethren to synge with instrumentes of musycke, psalteries, harpes and cymbales: ꝑ they myght make a sounde, and to synge on hie with ioyfulnesse. And the Leuites appoynted Heman the sonne of Joel: and (of hys brethren) Asaph the sonne of Berechia: and of the sonnes of Merari and of theyr brethren, Ethan ꝑ sonne of Cusaiahu. And with them theyr brethren of the seconde degree, Zacharia, Ben Jaazel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Benaiahu, Maasiah, Mathathiahu, Eliphalehu, Mikniahu, Obed Edom, and Jaiel, porters. So Heman, Asaph & Ethan the singers made a sound with cymbales of brasse. And Zacharia, Aziel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Unni, Eliab, Maasiahu, & Banaiahu played wt psalteries on an Alamoth. Mathatiahu, Eliphalehu, Mikniahu, Obed Edom, Jeiell & Azaziah played vpon harpes an eyght aboue, with courage. And Chenaniahu ꝑ chefe of the Leuytes, was master of the song, for he taught other to sing, because he was a mā of vnderstāding. Berechia & Elcana kept the doze of the arke. And Secaniahu, Jehosaphat, Nethanael, Amasai, Zacharia, Banaiahu, & Eliezer ꝑ priestes, did blow wt trompettes before the arke of God. And Obed Edom & Jehia, were ꝑ kepers of the doze of ꝑ arke.

And

2.Sa.7.c *And Dauid and the elders of Israell & the captaines ouer thousandes, went to fet the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde out of the house of Obed Edō, with gladnesse. And when God helped the Leuites ꝑ bare the arke of the appointmēt of ꝑ Lord, they offred seuen oxen and seuen rammes. And Dauid had on hym a linnen garment, lyke as had also all the Leuytes that bare the arke, and so had the syngers: and Chenania the ruler of ꝑ song with the syngers. And Dauid had vpon hym an Ephod of lynnen. And all they of Israell brought the arke of the Lordes couenaunte wt shouting and blowyng of the shawme & trōpettes, makynge a noyse with symbales, psalteries & harpes. And as the arke of the appoyntemen of the Lord came into the cytie of Dauid, Micholl the daughter of Saul lokyng out at a wyndowe, sawe kyng Dauid daūsynge and playing, and she despysed hym in her hearte.

The. xvi. Chapter.

Dauid ordeyneth Asaph and hys brethren to mynister before the Lorde. He hym selfe prayseth the Lorde God of Israell.

SO they brought in ꝑ arke of God, & set it in the myddest of the tente, that Dauid pytched for it, & they offred burnt sacrifyces and peace offerynges before God. And when Dauid had made an ende of offrīng the burntoffringes & peaceoffrynges, he blessed the people in the name of the Lord. And he dealt to al Israel (both man and woman) a cracknell of bread, and a good piece of flesshe, and a flacket of wine. And he appoynted certayne of the Leuites to mynister before the Lorde, and to repete and to thanke and prayse the Lorde God of Israel. And Asaph was ꝑ chefe, and nexte to hym Zacharia, Jeiel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Mathathia, Eliab, Benaia, * Obed Edom, and Jeiel with psalteries & harpes. But Asaph made a sounde with symbales. Banaiahu and Jahaziel preastes, blewe with trompettes contynually before the arke of ꝑ couenaūt of god. And ꝑ same time Dauid dyd appoynte chefly to thanke the Lord by Asaph and his brethren. * O geue thankes vnto the Lord, cal vpon his name, make hys actes knowen amonge the people. Synge vnto hym, and playe vnto hym: talke of all hys wondrefull dedes. Reioyce in hys holy name: let the hearte of them ꝑ seke the Lorde bee glad. Seke the Lorde & hys strength: seke his presence alwaye. Remembre his maruayles whyche he dyd, and hys wonders, and the iudgementes of hys mouthe. The seede of Israell are hys seruauntes the children of Jacob are his chosen. He is the Lord our God, in all landes are hys iudgementes. Thynke on hys appoyntemente for euer: (and on the worde whiche he commaunded to a thousand generacions) which he made with Abraham, and of his othe to Isahac: whiche he set before Jacob for a decree, and to Israell for an euerlastynge couenaunt, saying: to thee wil I geue the lande of Canaan, to be the porcyon of youre enherytaunce. When ye were few, and smal in numbre, and soiourners therin. And they walked from nacion, to nacion, & from one kyngdom to an other people. He suffred noman to do thē wrong, but rebuked euen kynges for theyr sakes. Touche not myne annoynted, and do my Prophetes no harme. C

Psal.95.a *Synge vnto the Lorde all the earthe, and shewe from daye to day hys saluacion.

Tell of hys glorye amonge the Heathen: hys wondrefull dedes amonge all nacions.

For greate is the Lorde, and worthy to bee praysed exceedyngly: he is to bee feared aboue all Gods.

For all the Goddes of the people are of no value: But the Lorde made Heauen.

Prayse and honour are in hys presence: strengthe and gladnesse are in hys place.

Ascrybe vnto the Lorde ye kynredes of people: Ascrybe to the Lorde, glorye and domynion. Ascrybe vnto the Lorde the glory due vnto hys name: bryngе sacrifyces, and come before hym, and worshipp the Lord with holy honour. Let all the earth feare hym, although the compasse of the earthe be so stably sshed that it can not bee moued: let the heauens reioyce, and let the earth bee glad, and let men tel amonge the nacyons, that the Lorde is kyng. Let the sea thundre, and the fulnesse thereof: let the feldes reioyce and all that is therein. Thē shall the trees of the wood reioyce at ꝑ presence of the Lorde, because he commeth to iudge the earth. O geue thankes vnto the Lorde, for he is good, for hys mercye endureth for euer: and saye ye: saue vs (O GOD) of oure saluacyon, gather vs together, and deliuer vs from amonge the heathen, that we maye geue thankes to thy holy name, and triumphe in the prayse of the.

Blessed be the Lorde God of Israel for euer and euer: and let all people saye Amē, and prayse the LORDE.

And

And so he left there before the arke of the D Lordes couenaunte, Asaph & hys brethré, to mynister before the arke contynually, in suche thynges as were to ber done daye by daye (and that by theyr courses,) and Obed Eddom and hys brethren, threscore and eyght:
and Obed Edom, the sonne of Jeduthun, and Hosa, were appoynted to ber porters.
And Sadok the preste and hys brethren the prestes, were before þ Tabernacle of the Lorde, in the hye place that was at Gibeó, to offer burntoffrynges vnto the Lord, vp-on þ burntoffring alter perpetually, in the mornyng and euenyng: accordyng vnto all that whiche is wrytten in the lawe of the Lord, whiche he commaunded Israel. And with them were Heman, and Jeduthun, & other that were chosen (whose names were expressed) to geue thankes to the Lorde, that his mercie lasteth euer. And with them dyd Heman and Jeduthun synge with the trompettes and symbales, making a swete melody with instrumentes of musyke and godlye songes. And the sonnes of Jeduthú were porters. And all the people departed, euerie man to hys house: and Dauid returned to blesse hys house.

The. xvii. Chapter.

Dauid is forbidden to bylde an house vnto the Lord.
Christe is prompted vnder the figure of Salomon.

And it fortuned, that whé Da-1 uid dwelt in his house, he sayde to Nathan the Prophet: lo, I 2.Re.7.a. dwell * in an house of Cedar tree, but the arke of the Lordes couenaunt remayneth vnder curtaynes: And Nathan sayde to Dauid: do al that is in thine heart, for God is with the. And the same nyght it fortuned, that the worde of God came to Nathan, sayinge: goo, and tell Dauid my seruaunt, thus sayeth the Lorde: thou shalt not bylde me an house to dwell in. For I haue dwelt in no house, synce the daye that I brought oute the children of Israel vnto this daye: but haue gone from tent to tent, and from one habytacyon to an other. And wheresoeuer I haue walked with al Israel, spake I euer one worde to any of þ iudges of Israell (whom I commaunded to fede my people) sayinge: why haue ye not bylte me an house of Cedar tree? Now B therefore thus shalt thou saye vnto my seruaunte Dauid: thus sayeth the Lorde of hoostes: I toke the out of the pastures whé thou wentest after shepe, that thou shuldest be capitayne ouer my people Israell. And I haue bene with the, whyther soeuer thou hast walked, and haue wedded oute al thyne enemyes out of thy syght, and haue made thee a name, lyke the name (of one) of þ greatest men that are in the earthe. And I haue ordeyned a place for my people Israel, and make it faste, so that nowe they maye dwel in theyr place, and moue no more: neyther shall the children of wickednesse vexe them any more, as at the begynnyng. And synce the time that I commaunded iudges to be ouer my people Israel, I haue subdued al thyne enemyes: and I tolde thee, that the Lorde woulde bylde thee an house. Thys also shall come to passe: when thy dayes C bee expyred, that thou muste goo vnto thy fathers, I wyll rayse vp thy sede after the, whiche shalbe of thy sonnes, & I wyll prepare for hym the kyngdome. He shall build me an house, and I wyll stablyshe hys seat for euer: I wyll bee hys father, and he shal-be my sonne: and I wyll not take my mercy awaye from hym, as I toke it from him that was before thee. But I wyll set hym in myne house, and in my kyngdome for e-uer: and his seate shal be sure for euermore.

Accordynge to all these wordes, and accordynge to all thys vysion, dyd Nathan tell kynge Dauid. And Dauid the kynge came and sat before the Lorde, and sayde:
what am I (O Lorde God) and what is myne housholde, that thou haste promoted me thus farre? And yet thys semed lytle in thyne eyes, O God: But thou haste also spoken of thy seruauntes house, for a great whyle to come: and haste loked vpon me as vpon a manne of hye degree, (O Lord God.) What shall Dauid desyre more of thee, for the honoure of thy seruaunte?
for thou haste knowen thy seruaunte: O Lorde, for thy seruauntes sake, euen accor-dyng to thyne owne hearte, hast thou done D all thys magnifycence, to shewe all greate thinges. Lorde, there is none lyke the, neyther is there any God saue thou: accordyng to al that we haue heard with our eares.
Moreouer, what natiõ on the earth is lyke thy people Israel, to whõ god hath vouchsafed to come and redeme them to ber hys owne people, and to make thee a name of excellencye and terriblenesse, with castynge oute nations frõ before thy people, whom þ hast deliuered out of Egipt. Thy people of Israel diddest þ make thyne owne people for euer, & thou becamest theyr God.
Therfore now lord, let þ thing þ thou hast spokẽ concerning thy seruaunt & his house, be true for euer, þ thou do as þ hast sayde:

let it

let it come to passe, that thy name maye bee magnyfyed for euer, that it may be sayde, the Lord of hoostes is þ God of Israel (euẽ the God of Israel) and the house of Dauid thy seruaũt endureth stable before the. For thou (O my god) hast told thy seruaũt, that thou wylte buylde hym an house. And therefore thy seruaunt hathe founde in hys heart to praye before the. And nowe Lord thou art God, & hast promysed thys goodnesse vnto thy seruaunte. Nowe therfore, let it bee thy pleasure, to blesse the house of thy seruaunte, that it maye continue before thee for euer. For whom thou blessest (O Lorde) the same is blessed for euer.

The. xviii. Chapter.

The battayles of Dauid agaynste the Philistines.

AND after thys it forteuned, that Dauid smote the Philistines, and subdued them, & toke Geth and the townes
2 Reg. 8. that * longed thereto, oute of the hande of þ Philistines. And he smote Moab, & the Moabites became Dauids seruauntes, and payed him trybute. And Dauid smote Hadarezer kynge of Zoba vnto Hanath, as he went to stablyche hys domynion by the ryuer Euphrates. And Dauid toke from him a thousande charettes, and seuen thousande horsemenne, and twentye thousande fotmẽ: and lamed al the charet horses, and reserued of them an hundred charettes.
And when the Syriens of Damasco came to helpe Hadarezer kynge of Zoba: Dauid slue of the Syriens. xxii. thousande, & Dauid subdued Syria Damasco. And the Syriens became Dauids seruauntes: and brought hym trybute. And the Lorde preserued Dauid in all that he wente to.

And Dauid toke the shyldes of golde
B that were on the seruauntes of Hadarezer, and brought them to Jerusalem. And frõ Tebhath, and from Chun (cyties of Hadarezer) broughte Dauid exceadynge moche brasse. Wherewith Salomon made þ bra-
2 Reg. 8. sen lauatorye, * the pyllers and the vessels
Jer. 52. of brasse. And when Tou kynge of Hemath herde howe Dauid had beaten al the strength of Hadarezer kynge of Zoba, he sẽt Haduren hys sonne to kynge Dauid, to make peace wyth hym, and to blesse hym, because he had fought agaynst Hadarezer, C and beaten hym (for Tou had warre with Hadarezer) and Dauid brought all maner of Jewels of golde, syluer & brasse with hym. And kyng Dauid dedicated them vnto the Lorde, with the siluer and golde that he brought from all nacyons: from Edõ, from Moab, from the chyldren of Ammõ, from the Philistines, and from Amaleche. And Abisai the sonne of Seruia slue of the Edomites in þ salte valleye. xviii. thousand, and put souldyers in Edom, and all the Edomytes became Dauids seruauntes.
Thus the Lorde kept Dauid in all that he D toke in hande. And Dauid raygned ouer all Israell, and executed iudgemente and righteousnesse amonge all hys people. And Joab the sonne of Seruia was ouer the host. And Jehosaphat the sonne of Ahilud recorder: and Zadocke the sonne of Ahitob, & Abimelech the sonne of Abiathar were the priestes: and Sauela was scrybe, and Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada was ouer the Crethites and þ Phelethites: & the eldeste sonnes of Dauid were nexte vnto the kynge.

The. xix. Chapter.

Hanon kyng of the sonnes of Ammon, doth great iniury to the seruauntes of Dauid.

AFter thys it chaunced, that * Nahas
1 Reg. 10. & the kynge of the chyldren of Ammon dyed, and hys sonne raygned in hys stede. And Dauid sayde: I wyl shew kyndnesse vnto Hanon the sonne of Nahas: because hys father delt kindlye with me. And Dauid sente messengers to comforte hym ouer the deathe of hys father. And the seruauntes of Dauid came into the lande of þ chyldren of Ammon to Hanon, to comforte hym. But the lordes of the children of Ammon sayde to Hanon: thynkest thou that Dauid doth honour thy father in thy sight, that he hathe sẽt coumforters vnto thee? Are not his seruauntes come to searche, to loke
3 and spye out the lande? Wherfore Hanon toke Dauids seruaunte (and polde them) and shaued them, & cut of theyr coates harde by theyr buttockes, and sent them away. And there wente certayne and tolde Dauid how the men were serued. And the kynge sent to mete them (for the men were exceadyngely ashamed) and the kyng sayde: tary at Jericho, vntyll youre beardes be growen: and then retourne. And whẽ the chyldrẽ of Ammon sawe that they stanke in the syght of Dauid, Hanon and the chyldren of Ammõ sent a thousande talentes of syluer to hyre them charettes & horsmen out of Mesopotamia and out of Syria Maacha, and oute of Zoba. And they hyred. xxxii. thousande charettes, and the kynge of Maacha & hys people, whyche came and pytched before Medeba.

And

And the childzen of Ammon gathered the C selues togethzer from theyz cuies, and came to battayle. And when Dauid heardc of it, he sent Joab and al the hoost of strong mē.
And the childzen of Ammon came out, and put them selues in araye to battayle before the gate of the cuie. And the kynges that were come, kept them by themselues backe in the felde. When Joab also sawe that the fronte of the battayle was agaynste hym before & behynde, he chose out of al the chosen men of Israell, and put them in araye agaynste the Sirians. And the rest of the people he delyuered vnto the hande of Abi-sai hys brother, and they put them selues in araye agaynste the childzen of Ammon.
And he sayde: Yf the Sirians bee to strong for me, thou shalte succour me: and yf the childzen of Ammon preuayle agaynste the,
I will helpe the: Plucke vp thyne heaete, and let vs playe the menne, for oure peoples sake and for the cities of oure GOD, and the Lorde shal do that whiche is good in his owne syghte. So Joab and the people that were with hym, drue nye before the Sirians vnto the battayle: and they fledde before hym. And when the childzen of Ammon sawe that the Sirians were fled, they renne awaye lykewyse before Abi-sai hys brother, and gate them into the cytie. And Joab came to Jerusalem.

And when the Sirians sawe that they were put to the woorse before Israell, they sente messengers and fet oute the Sirians that were beyond the ryuer, and Sophach the captayne of the host of Hadarezer went before them. And it was tolde Dauid: and he gathered all Israell and wente togethzer ouer Jozdane, and came and set vpō them.
And when Dauid had put hym selfe in a-raye agaynste the Sirians, they foughte with hym. But the Sirians fled before Israel. And Dauid destroyed of the Sirians seuen thousande charrettes, and fozty thousande foote menne, and kylled Sophach the captayne of the hoste. And when the seruaunces of Hadarezer, sawe that they were put to the woorse, before them of Israell: they made peace with Dauid, and became hys seruaūtes. Neyther would the Sirians helpe the childzen of Ammon any moze.

The. xx. Chapter.

The two moste victorious battayles of Dauid.

3 And it came to passe, that after the yere
2.Ki.11.a was expyred (*about the tyme that kynges go out a warrefare:) Joab carryed oute the armye of the hooste, and *destroyed the countrey of the childzen of Ammon, and came and besyged Rabba, and destroyed it: But Dauid tarzed at Jerusalem whyle Joab smote Rabba and destroyed it. * And Dauid toke the crowne of B theyz kynge from of hys heade, & founde that it had the weyght of a talent of golde, and there were precyous stones in it: and it was ozdeyned foz Dauids head. And he brought also exceadyng moche spoyle oute of the cytie. And he brought oute the people that were in it: and tozmented them with sawes, & harowes of yron, and with other sharpe instrumentes: and so dealte Dauid with al the cyties of the childzen of C Ammon. And Dauid, and all the people came agayne to Jerusalem. * After thys it fortuned, that there arose warre at Gazer with the Philistines. At whiche tyme, Sobokai the Husathite slue Sippai, that was of the childzen of * Rephaim: and they were subdued. And there was battayle a-gayne with the Philistines: and Elhanan the sonne of Jair slue Lahemi, the brother of Goliath the Gethyte, whose speare was D lyke a weauers beame. And there chaunced yet agayne warre at Geth, where as was a manne of a greate stature, wyth xxiiii.
fyngers and toes. vi. on euery hand and vi.
on euery foote: and was the sonne of Raphah. But when he defyed Israel, Jehonathan the sonne of Simea, Dauids brother, slue him. These were borne vnto Raphah at Geth, and were ouerthrowē in the hand of Dauid: and in the hande of hys seruaūtes.

The. xxi. Chapter.

Dauid causeth the people to bee numbzed: and there ryse. lxx. thousande men of the pestilence.

1.Ki.11.a And Sathan stode vp againste Israell, and prouoked Dauid to numbze Israel. And Dauid sayde to Joab, and to the rulers of the people: Go ye and numbze Israell from Beersheba to Dan, and bringe it to me that I maye know the numbze of them. And Joab answered: the Lorde make hys people an hundzed tymes so many moze as they be. But my Lozd, O king, are they not al my lozdes seruaūtes?
why than dothe my Lozde requyze thys thynge? why wyll my Lozde ber a cause of trespalle to Israell? Neuertheless, the kynges wozde preuayled agaynste Joab.

And

And Joab departed and walked thorowoute all them of Israel, and came to Jerusalem againe, and gaue the numbre of the compte of the people vnto Dauid. And all they of Israel were a. M. thousande, and an hundred thousand men that drew swearde: and Juda was. cccc. lxx. thousande menne that drewe swearde. But the Leuites and Ben Jamin comted he not amonge them. For the kynges worde was abhominable to Joab. And the Lorde was displeased with thys thynge: and smote Israell. And Dauid sayde vnto God: I haue synned exceadynglye in doing thys thynge. And now (I beseche thee) do awaye the wyckednesse of thy seruaunte, for I haue done very foolishly. And the Lorde spake vnto Gad Dauids sear, saying: go and tel Dauid, saying: Thus sayeth the Lord: I geue the ꝑ choyse of thre thynges: chose the one of them, that I may do vnto the. And Gad came to Dauid, and sayde vnto hym. Thus sayeth the Lord: Chose the eyther thre yeares famishment, or thre monethes to bee destroyed before thyne aduersaries, and ꝑ the sweard of thyne enemyes maye ouertake thee, or els the swearde of the Lorde, and pestilence in the lande thre dayes: and the aungel of the Lord destroying thorowout al the coastes of Israell. And nowe aduyse thy selfe, what worde I shall brynge agayne to hym that sente me. And Dauid sayde vnto Gad: I am in an exceedinge strayte. Let me fal now into the hand of the Lord, for passyng great are hys mercyes, but let me not fall into the hande of menne. So the Lorde sente pestylence vpon Israell, and there were ouerthroben of Israell. lxx. thousande menne. And God sent the aungell into Jerusalem to destroye in it. And as he was aboute to destroye, the Lorde beheilde, and had compassion on the euyl, and sayed to the aungel that destroyed: it is ynoughe, let nowe thy hand cease. And the angel of ꝑ Lord stode by the threshynge flooze of Ornan the Jebusite. And Dauid lift vp hys eyes, & sawe the angell of the Lorde stande betwene the earth and heauen, hauyng a drawē sweard in hys hande, stretched out towarde Jerusalem. Then Dauid and the elders of Israel, whiche were clothed in sacke, fel vpon theyr faces. And Dauid sayde vnto God: Is it not I that commaunded the people to be numbred? It is I that haue synned & done euyll in dede, & what haue these shepe done? Let thine hād (O lord my god) be on me, & on my fathers house, but not on thy people, that they shoulde be punished. And the angel of the Lord commaunded Gad to saye to Dauid, that Dauid shoulde go vp, and set vp an alter vnto the Lorde in the threshynge flooze of Ornan the Jebusite. And Dauid went vp accordyng to the sayyng of God, whiche he spake in the name of the Lorde. And Ornan turned aboute, and sawe the angel: and his foure sonnes were with hym, and hyd them selues: But Ornā was threshynge wheate. And as Dauid came to Ornan, Ornan loked & sawe Dauid, and went out of the threshing flooze, & bowed him selfe to Dauid with his face to the grounde. And Dauid sayde to Ornan: geue me the place of the threshyng flooze, that I maye buylde an aultare therin vnto the Lorde. Thou shalte geue it me for as much money as it is worth, that the plage maye ceasse from the people. And Ornan sayde vnto Dauid: take it to the, and let my lorde the kyng do that whiche semeth good in his eyes: lo, I geue the orē also for burnt sacrifyces, and the threshyng sleades for wood, and wheat for meatoffryng: I geue it all. And kyng Dauid sayde to Ornā: not so, but I wil bye it for as muche money as it is worth. For I will not take that which is thyne for the Lorde, nor offer burnt offrynges without coste. And so Dauid gaue to Ornan for that place, sicles of golde. vi. hundred by wayghte. And Dauid buylte there an aultare vnto ꝑ lord, & offred burntoffringes, & peace offrynges, & called vpon ꝑ lord, & he heard him frō heauē in fyre, vpō the aultare of burntoffryng. And when the Lorde had spoken to the aungel, he put vp his swearde agayne into the sheath of it. At that tyme when Dauid sawe that the Lord had hearde hym in the threshing flooze of Ornā the Jebusyte, he vsed to offre there: For the Tabernacle of ꝑ Lord which Moses made in the wyldernesse, and the aulter of burntoffrynge, were at that season in ꝑ hyll at Gibeon. And Dauid coulde not goe before it to aske coūsaile at god, for he was afrayed of ꝑ sweard of ꝑ Angel of the lord.

The. xxii. Chapter.

Dauid willeth his sonne Solomon to buylde the temple of the Lorde: which thyng he hym selfe was forbydden to do.

AND Dauid sayd: thys is ꝑ house of ꝑ Lord God, & this is the aultar for the burntoffring of Israell. And Dauid cōmaunded to gather together ꝑ straūgers ꝑ were in ꝑ land of Israel, & he set masons to hewe free stone for the buildinge of the house of God. And

And Dauid prepared plenye of yron for nayles, and dores of the gates and to ioyne with all, and a boundaunce of brasse without wayght, and Cedre trees without nũbre. For the ziioons & they of Tire brought moch Cedar wood to Dauid. And Dauid sayed: Salomon my sonne is yonge and tẽder, and the house that is to bee buylte for the Lorde, muste excede in greatnesse, that it maye be spoken of, & praised in al landes: I wyll therefore make ordinaunce for it.

And so Dauid prepared in many thinges before hys deathe. And he called Salomon hys sonne, and charged hym to buylde an house for the Lorde God of Israell. And
B 1. Ki. 7. b. 2. Ki. 5. a Dauid sayde to Salomon: *my sonne, I thought (as it was in myne heart) to build an house vnto the name of the Lorde my God. But the woorde of the Lorde came to me, saying: thou hast shed muche bloude, & haste made greate battayles: thou shalte therefore not build an house vnto my name: for thou hast shed moche bloude vpon the earthe in my syghte. Beholde, a sonne is borne to thee, and he shalbee a man of reste, for I will geue hym reste from all hys enemyes round about. For hys name is Salomon: and I will sende reste and peace vpõ Israel in hys dayes. He shal build an house
C for my name, and he shall bee my sonne, and I wil bee hys father, and wyll prepare the seate of hys kyngdome vpon Israell for euer. Nowe therefore my sonne, the Lorde bee with thee, and prosperе thou, and thou shalte buylde the house to the name of the Lorde thy God, as he hathe sayed of thee. And the Lorde shall geue the wysdome and vnderstandynge, and shall geue the commaundementes for Israell, that ye maye kepe the lawe of the Lorde thy God. For thẽ thou shalte prosperе: euen when thou takest hede, and fulfyllest the statutes and lawes whiche the Lorde charged Moses with for Israell. Plucke vp thy harte therefore, and bee stronge, dreade not, nor bee discouraged. Beholde, in myne aduersitie haue I D also prepared for the house of the Lorde, an hundred thousand talentes of gold, and a thousande thousande talentes of syluer, & as for brasse and yron it can not bee noumbred, for it is verye much. And I haue prepared tymbre and stone, and thou mayest prouide more thereto. Moze ouer, þ haste woorkemen with the prowe, and masons, and carpenters to worke in stone and tymber, and many menne that bee actiue for euery woorke. And of golde, syluer, brasse, and yron, there is no number. Up therefore, and be doinge, and the Lorde shalbee with the. And Dauid cõmaunded all the lordes of Israell to helpe Salomon hys sonne, saying: Is not the Lorde youre God with you, and harthe he not geuen you reste on euery syde? for he hathe geuen the inhabitours of the lande into my hande, and the lande is subdued before the Lorde, and before hys people. Nowe therefore set youre hearres and youre soules to seke the Lord youre God. Up, and build ye the temple of the Lorde God, to bringe the arke of the couenaunte of the Lord, and the holy vessels of GOD into the house, so buylt for the name of the Lorde.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

Dauid being olde, maketh Salomon kynge. He causeth the Leuites to bee numbred, and assigneth them to theyr offices.

SO, when Dauid was olde and full of dayes, *he made Salomon hys sonne kyng ouer Israell. And then he gathered togeI
1. Ki. 1. a ther al þ Lordes of Israel with þ priestes & the Leuites. And þ Leuites wer nũbred frõ the age of .xxx. yere and aboue, & the nõbre and summe of them was .xxx. and. viii. thousande menne. Of whiche .xxiiii. thousande were set to further the woorke of the house of the Lorde. And syxe thousande were officers and iudges. Foure thousand were porters, and foure thousande praised the Lord with suche instrumentes, as was made to praise withall. And so Dauid put an ordre amonge them, deuydynge them in partes. Of the chyldren of Leui, Gerson, Cahath, & Merari: Of the Gersonites was Laadam & Semei. The sonnes of Laadã, the chefe was Jehiel, Zethan and Joel, thre. The sonnes of Semei: Selomith, Haziell and Haram, thre. These were the auncient fathers of Laadã. And the sonnes of Se-B mei were Jahath, Zina, Jeus, & Beria: these foure were the sonnes of Semei. And Jahath was the chefe, Zina the seconde. But Jeus & Beria had not many sonnes, therefore they were in one rekeninge accordyng to theyr fathers household, rekened for one auncient household. The sonnes of Cahath, Amram, Jsehar, Hebron and Uziel, foure.

Moses

Moses also the man of God, & his children, were named wyth the tribe of Leui. The sonnes of Moses: Gerson, and Eliezer. Of the sonnes of Gerson, Sebuel was ꝑ chefe. The sonnes of Eliezer: Rehabia the chefe. And Eliezer had none other sonnes: But ꝑ sonnes of Rehabia were very many. The sonnes of Izahar: Salomith the chefe. The sonnes of Hebron: Ieriahu the first, Amaria ꝑ seconde, Jahaziel the thirde, & Iecameam the fourth. The sonnes of Uziel: Micha the C fyrste, and Iesia the seconde. The sonnes of Merari: Mahli and Musi. The sonnes of Mahli, Eleazar and Cis. And Eleazar died, and had no sonnes, but daughters, and theyr brethren the sonnes of Cis toke them. The sonnes of Musi: Mahli, Eder and Ieremoth, thre. These are ꝑ chyldre of Leui after the householde of theyr fathers: euen ꝑ auncient of the fathers accordynge to theyr offices, and after the numbre and summe of the names of them that did the worke in the seruyce of the house of the Lorde, from the age of twentye yeares & aboue. And Dauid sayd: the Lorde God of Israell hath gyuen rest vnto hys people, that they may dwel in Jerusalem for euer. That the Leuites also shoulde nowe nomore beare the tabernacle and all the vessels for the seruice thereof: for accordyng to the last wordes of Dauid, the Leuites were numbred from twentye yere and aboue, and theyr office was vnder the D hande of the sonnes of Aaron, for the seruice of the house of the Lorde: in the courtes and celles, & in ꝑ purifyng of all holy thinges, and in the worke of the seruice of ꝑ house of God. In the shewe bread, in the fyne floure, in the meatoffryng, in the wafers of swete bread, in the frying panne, in the gredyron, and in all maner of measures and syse, and to stande euery dayе in the mornynge, to thanke and prayse the Lord, and so likewise at euen. And to offre al burnt sacrifices vnto the Lorde, in the Sabbothes, in the newe moones, and on the feastful dayes by nũbre and custome contynually (as they were commaunded) before the Lorde. And that they shoulde wayte on the tabernacle of wytnesse, and on the holye place, and on the sonnes of Aaron theyr brethren, in ꝑ seruice of the house of the Lorde.

The. xxiiii. Chapter.

Dauid deuyded offyces vnto the sonnes of Aaron.

THese are ꝑ deuisions of the sonnes of Aaron. The sonnes of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. * Nadab also and Abihu Leui. 10. a dyed before their father and had no children: But Eleazar and Ithamar executed the priestes office. And Dauid ordred them on this maner: Zadock of the sonnes of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the sonnes of Ithamar were accordynge to theyr offices, in theyr ministracion. And there were mo auncient men founde amonge the sonnes of Eleazar, then ꝑ sonnes of Ithamar. And thus were they ordred togyther: Amonge the sonnes of Eleazar there were syxtene rulers, accordyng to the housholde of theyr fathers: and eight amonge the sonnes of Ithamar, accordyng to the housholde of theyr fathers. And thus B were they put in ordre by lot, the one sorte frõ the other, and so were there rulers in the Sanctuary and lordes before God, as well of the sonnes of Ithamar, as of the sonnes of Eleazar. And Simeia ꝑ sonne of Nathanael the scribe, of the kynred of the Leuites, wrote them before the kynge and ꝑ lordes, and before Zadock the priest, and Ahimelech the sonne of Abiathar, and before the auncient fathers, before the priestes and the Leuites: one principall household beyng reserued for Eleazar, and one for Ithamar. And the fyrste lotte fel to Iehoiarib, and the seconde to Iedaia: The thyrd to Harim, and ꝑ fourth to Sehorim. The fifth to Melchia, and the syxte to Miamin. The seuenth to Hakos, and the eyght to Abia. * The nynth Luke. 1. a to Iesua, and the tenth to Secaniahu. The eleuenth to Eliasyb, and the twelueth to Jakym. The thyrteenth to Hupa, and the fourteenth to Iesebeab. The fyftenth to Bilga, and the syxtenth to Immer. The seuententh to Hezir, and the eyghteenth to C Hapizez. The nyneteenth to Pathahia, and ꝑ twentyeth to Ieheskel. The .xxi. to Jachin, & the .xxii. to Gamul. The .xxiii. to Delaiahu, and the .xxiiii. to Maasiahu. These are the ordynaunces of them in theyr offices, when they came into the house of ꝑ lord accordyng to theyr maner vnder Aaron theyr father, as ꝑ lord God of Israel had cõmaunded him. The reste of the sonnes of Leui are these: of the sonnes of Amram, Subael: of ꝑ sonnes of Subaell, Iehediahu. Of the sonnes of Rehabia: the first Iesia. Of ꝑ Izaharites, Selomoth. Of ꝑ sonnes also of Selomoth, Iehath. His sonnes Ieriahu the fyrste, Amariahu the seconde, Jahaziel the thyrde, D & Iekameam the fourth. Of the sonnes of Uziell, Micha. Of the sonnes of Micha, Samir. The brother of Micha was Iesia. Of the sonnes also of Iesia zechariahu. The sonnes of Merari, were Mahli & Musi. The sones of Jahaliahu, Beno. The sones of Merari by Jahaziahu, Beno, Sohem, zacur & Ibri. Of Mahely came Eleasar, & he had no sones. Of kis, the sones of kis, Jerahemeel. The sones of Musi: Mahli, Eder and Jerimoth. These are the children of the Leuites after þ housholde of theyr fathers. And these cast lottes next to theyr brethrē þ the sones of Aaron, in þ presence of Dauid the kynge, & Sadock and Ahimelech and the auncient fathers, priestes, & Leuites: euen þ principall fathers before theyr ponger brethren: (the lot made equal distributiō among them al.)

The. xxv. Chapter.

The. xxvi. Chapter.

The porters of the temple are ordeyned, euery man to the gate whyche he shoulde kepe.

THese are þ deuisions of þ porters. Among þ Corethites: Meselemiahu þ sonne of Kore of the children of Asaph. And the sonnes of Meselemiahu were these: zachariahu the eldest, Jedihell the second, zebadiahu the thyrde, and Jathniel the fourth, Elam the fyfth, Jehohanan the syxt, and Elioenai the seuenth. The sonnes of Obed Edom: Semeia þ eldest, Jehosabad the second, Joah þ thyrde, Sacar the fourth, and Nethanael þ fyfth, Ammiell the syxth, Jssachar the seuenth, Peulthai the eyght, for God blessed hym. And to Semeia his son were sonnes borne, that ruled in the house of theyr father, for they were men of myghte. The sonnes of Semeia, Othni, Rephael, Obed & Elzabad, and hys brethren were stronge men: Elihu,

and & Semahiahu. All these were of the childrē of Obed Edom, they and their children, and their brethren, actyue men of strength to do seruice, euen. lxii. of Obed Edom. And Meshelemiah had sonnes and brethren actyue men. xviii: The sonnes of Hosa of ꝑ children of Merari: Simri the chefe, and though he was not the eldest, yet his father set hym in ꝑ chefest place: Helkiahu ꝑ second: Tebaliahu the thyrde, and Zechariahu the fourth: al the sonnes and brethren of Hosa were. xiii.

Amonge these was deuided the office of the portershyp ꝑ they shoulde be auncient mē, to wayte wyth their brethren, when they ministred in the house of the Lorde. And they cast lottes betweene the great and small after the household of their fathers, for euery gate.

And the lot on the east syde fell vpon Shelemiah. And for Zachariahu his son (whyche was a wyse counsayler) they caste lottes, & his lot came out toward the north. And Obed Edoms lot fel to the south. And for his sonnes fell the houses of Asuppim. For Suphim and Hosa, towarde the west, with the gate that standeth towarde the hier waye: one watche beyng ouer agaynste an other. In the east were syxe Leuytes: and toward the north. iiii. a day: toward ꝑ south iiii. a day, and toward Asuppim two & two. In Pharbar towarde the weste, two at the goinge vp, and two in Pharbar. These are the deuysions of the porters amonge the sonnes of Kohath, and amonge the sonnes of Merari. And of the Leuytes, Ahiah had the ouersight of the treasure of ꝑ house of God, and of the treasure of the dedicate thynges.

C As concernyng the sōnes of Laadan which were the children of the Gersonites. Of Laadan came auncient fathers: euen of Laadan there came Gershni & Iehieli: The sonnes of Iehieli: Zethan and Ioel hys brother, whiche were ouer the treasures of the house of the lord. Of the Amramites also & Izeharites, Hebronites and Vzielites, was Shubuell the sonne of Gerson, the sonne of Moses a ruler ouer ꝑ treasures. And of his brethrē sonnes of Eliezer was Rehabiahu, whose son was Isaiahu, whose sonne was Ioram, whose sonne was Zichri, whose sonne was Shelomith, whych Shelomith and hys brethren were ouer all the treasures of the dedicate thynges which Dauid the kynge, & the auncient fathers the captaynes ouer thousandes & hundredes, and the captaines of the host had dedicated out of the spoiles wonne in battayles: they did dedicate thē to maintaine the house of the Lord: and al that Samuell the sear, & Saul the son of Cis, & Abner the sonne of Ner, and Ioab the sōne of Zeruia had dedicated, & whosoeuer had dedicate any thyng, it was vnder the hande of Shelomith & of his brethren. Of the Izeharites was Chenaniahu and his sonnes, appointed to ꝑ businesse vpon out forth ouer Israell, for they were officers & iudges. And of ꝑ Hebronites, Hashabiahu and his brethren, men of actiuitie, a thousand & seuen hundred were officers among thē of Israel beyonde Iordan westward, in al businesse belonging to God, and seruice of the kyng. Amonge ꝑ Hebronites was Ieria the chefest, euen a prynce among the Hebronites and fathers of his kynred. And in the. xl. yeare of ꝑ kingdome of Dauid they were sought for. And there were found among thē mē of actiuitie, at Iazer in Gilead. And hys brethren were men of actiuitie, euen two thousande & seuen hundred auncient fathers, whō king Dauid made rulers ouer the Rubenites, Gadites, and ouer ꝑ halfe tribe of Manasse, for euery Matter pertayninge to God, and for the kynges businesse.

The. xxvii. Chapter.

Of the princes & rulers that ministred vnto ꝑ kinge. A

The children of Israel after ꝑ number of them, the auncient heades & captaynes of thousandes and hundredes, and their officers that serued ꝑ king by diuers courses, which came in & went out, moneth by moneth throughoute al the monethes of ꝑ yere. And in euery course were. xxiiii. thousande. Ouer the fyrst course for the fyrste moneth, was Iasobeā the son of Zabdiel. And in his course were xxiiii. thousande. And the chefest of all the captaynes of the hoste for the fyrst moneth, was of the children of Pharez. Ouer the course of the second moneth was Dodai an Ahohite, and in hys course was Mikloth a ruler (his helper.) And in ꝑ course were xxiiii thousande. The eight captayne for the eyght moneth, was Sibechai an Husathyte of the kynred of zarhi: & in his course were xxiiii. thousand. The .ix. captayne for ỹ nynth moneth was Jeiezer an Anathothite of the sonnes of Jemini: and in hys course were. xxiiii. thousande. The tenth captayne for the tenth moneth, was Maharai the Netophathite of the zarahytes: & in his course were twenty & foure thousand. The eleuenth for the eleuenth moneth, was Banaia the Pirathonyte of the chyldren of Ephraim: & in hys course were. xxiiii. thousand. The twelueth captayne for the twelueth moneth, was Heldai ỹ Netophathyte, vñ Othoniel: & in his course were. xxiiii. thousand. And ỹ rulers ouer the trybes of Jsraell were these. Among the Rubenites was Eliezer the sone of zichri. Among the Simeonytes also was Saphatiahu the sone of Maacha. Among the Leuytes: Hasabia the sonne of Kemuel. Among the Haronites: zadok. Among thé of Juda: Elihu of the brethren of Dauid. Among them of Jsachar: Omri ỹ sonne of Michael. Among thé of zabulō: Jesmaiahu the son of Obadiahu. Among them of Nephthali: Jerimoth the sonne of Azriell. Among the chyldren of Ephraim: Hosea the sonne of Azaziahu. In the halfe tribe also of Manasse: Joel the sone of Phedaiahu. Of ỹ half trybe of Manasse in Gilead: Jddo the sonne of zachariahu. Among them of Benjamin: Jaasiel the sonne of Abner. Among thé of Dan: Azarel the sonne of Jeroham. These are the lordes of the tribes of Jsrael. But Dauid toke not the numbre of thé vnder .xx. yere: because the Lorde said he would encrease Jsrael lyke vnto the starres of the skie. And * Joab the sonne of zaruia began to nūbre: but he finished it not, because that there fell wrath for it agaynst Jsrael, neither was the numbre put into the chronycles of kynge Dauid. Ouer the kynges treasures was Azmaueth ỹ sonne of Jdiel. And ouer the treasures of the feldes in the cytyes and villages and castels, was Jehonathan the sonne of Vzziahu. And ouer the workemē in the feldes that tylled the grounde, was Ezri the sonne of Chelub. And the ouerlight of ỹ vyneyardes had Semei the Ramathite. Ouer the encrease also of the vyneyardes and ouer ỹ wynecellers was Sabdi ỹ Hasphumpte: & ouer the olyuetrees and mulberytrees that were in the valleys, was Baal Hanan the Gederite. And ouer ỹ treasure of oile, was Joas: Ouer the oxen that fedde in Saron was Setary ỹ Saronite. And ouer the oxen ỹ were in the valeys, was Saphat the sonne of Jdlai. Ouer the camels Obil ỹ Jsmaelite. And ouer ỹ asses, was Jehadiahu ỹ Meronothite. Ouer ỹ shepe, was Jazis the Hagerite. All these were the rulers of ỹ substaunce of kyng Dauid. And Jehonathā Dauids vncle, a man of counsayle and of vnderstandyng, was a scribe: and Jehiel the sonne of Hachmoni was wyth the kynges sonnes (enstructynge them.) And Ahitophel was of the kynges counsayle. And Husai the Arachyte was the kinges companyon. And nexte to Ahitophel was Jehoiada the sonne of Banaiahu and Abiathar. And the captayne of the kynges warre, was Joab.

The. xxviii. Chapter.

Because Dauid was forbydden to builde the temple, he exhorteth Salomon and the people to perfourme it.

AND Dauid gathered together all ỹ lordes of Jsrael: the lordes of the tribes, the lordes of the companyes ỹ ministred to the kyng by course, ỹ captaynes ouer thousandes & ouer hūdredes, & the lordes that had the ouersyght ouer all the substaunce and possession of Dauid, his sonnes, wyth the chamberlaynes: all the myghty and valyaunte, and all actyue men vnto Jerusalem. And kynge Dauid stode vp vpō his fete, & said. Heare me my brethrē and my people. * I had in my hert to builde an house of rest for the arke of the couenaūt of the Lorde, and for the foote stole of our God: and had made redy for the buildyng. But God said vnto me: * ỹ shalt not builde an house for my name, because thou hast ben a mā of warre, and hast shed bloude. Moreouer, ỹ lord God of Jsrael * chose me before all ỹ house of my father, to be kyng ouer Jsrael for euer: for in Juda would he chose a captayne, and of the housholde of Juda is the house of my father, and among ỹ sōnes of my father he had a lust to me to make me kyng ouer al Jsrael. And of al my sōnes (for ỹ lord hath gyuen me many sonnes) he hath chosen Salomon my sonne to syt vpon the seate of the kingdome of the lorde in Jsrael. And he sayde vnto me: * Salomon thy sonne, he shall buylde me an house and courtes: I haue chosen hym to be my son, I I wil be his father. I wil stablish his kingdome for euer, if he wil be stronge, to do my

But yf thou forsake hym, he will cast the of for euer. Take hede now, for the Lorde hath chosen the, to builde him an house of a Sanctuary. Be strong therfore, and playe the man. And Dauid gaue Sa-C lomon his sonne the paterne of the porche (of the temple also) and of ꝓ houses that longed therto, of the store houses, vpper chambres, inner parlours, & of the house of the mercy-state: and the cōpte of all that he had in his mynde, for ꝓ courtes of the house of ꝓ lorde, and for all the celles rounde about, for the treasures of the house of God, & for the treasures of the dedicate thinges, & for the diuisions of the preastes and Leuites that wayted by course, and for all the workemanship that shoulde serue for the house of the lorde, and for all ꝓ vessels that should serue in the house of the lord. For gold, & for the wayght of golde, for all vesselles of sondrye ministracions: for al maner of vesselles of siluer, in waygthe, and for al vesselles what soeuer purpose they serued vnto. The wayght of golde for the candlestyckes, and the golde for their lāpes, with ꝓ wayght for euery candlestycke, & for the lampes therof. And for ꝓ D candlestyckes of siluer by wayght, both for the candlestyck and also for her lampes, according to the diuersitie of the vse of euerye candlestycke. And by wayght (he gaue) golde for the tables of shewbread, euen for euery table: and likewise siluer for ꝓ tables of siluer. And gold for fleshhokes, cuppes, & drinkyng pottes. And pure gold in wayght for basens, euen for euery basen. And likewyse siluer by wayght for euery basen of siluer. And for the alter of insence pure golde by waight. And golde for ꝓ paterne of ꝓ charet of the cherubs ꝓ stretched out their winges, and couered the arke of the couenaunte of ꝓ lord. All (sayd he) was gyuen me by writyng of ꝓ hande of the Lord, which made me vnderstāde al the workemanship of ꝓ paterne. And Dauid said to Salomon his sonne: be strōg, & do manfully, feare not, nor be faynte herted: for the Lorde God, euen my God is with the, and he shall not fayle the, nor forsake the, vntill thou haste finished all the worke that muste serue for the house of the Lorde. Beholde, the preestes and Leuites are deuyded in companies for all maner of seruice that perteneth to the house of God: they are with the for al maner of workmanshyp, and so are all that excell in wisdom for anye maner of seruice. Thou haste also the Lordes and all the people for euery thynge that thou hast nede of.

The. xxix. Chapter.

The offrynges of Dauid, and of the princes for the buyldynge of the temple. Dauid dyeth: and Salomon his sonne raygneth in his stede.

AND Dauid the kyng sayd vnto al I the congregacion: * God hath spe- 1.reg.3.a. cially chosen Salomon my sonne whiche is yet yong and tendre, and the worke is great: for the house shall not be for man, but for the lord God. Moreouer, I haue prepared with al my might for ꝓ house of God, gold for vessels of golde, siluer for them of siluer, brasse for thynges of brasse, yron for thynges of yron, & wood for thynges of wood: and onyx stones, and stones to be set, glystryng stones, & of diuers coloure, and all maner of precious stones, & marble stones in greate aboundaunce. And because I haue luste to ꝓ house of my God: I haue of myne owne proper good, of gold & siluer which I haue seuerally gyuen to the house of my God, beside al that I haue prepared for the holy house, euen thre thousand talentes of golde of Ophir, and seuen thousande B talentes of tried siluer, to ouer lay the walles of the houses withall: the golde for thynges of golde, siluer for them of siluer, and for all maner of worke by the handes of artificers. And whosoeuer is willynge maye this daye consecrate hys hande vnto the Lorde. And so the auncient fathers and the lordes of the tribes of Israel, the captaines of thousādes and hundredes, with the lordes that were rulers ouer the kynges worke, were willing, and gaue for ꝓ seruice of the house of God, fyue thousande talentes of golde, and ten thousand peces of golde, and ten thousande talentes of siluer, and xviii. thousande talentes of brasse, and one hundred thousande talentes of yron. And they with whome precious stones were founde, gaue them to the C treasure of the house of the lord, by the hāde of Jehiel the Gersonyte. And the people reioyced when they were so willynge to gyue their goodes, and with a perfect hearte they offered vnto the lord. And Dauid the kyng reioyced with greate gladnesse. And Dauid blessed the Lorde before all the congregacion, and sayd: Blessed be thou lord God of Israel our father, for euer & for euer. Thyne (O Lorde) is greatnesse and power, glorie, victory and prayse: for all that is in heauen and in earthe, is thine: and thine is the kingdom (O Lord) and thou excellest aboue al, euen as ꝑ head of al. And richesse & honour come of the, and thou reygnest ouer all, and in thyne hande is power and strength, and in thyne hande it is to make greate, and to D gyue strength vnto all. And now our God, we thanke the, & prayse thy glorious name. But who am I, and what is my people, ꝑ we should enforce oure selues to gyue these thynges so willingly? But al thynges come of thee: and of that whiche we receiued of thyne hande, we haue gyuē the. * For we be but straungers before the, and sotourners as were al oure forefathers. Oure dayes on the earthe also are but as a * shadowe, and there is none abydynge. O lorde our God, all this stuffe ꝑ we haue prepared to builde the an house for thyne holy name, commeth of thyne hande, & is all thyne. I wote also my God, that thou triest the heartes, & hast pleasure in vnfaynednesse. And in the vnfaynednes of myne herte, I haue willyngly offred all these thynges. And nowe haue I sene thy people whiche are founde here, to offre vnto the willyngly & with gladnesse. O lord God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel, oure fathers, kepe this for euer as the beginning of the thoughtes of the herte of E thy people, & prepare their hertes vnto thee. And gyue vnto Salomon my sonne a perfecte herte to kepe thy commaundementes, thy testimonies, and thy statutes, and to do all, and to builde the house, for the whiche I haue made prouision. And Dauid sayde to al the cōgregacion: Now blesse ꝑ lord your God. And all the congregacion blessed the lord God of their fathers, & bowed downe their heades, and worshipped the Lord and the kynge. And they offred offrynges vnto the Lord. And on the morowe after the sayd daye, they offred burnt offrynges vnto the lord, euen a thousande yong oxen, a thousād F rammes, and a thousande sheepe, with their drynkoffrynges. Many sacrifices offred they for all Israell, & dyd eate and drynke before the Lorde the same daye, with greate gladnesse. And they made Salomon the sonne of Dauid kynge the second tyme, and anoynted him prince before the Lorde: and Zadoc to be the hye preast. * And Salomō 1. Reg. 2. sate on the seate of the lorde, and was kyng in stede of Dauid his father, and prospered: & all they of Israel obeyed hym. And al the lordes and men of power, & al the sonnes of kyng Dauid submitted them selues, & were vnder kynge Salomon. * And the Lorde 1. Reg. 4. magnified Salomon in dignitie, in ꝑ syght of all the of Israel, & gaue him so glorious a kyngdome, as no kyng had before hym in Israell. And so Dauid the son of Isai reygned ouer all Israel. And the space that he reygned ouer Israel was. xl. yere: seuē yere reygned he in Hebron, and .xxxiii. yere reygned he in Jerusalē: & he dyed in a good age, full of dayes, ryches and honour. And Salomon his sonne reygned in his stede. The actes of Dauid ꝑ kyng first & laste, beholde they are writtē in the boke of Samuell the sear, and in the boke of Nathan ꝑ prophete, and in the boke of Gad the sear, with all his kyngdome and power, and tymes that went ouer him, and ouer all Israel, and ouer all the kyngdomes of the earth.

The first Chapter.

The offrynge of Salomon in the tabernacle at Gibeon, where he receyueth an answere of God, what wysedom should be gyue hym, with the nūber of his charettes and horsemen.

AND Salomon the sonne of Dauid waxed strong in his kyngdome: & the * lorde his God was with him, & magnifyed him in the dignitie. 1. Reg. 4.

And Salomon spake vnto al Israel, to the captaynes ouer thousādes, to the captaines ouer hundredes, to the iudges, & to euery officer in all Israell, & to the auncient fathers. And so Salomō & all the congregacion wt him * went to the hye place 1. Reg. 3. that was at Gibeon, & for there was the ta- 1. Par. 21. bernacle of ꝑ witnes of God, * whiche Mo- * Exo. 35. ses ꝑ seruaūt of ꝑ lord made in ꝑ wildernes. 2. Esd. 1. But the arke of God had Dauid brought from Kyriath Jarim, into ꝑ place whiche Dauid had prepared therfore. For he had pytched pytched a tent for it at Jerusalē. Moreouer, the brasen aulter * that Bezaleel the sonne of Uri, the sōne of Hur had made, was there before ꝑ tabernacle of ꝑ lord. And Salomō and the congregacion went to vysite it. And Salomō gat vp there before ꝑ lorde to the brasen aulter ꝑ was before the tabernacle of witnes, & * offred a thousande burntsacrifices vpō it. And ꝑ same nyght dyd God appeare vnto Salomō, & sayd vnto him: aske what I shal gyue the. And Salomon sayd vnto God: thou haste shewed great mercy vnto Dauid my father, and * hast made me to reygne in his stede. & Nowe therfore, O Lord God let thy promise whiche ꝑ madest vnto Dauid my father, be true. & For ꝑ hast made me kyng ouer a people whiche is like the dust of the earth in multitude: wherfore gyue me now wysedome & knowledge, ꝑ I may be able to go in & out before this people: for who els (worthely) can iudge this people ꝑ is so great? * And God said to Salomon: bycause this was in thyne herte, & bycause ꝑ hast not asked treasure, richelle, and honour, and ꝑ lyues of thyne enemyes, neyther yet lōge life: but hast asked wysedome & knowlege for thy selfe to iudge my people, ouer which I haue made the kyng, wisedō & knowlege is graūted vnto the, & I wil gyue the treasure & riches, & glory: so that among ꝑ kynges ꝑ haue ben before the or after thee, none was or shal be like the. And so Salomon came frō the hilauter (ꝑ was at Gibeō) to Jerusalē, frō the tabernacle of witnes, & reigned ouer Israell. * And Salomon gathered charetes and horsemen: and he had a thousāde & foure hundred charets, & xii. M. horsmē, whō he bestowed in ꝑ charet cytes, and ꝑ the kyng at Jerusalē. And * the kyng made siluer & gold at Jerusalē as plēteous as stones: & cedre trees made he as plentye as the mulbery trees ꝑ grow in the valeys: and the horses whiche Salomon had, were brought him out of Egipt by ꝑ kinges marchaūtes that were togither: whiche beyng of one cōpanye, toke them out at a price. They came also & brought out of Egipte a charet for syxe hundred peces of siluer: euē an horse for an hūdred & fyfte. And so brought they horses for all the kynges of the Hethytes, & for the kynges of Syria by their own hāde.

The. ii. Chapter.

Salomon sendeth to Hiram the kynge of Tyre for wood and workemen.

AND Salomō determined to builde an house for the name of the lord, and an house for his kyngdom: and Salomō tolde out thre score and ten thousande men to beare burthens, and foure score thousand men to hew stones in the mountayne: & thre thousande and syxe hundred to ouerse them. * And Salomon sent to Huram the kynge of Tyre, saying: As thou dyddest deale with Dauid my father, & * dyddest send him Cedre wood to builde him an house to dwel in, euen so deale with me. For I am about to builde an house for the name of the lord my God, to offre vnto him holy thynges, and to burne swete meese, and to set shewbread before him contynually: to offre burnt sacrifices of the mornynge and euenynge: on the Sabboth dayes, in the first daye of euery new moone, & in the solempne feastes of the lord our God: for it is an ordinaunce to be continually kepte of Israel. And the house which I builde shalbe greate, for great is our God aboue al gods: But who is hable to builde him an house, when that heauen & heauen aboue all heauens, is not hable to receyue him? What am I the that I should build hym an house, nay, but euen to burne sacrifice before him. shall this buildyng be: sende me nowe therfore a connynge mā that can worke in golde & siluer, in brasse & yron, in purple, cremosyn and yelowe sylke, & that can skyl to graue ẅ the cōnyng mē that are with me in Juda and Jerusalē, whom Dauid my father dyd prepare. Sende me also Cedre trees, Pyne trees, & Almuge trees out of Libanon. For I wot ꝑ thy seruauntes cā skyl to hewe tymbre in Libanon. And beholde, my men shalbe with thine, that they may prepare me tymbre ynough. For the house whiche I am determyned to buylde, shalbe wonderful great. And beholde, for ꝑ vse of thy seruauntes ꝑ cutters and hewers of tymbre, I haue gyue. xx. thousande quarters of beaten wheate, & xx. thousande quarters of barly, & xx. thousande bates of wine, and. xx. thousāde bates of oyle. And Hiram kynge of Tyre answered in writing which he sent to Salomon: Bycause the lord hath loued his people, therfore he hath made the kyng ouer them. And Hirā sayde moreouer: blessed be the Lorde God of Israel which made heauen and earth, & that hath gyuen Dauid the kyng a wise sonne, & one ꝑ hath discretion, prudence and vnderstandyng to build an house for the lord, and a palace for him selfe. And now I haue sent a wise man, and a mā of vnderstāding (whom my father Hirā dyd vse) * the sonne of a woman of the doughters of Dan, & his father was a man of Tyre, & he can skyl to worke in gold and fiuct in braſſe and yron, in ſtone, & tymbre, in purple and yelow ſylke, in fine whyte and crymoſyn: and can graue ſundry maner of graupnges, and fynde out diuers maner of ſubtle worke that ſhalbe ſet before hym, with thy connynge men, and with the connynge men of my Lorde Dauid thy father. Nowe therfore the wheat & barlye, oyle and wyne, which my Lord hath ſpoken of, let hym ſende vnto his ſeruauntes. And we will cut wood in Libanon as muche as thou ſhalt nede, & will bringe it to the in ſhyppes by ſea to Japho, fro whence thou mayſt carye them to Jeruſalem. And Salomon numbred all the ſtraungers ꝑ were in ꝑ lande of Iſrael, after the numbre of them whom his father Dauid had numbred. And they wer foumde an hundred. lui. thouſande, and fyue hundred. And he ſette. lxx. thouſande of them to beare burthens, and. lxxx. thouſande to hew ſtones in the mountayne: and thre thouſande and fyue hundred officers to ſet ꝑ people a worke.

The. iii. Chapter.

The temple of the lorde, and the porche are buylded, with other thinges therto belongynge.

A AND Salomon began to buylde the houſe of the lord at Jeruſalē in moūte Moria *where (the Lorde) appeared vnto Dauid his father, euen in the place ꝑ Dauid prepared in the threſhyng floure of Ornā the Jebuſite. And he *begā to builde in the ſeconde daye of the ſeconde moneth in the fourth yere of his reygne. And theſe are the paternes wherby Salomō was inſtruct to build the houſe of God. The length was threſcore cubites after the olde meaſure, and the bredth. xx. cubites. The porche, that was in bredthe as large as the temple, had. xx. cubites: and the hyegth was an hundred and xx. cubites. And he ouerlayed it on the B inner ſyde with pure golde. And the greater houſe he ſyled with fyre tree, which he ouerlayed with the beſt gold, and graued therto palmetrees and chaynes. And he ouerlayed the houſe with preciouſe ſtone beautyfully. And the golde was golde of Parnaim. The houſe (I ſaye) the beames, pooſtes, walles, and dores therof ouerlayed he with golde, and made grauen worke vpon the walles. And he made the houſe mooſte holye, whoſe length was twēty cubites, lyke to the bredth of the houſe: and the bredth therof was also xx. cubites. And he ouerlayed it with good golde, euen with. vi. hundred talentes. And the weyght of the nayles of gold was fyfty C ſycles. And he ouerlayed the vpper chaumbres with golde. * And in the houſe mooſte holye, he made two Cherubyns of ymage worke lyke children, and ouerlayed them with golde. And the wynges of the Cherubs were. xx. cubites long. The one wyng was v. cubites reachyng to the wal of the houſe: and the other wynge was lykewyſe. v. cubites reachyng to the winge of the other Cherub. And euen ſo the one winge of the other Cherub was. v. cubites, reachinge to ꝑ wall of the houſe, and the other wynge was. v. cubites alſo, and reached to the winge of the other Cherub. So that the wynges of the ſayde Cherubs were ſtretched out. xx. cubites, and they ſtode on their feet and loked inwardes. And he made a foze hangynge of yelowe ſilke, purple, crymoſyn, & fyne whyte, and cauſed the pyctures of Cherubs to be D brodred thereon. And he made before the houſe two pyllers of. xxxv. cubites hye. And the head that was aboue on the top of euery one of them, was. v. cubites, and he made chaynes of wrethen worke for the quere, & put them on the heades of the pyllers, and made an hundred pomegranates, and put them on the chaynes. And he reared vp the pillers before the temple, one on the right hande, & the other on the left: and called the ryght Jachin, and the left Boaz.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The aulter of braſſe, the lauatorye, the veſſels to waſhe with, the candleſtyckes. &c.

A And he made an aulter of braſſe. xx. cubites longe, and xx. cubites brode, and ten cubites hye. * And he caſt a braſen 3. reg. 7. lauatory of ten cubites from brym to brym, rounde in compaſſe, and fyue cubites hye: & a lyne of thyrtye cubites dyd compaſſe it round about. And vnder it was the faſhion of oxen which dyd compaſſe it rounde about: with ten cubites did they compaſſe the lauatory rounde about, and there were two rowes of oxen which were caſt of like molte worke. And it ſtode alſo vpon twelue oxen: thre loked towarde the north, thre towarde the weſt, thre towarde ꝑ ſouth, and thre toward the eaſt: and the lauatory was ſet vpon the, and all their backes were toward the lauatorye. And the thickeſte of it was an handbrede, and the brym lyke the brym of a cup, with floures of lylies. And it receyued, and B helde thre thouſande bates. * And he made 3. reg. 7. ten lauers, and put fyue on the ryght hāde, and fyue on the lefte, to waſhe and cleanſe in them ſuche thinges as they offred for a burnt offring. But the great lauatory was for the prieſtes to waſh in. And he made ten candleſtyckes of golde (accordynge to the paterne that was giuen of thē) and put thē in the temple: fyue on the right hande, and fyue on ꝑ left. And he made also ten tables, and put thē in the temple: fyue on the ryght syde, and fyue on the lefte. And he made an hundred basens of golde. And he made the court of the prestes and the great court and dores to it: and ouerlayed the dores of thē with brasse. And he set the great lauatorye on the right side of ꝑ east ende oueragaynst the south. And Hiram made pottes, shouels and basens, and fynished the worke that he was appoynted to make for kyng Salomō in the house of God. The two pillers, the couerynges or two heades on the toppes of the pillers, and the two wrethes to couer the two scalpes or heades that were on the toppes of the pillers: and foure hundred pomegranates on the two wrethes, two rowes of pomgranates on one wreth, to couer the two toppes or heades, that were on the pyllers. And he made two botomes: & lauers made he vpon the botomes: the great lauatorye, & twelue oxen vnder it. Pottes also & shouels, fleshhokes, and all these vessels dyd Hiram (his father) make to kyng Salomō, for the house of the Lorde of bryght brasse. In the playne of Iordan dyd the kynge cast them, euen in the claye grounde that is betwene Socoth & Zaredatha. And Salomō made al these vesselles in great aboundaunce, for the wayght of brasse could not be reckened. And Salomon made all the vesselles that were for the house of God: the golde aulter also, & the tables to set the shewbread vpon. Moreouer, the candlestickes, wt their lāpes (to burne after the maner before the quere) and that of precious golde: and the floures, and the lampes, and the snoffers made he of golde, and that perfecte gold, & the dressyng knyues, basens, spones, and censers of pure golde. And (he made) the dore of the temple, & the inner dores wythin the place most holy, and the inner dores of the temple were gylted. And so was al the worke that Salomō made for the house of the Lorde, fynished.

The. v. Chapter.

The arke is brought into the temple, whiche is fylled with the glorye of the lorde.

AND so al the worke that Salomō made in the house of the lord was fynished: and Salomon brought in all the thynges that Dauid hys father had dedicated, with the syluer and golde, and all the iewels, and put them amonge the treasures of the house of God.

Then Salomon gathered the elders of Israell togyther, and all the heades of the tribes, and auncient fathers of the children of Israel vnto Ierusalem, to bring the arke of the couenaūt of the Lorde out of the cytie of Dauid whiche is sion. Wherfore, all the men of Israell resorted vnto the kynge in the feast, euen in the .vii. moneth. And al the elders of Israel came, and the Leuites toke vp the arke. And the prestes and the Leuites brought awaye the arke and the tabernacle of wytnesse, and all the holy vesselles ꝑ were in the tabernacle, and they bare thē. And kyng Salomon and al the congregacion of Israel that were assembled vnto hym before the arke offred shepe & oxē so many, that they coulde not be tolde nor numbred for multitude. And the prestes brought the arke of the appomtment of the Lorde vnto his place, euen into the quere of the temple, wythin the place moost holye, & set it vnder the wynges of ꝑ Cherubs, that the Cherubs stretched out their wynges ouer the place of the arke, and the Cherubs couered both the arke and her barres aboue on hye. And the barres of ꝑ arke wer so long, ꝑ the heades of ꝑ barres were sene without the arke, wythin the quere, but not without. And there ꝑ arke remayned vnto this day. But there was nothing in ꝑ arke * saue the two tables whiche Moses put therin at Horeb, whē the Lorde made a couenaūte wt the childrē of Israell, after they were come oute of Egipte. And it fortuned, ꝑ whē the prestes were come oute of ꝑ holy place (the Sāctuary was filled wt smoke) for al the prestes ꝑ were presēt were sanctified & did not thē wayte by course, that both the Leuites and the syngers vnder Asaph, Heman, & Iedithun, were appointed to sundry offices, wt their children & brethrē, and were araied in fine whyte, hauyng symbales, psalteries and harpes, & stode at the east end of ꝑ alter, and by thē an hundred & twenty prestes blowynge with trumpettes. And the trumpetblowers and the syngers so agreed ꝑ it semed but one voice, in prayssynge and thankynge the Lord. And when they lift vp their voyce wt the trōpettes, symbales, & other instrumentes of musyke: and when they prayled the lord (and sayde:) howe ꝑ he is good and ꝑ his mercy lasteth euer: the house of God was filled with a cloude, so ꝑ the prestes could not endure to mynistre by the reason of the cloude. For the maiesty of the Lorde had fylled the house of God.

The. vi. Chapter.

The wordes of Salomon to the people, and the prayer that he made vnto God.

Then

Then Salomon sayd: * the Lord

Remembre the mercyes whiche thou haste promised to Dauid thy seruaunt.

The. vii. Chapter.

The fyre consumeth the sacrifice. The Lorde appeareth to Salomon the seconde tyme.

A ND * when Salomon had made an ende of prayinge, there came downe fyre from heauen and consumed the *burnt offrynge and the sacrifices. And the house was fylled with the glory of the lord, and the preistes could not go into the house of the Lorde, because the glory of the Lorde had fylled the Lordes house. And when all the children of Israel saw how the fyre and the glory of the lord came downe vpon the house, they fell downe flat vpon their faces to the earth, vpon the pauement, & worshipped, and confessed vnto the Lord that he is gracious, and that his mercy lasteth euer.

And the kynge and all the people offred sacrifices before the Lorde. And kyng Salomon offred a sacrifice of .xxii. thousande oxē, and an hundred & twenty thousande shepe. And so the kynge and al the people dedicated the house of God. And þ preistes wayted on their offices, and the Leuites had the instrumentes of musyke of the Lorde, whiche kyng Dauid had made to confesse vnto the Lorde, that his mercy lasteth euer, playnge a Psalme of Dauid with their hande. And the preistes blewe with trumpettes before them: and all they of Israel stode.

Moreouer, Salomon halowed the myddle of the courte that was before the Lorde, for there he offred burntoffringes, and the fat of the peace offrynges, because the brasen aulter whiche Salomō had made, was not able to receyue the burnt offrynges, and the meate offrynges, and the fat. So at the same tyme Salomon kept *a feast of seuen dayes, and all they of Israell with hym, an exceedyng great congregacion, euen fro the entryng in of Hamath, vnto the ryuer of Egypte. And in the eyght daye they made a gatherynge: For they kept the dedicacion of the aulter seuē dayes, and the feast seuen dayes. And the .xxiii. daye of the seuenth moneth, he let the people departe into their tentes glad and mery in herte, for the goodnesse that the Lorde had shewed to Dauid and to Salomō, & to Israel his people. And so Salomō finished þ house of þ lorde and the kynges house: & all that came in his hert to make in þ house of the lorde, & in his owne house, went prosperously forewarde. And the lord appered to Salomō by nyght

The. viii. Chapter.

The cities that Salomon builded after that the house of God was finyshed.

A AND * it fortuned, that after .xx.
3.reg.9.b yere, whē Salomon had buylte
the house of the Lord, and hys owne house: he built the cyties ꝑ Hyram gaue hym, & put of the children of Israel in thē. And Salomō wēt to Hamath soba, and strengthed it. And he built Thadmor in ꝑ wildernes, & repaired al ꝑ store cities which were in Hamath. And he built Bethoron the vpper, and Bethoron
the nether, strong cytyes, hauynge walles, gates and barres. And Baalah, and all the B store cytyes that Salomon had, and all the charet cities, and the Cities of the horsemen, & euery pleasaunt place that Salomon had lust to builde in Ierusalem, & Libanon, and thorowout al the lande of his dominiō. And al the people that were lefte of the Hethites, Amorytes, Pherezites, Heuites, and Iebusi-tes, whiche were not of the children of Israel, but were the children of them whiche were lefte after them in the lande, and were not cōsumed of the children of Israel, them dyd Salomon make to paye tribute vntyll this daye. But of the children of Israel dyd Salomō make no bondmen for his worke:
but they were men of warre, and rulers, and great lordes with hym, and captaynes ouer his charettes & horsemen. And kynge Salomons officers that ouer sawe, and ruled ꝑ C people, were two hundred and fyftye. And Salomon brought ꝑ doughter of Pharao oute of the cyte of Dauid, into ꝑ house that he had builded for her. For he sayd: my wife shall not dwel in the house of Dauid kynge of Israel, for it is holy: because that ꝑ Arke of the Lord is come vnto it. Then Salomō offred burnt offrynges vnto the Lorde, on the aultare of the lorde, which he had builte before the porteche, dopnge euerye thynge in his due tyme, and offeryng according to the commaundement of Moses, in the Sabbothes, newe Moones, and solēpne feastes, *thre tymes in the yeare: that is to say, in the Exo.23.
feast of swete bread, in the feast of weekes, & Deu.16.
in the feaste of Tabernacles. And Salomō set the sortes of preastes to their offices, as Dauid his father had ordered them: and the Leuites in their watches, for to prayse and minister before the priestes day by day, & the porters by course, at euery gate. * For so had 1.par.23 Dauid the man of God commaunded. And D they omytted not the commaundement of the kyng vnto the preastes and the Leuites, concernynge any maner of thyng, and concernyng the treasures. For Salomon made prouision for the charges, from the first day that the foundacion of the house of the lord was layd, till it was fynisshed, that the house of the Lorde was perfyte. Then went kyng Salomon to Esion Gaber, and to Eloth at the (red) see syde in the lande of Edom. And Hyram sente hym by the hande of his seruauntes, shyppes, and seruauntes that had knowledge of ꝑ sea: and they came with the seruauntes of Salomon to Ophir, and ta-cyed

ryed thence foure hundred and fyfty talentes of golde, & brought it to kynge Salomon.

The. ix. Chapter.

The communycacion of Salomon with the quene of Saba, & the gyftes that the one gaue the other. The death of Salomon, after whō succedeth Rehoboam.

AND * when ꝑ Quene of Saba heard of the fame of Salomō, she came to proue hym in hard questions at Ierusalem, wyth a very greate company, with camels that bare spices, & plenty of golde, & precious stones. And when she was come to Salomon, she communed with him of all ꝑ she had in her hert. And Salomon solued her al her questyons, and there was not one worde hyd from Salomon, which he tolde her not. And when the Quene of Saba had sene ꝑ wysedome of Salomon, & the house that he had built, and ꝑ meate of his table, the sittyng of his seruauntes, & the standing of his wayters, theyr apparell, his buttelers, theyr apparel, his going vp, by the which he went into the house of ꝑ lord, there was no more spyrite in her. And she said to the kyng: ꝑ saying which I heard in mine owne land, of thyne actes, and of thy wysedome, is true. I beleued not the wordes of them, vntyll I came, and mine eies had sene it. And behold, the one halfe of thy wisedome was not tolde me: for thou exceadest the fame ꝑ I heard. Happy are thy men, and happy are these thy seruauntes whych stande before the alway, and heare thy wysdome. Blessed be the lord thy God, wich had lust to the, to set the kyng on his seate, that thou myghtest be kynge, ordeyned by the Lord thy God. Because thy God loueth Israel, and hath delyte to make thē continue euer: therfore made he the kyng ouer them, to do ryghte and equitye. And she gaue the kynge an hundred and xx. talentes of golde, and of spyces exceadynge greate aboundaunce, and precious stones, neither was there any more such spyce, as ꝑ Quene, of Saba gaue kynge Salomon. And the seruauntes of Hyram, and the seruauntes of Salomon which brought golde frō Ophir brought also Algume wood and precyous stones. And the kynge made of the Algume wood steyres in the house of ꝑ Lord, and in the kynges palace, & harpes and psalteryes for syngers. And there was no such wood sene before in the land of Juda. And kyng Salomon gaue to ꝑ Quene of Saba euery pleasaunt thynge that she asked, but not so much as she brought vnto the kyng. And so she turned and wente awaye to her owne lande wyth her seruauntes. The weyght of golde ꝑ came to Salomon in one yeare, was syxe hundred. lxvi. talentes of golde, beſydes ꝑ whych chapmen & marchauntes brought: and all the kynges of Arabia and rulers of that countrye, brought golde and siluer to Salomon. And kyng Salomon made two hundred bucklers of beaten golde, and syxe hundred speres of beaten golde were spent vpon one bucler: and thre hundred shyldes made he of beaten golde, and one shylde cost thre hundred peces of golde: and the kynge put them in the house that was in the forest of Libanon. And the kynge made a greate seate of Iuory, and ouerlayde it wyth pure golde. And there were syxe steppes to ꝑ seat, wyth a fotestole of golde fastened to ꝑ seat, and pommels on eche syde of the syttynge place, & two lyons standing by ꝑ pommeles. And. xii. lyons stode on the one syde and on the other vpon the syxe steppes, so that there was no suche worke made in any kingdom. And al the drynkynge vessels of kyng Salomon were of golde, & all the vesselles of ꝑ house ꝑ was in the forest of Libanon were of precious golde: for syluer was counted nothyng worth in the dayes of Salomon. For the kynges shippes went to Tharsis wt the seruauntes of Hyram: euery thre yeare ones came ꝑ shippes to Tharsis, & brought golde, syluer, Iuory, and apes, & peacockes. * And kynge Salomon passed al the kynges of the earth, in ryches & wysdome. And al the kynges of ꝑ earth sought the presence of Salomon, to heare hys wysdom that God had put in his hert. And they brought euery man hys present, vessels of syluer, and vessels and golde, rayment, harnesse, spices, horses and mules, and what so euer myght be gotten, yere by yere. * And Salomon had foure thousād stalles for horses, & charettes, and twelue thousand horsemen, whom he bestowed in the charret cities, and some were wt the kyng at Ierusalem. And he raygned ouer al the kynges ꝑ were from Euphrates vnto the lande of the Philistynes, and to the border of Egypt. * And ꝑ kyng made siluer in Ierusalem as plenteous as stones. And Ceder trees as plenteous as the mulberye trees that growe in the valleyes. And they brought vnto Salomon horses out of Egypte, and out of all landes.

* The rest of the actes of kynge Salomon fyrst & last, are they not wrytten in the sayinges of Nathan ꝑ prophete, and in ꝑ prophecye of Ahiah the Silonite, & in ꝑ visions of Iddo ꝑ sear of visions against Ieroboā the

sonne

sonne of Nebat. And Salomon raygned in Jerusalem vpō al Jsrael fourty yeres. And Salomon slepte wyth hys fathers, and they buried him in the citye of Dauid his father: and Rehoboam his sonne raygned in hys steade.

The. x. Chapter.

The foolyshenesse of Rehoboam, and the deuysyon of hys realme.

AND *Rehoboam went to Sichem: for to Sichem were all Jsraell come together, to make hym kynge. And whē Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat (which *was fled vnto Egypte from the presence of Salomon the kynge) heard it, he retourned out of Egypte. And they sent and called hym.

And so Jeroboam and all they of Jsraell came & comuned wyth Rehoboam, sayinge: Thy father layd a greuous yoke vpon vs: nowe therefore rempt thou somwhat of the greuous seruyce of thy father, & of his heuy yocke that he put vpon vs, and we wil serue the. And he sayd to them: come agayne vnto me after thre dayes. And ꝑ people departed. And kynge Rehoboam counsayled with the elders that had stande before Salomon his father, whyle he yet lyued, and he sayd: what counsaile geue ye me, to answere this people agayne? And they tolde him, saying: Yf thou be kynde to thys people, and shewe thy selfe lowly to them, and speake louyng wordes to thē, they wyl be thy seruauntes for euer. But he left the counsayle whiche the elders gaue hym, and toke counsayle wyth the ponge mē that were growen vp wyth hym, and that stode in his presence. And he sayd vnto thē: what aduise geue ye, that we maye answere this people, whiche haue comuned with me, saying: Abate somwhat of the yocke whyche thy father dyd put vpon vs. And the ponge men that were growen vp wyth hym, spake vnto hym, saying: Thus shalt thou answere the people that spake to the, sayinge: Thy father made our yocke heuy: but make thou it somwhat lyghter for vs. Thus shalt thou say vnto thē: my lytle fynger shalbe heuyer then my fathers loynes. *For where my father put a heuy yocke vpō you, I wil put more to your yocke: my father chastysed you with whyppes, but I wyll chastice you with scorpyons. And so Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the thyrde daye, as the kyng had sayinge: come agayne to me the thyrdde daye.

And ꝑ kynge answered them cruelly: & kyng Rehoboam left the councel of the aged mē, and answered them after the aduyse of the ponge men, sayinge: My father made youre yocke greuous, and I wyll adde therto: my father chastised you wyth whyppes, but I wyll chastyce you wyth scorpions. And so ꝑ kynge herkened not vnto the people, but ꝑ occasyon came of God, that the Lord might make good hys saying, *whyche he spake by ꝑ hand of Ahia the Silonite to Jeroboā the sonne of Nebat. And when all they of Jsrael sawe that the kyng would not agre vnto them, the people answered the kynge, sayinge: what parte haue we wyth Dauid, or enherytaunce wyth the sonne of Jsai? Let euery man of Jsraell go to hys tent. *And nowe Dauid, se to thyne owne house. And so all Jsraell gat them to theyr tentes, so that Rehoboā raygned ouer no mo of the childre of Jsrael, then dwelt in the cityes of Juda. Then kynge Rehoboam also sente Hadurā that was ruler ouer the trybute, and the chyldren of Jsraell stoned him wyth stones that he dyed. But kynge Rehoboam made spede to get hym vp to hys charet, to flye to Jerusalem. And they of Jsraell rebelled agaynst the house of Dauid, vnto thys daye.

The. xi. Chapter.

Rehoboam is forbydden to fyght against Jeroboā. He hath. xviii. wyues, and lx. concubynes, and vp them. xxviii. sonnes, and lx. daughters.

AND when Rehoboam was come to Jerusalem, *he gathered of the house of Juda and Ben Jamin, nyne score M. chosen men of warre to fyghte agaynste Jsrael, and to bryng the kyngdome againe to Rehoboam. And the worde of the Lorde came to Semeiahu the mā of God, saying: speake vnto Rehoboam, the sonne of Salomon kynge of Juda, and to all them of Jsrael that are in Juda, and Ben Jamin, & saye: thus sayeth the Lorde: Ye shall not go vp nor fyght agaynst your brethren: returne euery mā to his house, for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the wordes of the Lorde, and returned from goynge agaynste Jeroboam. And Rehoboam dwelte in Jerusalem and built stronge cityes in Juda. He builded vp Bethlem, and Etham, and Theko: Bethzur, Socho, & Adullam: Gath, and Maresa: and syth Adurahim, Lachis & Azecha: Zorea, Jalon and Hebron, whych is in Juda & Ben Jamin, stronge cityes. And he repayred the stronge holdes, and put captaynes in them and store of vitayle, and wyne & ople. And in al cityes he put shildes and speares, and made them exceadynge stronge, haupnge Juda and Ben Jamin on hys syde.

And

And the preistes and the Leuites that were C in all Israell, resorted vnto him out of all theyr coastes. For the Leuites left theyr suburbes and theyr possessyon, & came to Juda and Jerusalem: *for Jeroboam and hys sonnes had cast them out from ministrynge vnto ꝓ lord. *And he ordeined him Preestes for the hye aulters, for the deuels, and for the calues whyche he had made. And after the Leuites there wente of all the trybes of Israel suche as submytted theyr hertes to seke the Lorde God of Israell, and came to Jerusalem, to offer vnto the lord God of theyr fathers. And so they strengthed ꝓ kyngdom of Juda, and made Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon myghtye thre yeare longe, for thre yeare they walked in the way of Dauid
D and Salomon: And Rehoboam toke hym Mahalath the daughter of Jerimoth the sonne of Dauid to wyfe, and Abihail the daughter of Eliab the sonne of Isai, which bare hym children, Jeus, Samaria, & Zaha. And after her he toke *Maaka ꝓ daughter of Absalom whyche bare hym Abia, Jethai, Zia, and Selomith. And Rehoboam loued Maacah the daughter of Absalō aboue all his wiues & cō cubines, for he toke eightene wiues, and thre score concubines, and begat xxviii. sōnes, and thre score daughters. And Rehoboā made Abiah ꝓ sonne of Maacah the chefe ruler amonge his brethren, and to haue the ouerlyght of the kyngdome. And he playde wysely, and scatered al his childrē thorowout all the countreyes of Juda and Ben Jamin vnto euery strong citie. And he gaue them aboundaunce of vitaple, and obtayned many wyues.

The. xii. Chapter.

Sesach kynge of Egypte robbeth the temple of the Lorde. Rehoboam dyeth, and Abia hys sonne succeadeth hym.

AND it came to passe, that when Rehoboam had stablyshed the kingdome
A and became myghty, he forsoke the lawe of the lorde, and al Israell wyth him.
*And it fortuned that in the fyft yere of kyng Rehoboam, Sesac ꝓ kynge of Egypt came vp agaynste Jerusalem, because they had transgressed agaynste the lorde, wyth. xii. C charettes, and. lx. M. horsemen. And the people were without numbre, ꝓ came with hym out of Egypt, Lubim, Suchim, and ꝓ blacke mores. And they toke the stronge cityes in Juda, and came to Jerusalem.
B Then came Semeia the prophet to Rehoboam & to ꝓ lordes of Juda, ꝓ were gathered together wythin Jerusalē for Sesac, & sayd vnto them: thus sayeth the Lorde: ye haue lefte me, and therfore haue I also left you in the handes of Sesac. Wherupon the lordes of Israel, and the kyng humbled thē selues, and sayde: the Lorde is righteous. And whē the Lorde sawe that they submytted them selues ꝓ worde of the lord came to Semeia, sayinge: They submyt them selues, therfore I wyl not destroye them. But I wil deliuer them somwhat, and my wrathe shall not burne vpon Jerusalem by the hande of Sesac. Neuertheles, they shall be his seruauntes, to knowe what differēce is betwene my seruice, and the seruice of the kingdomes of the worlde. And so Sesac king of Egypte came to Jerusalem, and toke away C the treasures of the house of the lord, and the treasures of the kinges house: he toke euē al. And he caryed awaye the shyldes of golde, *whyche Salomon made. In stede of 3. reg. 10. d whiche kynge Rehoboam made shyldes of brasse, and committed thē to the handes of the capteynes, whyche had the ouersyght of the kote men, and that kept the entraunce of the kynges house. And it came to passe that when the kynge entred into the house of the Lord, the garde came and fet thē & brought them agayne vnto the garde chamber. And when he humbled hym selfe, the wrath of the lord turned from hym, that he woulde not destroye all together. And in Juda all was wel. And so kynge Rehoboā wared mighty, D and raygned in Jerusalē. And Rehoboam was. xli. yeare olde, whē he began to raigne, and he raygned xvii. yeares in Jerusalē, the citye whyche the Lorde had chosen out of all ꝓ tribes of Israel to put his name there. And hys mothers name was Naama an Ammonitesse. *And he dyd euell because he 3. reg. 14. f prepared not his hert to seke the Lord. The actes also of Rehoboam, fyrste and last, are they not written in the sayinges of Semeia the prophet, and of Iddo ꝓ Seer, which noted the genealogy? and there was warre alwaye betwene Rehoboam and Jeroboam. And Rehoboam slepte wyth hys fathers, & was buried in the citye of Dauid, and Abia hys sonne raygned in hys stede.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The victory of Abia agaynst Jeroboam.

THE. xviii. yeare of kynge Jeroboam I *began Abia to raygne ouer Juda, 3. R. 15. a and he rayned thre yeare in Jerusalē. His mothers name also was Michaiahu ꝓ daughter of Vrpell of Gibea. And there was warre betwene Abia and Jeroboam.
And Abia made prouision for the warre, warre, hauing valeaunte and expert men of warre, euen. iiii. C. M. chosen men. And Jeroboam set hym selfe in aray to fyghte agaynste hym wyth. viii. C. M pyete men, whyche were stronge and men of armes.

And Abia stode vp vpon zemaraim an hill, whiche is in mount Ephraim & sayde: heare me thou Jeroboā & all Jsracll. Do not you knowe howe that the Lorde God of Jsrael gaue the kyngdome ouer them of Jsrael to Dauid for euer, euen to hym and to hys sonnes wyth a salted couenaunte? And Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat the seruaunt of Salomon the sonne of Dauid, is risen vp and hath rebelled agaynst his lord. And B there gathered to hym leude men the childrē of Belial, and preuailed againste Reboboā the sonne of Salomon, when Reboboam was yong and tender herted, and could not stande before them. And nowe ye saye, that ye be able to preuayle agaynste the kyngdome of the Lorde, whyche is in the hande of the sonnes of Dauid, and ye be a greate multitude, & haue the golden calues * which Jeroboā made you for goddes. ‡ And haue ye not caste out the preistes of the Lorde the sonnes of Aaron, and the Leuites, and haue made you preistes after the maner of the nacyons of other landes: so that whosoeuer commeth and consecrateth hys hand wyth a yonge ore and .vii. rammes, the same may be a Priest of them that are no goddes.

But we belong vnto the lord our God whō we haue not forsaken and the preistes are ꝑ sonnes of Aaron whyche ministre vnto the C Lorde and the Leuites wayte vpon theyr office. They burne vnto the Lorde euery morynge and euenynge, burnt sacrifyces & swete incense, the shewe breade set they in order vpon a pure table: and prepare the candelstycke of golde wyth the lampes of ꝑ same to burne euer at euen. And truely, we kepe the watche of the Lorde our God: but ye haue forsaken hym. And behold, God hym selfe is our captayne & his preistes blowe wᵗ * Nu. 10. the * trompettes & crie alarum against you. O ye children of Jsrael fight not against the Lord God of your fathers, for it wyl not prosper wyth you. But for all that, Jeroboā conueyed mē priuely about, to come behind them: and so they were before Juda, and the lyers in wayte were behynde them. And whē they of Juda loked aboute, beholde, the battayle was before and behynde, and they cryed vnto the lord and the preistes blewe wᵗ the trompettes, and the men of Juda gaue a shoute. And as the men of Juda shouted, it came to passe, that God smote Jeroboam and al Jsrael before Abia & Juda. And the chyldren of Jsrael fled before Juda & God D deliuered them into theyr hande. And Abia & hys people slue a greate slaughter of them: there fel downe wouñded of Jsrael .v. C. M. chosen men. And so the chyldren of Jsrael were brought vnder at that tyme: and the chyldren of Juda preuayled, because they leaned vnto the Lord God of theyr fathers. And Abia folowed after Jeroboam, & toke cytyes from hym: Bethel, wyth the townes belonging therto: Jesana, wyth the townes that longed therto: and Ephron wyth her townes. And Jeroboā recouered no strēgth agayn in the dayes of Abia. And the Lorde plaged hym, and he dyed. But Abia waxed myghte, and maryed .xiii. wyues, and begat xxii. sonnes and .xvi. daughters. The rest of ꝑ actes of Abia, his customes & his sayinges are wrytten in the story of ꝑ prophet Jddo.

The. xiiii. Chapter.

Of Asa kynge of Juda.

SO Abia slepte wᵗ his fathers, & they E buried hym in the cytie of Dauid, & * Asa his sonne reigned in his steade: In whose dayes the land was in quyetnesse ten yeare. And * Asa did that was good and 1. Kin. 15 ryghte in the eyes of the Lorde hys God: for he toke awaye straunge aulters and the hyaulters, and brake downe the ymages, and cut downe the groues, and cōmaunded Juda to seke the Lorde God of theyr fathers, and to do accordynge to the lawe and commaundemente. And he put awaye out of all the cytyes of Juda, the hyaulters and the ymages: and the kyngdome was quyete before hym. And he buylte stronge Cytyes in Juda: because the lande was in rest, and he had no warre in those yeres. For the Lorde had geuen hym reste. Therfore he sayd to Juda: let vs buyld these B Cytyes & make aboute them walles, townes, gates, and barres, for the lande is yet in rest before vs, because we haue sought the lorde our God: we haue sought hym, and he hath geuen vs rest on euery syde: & so they builte, and it prospered wyth thē. And Asa had an army of men that bare shyldes and speares: out of Juda, thre hundred thousande: & out of Ben Jamin ꝑ bare shyldes & drue bowes, two hundred & foure score thousand, al these were valiaūt mē. And ther came out against C them Zarah ꝑ blacke Mozian * wᵗ an hoste of 2. Par. 20. ten hundred thousand, & thre hundred chariottes, & came as farre as Maresa. And Asa went out before him & they ioined ꝑ battayll in ꝑ valley of Sephata beside Maresa. And Asa cried vnto the lord his God, & sayd: lord

it

*It is no harde thyng with the to helpe either many, or them that haue no power: helpe vs therfore, O lord our god, for we trust to the, & in thy name we go agaynst this multitude. Thou art the Lorde oure god, and no man shal preuaile against the. So the lord smote ꝑ blacke mores before Asa and Juda, & the blacke mores fled. And Asa & the people that was with him folowed after them vnto Gerer. And the blacke mores hoost was ouerthrowen, ꝑ there was none of them lefte, but were destroyed before the lord and before his hoost. And they caryed awaye a mightye greate pray. And they smote all the cities round about Gerer. For ꝑ feare of ꝑ lord came vpon thē. And they spoiled al ꝑ cities, & ther was exceding much spoile in thē: thei smote also ꝑ tentes of cattel, & caried away plēty of shepe & camels, & returned to Jerusalē.

The.xv. Chapter.

Kyng Asa by the monicion of the prophete Azaria, seketh to the Lord. He deposeth his mother of her dominion.

AND ꝑ spyrite of god came vpō Azaria, the sonne of Obed. And he wente out to mete Asa, and said vnto him: heare me Asa, & al Juda, & Ben Jamin. The lord is with you, while ye be with him, & when ye seke hym, he wil be found of you: and agayne, when ye forsake hym, he also wyll forsake you. And truly for a long season in Israel no man sought the true god, no mā regarded the priest that taught them, no man cared for ꝑ law. And whē any man in his trouble dyd turne vnto the lord god of Israel, and sought him, he was founde of them. And in that tyme there was no peace to hym, that dyd go out and in: but greate sedicyon was there among al the enhabyters of the earth. And nacion was destroyed of nacion, and citie of citie: for god did moue al adurrsitie among them. Playe ye therefore the men, and let not your handes B slacke, for your woorke shall be rewarded. And whē Asa heard these wordes, and the prophecye of Azarya, the sonne of Obed ꝑ prophete, he tooke courage, and put away the abhominable ydols out of al the lande of Juda and Ben Jamin, and out of the cityes which he wanne in mount Ephraim: and renued the Alter of the lord, that was before the porche of the Lorde. And he gathered all Juda and Ben Jamin, and the straungers wyth them oute of Ephraim, Manasse and Symeon. For there fel many to hym out of Israell, when they sawe that the lorde his god was with him. So they assembled at Jerusalem the thyrde moneth, the fiftenth yere of the reigne of Asa. And they offered vnto the Lord ꝑ same time of the spoile which they had brought, vii. hundred oxen, and vii. thousand shepe. And they made a couenaunt to seke ꝑ lorde God of theyr fathers, with all theyr heart, C and al theyr soule. And whosoeuer would not seke the lord god of Israel, should dye for it: whether he were small or great, mā or woman. And they sware vnto the lorde with a loude voyce, shouting and blowing with trompets & chawmes. And al they in Juda reioyced at the othe, for they hadde sworne vnto the lord with al theyr hert, & sought hym with al theyr lust, and he was found of them. And the lorde gaue thē reste rouūd about on euery side. And kyng Asa put Maacha his mother out of auctoryte, be D cause she had made an abhominable ydole (of Priapus) i a groue: & Asa brake down her idole, & stamped it, and burnt it at ꝑ broke Cedron. But all the hilsters were not taken away out of Israell: though the hearte of Asa was perfecte al his dayes. And he brought into the house of God ꝑ thinges ꝑ his father had dedicate, & that he himselfe hadde dedicate: euen siluer, and golde, and Jewelles. And there was no more warre vnto the. *xxxv. yere of the reygne of Asa. Judi, 3. d.

The.xvi. Chapter.

Asa for feare of Baasa king of Israel, maketh a couenaunt with Benhadad kynge of Syria.

IN the .xxxvi. yere of ꝑ reygne of I Asa, came *Baasa king of Israel vp against Juda, & built Rama, to thentent ꝑ he wouldē lette none passe out or in (safely) to Asa kyng of Juda. And Asa fet out gold and siluer, out of the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and of the kinges house, and sent to Benhadad kyng of Siria ꝑ dwelt at Damascen, and sayd. Ther is a confederacion betwene me and the, betwene my father and thine. Beholde, I haue sent the siluer and golde, ꝑ thou wilt come and breake thine appoyntmente with Baasa king of Israel, that he B may depart frō me. And Benhadad graūted vnto kyng Asa, and sent the captaynes of hys armye to the cytyes of Israell. And they smote Ion, Dan, and Abelmain, and the strong cityes of Nephthaly. And whē Baasa heard thys, he lefte buyldynge of Rama, and lette hys woorke cease. And then Asa the kyng tooke all Juda, and caried away the stones and timber of Rama wherewith Baasa was a buylding, and he buylte therewyth Geba and Mizpa.

C At that same tyme Hanani the sear came to Asa kyng of Juda, and sayd vnto him: because thou haste trusted in the kynge of Syria, and not rather put thy truste in the Lord thy god, therefore is the hoost of the kyng of Syria escaped out of thyne hand.

The .xvii. Chapter.

Iehosaphat causeth the feare of the Lorde to be reuiued among the people.

A Mat.1.b. AND* Iehosaphat his sone reigned in his steade, and preuayled againste Israell. And he putte souldyers in al the strong cities of Juda, & set rulers in the land of Juda, & in ye cities of Ephraim, whiche Asa his father had won. And the lord was with Iehosaphat, because he walked in the olde waies of his father Dauid, & soughte not Baalim. But sought ỳ lord god of his father, & walked in his cõmaundementes: & not after the doinges of Israel. And ỳ lord stablished ỳ kingdom in his hand, & al they ỳ were in Juda, brought him presentes, so ỳ he had aboundaunce of riches & honor. And he lyft vp hys hearte vnto the wayes of the lord, & he put down yet more of ỳ hil alters and groues out of Juda.

In the thyrde yeare of hys reygne, he sente to hys lordes, euen to Benhail, Obadia, Zacharia, Nethanel, and to Michaahu, that they should teache in the cityes of Juda, and with them he sente Leuites: euen Semeiahu, Nethaniahu, Zabadiahu, Asahel, Semiramoth, Jehonathã, Adoniahu, Tobiahu, and Tubadonia, and with them Elysamath and Jehoram Priestes. And they taught in Juda, and had the booke of the lawe of God with them, and went aboute throughout all the cytyes of Juda, and taught the people. And the feare of the Lorde fell vpon all the kyngdomes of the C landes that were round about Juda, and they fought not againste Iehosaphat: and some of the Philistines brought Iehosaphat giftes and tribute syluer. And thereto the Arabians brought hym cattel: euen vii.M. and .vii.C. rams, and .vii.M. & .vii. C. he gotes. And so Iehosophat prospered and grewe vp on hye. And he buylt in Juda, castels and strong cityes. and he hadde great substaunce in the cities of Juda, but the men of armes and strongest souldyers were in Jerusalem. And these are the offices of them in the houses of their fathers, the captaynes ouer thousandes in Juda. D Adna the captayne, and with him of fightyng men .iii.C.M. And nexte to his bande was Iehohanan a captaine, and with him ii.C. and .lxxx.M. And next hym was Amazia the sonne of zichry, whiche of hys owne good will offred hymselfe vnto the Lorde, and wyth hym .ii.C.M. myghtye men of warre. And of the chyldren of Benjamin, Eliada a man of myghte, and had with hym armed men wyth bowe & shilde ii.C.M. And next hym was Iehosabad, & with hym an .C.lxxx.M. that were prepared for the war. These waited on the king, besides those whiche the kynge putte in the strong cityes throughout all Juda.

The .xviii. Chapter.

After Ahab had asked counsell of the foure hundred prophetes, he put Michea in prison. He dieth wyth the shotte of an arrowe.

answered

answered him: I will bee as thou, and my people shalbee as thyne, and wee wyll goe with thee to the warr. And Iehosaphat said vnto ꝑ king of Israel: aske counsel I praye the at the worde of the lord this same day. Therefore the king of Israel gathered together of prophetes. iiii. C. men, and sayde vnto them: shall we goe to Ramoth in Gilead to fyght, or shoulde I ceasse? And they said: go vp, and god shal deliuer it into the kynges hande. But Iehosaphat sayde: is there yet here neuer a prophete more of the lordes that we myghte aske of hym? And the kinge of Israel saide vnto Iehosaphat: there is yet one man, by whome wee maye aske the lorde. But I hate hym, for he neuer prophecieth me good, but alway euill, and the same is Michea the sõne of Iimla. And Iehosaphat sayd: lette not the kynge saye so. And the king of Israel called one of his chãberlains, & said: fetche hither quickly Michea the sonne of Iimla. And ꝑ king of Israel, and Iehosaphat king of Iuda, sat eyther of them on hys seate in theyr apparel, in a threshyng floure beside the gate of Samaria, and all the Prophetes Prophecied before them. And one Zedekia the sonne of Canana had made him hornes of yron, and sayde: thus sayeth the lord, with these shalt thou ouerthrowe Syria, vntyll they be brought to nought. And all the prophetes prophecied euen so, saying: Goe vp to Ramoth in Gilead, and it shall prosper with the: for the lorde shall deliuer it into ꝑ hande of the kinge. And the messenger that went to cal Michea, spake to hym, saying: behold, ꝑ wordes of the prophetes speake good to the king with one assente, lette thy wordes therfore be like one of theyrs, that thou speake that which is pleasaunte. And Michea sayd: as truly as the lorde lyueth, euẽ what my God saith, that wil I speake. And when he was come to the king, ꝑ king said vnto him: Michea, shoulde wee goe to Ramoth i Gilead to fight, or leaue of? And he saide: goe vp, and all shall be well: & they shalbee deliuered into your hande. And the king saide to hym: So and so many times doe I charge thee, that thou saye nothyng but the truth to me, in the name of the lord. Then he saide: I did see all them of Israell scattered in the mountaines, as shepe ꝑ haue no shepheard. And ꝑ lord saied: these haue no maister, let them returne euery mã therfore to his house in peace. And the kinge of Israell saied to Iehosaphat: did I not tell the, ꝑ he would not prophesye good vnto me, but euil? But he saied again: therefore heare ye the worde of the lord: * I saw ꝑ lord sit vpon his seate, and all the company of heauen stode on his righte hand, and on his left. And the lord said: who shal deceiue Ahab, king of Israel: that he maye goe vp and be ouerthrowẽ at Ramoth in Gilead? And he said: one saieth this, another ꝑ. And there came out a spirit and stode before the lord, and said: I will deceiue him. And the lord said vnto him: Wherein? And he said: I wil goe out, and be a lying spyrite in the mouth of all his prophetes. And the lorde said, thou shalt deceyue hym: and shalt preuayle, go out and do euẽ so: And now therfore beholde, * the lord hath putte a lying spyrite in the mouthes of all these thy prophetes, & the lord hath spoken euil againste the. And Zedekia the sonne of Canana went to, and smote Michea vpon the cheke, and sayd: by what waye went the spyrite of the Lorde from me, to speake with thee? And Michea sayd: thou shalt see the daye when thou shalt go in from chamber to chamber for to hyde thy selfe. And the king of Israel said: take ye Michea, & bring him to Amõ the gouernoure of the cytie, and to Ioas ꝑ kinges sonne, and ye shal saye, thus sayeth ꝑ king: put this felow in the prison house, and fede him with breade of affliction and water of trouble, vntyl I come againe in peace. And Michea sayde: yf thou come again in peace, then hath not ꝑ lord spokẽ to me. And he saide: herken to ye people euerye one of you. And so the kinge of Israel and Iehosaphat ꝑ king of Iuda, wẽt vp to Ramoth in Gilead. And the kynge of Israell said vnto Iehosaphat: I must chaũge me, whẽ I go to ꝑ battaile: but se ꝑ thou haue thine own apparel vpõ the. And the king of Israell chaunged hymselfe, & they came to battaile. But the kinge of Syria had commaũded ꝑ captaines of the charrets ꝑ were ẅ him, saying: see ꝑ ye fighte not agaynste smal or great, saue against the king of Israel onelye. And when the captaines of the charets saw Iehosaphat, they said: it is ꝑ king of Israell, & therefore they cõpassed about him to fight. But Iehosaphat cryed out, and the lord helped him, and god chased them awaye from hym. For it came to passe ꝑ whẽ the captaynes of the charettes perceiued ꝑ it was not the king of Israell, they turned backe again frõ him. And a certain mã drew a bow ẅ al his myghte, and smote the king of Israel betwene ꝑ ioyntes of his habergin. And he said to his charet-

man: turne thine hand, that thou mayeste cary me out of the hoste, for I am wounded. And the battaile ceassed ỳ daye. Howebeit the king of Israel caused his charet to stād stil against ỳ Siriās vntil euē. And about the time of the sunne going down, he died.

The. xix. Chapter.

After Iehosaphat was rebuked by ỳ prophet Iehu, he called again ỳ people to the honouring of ỳ lord.

AND Iehosaphat the kynge of Juda came home again in peace to Jerusalem. And Jehu the sonne of Hanani ỳ sear wēt out to mete him and sayd to king Iehosaphat: Wouldest thou helpe the vngodly, and loue them ỳ hate the lord? therfore is wrath come down vpon the, frō before the lord. Neuertheles, there are some good actes founde in the, in that thou hast hewen down the groues out of the land, & hast prepated thine heart to seke god. And so Iehosaphat dwelte at Jerusalem: and turned, and wente oute to the people from Berseba to mount Ephraim, and brought them again vnto the lorde God of theyr fathers. And he set iudges in the land throughout all the strong cities of Juda, cytie by cytie, and said to the iudges: take hede what ye doo, for ye execute not the iudgementes of man, but of God: which is with you in the iudgemente. Wherfore now let the feare of the lord be vpon you, & take hede, and be doynge the thynge that pleaseth hym: for there is no vnrighteousnesse with the lord our god: * ỳ he shoulde haue any respect of persones, or take rewardes.

Moreouer in Jerusalem did Iehosaphat set of the Leuites, and of the Priestes, and of the aunciente fathers ouer Israell, in the iudgement and cause of the lorde. And they returned again to Jerusalem. And he charged thē, saying: Thus shal ye doe in ỳ feare of the lord, with the truth and a pure hert: what cause so euer come to you of youre brethren that dwel in theyr cities, betwene bloude and bloude, betwene law and commaundement, betwene statutes and ordinaunces, ye shal warne them that they trespasse not against the lord, & so wrath come vpon you and on your brethren. Thus do, and ye shal not offende. And behold, Amaria the hye priest is among you in all matters of the lord, and Zebadia the sone of Ismael, a ruler of the house of Juda, he is ouer suche businesses as concerne the kinge: there bee officers of ỳ Leuites also before you. Take courage to you therefore, & bee doing manfully: and the lord shalbe with suche as bee good.

The. xx. Chapter.

The marueilous victory that the Lord gaue Iehosaphat king of Juda against the Moabites, and the children of Ammon, and them of Seir.

AFter this also, it fortuned that ỳ chyldren of Moab and the childrē of Ammon, and with them other of ỳ Ammonites came against Iehosophat to battaile. And there came some that told Iehosaphat saying: there commeth a great multitude against the from the other side of the sea, and out of Siria. And behold, they bee in Hasason Thamar, whiche is Engadi. And Iehosaphat feared, and set hymself to seke the lord, and proclaimed fastyng throughout all Juda. And they that were in Juda gathered thēselues together to aske counsel of the lord. And they came out of al the cities of Juda to make intercession to ỳ lorde. And Iehosaphat stoode betwene the congregation of Juda and Jerusalem, in the house of the lorde before the new court, and said: O lorde god of oure fathers, arte not thou god in heauen, and raygnest not thou on al the kyngdomes of the heathen? And in thine hande is power and might, and there is no man that is hable to withstand the. Art not thou oure God, whyche didest cast out the inhabiters of this lande before thy people Israell, and gauest it to the sede of Abraham thy louer for euer? And they dwelt therein, & haue buylte the a temple therein for thy name, saying: * yf euyl come vpō vs, as the sworde of iudgement, pestilence, or hunger, then yf we stād before this house in thy presence, for thy name is in this house, and crye vnto the in oure tribulation, heare thou and helpe. And now beholde, the chyldren of Ammon and Moab, & mount Seir, by whō ỳ wouldest not let thē of Israel go, whē thei came out of ỳ land of Egipt, but thei departed from thē, & destroied thē not: See how they reward vs, to come for to cast vs out of thy possessiō, which ỳ hast geuē vs to enherit. O our god, wilt ỳ not iudge them? for we haue no might agaīst this great cōpany ỳ cōmeth against vs. Neither wote we what to do, but our eyes be vnto the. And al Juda stode before ỳ lord with their yonge ones, their wiues, & their childrē, & ther was Iehaziel ỳ son of Zacharia, ỳ son of Banaia, ỳ son of Jeiel, the sonne of Mathania a Leuite, of the sonnes of Asaph, and vpon him came the spirit of the lorde, euen in the middes of the congregacion. And he sayd: hearken which is with you: feare not, nor let your hartes fayle you, O ye of Juda, and of Jerusalem. To morow goe out agaynst them, for the lorde wil be with you. And Iehosaphat bowed his face to ỹ earth:

and al Juda, & the inhabitours of Jerusalem fel before the lorde, worshipping the lord. And the Leuites of the childrē of the Cahathites, and of the children of the Corathites, stoode vp to prayse the lorde God of Israel, with a loude voyce on hye. And when they arose early in the morning, they gat thē out vnto the wil-dernes of Thekoa. And as they wēt out, E Iehosaphat stode, and said: heare me, O
Juda, and ye inhabiters of Jerusalem.
Put your trust in the lord your god, that ye may be found faithful. Geue credence to his prophetes, and so shal ye prosper.
And he gaue the people counsell, and set some to sing vnto the lord, and to prayse him in the beauty of holynes, and to goe out before the army, as they wēt, and to say: prayse ỹ lorde, for his mercy lasteth euer. And what tyme as they began to laude & praise, then ỹ lord stered vp certayn of the children of Ammon & Moab, which laid wayte for them that were of mount Seir: which were come against Juda. And they were ouerthrowen with stroches among themselues. For the children of Ammon and Moab, rose against the inhabiters of mount Seir. And they slewe & destroyed them. And when they hadde made an ende of the inhabiters of Seir, euery one helped to destroye an other among themselues. And whē Juda F came to the edge of the wildernesse, they looked vnto the multitude. And beholde, they wer dead carcases fallen to ỹ earth,
and none escaped. And whē Iehosaphat and hys people came to take awaye the spoyle of them, they founde among them aboundaunce of goodes, raymente and pleasaunt Jewels, whiche they toke for themselues, more then they coulde cary awaye: so that they were three dayes in gathering of the spoyle, it was so much.
And ỹ fourth daye they assembled in the valley of blessyng, for there they blessed the Lorde. And therefore they called the name of ỹ same place: the valley of blessing, vnto this day. And so al the men of Juda and Jerusalem returned with Ie-hosaphat their heade, for to goe agayne to Jerusalem with gladnes, for the lord had made them to reioyce ouer their enemies. And they came to Jerusalem with psalteries, and harpes, and shawmes, euen vnto the house of the Lord. And the feare of God fel in the kyngdomes of all landes, when they had heard that the Lord fought agaynst the enemies of Israel. And so the realme of Iehosaphat was in tranquilitye: and hys God gaue G from, doing that whiche was ryghte in the syght of the Lorde. Howbeit the hilaulters were not taken awaye, for the people had not yet prepared their hertes vnto the God of theyr fathers. The rest of the actes of Iehosaphat first and last:

beholde, they are written among the say-inges of Iehu, ỹ sonne of Hanany, which noted them in the booke of the kinges of Israel. After this dyd Iehosaphat kyng of Juda, ioyne hymselfe with Ahaziahu king of Israell, whose myude was to do wickedly. He coupled himselfe with him to make shippes to goe to Tharsis. And they made the shyppes in Ezion Gaber.
And Eliezer the sonne of Dodanah of Marresa, prophecied against Iehosaphat saying: because thou hast ioined thy selfe with Ahaziahu, the Lorde hath broken thy workes. And the shippes were broken, that they were not able to goe to Tharsis.

Thus saith þ lord god of Dauid thy father: because thou hast not walked in þ wayes of Jehosaphat thy father, & in the wayes of Asa kyng of Juda, but walkedste in the wayes of the kinges of Israel, and hast made Juda & the dwellers of Jerusalē to goe a whoring, lyke to þ whoredome of þ house of Ahab, & hast slayne thy bre-thren, euen thy fathers house, which wer better then thou: beholde, with a greate plage wil the lorde smyte thy folke, thy chyldrē, thy wiues and thy goodes. Re. 12. a ans, had slaine al hys eldest sonnes. And so Ahaziahu þ sonne of Jehoram king of Juda, was made king. Two and four-ty yere olde was he when he began to reigne, & he reigned one yere in Jerusalē. Hys mothers name was Athaliahu the daughter of Imri. And he walked also in the wayes of þ house of Ahab: for his mother (by her cōsel) entised him to doe wickedly. Wherfore he dyd that whiche was euil in þ sight of þ lord, as dyd they B that were of the house of Ahab: for they were hys counsellers after the deathe of his father, to hys destruccyon. And he walked after their counsel, & went with Jehoram the sonne of Ahab king of Is-rael, to fight agaynst Hazael king of Si-ria at Ramoth in Gilead: and the Sir-ians smote Joram. And he returned to be healed in Jezrel, of the woundes which were geuē him at Rama, whē he fought with Hazael kyng of Siria. And Ahazi- C ahu the sonne of Jehoram king of Juda, went down to se Jehoram the sōne of Ahab at Jezrel, because he was dyseased. And it came of God, þ Ahaziahu shoulde be despised for his cūming to Jehoram: for when he was come, he wēt out with

Jehoram

Jehoiam agaynste Jehu the sonne of Nymsi, *whome the Lorde hadde annoynted to destroye the house of Ahab.
And so it came to passe that when Jehu was executynge iustyce vpon the house of Ahab, and hadde founde the Lordes of Juda and the sonnes of the brethren of Ahaziahu that wayted on Ahaziahu, he slue them. *And he sought Ahaziahu, and they caughte hym where he was hid in Samaria, and broughte hym to Jehu. And when they hadde slayne hym, they buryed hym, because (sayde they)
he is the sonne of Jehosaphat, whiche soughte the Lorde with all hys hearte.
And the house of Ahaziahu, hadde no power to kepe styll the kyngdome.

*But when Athaliahu the mother of Ahaziahu saw that her sonne was dead, she arose and destroyed all the kynges seede in the kynred of the house of Juda.
And Jehosabeth the daughter of the kyng tooke Joas the sonne of Ahaziahu, and stale hym from among the kynges sonnes that were slayne, and putte hym and hys nurse in a priuye chaumbre.
And so Jehosabeth the daughter of king Jehoram ꝑ wyfe of Jehoiada the priest, and the syster of Ahaziahu, hydde hym frō Athaliahu, that he was not slayne.
And so he was with them hydde in the house of God sixe yere. And Athaliahu reygned ouer the lande.

The. xxiii. Chapter.

Joas the sonne of Ahaziahu, is made kyng. A-thaliahu is put to deathe.

AND* in the seuenth yere, Jehoiada being bolde, tooke the captaynes of hundreddes, A-zariahu the sonne of Jehoram, and Ismaell the sonne of Jehohanam, Azariahu the sonne of Obed, Maasiahu the sonne of Adaiahu, and Eliza-phat the sōne of zichri, and made a bond with them. And they wente aboute in Juda, and gathered the Leuites out of all the cityes of Juda, and the auncyent fathers of Israell: and they came to Jerusalem. And all the congregacion made a bonde with the kynge in the house of God. And he sayde vnto them: beholde, the kynges sonne muste reygne, * as the lord hath sayd of the children of Dauid.
Thys is it therefore that ye shal doe:
The thyrde parte of you shall (on the Sabboth) come to ꝑ priestes, Leuites, and keepers of the porches. And another thyrde parte shall bee by the kynges house, and an other thyrde parte shall be at the gate of the foundacion, and all the people shall bee in the *courtes of the house of the Lorde. But there shall none come into the house of the Lorde, saue
the Priestes, and they that ministre vnto the Leuites. They shall goe in, for they are holye: but all the people shall kepe the watche of the Lorde. And the Leuites shall compasse the kyng rounde aboute, and euerye manne shall haue his weapon in hys hande: and what other manne soeuer doeth come into the house of the Lorde, he shall be slayne: and lette them be with the kyng, when he cūmeth
in, and when he goeth out.

And the Leuites and all Juda dyd accordyng to all thynges that Jehoiada the Priest hadde commaunded, and tooke euerye manne hys menne that came in on the Sabboth, with them that went out on the Sabboth daye, neyther dyd Jehoiada the Priestе lette the companyes departe. And Jehoiada the Priestе deli-uered to the captaynes of hundreddes, speares, shyldes, and bucklers, that had pertayned to kyng Dauid, and were in the house of God. And he sette all the people, euerye manne hauyng hys weapon in hys hande, from the ryghte syde of the temple, to the left syde of the temple, alonge by the aulter and the temple, rounde aboute the kyng. And they broughte oute the kinges sonne, and put vpon hym the crowne, and *the testymo-nye, (and they gaue hym in hys hande the lawe, that was to be kept) and made hym kyng. And Jehoiada and hys sonnes annoynted hym, and sayde: God saue the kyng.

When Athaliahu hearde the noyse of the people runnyng and prayssyng the kynge, she came to the people into the house of the Lorde. And she looked, and beeholde, the kyng stoode in hys place at the entryng in, and the Lordes and the trompettes were by the kyng, and all the people of the lande reioyced, blowinge with trompettes, and dydde playe with instrumentes of musyke, & taughte to syng and prayse. But Athaliahu rent her clothes, and sayde: treason, treason.
And Jehoiada the Priestе wente out to the captaynes of hundreddes that were gouerners of the hoaste, and sayde vnto them: haue her oute without the dooze of the temple: and whoso followeth her, lette hym bee slayne with the swoorde. For the Priestе sayde, that they shoulde not slaye her in the house of the Lorde. And they layde handes on her, tyll she was come to the entrynge of the horsegate, beesyde the kinges house, and there they slue her.

4.Re.11.d *And Jehoiada made a bonde betweene hym and all the people, and the kyng, that they shoulde bee the Lordes people. And all the people wente to the house of Baall, and destroyed it, and brake hys auiters and his ymages, and slue Mathan the Priestе of Baall, beefore the auiters. And Jehoiada putte the offyces for the house of the Lorde vnder the handе of the Priestes and Le-

And he tooke the captaynes of hundreddes, and all the nobles, and the gouernours of the people, and all the folke of the lande, and caused the kynge to come downe out of the house of the lord, and they came thorow the hye gate into the kinges house, and sette the kynge vpon the seate of the kyngdome. And all the people of the lande reioysed, and the cite was in trāquillitye, after that they had slayne Athaliahu with the swoorde.

The.xxiii. Chapter.

Joas duryng the lyfe of Jehoiada, keepeth the lawe: but after his death he regardeth it not. He killeth Zacharias the Prophete. Joas is killed of his owne seruaunts, after the reygneth Amasiahu JOas was seuen yere olde, when he begaune to reygne, 4.Re.11.d *and he reygned fourtye yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name also was Zibia of Beer Seba. And Joas dydde that whiche was ryghte in the syghte of the Lorde, all the dayes of Jehoiada the Priest. And Jehoiada toke hym two wyues, and he begat sonnes and daughters. And it chaunced after thys, that Joas was mynded to renue the house of the Lorde, and he gathered together the Priestes and the Leuites, and sayde to them: goe oute vnto the cites of Juda, and gather of all Israell money to repayre the house of your god, from yeare to yeare, and see that ye haste the thynge: howbeit, the Leuites were slacke. And the kyng called Jehoiada, that was the chiefeste, and sayde vnto hym: Why requirest thou not of the Leuites to bryng in out of Juda and Jerusalem, *the collectyon of money, accordynge to Exo.

the commaundemente of Moses the seruaunte of the Lord, and the congregacion of Israell shoulde offre it for the tabernacle of witnesse. For wicked Athaliahu and her chyldren brake vp the house of God, and all the thynges that were dedicate for the house of the Lorde, dyd they bestowe for Bealim. And at the 4.Re.

money, that Moses the seruaunt of god sette vpon Israel in the wildernesse. And the Lordes and all the people reioysed, and broughte in, and cast into the cheste, vntyll it was full. And it fortuned, that at the same time they brought in the cheste (vnto them whiche were in the kynges busines) by the hand of the Leuites. And when they sawe that there was muche money, the kynges scrybe (and one appoynted by the hye Priest) came and emptyed the cheste, and tooke it, and caried it to his place agayne: thus they dyd day by day, and gathered much money. And the king and Jehoiada gaue it to suche as dydde the laboure and woorke in the house of the Lorde, and hyred masonnes and carpenters to repayre the house of the lord, and so dyd they artificers in yron and brasse, to amende the house of the Lord. And so the woorkemen wrought, and the woorke mended thorowe theyr handes: and they made the house of God as it ought to be, and strengthed it. And whē they had fynyshed it, they broughte the reste of the money beefore the kynge and Jehoiada, and therewith were made vessels for the house of the Lorde: euen vessels to mynyster withall, and to serue for burnte offeryuges, chargers, and spoones, vessels of golde and syluer. And they offered burnte offeryuges in the house of the Lorde continually, all the dayes of Jehoiada: But Jehoiada waxed olde, & dyed ful of dayes. For an. C. & thyrtye yere olde was he when he died. And they buried him in the citie of Dauid among the kynges, because he delt wel with Israel, and with God, and with hys house. And after the deathe of Jehoiada, came the Lordes of Juda, and made obeysaunce to the kyng. And the kyng hearkened vnto them. And so they left the house of the Lorde God of theyr fathers, and serued groues & ydolles. And then came the wrath of God vpon Juda and Jerusalem, for this theyr trespasses sake. And he sent prophetes to them, to bryng thē again vnto the lorde. And they testifyed vnto them: But they wouldenot heare. And the spirite of god came vpon zacharia the sonne of Jehoiada the Priest, which stoode by the people, and sayde vnto them: Thus sayth God: why transgresse ye the commaundementes of the lord, that ye cannot prosper? For because ye haue forsaken the Lorde, he also hath forsakē you. * And they cōspired against hym, and stoned hym with stones at the commaundement of the kyng: euen in the court of the house of the lord. And so Joas the kyng remembred not the kyndnes which Jehoiada hys father had doone to hym, but slue hys sonne. And when he dyed, he saide: the lord looke vpon it, and require it. And when the yere was oute, it fortuned that the hoste of Syria came vp against him, and they came against Juda and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the Lordes of the people from among the people, and sente all the spoyle of them vnto the king to Damasco: for the Syrians came with a small company of menne, and the Lorde delyuered a verye greate hooste into theyr hande, because they hadde forsaken the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And moreouer, they serued Joas according to his deedes. And when they were departed from him, they lefte hym in greate dyseases, and * hys owne seruauntes conspired against him, for the bloude of the children of Jehoiada the Priest, and slue him on hys bed, and he dyed, and they buried hym in the citie of Dauid: but not in the sepulchres of the kynges. And these are they that conspired against him: zebad the sonne of Shimeath an Ammonite, and Jehosabad the sonne of Shimrith a Moabite. And his sōnes, and the summe of the taxe that was raysed in hys tyme, and the repayring of the house of God: beeholde, they are written in the storye of the boke of the kinges. And Amaziahu hys sonne reygned in hys steade.

Jehoiada

The. xxv. Chapter.

Amaziahu ouercommeth the Edomites. And Joas king of Israel ouercommeth Amaziahu.

AMaziahu was .xxv. yere olde, when he beegan to reygne, and he reygned .xxix. yere in * Jerusalē. hys mothers name was Jehodadan of Jerusalem. And he dyd that which is right in ꝑ sight of the lord: but not with a perfecte hearte. And assoone as he was setled in the kyngdome, he slue hys seruauntes, that hadde kylled the kyng hys father. But he slue not their children, because it is written thus in the law and booke of Moses, where the lord commaunded, saying: * the fathers shall not dye for the chyldren, neyther shal the children dye for the fathers, but euerye manne shal dye for hys owne synne. And Amaziahu gathered Juda together, and made them captaynes ouer thousandes, and ouer hundreddes, according to the houses of theyr fathers, throughout all Juda and Beniamin. And he numbred them from twenty yere olde, and aboue, and founde among them, three hundred thousande chosen menne, able to goe to battayle, and that couldе handle speare and shielde. He hyered also an hundred thousande strong fyghtyng menne oute of Israel, for an hundred talentes of syluer. And there came a manne of God to hym, and sayde: O kyng lette not the armye of Israell come with thee: for the Lorde is not with Israell, neyther with all the house of Ephraim. But if thou wilt nedes be faithles, come on, and take the battayle in hande, and god shal make thee fall before the enemy. For god hath power to helpe, and to caste downe. And Amaziahu said to the man of God: what shal we do then, for the hundred talentes which I haue geuen for the hoost of Israel? The manne of God answered: the lorde is able to geue the much more then they bee. And Amaziahu seuered them ꝑ armye that was come to hym out of Ephraim, to go home againe. Wherfore they were exceding wroth vp Juda, & returned home in great anger. And Amaziahu tooke heart & caried out his people, & went to the salt valley, & * smote of the children chaũced, after that Amaziahu was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, he brought the goddes of the children of Seir, and sette them vp to be his gods, and bowed hymselfe beefore them: and burned incense vnto them. Wherfore the Lorde was wroth with Amaziahu, and sent vnto him a prophete, whiche sayde vnto him: why hast thou sought ỳ gods of the people, which wer not able to de-liuer their owne people out of thy hand?

E And it chaunced ỳ as the prophete talked with hym, the kyng sayd vnto hym: haue synnes and trespasse. For our trespasse is great alreadye, & there is a feerce wrath agaynst Israell. And vpon that, themen of armes left the captiues and the spoyle before the Lordes and all the congrega-cion. And themenne that were nowe rehearsed by name, rose vp and tooke the prisoners, and with the spoyle clothed al that were naked among them, and arayed them, and shooed them, and gaue them to eate and to drinke, and annoynt-ed them, and caried all that were feeble of them vpon asses, and broughte them to Jericho (the citye of Palmetrees) to theyr brethren: and then they returned to Samaria agayne. *At that same tyme 4.xx.44 dyd kyng Ahaz sende vnto the kynges of Assur, to haue helpe of them. And the Edomites came agayne, and slue some of Juda, and caryed awaye captiues. And the Philistines inuaded the cityes in the lowe countrey, and toward the South of Juda, and tooke Bethsames, and Ia-lon, and Gederoth, and Socho, with the townes longing therto, and Thimna with the townes of the same: Gimso, & the townes therof, and dwelt there. For the Lorde brought Juda lowe, because of Ahaz king of Juda, whiche made Juda naked, and transgressed sore agaynste the lorde. And Thilgath Pilneser king of the Assiryans came vpon hym, and troubled him rather then strengthed him.

Ahaz tooke awaye a portion out of the house of the Lord, and out of the kinges house and oute of the Lordes houses, & gaue vnto the kyng of the Assirians, and yet it helped hym not. And in the verye D tyme of hys tribulacion did kyng Ahaz trespasse yet more agaynste the Lorde.
For he offered vnto the Goddes of them of Damasco, whiche bette hym, and he sayde: because the goddes of the kynges of Syria helpe them, therfore will I offer to them, that they may helpe me also.
But they were hys destruccyon, and the destruccyon of all Israell. And Ahaz gathered together the vessels of the house of God, and brake them, and *shut vp the 29.3.4 doores of the house of the Lorde, and made hym *aulters in euerye corner of 4.Ki.23.d Jerusalem. And in all the cityes of Juda

da he made hilalters, to burne incence vnto other goddes, and angred the lorde God of hys fathers. The reste of his actes, and his worckes fyrst and last: behold, they are written in the boke of the kinges of Juda, and Israell. And Ahaz slepte wyth hys fathers, and they buryed hym in the cytye of Jerusalē: but brought him not vnto the sepulchres of the kynges of Israel. And Hezekia his sonne reygned in hys steade.

The. xxix. Chapter.

Hezekia otherwyse called Ezechias (or Jehizkiahu) restoreth vnto the Temple of the Lorde, al the thynges ỹ had not beene regarded of his predecessours.

1 HEzekia beganne to reygne, when he
4.reg.18.a was fiue and twenty yeare old, and reygned nyne and twentye yeare in Jerusalem. And hys mothers name was Abia the daughter of zachariahu. And he dydde that whyche was ryght in the sight of the Lorde, in al poyntes, as dyd Dauid his father. * He opened ỹ dores of ỹ house
4.par.28.d of the Lorde (in the fyrste yeare and fyrste moneth of hys reygne) and repaired them. And he brought in the Priestes and the Leuites, and gathered them together into the East strete: and sayde vnto them.

Heare me ye Leuites, and nowe be sanctifyed and halow the house of the Lord god of your fathers, dryng fylthynesse out of ỹ holye place. For oure fathers haue trespassed, and done euyl in the eyes of the Lorde
B our God, and haue forsaken hym: and turned away theyr faces from the habitacion of the Lorde, and turned theyr backes on it. And besyde that, they haue shut vp the dores of the porche, and quenched the lampes, and haue nether burnt incence, nor offered burnte offerynges in the holye place vnto the God of Israell.

Wherefore the wrathe of the Lorde fell on Juda, and Jerusalē: and he hath brought them to trouble, to be wondred on, and to be hyssed at, euen as ye see with oure eyes. For lo, our fathers were ouerthrowen wt the swerde, and our sonnes, oure daughters, & our wyues were caryed awaye captiue for ỹ same cause. And nowe it is in my hearte, to make a couenaunt with the lord god of Israell: that he maye turne awaye his heuy indignacion from vs. Now therfore my sonnes, be not negligente: for the Nu.18.a. * Lord hath chosen you to stand before him, and for to mynyster and serue hym, and to
C burne incense. Then ỹ Leuites arose: Mahath the sonne of Amasai, and Joell the sonne of Asariahu of the childrē of the Cahathytes. And of the sonnes of Merari, Kis the sonne of Abdy, and Asariahu the sone of Jehaleiel. And of ỹ sonnes of ỹ Gersonites, Joah the sonne of Simma, and Eden the sonne of Joah. And of the sonnes of Elisaphan, Symri and Jehiell. And of the sonnes of Asaph, zechariahu and Mathaniahu. And of the sonnes of Hemā. Jehiel, and Simei. And of the sonnes of Jedurthun, Semaia and Uziel. And they gathered theyr brethren, and puryfyed themselues, and came accordyng to the cōmaundemente of the kynge, and the wordes of the lorde, for to clense the house of the lord.

And the Priestes wente into the inner partes of the house of the Lorde, to clense it: and broughte oute all the vnclennesse that they founde in the temple of the lorde, into the courte of the house of the Lorde. And the Leuites tooke it, to carye it out into the broke Cedron.

D They beganne the fyrste daye of the fyrste moneth to puryfye, and the eyghte daye of the moneth came they to the porch of the Lorde: and pourged the house of the Lorde in eyghte dayes, and in the sixtene daye of the fyrste moneth they made an ende. And they went in to Hezekia the kynge and sayed: we haue clensed all the house of the Lorde, the alter of burnte offerynge, wyth all hys vesselles, and the shewbreade table, wyth all hys apparell: and all the vessels whiche kynge Ahaz dydde caste asyde when he reigned and transgressed, them we haue prepared and sanctifyed: and behold, they are before the alter of the Lorde. And Hezekia the kyng rose earlye, and gathered the lordes of the citie, & went vp to ỹ house of the Lord. And they brought seuen oxen, E seuen rammes, seuen shepe, and seuen he goates, to be a synneofferyng for the kingdome, for the Sanctuarye, and for Juda. And he commaunded the Priestes, the sonnes of Aaron, to offer them on the alter of the lorde.

And they slewe the oxen, and the Priestes receyued the blonde, and sprinkled it vpon the alter: lyke wyse, when they had slayne ỹ rammes, they sprynkeled the blonde vpon the altar: they slew also the shepe, and they sprinkled the blond vpon the alter. And thē they broughte forth the he goates for the synneofferyng, before the kyng and the congregacio, and put theyr handes vpon thē. And the priestes slew thē, & with ỹ blonde of them they clensed the alter to make satysfaccyon for all Israell: for the kynge commaunded commaunded that the burnt offering and ꝑ ſinoffering ſhould be made for al Iſrael.

And ſet the Leuites in the houſe of the lord
1. par. 25. a with ſimbals, pſalteries, and harpes: * according to the commaundemēt of Dauid, & of Gad the kinges ſear, and Nathan the prophete. For ſo was the commaundemēt of the lord, through the hande of hys prophetes. And the Leuites ſtode hauyng the inſtrumentes of Dauid, and the Prieſtes helde the trompets. And Hezekia cōmaunded to offer the burnt offeryng vpon ꝑ alter. And when the burntoffering began, ꝑ ſong of the lord began alſo, & the trompets with ꝑ inſtrumentes that wer ordened by the hand of Dauid king of Iſrael. And all the congregacion worſhypped, ſyngynge a ſong, and blowing with the trompets, and al this continued, vntil the burntofferynge was finiſhed. And whē they had made an ende of offeryng, the kyng and all that wer preſent with hym bowed themſelues, and worſhipped. And Hezekia the king, and the Lordes ſpake to the Leuites to prayſe the Lorde with the wordes of Dauid, and of Aſaph the ſear. And ꝑ Leuites ſang prayſes with gladnes and the other bowed thē ſelues, and worſhipped. And Hezekia anſwered, and ſayde: now ye haue conſecrate your handes to the lorde: goe to therfore, and bringe in the ſacrifices and thanke offeringes into the houſe of the lorde. And the congregaciō brought in the ſacrifices, and thanke offeringes, and burntofferinges, as many as were of a free liberal hert. And the number of the burntofferinges whiche the congregacion brought, was lxx. oxen, an hundred rames, and two hundred ſhepe: which wer al for the burnt offeryng of the Lorde. And there were dedicated fyue hundred oxen, & thre thouſand ſhepe. And the Prieſtes wer to few to fleye all the burnt offeringes: but theyr brethren the Leuites dyd helpe them, tyll they hadde ended the worke: and vntil the prieſtes wer ſanctyfyed. For the Leuites were purer hearted to be ſanctified, then the prieſtes. And thereto the burntofferynges were many, with the fatte of the peace offeringes, and the drinke offeringes that belonge to the burntofferinge. And ſo the ſeruyce pertayninge to the houſe of the lorde, was finiſhed. And Hezekia reioyſed and all the people, that God had made the folke ſo readye: and that the thing was ſo ſoone done.

The. xxx. Chapter.

Hezekia ſendeth the tenth of ꝑ offeringes.

AND Hezekia ſēt to al Iſrael and Iuda, and wrote letters to Ephraim & Manaſſe, that they ſhould come to the houſe of the Lorde at Ieruſalem, and offer Paſſeouer vnto the Lorde god of Iſrael. And the king held a counſel with his lordes and al the congregacion of Ieruſalem * to kepe the feaſte of Paſſeouer in the ſeconde monethe. For they could not kepe it at that tyme: becauſe the prieſtes were not ſanctyfyed ſufficyently, neyther was the people gathered together to Ieruſalem. And the thing pleaſed the kyng, and all the congregacion. And they decreed that it ſhoulde be proclaymed throughoute all Iſrael from Berſabe to Dan, that they ſhoulde come, and holde the feaſte of Paſſeouer vnto the Lorde God of Iſrael, at Ieruſalem: for they hadde not done it of a great ſeaſon as they ſhoulde haue done by the lawe. So ꝑ poſtes wente with letters of the hande of the kyng, and of his lordes throughout al Iſrael and Iuda: and at the commaundement of the king, they ſaid: ye childrē of Iſrael turne again vnto ꝑ lord god of Abraham, Iſaac and Iſrael, and let euerye one returne to ꝑ remnaūt that are eſcaped you oute of the hande of the kinges of Aſſur. And be not ye like your fathers, and youre brethren, which treſpaſſed againſt the lord god of theyr fathers: which gaue them vp to be deſtroyed as ye ſee. And now be not ye ſtifnecked like as wer your fathers: but yelde your ſelues vnto the lord, and enter in to his holy place, whiche he hath ſanctifyed for euer: and ſerue the lorde your God, and the feareneſſe of his wrathe ſhall turne away from you. For if ye turne again vnto the lord, then ſhall your brethren and your childrē finde compaſſion in preſence of thē that tooke them captyue, and they ſhall come agayne vnto this lande, * for ꝑ lorde Exo. 34. Ieel. 2. youre god is gracyous and mercifull, and will not turne awaye his face from you if ye conuerte vnto hym. And ſo the poſtes went from cytye to cytye in the lande of Ephraim and Manaſſe, euen vnto Zabulon. But they laughed them to ſcorne, & mocked them. Neuertheleſſe, yet diuerſe of Aſer, Manaſſe, and of Zabulon ſubmytted themſelues, and came to Ieruſalem. And the hande of God was in Iuda, ſo that he gaue them one hearte to do the commaundement of the king and of the rulers, according to the worde of the Lorde. And there aſſembled to Ieruſalem muche people, and there was preſent a mighty great congregacion gacion, to holde the feast of swete breade

C in the seconde moneth. And they arose, and 2.pa.29.d remoued the * alters that were in Jerusalem. And all the vessels of incence dyd they away, & caste them into the broke Cedron. And they slew Passeouer ꝑ fourtenth day of the second moneth. And the priestes and Leuites whiche were ashamed, sanctifyed themselues, and brought in the burnt offerynges into the house of the Lorde. And they stode in theyr office after theyr maner, and accordynge to the lawe of Moses the man of god. And the priestes sprinkled the blood, which they receiued by ꝑ hãdes of ꝑ Leuites. For there were many in ꝑ congregacõ ꝑ were not sanctifyed: & the Leuites did slay Passeouer for al ꝑ were not cleane, and ꝑ might not execute the holy worke of ꝑ lord. For many of ꝑ people, & very many out of Ephraim, Manasse, Isakar & Zabulõ were not clensed, & yet did eat Passeouer
D against ꝑ law appointed. Wherfore Hezekia prayed for thẽ, & said: the good lord be merciful vnto thẽ: For he set his whole hert to seke the lord god, cuẽ the god of hys fathers: but all ꝑ other did not so accordyng to vnfained holines. And ꝑ lord heard Hezekia, & healed the people. And the children of Israel ꝑ were present at Jerusalem, held the feast of swete breade seuen dayes with great gladnes, & the Leuites, & the priestes praysed, & magnified ꝑ power of the lord, daye by daye, vpon instrumentes. And Hezekia spake hertely vnto all ꝑ Leuites that had vnderstandyng, & wer of a good mind toward the lord. And they did eat throughoute ꝑ feaste, seuen daies longe, and offred peace offerynges, and thanked the Lorde god of theyr fathers. And ꝑ whole assẽbly toke counsaile, to do so other seuen dayes, & they held those seuen dayes with gladnes. For Hezekia kyng of Juda toke out (from among his catell) for the congregacion, a thousand ponge oxen and seuen thousande shepe. And the lordes gaue oute to the congregacion a thousande ponge oxen, and ten thousande shepe. And a great noumbre of the Priestes were sanctyfyed. And all the congregacion of Juda with the priestes & Leuites, and all the congregacion ꝑ came out of Israel, & the straungers ꝑ came out of the land of Israel, and that dwelt in Juda reioyced: and there was great gladnesse in Jerusalem. For sence the tyme of Salomon the sonne of Dauid kynge of Israell, there was no suche ioye in Jerusalem. And the priestes and the Leuites arose, & blessed the people, and theyr voyce was heard of the Lord, and theyr prayer came vp vnto heauen: his holy dwellyng place.

¶ The. xxxi. Chapter.

After that Hezekia had called agayne the people vnto the waye of the lorde, he ordeined the priestes, vnto whome he commaunded to geue tithes.

AND when all these thynges were fynyshed, all they of Israell that A were present in the cyties of Juda, went out and brake the ymages, * and cut downe ꝑ ydolles groues, 2.pa.14.d.
and all to brake the hye places, and * alters 2.pa.33.c
throughout all Juda, and Benjamin, in Ephraim also & Manasse, vntyll they had vtterly destroyed thẽ al. And al the chyldrẽ of Israell returned euerye manne to hys possessions, and to theyr owne cyties. And Hezekia appoynted sondrye coumpanyes of the Priestes and Leuytes after the dyuersytye of theyr mynystrations, euerye man accordyng to his office, both priestes and Leuites, for the burnte offerynge and peace offerynges, to minister, and to geue thankes, and prayse in the gates of ꝑ host of the Lorde. And the kynges portyon of hys substaunce that he gaue, were dayly burnte offerynges in the mornynge and euening, and burnt offeringes for the Sabboth dayes, newe Moones, and solemne feastes, accordyng * as it is written in the Nu.28.b law of the lord. And he bad the people that dwelt in Jerusalem, geue the parte to the Priestes, and Leuites, that they myghte substancially apply themselues to ꝑ lawe B of the lorde. And assone as the kynges cõmaundemente came abroade, the chyldren of Israell brought in aboundaunce of fyrst fruites of corne, wyne, oyle, hony, and of al maner of fruites of the fyeld, and the tithes of all maner of thynges, brought they in plentyously. And the chyldren of Israell & Juda that dwelt in ꝑ cities of Juda, they also brought in the tithes of oxen & shepe, and other holy tithes which were consecrate vnto the lord theyr God, they dydde offer, and brought them all by heapes. In the thyrde moneth they beganne to laye the heapes (in maner of a foundacion) and fynished thẽ in the seuenth moneth. And when Hezekia and the lordes came, and sawe the heapes, they blessed the lorde and hys people Israell. And Hezekia questioned wt the Priestes and the Leuites, concernyng the heapes. And Jzaria the chyfe Priestes of the house of Sadocke, answered hym and sayd: synce the people began to bryng the heueheu offerynges vnto the house of the Lord, we also haue had ynough to eate, there remayned so muche: for the lorde hath blessed hys people, and thys heape is left. And Hezekia had prepare the chambers in ꝑ house of the lorde. And they dyd prepare them, & caried in the fyrste fruites, the tithes, and ꝑ dedicate thinges faythfully. Ouer whyche Conaniahu ꝑ Leuite had ꝑ rule, and Semei hys brother nexte to hym. And Jehiell, Asaziahu, Nahath, Asael, Jerimoth, Josabad, Eliel, Jesmachiahu, Mahath and Banaiahu, wer ouerseers ordeined by Conaniahu, and Semei hys brother was an officer of Hezekia the kyng, & Azaria was the ruler of the house of God, (vnto whome al these thinges belonged.) And Chore the sonne of Jmna the Leuite, and ꝑ porter of ꝑ Easte dore, had the ouersyghte of the thynges ꝑ were offered of a free wyll vnto God (and wer gene̅ in maner seuerally vnto the lord) and ouer the thinges most holy. And vnder hys hande were Eden, Miniamin, Jesua, Semeiahu, Amariahu, and Sechaniahu in the cityes of the priestes appoynted of theyr fidelitye to geue to their brethren theyr portions: aswel to the small as to ꝑ great. Except that to the males that wer reckened from three yere and aboue (amõg al that went into the house of the Lorde) they shoulde geue daye by daye, for theyr mynystracion, and for theyr geuyng attẽdaunce, and for theyr diuerse wayteynges by course. And to the priestes and Leuites throughout the household of theyr fathers from twentye yeare and aboue, to wayte whẽ theyr courses came. And to the fampyles of al theyr babes, wiues, sonnes and daughters throughout al the congregacion. For vpon the fidelitye of them were the holy thynges bestowed. And to the chyldren of Aaron, the Priestes whyche were in the fieldes and suburbes of theyr cytyes, cytye by cytye, the men (whose names were expressed afore) should geue portions, euen to all the males amonge the priestes, and to all the Leuites, accordyng to theyr nõbre. And of this maner dydde Hezekia throughout al Juda, and wrought it that is good, and ryght, and true, before ꝑ lord hys God. And in all the woorkes that he beganne for the seruice of the house of god, for the law and for the commaundemẽtes, he soughte his god, and that dyd he wyth all hys heartt, and prospered.

The. xxxii. Chapter.

Sennacherib (or Sanherib) besieging Jerusalem, is stricken of the aungel. Hezekia dyeth, after whome succeedeth Manasse.

AFter that these dedes wer faithfully done: * Sennacherib kyng of Assur came, and entred into Juda, and compassed ꝑ stronge Cities, and thought to win them for hym selfe. And so when Hezekia sawe that Sẽnacherib was come, and that he was purposed to fyght against Jerusalem, he toke counsayle wyth hys Lordes and menne of might, to stop the water of the fountaines without the cytye: and they dyd helpe him. For there gathered many of the people together, and stopt al the welles, & the broke that ran through the myddes of the lande, saying: why shal the kinges of Assur come, and fynd much water? And Hezekia went to lustely, and buylt vp al the wall where it was broken, and made ordinaunce vpon the towres and to the other wal without, and repayred Millo in the cytie of Dauid, and made manye dartes and shyldes. And he set captaynes of warre ouer the people, and gathered them together to hym in the large strete of the gate of the cyty, & spake gentlye to them, sayinge: Plucke vp youre heartes, and be strong: Be not afrayd nor discouraged for the kyng of Assur, and for all the multitude that he hath with him: * For there be moe with vs then with hym. With hym is an * arme of fleshe. But with vs is the lorde our God for to helpe vs, & to fight oure battailes. And the people toke a courage thorow the wordes of Hezekia king of Juda. * After this did Sennacheryb kyng of Assur send of hys seruauntes to Jerusalem (but he hymselfe remayned besyde Lachis: hauing al hys power with hym) vnto Hezekia kyng of Juda, and vnto all Juda that were at Jerusalem, sayinge: Thus sayeth Sennacheryb kynge of Assur: * wherein doo ye truste, O ye that dwell in Jerusalem whyche is besieged? Dothe not Hezekia entyce you to geue ouer your selfes vnto death, hunger & thyrste saying: the Lorde oure God shal rydde vs out of the hand of the kyng of Assur. Hath not the same Hezekia putte downe hys hye places and hys alters, and commaunded Juda and Jerusalem, sayinge: Ye shall woorshippe before one alter, and burne incence vpon the same? Knowe ye not what I and my fathers haue done vnto the people of all landes? Were the Goddes of the people of other landes able or myghtye to saue saue theyr landes out of my hande which of al ꝑ goddes of those nacions (ꝑ my fathers destroyed) coulde delyuer his people out of mine hande? And shal your God be hable to deliuer you out of mine hande? Wherfore nowe, let not Hezekia deceyue you, nor per-swade you of this fashiō, nor yet beleue him.

For as no god amonge all nacions & king-D domes was able to rid his people out of my hand, & out of the hand of my fathers: How much lesse shal your goddes be able to kepe you out of my hande? And yet mo thynges dyd his seruauntes speake agaynst the lord God, & agaynst hys seruaunt Hezekia. And (Sennacherib) also wrote a lettre to raile on the lorde God of Israell, & spake against him saying: as the gods of the nacions of other landes haue not bene able to delyuer theyr people out of my hande: Euen so shall not the God of Hezekia deliuer his people out of myne hande. And they cryed with a loude voyce in the Iewes speache vnto the people of Ierusalem that were on the walle to feare them, & to make them fayntе herted, & that they myght so take the citie. And they spake agaynste the God of Ierusalem, as agaynste the goddes of the nacions of the erth, whych were the workes of ꝑ handes of men. But Hezekia the kyng, and ꝑ prophet E Isai the sōne of Amoz, prayed agaynste that blasphemye, and cryed vp to heauen. And ꝑ lord sente an aungel whych destroyed al the men of warre, & the lordes and captaynes of the hoost of the kyng of Assur, that he turned hys face agayne with shame towarde hys owne lande. * And when he was come into 4.Reg.19.g the house of hys God, they that came of hys owne body slue hym there with the swerde.
And so the Lorde saued Hezekia and the inhabiters of Ierusalem, out of the hande of Sennacherib kynge of Assur, and from the hande of al other, and mayntayned them on euery side. And many brought offringes vnto the Lorde to Ierusalem, and presentes to Hezekia kynge of Juda: so that he was F magnifyed in the syght of al nacions from 4.Reg.20.a thence forth. * In those dayes Hezekia was Esay.38.a sycke vnto the death, and prayed vnto the lord, whych answered hym, and shewed hym a wonderfull miracle. But Hezekia dyd not agayne vnto God according to it ꝑ he had shewed hym, for his herte arose & there came wrath vpon hym, and vpon Juda and Jerusalem. Notwythstandynge Hezekia sub-mytted hym selfe (after that his hert was ry-sen vp) he, and the inhabiters of Ierusalem:
and the wrath of the Lorde came not vpon them in the dayes of Hezekia. And Hezekia had exceadyng much ryches and honoure.
And he gat him treasures of syluer and golde, precious stones and spyces, shildes, & of all maner pleasaunt iewels: and made store houses for the fruites of corne, for wine and oyle: & stalles for all maner of beastes, & foldes for shepe. And he made him cities & G had of shepe and oxen great aboundaunce.
For God had giuē him substaunce exceding much. This same Hezekia stopped ꝑ vpper water sprynges of Gihon, and brought thē downe to the west side of the citie of Dauid.
And Hezekia prospered in all hys workes.
And when the princes of Babilon sent vnto hym embassadours, to enquire of ꝑ wondre that chaunced in the lande, God lefte hym
*to trye hym, and that all that was in hys Deut.8.b herte myght be knowen. The reste of the dedes of Hezekia, and hys goodnes: behold, they are wrytten in the vysyon of Isay the prophet the sonne of Amoz, in the boke of ꝑ kynges of Juda and Israell. And Hezekia slepte with his fathers, and they buried him in the moost worthy place of the sepulchres of the sonnes of Dauid: and al Juda and ꝑ inhabiters of Ierusalem did him worshippe at hys death. And Manasse his sonne rayg-ned in hys stede.

The. xxxiii. Chapter.

Manasse is taken prysoner, and after that he commeth out, he destroyeth the goods. He dyeth, & after hym succeedeth Amon, whych is kylled of his owne people, & Josias his sonne raygneth in his stede.

Manasse was .xii. yere olde * whē I he begame to raygne, and he 4.Reg.21.a raigned fyue and fyfty yere in Ierusalem: but did euel in the syght of the Lorde, lyke vnto the abhominacions of the Heathen, whom ꝑ Lorde cast out before the chyldrē of Israel.
For he went to, & builte the hilaulter * which 4.reg.18.
Hezekia hys father had broken downe. And he reared vp aulters for Baalim, and made groues, & worshypped al the host of heaue and serued them. And he buylt aulters in the house of the Lord, where as the lord yet had sayde: * in Ierusalem shall my name be for 2.Reg.21.b euer. And he builded aulters for al the hoost 1.par.6.a of heauen, in the two courtes of the house of and.7.c the lorde. And he burnt his children in fyre in the valley of the son of Hinnom. He was a sorcerer, he regarded the cryynge of byrdes, vsed inchauntmentes, and mayntayned workers with spyrites & feares of fortunes:
and wrought much euill in the syght of the Lorde, to angre hym wythall.
And he put ꝑ kerued ymage, & anydol which B

he had made, in the house of God. Of whych house God had sayd to Dauid, and to Salomon hys sonne: in this house and in Ierusalem whyche I haue chosen afore all the tribes of Israell, wyll I put my name for euer, and wyll nomore bringe the feate of Israel fro the lande, which I haue ordened for your fathers: Yf so be that they wyll be diligent, & do all that I haue commaunded the in al the lawe and statutes, & ordinaunces by ỹ hande of Moses. And so Manasse made Juda and the inhabiters of Ierusalē to erre, & to do worse then the Heathen who the lorde destroyed before the chyldren of Israell. And the Lorde spake to Manasse & to hys people, but they wouldē not regarde. Wherfore the lord brought vpon them the captaynes of the hoost of the kynge of the Assyrians, whyche toke Manasse in holde, & bound him with chaynes, and caryed him to Babylon. And when he was in tribulacion, he besought the Lord hys God, & humbled him selfe exceedyngly before the God of hys fathers, and made intercession to him: and God was entreated of him, and hearde his prayer, & broughte hym agayne to Ierusalē into his kingdome. And then Manasse knewe that the Lorde was God. After thys he buylt a wal without the cite of Dauid, on the west side of Gion in the valey as they come to the fyshe gate, and rounde aboute Ophel, and brought it vp of a very greate heigth, and put captaines of warre in al the strong cytyes of Juda. And he toke awaye straunge goddes and ymages oute of the house of God, and all the aulters that he had buylt in the mounte of ỹ house of God, and in Ierusalem, & cast thē out of the cite. And he prepared the alter of the Lorde, and sacrifyced theron peace offrynges, & thanke offerynges, and charged Juda to serue the Lorde God of Israell. Neuertheles, the people dyd offre styll in the hylaulters, how be it vnto the Lorde theyr God onely. The rest of the actes of Manasse, and his prayer vnto hys God, and the wordes of the sears, and of them that spake to hym in the name of the Lord God of Israel, beholde, they are wrytten in the sayinges of the kynges of Israel. And his prayer, and how that he was hearde, and all hys synnes and his trespasse, and the places where he made hylaulters, and set vp groues and ymages (before he was mekened) beholde, they are wrytten among the sayinges of the sears. And Manasse slepte with his fathers, and they buried him in his owne house. And Amon his son raigned in his roume. Amon was two and twenty yere olde when he began to raigne, & raigned two yeare in Ierusalem. But he did euel in the sight of the lord, like as did Manasse his father: for Amon sacrifyced to al ỹ kerued ymages, whych Manasse his father had made, and serued them, and submytted not hym selfe before the lorde, as Manasse his father hadde mekened hym selfe. But Amon trespalled greatly. And his owne seruauntes conspyred agaynst hym, and slewe hym in his owne house. But the people of ỹ lande slue all them ỹ had conspyred against kyng Amon. And the same people of the lād made Josia his sonne king in hys roume.

The. xxxiiii. Chapter.

Josia destroyeth the pollucion: and restoreth ỹ temple in whyche is founde the booke of the lawe. He sendeth to Hulda the prophetesse for counsayle.

JOsia was eyght yeare olde when he began to raigne, & he raigned in Ierusalem. xxxi. yeare. And he dyd that whiche was right in the syghte of the lord, & walked in the wayes of Dauid hys father, and bowed neither to the right hand nor to ỹ left. In the eight yeare of hys raigne (whē he was yet a child) he began to seke after the God of Dauid hys father. And in the twelueth yere he began to pourge Juda, & Ierusalē from hylaulters, groues, kerued images, & images of metal: & they brake downe the aulters of Baalim, euen in hys presence: and other ymages, ỹ were in greater honoure then they, he caused to be destroyed. And the groues, kerued images, and images of metal he brake, and made duste of thē, and strawed it vpon the graues of them that had offered vnto thē. And he burnt the bones of the preistes vpō the aulters of them, and clensed Juda and Ierusalem. And euen so dyd he in the cities of Manasse, Ephraim, Symeon, vnto Nephthali. And in the wildernesses of them, round aboute, he plucked a sondre ỹ aulters and the groues, and did beate them and stampe them to poulder, and beate downe al the ymages thorowoute al ỹ land of Israel: and returned to Ierusalem agayne. In the xviii. yere of his raigne, whē he had pourged the lande and the temple, he sent Saphan the sonne of Amaziahu, and Maasiah the gouernoure of the cytye, and Joah the sōne of Joahaz the recorder, to repayre the house of the lord his God. And when they came to Helkiah the hye preist, they delyuered thē the money money that was broughte into the house of God, whych the Leuites that kept ꝑ entries, had gathered of the hande of Manasse, and Ephraim, & of all ꝑ yet remained in Israell, and of al Juda and Ben Jamin, and of the inhabytours of Jerusalem. And they put it in the handes of the worckemen that had the ouerseyght of the house of the lorde: and they gaue it to the labourers that wrought in ꝑ house of the Lord, to repayre and amende ꝑ house. Euē to masons and carpenters gaue they it, to get stone and tymbre for couples and for beames of the houses, whyche the kynges of Juda had destroyed: And the mē did the worcke faithfully. And ꝑ ouer seers of them to courage them forwarde, were Jahath & Obadiahu Leuites, of the childrē of Merari: and Zecharia, and Mesullam, of the chyldren of the Cahathytes, and other of the Leuytes: whyche all coulde skyll of instrumentes of musike. And ouer ꝑ bearers of burthens, & ouer al that wrought, in what soeuer worckmanshyp it were, were there scribes, officers, and porters of the Leuites.

And whē they brought out the money ꝑ was brought into the house of the Lorde, Helkia the preest * founde the booke of the lawe of the lord giuē by Moses. And Helkia answered and sayd to Saphan the scrybe: I haue founde the booke of the lawe in the house of the lord, & Helkia gaue the boke to Saphā. 4. Reg. 22. b.

And Saphan carryed the boke to the kynge, & brought the kyng worde agayne, saying: all that was commyttes to thy seruauntes, ꝑ do they. And they haue gathered togyther ꝑ money that was founde in the house of the lord, and haue deliuered it into the handes of the ouerseers of the worcke, and to ꝑ handes of the worckemen. And then Saphan the scrybe shewed the kynge, saying: Helkia the preeste hath gyuē me a booke, and Saphan read in it before the kyng. And it fortuned, that when the kynge had hearde the wordes of the lawe, he tare hys clothes: and ꝑ kynge commaunded Helkia and Ahikam the sōne of Saphan, & Abdon the sonne of Micah, and Saphan the scrybe, & Asaia a seruaūt of the kynges, saying: go and enquyre of the Lorde for me, and for them that are lefte in Israel and Juda, concerning the wordes of the boke that is found. For great is ꝑ wrath of the lorde that is fallen vpon vs, because our fathers haue not kepte the worde of the lord, to do after al ꝑ is wrytten in this boke.

And Helkia and they that the king had appoynted, went to Hulda a prophetesse, ꝑ wife of Sallum, the sonne of Tokhath, the sōne of Hasra kepte of ꝑ wardrope (for she dwelt in Jerusalem within the second wall) and so they communed wᵗ her. She answered thē: thus saieth the Lord God of Israel: tel ye ꝑ man that sent you to me. Euen thus sayeth the lorde: beholde, I wyll brynge euyl vpon this place, and vpon the inhabiters therof (euen al the curses that are writtē in ꝑ boke which they haue read before ꝑ king of Juda) because they haue forsakē me, & haue offered vnto other goddes, to angre me wᵗ al maner worckes of theyr hādes: therfore is my wrath set on fyre agaynste thys place, and shall not be quenched. And as for the kyng of Juda whyche sente you to enquyre of the Lorde, so shall ye saye vnto hym: thus sayeth the lorde God of Israell, concernynge the wordes whyche thou haste hearde.

Because thyne hert dyd melt, and thou didst meke thy self before God when thou herdest his wordes againste this place & against ꝑ inhabiters therof: and humbledst thy selfe before me, and tarest thy clothes, & wepteste before me, that haue I heard also saieth the lord. Beholde I wil take the to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put in thy graue in peace, and thyne eyes shall not se al the mysche fe ꝑ I will bryng vpon this place, and vpon the enhabyters of the same. And they brought ꝑ king word agayne. * Thā the kyng sent and gathered togyther al ꝑ elders of Juda and Jerusalem. And the kyng went vp into the house of the Lorde, and al the men of Juda, and the inhabyters of Jerusalem, and the preestes & Leuites, and all the people great and small: and the kynge did reade in theyr eares al the wordes of the boke of the couenaunt ꝑ was founde in ꝑ house of the lorde. And the kyng stode at his standyng, & made a couenaunte before the lorde, to folowe the Lorde, and to kepe his commaundementes, his wytnesses, and his statutes, wyth all hys herte, and wyth all hys soule: and to fulfyl ꝑ wordes of the appoyntement wrytten in the saide booke. And he set in theyr roume al thē ꝑ were founde in Jerusalem, & Ben Jamin, & the enhabyters of Jerusalē did according to the couenaunte of the lorde God of theyr fathers. And Josia put awaye all maner of abhompnacions out of all landes that pertayned to the chyldren of Israel, & brought in all that were found in Israel, to worshyp and to serue the lorde theyr God. 4. Reg. 23. a

And they turned not aside from after the Lorde God of theyr fathers, as longe as he lyued.

The. xxxv. Chapter.

Iosia holdeth passeouer. He fyghteth agaynst the kyng of Egypte, and dieth. The people bewayle him.

AND Iosia helde the * feast of passeouer vnto the Lord in Ierusalem, & they slue passeouer in the xiiii. daye of the fyrst moneth. And he set the preestes in theyr offices, and aided them in the seruice of the house of the lorde. And he sayd vnto the Leuytes (that taught al Israel and were sanctifyed vnto the lorde:) put the holy arke in the house whyche Salomon the sonne of Dauid kyng of Israel did builde, there shall no other burthen be layed vpon youre shulders: But nowe serue the lord your God and his people Israell. And prepare youre selues by youre auncyente housholdes and companyes, accordynge to the wrytyng of Dauid kynge of Israel, and the wrytyng of Salomon his sonne, and stande in the holy place accordynge to the deuyson of the auncyente housholdes of youre brethren the chyldren of the people, and after the deuisiō of the auncyente housholdes of the Leuytes: kyll passeouer, and sanctify & prepare youre brethren, that they may do accordyng to the worde of the Lord by the hande of Moses.

And Iosia gaue to the people flockes of shepe and kyddes al for passeouer, and for al that were present, thyrty thousand by tale, and thre thousand oxen, and these were euen of the kynges substaunce. And hys lordes gaue willyngly both vnto the people and to the preestes and vnto the Leuytes. Helkia also, zacharia and Iehiel rulers of the house of God, gaue vnto the preestes for passeouer offrynges, two thousand and syxe hundred shepe, & thre hundred oxē. Conania and Semeiahu and Nethanel his brethren, and Hasabiahu and Iaiel, and Iosabad, rulers of the Leuytes, gaue vnto the Leuites passeouer offrynges, euen fyue thousande shepe, and fyue hundred oxen. And so the seruyce was prepared, and the preestes stode in theyr places, & the leuites in theyr distinct companies at the kynges commaundement. And they slue passeouer, and the preestes sprynkled the bloud wyth theyr hand, and the Leuytes pulled of the skynnes of the beastes. And they set awaye the burnt offrynges to giue thē vnto the people that were deuided by auncient houses, & that they should offre vnto the lord, lyke * as it is written in the boke of Moses. And so did they w the oxen also. And * they dressed the passeouer wyth fyre, as the maner was. And the other dedicate beastes sod they in pottes, cauldernes, & pannes, & deuided thē amōg al the people. And afterward they made redy for them selues and for the preestes: for the children of Aaron were busied in offeryng of burnte offrynges, and the fat vntyll nyght: therfore the Leuites prepared for thē selues, and for the preestes the sōnes of Aaron. And the syngers the children of Asaph stode in theyr standyng * accordyng to the commaundement of Dauid, & Asaph, Hemā, and Ieduthum the kinges sear: and the porters wayted at euery gate, and might not departe from their seruyce: for theyr brethren the Leuites prepared for them.

And so all the seruice of the Lorde was prepared the same daye, to offer passeouer, & to offre burnt offrynges vpon the aultare of the lord, accordyng to the cōmaundemēt of king Iosia. And so the children of Israel that were present, offred passeouer the same time, and kept the feaste of swete breade seuē dayes, and there was no passeouer lyke to that kept in Israel from the dayes of Samuel the prophet: neither dyd all the kynges of Israel holde suche a passeouer feast as did Iosia and the preestes and Leuytes and all Iuda and Israel that were present, and the inhabiters of Ierusalem. This passeouer was holden in the xviii. yeare of the raygne of Iosia. * After al this, whē Iosia had prepared the temple, Necho kyng of Egipt came vp to fyghte agaynste Carcamis besyde Euphrates, and Iosia wente oute agaynste hym: whych sent messengers to hym, & sayd: what haue I to do wyth the thou kynge of Iuda? Be not thou agaynste thy selfe thys daye: for my warre is against an other house, and God bad me make haste. Leaue of therfore and medle not wyth God which is wyth me, lest he destroye the. Neuertheles, Iosia would not turne his face from hym, but rather toke aduyse to fyghte with hym, & hearkened not vnto the wordes of Necho out of the mouth of God, and came to fyghte in the valley of Magedo, and the shoters shot dartes at kynge Iosia. And the kyng sayd to his seruauntes: cary me awaye, for I am sore wounded. His seruauntes therfore had hym oute of that charet, & put him (as a kinge) in an other charet that they had. And when they had broughte him to Ierusalē he died, & was buried in the sepulchre of his fathers.

* And al Iuda and Ierusalem mourned for Iosia. And Ieremia lamented Iosia, & all syngyng men and singing women mourned for Iosia in theyr lamentacions to this day, & made the same lamentacyons an ordinaunce

in

in Israel, and beholde, they be written in the lamentacions. The rest of the actes of Josia and his goodnes which he dyd in kolowing the writynge of the lawe of the Lorde, and his sayinges last and last: beholde, they are wrytten in the booke of the kynges of Israell and Juda.

The. xxxvi. Chapter.

After Josia reygneth Iehoahaz, after Iehoahaz, Iehoakim, after Iehoakim, Iehoacin, after Iehoacin Zedekiah, in whose tyme all the people were caryed away to Babilon, and were brought agayne the seuentye yere after by kynge Cyrus, otherwyse called Chores.

¶ AND *the people of the lande toke Iehoahaz the sonne of Josia, and made him kyng in his fathers stede in Jerusalem. And Iehoahaz was .xxiii. yere olde when he began to reygne, and he reygned thre monethes in Jerusalem. And the kyng of Egipt put him downe at Jerusalem, and mered the lande in an hundred talentes of siluer and a talent of golde. And the kynge of Egipt made Eliakim his brother, kynge vpon Juda and Jerusalem, and turned his name vnto Iehoakim: and Necho toke Iehoahaz his brother, and caryed hym to Egypte. Iehoakim was .xxv. yere olde when he began to reygne, and he reygned .xi. yere in Jerusalē: and he dyd euyll in the syght of the Lord his God. Agaynst hym then came vp Nabuchodonozor kynge of Babylon, & bounde hym with two chaynes to cary hym to Babilon. The kyng * Nabuchodonozor also caried of the vessels of the house of the the Lorde to Babilon, and put them in hys temple at Babilon. The rest of the actes of Iehoakim, and his abhominacions whiche he dyd, and carued ymages that were layed to his charge, behold, they are written in the boke of the kynges of Israel and Juda: & Iehoacin his sonne reygned in his stede.

Iehoacin was eyght yere old when he begā to reygne, and he reygned thre monethes & ten dayes in Jerusalem: and dyd euil in the sight of the Lorde. And when the yere was out, kynge Nabuchodonozor sent, & let him to Babilon with the goodly vessels of the house of the lord, and made Zedekia (his fathers brother) kynge ouer Juda and Jerusalem. * Zedekia was .xxi. yere olde, when he began to reygne, and reygned .xi. yere in Jerusalem. And he dyd euyll in the syghte of the Lorde his God, and humbled not hym selfe before Jeremia ꝑ prophet at ꝑ mouth of the lord. And he rebelled agaynste Nabuchodonozor, whiche had receiued an othe of him, by God. But he was styffnecked, and to hard herted to turne vnto the Lord God of Israel. Moreouer, all the rulers, the ¶ prestes and the people trespassed more, sinnyng after all maner of abhominacions of the heathen, and polluted the house of the Lord which he had halowed in Jerusalem. * And the Lord God of their fathers sent to the, by his messengers, rysinge vp by tymes, and sendyng, for he had compassion on hys people, and on his dwellynge place. But they mocked the messengers of God, and despised his wordes, and mysused his prophetes, vntill the wrath of the Lorde arose agaynste his people, and tyll there was no remedy. And so * he brought vpon them the kynge of Caldee, whiche slue their younge men with the swerde in their holy temple, & spared neyther younge man, mayden, olde man, nor him that stouped for age. He gaue them all into his hande. And all the vessels of the house of God (both great and small) and the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and the treasures of the kynge, and of hys lordes: all these caried he to Babilon. And ¶ they burnt the house of God, & brake downe the wall of Jerusalem, and burnt all the places therof with fyre, and destroyed all the goodlye iewelles therof. And the rest that had escaped ꝑ swerde, caryed he to Babilon, where they were bounde to hym and his children, vntil the tyme that Persia had the Empire. To fulfill the word of the lord * by the mouth of Jeremia, vntill the lande had her pleasure of her Sabbothes: for as longe as she laye desolate, she kepte Sabboth, vntill seuentye yeres were fulfylled.

* And the first yere of Cyrus kyng of Persia (when the worde of ꝑ lorde ‡ spoken by the mouthe of Jeremia was fynished) the Lorde stered vp the spirite of Cyrus kynge of Persia, that he made a proclamacio thorowout all his kyngdome, and that by wrytynge, sayinge: Thus sayeth Cyrus kynge of Persia: all the kyngdomes of the earthe hath the Lorde God of heauen gyuen me, and hath charged me to build him an house in Jerusalem, that is in Juda. Wherefore, whoso euer is amonge you of all his people, the Lorde his God be with him, and let hym goe vp.

The first Chapter.

Cyrus sendeth agayne the people that was mayntinute, and restoreth them their holye vessels. And commaundeth thē to builde agayne the temple.

IN the firste yere of * Cirus kyng of Persia (that the worde of the Lorde spoken * by the mouthe of Jeremy might be fulfilled) the lord stirred vp the spirite of Cirus kyng of Persia, that he caused to be proclaymed throwout al his empire, and to be written, sayinge: Thus saieth Cyrus ꝑ kyng of Persia: The lord God of heauen hath gyuē me all the kyngdomes of the earth, * and hath commaunded me to builde him an house at Jerusalem whiche is in Juda. Whosoeuer now among you is of his people, the lorde his God be with him, and let him go vp to Jerusalem in Juda and builde ꝑ house of the lord God of Israel. He is the God that is at Jerusalem. And whosoeuer remaineth yet in anye maner of place (where he is a straunger) let the men of ꝑ place helpe him with siluer & golde, with good and cattell, besyde that whiche they willyngly offre, for the house of God that is at Jerusalē. Then gat vp the principall fathers of Juda and Ben Jamin, & the preistes & Leuites, & all they whose spirit God had raysed to go vp, & to build the house of ꝑ Lord whiche is at Jerusalē. And all they that were about thē strengthed their hande, with vessels of siluer & golde, with good & cattell, and iewels: insomuche that euery one shewed hym selfe liberall. And kyng Cyrus brought forthe the vessels of the house of the lord, * which Nabuchodonozor had taken out of Jerusalē, & had put in the house of his God. Those dyd Cirus ꝑ kyng of Persia bring forth by ꝑ hād of Mithridates the treasurer, and numbred thē vnto Sesbazer the prince of Juda. And this is ꝑ nūbre of thē. iiii. chargers of gold, M. chargers of siluer. xxix. knyues. xxx. basens of golde: & of other siluer bases. iim. C & x. and of other vessels. M. All the vessels of golde & siluer were. v. M. & iim. C. All these dyd Sesbazar carye awaye with them that came vp out of the captiuitie of Babylon vnto Jerusalem.

The. iii. Chapter.

After the foundacion of the temple once renued, they sacrifyce vnto the Lorde.

A Nd when *the seuenth moneth came, & the childrẽ of Israel were now in their cyties: the people came togyther (euen as one man) vnto Jerusalẽ. And there stode vp Jesua the sonne of Josedec and his brethren the prestes, and zorobabell the sonne of Salathiel, and his brethren, and builded the aultare of the God of Israell, to offre burnt offrynges thereon, as it is wrytten in the law of Moses the man of God: and the aultare set they vpon his sockettes (for there was a fearfulnesse amõg them, bycause of ỹ nacions & landes) therfore they offred burnt offrynges theron vnto the Lord *in ỹ mornynge and at euen. And they held the feaste of tabernacles *as it is wrytten: and offred burntsacrifyces dayly, accordyng to the nũbre and custome, daye by daye. Afterwarde they offered dayly burnt offrynges also, and in the newe mones, and in all the feastdayes that were consecrate vnto the Lorde, and for all them whiche dyd (of their owne free will) offre vnto the Lorde. From the fyrst daye of the seuenth moneth began they to offre burnt sacrifices vnto the Lord: euen when the foundacyon of the temple of the Lorde was not yet layed. They gaue money also vnto the masons and carpenters, and meate and drynke and oyle vnto them of Sidon and of Tyre, to bringe them Cedre tymbre from Libanus by sea vnto Joppa, accordynge to the graunt that they had of Cirus the kynge of Persia. In the seconde yere of their comminge vnto the place of the house of God at Jerusalem, in the seconde moneth began Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and Jesua the sonne of Josedec and the remnaunt of their brethren the preistes and Leuites, & all they that were come out of the captyuitie vnto Jerusalem, and appointed the Leuites from twenty yere olde and aboue, to se that the worke of the house of the lord went forwarde. And Jesua stode with his sonnes and brethren: and Cadmuel with his sonnes, and the children of Juda, to further the worke of the house of God, euen the children of Henadab, with their children, and their brethren the Leuites. And when the builders layed the foundacion of the temple of the Lord, the preistes stode in their aray with trompets. And the Leuites the children of Asaph with cymbales, to praise the Lorde *after the maner of Dauid kyng of Israel. And they sange together when they gaue praise and thankes vnto the lorde, because he is gracious, & because his mercy endureth for euer vpon Israell. And all the people showted loude in praysyng the lord because the foundacion of the house of the Lord was layed. Many also of the preistes and Leuites & auncient fathers which had sene the first house (when the foundacion of this house was layed before their eyes) wept with a loude voice. And many shouted with ioye so that the noyse gaue a great sounde: in so muche that the people coulde not discerne the ioyful sounde and gladnes, from the noyse of the wepyng among the people: for the people shouted with a loude cry, and the noyse was hearde farre of.

The. iii. Chapter.

The buyldinge of the temple is hyndred and let.

AND *the aduersaries of Juda and Benjamin, hearde that the chyldre of the captyuitie builded the temple vnto the Lorde God of Israel. And they came to Zorobabel, and to the principall fathers, and sayde vnto them: We will builde with you, for we seke the Lorde your God lyke as ye do. And we haue done sacrifice vnto hym syns the tyme of Asor Haddon the kynge of Assur * whiche brought vs vp hyther. And Zorobabell, and Jesua, and the other auncient fathers of Israel sayde vnto them: It can not be, that you and we togither, should builde the house vnto our God: for we oure selues will builde alone vnto the Lord oure God of Israel, *as Cyrus the kyng of Persia hath commaunded vs. And it came to passe, that the folke of the land hynd̄red the people of Juda, and troubled them as they were buildyng, & hyred counsaylers agaynst them, to hynd̄re their deuice, as long as Cirus the kynge of Persia lyued, vntill the reygne of Darius kynge of Persia. And in the reygne of Ahasuerus (euē in the begynning of his reygne) wrote they vnto hym a complaynt agaynst the inhabiters of Juda and Jerusalē. And in ꝑ dayes of Artharerses, wrote Mithridath Tabeel, and ꝑ other of his counsell vnto Artharerses ꝑ kyng of Persia with fayre wordes. And the scripture of the letter was wrytten in the Sirians speche, and interpretated in the language of the Sirians. Rehum the recorder, and Samsai the scribe wrote a letter from Jerusalem to Artharerses the kynge, as it foloweth.

The Rehum the recorder, and Samsai the scribe, and other of their company of Dina, of Arphasath, of Tarpla, of Persia, of Arach, of Babilon, of Susan, of Deha, of Elan, & other of the people *whom the great and noble Asnapar brought ouer, and set in the cyties of Samaria, and other, that are nowe on this syde the water. This is the coppe of the letter that they sent vnto kynge Artharerses. Thy seruauntes and the men that are now on this syde the water. Be it knowen vnto the kyng, that ꝑ Jewes which came vp from the to vs, are come vnto Jerusalem (a cuyte sedicious and frowarde) and builde the same, and sette vp ꝑ walles therof and laye the foundacions. Be it knowen now also vnto the kyng, that yf this cytie be builded, and the walles therof made vp agayne, then shal not they gyue tolle, tribute, and custome, and the kynges profyte shall meurre dammage. And nowe in the meane season we haue destroyed the temple, and woulde no longer se ꝑ kynges dishonoure. Therfore sent we out also, and certifyed the kynge: that it maye be sought in the booke of the Chronicles of thy progenytours, and so shalt thou fynde in the boke of the Chronicles, and perceyue that this cuyte is sedicyous and noysome vnto kynges & landes, & that they cause other also emonge them to rebell of olde, & for the same cause was this cytie destroyed. Therfore do we certifie the kynge, that yf this cytie be builded agayne, and the walles therof made vp, thou shalte hereafter haue no porcion on this syde the water.

water. Then sent the kynge an answere vnto Rehū the recorder, & Samsai þ scribe, and to the other of their cōpanions þ dwelt in Samaria, & vnto the other that were beyond þ water, in Selan and Cheheth. The letter which ye sent vnto vs, hath ben openly read before me, & I haue commaunded to make search: & it is fond þ this cite of old, hath made insurrection against kinges and that rebellion & sedicion hath bene cōmitted therein. There haue ben myghtye kynges also at Jerusalē, whiche haue reygned ouer all countryes, beyonde the water: and tolle, tribute, & custome was gyuē vnto thē: Gyue ye nowe therfore commaundement, that the same men be forbydde, and that the cytie be not buylded agayne, tyll I haue gyuen an other cōmaundement. Take hede now that ye be not negligēt to do this: for why should the kynge haue harme therethorowe? Nowe when the copye of kynge Artharerses lettre was read before Rehum & Sāsai þ scribe, & their cōpanions, they went vp in all the hast to Jerusalem vnto the Jewes, and forbade them with violēce and power. Then ceassed the worke of the house of God at Jerusalē: and contynued so vnto the seconde yeare of Darius kynge of Persia.

The. v. Chapter.

By the exhortacion of Aggeus and Zacharie, is the temple builded agayne.

THe prophetes Aggeus, & zachary þ sonne of Iddo, prophecied vnto the Jewes that wer in Juda and Jerusalē, in the name of the God of Israel. * Then gat vp zorobabel þ sonne of Salathiel, and Jesua the sonne of Josedec, and began to builde the house of God at Jerusalē: and with thē were þ prophetes of God, whiche helped them. At the same tyme came to thē Tathnai, whiche was captayne on this syde the water, and Starbaznai, & their companōs, and sayde thus vnto them: Who hath commaūded you to builde this house, and to make vp these walles? Then tolde we them the names of the men that made this buyldynge. But the eye of their God was vpō the elders of þ Jewes, that they coulde not cause them to ceasse, till the matter was brought to Darius, and then they answered by letters therevnto.

This is the copie of the lettre, that Tathnai (whiche was captayne on this syde the water) and Starbaznai, & the counsaylers of Aphastah (whiche were on this syde the water) sent vnto kyng Darius. And the matter that they sent vnto hym, was written thus within the letter: Vnto Darius the kyng all peace. Be it knowen vnto the kyng, that we went in to the lande of Jewrye, to the house of the greate God, whiche is builded with mighty great stones, and beames are layed in the walles, and the worke goth fast forth, and prospereth in their handes. Thē asked we the elders, and said vnto them as it foloweth: Who cōmaunded you to builde this house, and to make vp the walles therof? We asked their names also, that we myghte certify the, and wryte þ names of the men þ were their rulers. But they answered vs in these wordes, and sayd: We are þ seruaūtes of hym that is God of heauen and erth, and buylde the house that was buylded many yeres ago, * whiche a great kyng of Israell builded, and set vp. But after þ our fathers had prouoked þ God of heaue vnto wrath, * he gaue them ouer into the hand of Nabuchodonozor the kyng of Babilon, and of the Caldees, which brake downe this house, and caryed the people awaye captyue vnto Babilon. * But in the first yere of Cirus the kynge of Babilon, the same kynge Cyrus gaue commaundement concernynge thys house of God, that it shoulde be buylded agayne. And the vessels of gold and syluer of the house of God, whiche Nabuchodonozor toke out of the temple that was at Jerusalem, & brought them into the temple at Babilon, those dyd Cyrus the kyng take out of the temple at Babilon, * and they were deliuered vnto one Salsazar by name, whome he made captayne, and said vnto him: Take these vessels and go thy way, and set them in the temple that is at Jerusalem, and let the house of God be builded in his place. Thē came the same Salsazar and layed the foūdacō of þ house of God, whiche is at Jerusalē. Syns that tyme also vntyll now hath it been in buyldynge, and yet is it not fynysshed. Yet it please the kynge nowe therefore, let there be serche made in the kynges librarye whiche is there at Babilon, whether it haue been kynge Cyrus commaundement, that this tēple of God at Jerusalē shoulde be builded, and let hym sende vs þ kynges mynde concernynge the same matter.

¶ The. vi. Chapter.

At the cōmaundement of Darius kyng of Persia, after the temple was builded and dedicate, the children of Israel kepe the feast of vnleuened bread.

THen cōmaunded kynge Darius, and they made searche in the librarye, euen in the place where they layed vp the treasure treasure at Babilon. * And there was foūde in a coffre (in ꝑ palace that is in the land of the Medes) a volume, & therin was it thus wrytten, & suche a memoriall: In the firste yere of kynge Cyrus, gaue the same kynge Cyrus commaundement concernynge the house of God at Jerusalē, ꝑ the same house shoulde be builded in the place where they offre the sacrifices, and to ioyne the walles togyther of threscore cubites heygth, and threscore cubites breadth. Thre rowes of roughe stones and one rowe of tymbre, and the expences shall be gyuen of the kynges house. And let the golde and syluer vessel of the house of God, (whiche Nabuchodonozor toke out of the temple at Jerusalē and brought vnto Babylon) be restored, and broughte agayne vnto the temple at Jerusalem to theyr place in the house of God.

B Set you far from thē therefore thou Thahnai captayne beyonde the water and Starbuzanai and youre counsaylers and Apher Sechei which are beyonde the water, get ye away from them. Let the worke of the house of this God alone, that the captayne of the Jewes and their elders may builde ꝑ house of God in his place. I haue commaunded what shal be done to the elders of Juda for the buildyng of the house of God, that there shall be diligent hede taken of the kynges goodes, euen of the rentes beyonde ꝑ water, and gyuen vnto the men, that they be not hyndred. And yf they haue nede of calues, rammes, & lambes for the burntoffrynge of the God of heauen, wheate salte, wyne, and oyle, after the custome of the priestes at Jerusalem, let the same be gyuē thē daily without anye delaye: that they maye offre swete sauours vnto the God of heauen, and pray for the kynges life and for his children. And suche a cōmaundement haue I gyuen, that what man soeuer he be that altereth this worde, there shall a beame be take from his house, and set vp, and he shall be hanged theron, and his house shal be made a donge hyll for the same thynge. And the God that set his name there, destroye all kynges and C people that put to theyr hande to alter, and to breake downe the house of God which is at Jerusalem. I Darius haue cōmaunded, that this be done with spede. Then Thahnai the captayne of the countrye beyonde ꝑ water, & Starbuzanai with their cōsaylers (to whom kynge Darius had sent) did their diligēce: And the Elders of the Jewes builded, and they prospered thorow the prophecyenge of Aggeus the prophete, & zacharye the sonne of Jddo: and they builded & lated vp the foundacion, accordynge to the commaundemente of the God of Jsrael, and after the commaundement of Cyrus and Darius, and Artharerses, kinges of Persia.

And the house was fynished the thyrde day of the moneth Adar, euen in the syxt yeare of the regne of kyng Darius. * And the chil- 2.Par.7.
dren of Jsrael, the priestes, the Leuites, and the other children of the captiuite, helde the dedicacion of this house of God with ioye, and offred at the dedicacion of this house of god, an hundred oxen, two hundred rammes, foure hundred goates: and for the recōcilinge of al Jsrael twelue he goates, accordinge to the numbre of the tribes of Jsrael: and set the priestes in their sondrye courses: and the Leuites in their diuers offices, to ministre vnto God at Jerusalem: as it is wrytten in the boke of Moses. And the chil- D dren of the captiuite held Passeouer vpon the fourtenth daye of the first moneth, for ꝑ priestes and Leuites were purifyed, so that they were all cleane togyther, and kylled Passeouer for all the children of the captiuite, & for their brethren the priestes, and for thē selues. And the children of Jsrael which were come agayne out of captiuite, and all such as had separated them selues vnto thē, from the fylthynesse of the heathen of the lāde, to seke ꝑ lord God of Jsrael, dyd eate, and helde the feast of vnleuened bread seuē dayes with ioye: for the Lord had made thē glad & turned the hart of the kyng of Assur vnto thē, to strēgthē their handes in ꝑ worke of the house of God, euen the god of Jsrael.

The. vii. Chapter.

By the commaundement of Artharerses, Eldras taketh his companyons the children of Jsrael, and returneth to Jerusalem.

I 1.Esd.14
After these actes, there was in the regne of Artharerses kyng of Persia, one Eldras the sōne of Sarias the sonne of Asaria, the son of Helkia, the sonne of Sallum, the sōne of Sadoc, the sonne of Ahitob, the sonne of Amaria, the sonne of Asaria, the sonne of Meraioth, the sonne of zeraia, the sonne of Vsi, the sōne of Bucki, the sonne of Abisua, the sonne of Phineches, the sonne of Eleasar, the sonne of Aaron the cheke preest. dren of Israell, of the prieſtes, Leuites, ſyngers, porters, & of the Nethinims, vnto Jeruſalē, in ꝑ ſeuenth yeare of king Artharerſes. And he came to Jeruſalē in ꝑ fifth moneth, euē in ꝑ ſeuenth yeare of the kyng. For vpō ꝑ firſt day of the firſt moneth, began he to go vp frō Babilon, & on the firſt daye of the firſt moneth came he to Jeruſalem, becauſe the good hāde of God was vpon him. For Eldras prepared his hearte to ſeke the lawe of the lord, & to do it, and to teache the precept and iudgement in Israel. And this is the coppe of ꝑ letter, that kyng Artharerſes gaue vnto Eldras the prieſt and ſcribe, whiche was a writer of the wordes and cōmaundementes of the lord, & of his ſtatutes ouer Israel. Artharerſes a kyng of kynges. Vnto Eldras the prieſt, & ſcribe of the lawe of the God of heauen, peace & ſalutacion. I haue cōmaunded, that all they of the people of Israell, & of the prieſtes, & Leuites in my realme (whiche are mynded of their owne good will to go vp to Jeruſalem) go with the: and therfore art ꝑ ſent of the kynge & of his ſeuen counſaylers, to viſyt Juda & Jeruſalē, accordynge to the lawe of thy God, which is in thy hāde. And ꝑ thou ſhouldeſt take with the, ſiluer & gold, which ꝑ kynge & his coūſaylers offre of their owne good wil, vnto the God of Israel (whoſe habitacion is at Jeruſalem,) & al the ſiluer and gold ꝑ thou canſt fynde in all the countrey of Babilon, with it that the people offre of their owne good wil, and the prieſtes gyue for ꝑ houſe of their God whiche is at Jeruſalem. Take thou the ſame, & dye diligētly with ꝑ ſame money, oxen, rāmes, and lambes, with their meatoffrynges & drynkoffrynges: & thou ſhalt offer them vpon the aulter of the houſe of your God, which is at Jeruſalem. And loke what it lyketh the & thy brethren, to do with the remnaunt of the money, that do, after ꝑ wil of your God. And the veſſels that are gyuē the for the miniſtracion in the houſe of thy God, thoſe deliuer thou before God at Jeruſalem. And what ſoeuer thyng more ſhalbe nedeful for ꝑ houſe of thy God, whiche is neceſſarye for the to ſpende, thou ſhalte receyue the charges out of ꝑ kynges treaſure houſe. I kyng Artharerſes haue cōmaūded al the treaſurers beyonde ꝑ water, that loke what ſoeuer Eldras the prieſt and ſcribe, in the lawe of the God of heauen, requireth of you, ꝑ ye fulfyll the ſame ſpedely, vntyll an hundred talentes of ſiluer, vntill an hūdred quarters of wheat, and tyl an hūdred Batthes of wyne, and tyll an hundred *Batthes of oyle, & ſalte wythout meaſure. What ſoeuer alſo belongeth to ꝑ lawe of ꝑ God of heauē, let the ſame be done without any delay for ꝑ houſe of the God of heauē, that he be not wroth agaynſt ꝑ realme, and agaynſte the kynge & his chyldren. And we certifie you, that ye haue no authoritie to require tarynge and cuſtome, and pearlie rētes vpon any of the prieſtes, Leuites, ſyngers, porters, Nethinims, and miniſtres in the houſe of his God. And thou Eldras (after the wyſedome of thy God, that is in thy hande) ſet iudges and arbitrers by my authoritie, to iudge all the people ꝑ is beyonde the water, euen all ſuche as knowe the lawe of thy God: and the that knowe it not, thoſe ſe that ye teache. And whoſoeuer wil not fulfyll the law of thy God, & the kynges lawe, lette him haue his iudgemente wythout delay, whether it be vnto death, or to be rooted out, or to be condemned in goodes, or to be put in priſon. *Bleſſed be the lord God of our fathers, whiche ſo hath inſpired the kynges herte, to garniſhe the houſe of the lord, that is at Jeruſalē: and hath enclined hys mercy vnto me, in the preſence of the kynge and his counſaylers & before al the kynges hye eſtates. And I was cōforted (euen as ꝑ hande of the Lord my God was vpon me) and ſo gathered I the heades of Israel together, that they myght go vp with me.

3.Eſd.8.c.

These are the principall fathers of them, & this is their regiſter that wente vp with me from Babilō, what tyme as kyng Artharerſes reygned. Of the chyldren of Phinehes, Gerſom: of the children of Ithamar, Daniel: of the children of Dauid, Hatus: of the childrē of Zechania among the childrē of Pharos, Zacharye: and with hym were numbred an hundred and fyfty men. Of the children of ꝑ captayne of Moab, Elioenai, the ſonne of zerahia, and with hym two hundred men. Of the children of zechania the ſonne of Jahaſiel, and with hym thre hundred men. Of the children of Adin, Abed the ſonne of Jonathan, and with hym fyfty men. Of the children of Elam, Iſai the ſonne of Athalia, and with hym ſeuenty men. Of the chyldren of Saphatia, zebadia the ſōne of Michael, and with hym foure ſcore men. Of the children of Joab, Obadia the ſonne of Jehiel, and with hym two hundred and eyghtene men. Of the children of Selomith the sonne of Iosephia, and with hym an hundred and three score men. Of the children of Bebai, Zachary the sonne of Bebai, & with hym eyght and twenty men. Of the childrē of Isgad, Iohanan the sonne of Hakatan, and with him an hundred and ten men.

Of the children of Adonicam, that were the last, whose names are these: Eliphelet, Ieuiell and Samaiah, and with thē three score men. Of the children of Biguai, Uthai and Sabud, and with them seuenty men. And I gathered them together by the water that runneth towarde Ahaua, and there abode we three dayes. And I loked amōg the people and the priestes, and founde there none of the children of Leui. Thē sent I to Eliezer, to Ariel, Semeia, Elnachan, Iarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zachary, and to Ioiarib and Elnathan, whiche were men of vnderstandyng, and to those gaue I commaundement, vnto Iddo the chefest at Casphia, þ they shoulde fetche vs ministers for the house of oure God: and I tolde them what they shoulde saye vnto Iddo and to hys brethren the Nethinims at Casphia. And (therowe the good hande of our God vpō vs) they brought vs a wise man from among the children of Moholi, þ sonne of Leui, the sonne of Israel: and Sarabia with his sonnes and his brethrē, euen eyghtene. And Hasabia, and with hym Iesai of the children of Merari, with his brethrē, and their sonnes, twentye. And of the Nethinims whome Dauid & the princes gaue to minister vnto the Leuites, two hundred and twentye of Nethinims, whiche all were named by name. And euē ther at the water, beside Ahaua, I proclamed a faste, that we myght humble our selues before our God, and seke of hym a right way for vs, and for our children, and for al our substaunce. For I was ashamed to require of the kynge, souldyours & horsemen, to helpe vs against the enemy in the waye: but we sayd vnto the kynge: The hande of our God is vpon all them that seke him in goodnes, & (his dominiō) his violence and wrath is against all them that forsake hym. So we fasted, & besought our God for this, and he hearde vs. And I toke out twelue of the chefe priestes, Sarabia and Hasabia, and ten of their brethren with them, & waied them the siluer & golde, & vessels that were appointed for the house of our God, which the kynge and his counsellers and his lordes, & al Israel that were there at hande had geuen together. And I waied vnto their hande syxe hundred and fyfty talentes of siluer, and in siluer vessell an hundred talētes, and in golde, an hūdred talentes: twentye basens of golde, of a thousande pieces, and two costly ornamentes of good brasse, as cleare as golde, and I sayde vnto them: Ye are consecrate vnto the lord, lyke as the vessels are holy also, & the golde and siluer are geuen of a good wil vnto the Lord God of your fathers. Watche ye, and kepe it: for ye shall waye it downe before the chefe priestes and Leuites, and auncient fathers of Israel at Ierusalem, in the treasuryes of the house of the Lord. Then toke the priestes and Leuites the waied siluer and golde, and vessell, to bringe it to Ierusalē, vnto the house of oure God. And we brake vp, from the water of Ahaua on the twelfte daye of the firste moneth, to goe vnto Ierusalem: and the hande of our God was vpon vs, and deliuered vs from the hande of the enemyes, and of suche as layed watte for vs by the waye. And we came to Ierusalē, and abode there three dayes. But on the fourthe daye was the siluer and golde and vessell weyed in the house of our God by the hande of Meremoth the sonne of Uria the preast, and with him was Eleazar the sonne of Phinches, and with them was Iosabad the sonne of Iesua, and Noadia the sonne of Benoi the Leuites. Accordynge to the numbre and weyght of euerye one, was the weyght all wrytten vp at the same tyme.

And the chyldren of the captiuitie, whiche were come out of prison, offred burntoffrynges vnto the God of Israell, twelue bullockes, for all Israel, syxe and nyntye rammes, seuen and seuentye lambes, twelue he gotes for a synne offrynge, all to the burntoffrynge of the Lorde. And they deliuered the kynges commission vnto the kynges officers, & to the captaynes that were on this syde the water. And they promoted the people and the house of God.

C in oure bondage, and hath enclined mercye vnto vs in the sight of ꝑ kinges of Persia, to gyue vs lyfe, to set vp the house of oure God, and to redresse the desolacion therof, and to giue vs a wal in Juda and Jerusalē. And now O our God, what shal we saye after this? For we haue forsaken thy cōmaūdementes whyche thou hast commaunded by thy seruauntes the prophetes, saying: The lande vnto whyche ye go to possesse, it is an vncleane lande because of the fylthynesse of the people of the landes, whyche wyth theyr abominacios haue made it ful of vncleanesse Deut.7.a on euery syde. * Therfore shall ye not gyue your doughters vnto their sonnes, and theyr doughters shal ye not take vnto your sōnes, nor seke theyr peace and wealth for euer, ꝑ ye maye be stronge and enioye the good in D the lande, and ꝑ ye and your children maye haue the enheritaunce of it for euermore.
And after that al these thinges are come vpon vs (because of our euel dedes, and greate treſpasses) thou our god hast thrust downe oure wyckednesses, and haste gyuen vs a delyueraunce, (as it is come to paſſe thys daye.)
And yf we turne backe againe, to let go thy cōmaundementes, and make contract with the people of these abomynacions, wilt thou not then be wroth at vs (and not without cause) tyl we be vtterly consumed, so that nothynge remayne, and tyll there be no delyueraunce? O Lord God of Israel, thou art righteous, for we remaine yet (escaped as it is to se thys daye. Beholde also, in thy presence are we in our treſpasses, & because of it maye we not stand before the.

The. x. Chapter.

The people repent and turne, and put away theyr straunge wyues.

1.Eld.8.g AND when * Esdras prayed after thys maner, and knowleged, wept, and laye before the house of God, there resorted vnto him out of Israel a very great congregacion of men and women and chyldren: & the people wept very sore. And Sechania ꝑ sonne of Jehiel one of the chyldren of Elam answered, and sayde vnto Esdras: We haue treſpalled agaynſte our God, and haue take straunge wyues of the people of the lande. Now there is hope yet in Israel concernyng thys thynge: For nowe wee wyll make a couenaunte wyth our God, and putte away al the wiues (and such as are borne of them) accordyng to the counsell of the Lorde: and we wil be in ꝑ feare of the cōmaundemētes of our god, that we maye do accordyng to ꝑ lawe. Set the vp, for this matter belongeth vnto the: we also wil be wyth the, be of good

And Esdras stode vp from before ꝑ house of God & went into ꝑ chamber of Johanan the sonne of Eliasib. And when he came thyther, he dyd eate no bread, nor dronke water, for he mourned, because of the transgreſsyon of the people that had bene in captiuitie. And they caused a proclamacion to go throwout Juda & Jerusalem, vnto al the chyldrē which had bene in captiuitie, ꝑ they shoulde gather themselues togyther vnto Jerusalem. And that whosoeuer came not wythin thre dayes accordynge to the dewyce of the rulers and elders, al his substaunce should be forfayt, and he should be putte out from ꝑ congregacō of ꝑ captiue. Then al the men of Juda and Ben Jamin gathered thē selues togyther vnto Jerusalē wythin thre dayes, euen the twentye daye of the ninth moneth: and al ꝑ people sate in the strete before the house of God, & trembled because of thys matter, and for the rayne.

And Eldras the preest stode vp, & said vnto
*Deu. 7. a Iudic. 3. a the: *Ye haue transgressed, and haue taken straunge wyues, to make þ trespasse of Israel yet more: confesse nowe therfore vnto þ lord God of your fathers, and do hys pleasure, & seperate your selues from the people of the lande, and from the straunge wyues. And al the congregacion answered, and said with a loude voyce: it shalbe so, and we wyl do as thou hast sayde. But the people are many, & it is a rayny wether, and the people are not able to tary without in the strete, neither is thys a worke of one daie or two: for we haue offended very sore in thys thynge. Let oure rulers stande therfore in al the congregacio, and let al them whych haue taken straunge wyues in our cytyes, come at the tyme appointed, and let the elders of euery cytie and theyr iudges be with them, till they haue turned þ wrath of our God awaye from vs
C cõcerning this matter. Thẽ were appointed Jonathan the sonne of Asahel, and Jahasia the sonne of Thekua, ouer thys matter: And Mosullam & Sabatha the Leuites helped them. And the children of the captiuitie dyd euen so. And Eldras þ preest, and þ auncient heades throw the house of theyr fathers, al men of great fame, separated them selues, & sat them downe on the fyrst daye of the tenth moneth, to examyn the matter. And vntyl þ fyrste daye of the fyrste moneth, they were finishing the busynes, with all the men that had taken straunge wyues. And among the children of the preestes there were mẽ found that had taken straunge wyues, namely amonge the children of Jesua the sonne of Josedec, and of hys brethren, Masiah, and Eliezer, Jarib and Gedalia, and they gaue theyr handes there vpon, that they woulde put awaye theyr wyues, & for theyr trespasse offryng to giue a ramme for theyr trespasse. And among the children in Emer, Honany, and zabadia. Among the children of Harim, Maasia, Elia, Semeiah, Jehiel and Vsia. Among the children of Phashur, Elioenai, Maasia, Ismael, Nethanel, Jozabad, and Elasa. Among þ Leuites, Jozabad, Simei and Kelaia, (whyche same is Kaluthah) Pathahiah, Juda and Eleazer. Among the singers also Eliasib. And among þ porters

The fyrst Chapter.

Nehemia buttrier to kynge Artharexes, prayeth to God for the people.

THe wordes of Nehemia the son of Hachalia. It fortuned in the moneth Chisleu, in the twenty yeare that I was in the castell at Susan: and Hanani one of my brethren, came wt certayne men of Juda, and I asked them howe the Iewes dyd that were deliuered and escaped from the captiuitye, and howe it went at Jerusalem. And they sayde vnto me: The remnaunte of the captiuitye are there in the land in great myscheuue and rebuke. *The wall of Jerusalem also is broken downe: & the gates therof are brente with fyre. It fortuned, that when I hearde these wordes, I sate me downe and wepte, and mourned certaine daies, and fasted & prayed before þ God of heauen, & said: O lord God of heauen, thou greate & terrybie God, *thou that kepest couenaunt & mercy for thẽ that loue thee, & obserue thy cõmaundementes: let thine eares

But yf ye turne vnto me, and kepe my commaundementes, and do the: though ye were caste out vnto the vttermost parte of heauen, yet wyll I gather you from thence, & wyl bringe you vnto the place that I haue chosen, to set my name there. They are thy seruauntes and thy people, whom thou hast delyuered thorowe thy great power & in thy myghtye hande. O lorde, I beseche the, let thyne eare herkẽ to ꝑ prayer of thy seruaunt, and to the prayer of thy seruauntes, whose delyte is to feare thy name: & let thy seruaũt prosꝑere thys daye, and graunte him mercy in the sight of this mã, for I was the kinges butteler.

The. ij. Chapter.

After Nehemia had obtained letters of Artharerses, he came to Jerusalem and buylded the walles.

Nyche. IT chaunced, that in the moneth Nisan in the twentyeth yeare of kinge Artharerses, the wine stode before him, and I toke vp the wyne, and gaue it vnto the kyng. And I was heuy in his presence. And the kynge sayd vnto me: why lokest thou so sadly, when thou art not sicke? it is nothyng els, but that thou art heuye herted. And I was sore afrayed, and sayd vnto the kynge: God saue the kinges lyfe for euer. Howe shoulde I not loke sadly, when the citye and place of my fathers buriall lyeth waste, and ꝑ gates therof are consumed wyth fyre.

And the kynge sayd vnto me: what is then thy requeste? I made my prayer also to the God of heauen, and sayd vnto the kynge: yf it please the kyng, and yf thy seruaunt haue founde fauoure in thy syghte, sende me vnto Juda vnto the citye of my fathers buryall, that I maye buylde it. And the kynge sayed vnto me (the quene his wife sitting by him:) how longe shall thy iourney continue, and when wilt thou come againe? And it pleased the kynge to sende me, and I set hym a tyme, and sayde vnto the kyng: yf it please the kyng, let hym geue me letters to the captaynes whyche are beyonde the water, that they maye conuay me ouer, tyll I come into Juda: and letters vnto Asaph the lorde of the kynges wood, that he maye gyue me timber to make beames for the gates of the palace (whych is harde by the house) and for the walles of the cite, and for the house that I shall enter into. And the kynge gaue me accordyng to the hande of my God, whyche was good vpon me. And when I came to ꝑ captaynes beyonde the water, I gaue them ꝑ kinges letters. And ꝑ kyng had sente captaynes and horsemen wyth me. Sanabalat also the Horonite, and Tobia a seruaunte (the Ammonite) heard of it, and it greued thẽ sore, ꝑ there was come a man whych soughte the welth of the chyldren of Israel. And I came to Jerusalem, & was there thre dayes, and I gat me vp in the nyght season, and a fewe men with me, neither tolde I any man, what God had gyuen me in my hert to do at Jerusalem: and there was not one beast wt me, saue it ꝑ I rode vpon. And I departed in the nyght by the valleye porte, before the dragon well, and to the donge porte, and consydered the walles of Jerusalem howe they were broken downe, & the portes therof consumed wyth the fyre. And I wente ouer vnto the well porte, and to the kynges condupte, and there was no rowme for the beast ꝑ was vnder me to passe. Then wente I on in the night by the brooke syde, & considered the wal, and turned backe, and came home agayne by the valleye porte. And the rulers knewe not whyther I wente, or what I did: neyther dyd I as yet tell it vnto the Iewes, to the preestes, to ꝑ noble men, to the rulers, and to the other that laboured in ꝑ worke. Then sayde I vnto them: ye se the myserye that we are in, howe Jerusalem lyeth waste, and howe the gates therof are brente wyth fyre: come therfore, that we maye buylde vp the wall of Jerusalem, and that we be no more a rebuke. And I tolde them of the hãd of my God, (that it was gracious ouer me) and the kynges wordes that he had spoken vnto me. And they sayde: let vs get vp, and buylde: and they strengthed theyr hande to good. But when Sanabalat the Horonite, and Tobia the seruaunte (an Ammonite) and Gesem the Arabian hearde it, they laughed vs to scorne, and mocked vs, and sayde: what is this that ye do? Wyll ye fall awaye from the kynge? Then answered I thẽ, and sayd: the God of heaue-

he

he it is that hath graunted vs prosperytie: & we be hys seruauntes. Let vs get vp and buylde. As for you ye haue no portion nor ryght, nor remembraunce in Jerusalem.

The. iii. Chapter.

The number of them that buylded the walles.

AND Eliasib the hye preste gat him vp with hys brethren the prestes, and they buylded the shepegate. They repaired it, and set vp the doores of it: euen vnto the towre Mea, repayred they it, and vnto the *towre of Hananeell. Next vnto him also buylded the men of Jericho. And beside him builded Zachur the sonne of Imri. But the fysshe porte did the childre of Senaa build, whych also layed the beames therof, and set on the dores, lockes and barres of it. And next vnto hym buylded Meremoth ꝑ sonne of Uria, the sonne of Hacos: and nexte vnto them buylded Mesulam ꝑ sonne of Berechia, the sonne of Mesesabeel: and next vnto him buylded Sadoc the sonne of Baana. And next vnto him builded they of Thekoa. But the great men that were among thē, put not theyr neckes to the worke of theyr Lorde.

The olde gate buylded Jehoiada the sōne of Pasceah, & Mesulam ꝑ sonne of Besodia, they layed the beames therof, and set on the dores, lockes and barres of it. Next vnto thē buylded Melatiah of Gibeon, and Jadon of Merano, men of Gibeon, and of Mispa, where he that was captayne of thys side the water had a mansiō. Next vnto him builded Uziel the sonne of Hathatah ꝑ goldsmith. Nexte vnto hym also buylded Hanania ꝑ sōne of Pharazāhim, & they repaired Jerusalē vnto the brode wal. Nexte vnto thē builded Raphaiah the sonne of Hur, the ruler of the halfe parte of Jerusalem. Nexte vnto hym buylded Jedaia the sonne of Harumaph, ouer against hys house: and nexte vnto hym buylded Hatus, the sonne of Hasabnia. But Melchia the sonne of Harim, & Hasub the sonne of the captaine of Moab, buylded the other pece, and the towre beside the fornaces. Nexte vnto him builded Sallum a syngers sonne the ruler of the halfe parte of Jerusalem, he and hys daughters.

The valley gate buylded Hanun, & the citizyns of Zanoa. They buylded it, and set on ꝑ dores, lockes and barres therof, and a. M cubytes on the wall, vnto the donge porte. But the donge port buylded Melchiah the sonne of Rechab, the ruler of the fourth part of Bethcharem: he repayred it, and set on the dores, lockes and barres therof. But the wel gate [illegible]red Sallū ꝑ sonne of Cholhosah, the ruler of the fourth parte of Myspa, he buylded it, and layd the beames, and set on the dores, lockes & barres therof, and the wall vnto the poole of Siloah, by ꝑ kinges garden, and vnto ꝑ steppes that go downe from the citie of Dauid. After him builded Nehemiah the sonne of Asbok, the ruler of ꝑ halfe parte of Bethzur, vntyl the other syde ouer against the sepulchres of Dauid, and to the poole that was repayred, and vnto the house of the myghty. After him builded the Leuytes, Rehum the sonne of Banis: nexte vnto hym buylded Hasabia the ruler of the halfe parte of Keilah, in hys quarter. After hym buylded their brethren: Bauai the sōne of Henadad the ruler of the halfe parte of Keilah: and after him builded Ezer the sōne of Jesua the ruler of Mispa the other pece, harde ouer against the goyng vp to the house of ordinaunce that was in the corner. Againe, after him brake forth Baruch the sōne of zachai of indignacion, and repayred the other pece from the turnyng corner, vnto the dore of the house of Eliasib ꝑ hie preest.

After hym also buylded Meremoth the sonne of Uria the sonne of Hacos, he other pece from the dore of the house of Eliasyb, euen as longe as the house of Eliasib extended. After hym buylded the prestes, the men of ꝑ plaine. After him buylded Ben Jamin and Hasub, ouer against theyr house: and after him wroughte Asaria, the sonne of Maasia, the sonne of Ananias, next vnto hys house. After hym also buylded Benui the sonne of Henadad the other pece, from the house of Azaria vnto ꝑ turnyng of the wall, & vnto the corner. After him buylded Phalal the sonne of Uzai, ouer against the corner and the hye towre, whych lyeth out ouer frō the kynges house, ꝑ was beside the courte of the prysō. After hym Phedaia the sonne of Pharos (as for the Nethinims they dwelt in the stronge holde vnto the water gate, toward the east, & to ꝑ towre ꝑ lieth out.) After him builded they of Thekua the other pece ouer against ꝑ great towre, ꝑ lieth outward, vnto the wall of the strong holde. But from aboue ꝑ horse gate forth builded ꝑ prestes, euery one ouer against his house. And after thē builded Sadock ꝑ sonne of Immer ouer against his house. After him builded also Semeia the sōne of Sechania, ꝑ keper of ꝑ eastgate. After him builded Hanania ꝑ sōne of Selemia, and Hanun the sōne of Salaph the syxte, the other pece. And after hym buylded Mesulam the sonne of Barachia ouer against hys storehouse.

After

After hym buylded Malachia the golde smythes sonne, vntyll the house of Nethinims, and of the marchantes ouer against the gate of Myphkad, and to the parlour in the corner. And betweene the parlour of the corner vnto the shepegate, buylded the goldsmythes and the marchauntes.

The. iiii. Chapter.

The buylding of Jerusalem is hyndered and let, but the Jewes buylde it, beyng stoye harnessed leste theyr enemyes (ould inuade them.

¶ BVT when Sanabalat hearde that we builded the wal, he was wroth in himself, and toke great indygnacyon, and mocked the Jewes, and sayed before his brethren and the souldyers of Samaria: what do these impotente Jewes? wyll the heathen suffer them? shall they offer? shall they perfourme it in one daye? shall they make the stones whole agayne that are broughte to duste and brente? And Tobyah the Ammonite was besyde hym, and sayed: Though they buylde, yet yf a foxe go vp, he shall breake down theyr stony wal. Heare (O thou our God) for we are despised, turne their shame vpon theyr owne heade, and geue them ouer into despysynge, in the lande of theyr captyuytye. Couer not theyr wyckednes, and let not theyr synne be put outte in thy presence: for they haue prouoked the buylders. And so builded wee the wall, and it was ioyned whole together, vnto the half heygth therof. And the people were mynded to labour. ¶ And it fortuned, that whē Sanabalat, and Tobyah and the Arabians, Ammonites, and Asdodites hearde þ the walles of Jerusalem were made vp, & that the gappes began to be stopped, they were very wroth, and conspired altogether to come and fyght agaynste Jerusalem, & to make the people an hynderaunce therin. Neuertheles we made oure prayer vnto our God, and set watchmen by thē, which builded day and night, ouer against them. And Juda said: the strēgth of the bearers is so feble, and ther is yet much more mor ter, and wee are not able to buylde on the wall. And our aduersaryes said: they shall not knowe neither se, tyll wee come in the middes among them, and slaye them, and hinder þ worke. But it fortuned that when the Jewes (which dwelt beside the) came, thei told vs as good as ten times, that in al places where ye go vnto, they are appointed to fall vpon vs. Therefore sette I the people after theyr kynredes wyth theyr swerdes, speares, and bowes beneth in the low places behynde the wal: and I loked, and gat me vp, and sayd vnto the chefe men, to the rulers, and to the other people: be not ye afrayde of thē, * but thinke rather vpon the great lord, whiche ought to bee feared, and fyght for your brethren, youre sonnes, your daughters, your wiues, and youre houses. Neuertheles, it chaunced þ when our enemyes hearde that we hadde gotten woorde of it, God broughte theyr counsell to nought: and wee turned all agayne to the wall, euery one vnto hys labour. And from that tyme forth it came to passe, that the halfe part of the yong men dyd the labour, and the other halfe parte of them held the speares, shildes, bowes, and brestplates: and þ rulers stode behynd all the house of Juda, whiche buylded on the wall, and bare burthens from those þ laded them. With one hande dyd euery one worke: & wyth the other helde he his weapen. And curry one that buylded, had hys swerde gyrde by hys thygh, and so buil- ¶ ded thei. And the trumpet blewe beside me. And I sayd vnto the principall men, to the rulers, and to the other people: the worke is greate and large, and wee are separated vpon the wal, one farre from another. Looke in what place therefore ye heare the noyse of the trumpet, resorte ye thyther vnto vs, * and oure God shall fyght for vs: and we will bee labouryng in the worke. And the halfe part of them helde þ speares from the morwyng spryng, tyll the starres came forth. And at the same tyme sayde I vnto the people: euery one abyde with hys seruaunt at Jerusalem, that in the nyght season wee maye watche, and labour on þ daye time. As for me and my brethren, my seruauntes and the menne of the watche (whiche were behynde me) we putte neuer of our clothes, no more then the other dyde theyr haches, saue only because of þ water.

Exo. 14. c.

The. v. Chapter.

The people are verey wyth hunger. He reqireth not the hyring of a captayne.

¶ AND there arose a great complaint of the people, and of their wiues, agaynste theyr brethren the Jewes. For there were some that sayed: oure sonnes and daughters and we are to manye, therefore wyll we take corne for them, that wee maye eate and lyue. Some also there were that sayed: lette vs sette oure landes, vineyardes and houses to pledge, and take vp corne in the dearth.

But some there were that saide: let vs borowe moneye for the kinges tribute: and ꝑ vpon oure landes and vyneyardes. Beholde, oure bodyes as the bodyes of oure brethren, and oure childzen as theyr childzen: eis shoulde wee subdue oure sonnes & daughters vnto bondage: and some of our daughters are subdued vnto bondage already, & no strength is ther in our handes, and other men haue oure landes and vyneyardes. And whē I heard theyr complaint and suche woordes, it displeased me sore: & I aduised so in my minde, that I rebuked the councellours, and the rulers, and sayde vnto them: Ye are one of you is to chargeable vnto his brother. And I brought a great congregation againste them, and saide vnto them: we (after oure abilitye) haue boughte oure brethren the Iewes, whiche were sold vnto the heathen. And will you sell your brethren agayne vnto ꝑ heathen, after that they haue beene solde vnto vs? Then helde they theyr peace, & coulde fynde nothynge to answere. And Nehemia saide: It is not good that ye doe. Ought ye not to walke in the feare of god, because of the rebuke of the heathen that are oure enemies? I and my brethren, and my seruauntes doe lende them money and corne: as for vsurye let vs leaue it. Therefore, this same daye I praye you se that ye restore them theyr landes again, their vineyardes, oyle gardens, and theyr houses, & remit the hundred parte of the money of the corne, wine, & oyle ꝑ ye haue won of them. Then saide they: we will restore them agayne, and will requite nothynge of them: and will do as thou hast spoken. And I called the priestes, & toke an oth of them, that they should doe so. And I shoke my lappe, and sayde: God shake out euerye man after thesame maner from his house and labor, that maintaineth not thys woorde: euen thus bee he shaken oute and voyde.

And all the congregacion saide: Amen, and praysed the lorde: And the people dyd so. And from the tyme forth that (ꝑ king) committed vnto me to bee a captayne of them that were in the lande of Iuda, euen from the twentye yeare vnto the two and thyrtye yeare of the king Artharerses (that is twelue yere,) I with my brethren liued not of suche substaunce as was geuen to a captaine. For the olde captaines that were before me, hadde bene chargeable vnto the people, and hadde taken of them breade and wyne, and fourty sicles of syluer: yea, and theyr seruauntes hadde oppressed the people: But so did not I, and that because of the feare of God. But I laboured also in the woorke vpon the wall, and boughte no lande. And all my seruauntes came thyther together vnto the woorke. Moreouer there were at my table an hundred and.l. of the Iewes and rulers, whiche came vnto me from amonge the heathen that are aboute vs. And there was prepared for me daylye an ore, and syx chosen sheepe, and byrdes, and euer once in ten dayes a great summe of wine. Yet required not I the hyringe of a captayne, for the bondage was greuous vnto the people. * Thynke vpon me my God vnto the beste, according to all that I haue done for this people.

The. vi. Chapter.

The buylding is yet again hindered and lett.

ANo when Sanabalat, Tobiah, and Gesem the Arabian, and the other of oure enemies hearde that I hadde buylded the wall, and that there were no moe gappes therein (howbeit at thesame tyme hadde I not hanged the doores vpon the gates,) Sanabalat and Gesem sente vnto me, sayinge: come that we maye meete and take counsell together in the villages that are in the plaine of the citye Ono. Neuertheles they thoughte to doe me euyll. And I sent messengers vnto them, saying: I haue a great busynesse to doe, and I can not come downe. The woorke should stande stil, if I were negligente, and came downe to you. Howbeit, they sente vnto me as good as foure times after thesame maner. And I gaue them thesame answere. Then sente Sanabalat his seruaunt agayne vnto me the fifth time, with an open letter in his hande, wherein was writtē: it is tolde the heathen, and Gesem hath sayde it that thou and the Iewes thinke to rebell, for ꝑ whiche cause thou buyldeste the wall that thou mayest be theyr king in these matters, and hast ordeined the prophetes to preache of thee at Ierusalem, and to saye: He is king of Iuda. And now shal this come to ꝑ kinges eares, come now therfore, and let vs take our counsel together. And I sent vnto him saying: there is no suche thinges done as ꝑ saiest, for thou faynest thē out of thine owen hert. For they wer al minded to make vs afraide, sayinge: they shall withdrawe theyr handes from the woorke, that it shall not be finished. Howbeit, I strengthed my hande ꝑ more. And I came vnto ꝑ house of Semeia the sonne of Delaia the sonne of

Mehe-

Wherabout, and he had shut himself wtin, and sayde: lette vs come together into the house of God, euen vnto the middes of the temple, and shut ꝑ doores of the temple, for they will come to slaye the: yea, euen in the nighte will they come to put thee to death.
And I sayd: Should any such man as I flee?
who is that beyng as I am, that will goe into the temple, to saue his lyfe? I will not goe in. And I perceyued, that God hadde not sent him. Yet spake he prophecye vpon me, neuertheles Tobiah and Sanaballat had hyred him for moneye. Therefore toke he the money, that throughe feare I should so doe, and sinne: that they myghte haue an euyl reporte of me, to blaspheme me. My God thynke thou vpon Tobiah and Sanballat according vnto these their workes, and of the prophetes Noadia, and of the other prophetes that woulde haue put me in feare. And the wall was finished on the fyue and twentye day of the moneth Elul, in two and fyftye dayes. And when all our enemies hearde therof, all the heathen that were aboute vs, were afrayde, and theyr courage fayled them. And they perceiued, that this worke came of our God. And at the same time were there many of the chyef of Juda, whose letters wente vnto Tobiah, and agayne from Tobiah vnto them (for there were many in Juda, that were sworne vnto hym, for he was the sonne in law of Sechania, the sonne of Arah, & his sonne Jehonathan had the daughter of Meshullam, the sone of Barachia, and they spake good of hym before me, & tolde hym my woordes) and Tobyah sent letters, to put me in feare.

The. vii. Chapter.

After the wall ouerbuilded, is the watch appointed. They that returned from the captiuitie are numbred.

NOw whē the wal was builded, I hanged on the doores also, & the porters, singers, and Leuites were appointed. And I commaunded my brother Hanani, and Hanania the ruler of the castel at Jerusalem: for he was a faythful man, & feared god more thē did many other. And I sayd vnto them: let not the gates of Jerusalē be opened vntill the sunne be whote.
And whyle they were standing in the watch, they shut the doores, and barred them: And we appointed certain citizens of Jerusalē, appointed to be watchmē, euery one to kepe hys watche, & euery one to be ouer against hys house. As for the cyte, it was large of roume, & great: but the people were fewe therin, & the houses were not builded. And my god gaue me in my hearte, that I gatthered together the principal men, & the officers and the people, to number them: and I founde a register of the number of them
* whiche came vp before out of the captyuitye, and founde written therin: these are the somes of the lande that wente vp from the captiuitye of the carrying awaye (whō Nabuchodonozor the king of Babilō had brought away) and came againe to Jerusalem and Juda: euery one vnto his citye.
They which came with Zorobabel are these,
Jesua, Nehemia, Asariah, Raamia, Nahamani, Mardochee, Belsam, Mesperath, Beguai, Nahum, and Baanah. Thys is dred and three and fourtye: the men of Ramah and Geba, fyue hundred and one and twenty: the men of Michmas, an hundred and two and twentye: the menne of Bethell and Ai, an hundred and three and twenty: ꝑ men of Nebo, an hundred and two and fifty: the children of the other Elam, a thousande, two hundred and foure and fyftye: the chyldren of Harim, three hundred and twentye, the children of Jericho, three hundred and fiue and fourtye: the chyldren of Lodhadid and Ono, seuen hundred & one and twentye: the chyldren of Senaa, three thousande, nine hundred and thyrtye. The preistes. The childrē of Jedaiah of ꝑ house of Jesua, nine hundred and three and seuentye: the chyldren of Immer, a thousand and two and fiftye: the chyldren of Phashur, a thousande two hundred and seuen and .xl. the children of Harim, a thousand and .xvii.

The Leuites. The chyldren of Jesua of Cadmyel, and of the chyldren of Hoduah, foure and seuentye. The syngers: The children of Asaph, an hundred and eyghte and fourty. The porters: The childrē of Sallum, the chyldren of Ater, the chyldren of Talmon, the chyldren of Acub, the children of Hatita, the childrē of Sobai, altogether an hundred and eight and thyrtye. The Nethinims. The chyldren of ziha, the children of Hasupha: the chyldren of Tebaoth, the chyldren of Ceros: the chyldren of Sia, ꝑ chyldren of Phadon: the children of Lebanah: the children of Hagaba, the children of Salmai, the chyldren of Hanan: the childrē of Gidel: the children of Gaher: the childrē of Reaia, the children of Rezin: the childrē of Necoda: the children of Gasam: the children of Usa: the chyldren of Phaseah, the children of Besai, the children of Meunim, the children of Nephussim, the chyldren of Bachuc, the children of Hachupha, the children of Harhur, the chyldren of Bazlith, the chyldren of Mehida, the children of Harsa, the chyldren of Barcos, the chyldren of Sisera: the childrē of Thamah, the childrē of Neziah, the chyldren of Hatipha.

The chyldren of Salomons seruauntes: the chyldren of Sotai, the chyldren of Sophereth, the children of Pherida, the chyldren of Jaala, the chyldren of Darcon, the chyldren of Giddell, the chyldren of Saphatiah, the chyldren of Hatyl, the childrē of Pochereth of zabaim, ꝑ children of Amon. All these Nethinims, and ꝑ chyldren of Salomons seruauntes, were three hundred, nynetye and two.

And these went vppe also of Thel Mela, Thel Harsa, Cherub, Addon, and Immer: but they coulde not shewe theyr fathers house, nor theyr seede, and that they were of Israell. The chyldren of Dalaiah: the chyldren of Thobia, and the children of Nechoda, syxe hundred and two and fourtye. And of the preistes the chyldren of Habaiah, the chyldren of Hacos, the chyldren of Berzillai: whyche tooke one of the daughters of Berzillai the Gileadite to wyfe, and was named after theyr name. These soughte theyr writynge in ꝑ regyster of theyr generacion, but they were not founde, therefore they were put from the preisthoode.

And Hathirsata sayd vnto them, that they shoulde not eate of the moste holye, tyll there came vppe a preiste whiche shoulde weare Urim and Thumim. And so the whole congregacion together was two & fourtye thousande, three hundred and three score, beside theyr seruauntes and maydens, of whome there were seuē thousand, three hundred, and seuen and thyrtye. And they hadde two hundred, and seuen and fourtye syngynge men and women. Theyr horses, seuen hundred and syxe and thyrty, and their mules two hundred and fiue and fourtye. The camels foure hundred and .v. and thyrtye: syxe thousande, seuen hundred and twentye asses. And certain of the auncyente fathers gaue vnto the woorke. Hathirsatha gaue to the treasure a thousande pieces of golde, fyfty basens, fiue hundred and thirty preistes garmentes. And some of the chiefe fathers gaue vnto the treasure of the woorke, twentye thousande pyeces of golde, and two thousand and two hundred pound of siluer. And the other people gaue twentye thousande pieces of golde, & two thousande pounde of siluer, and three score and seuen preistes garmentes. And the preistes and Leuites, the porters and the syngers and the other of the people, and the Nethinims and all Israell, dwelte in theyr cities: And the seuenth moneth came, and the chyldren of Israell were in theyr cytyes.

The. viii. Chapter.

Esdras gathereth together the people, and readeth to them the law. They kepe the feast of tabernacles as before.

AND all * the people gathered them selues together, as one manne, in the strete that was before the watergate, and they sayde vnto Esdras the scrybe, that he shoulde fetche * the booke of the law of Moses, whyche the lorde commaunded to Israell. And Esdras the preiste brought the lawe before the congregacion both of men and women: and all that coulde vnderstande

hande dydde hearken vnto it, vpon the fyrste day of the seuenth moneth: and he read therein, in the streete that was before the watergate (from the morninge vntyll the noone daye) before menne and womenne that dyd hearken to it: and the eares of all the people were inclyned vnto the booke of the lawe. And Esdras the Scrybe stoode vpon an hye pulpit of wood, which they had made for the preching, and beside him stode Mathathia, Sema, Anania, Uziah, Helkia, and Maaseia: on his right hande, and on hys lefte hande stoode Pedaia, Misael, Malchia, Hasum, Hasebadana, Zacharí, and Mesulam. And Esdras opened the boke before the people, for he stode aboue al the people: And when he opened it, all the people stoode vp. And Esdras praysed the Lord the great God. And al the people aunswered: Amen, Amen, with theyr handes vp, and bowed themselues, and worshipped the Lorde, fallyng downe vpon theyr faces to the ground. And Iesua, Baam, Serabiah, Jamin, Acub, Sebathai, Hadaia, Maasia, Celita, Azaria, Jozabad, Hanan, Pelaia, & the Leuites caused the people to geue hede vnto the lawe, and the people stode in their place. And they read in the boke of the lawe of God distinctly and playnly, so that menne vnderstode the thing that was read. And Nehemiah (which is Hathirsatha) & Esdras the Priest and scribe, and the Leuites that caused ỳ people to take hede, sayd vnto al the people: this day is holy vnto the Lord your God: be not you sory, & wepe not. For al the people wepte, when they hearde the woordes of the lawe. And he sayde vnto them: * go your waye and eate the fatte, and dryncke the swete, and send part vnto them also that haue not prepared themselues: for thys day is holye vnto our Lorde, bee not ye sory therfore: for the ioye of the lorde is your strengthe. And the Leuites stylled al ỳ people, & sayd: holde your peace, for the day is holye, vexe not ye your selfes. And al the people wente theyr waye to eate and dryncke, and to sende parte vnto other, and to make great myrth: because they had vnderstande the woordes that were declared vnto them. And on the nexte daye were gathered together the chiefe fathers amonge all the people, and the Priestes and Leuites, vnto Esdras the scribe, that they myghte vnderstande the woordes of the lawe. And they founde written in the law, * (which the lord had commaunded by Moses) that the chyldren of Israel shoulde dwell in bothes, in the feaste of the seuenth moneth, and that they shoulde cause it to bee declared and proclamed in al theyr cities, and throweout Jerusalem, saying: goe foorth vnto the mounte, and fetche olyue braunches, pinebranches, myrtbranches, palmebranches, and braunches of thicke trees, to make bothes, as it is written. And so the people went furth, and fet them, and made them bothes, euerye one vpon the roofe of his house, and in theyr courtes, and in the courtes of the house of God, and in the strete by the watergate, and in the strete by porte Ephraim. And all the congregacion of them that were come again out of the captiuitie, made bothes, & sate vnder the bothes: for synce the time of Josua the sonne of Nun vnto thys day, had not the children of Israel done so, and there was very great gladnesse. And euery daye from the firste day vnto the laste, read Esdras in the booke of the law of God. And seuen dayes helde they the feast, and on the eight day they gathered together, accordyng vnto the maner.

The. ix. Chapter.

The people repent, and forsake theyr straunge wyues. Esdras reciteth the benefytes of God, and the synnes of the people.

IN the .xxiiii. daye of thys moneth, came the chyldren of Israell together agayne with *fastyng, sackeclothes, & earth vpon them: & they that were of the seede of Israell were separated from all the straunge children, and stoode, and knowledged their sinnes, and the wickednesses of their fathers, & stode vp in their place & read in the booke of the law of the lord their god. iiii. times on the day: and they knowledged and worshypped the lorde their god. iiii. times on the daye. And the Leuites stode on hye, namely Iesua, Bani, Cadmiell, Sabaniah, Buni, Sarebiah, Bani and Canani, and cried loude vnto the lord their God. And the Leuites, Jesua and Cadmiel, Bani and Hasabnia, Serebia and Hodia, Sebania and Phathahya, sayde: stande vp, and prayse the Lord your god for euer: and let thankes bee geuen vnto the name of thy glorye, whiche excelleth all thankesgeuyng and prayse. Thou art lorde alone. Thou hast

And whē they conuerted and cryed vnto the, thou heardest them from heauen, and many tymes hast thou delyuered them accordynge to thy great mercye, and testyfyedst vnto them that thou myghtest bryng them agayne vnto thy lawe. Notwithstandyng, they were proude, and hearkened not vnto thy commaundementes, but sinned in thy lawes *(which if a man do, he shal liue in thē) and turned the shoulder away, and were stiffe necked, and would not heare. And many yeres didst thou forbeare thē, and testifyedst vnto thē thorow thy spirite, euen by the hande of thy prophetes: and yet would they not heare. Therfore gauest thou them into the hand of the nacyons in the landes. And for thy greate mercies sake, thou hast not vtterly consumed them, neyther forsaken them: for thou art a gracious and mercifull God. *Nowe therfore our God, thou greate God, mighty and terryble, thou that kepest couenaunt and mercy, regarde not a litle al the trauayle that hath happened vnto vs, & our kinges, our Princes, our priestes, our Prophetes & our fathers, and all thy people synce the tyme of the kinges of Assur vnto this day. And truely thou art iust, in al ꝑ thou hast brought vpon vs: for thou hast done right. As for vs we haue bene vngodly, & our kinges, and our prynces, our Priestes, and oure fathers, haue not doone after thy lawe, nor regarded thy commaundementes, & thy earnest exhortacyons wherewith thou hast exhorted them: and they haue not serued ther in theyr kingdome, and in thy great goodes that thou gauest them, and in the large and plenteous lande whiche thou gauest before them, and haue not conuerted from theyr wicked workes. Beholde, we are in bondage thys daye: and so is the lande that thou gauest vnto oure fathers, to enioye the fruites and goodes therof: beholde, ther are we bondmenne. And greate is the increase of it vnto the kinges whome thou hast set ouer vs, because of our synnes: and they haue domynyon ouer our bodies and cattell (euen as they will themselues) and we are in great trouble. And in all this make we a sure couenante, and wryte it, and our prynces, Leuites, and priestes seale vnto it.

The .x. Chapter.

The names of them that sealed the couenaunt betweene God and the people.

A The sealers were Nehemiah (that is Hathirsatha: the sonne of Hachalia, and Zedekia) Sarata, Asariah, & Jeremy, Phachur, Amaria, Malchia, Hatus, Sebaniah, Malluch, Harim, Meremoth, and Obadia, Daniel, Jenthon, & Baruch, Mesulam, Abia, and Miamin, Maasia, Belgai and Semeia: these were Priestes. The Leuites were Jesua the sonne of Azania, Benui, among the chyldren of Henadad and Cadmiel. And their brethren Sechania, Hodia, Celita, Pelaia, Hanan, Micha, Rehob, and Hasabiah, Zachur, Serebia, Sabania, Hodia, Bani and Beninu. The heades of the people were, Pharez the captayne of Moab, Elam, Zathu and Bany, Bony, Asgad, Bebai, Adonia, Begoai, Adin, Ater, Hezekia, Asur, Hodia, Hasum, Besai, Hariph, Anathoth and Nebai, Magphias, Mesulā, Hesir, Meselabel, Zadoc, Jaddua, Phalatia, Hanan, Anaia, Hosea, Hanania, Hasub, Halohes, Phalea, Sobek, Rehum, Hasebna, Maasia, Ahia, Hanan and Anan, Malluch, Harim, and Baana. And the other people, ꝑ Priestes, B Leuites, porters, Singers, Nethinims & al they that had separated themselues from the people in the landes vnto the lawe of God, with theyr wyues, theyr sonnes and theyr daughters, and as many as couldē vnderstand, & theyr lordes that had rule of thē, receyued it for theyr brethren. * And they came to sweare and to bind themselues with an oth to walke in Gods law, which was geuen by Moses the seruāt of god: & that they would obserue & do accordyng vnto al the commaundementes, iudgementes & statutes of the lord our God: * & that we would not geue our daughters vnto ꝑ people, in the lande, neither to take theyr daughters for oure sonnes. * And if the people of the land broughte ware on the Sabboth, and all maner of vitayles to sell, ꝑ we would not take it of them on ꝑ Sabboth and on the holye dayes: * & that we woulde let the seauenth yere be free, concernyng all maner of charge. And we decreed a statute vpon our selues, to geue yerely the thirde parte of a sicle to the ministracion in the house of our God, to the shewbread, to the dayly meatoffring, to the dayly burute offeryng of the Sabbothes, of the newe moones and feaste- C

dayes, and to the thinges that were sanctifyed, and to ꝑ offeringes of attonement to reconcile Israel withal, and to all the busines in the house of our god. And we cast the lot among the ꝓiestes, Leuites, and the people, for offeryng of the wood to bee broughte vnto the house of oure god from yere to yere, after the houses of our fathers: that it myghte bee bzente at times appoynted, vpon the auiter of the Lorde God, as it is written in the lawe: and to bring the firstlinges of our lande, and the firstlynges of our fruites of all trees, yere by yere vnto the house of the Lord: and the firstlinges of our sonnes, and of our cattell, as it is written in the lawe, and the firstlinges of our oxen and of our shepe, which we should bring to ꝑ house of our God vnto the ꝓiestes that minister in the house of our god: and ꝑ we should bring ꝑ firstlynges of our dough and of our heueoffrynges, & the fruites of all maner of trees, of wine also, and of oyle, vnto the Ꝓiestes, to the chestes of the house of our God. And the tythes of our land vnto the Leuites, ꝑ the Leuites might haue the tythes in all the cities of our ministracion. And the Ꝓiest the sone of Aaron shal with the Leuites, haue also of the tythes of the Leuites, so that ꝑ Leuites shal bring vp the tithes of their tythes vnto the house of our God, to the store houses, and to the treasure houses. For the children of Israell, and the children of Leui, shal bring vp the heueoffrynges of the corne, wyne and oyle vnto the store houses, there as are the vessels of the Sanctuary: and the Ꝓiestes that minyster, and the porters and syngers, that we forsake not ꝑ house of oure god.

The xi. Chapter.

Who dwelled in Ierusalem after it was builded, and who in the cities of Iuda.

AND the rulers of the people dwelte at Ierusalem: The other people also caste lottes, that among x. one parte should goe to Ierusalem into the holye citie to dwell, and nine partes to be in the cities: and the people thanked al the menne that were willing to dwel at Ierusalē. These are the heades of the lande that dwelt in Ierusalem and in the cities of Iuda, euerye one in hys possession, and in theyr cities: they of Israel, the ꝓiestes, Leuites ꝑ Nethinims, and the children of Salomons seruauntes. And at Ierusalem dwelte certayne of the chyldren of Iuda & of Beniamin. Of the children of Iuda: Athaia the sonne of Uzia, the sonne of zachari, the sonne of Amaria, the sonne of Saphatia, the sonne of Mahalaleel, of the chyldren of Phares. And Maasia the sonne of Baruch, the sonne of Chal Hose, the sonne of Hasaia, the sonne of Adaia, the sonne of Ioiarib, the sonne of zacharia, the sonne of Siloni. Al these were the chyldren of Phares that dwelte at Ierusalem, euen foure hundred, thyrtescore and eyghte valeaunte menne. These are the chyldren of Beniamin, Salu the sonne of Mesullam, ꝑ sonne of Joed, the sonne of Pedaia, the sonne of Colaia, the sonne of Maasia, the sonne of Ithiel, the sonne of Isai. And after hym Gabai, Sellai, nine hundred & xxviii. And Joell ꝑ sonne of zichri had the ouersyght of them: and Iuda the sone of Senua was next ouer the citie. * Of the Ꝓiestes: Iedaiah the sonne of Ioiarib, Jachin, Saraiah the sonne of Helkia, the sonne of Mesullam, the sonne of zadoc, the sonne of Meraioth, the sonne of Ahitob, was Ꝓince in the house of God: and hys brethren that perfourmed the woorke in the temple, viii. C. and xxii. And Adaia the sonne of Ieroham, the sonne of Phalaliel, the sone of Inzi, the sonne of zachari, the sonne of Phashur, the sonne of Malchia, and hys brethren chiefe amonge the fathers, two hundred and two and fourty. And Amasai the sonne of Iazerell, the sonne of Ahasai, the sonne of Mosolemoth, the sonne of Immer: and hys brethren were valeaunte menne, an hundred and eyghte and twentye. And theyr ouerseer was zabdiel a sonne of one of the greate men.

* Of the Leuytes: Semeia the sonne of Hasub, the sonne of Asrikam, the sone of Hasabia the sonne of Bunni, and Sabathai, and Iosabad of the chefe of the Leuites, had the ouersyght of the outwarde busynesse of the house of God. And Mathania, the sonne of Micha, the sonne of zabdy, the sonne of Asaph, was the principall to begynne the thankesgeuing and prayer. And Bakbukia the second among hys brethren, and Abda, the sonne of Hammua, the sonne of Galal, ꝑ sonne of Ieduthum. All the Leuytes in the holy cytie were two hundred, foure score and foure. * And the porters Acub and Talmon, and theyr brethren that

kepte

kepte the portes, were an hundred and two and seuentie. As for the residue of Israell, the Priestes and Leuytes, they were in all the cities of Juda, euery one in his inheritaunce. And the Nethinims dwelte in Ophel: and Ziba and Gispa was set ouer the Nethinims. The ouerseer of the Leuites at Jerusalem was Usi, the sonne of Baany, the sõne of Hasabia, the sonne of Mathania, the sonne of Micha. Of the chyldren of Asaph there were syngers about the busynesse in the house of GOD, for it was the kynges commaundemente concernynge them: that the syngers shoulde deale faythefully euery daye as was accordyng. And Pathaia the sonne of Mesababel of the chyldren of Zerah the sonne of Juda, serue the kynge in all matters concerning the people, and theyr byllages & landes. And some of the children of Juda that were without in the townes of theyr land, dwelte at Kariath Arbe, and in the villages therof: at Dibon, and in the villages therof: and at Jecabzeel, and in the byllages thereof: at Jesua, Moladath, Bethphalet in the towne of Sual, Beersseba, and in theyr byllages: at Siklag and Moconah, and in theyr villages: and at Enremon, Zarah, Jerimoth, Zonoa, Odollam, and in theyr byllages: at Lachis and in the feldes therof: at Aseka, and in the byllages therof: and they dwelt frõ Bersabe vnto the valey of Hinnon. The chyldren also of Ben Jamin, of Geba, dwelt at Machmas, Aia, Bethel, and in theyr byllages. And at Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, Hazor, Ramah, Gethaim, Hadyd, Zeboim, Nabalath, Lod and Ono, the carpenters valleye. And the Leuites hadde possessyon bothe in Juda, and in Beniamin.

¶ The. xii. Chapter.

The priestes and Leuites which came with Zorobabel vnto Jerusalem are nombred, and the walle is dedicate.

THese are the Priestes and Leuites that wente vp with Zorobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and with Jesua, Saraia, Jeremy and Esdras, Amaria, Maluch, Hatus, Sechadia, Rehum, Merimoth, Iddo, Genthoi, Abia, Miamin Maadia, Belga, Semeia, Joiarib, Jadaia, Salu, Amocke, Helkia & Jadaia: These were the heades among the priestes, and theyr brethren, in the dayes of Jesua. The Leuites were these: Jesua, Bennui, Cadmiel, Sarabia, Juda, and Mathania, whiche was ouer the office of thankesgeuing, he and his brethrẽ. Bachukia and Himui, and theyr brethren, were about them in the watches. Jesua begat Joakim: Joakim also begat Eliasib: and Eliasib begat Joiada: Joiada begat Jonathan: and Jonathan begat Jadua. In the dayes of Joakim were these the chiefe fathers among the Priestes: vnder Saraia, Maraia: vnder Jeremye, Hanania: vnder Esdras, Mesullam: vnder Amaria, Jehoanan: vnder Melico, Jonathan: vnder Sebania, Joseph: vnder Harim, Adna: vnder Maraioth, Helca: vnder Iddo, Zachari: vnder Genthon, Mesullam: vnder Abia, Zichri: vnder Miniamin and Moadia, Pilrai: vnder Belga, Samua: vnder Semeia, Jehonathã: vnder Joiarib, Mathenai: vnder Jadaia, Usi: vnder Selai, Kelai: vnder Amok, Eber: vnder Helchia, Hasabia: vnder Jadaia, Nathanael. And in the tyme of Eliasib, Joadia, Johanan and Jadua, were the chiefe fathers among the Leuites and the Priestes, written vnder the reigne of Darius the Persian. The chyldren of Leui, the pryncypal fathers were written in the Chronicles vnto the tyme of Jonathan the sonne of Eliasib. And these were the chiefe amõg the Leuites: Hasabia, Serebia, & Jesua the sonne of Cadmiel, & their brethren in theyr presence to geue prayse & thankes, according as Dauid the man of god had ordeyned it, one watch ouer against another: Mathania, Balbukia, Obadia, Mesullam, Talmon and Acub were porters in the watche at the thresholdes of the gates. These were in the dayes of Joakim the sonne of Jesua, the sonne of Josedec, and in the dayes of Nehemia the captayne, & of the Priest Esdras the Scribe. And in ỳ dedication of ỳ walle at Jerusalẽ, they sought ỳ Leuites out of all theyr places, that they might bee brought to Jerusalẽ to kepe ỳ dedicatiõ & gladnes, wt thankesgeuinges & singing with cimbales, psalteries & harpes. And the children of the singers gathered theselues together from euery side out of ỳ plain coũtrey about Jerusalem, & from ỳ villages of Netophathi, from ỳ house of Gilgal, & out of ỳ cũtries of Seba, & Almaueth

Israueth: for the syngers had buylded them villages round about Jerusalem. And the Priestes and Leuites were purified, & clensed the people, and the gates and the walle. And I broughte the princes of Juda vp vpon the walle, and appoynted two great quieres of menne to geue thankes, which went on the ryghte hand of the walle toward ꝑ dong gate, & after them went Hosaia, and halfe of the Princes of Juda, and Israria, Esdras, & Mesullam, Juda, Semaiun, Semia & Jeremy: & certayn of the priestes childrē with trompettes, namely zachari ꝑ sōne of Jonathan, the soune of Semeia, the soune of Mathania, ꝑ soune of Michaia the soune of zacur, ꝑ soune of Israph and his brethren. Semeia, Israel, Malalai Gilalai, Maai, Nathanael, & Juda & Hanani, with ꝑ musical instrumētes of Dauid ꝑ man of god. And Esdras ꝑ scribe went before them, & beside the welgate, they went vp ouer agaynst them vpon ꝑ steppes of the citie of Dauid, at ꝑ going vp of the wall beyond the house of Dauid, vnto the water gate Eastward. The other quiere of them that gaue thankes, went ouer agaynst them, & I after them, and the halfe part of the people vpon the walle, beyonde the fornace gate vnto the brode walle, & beyond ꝑ port of Ephraim, & beyond the olde gate, beyond ꝑ fishgate, & the tower of Hananeli, & the tower of Mea, vntil ꝑ shepegate. And they stode stil in the prison gate, and so stode the two quieres (of them that gaue thankes) in the house of God: & I and ꝑ halfe of the rulers with me, and the priestes, namelye Eliakim, Maasia, Miniamin, Michaia, Elioenai, zachari, & Hanania, with trompettes, & Maasia, Semeiah, Eleasar, Uzzi, Jehohanan, Melchiah, Elam & Ser. And the syngers sang loude, hauing Jesrahiah for their ouerseer. And the same day they offered great sacrifices & reioysed: for god had geuen them great gladnes, so ꝑ both the wyues and chyldren were ioyful: and the mirth of Jerusalem was heard farre of. At the same time were there men appointed ouer the treasure houses (wherin were the heue offeringes, the firstlinges, & the tythes) that they shoulde gather them out of the fieldes aboute the cities, to distribute them vnto the Priestes and Leuites, according to the lawe: for Juda was glad of the Priestes and Leuites, that they stode & wayted vpon the office of their God, which is a pure office. And the syngers & porters stode after the commaundement of Dauid, and of Salomon hys sonne, * for in ꝑ time of Dauid & Israph, were the chiefe singers founded, and the songes of prayse & thankesgeuyng vnto God. In the time of zorobabell, and Nehemiah did al they of Israell, geue portions vnto the singers and porters, euery daye his portion, and they gaue tithes vnto the Leuites, and the Leuites gaue tythes again vnto the children of Aaron.

The. xiii. Chapter.

The lawe is read, and when they haue heard it they separate from them al straungers. &c.

AND that daye did they reade in the boke of Moses, & the people harkened therto, & there was foūd written, * that ꝑ Ammonites and Moabites should neuer come into the congregation of god, because they met not the children of Israel with breade & water: * but hyred Balaam against thē, that he shoulde curse them, and our god turned the curse into a blessing. Now when they heard ꝑ law, it fortuned that they separated frō Israel euery one that had mixt himselfe therein. And before this had the priest Eliasib the ouersighte of the treasurye of the house of our God, and he was kynsman to Tobia: & had made him a greate chaumbre, and there had they afore tyme layde the offeringes, frankensence, vessel, and the tythes of corne, wyne & oyle (according to the commaundemente geuen to the Leuites, singers and porters) and the heue offeringes of the priestes. But in al thys tyme was not I at Jerusalem: for in the .xxxii. yere of Artharexes king of Babilon, came I vnto the kyng, and after certayn dayes obtayned I lycence of the king to come to Jerusalem. And I gate knowledge of the euyll that Eliasib did vnto Tobia, in that he hadde made him a chaumbre in the court of the house of god. and it grieued me sore: and I cast furth al the vesselles of the house of Tobia oute of the chambre, and commaundēd them to clense the chaumbres. And thither brought I again ꝑ vesselles of the house of god, with ꝑ meatoffering and the incense. And I perceiued that the portions of the Leuites were not geuen them, and that euerye one fledde to hys lande, euen the Leuites and syngers that executed the woorke. Then reproued ted I the rulers, and sayde: why is the house of God forsaken? And I gathered them together, and sette them in theyr place. Then brought al Juda the tythes of corne and wine, and oyle, vnto the treasure. And I made treasurers ouer ꝑ treasure, euen Selemiah the Priest, and Zadoc the scribe, and of the Leuites, Phadaia, and vnder theyr hande was Hanan the sonne of Zacur, the sonne of Mathania, for they were counted faythfull, and theyr office was to distribute the porcyons vnto theyr brethren. * Thynke vpon me, O my God herein, and wype not out my mercye that I haue shewed on the house of my God, and on the offyces thereof. * 1.Chr.9.d. In the same tyme sawe I some treadyng winepresses on the Sabboth, and bryngyng in sheues, and asses laden with wine, grapes, figges and bringing all maner of burthens vnto Jerusalem vpon the Sabboth day. And I rebuked them earnestlye the same daye that they solde the vittayles. There dwelt men of Tyre also therein, which broughte fyshe and all maner of ware, and solde on the Sabboth vnto the chyldren of Juda in Jerusalem. Then reproued I the rulers in Juda, and sayde vnto them: what euil thing is this that ye doe, and breake the Sabboth day? Dyd not your fathers euen thus, and our God brought all thys plage vpon vs, and vpon thys citie? And ye make the wrath more yet vpon Israel, in that ye breake the Sabboth. And it fortuned that when the portes of Jerusalem began to be darke in the euening before the Sabboth, I commaunded to shutte the gates, and charged that they shoulde not be opened til after the Sabboth: and some of my seruantes set I at the gates, that there shoulde no burthen be brought in on the Sabboth day. The remained ꝑ chapmen & marchantes once or twise ouer night without Jerusalem, with al maner of wares. Then reproued I them sore, & sayd vnto them: why tary ye al night about the walle? If ye doe it once agayn, I wil lay handes vpon you. From that time furth came they no more on the Sabboth. And I sayd vnto ꝑ Leuites ꝑ they shoulde cleanse themselues, & that they shoulde come & kepe the gates, to halow ꝑ Sabboth day. Thynke vpon me (O my god) concerning this also, and spare me according to thy great mercy. And at the same time sawe I Jewes that maried wiues of Asdod, of Ammon and of Moab, and theyr children spake halfe in the speche of Asdod, and coulde not speake in the Jewes language, but by ꝑ tong might a man perceiue euery people. Then I reproued them, and cursed them, and smote certayne men of them, & made them bare, & toke an oth of them by God: Ye shall not geue your daughters vnto their sones, neither shalye take their daughters vnto your sones, or for your selues. Did not Salomō the king of Israel sinne for such? and yet among manye heathē was there no king like him which was dere vnto his god, & god made him kyng ouer all Israel: & yet neuertheless, outlandish women caused him to sinne. Shal we then obey vnto you, to doe all this great euil, & to transgresse agaynste our God, and mary strange wyues? And one of the children of Jehoiada the sonne of Eliasib the hye priest, had made a contract with Sanaballat the Horonite: but I chased him fro me: (O my god) thinke thou vpon them that defyle the Priesthood, and the couenant of the priesthod & of the Leuites. Thus cleansed I them from al such as were outlandyshe, & appoynted the courses of the priestes and Leuites euery one in his office, and to offer the wood at tymes appoynted, and ꝑ firste fruites: Thynke thou vpon me (O my God) for the best. (Amen.)

The ende of the seconde booke of Esdras, otherwise called, the boke of Nehemia.

The booke of Esther.

The first Chapter.

King Ahasuerus maketh a royal feast, whereunto ꝑ quene Vasthi will not come, for which cause she is deuorced.

IT fortuned, in ꝑ dayes of Ahasuerus, which reigned fro Judia vnto Ethiopia (ouer an. C. & xxvii. landes) euē in those dayes when ꝑ king Ahasuerus sat on his seate royal, whiche was in Susan ꝑ chiefe citie, in the thirde yere of his reigne: he made a feast vnto al his princes & seruauntes. And ꝑ mighty menne of Persia and Media, the Captaynes also & rewlers of his countreyes were before hym, & he shewed the riches

and

and glory of hys kyngdome, and the glorious worshippe of his greatnes manye dayes long: euen an. C. and. lxxx. dayes.

And when these dayes were expired, the B king made a feaste to all the people that were in Susan the chiefe citie, bothe vnto great and small. vii. dayes long, in the court of the garden by the kinges palace: where there hanged white, greene and yelow clothes, fastened with cordes of fine lyne, and purple, in syluer rynges, vpon pilliers of marble stone. The benches also were of golde and syluer, made vpon a pauemente of greene, white, yelowe, and blacke marble. And they dranke in vessels of golde. And changed vessel after vessel. And ꝑ kinges wine was much according to the power of the kyng. And the drinke was so appoynted, that none should compel any manne: for so the king had commaunded by the officers of hys house, that euery one should doe, as it liked hym. And the Quene Vasthi made a feast also for the women in the palace of Thasuerus. And on the seuenth day whē the king was merry after the wyne, he cōmaunded Mehuman, Bizetha, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagthan, Zethar, and Carchas, the. vii. chamberlaynes (that dyd seruice in the presēce of king Thasuerus) to feth C Vasthi with the crowne regall into the kinges presence, that he might shewe the people and princes her fayrenes, for she was beautifull. But the Quene Vasthi would not come at the kynges word, by hys chamberlaynes. Then was the kyng very wroth, and his indignation kindled in hym. And the kyng spake to the wysemen, that had vnderstanding in the ordinaunces of the lande: for the kinges matters must be handled before all suche as haue knowledge of the lawe and iudgemente: and the (chiefe and) nexte vnto hym, were Carsena, Sethar, Admata, Tharsis, Mares, Marsena and Mamucan, the seauen princes of Persia and Media, which saw the kinges face, & satte aboue in the kingdom. What law (saieth ꝑ king) should be executed vpon ꝑ quene Vasthi bycause she dydde not according to the worde of the kyng Thasuerus, whiche he commaunded by hys chaūberlaynes? D And Memucan aunswered before the kyng and the princes: The quene Vasthi hath not onely doone euyll agaynste the kyng, but also agaynste all the princes, and agaynst all the people that are in all the landes of king Thasuerus: for thys dede of the quene shal come abroade vnto all women, so that they shall despyse theyr husbandes, before theyr eyes, and shal say: the king Thasuerus commaunded Vasthi the quene to bee brought in before hym, but she wouldе not come. And so shall the princesses in Persia and Media, saye lykewise vnto al the kinges princes, when they heare of this dede of the Quene: thus shal there arise to much despytefulnesse and wrathe. If it please the kyng therfore, lette there goe a commaundemente from hym, and lette it bee written according to the lawes of the Persians, and Medians (and not to bee E transgressed) that Vasthi come no more before king Thasuerus: and let the kyng geue her kingdome vnto an other that is better then she. And when this commaūdement of the kyng (which shal be made) is published throughout all his empire, (whiche is great) al women shall honour theyr husbandes in honour both among greate and small. Thys pleased the king and the princes, and the kyng dyd according vnto the worde of Memucan. For he sent letters foorth into all the kynges landes, into euerye lande according to the writyng therof, and to euerye people after theyr language, that euery man shoulde be lorde in his owne house. And this caused he to be spoken after the language of hys people.

The. ii. Chapter.

After the Quene is putte away, certayne goodly young damoselles are searched out. Hester, otherwyse called Esther, pleaseth the king, and is made Quene. Mardochius openeth vnto the kyng those that wouldе betray hym.

AFter these actes, when the displeasure of kyng Thasuerus was nowe layde, he thoughte vpon Vasthi, and what she had doone, and what was concluded against her. Then sayde the kynges seruauntes that ministred vnto hym: Lette there be fayre young virgins sought for the king: and the kyng appoynte certayne menne in all the landes of hys empyre, whome he charged that they shoulde bring together all the fayre younge virgyns vnto Susan the head citie, to the womenes house, vnder the hande of Hegei the kynges chamberlayne, that kepte the weomenne to geue them theyr apparell,

(and other thinges necessarye to be had.) And that the damsell whiche pleased the king should be in quene Vasthis stead. And this pleased the kyng: and he dyd so. In the citie of Susan there was a Jewe, whose name was Mardocheus the sonne of Jaire, the sonne of Semei, the sonne of Cis a mã of Jemini, whiche was caryed away from Jerusalem* when Jechonia the kynge of Juda was led away, (whom Nabuchodonozor the kinge of Babilon caryed thence) and he nourished Hadassa (yis Esther) his vncles daughter: for she hadde neyther father nor mother, and she was a fayre beutiful damsel: whom Mardocheus (when her father and mother was deade) receyued for hys owne daughter. So it fortuned, that whē the kinges commaundement and commission was published, and many e damselles were brought together in the citie of Susan, vnder the hand of Hagei: Esther was brought also vnto the kinges house, vnder the hand of Hagei the keper of the women, and the damsell pleased him, and she found fauoure in his sight. And he caused ornamentes to be geuen her, and suche thynges as belonged to her, and appointed her seuē comely damsels out of the kinges house, & fauoured bothe her and her gentil women syngularly in the house of the women. But Esther shewed not her people and her kynred: for Mardocheus had charged her that she shoulde not tell it. And Mardocheus walked euery daye before the courte of the womens house, that he myght know how Esther dyd, & what should become of her.

And when the appoynted tyme of euerye damsell came, that she shoulde goe in to the kyng Ahasuerus, after that she had bene twelue monethes in the dect kynge of the women (for theyr dect kynge must haue so muche tyme, namelye, syxe monethes wyth balme and myrre, and sixe monethes wyth good spyces, so were the wemenne beautyfyed) then wente there one damsel vnto the king, and whatsoeuer she required (so that it were comelye) that muste be geuen her, to goe with her oute of the womens buyldynge vnto the kynges palace. In the euenyng she wente, and on the morowe again into the seconde house of the women, a dynge vnder the hande of Saasgas the kynges chamberlayne, whiche kepte the concubines.

And she came in vnto the kyng nomore, except it pleased the kyng to haue her, and that he called her by name. Nowe when the tyme came of Esther the daughter of Abihan the vncle of Mardocheus (whiche hadde receyued her as his own daughter) that she shoulde come in to the kyng, she desyred nothinge, but what Hagei the kinges chamberlaine the keper of the women, said.

And Esther founde fauoure in the syght of al them that loked vpon her. And Esther was taken vnto kinge Ahasuerus into his house royal in ỹ .x. moneth, which is the moneth* Tebeth, in the seuenth yere of his reygne. And the kyng loued Esther aboue all the women, and she founde grace and fauoure in hys syght before al the virgins: so that he set the crowne of the kyngdome vpon her heade, and made her quene in stede of Vasthi. And the kynge made a greate feaste vnto all his Princes and seruauntes (whiche feast was because of Esther) and caused the landes to be in quietenesse, and gaue gifftes, as became the royalty of a kynge.

And when the virgyns were gathered together the seconde tyme, Mardocheus sate in the kinges gate. And as yet had not Esther shewed her kynred and her people, according as Mardocheus had bidden her: for Esther did after the word of Mardocheus, lyke as yf she had bene yet vnder his gouernaunce. At the same tyme whyle Mardocheus sat in the kynges gate, two of the kinges chamberlaynes, Bigthan & Theres, whych kept the doze, were wroth, and sought to laye theyr handes on the kynge Ahasuerus: whereof also Mardocheus gatte knowledge * and tolde it vnto Quene Esther, and Esther certifyed the kynge thereof in Mardocheus name. And when inquysycion was made, it was found so. And they wer both hanged on tre: and it was written in the chronicles before the kynge.

Esth.6.a

The.iii. Chapter.

Haman the Agagedonian, after he was exalted obteyned of the kynge, that all the Jewes shoulde dye cruell deathe, because Mardocheus hadde not doone hym worshyppe as other hadde.

AFTER these Actes did the kynge Ahasuerus promote Haman the sonne of Amadatha the Agagite, and sette hym on hye, and sette his seat aboue al the pryuces that he had with him. And al the kinges seruauntes that were in the kynges gate, bowed theyr knees, and worshipped worshipped Haman: for the king had so commaunded concerninge him. But Mardocheus bowed not the knee, and worshipped him not. Then the kinges seruauntes whiche were in the kinges gate, sayd vnto Mardocheus: why transgressest thou the kynges commaundement? And when they spake this dayly vnto hym, he folowed the not, and they told Haman: that they might see how Mardocheus matters would endure: for he had tolde them, that he was a

B Jewe. And when Haman saw þ Mardocheus bowed not the knee vnto hym, nor worshipped him, he was full of indignacion, and thoughte it to litle to laye handes only on Mardocheus: for they had shewed him the nacion of Mardocheus, wherfore he sought to destroye al the Jewes, þ were throughout the whole empire of Ahasuerus, and that were of the nacion of Mardocheus. In the fyrste moneth (that is the moneth Nisan) in the twelueth yeare of king Ahasuerus, they cast Phur (that is a lot) before Haman from daye to daye, and from moneth to moneth to the .xii. moneth, that is þ moneth Ader. And Haman sayd vnto kyng Ahasuerus: There is here a people scattered abrode, and dispersed amonge
C al people in all the landes of thyne empyre, and they haue their lawes contrary from all people, and dooe not after the kynges lawes: neyther is it the kynges profyte to suffer them after thys maner. If it please the kynge, let it be wrytten that they may be destroyed, and so will I weye downe ten thousande talentes of syluer by the handes of the workemen, to bee broughte into the kynges treasure. And the kynge tooke his ryng from his hand, and gaue it vnto Haman the sonne of Amidatha the Agagite the Jewes enemye. And the king sayd vnto Haman: Let the siluer be geuen the, and dooe with that people as it pleaseth thee.
D Then were the kinges scribes called on the March e. thirteth day of the first moneth (Nisan) and there was written (accordyng as Haman commaunded) vnto al the kinges officers, and to the captaynes that wer in all landes, and to þ rulers of euery people in the countryes on euery syde, accordinge to the writyng of euery nation, and after their language: in þ name of kyng Ahasuerus was it written, and sealed with þ kynges ring. And the writinges were sente by postes in to al the kynges landes, to roote out, to kil, and to destroy al Jewes both younge and old, children and women, in one day (namely, vpon the thirteuth day of the twelueth moneth, whiche is the moneth Ader) and to spoile their goodes. This was þ sume of the writing, that there should be a commaundement geuen in al landes, and published vnto all people, that they should be ready against the same day. And the postes went in al the haste, according to þ kinges commaundemente. And in Susan þ chiefe citye was the commaundemente deuised. And the king and Haman sat and dranke, when in the meane time the city of Susan was disquieted.

The .iiii. Chapter.

Mardocheus geueth the Quene knowlage of the cruell decre of the kynge agayns the Jewes.

WHEN Mardocheus perceyued all that was done, he rente hys clothes, and putte on sackecloth with ashes, and went out into þ myddes of the cytye, and cryed loude, and lamentably, and came before the kynges gate, but he myghte not enter wythin the kynges gate, because he hadde sackecloth on.

And in al landes, countreyes and places, as farreas the kynges woorde and commaundemente extended, there was great lamentacion amonge the Jewes, fasting, weepynge and mournynge, and manye lay in sackeclothes and in ashes. So Esthers damsels and her chamberlaynes came and told it her. Then was the Quene exceedingly astonied. And she sente rayment that Mardocheus should put on, & lay sackecloth from him. But Mardocheus would not take them. Then called Esther Hathath one of the kinges chamberlaines (whyche stode before her) and gaue him a commaundement vnto Mardocheus, that he might knowe what it were, wherefore he dyd so. So Hathath went forth to Mardocheus vnto the strete of the cytye, whiche was before the kynges gate.

And Mardocheus tolde hym of al that hadde happened vnto hym, and of the summe of syluer that Haman hadde promysed to weye downe into the kynges treasurye because of the Jewes, yt he woulde destroye them (and he gaue hym the coppye of the kynges commaundemente that was deuysed at Susan, to destroy them, that he myghte shewe it vnto Esther) and to speake to her, and charge her, that she shoulde goo in to the kynge, and make her prayer and supplicacion vnto him for her people.

And

And when Hathath came in, he tolde Esther the wordes of Mardocheus. And again Esther spake vnto Hathath, and cõmaunded him to saye vnto Mardocheus: all the kinges seruauntes and the people in the landes of the kyng, knowe that whosoeuer commeth within the courte vnto the kinge, whether it be manne or womanne, whiche is not called, the commaundemente is, that thesame shall dye: excepte the kinge holde out the golden sceptre vnto him, (in token of gracious nes) for then he shal liue. As for me, I haue not beene called to come in to the king nowe this thyrty dayes. And they certified Mardocheus of Esthers wordes: and Mardocheus baddesaye again vnto Esther: thinke not to saue thyne owne life, while thou art in the kinges house, before all Iewes: for if thou holdeste thy peace at this tyme, then shal the Iewes haue helpe and deliueraunce out of an other place, and thou and thy fathers house shalbe destroyed. And who knoweth whether thou arte come to the kingdom, for this causes sake? Esther bad them geue Mardocheus this answere: Goe thou thy waye, and gather all the Iewes together that are founde at Susan, and fast ye for me, that ye eate not and drinke not in thre dates, neither day nor nyghte. I and my damsels will faste likewise, and so wil I go in to the kyng, which thyng is yet contrary to the commaundemente: and yf I perish I perish. So Mardocheus wente his waye, and dyd all that Esther had commaunded hym.

The.v. Chapter.

Esther entreth in to the kynge, and bydeth hym and Haman to a feast. Haman prepareth a gallous for Mardocheus.

AND on the thyrde daye it fortuned that Esther putte on her royall apparell, and stoode in the courte of the kynges palace within, ouer against the kinges house. And the king sat vpon his rotal seat in ꝑ kinges palace ouer against the gate of the house. And when the king sawe Esther the quene standinge in the courte, she founde grace in his sighte. And the kinge helde out the golden sceptre that was in his hande toward Esther. So Esther stepte foorth, & touched the top of the sceptre. Then sayde the king vnto her. What wilt thou Quene Esther? and what requireste thou? aske euen the halfe of the empire, and it shall bee geuen thee. And Esther answered: yf it please the kyng, let ꝑ king and Haman come this day vnto the banket, that I haue prepared for hym. And the kynge sayd: cause Haman to make haste that he may do as Esther hath sayde. So the kinge and Haman came to the banckette that Esther had prepared, and the kynge sayde vnto Esther at the banket of wine: what is thy petition, that it maye be geuen thee? And what requireste thou? yt it bee euen the halfe of the empyre, it shall bee done.

Then answered Esther, & said: my petition and desyre is, yf I haue founde grace in the sighte of the kyng, and yf it please the king to geue me my petycion, & to fulfill my requeste, thanne let the kyng and Haman come to the banket that I shal prepare for them, and so wyll I do to morowe, as the kyng hath sayde.

Then wente Haman forthe the same daye ioyfull and mery in his mynde. And when the same Haman sawe Mardocheus in the kynges gate, that he stode not vp and kneled before hym, he was full of indignacion at Mardocheus. Neuertheleſſe Haman refrained himselfe: and when he came home, he sente, and called for his frendes, and Zares his wife, and Haman tolde them of the glorye of his riches, and the multitude of his children, and altogether howe the king had promoted him so greatelye, and howe that he had sette him aboue the princes and seruauntes of the king. Haman said moreouer: Yea, and Esther the quene dyd let no man come in with the king vnto the banket that she had prepared, excepte me. And to morowe am I bidden vnto her also wyth the king. But in all this am I not satisfied, as long as I se Mardocheus the Iew sitting at the kinges gate. Then sayde Zares his wife and all his frendes vnto him: Let them make a galous of fiftye cubites hye, and to morowe speake thou vnto the kyng, that Mardocheus maye be hanged thereon: and goe thou in merelye with the kyng vnto the banckette. And Haman was well contente wythall, and caused the gallous to bee made.

The.vi. Chapter.

The kyng rememb̃reth ouer the Chronicles, and hyndereth the iniurye of Mardocheus: and then to the confusion of Haman, commaundeth Mardocheus to be had in honoure.

THE same nyghte could not the king slepe, and he commaunded to bringe the Chronicles and storyes: whiche whē they were read before ꝑ king, there happened on ꝑ place, where it was writtē how Mardocheus

Esth. 2. d. Mardocheus had tolde that Tigthana, and Theres the kinges two chamberlains (whiche kept the thresholdes) sought to lay handes on the kynge Ahasuerus. And the king saide: What worshyp and good haue we done to Mardocheus therefore? Then sayde the kynges seruauntes that mynystred vnto hym: There is nothynge at all done for hym. And the kyng sayd: Who is in the courte? (for Haman was gone into the courte wythoute before the kynges house, that he myght speake vnto the king to hange Mardocheus on the tree that he had prepared for hym.) And the kinges seruauntes sayde vnto hym: beholde, Haman standeth wythoute in the courte. And the kyng saied: let hym come in. And when Haman came in, the king said vnto hym: What shall be done vnto the manne whome the kyng woulde faine bryng vnto worshyp? Haman thought in his heart: whom delyreth the kyng to bryng vnto worshippe more then me? And Haman answered the king: Let the man whome the kynge pleaseth to bringe vnto worshyp, be broughte hyther: that he may be arayed with the royall garmentes which the king vseth to weare, and the horse that the kyng rydeth vpon, and that the crowne royall maye bee sette vpon his heade. And let this raimente and horse be delyuered vnder the handes of one of the kinges princes, that they maye aray the man withall (whome the king is disposed to bryng to honoure) and carye him vpon the horse through the streete of the city, and proclaime before him: thus shall it bee done vnto the man whome the kinge pleaseth to bring to honor. And the kyng said: make haste and take as thou haste sayd, the raiment and the horse: and do euen so vnto Mardocheus the Iewe, that sitteth before the kinges gate, and let nothing fayle of al that thou haste spoken. Then tooke Haman the raimēt and the horse, and arayed Mardocheus, and broughte him on horsebacke through the streete of the citye, and proclaimed before him: Euen thus shall it be done to the man whome the kyng is disposed to honor. And Mardocheus came again to ỹ kinges gate: but Haman gat hym home in all the haste, mourninge, bareheaded, and tolde Zares his wife, and all his frendes, euery thinge that had happened him. Then saied his wise men, and Zares his wife vnto him: yf it be Mardocheus of the sede of the Iewes, before whome thou haste begonne to fall, thou shalte not preuayle against him, but shalte surelye fall before him. And whyle they wer yet talkyng with hym, came the kinges chamberlaines, and caused Haman to make haste, to come vnto the banckette that Esther hadde prepared.

The. vii. Chapter.

The quene bydeth the kyng and Haman again, and prayeth for her selfe, and for her people. She accuseth Haman, and he is hanged on the gallous, whyche he had prepared for Mardocheus.

AND the king and Haman came into the banket that Quene Esther hadde prepared, and the king said vnto Esther on the seconde daye at the banckette of wine: What is thy petition, (Quene Esther) that it maye be geuen thee? And what requireste thou yea, aske euen halfe of the empire, and it shall bee doone. And Esther the Quene answered, and sayd: Yf I haue founde grace in thy syght (O kyng) and yf it please the kinge, then graunt me my lyfe at my desyre, and my people for my petitions sake: for we are sold, I and my people, to bee destroyed, to bee slayne, and to perishe. And woulde God wee were solde to bee bondemenne and bondewomen, then I woulde I hold my tounge: for the enemy pondereth not the kynges harme.
